Another topic has cropped up on the long, winding road of moneycards and privacy. The International Telecard Association passed along a concern on the topic of call-detail storage. Here's why:

According to the ITA, kidnappers in New England used two prepaid phonecards to place ransom calls to the parents of the child they held. They believed that the calls would be trace-proof. The FBI traced the calls to the switches of the card issuers. One, a member of the ITA, kept call-detail records and the other company didn't. Because of the first company's stored records, the FBI was able to rescue the child.

It's great for a computer to make possible your prepaid call, but should the computer go on to store, among other things, the number of the originating phone, the duration, the number called and the PIN number? Yes, indeed, if it catches kidnappers. No, not a chance, if it gives police agencies a means to intrude on a caller's privacy.

It would be foolish to automatically assume that any person or agency would misuse stored-call details. But it would be naive to assume that it never could happen.

The FBI has asked the ITA to consider two things: changing its industry guidelines and draft standards to include call-detail record storage as an important industry standard. Second, they urged the association to advocate that state governments require data storage as well.

Because a company had recorded and stored call details, they were able to help thwart a heinous crime. What a fortunate occurrence! Wait a second, though. We firmly believe prepaid phonecards and other forms of prepaid cards are a form of currency. In order to be widely accepted and used, such alternative forms of cash must be anonymous.

Does the knowledge that using a prepaid phonecard might result in call-identifying information being stored somewhere and possibly acted on by a law enforcement agency erode that anonymity? Sure it does. Is that a price that we should have to pay in this increasingly computerized and scrutinized world? That's a much tougher question.

The ITA also points out that without call-detail records it might be impossible to determine tax liability for intrastate calls.

"Therefore, the question might be raised," writes ITA Executive Director Howard Segermark, "If such records are necessary for tax compliance, then having the association adopt this position (advocating call-record data storage) is simply saying that the Association advocates conformance with tax laws."

We would like to believe that prepaid cards are a benefit to society. How much of a benefit to Big Brother should they be? The ITA is mulling over a response to the FBI's request. It will be interesting to see what kind of standard, if any, can satisfy both privacy and public safety needs, as well as provide logical ground rules for the length of time such call-detail data must be stored.

Prepaid cards used in gas stations' pumps and cash registers are making it clear to consumers that they are the same as cash. "Treat this card like cash," says a flier available at Shell stations, where a prepaid card product was launched nationally Dec. 1, 1996. An advertisement for Mobil's GO card, which has been available nationally since September 1995, shows a pile of paper currency and an pile of GO cards. Each is labeled "cash." We also applaud Mobil, which already has sold out one collector-oriented series and is planning another. The Shell flier, on the other hand, tells consumers to use up their cards and throw them away. For more on the prepaid gasoline chains' moneycards, see this month's "Quik Takes," Page 41.

The Visa Cash/Mondex field trial in New York City is fully fueled and now rescheduled for rollout in October. Citibank's "Money Card" Visa Cash issues — that's right, faithful readers, moneycards — and Chase's Mondex cards will be used in a six-month trial. We'll have a full report soon. One interesting tidbit recently was mentioned by a Citibank executive at Faulkner & Gray's Advance Card Technology Conference '97: The stand-alone Visa Cash cards will be targeted only at children and household help. That should make for some interesting collectible cards!

Take steps to control dumping

Great "Words on Numbers" in the February '97 issue – you hit the nail on the head!

How does the market control dumping? The answer is – You don't. However, a significant step would be to require manufacturers to disclose the quantity manufactured. If manufacturers would disclose numbers, then you could put on a more accurate price.

Maybe to help you and the consumer, Moneycard Collector should require manufacturing quantities be listed. The February magazine had 17 phonecards depicted with quantities listed as unknown.

Lary West, Vice President, Finish Line Collectibles

Web sites succeed by working at it

I'd like to comment on February's article "Cards on the Internet" (Page 40) by Bob Brill, and specifically address a comment made about lack of sales by a former client of mine, Eli Rossler. His web site was an on-line equivalent of a classified ad, only offering one item – an assortment of used foreign cards for a set price. I was unable to convince him to expand his presence further. Additionally, Mr. Rossler did not have access to a computer or even an e-mail account, which does limit one's participation in an on-line environment.

In many respects, selling cards on-line is no different than selling by any other method. In order for your business to succeed, you need to promote it, as well as make changes to your site regularly.

ITA needs more volunteer leaders

The exchange of e-mail between Steve Schwartz and me printed in your March issue pointed out a real need of the International Telecard Association: more volunteer leaders.

Unfortunately, I did not make clear in that exchange that the Association has a quantity problem – not a quality problem. The volunteers we have who have led our efforts on behalf of the dealer/collector community have been solid, talented people. The current chair of the ITA Dealer and Collectors Committee, Kathy Shapiro, for example, has attended board meetings, meetings of the ITA Standards Committee, and other functions at her own expense and has contributed important insight.

In fact, I think it is fair to say that the provisions in the ITA standards regarding issues of interest to collectors would not be there had not Kathy come to Washington for a marathon Standards Committee session when we first started that project.

I have spoken with Kathy about this issue and she has expressed the need for more members on her committee. The next meeting will be in Chicago on April 1 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel. Any ITA member is welcome to attend.

Howard Segermark, Executive Director, International Telecard Association

Dump not on AmeriVox

Referring to Cataloguer Tori Stone's column, "Words on Numbers" (February 1997), I would like to share a comment with you readers.

I've been involved with World Telecom Group (AmeriVox) for a little more than a year, and took the comment of "dumping cards" as an insult to the company and reps who launched the prepaid phonecard industry in the U.S. I became involved with AmeriVox for the unlimited residual income opportunity, not collecting phonecards. I have many collector cards that I do not resell. The intent of having such valuable cards is to show the credibility of my business, which has attracted such icons as Elvis Presley Enterprises and the JFK Foundation.

As reps of AmeriVox, we are able to take advantage of company specials, when available, to build our personal collections for business purposes. We are part of the company and should be entitled to this privilege. If the company specials for its representatives is what is being referred to as "dumping," then I suggest that those who are upset over this injustice come on board with so they, too, can receive this benefit.

Linda Des Forges, North Olmstead, OH

According to Cataloguer Victoria Stone, the reference to AmeriVox dumping cards was in response to discussions with dealers that a number of AmeriVox reps apparently have decided to get out of the phonecard business and are selling cards at fire-sale prices.

Provide more info on promotional cards

You are doing a great job with U.S. cards, but I do have a few comments for improvements.

When a medical promotional card is mentioned, it would be a great help if the company was mentioned. For example, instead of writing a card was issued for Klaracid, whenever possible say Abbott Labs issued a card for Klaracid. This would help collectors of such cards track them down. Similar information also could be added for grocery products. Readers outside the United States would appreciate that, as we can't find these products on the shelves locally. Also, indicate if a promotion is local or national. I have had people chasing for items with card offers never available in their state.

Finally, I would like to see used-card prices, because eventually collectors will have many more used cards than new, and these cards must have a value in order to have an after-market. Otherwise, people will buy only new cards, the telcos will get richer, and collecting will die out. You could even encourage swapping by offering free exchange columns.

These are only minor things, and would only improve a very good product.

