6 Back to the Future

A year after their launch at the Atlanta Olympics, some Visa Cash issues are still being pursued by collectors.

40 Interactive Attraction

Many of today's cards combine attractive images with the punch of interactivity, and hobbyists find that they can be both interactive and collectible.

44 More Fast Food

We continue last month's report on fast food-themed cards with a look at pizza places and some regional restaurant chains.

CONTENTS

Motion Commotion 8
Lenticular motion cards and holographic features are not new, but new technology has led to some eye-popping efforts.

America's Most Wanted 10
Yum, yum. Food seems to be a prevailing theme among this month's most-desired cards, with a lot of familiar images returning.

Dixie Destiny 39
Old times there are not forgotten, and neither will be the network marketing company's Atlanta extravaganza.

Catalog Update 42
A peek at one of the Moneycard Collector Catalog pages shows collectors the kind of information they can expect to see in a few short months.

Oh Canada 46
From our northern neighbors come new Bell Canada images, plus the story of a network marketing company that fell short of its goals.

Baby Bell Notes 47
Cards marking the Pac Bell-Southwestern Bell merger and celebrating the Colorado Rockies have been issued by Pac Bell and U S WEST, respectively.

ON THE MONEY

In the corridors and offices of Moneycard Collector, excitement is building as our first catalog moves closer to production. The effort has meant a lot of extra hours for a very dedicated staff, and, although at times it has been exhausting and frustrating, the overall feeling is one of amazement at how varied and vibrant the field of collecting prepaid cards has become.

Moneycard collecting is a hobby that truly offers something for everybody — or better put, many things for everybody. The catalog brings that point home, and, in this month's magazine, we give readers a peek at what a typical catalog page looks like. In a few short months, readers will get to see some 600 pages, packed with more information about U.S. and Canadian moneycards than has ever been assembled in a single volume.

We can hardly wait, and hope that you feel the same.

Card issuers haven't been waiting to trot out new products and innovations. As I write this, I am celebrating my one-year anniversary as editor of Moneycard Collector. Even with a year under my belt, I still am captivated by the ingenuity and freshness displayed in cards and card applications.

If you are looking for cards that amuse and inform, look no further than this month's issue. Jim Chudnow's "Motion Commotion" article shares some of the fun 3-D and lenticular-motion cards that provide a moving experience for phonecard collectors, while Bob Sodaro's "Interactive Activity" story discusses some imaginative ways that issuers are using telecards to link users to sports, music, weather, travel and entertainment news.

Amid the whirl of activity surrounding the catalog and magazine, there is a much larger, sadder milestone to note here.

In May, J. Oliver Amos passed away. As chairman of the board emeritus of our parent company, Amos Press Inc., he led by example. He was willing to pitch in wherever and whenever needed to help his hobby publications and daily newspaper succeed, while never losing sight of that most important aspect of the business — customer service.

Here's Publisher Murray Church's recollection of a very special man: "From Moneycard Collector's first day of business, Oliver Amos took a keen interest. He wanted to learn more about prepaid cards. He understood quickly that they were indeed collectible and why we were calling them moneycards.

"During the summer of 1994 we were working on the cover of our first issue and had decided to show an automobile carrying our staff members down the metaphorical road of moneycard collecting.

"As we were taking the digital photos that would be used to 'put the people in the car,' Oliver came along and asked what we were doing. In a split second we decided that as patriarch of the company, Oliver should be in this car, too — if you look at our first issue, he's the white-haired gent waving from the backseat. For ever and always he is in the car with us, setting off on this journey."

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

Lamentable lamination errors

We need to note two discrepancies in your June 1997 issue of Moneycard Collector. On Page 36, you pictured our Orlando Telecard World Show card set and noted that it is a laminated cardboard piece. On Page 49, you showed the Yenko Motorsports Camaro design we did and said that it is laminated paper.

We take exception to those descriptions, as one of the major distinctions between our product and many copycats is that our products are laminated polyester and teslin. Our process guarantees our products against cracking, breaking and delamination. A laminated paper or cardboard product can easily be broken or delaminated. We just wanted to clarify that point for collectors. Thanks for the mentions and keep up the good work on a fine magazine!

Global Communications Network; Yenko Motorsports Camaro; 40 units; 7,700 issued; December 1996.

Lance Barton, Marketing Manager, SSI Custom Data Cards, Edmond, Okla.

We usually resist any temptation to break cards to see what they're made of, so we depended on —sometimes faulty— visual inspection. Beauty is more than skin deep! Our apologies for the mistake.

Phonecards ease hospital visit

During a recent hospital stay, I was reading your magazine when a really nice nurse saw it and asked if I collected phonecards. She told me she had two connected to hospitals, and she gave them to me. They are TotalTel's Oxycontin II, a 12-minute card, and PromoTel's JFK Hospital Mission is Possible, a 10-minute card.

Now I have two really nice limited cards. So, collectors, keep looking, because nice cards are right around the corner. I love your magazine. My compliments to you and your staff.

Alan Oxfield, Fords, N.J.