Paul Davis, Makati, The Philippines

We try to include as much information about promotional cards as possible, although we sometimes are constrained by several factors: the amount of information an issuer provides; the space available; and the amount of time we have to track down that information. With the explosive growth in this area, look for more information on collectible promotional cards in the future, including this month's "Promotional Campaigns," story, Page 6. We heartily agree with your points on used cards and the need for such a market. Our upcoming catalog will have such prices for every card listed.

Promotional Campaigns

Even unintentionally, cards spark collector interest

By Tom Williams

While promotional phonecard campaigns might not be launched with the collector in mind, collectors often do have promotional cards in mind.

"It's the chase," says Ilene Kaminsky, director of marketing for ITS. "That's what makes promotional card collecting so exciting."

Companies like ITS, SCA Telecard Services, CommCard Inc., Telenova and others construct promotional cards to meet clients' marketing needs and desires. But as long as clients have been lining up to do promotional cards, collectors have been lining up behind them to capture the dazzling images, clever animation and corporate logos that grace such phonecards.

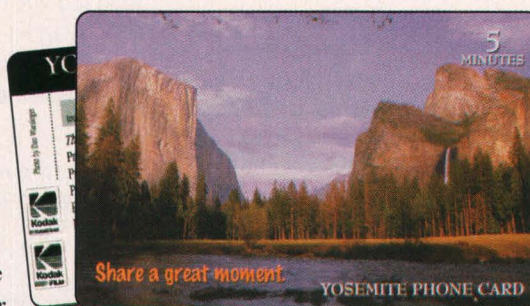

And that hunt can be an intense one, says Mark-Adrian Gonzalez, telecard coordinator for SCA Telecard Services. "When our name becomes apparent through an article or other means, and there is no way to get the card from our client, the collectors' alternative is to call us. We get a lot of calls."

Gonzalez fields up to five calls a day from collectors posing as potential clients. "They want us to send them samples, live samples."

It's usually easy to spot such attempts, he says. Many are weeded out when he asks them for the company fax number — and they don't have one.

That's not to say that collectibility is unimportant — it's usually just not a first-level consideration.

ITS; Yosemite Kodak Share the Moment; 5 minutes; 9,870 issued; April 1996.

"When clients come in, making a card that will appeal to collectors is not in their mind. But when I bring it up, they are excited," Gonzalez said. "We stress the promotional side first, to increase sales.

When that's done, then collectibility comes in."

ITS' Kaminsky echoes that comment. "You try to explain to customers about the secondary market — collectibility — but at this point, it is not a huge consideration. The primary consideration is that you are looking to solve a marketing problem."

By using prepaid phonecards, clients can reach a diverse audience and in turn give customers something with a high perceived value. Kaminsky's keys to a successful campaign sound like a recipe for collectibility:

- Be creative with your application;
- Choose something that is graphically appealing;
- Use interactive voice response — "IVR" with such things as surveys and dealer locators; and
- Utilize your enhanced services.

Anthony Lyons, president of Telenova PCC Inc., sums up successful campaigns like this: "Meet the criteria of the customer; enhance the customer's corporate image; be easily recognizable by the targeted consumer group through logos, products and marketing messages; and offer the consumer a much-needed and appreciated incentive — free telephone time!"

Using phonecards as a marketing tool offers almost infinite possibilities, Kaminsky says. "Use them in direct mailings, they weigh next to nothing. Reward customers for filling out a survey. Companies are getting smarter in selling programs. You need to go to their client bases, show examples, use case histories of what works," she says. "Don't just give them a card with a logo on it, give them ways to use it."

While collectibility is not in the forefront, there are clients who acknowledge it, she notes.

ITS produced cards for KLS Technologies, a California company that contracted with Yosemite National Park Services. They produced a seven-card set, including a jumbo, as well as 5- and 10-minute "Share a Great Moment" phonecards that had Kodak logos on the reverse. Those cards were given away with rolls of film sold in park shops. There were 9,870 5-minute cards and a 2,500 10-minute cards issued in April 1996. Todd Smith of KLS says visitors snapped up all the cards by the end of the summer.

"The cards were raising money for Yosemite and increasing awareness for Kodak," says Kaminsky, "As well as giving the customer something to take home."

A more recent example is the ITS "Nintendo Power" cards which feature the video-game maker's Mario cartoon figure and say "collector's edition." The cards were done as a reader promotion for Nintendo Power magazine.

A new program that Gonzalez of SCA Telecard Services expects to do well both as promotion and a collectible is one for Sony. Featuring original art, the 12-card set features baseball legends Babe Ruth, Mickey Mantle and Reggie Jackson, even combining their images on a jumbo card.

Card programs can surprise promotional card issuers and their clients. The original Gillette series, produced by SCA with time by Sprint, is one that did. That card series made such an impact with collectors that it was listed in the "Definitive Phonecard Collection" (Moneycard Collector, October 1996). Gillette gave away millions of NCAA Final Four phonecards, one in each package of disposable razors. The chase for a complete set of 35 images and at least 20 variations (Moneycard Collector, June 1995), stimulated trading and bartering among collectors — and, presumably, a lifetime supply of disposable razors.

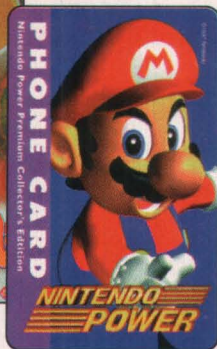

Another example is the 20-minute Ore-Ida phonecard offered on packages of their frozen potatoes ("Corporate Corner," October 1996). There were 90,000 cards originally produced, and Ore-Ida just ordered 20,000 more, Gonzalez says.

Cards like the Gillette and Ore-Ida cards often get credited to the time carrier — in both those cases, Sprint. While SCA Telecard Services coordinates all aspects of production, its name often doesn't appear on the cards, he says. "We're here to help our client. It is their name that actually needs to be on the cards."

SCA is producing the largest English phone-card promotion ever, 200,000 cards inserted in boxes of PG Tips

ITS; Nintendo Power; 10 minutes; quantity unavailable; January 1997.

tea. The program, which was set to launch in February in Great Britain, features eight card designs of the company's chimpanzee mascot.

Telenova's Lyons cites successes like the Crayola Store card. The card, produced for Binney & Smith Inc. to commemorate the world's first Crayola Store, visited to Moneycard Collector's "America's Most Wanted" column several times. Telenova's Dairy Queen Misty Slush card also gained collector approval. The cards, handed out to patrons who ordered the beverage, included a customized message that thanked consumers for making that choice.

Among upcoming programs, Telenova and Hannibal Communications will be issuing cards with the Big Boy restaurant logo to commemorate 60 years of Big Boy restaurants.

While recognizable logos are understandably desirable, it's not always obvious what will make a promotional card collectible, Kaminsky says. ITS cards that generated a lot of collector interest where none was anticipated include logos like the first Ocean Spray card, any of the Burger King cards, and the Hershey Kisses phonecard — the latter a real challenge to collectors since it could be obtained only through Aramark vending machines.

But sometimes the logo isn't the only consideration. Kaminsky has seen demand for the IRIS Medical card ("Quik Takes," February 1997), a card which was promoted in a way guaranteed to stimulate collector interest. There were 7,500 sent out in a mailing prior to a medical show, but the only way a holder could get the PIN number for the card was to bring it to the IRIS Medical booth at the show — instantly creating a smaller pool of live cards.

Combining quality production, carrier services contracted with major companies, and a well-known client makes a phonecard program a success, Gonzalez says. "Cards are not only increasing sales for them, but increasing their profile."

That's a fact, Kaminsky says. "If you have two elements, a name brand and a really great image, people become interested."

OH CANADA

This month's column is devoted to those with keen eyes. I'll be highlighting some interesting discoveries hidden in Canada's cards.

CARDINAL VOICECARD The Cardinal VoiceCard is available across Canada at various souvenir shops and convenience stores, and by mail order from the United States. The Toronto-based company's mission is to find the most beautiful representations of Canada to illustrate on phonecards. Each design has been carefully chosen. Toronto's skyline is portrayed at dusk, Niagara Falls is photographed with a rainbow over the water. Montreal is illustrated with a calèche, as pictured in the May 1996 issue of Moneycard Collector.

Other internationally known Canadian icons, such as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Musical Ride and the Calgary Stampede, grace higher-value cards. Wildlife is a popular theme for overseas collectors, and Cardinal has produced a five-card set including a fox, raccoon, polar bear, and mountain goats, as well as the earlier moose.

Collectors of varieties will be especially interested in Cardinal's earlier releases. Color shifts are noticeable on the $10 Toronto and $20 totem pole. The first printing of these cards has a dark blue sky, and the backs are printed in English only, with a choice of eight language prompts listed. The second printing resulted in a more purplish sky on the Toronto card, and a brownish sky behind the totem. The backs also were redesigned with bilingual (English/French) text and Japanese was added as a language choice. On the card fronts, look carefully: there is a minor font change in caption lettering. Other Cardinal cards printed with two backs include the $10 Niagara Falls and the $50 moose. There is little discernible color shift on these designs, but the picture quality is sharper on the second run.

MoneyMart is a chain of check-cashing centers, with one design in denominations from $5 to $100. In Quebec, the chain is known as Insta-Chèques and the card fronts are printed in French with the same picture and denominations. These are being treated as a language variety of the MoneyMart cards.

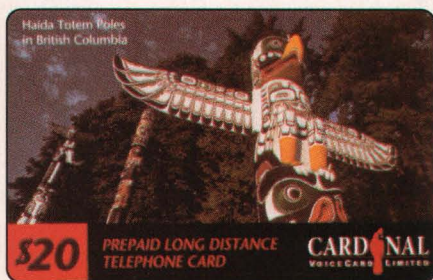

Two convenience store chains, Mac's and Mike's Mart, have produced custom Cardinal cards. Both chains are owned by the same company (Silcorp), so there is some similarity in design, both definitive and promotional. The chains conducted promotions with Coca-Cola offering a choice of three 5-minute cards with purchase of Coke products — first in the summer, then again with seasonal designs closer to Christmas. (Pictures of the second set were not available at press time, but I am told they do include the Coke polar bear.) Check the backs of the Coke cards for the Mac's and Mike's Mart branding. Other designs from Cardinal promote the Canadian Amateur Speed Skating Association (English/French), Travelodge Hotels, and Rent-A-Center.

sequentially, but some of the QuickChange

Two of those cards will not be available through the collector service due to licensing restrictions. Both are $1 cards, good for four local calls. The Toronto Argonauts card (Bell B20025), picturing Frank Mahovlich, was distributed at a hockey game and is housed in a folder illustrating other Maple Leafs alumni such as Tim Horton.

CANADA TELECOM NETWORK Montreal-based CTN has been issuing a variety of cards recently, targeting retailers where card users shop frequently: convenience stores, drugstores, and gas stations form the bulk of November-January issues. One company to watch will be Cumberland Drugs, a Quebec-based drugstore chain. In January, about a month after their cards were issued, the Cumberland chain was sold and the stores will be divided among the Uniprix and Jean Coutu chains. Uniprix sells custom Stentor Hello main design was produced in both

English and French. In addition, nearly 50 auto-parts shops (mainly in Ontario and Quebec) ordered personalized cards for distribut there are a total of 500 English and 500

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

This month's "America's Most Wanted" is Coke-less and McDonald's-less. Getting fast food withdrawals? Fear not though, Burger King and Tootsie Rolls have come to the rescue. We have four repeats in this month's listing, and the USACard Cracker Jack Christmas is featured for the third time. Some of this month's listings are so good I predict several will be repeating.

SPRINT, DISNEY FIVE-CARD SET, 10 units each, October 1994. Here's a neat set of Disney cards by Sprint that not many folks know about. The current market price of the set, 10,000 issued, is less than $30 – quite reasonable when one considers the cost of New Zealand and Japanese Disney issues.

TELL-ONE, BURGER KING, 10 minutes, January 1997. This is one Burger King meal that will be hard to find. Only 1,000 of this promotional telecard were made; it will make a nice addition to your fast food collection. Less calories too!

PACIFIC BELL, GOP CONVENTION PCS CARD, August 1996. The Republican National Convention smart card for use with Cellular phones. Only 500 were issued, and a key to the Pacific Bell series. This card's last visit to AMW was two months ago. More details are on page 7, November 1996 Moneycard Collector.

LEDS, SPACE JAM, 50 units, December 1996. Michael Jordan's Space Jam Jumbo card, mintage 3,000 is a lively action filled card. Another second time visit by this card. If you are a Looney Tunes fan, this one's for you.

AT&T, SNOOPY FINAL SET OF 3, 3x5 minutes. This completes the very successful 12-card Snoopy set from Winston Taylor/Brilliant Color Cards. All designs are nice, and particularly lovable, as Snoopy is. The cards each have a mintage of 500 and are one of the best sets of the year.

IMAGE TELECARD/MCI, TOOTSIE ROLL, DOTS AND JUNIOR MINTS, 10, 5, & 3 minutes, November 1996.

Anniversary set of Tootsie Roll, Dots, and Junior Mints cards. 3,500 sets, and 500 extra of the first two cards were made. A two-time visitor to AMW. Additional details in Corporate Corner, page 10, January 1997 Moneycard Collector.

ACMI, GARFIELD VALENTINE'S

DAY, 4 units, January 1997. Another in the successful ACMI Garfield series. The limited mintage (425) and high appeal of Garfield memorabilia assures this one success. A quality company too!

TELENOVA/CABLE & WIRELESS, ASIA DIRECT

PANDA, $2 denomination, November 1996. The Panda design draws attention to a very successful C&W product: The Asia Direct card, which is a joint product between C&W/USA and Hong Kong Telecom, another portion of the C&W empire. The card is geared to the Far East traveler. Why the low mintage is a mystery, but it will be a fast-rising star in the C&W galaxy of cards.

UFONCARD/ USACARD, ROSWELL 50TH ANNIVERSARY, 3 X 6 minute, December 1996.

This set of three cards celebrates the 50th anniversary of the Roswell, N.M. UFO sightings. Mintage is 1947, marking the year that a flying saucer allegedly crashed in Roswell.