Scratches taint Disney experience

Late last year, I was just as excited as the next phonecard collector when Disney announced it would produce a 25th anniversary holographic phonecard.

Unfortunately, when it arrived in December, it wasn't acceptable, in that the phonecard had numerous hairline scratches in it, ruining an otherwise fabulous collectible.

With some unexpected intervention from Moneycard Collector, I heard from a vice president from Disney Credit Card Services in mid-January. He expressed concern over my phonecard's defects and indicated a replacement card would be forwarded if I would send back the defective card. I wrote back expressing my appreciation for Disney's interest in my defective card and that when I received the replacement phonecard I would send in the defective card.

After waiting two months, I wrote this individual again, indicating I had not received the replacement card. No response, now, as I move into my third month of waiting for Disney to honor its promise. It was interesting that the credit card that also bears the same holographic image arrived without a scratch. I'm afraid it will stay in that condition, as I refuse to use it for other purchases at any Disney Store until this matter is resolved.

How many Moneycard Collector readers ordered the card and received it in the same condition as I did (scratched or marred)? Was my phonecard an isolated quality-control mistake or more the norm?

Change needs a helping hand

I note with disgust the fact that NYNEX is giving up on its Change Card program.

The excuse is that the cards didn't catch on. All NYNEX would have had to do was withdraw the coin phones and force card usage.

It's the same with the Mint — withdraw the paper dollar and people would use a dollar coin.

Change is never easy, and sometimes people need a little push.

I guess we will have to wait until some competent foreign teleco takes them over — maybe Deutsche Telekom or BT, or even Sierra Leone Telecom.

Kathy Fernandez, Makati City, The Philippines

We repeat our invitation made in this column last month: In light of the continuing debate about NYNEX and the related issue of card refunds or replacements, we urge NYNEX to weigh in with a response.

AT&T; 25th Anniversary Disney 3-D; 5 units; quantity unavailable; September 1996.

B. Lance Greenfield, San Francisco

We have not heard from any other collectors who have had this experience. It looks like you are at an impasse — both sides refusing to part with the card in question (i.e., the damaged card or the replacement card) unless the other side budges first). If nothing else, it proves that collectors are eager to add Disney-themed cards to their collections, and reluctant to part with them!

Back to the Future

Catching up on the 1996 Olympic Visa Cash program

By Art Becker

As difficult as this may be to believe, it's been a full year since Visa Cash was introduced to the public for the Olympic Games in Atlanta, Georgia.

Three Atlanta banks issued disposable Visa Cash cards; NationsBank, First Union and Wachovia. In San Francisco, Bank of America issued cards exclusively for use at its headquarters, and also cards exclusively for use at Visa International headquarters. Standard Chartered Bank, of Singapore, produced a set of Visa Cash cards, in conjunction with First Union. In the August 1996 issue of Moneycard Collector magazine, I told you what to expect. Now I'm going to tell you what happened.

Several additional Olympic Visa Cash cards have been issued since that previous article. One of the banks no longer issues Visa Cash, another has but a single issue in service, while the third bank is expanding its operation, with several new designs.

NationsBank

All the NationsBank cards have expired, and the bank offered remaining cards for sale as unloaded. This is a murky area, somewhere between unused and used. (See Moneycard Collector, "Words on Numbers," June 1997.) The value on the cards was removed, so they certainly can't be called mint. For the most part, they never left the bank vaults, so they can hardly be called used, either. The thing is, there is no way to tell an unloaded card from a used card.

Here's another thought about NationsBank cards. The NationsBank; Special Issue; $20 denomination; 2,000 issued; July 1996.

public card produced in the smallest quantity was the $50 Ribbons of Color. Five thousand were manufactured, yet plenty of them remained for sale as unloaded cards after expiration. One of the unloaded examples

I saw showed heavy use, and the bank said that some of the cards they sold had been redeemed by customers.

However, all of the public cards, and one pilot card, were available for purchase as unloaded. These 19 different NationsBank Olympic Visa Cash cards are being sold by dealers for as low as $60 a set, which is really quite a bargain, since each unloaded card cost $2 from the bank, and there was a minimum 50-card-per-design requirement as well.

NationsBank issued some special Olympic Visa Cash cards, which were not available to the general public. The most well-known is the $5 Opening Ceremony card – 89,200 produced. Only people attending the ceremony got one. The unique feature of this Olympic Visa Cash card is that the chip is on the reverse. Currently, the Opening Ceremony card retails for about $100.

High-level banking officials were presented with a $20 Special Issue Olympic Visa Cash card, and very few of the 1,000 produced ended up in collectors' hands. They don't show up on any dealer pricelists. Media representatives were given a $5 complimentary card, 10,000 issued, to introduce them to Visa Cash. They are not too difficult for collectors to find, assuming paying the $50 retail price is not a problem.

One of the most interesting series of Olympic Visa Cash is the $25 Sponsor Hospitality card. There were 15,000 of the basic design manufactured, and then smaller amounts were made each with a different Olympic sponsor logo on the reverse. It seems virtually impossible that a collector could obtain the entire series, NationsBank; Media complimentary; $5 denomination; 10,000 issued; July 1996.