USACARD, CRACKER JACK

CHRISTMAS, 10, 12 or 15 units, November 1996. Cracker Jack Christmas, a three-time visitor to "America's Most Wanted" is the second Cracker Jack series. The card, which features an old Cracker Jack advertisement, comes with a second scratch-off, offering the collector a chance at a scarce 12-unit or a rare 15-unit version. This will be a sell-out with only 2,500 made.

A typographical error elevated the mintage of the AT&T Democratic National Convention 5-unit phonecard featured in February's AMW column. The correct mintage, confirmed by AT&T officials, is 5,000. We apologize for the error.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mount Zion, Ill. All dealers are encouraged to fax a list of their company's top 10 best-selling cards before the 20th of each month.

WORDS ON NUMBERS

In my February column, I promised readers that the April edition would include tips on valuing cards. See that story on Page 10.

Issuer Concerns

Graham Duffield, CEO of Datatel International Ltd. of Scottsdale, Ariz., disagrees strongly with February's "Words on Numbers" column, which mentioned Datatel among phonecard issuers dumping cards. Duffield said that such a characterization was "a misrepresentation of the facts ... I don't sell retail."

"Dumping is when you undersell the market to collectors," he said in a Jan. 17 telephone conversation. "Even if I was going to sell to a dealer for less money than I normally would, it would be advantageous to them."

The column stated generally that those who dump cards deceive dealers and exploit collectors and that selling cards for considerably less than what dealers paid for them causes dealers to lose money and credibility with collectors.

Duffield denies vehemently that he did that. "I never undercut any dealers." He declined an offer to explain his position at length in the "Readers Always Write" column.

The comments in February's column were based on statements from phonecard dealers that Datatel sets were being offered to dealers at $24 a set, regardless of the number purchased. Previously, that price was only offered to those buying 100 or more sets. Duffield denies any such offers were made.

Sports Cards

I've been called upon to expand on comments concerning the demand for sports moneycards I made in my February column.

Many prophesied at the beginnings of our hobby that sports collectors would offer great support for the collecting of moneycards. For many reasons, including the price of moneycards compared to trading cards and the lack of understanding of the product, sports collectors have yet to become terribly excited about moneycard collecting.

Some sports collectibles magazines offer phonecard prices, and some sports memorabilia dealers offer them on their price lists or at shows. Demand is steady, but not great, within sports circles.

Many moneycards-only collectors prefer to spread their collecting around, realizing the importance of promotional, historical and rare moneycards. They pick up sports cards that they like or that are significant.

In short, the demand for sports phonecards faces little fluctuation - many issues are worth roughly face value. Of course, value, as with any sports memorabilia, increases depending on which athlete is featured. Many phonecards drop below face value when the card's phone time expires, illustrating that phonecards are not just collectibles, they are tools. Since the moneycard hobbyist ranks grow every day, it stands to reason that many forgotten or under-appreciated issues will gain favor in the future.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Price listings in the Moneycard Collector Price Guide are provided only as a guide and are based on price lists supplied by several dealers around the world and on other market information. Listings without prices will be completed as suitable market information becomes available.

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that - a guide.

NUMBERING SYSTEM

S (before #) = Sports

a card depicting an organized, competitive sports-related image (comes before numerals, e.g. S125)

Pr (before #) = Private card issued for a customer, distributed by the customer at his/her discretion

Post-numerical descriptor (falls after the numeral)

#-2 = Second Printing

the second printing of a card; a three, four or greater number can follow to denote the actual print run; occurs often with Canadian cards or unlimited run cards

a-z = error/variety

a card whose identical front or back differs from the card with the primary listing; includes language variations, but not denominational variations

M = model/prototype

full-front printed card, may or may not be full-back printed, never issued

E = error

card with an error that caused its destruction or recall

J = jumbo

an oversized or jumbo card

P = proof

artwork on front, blank back

R = replacement

a card that replaced a defective or recalled card

S (after #) = specimen

artwork on front, complete back with false or no pin, or word "sample" or "test"

T = trial/test

live card used specifically for testing a stored value card system

The First and only Sprint Disney Phonecards

$16.00 for the set of 4 Cards

AVAILABLE

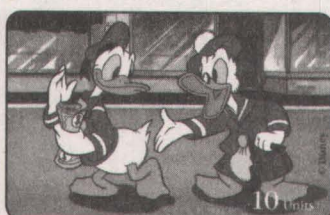

Scrooge McDuck
10,000 pcs produced Aug. 95

Huey, Dewey & Louie
10,000 pcs produced Oct. 95

Mickey Mouse & Family
10,000 pcs produced Oct. 95

Donald Duck Money
10,000 pcs produced Oct. 95

Powell Associates was fortunate in securing the last 500 sets from a major European Mail Order House. These cards are part of a 1995 sales campaign exclusively for European Disney Collectors.

This set of four cards was produced by Sprint International (Sprint Communications Group L.P.). All four cards are live and are usable in the major countries of the world, including the United States. Each card contains 10 units.

This set of 4 pieces is available at $16.00 per set plus S&H.
We strongly feel that real Phonecard collectors will appreciate this extraordinary find and more so this extraordinary price.

B & B "THE BEST IN THE WEST" SAYS "WHAT'S ALL THE FUSS!!"

For several years B&B has had the preferred collector's club, we are the only dealer in the world to offer a money-back or trade-in policy on our preferred items. We challenge all phonecard clubs to match this offer. We have a continued success of predicting the top phone cards each year. We challenge all clubs and any dealer to match our successes. Just look at Moneycard over the past two years. Remember, B&B has no ties to any manufacturer, therefore, we don't promote any particular manufacturer. We only offer what we purchase for our own collection, the highest quality designs, lowest mintage and overall value. Remember our long-term policy: buy what you like first, then if it goes up in price GREAT. Phonecard collecting is fun - enjoy the most exciting new hobby to hit the USA in over 40 years.

CAT Yoga® Productions, Inc. and Comedian/Actor Mike Gabriel present the Premiere issue of the world's most unusual prepaid phone card. These "art print" phonecards were made from an original painting artistically created in the maximum security prison cell of JAMES EARL RAY Federal Inmate #65477

ARTIST JAMES EARL RAY

#65477

James Earl Ray inmate #65477, political prisoner and author of the book "Who Really Killed Martin Luther King? The true story by the alleged assassin," has been held without trial in a maximum security federal prison for close to 30 years! These "art print" phone cards were created from original paintings created for his "adopted son" comedian actor Mike Gabriel to document the hoax of the century.

Painting Titles:

1. Rosa Lopez Wedding Day
2. Porno Star Samantha Strong
3. Turban wearing cat in prison
4. Cat Yoga® phone card painting by J.E. Ray #65477
5. Cat with Turban stalking Easter Bunny
6. Geraldo & Dominic Dunne
7. Larry King, Jeffrey Toobin, Dominick Dunne
8. Phone Card of Lithograph
(Lithograph is a painting titled: The Legion In The Battle For Dien Bienpho, Vietnam - 1954)
Lithograph 18"x14" autographed by J.E. Ray #65477

Comedian/Actor Mike Gabriel has appeared in over 17 feature films. A Black Panther in "Forrest Gump," a singing, dancing reform school inmate in "Cry Baby" with Ricki Lake and Johnny Depp, "Rocky 5," "Meteor Man," "Avalon," "Sleepless in Seattle," and many more (A drug dealer and circus clown in the same Tom Selleck film "Her Alibi" with super model Paulina Porizkova.) I hoaxed the media into reporting a story that claimed I teach Yoga to turban wearing house cats. Then on the Geraldo show I claimed I was engaged to Rosa Lopez (maid from El Salvador in O.J. Simpson case), Vanity Fair writer Dominic Dunne reported Rosa Lopez ended the engagement because she is allergic to the cats at my Cat Yoga school. Larry King, Dan Rather, Jay Leno, Conan O'brien, The Globe Tabloid and the Baltimore Sun all reported this funny story hoax.

AS SEEN ON THE HOWARD STERN SHOW

The producer of the Howard Stern Show wore my Cat Yoga® hat on an "E" TV show. The same episode that the Gary Puppet wore my Cat Yoga® turban. While doing a "live" TV show in Baltimore "Rise and Shine" with Marty Bass and Don Scott (WJZ-13) at my Cat Yoga® school. I yelled out "Howard Stern for Governor". A Caller at the Stern radio show reported this. "I was going to say Cat Yoga® is a ridiculous idea, but I won't", quote from Howard Stern. Buy a phonecard from the one comedian Howard Stern is afraid of.

VALUING CARDS

Look forward to receiving letters from readers who send photocopies of moneycards they have found, asking if I can help solve a mystery or suggest a value. The challenge for collectors stems from the fact that not all issuers view them as a priority. Thus, the information provided on a card varies widely.

Some companies have disappeared, leaving no one behind to answer for the cards they issued. Other companies have merged and grown. Those upheavals mean that some issuers do not keep ample — or any — records about the cards they've produced.

In other hobbies, manufacturers make it easy to get an idea about what is available.

With the U.S. stamp and coin hobbies, you have one major supplier in each: the government. Long ago, the Postal Service and the Mint realized that collectors were important to their business. Not only do they create products with collecting in mind, they make general information available to collectors about their products. With the prepaid industry, this is not always the case. Imagine 500 moneycard mints from different facets of business, all producing prepaid cards — banks, long-distance companies, marketing agencies, mass transit organizations and so on. As yet, there are few standards in place.

Although this makes finding details more difficult, the thrill of capturing that elusive piece of information is exciting. Take a look at the system we use to track down card information — perhaps it will help you as well.

The Search for Data

Delve into a search of the following nature only after you've checked at least three print sources with no luck. The basic information is most important, but details about the company also are important to valuing, as well as quirks about the card: how it was distributed, for whom it was made and if any were destroyed.

Be ready to take notes. The information you want most is the issuing company, date of issue, denomination and expiration date. From that you can determine the price of almost anything by finding a relative price based on other cards with similar attributes.

The card itself will be your first, best source. Call all the 800 numbers on the back of the card — the access and the customer service. Don't be shy about it — this product is now yours, but the producer still bears the responsibility to satisfy you. Note who answers the phone, that is, who operates the switch. Describe your problem, and realize that they will ask for the PIN number, so if it is not uncovered, the operator may not be able to give you much help. With an uncovered PIN, however, you may be able to determine when the card expired (and from that surmise when it was issued) as well as who bought the time for the card (most likely, the issuer).

Let's say you hear "I'm sorry, you have dialed a number that is no longer in service." Now, try the Internet. You should be able to find a library, photocopy store or even coffee-house that has access if you don't.

My favorite page for locating companies is <http://www.infospace.com/> or InfoSearch.

You can find listings up to two years old on this page. If you locate the company, call and ask to speak with someone in customer service or marketing and advertising. Hopefully, someone will be able to help you.

The Bottom Line on Valuing

As I mentioned before, you can determine a relative value based on other cards with similar attributes, such as date of issue and quantity issued. Other factors can raise or lower the price: if the card features a Coke logo, famous athlete or other highly desirable thematic, it will be worth more. If cards were given away as a promotion, it may be tough to find an unused one, so if yours is mint, you may be in luck. If the issuer vanished off the face of the earth, well, that's usually a mark against the card. Of course, you may come across a hideously ugly card that was actually a Landis & Gyr test card — no one can be certain that all historical cards have been discovered and correctly identified. Cards produced by major carriers and RBOCs — even prototypes — are valuable just because of the issuer.

The information you have or don't have after your search may be illuminating or frustrating — but don't cast the card aside. Keep it in your collection — perhaps in an album entitled "Who Knows?" In the course of trading and buying, someone may recognize your card. If nothing else, you'll have time on your side. A card with little value now may gain favor in 20 years — that's the beauty of any hobby.

AMERITECH

It's time to check in again with the most prolific of the Baby Bell phonecard issuers, Ameritech. The July 1996 issue of Moneycard Collector listed all the Ameritech proof and specimen cards, from the early Michigan Bell cards up to February 1996. Ameritech 1996 specimen cards are clearly marked SAMPLE on the reverse, or have a series of Xs as the PIN. Note that while Ameritech refers to these cards as samples, Moneycard Collector prefers the term specimen, a term that encompasses all cards labeled test, sample or specimen that have printed backs yet no PIN numbers. (See the October 1995 issue for additional definitions).

One of the most frequent questions collectors ask is whether they should collect specimens and proofs of phonecards. The standard answer to any subjective question like this is "It's up to you."

The range of feelings towards such cards is from rare and valuable collectible, to curiosity, to printer's waste. All that is certain is that they aren't live phonecards, since you can't use them to make a phone call. On the other hand, they are interesting adjuncts to regular phonecards.

Another common question is whether proof or specimen cards are valuable. The answer is that Moneycard Collector's Price Guide frequently lists prices for Ameritech, and other company, specimen cards. As Victoria Stone, Moneycard Collector's cataloguer, says, prices listed in the Guide are approximate, and are based on dealer price lists. Look for tips on valuing specimens and proofs in next month's edition. For more on valuing cards in general, see "Valuing Cards," Page 42.

If you want to collect specimens and proofs, do so. If you don't want to, then don't. Collecting anything is a personal decision, and there are no right or wrong answers.

PACIFIC BELL

While it was reported previously that new cards won't have an expiration date printed on them, they will contain the message, "Card expires 12 months from date of last use, or 18 months from date of purchase, whichever comes first."

Although PacBell had hoped to have done so previously, they really plan on making their Collector Club a reality this year. If you are interested in joining, let them know at:

Pacific Bell Collectors
Box 5020
San Ramon CA 94583

By the time you read this, the PacBell 1997 Definitive cards should be available. Details of these cards, including designs, quantities issued and some exciting new enhancements, will appear in the next Baby Bell Notes.

FILL 'ER UP AT MOBIL, SHELL. Prepaid cards might be coming soon to a gas station near you, if they are not there already.

Two major gasoline chains are issuing their own cards — Shell Oil launched its prepaid program nationally Dec. 1, joining Mobil Oil, which has offered the cards since the fall of 1995. Both offer $25, $50 and $100 retail denominations. In both cases, the cards are magnetic-stripe cards that can be used at participating gas stations and convenience marts to pay for gasoline at the pump and other purchases inside at the cash register. One big difference — Mobil's prepaid cards have been rechargeable since March 1996; Shell's are not, expiring a year after purchase.