NationsBank; Sponsor Hospitality (obverse); $25 denomination; 15,000 issued with various reverses; July 1996.

since sponsors could do anything they wished with their branded cards.

Here's the breakdown: Avon, 900; Bell South, 2,000; Anheuser Busch, 4,500; Coca-Cola, 1,500; Delta, 1,000; John Hancock, 400; Kodak, 960; Merrill Lynch, 110; Motorola, 610; Ranstad, 550; Textron, 50; and UPS, 2,250. My advice is to get any one of these cards and not worry about the rest. Only the single logo on the reverses differentiates one from any other sponsor card.

Perhaps the most difficult Olympic Visa Cash card to obtain, outside some of the Sponsor Hospitality card varieties, is the $5 pilot card, 1,000 issued. It was produced for use in Norfolk, Va., and Atlanta, Ga., bank headquarters. I've never even seen a photo of this elusive card.

Wachovia Bank

Only one set of Olympic Visa Cash cards, a variety of one of the cards, and a single additional card, were offered by this bank. The single card was the $2 card issued jointly with a 10 Kr. Danmont card, having a similar design. This set of two cards commemorated the Danish Olympic Team, and 2,000 matched serial numbers sets were issued. The set is still available for sale from dealers at about $50, only slightly more than its original price. Of particular interest to some collectors is that the Coca-Cola logo appears on the reverse of these two cards.

There is a little-known variety of the $20 hurdler card design. This card was sold to employees only at the bank's Atlanta cafeteria, prior to the Olympics. The card has the standard Gemplus style chip, and a slightly different reverse (words, color, and expiration date). I've never seen this card offered for sale by dealers. On the obverse, there is a registration symbol inside the Visa Cash logo, at lower right. Only this actual Visa Cash card has this symbol there, though a no-value promotional card has it there, too.

Since the Olympics, Wachovia has only issued a single $10 Visa Cash card, which was used as a promotion for subscribing to a newspaper. There were 31,500 issued, which expire in September 1997.

First Union Bank

First Union issued several sets of Olympic Visa Cash, including a co-sponsored set with Texaco. There were also several non-Olympic sets, as well as co-sponsored cards with Burger King and United Artists. First Union has plans for several more Visa Cash sets and special cards. These will be described in a future article.

Bank of America

Bank of America produced two sets of Olympic Visa Cash. A set of four $20 cards, 5,000 of each issued, was made for use exclusively at Visa International headquarters near San Francisco. A set of four $5 cards was manufactured for use exclusively at Bank of America headquarters, also in San Francisco. The $5 cards are among the rarest Olympic Visa Cash cards, as only 800 sets were produced. Many of the cards were given away to industry insiders as singles, so fewer than 800 complete sets exist. Neither set has appeared on dealer pricelists.

Standard Chartered Bank

A set of 16 cards was produced, in denominations from $10 to $100, forming a 4 x 4 puzzle, spelling out OLYMPIC CENTENARY in the background. Five thousand sets were produced, with matching serial numbers, denominated in U.S. dollars, and having a face value of $540. Why would a Singapore bank want to sell a high-value set of Olympic Visa Cash, when the cards could only be used in the United States? Your guess is as good as mine. Some collectors feel these cards should actually be considered as First Union cards, since First Union handled services in the U.S. and its logo, along with the Standard Chartered logo, appears on the reverse. The set, still available, retails for about $700 in the U.S.

The 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta provided the first opportunity to collect public Visa Cash cards. This was truly a ground-floor opportunity. Yes, it was difficult for those not actually in Atlanta, but not impossible. Visa Cash since has expanded to several other countries. With the possibility of Visa Cash at future Olympics, the cards from the first one where they were used will become even more valuable to collectors.

The author is a phonecard collector and attorney in Washington, D.C.

From top: Bank of America (Visa HQ); Stars and Stripes, Runner with torch, Olympic flame and Runners at starting line; each $20 denomination; 5,000 issued of each; July 1996.

Bank of America, B.A. HQ; gymnast; discus thrower; runner; diver; $5 denominations; 800 issued; July 1996.

MOTION COMMOTION

The phonecard hobby is on the move. If collectors had any doubts, some eye-catching new phonecards bring the point home – literally. While phonecards featuring three-dimensional imagery, whether lenticular-motion cards or holographic images, are not new, new imaging technologies promise a variety of exciting products to collectors.

The most striking is a phonecard offered by Frontier in partnership with Kodak that features baseball legend Mickey Mantle hitting his 500th home run. As you turn the card in your hand, the pitcher winds up and lets fly, Mantle swings, and the ball sails into the right-field stands. A process called “Kodamotion” has fused 24 separate images into one singular collecting experience. The incredible smoothness of the motion is mind-boggling on a thin piece of plastic. The 5-minute card, with an initial run of 50,000, is being offered for $19.95.

Mickey Mantle fans also can buy a 3 x 5 card – not a phonecard – with the same scene ($29.95) and a 16 x 20 piece which shows Mantle switching from batting left-handed to batting right-handed ($299). The images are available through Centennial Productions and cable television’s Home Shopping Network.