Mobil's "GO" cards were tested in June 1995 in Detroit and Dallas. "We noticed that phonecards were becoming extremely popular and said, 'Why not try a gas card?'," says Louise Gallagher, GO Card product manager for Mobil. The cards were launched nationally in September 1995, and 8,000 Mobil retailers sell the cards, with about 60 percent of the stations participating in the program, she said.

The Mobil cards are offered in traditional retail packaging as well as collector-oriented and co-branded cards. A five-card collector set featuring the Mobil racing team, 10,000 mintage of each card, sold out quickly. "I didn't even get one," Gallagher said. An upcoming eight-card collector-oriented set is still under wraps, she said, but predicted it will do as well as the race-car set.

Co-branded Mobil GO cards include three different programs with General Motors. There were $10 and $400 versions available, respectively, for those who test drove or bought a Geo Metro. In January, those who used a GM service department could get a $20 GO card. A card featuring the new Corvette was to be unveiled during Super Bowl advertising.

Mobil also has ongoing mintages of ethnic cards — three different Hispanic and two different African-American designs, she said.

Sprint bought millions of dollars of GO cards, use as incentives, she said and fund-raisers are another major area. "Parents are tired of buying candy bars; organizations buy them 50,000 at a shot," Gallagher said.

About 4,400 Shell stations across the U.S. are selling that company's $25 card for face value, the $50 card for $48 and the $100 denomination for $94. That means a few bucks worth of free gas or snacks, as well as a collectible card once the value is used up. Participation by dealers is around 85 percent.

The Shell card mintage is ongoing. Tests began in August 1996 in Cincinnati, Ohio; Sacramento, Calif.; and Houston, Texas, with a national launch Dec. 1, 1996.

A new design, called the "Winning Spirit" prepaid card was developed solely for Shell employees, and was to be distributed in early February. Each employee was to receive five $100 cards, or cash, if they live in an area where the cards cannot be used.

Shell Prepaid Card; $25 denomination; quantity not disclosed; December 1996.

The Mobil GO Card, first issued nationally in September 1995, includes a Mobil 1 Racing Team collector series, ethnic series aimed at African-American and Hispanic consumers, and cards co-branded with corporations like General Motors and Sprint.

HT TECHNOLOGIES FILES BANKRUPTCY PETITION. San Francisco-based phonecard issuer HT Technologies has filed voluntarily for protection and reorganization under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. The petition was filed Jan. 31 in U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of California, San Francisco Division.

Along with the Chapter 11 filing, HT has negotiated the wholesale liquidation of its entire collector card inventory, totaling more than 200,000 units, to an independent master distributor. HT no longer will be involved in direct sales to the collector portion of the phonecard industry. Company officials declined to identify the distributor.

HT cited three reasons for the Chapter 11 filing: the departure of several key employees from its sales and marketing divisions in early 1996 to set up rival firms; alleged negligence of a facilities provider for the company switch; and fraudulent actions by a former employee, discovered in January.

Alleged negligence by the switch facilities provider resulted in an estimated "middle to high six-figure loss, or more," HT said in a press release. The third reason cited was the apparent ongoing conversion of a significant amount of the company's assets by a former employee. It appears that the employee may fraudulently have caused the carriers of HT to be billed for a significant and yet-to-be determined amount of time. A preliminary review reveals that HT may face liability of perhaps millions of units of time, the release says.

According to the petition filed Jan. 31, HT believes that funds will be available to unsecured creditors. HT assets are estimated between $100,000 and $500,000, while the company's liabilities are rated between $1 million and $10 million. There are an estimated 50-99 creditors.

SPRINT TO SUPPLY FEDERAL CARDS. Sprint could be issuing cards for federal agencies in lots as small as 100 under a contract modification signed with the General Services Administration. Under the agreement, government agencies will be able to purchase basic prepaid cards with 30, 60 or 120 minutes of calling time. The cards will be valid for one year from the date of purchase. In addition to the potentially low mintage, what's of interest to collectors is that federal agencies will be able to purchase cards with specific agency designs and other tailored features.

CORPORATE CORNER

Supermarket and automotive images are prevailing themes in the Corporate Corner, and those images, along with phonecards for music, computer, toys, wine and home improvement products show that the variety of cards generated by issuers and clients is limited only by the number of hours in the day.

Employees of Musicland and Sam Goody were given a nice incentive a few months ago. As a "thank you" for hard work, lucky employees were given 30-minute cards issued by ITS in November.

ITS also issued 1,000 cards for the Infiniti advertising catalog.

Infiniti dealers across the country were able to purchase the 15-minute telecards to give to their customers as an incentive.

And though rarely mentioned here, even the Baby Bells offer some promotional cards. Ameritech created a Union 76 card. There were 550 of the 5-minute cards issued.

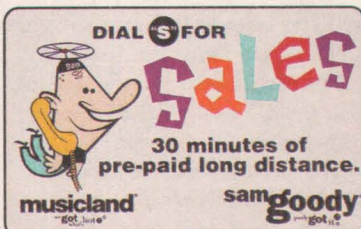

Food and drink continue to be strong images — Grapevine Telecards in January issued 500 cards for Fetzer Vineyards of Hopland, Calif. The card promotes the Eagle Peak Merlot wine, and features a reproduction of the bottle label. The card has 10 minutes of Cable & Wireless time and a small portion was made available to collectors with the majority going to Fetzer for promotional sales and giveaways.

If you like hot dogs, check out specially marked packages of Hormel light and lean hot dogs. ACMI produced 1,025 cards with 15 minutes of time as prizes for a Hormel sweepstakes. The sweepstakes runs until May 1997, so you still have time to search for the specially marked packages.

From north of the border comes a fruit-packed card from Canada Telecom Network. A total of 2,000 cards was produced in December for AM FoodFare, a Western Canadian supermarket chain. There were 1,000 5-minute cards and Communications Design Group recently issued 15,100 50-minute phonecards in December for Toys R Us Stores in a few states. Some of the states involved were Florida, New York, New Mexico and Oklahoma. The cards were made available to customers who purchased certain video games.

Gazelle Telecard of Seattle, Wash., issued a total of 5,700 cards in December 1996 for Thurman, a Pacific Northwest regional retailer of home improvement materials and products, for sale in 15 Thurman Pay 'N Pak home centers. There are four denominations ranging from 15 to 120 minutes.

A 30-minute phonecard was issued by Hannibal Communications for IBM. The 1,000 cards were offered to respondents of a questionnaire regarding use of sophisticated new IBM software.

TAPPING THE NETWORKS

Destiny Telecom; San Francisco Bay Area Extravaganza; 10 units; 6,000 issued; January 1997.

Destiny Telecom; Interactive Valentine; 15 units; 5,000 issued; January 1997 (card used to send Valentine Day greetings).

Destiny Telecom; Easter egg and flowers; 10 units; 3,000 issued; January 1997.

Destiny Telecom; Kick Off Europa; 30 units; 5,000 issued; November 1996.

Several new cards, new product introductions, a speech from a former National Football League coach and an attendance of more than 4,000 delegates were some of the highlights at the DESTINY TELECOMM "Corporate Extravaganza" held recently in Oakland, Calif.

Details about the more notable cards appear in the card captions. Extra smiles on the faces of the delegates came especially from the "1 million minute" (actually, 10 minutes) April Fools card produced by Destiny's energetic Corporate manager for collector activities, Rich Downing.

Destiny, the largest of the NMCs, continues its rapid rate of growth. Corporate President Randy Jeffers proudly announced that the number of independent representatives has surpassed 500,000. While the vast majority are from the U.S., many attending the Oakland event were from Canada and Germany, an indicator that these two countries are priority foreign markets.

Part of the closing ceremonies was a well-received speech from Tom Landry, former coach of the Dallas Cowboys. Landry drew strong and frequent applause from the audience, especially when he drew parallels between the innovation and persistence needed to be a successful coach and the need for those same traits to be a successful marketer of Destiny products and services.

And it was indeed the products and services which received much attention at this event. Virtually all of Destiny's core telecommunications offerings were available to delegates, including cellular and international callback.

New products launched at the show included "Destiny Delights," a line of sauces and salad dressings, and men's and women's beauty products. Some delegates expressed concern that the new non-telecom products could cause Destiny to lose market focus. But most who provided comment were positive, believing that since women make most household buying decisions and because the new products were consumables, there will be greater potential to sell to a larger number of customers, and more often, thus paving the way for the sale of phonecards and other telecom services.

The only shortcoming mentioned by delegates was the absence of collector trading sessions of the type so well conducted by a competing NMC, STRATEGIC TELECOM SYSTEMS, at its last meeting in Dallas. Nevertheless, Destiny delegates were trading in the halls and corridors, and many decided to enhance their collector knowledge by subscribing to Moneycard Collector — a big plus for them and us.

Destiny's next big meeting is scheduled for Atlanta, April 24-26 — the same city and dates chosen by STS for its next major event.

STS HELPS DEAF

The efforts of Strategic Telecom Systems' employees and independent representatives are helping share the culture of Deaf Americans and raise money for research, training and education. STS, both with corporate issues and and through phonecards produced by IRs, is helping make a difference.

Elizabeth Morris, a Deaf STS rep and a Texas artist, designed the STS "American Sign Language" and ABC manual alphabet phonecards.

"Deaf, capitalized, is the preferred term, she informed us after the cards were mentioned in February 1997's "Showstoppers" column.

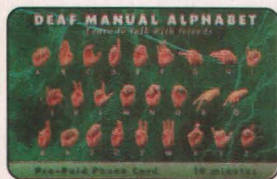

"Capitalized 'Deaf' represents deaf people with their culture and language, American Sign Language. Most of them are bilingual in ASL and English, but they value their Deaf culture.) The lower case 'deaf' refers to audiologically deaf individuals who may not necessarily be culturally deaf and the professionals' preferred term for the child is 'hearing-impaired,'" she says.

The various STS Deaf phonecards are being promoted in various ways, among them selling the cards from booths at Deaf conferences and STS conferences and regional training schools, Morris says. Many Deaf STS representatives also have given presentations at Deaf clubs, Deaf culture centers, and Deaf state schools, she notes, and at three well-known Deaf colleges as well — Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C.; the National Technical Institute for the Deaf in Rochester, N.Y.; and California State University at Northridge; in Los Angeles, Calif.

NASCAR-themed telecards rev it up

by Nancy Blackburn

Ever since the fast-growing spectator sport of auto racing joined with phonecards, NASCAR-themed cards have garnered a reputation for winning performances. With a new racing season just starting, the cars and cards are a sure bet to win more fans.

The new kid trying to seize pole position is Finish Line Collectibles' PhonePak II, released in December 1996. Finish Line packed plenty of images into the series — 5-minute "One Call" (39 cards), $5 (30 cards), $10 (20 cards), $50 (eight cards) and $100 (six cards). But don't discount the collectibility of veteran entries in the NASCAR (National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing) field.

Among the first cards were those issued by the marketing division of Collectors' Advantage in late 1993. Officially sanctioned by Charlotte Motor Speedway, the first NASCAR-related phonecard is "Racing Under Lights." Only 1,500 cards were issued and available at the Mello Yello 500 on Oct. 10, 1993, they sold out the next day. This $5 card carries the Coca-Cola 600 insignia, as well as Mello Yello and Charlotte Motor Speedway logos. They were manufactured by SpeedCall, with time by ACI (now ACMI).

A second card, issued by TravelTel for Collectors' Advantage, appeared a month later at Atlanta Motor Speedway for the Hooters 500 NASCAR Race on Nov.

14, 1993. Those 1,000 cards sold out the same day. Also present at the race was car designer and builder Henry "Smokey" Yunick, who autographed a two-card portrait and Indy Car set issued by Collectors' Advantage. Limited to 1,000 numbered matched sets, with time by AmeriVox,

Finish Line; One Call
Jeff Gordon; 5 minutes;
7,950 issued; December

these cards have held consistent value. Single cards are priced about $50 each, the autographed set at $100.

It didn't take long for others to join in. On Dec. 1, 1993, Finish Line sent its Series I Winston Cup phonecards to Pantry convenience stores in the Carolinas. The blister packs, portraying Bill Elliott, Jeff Gordon, Bobby Labonte, Sterling Marlin and Rusty Wallace, sold for $10 each, with 5,000 issued of each driver. The interest in those cards prompted the July 1994 release of Series II — 1,800 cards each of 10 Winston Cup drivers, plus 600 of two $25 gold cards of Bill Elliott and Ernie Irvan. A challenging set to complete is the $2.50/5-minute chaser cards issued in June 1994 in packs of Finish Line Gold trading cards. There are 3,000 each of nine different drivers.

Collectors' Advantage issued three separate cards in 1994, each limited to 2,000, with images by artist Tony Capparelli. Powell Associates helped distribute these cards. The $3 Coca-Cola 600 card was released in May; the $3 Mello Yello 500 in October; and the $6 Hooters 500 in November 1994.

Another entry onto the 1994 track was a striking LDDS two-car set, issued July 1994. One of the cards featured the Pennzoil No. 30 NASCAR Pontiac stock car (Series S), driven by Michael Waltrip. Ten thousand sets were issued in a Chicago promotion, and each card had 20 units of time. A year later, 100,000 of the same card but with a different back and only 10 units, were distributed in the Detroit area.

Collectors will appreciate New York-based GTS' release of Winston Winners Club phonecards. The set of three 60-unit cards were released in September 1994, and have a current retail value of $70.

According to Lary West of Finish Line and Steve Lowenstein of Collectors' Advantage, the race around the phonecard track took on a different look in 1995.

LD DS; Pennzoil NASCAR; 20 units; 10,000 issued; July 1994. A 10-unit version, 100,000 cards, was issued in July 1995. Both were part of a two-card set also featuring a Pennzoil Indy car.

resulting in issuing phonecards for twice as many NASCAR events as well as jumbo cards.

Classic Assets I and II packs were composed of 1-minute cards, $2, $5, $25, $100, and $1,000 cards. A die-cut chaser interactive phonecard was inserted into each box, and if one of the nine different cars won the race, the holder won a set of phonecards.

A few 1995 Finish Line cards did not go through Score Board. There is a four-card platinum set that features 500 cards each of Rusty Wallace, Mark Martin, Jeff Gordon, and Ricky Rudd, with denominations of 5, 10, 25, and 60 minutes, respectively.