Also new on the scene are cards featuring beings even more legendary than the Yankee slugger. Karis Communications in April introduced four “Dino-Motion” cards to be sold through Associated Food Stores in Western states, timing their release to take advantage of the “Jurassic Park” movie sequel, “The Lost World.” The cards show a tyrannosaur in front of a volcano; a leaping velociraptor, a spitting dinosaur and a hatching dinosaur egg. There are 2,500 live 10-minute cards of each image.

Karis reportedly is working on a new motion card, featuring the famous dress-blowing Marilyn Monroe scene from “The Seven Year Itch.” Look for it later this summer.

Here are some other motion and hologram cards of note:

In September 1993, AmeriVox offered a $20 “hologram” card, showing a globe of the earth in space (with the words “World Telecom Group”); 12,222 were released.

Polaroid offered free hologram cards for sending in proofs of purchase from their film boxes in the early part of 1995 (with phone time provided by GTI). When you tilt the card, film shoot out of the pictured Polaroid instant. There were 10- and 20-minute versions offered.

Karis Communications; Dino-Motion set of four; 10 minutes each; 2,500 of each issued; April 1997.

Polaroid’s technology also was licensed to SmarTel, which released a 10-minute “House of Blues” card, quantity unavailable, in March 1996.

In conjunction with Fast Light Inc., time-supplier ACMI released a “stereoscopic” set of phonecards (picturing sunflowers) in 1996, and the same two firms combined on a 5-minute eagle hologram card, 5,000 issued, at the TCW East ’96 Show in New York.

At the Intel-Card show held in Chicago in early April 1997, Caulastics won the “Most Innovative” award with its “Space Call” 4-level 3-D card showing phone handsets on either side of a globe, with lightning streaking in the background. There were 10- and 20-unit versions and a jumbo version, as well as a 20-minute “five-up” Collectors Edition sheet, numbered to 10.

As this kind of technology that produced the Mickey Mantle and Dino-Motion cards is used more and more, perhaps card prices will shrink to allow more realistic per-minute phone time. That, combined with such startling images, really would be a moving combination!

COMICS UPDATE

In spite of the sometimes variable nature of the value of comic books themselves, licensing the likeness of popular characters and/or images always proves to be popular with fans of the medium. This is especially evident in light of the fact that there are numerous phonecards — recently released, or in the works — spotlighting comicbook characters.

According to Ken Barnes, president of Argo City, tapping into the comic book market has proven successful enough to continue, as collectors seem to appreciate the idea of the limited-edition format. "Argo City issues phonecards that reprint some of the best 'classic covers' from the Golden Age of comics (the '50s). We seem to attract that segment of the market that collects comics from that era. These collectors know how rare and elusive, not to mention expensive, these books are. So naturally, if you can't find or afford the actual book, then we have the next best thing."

Dynamic Forces; Combo Bettie Page Comic; 3 units; 1,500 issued; June 1997.

Dynamic Forces; Combo Avengelyne; 3 units; 1,500 issued; May 1997.

Such has been the case with Argo's recent Bettie Page series of cards. "We are attracting a large piece of the comicbook market by the fans of (comic book artist) Dave Stevens, who has appeal with all segments," Barnes indicated that many people have discovered Argo's other cards through this connection, and the crossover with Bettie Page fans in general has been phenomenal. "Many of those collectors have picked up on our Good Girl Art cards from our L.B. Cole series and the Phantom Lady card from last year."

Combo, a leading comic book magazine produces special comic book-related promo cards which come poly-bagged with issues of the magazine (It recently produced its own Bettie Page card, in conjunction with Dark Horse Comics and Dynamic Forces). Combo issues poly-bagged with phonecards command a $3 premium on those without the telecards.

According to Editor Ian Feller, the more comics expand into other markets, the better positioned comics become. He feels that when publishers introduce all genres of comics to mainstream audiences the more marketing opportunities present themselves. "I believe there are marketing opportunities," he said, "but people in the comic industry just don't understand phonecards. If they did, they'd probably want to get more involved."

Feller's spin on comicbook phonecards is that people seem more interested in using cards with cheap rates and don't really care if there is a licensed image on it. Still, he believes that phonecards are a great way of getting a character into a person's hand every time they make a call. "There are still enough people interested in comic phonecards to make it worthwhile for us to continue to produce them. They move as well as the character's popularity featured on them."

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

A Big Mac attack washed down by Coca-Cola! And for dessert: Kentucky Fried Chicken and Tootsie Rolls. Who said an army moves on its stomach? Many of the cards have been seen before, lurking around previous AMW pages, so you'll be familiar with them. But we've got some exciting newcomers too. The Coca-Cola diecut card is really something special; I wouldn't hesitate to put one in my collection. From up north, the sticks are flying around 7-Eleven and two of their cards have made it!

COCA-COLA DIECUT BOTTLE AND FOLDER.

TresCom; 10 minutes, 1,200 issued; March 1997. This is my favorite! They were for the 8th Street Festival in Miami – not for collectors. You'll want to snap a few of these up to trade later for other rare Coke cards. This card is one of the rarest yet.

COCA COLA SERIES II SET OF 48. Score Board; $2 denomination; quantity unavailable; March 1996. Many dealers have been lowering their prices on these cards and they have experienced a resurgence in popularity. An excellent catalog on Coca-Cola phonecards by Ilonka Giessen was reviewed in our June issue. The catalog contains these Coke cards and hundreds more from all over the world. Check it out!

KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN. Telenova; 5 minutes; 750 issued; May 1996. Kentucky Fried Chicken and the Colonel have issued these cards for a local promotion and a healthy percentage of the issue was made available to dealers, so it shouldn't be hard to get one of these. There may be a series in the works.

TOOTSIE ROLL "THE LIFE OF THE PARTY." Image Telecard; 5 minutes; quantity unknown; issued April 1997.

Which is the life of the party: the candy or the girl? Now this card is the life of the collector party, and the low mintage will make this one of the most pleasant finds of the year.

7-ELEVEN HOCKEY SET OF 12. CTN

(Canada); 15 minutes and 30 minutes; total of 30,000 issued;

December 1996. These cards have the blessings of both the NHL and the NHL Players' Association, so they are free to show the players in full uniform, unlike most of the baseball and football cards of early days. They're from the largest prepaid card maker in Canada, and will work both from the U.S. and Canada. Full sets are available from dealers for the truly addicted hockey fans!

MCDONALD'S SET OF 50. Score Board; $2 denomination; 6,110 of each issued; May 1996.

Dealers have also lowered prices on these phonecard firsts – an inexpensive way to begin a McDonald's collection. Although there's no book yet on McDonald's phonecards, it's definitely one of the world's favorite collecting themes.

PINK PANTHER EGGS SET OF 3.

USACard; $10 denomination; 500 of each issued; February 1997. The Panther is still gracing AMW long after Easter has passed. I told you these were the best cards of 1997! The Jumbo is sold out, although buy-backs and reselling are slowly taking the price up on those scant 250 cards. You got yours, right?

America's Most Wanted is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion Illinois. All dealers are encouraged to participate by faxing a list of their company's top sellers to (937) 498-0876 by the 20th of each month.

This month's America's Most Wanted is courtesy of: ACME Telecards; B&B Fone Cards & Promotions; Buffalo Bill's Telecard Gallery; FA Marketing; Global Telecard Company; JR's Telecards; Powell Associates; TW Phonecards; United America Cards; and USA Card.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Price listings in the Moneycard Collector Price Guide are provided only as a guide and are based on price lists supplied by several dealers around the world and on other market information. Listings without prices will be completed as suitable market information becomes available.

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that - a guide.

NUMBERING SYSTEM

S (before #) = Sports

a card depicting an organized, competitive sports-related image (comes before numerals, e.g. S125)

Pr (before #) = Private card issued for a customer, distributed by the customer at his/her discretion

Post-numerical descriptor (falls after the numeral)

#2 = Second Printing

the second printing of a card; a three, four or greater number can follow to denote the actual print run; occurs often with Canadian cards or unlimited run cards

a-z = error/variety

a card whose identical front or back differs from the card with the primary listing; includes language variations, but not denominational variations

M = model/prototype

full-front printed card, may or may not be full-back printed, never issued

card with an error that caused its destruction or recall

J = jumbo

an oversized or jumbo card

P = proof

artwork on front, blank back

R = replacement

a card that replaced a defective or recalled card

S (after #) = specimen

artwork on front, complete back with false or no pin, or word "sample" or "test"

T = trial/test

live card used specifically for testing a stored value card system

Moneycard Collector is committed to providing collectors with the most accurate and unbiased pricing information available in the phone and debit card hobby. Data used in compiling this month's guide was supplied by the following dealers whom we thank for their assistance:

Thoughts on the catalog

With our new catalog waiting in the wings, we've been busy at Moneycard Collector. It's a challenge to put together the monthly magazine and also find time to prepare the catalog.

Next month our magazine turns three, so I'd liken our task to having a screeching newborn baby in the offices while a three-year-old runs around out of control. Don't get me wrong: Like any parents, we love our children, but boy, do they drive us crazy sometimes!

The structure of the catalog will be comfortable to those readers familiar with collectibles catalogs and price guides. There will be a forward section of the book that explains our methods, a handy glossary and a brief history of the hobby. The glossary is extensive and easy to understand. Key issues are discussed concerning the book's construction, including topics such as pricing, private and corporate divisions. We also will examine what the future holds.

Our methods to gather, arrange and present information have been exhaustive (For a glimpse of how it will look, see this month's "Catalog Update," Page 42). Many of the 500 or so companies we profile have merged, or are too busy to provide us information (or have incomplete records), or have closed their doors. That means we search high and low, day and night (and weekends, too) to get the facts. That's a bonus, because not only have we discovered some issuers that we didn't know about, we also have met a lot of new collectors, talked to many readers and made new friends.