Ten $3 NASCAR SuperTruck driver phonecards were released in May 1995, with 2,100 of each driver inserted as chase cards into boxes of trading cards that sold out in two months. There also were 50 proof sets.

Fans on Finish Line's Private Collectors' List have been offered special "Driver of the Month" phonecards. The first offer was a 10-minute, four-card set, 1,500 matched numbers, of Sterling Marlin, Rusty Wallace, Mark Martin, and Jeff Gordon, with signatures, in a foil-stamped binder.

Mercury Marketing produced eight NASCAR phonecards in 1995: Purolator 500, March 12; Lug Nut Legends, April; Red Dog 300 Inaugural Running, May

"In 1995, Score Board became the exclusive dealer of Finish Line Assets product," West says. "We designed and produced the licensed phonecards and The Score Board packaged and marketed them as Classic Assets by Finish Line." Mercury Marketing became the marketing arm of Collectors' Advantage, Lowenstein notes, painted silver Chevrolet Lumina. Another three-card set featured Mark Martin and his Valvoline / Ford Thunderbird, in denominations of 20 minutes (5,000), $3 and $10 (both 10,000).

Finish Line PhonePaks made their debut in 1996, each with three cards featuring Winston Cup drivers and the possibility of acquiring randomly inserted cards of $5, $10, $50, $100 or $1,000. This series of 134 different cards contains 9,500 of the common $2 cards; 5,000 of the full-signature cards; 570 each of the $5 and $10;

420 of the $50; 280 of the $100; and 25 of the $1,000. Finish Line also provided cards for a promotional offer at eight Save-Mart supermarkets in California, beginning in April 1996. There were 2,650 five-minute three-card sets of Ernie Ivan, Geoff Bodine, and a Save-Mart race car.

Two four-card sets of Mega Phone jumbo cards, each a $25 denomination, were issued, one featuring 7,500 cards of each driver — Mark Martin, Jeff Gordon, Bill Elliott, and Rusty Wallace. The other set is an Atlanta Intel-Card Show promo set, limited to 250 numbered sets. In September 1996, Finish Line continued to go after NASCAR hearts in a big way, with four "Black Gold" $25 jumbos of Bill Elliott, Jeff Gordon, Ernie Ivan and Terry Labonte. There are 2,750 of each.

Mercury Marketing set a slower pace in 1996 with the release of two 500-mintage NASCAR-related cards: the Purolator 500 and Busch-Light 300.

Dealer Steve Schwartz of Sears Phone Card Department says that Finish Line PhonePaks have proven to be one of the two most ordered specials on his website. Another good seller, Schwartz says, has been the seven official NASCAR test phonecards issued by Mercury Marketing, that also have the Coca Cola 600 logos. A set runs about $200, and the jumbos anywhere from $50 to $75, Schwartz notes.

Mike Dingwell of Promotional Phone Cards in Mesa, Ariz., has noticed that "NASCAR goes in streaks according to the season. At the Atlanta Telecard World show (April 1996), we sold out of PhonePak boxes, priced in the $90-$100 range." He notes a steady market for proof cards, with prices three to five times the face value.

If the past is an indication of the future, collectors who already realize the value of NASCAR phonecards can expect to be in the winner's circle.

Another FonePuck scores

Mountain America Technologies;
Chicago Blackhawks; 5 minutes; 250 issued; January 1997; (719) 576-4644.

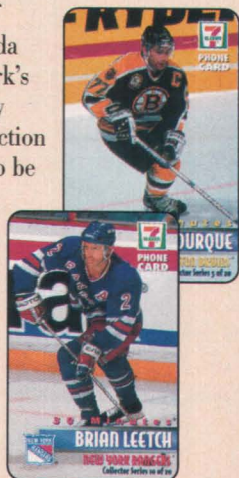

The Chicago Blackhawk FonePuck is a spinoff from the Colorado Avalanche series. The hockey puck phonecard is being sold at the Blackhawks' Fandemonium stores. An "Avalanche 2nd Season" FonePuck, mintage 996, was issued in November 1996.

CTN hockey series in 7-Eleven

CTN; NHL 8-card set; 15 minutes (four players), 30 minutes (four players); quantity issued varies from 3,200 to 4,500 (30,000 total); December 1996; (514) 332-8611.

Series I of Canada Telecom Network's 7-Eleven hockey phonecard collection was scheduled to be the first of three series marketed during the 1996-97 NHL hockey season in all 7-Eleven stores in Canada.

Softball telecards swings for the fences

JD Services Inc.; National Softball Tourney; 5, 15 and 30 minutes; 500 issued; August 1996; (402) 463-6114.

Five-minute cards were distributed to managers of teams and to players who hit home runs. The 15- and 30-minute cards were sold at the Bill Smith Softball Complex's souvenir stand in Hastings, Neb., during a national tournament that fielded 63 teams from 24 states.

Rockin' down the info highway

Smart Card Solutions;
CyberFest '96 four-card set; no value; quantity unavailable; November 1996.

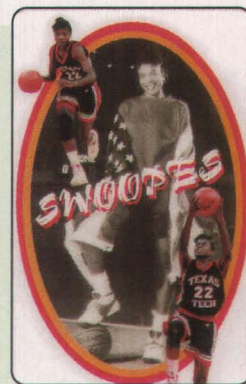

Held in Milwaukee, the CyberFest was an exposition on computer and Internet technologies. The cards feature the Ameritech logo on the reverse and stored attendee's address and phone number so that fest-goers could register in booths for information or prizes.

Swooping it up

STS/Sophisticards Unlimited;
Sheryl Swoopes; 10 units; 5,001 issued; December 1996; (806) 745-3900.

Sophisticards Unlimited of Lubbock, Texas, will give a portion of the proceeds of card sales to Texas Tech University's new United Spirit Arena in the basketball star's honor. Swoopes, an Olympic gold medalist, is scheduled to begin a pro career this summer with the new Women's National Basketball Association.

Telstra's recent releases

(Telephone number in Australia is 011 61 2 895 9762)

Telstra; Cards for Kids three-card set; A$5, A$10 and A$20 denominations; 3,000 of each; February 1997.

Telstra was promoting the series as a "great gift idea" for young and old, featuring images by Australian artists Jim Mitchell, Jeff Raglus and Simon Letch.

Telstra; World War II Classic Fighters four-card set; two A$5, A$10 and A$20 denominations; 2,000 sets; February 1997.

The cards are packaged in a limited edition folder featuring historical notes on each of the planes – the Mustang, the Spitfire, the Zero and the Messerschmitt – and are available through the Telstra Phonocard Collector Service. The cards also were available from the Telstra stand at the Avalon Air Show, Victoria in February.

Telstra; Year of the Ox five-card set; A$5 denomination each; 5,000 issued of each card; February 1997.

Card designs are from a national competition held in Australia's Asian community. Five is considered to be a lucky number to the Chinese, so five cards were made. There also were 5,000 A$88 denomination PhoneAway cards issued featuring the runner-up design. The Telstra Collector Service was offering 500 six-card sets, the $5 cards and the $88 card, to collectors who sent in applications from February's Australian Phonocard Bulletin.