Perhaps you haven't reserved your catalog copy yet. That's a mistake! We are only printing 3,000 with exclusive Cable & Wireless phonecards, and they won't last long. I believe that the catalog is a necessity to either continue or launch your moneycard collecting. As we do our best to raise our "children" right, we thank you for your support ... after all, it takes a village to build a hobby.

Finally, USACard CEO Robert Mish has supplied us with his "Top 10 Reasons Why We're Anxiously Awaiting the Release of the Moneycard Collector Catalog." While we won't vouch for his perception, we present the list here. Thanks, Bob!

10. Heard that Pulitzer Prize receptions break into some pretty wild parties afterward.
9. Old H&G catalog isn't heavy enough to squish the really big spiders.
8. Reader's Digest version is too condensed.
7. Centerfold of Pamela Lee phonecard.
6. The edible paper makes great emergency rations for phonecard survivalists.
5. Rumors that introduction will reveal which Moneycard staffer was an alien abductee.
4. Will make a great textbook to study for CPA* exam.
3. Brings us that much closer to "Moneycard - The Movie."
2. Can leave on nightstand to impress dates.
1. Be first to decipher encrypted clues to Moneycard office love scandal.

HOT CARDS

Welcome to Hot Cards. This list represents the most heavily sold and traded cards within the last month. Due to the size of the Price Guide, it is often very time-consuming for readers to make their way through the listings in a short amount of time. We created HOT CARDS to provide you trends information quickly, accurately and concisely.

AT&T; Illicall TeleTicket; 50 units; 250 issued; December 1993.

A T&T TELETICKET SETS RECORD PRICE. A new record price has been set for a US-issued prepaid phonecard. An AT&T TeleTicket, the Illicall, was recently sold by B&B Collectibles to a private collector for the sum of $5,050 – $3,000 in cash and a $2,050 trade-in. The card, a private issue for Illinois State University, was issued in December 1993 with 50 units of time on it. “Naturally, we’re thrilled,” said co-owner Buz Houghtaling. “Without a doubt this is one of the rarest of all of the TeleTickets. Records suggest only 250 were made, but I suspect that because students bought them originally that many were used and thrown away. That’s the real reason why this card is so rare, especially in mint condition.”

Houghtaling predicted an even stronger future price for the card. “As this hobby continues to grow, there will be a very small number of cards that will become very valuable, worth many times what they are today. I think the Illicall may turn out to be one of those cards.”

SPRINT PACKAGES PROMOTIONAL PRODUCTS. Sprint has introduced FonPromotions, a program that combines prepaid phonecards with “promotional solutions” including linking cards with games and contests, sampling, information collection and distribution, incentives, customer retention and employee relations. In establishing the program, Sprint notes marketing efforts that have used Sprint prepaid cards, including the Gillette NCAA Final Four series, the debut of Spree retail cards in General Mills cereals, the NBC “Friends” and “ER” cards, and cards used in Casual Corner and Lee Jeans promotions.

FORMER SCORE BOARD EXECS FORM ALLIANCE. Two former executives of The Score Board recently resigned to form their own company, Alliance Consulting. CEO of Alliance is James Robinson, formerly Score Board’s vice president of marketing and business development, while the president is Michael Balser, formerly Score Board’s vice president of licensing.

Says Robinson, “World-wide, prepaid phonecards have proven themselves to be excellent collectibles. Michael and I know that we can help issuers in the collectibles and telecommunications industries to develop and market excellent phonecard programs.”

SMARTALK, SMARTEL MERGE. Los Angeles-based Smartalk Teleservices Inc. has merged with Smartel Communications Inc., and will operate the Boston-based promotional telecard issuer as a wholly owned subsidiary. Smartalk’s also acquired GTI Telecom Inc., in early June. The GTI purchase adds more than 4,000 storefronts to retail-oriented Smartalk’s distribution network, which now totals more than 13,000 outlets. See next month’s issue for details.

INTO THE WILD, BLUE, UNACTIVATED, YONDER. In May’s “Quick Takes” column, we reported on a United Airlines’ “Mileage Plus” card that, although it says “$50” on the obverse, is just a piece of plastic until the card is activated. Close on its heels comes the American Airlines’ “AAdvantage” Global Phone Card. It, too, looks like a prepaid card, with a big red “$50” at lower right. Collectors who find one of the cards separated from its flier shouldn’t assume they have a $50 denomination card, though. Like the United Airlines card, the “AAdvantage” card holds no phone time until activated.

MCI/Carrier Services Inc.; AAdvantage; no value until activated; quantity unknown; 1997.

Smartel, Chase Easy Banking; variable denomination; 300,000-plus issued; 1997.

CHASE MANHATTAN BANK USES SMARTEL PROGRAM. Boston-based Smartel has produced an interactive phonecard program for Chase Manhattan Bank. For listening to information about Chase’s “Easy Banking Program,” callers could earn up to 21 minutes of long-distance time. Customers who made three ATM deposits within 90 days of registering for the banking program also earned extra time.

ITS EXECUTIVE JOINS CREATIVE COMMUNICATIONS. Ilene Kaminsky, who was director of marketing for Miami-based Interactive Telecard Services, has taken the same position with Creative Communications of Houston. Kaminsky, who 10 years’ marketing experience, will maintain a satellite office in Miami. “Marketing strategy and implementation are important to our clients and Ilene is helping us better exploit those capabilities,” says Creative President Duane Richardson.

NEW SIEMENS CHIP DESIGNED FOR DISPOSABILITY. Siemens Components Inc. is developing a memory chip for Visa International that is designed to be used in prepaid card applications with small transaction values, such as electronic purses. The “SLE 4463” is specifically intended for disposable Visa Cash cards to be used in vending, mass transportation and convenience store purchases. Siemens will begin to deliver those chips to Visa later this year. During a presentation at CardTech/SecurTech in Orlando, Fla., Siemens predicted that the smart card integrated-circuit market would grow by about 50 percent over the next four years, reaching $2.8 billion by 2001.

TAPPING THE NETWORKS

Titan Telecommunications; Astronaut in Space puzzle set of five; 5 units each; 1,500 sets issued.

TITAN TELECOMMUNICATIONS, a network marketing company based in Orchard Park, N.Y., has released its first five cards, an "Astronaut in Space" puzzle set. Titan is offering low-cost long distance service and prepaid cards. The inaugural cards each have five units of time, with time carried by LDDS Worldcom. A set sent to Moneycard Collector did not work; Titan co-owner Andrew C. Sharp said cards with inactive PINs erroneously had been sent. Such an occurrence stresses the need of having such cards clearly labeled so as not to confuse collectors.

Independent representatives of STRATEGIC TELECOM SYSTEMS INC. have been busy issuing some good-looking sports and promotional telecards, including one featuring Heisman Trophy winner Danny Wuerffel, the quarterback of the University of Florida Gators. Promotional card campaigns recently achieved by STS reps include cards for Uniglobe Travel, the Atlanta Gas Light Co., Med Ad News, Bill Blass and Ryder, among others. See this month's "New Issues" section, starting on Page 48, for more details on some of these cards.

"Fuel Your Dreams With HOPE" reads the title page of a brochure promoting HIGH OPPORTUNITY PETROLEUM ENTERPRISES INC. of Arlington, Texas. And on page 3 the headline reads "First Ever Collectible Prepaid Fuel Cards." The company was launched on March 13th of this year and through its 60,000+ representatives sells HOPE Fuel Enhancer and prepaid fuel cards.

At a recent opportunity meeting attended by Moneycard Collector one of the original HOPE members related how the original plan had been to have cards that were collectible. Arrangements had been made with Shell Oil and Mobil Petroleum to market their cards (which are very collectible) through the HOPE organization. All of their printed materials reflected that expectation. Projections were that initially HOPE could sell a combined total of $13 million worth of Shell and Mobil cards each month.

These arrangements apparently fell through at the last minute when someone — he suspects a competing network marketing company — sent a mock up of an advertisement to Mobil with a headline reading, "Mobil Goes MLM." This disturbed the Mobil officials to such a degree, he said, that they backed out of the arrangement. As a fall back, HOPE took the project to Visa and a deal was made.

A consequence of that deal, however, is that HOPE cards will not be collectible. This is because the cards are actually Visa credit cards for which a positive balance of $50 has been paid on the account itself. As credit cards, they have the card holder's name imprinted on them. The one we saw had the brand "AchievaCard" in the upper right corner on a plain blue background, with the usual card holder name, Visa hologram, expiration date and so on.

The HOPE spokesman said that the company does not actually make money on the sale of the cards which retail for $45 in return for $50 worth of petroleum products which can be purchased at any gas station or store that accepts Visa. Rather, profits are made on the sale of the fuel additive which representatives can either use themselves, sell in bulk at wholesale, or give away "to prospect for new members which is a legitimate advertising expense."

Signing up costs a new member $272.95, in return for which he receives one wholesale product unit — one gas card and one case containing 24 bottles of additive. A new member can begin for as little as $64.95 but he is then expected to achieve his first sales goal within two weeks. Promoted as an added personal benefit is that a representative can buy up to 16 $50 dollar cards per month at $45 each for personal use.

Like all network marketing organizations, HOPE's success lies in how well it can grow its marketing organization. However, unlike presentations we have heard at STS and Destiny meetings, the focus of this HOPE meeting was on the representative using the products himself and signing up new members into the binary compensation plan, rather than selling retail products.

Whatever the business merits of the HOPE opportunity, the bottom line for collectors is that for as long as the Visa credit card is the only payment vehicle, there won't be any collectible moneycards issued by this firm.

MC

A HOPE-branded prepaid card might have looked like this.

DIXIE DESTINY

If Destiny Telecomm International suffered any loss of momentum due to the $1.6 million fine it recently paid to the State of California, there was little sign of it at the network marketing company's most recent convention held in Atlanta, Ga. in early May.

It was standing-room-only as some 3,500 delegates applauded

Destiny President Randy Jeffers as he described how the company made it through this difficult period. The total number of Destiny reps in the US, Canada, Europe and Australia is said to number some 700,000 and still growing.

Several new corporate cards were launched: an

Hall of Fame pitcher Steve Carlton autographed copies of his new jumbo card. The issue price of $99 included Carlton's autograph on the card and a contribution to the Destiny Foundation.

Atlanta convention issue, a new vending machine issue in three denominations, a Steve Carlton interactive jumbo card and a series of jumbo cards designed to expedite the ordering of cards for charitable organizations.

The Steve Carlton card celebrates the 25th anniversary of the famous left-hander's 27-win season for the Philadelphia Phillies. The mintage is 4,136, marking Carlton's career strikeout total. If the program sells out completely, some $100,000 will be donated to the Destiny Foundation. Card purchasers will be able to dial into the phone net before the 1997 All-Star Game and hear Carlton interviewed for 60 minutes by Harry Kalas, the "Voice of the Phillies." For 30 minutes more minutes, various card-holders will be randomly beeped, at which point they will be able to ask Carlton questions. (For more information on interactive cards, see Page 40.)

Another card featuring a celebrity, the Ray Charles card launched in Chicago during the Intele-Card News Spring Expo '97, sold out during the first day of the Atlanta convention. The card, Destiny's first braille card, was trading quietly among Destiny reps for $30-$35.

The Destiny Foundation also was busy in Atlanta. Members of its executive committee paid a special visit to the Shepherd Center Hospital which specializes in spinal and head injuries. Ron Brittain, director of the foundation donated 500 20-minute cards for use by hospital patients.

In Atlanta, we also came across a trio of phonecards issued earlier this year by Destiny rep Kevin Saunders, the first person with a disability to be named to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. Through Destiny, Saunders has issued three motivational phonecards that show the wheelchair athlete in action.

One new and intriguing Destiny product launched in Atlanta was a customized version of Apple Computer's palm-top computer, the Newton. In outward appearance and in price the Destiny version is no different from any other Newton. However, it is loaded with a custom contact database program and the complete 225-page Destiny I.R. manual. Destiny reps will be using Newton to access the Internet, transmitting and receiving information to and from Destiny headquarters. Destiny officials claim this new tool will dramatically reduce the time needed to order products and sign up new representatives.

Many Destiny reps who visited the Moneycard Collector booth in the trade show area took out subscriptions and reserved copies of the Moneycard Collector Catalog. In general the IRs were pleased with the convention. However, several expressed disappointment that there was no organized session to allow them to buy, sell and trade their cards. Lamented one rep, "It makes no sense to me that Destiny says our cards are collectible and then doesn't give us a chance to buy, sell and trade them." Had such an opportunity been part of the convention, it would have been interesting to see what the price of the Ray Charles card would have turned out to be.

Interactive Attraction

More functions make phonecards smarter, more collectible

By Robert J. Sodaro

Interactive phonecards aren't the new kids on the block anymore. In fact, cards with true interactive functions are springing up at a pace to take over the neighborhood. Collectors who have sought certain images or themes increasingly have a chance to find cards that do more than just provide phone time.

What is "true" interactivity? After all, all remote-memory phonecards are, to some degree, interactive. The caller punches in numbers and is prompted to the next function. A recording informs callers of how much time is left and offers recharge options. Still, true interactivity should be measured by the sophistication of the prompts and/or features allowed.

Earthline Communications' God Street Wine card has been hailed as the first custom interactive card in the U.S. The card, with time carried by Access Telecom, was issued in September 1994 and described in in Moneycard Collector's September 1995 issue. Since then, no one has disputed that claim. The card features 14 music cuts, information about the band's tour dates, quotes from band members and other merchandising information.

If interactivity is defined by the ability to access information or to provide functionality, then collectors who prize mint cards above all else might have to adjust their mindset. Interactive cards are made to be used, and many of them have enticing images, often sports figures or celebrities, that make them interesting collectibles. Interactive cards with exposed PINs are especially helpful to collectors who want to hear interactive features and retain a card in pristine condition.

As can be expected, there are as many interactive applications to phonecards as there are producers of phonecards. Perhaps one of the most practical is as an actual greeting card. Strategic Telecom Systems, along with Cable & Wireless, has developed its "Thinking of You" line of phone/greeting cards available for Valentine's Day, Mother's and Father's days, birthdays, spiritual greetings, as well as generic congratulation cards. The STS card allows the purchaser to record a message on the card prior to it being sent.

An C&W interactive card was released in May for the 1997 Premium Incentive Show in New York. The "Greetings from New York" card allowed callers to record a personal voice message on the 10-minute card. C&W Chief Operating Officer Richard Yalen hails the interactive voice response (IVR) technology as displayed by the New York card. "It's an excellent example of a unique premium incentive gift with unlimited potential in the business and retail markets."

STS and C&W also are stressing the use of IVR cards as a marketing research tool. Typically, users answer questions using their phone's keypad and are rewarded with phone time. According to Tom Solomon of STS, such cards generate up to a 60 percent response rate, a powerful punch for a marketing survey. The phonecard being produced by Cable & Wireless for the launch of the Moneycard Collector Catalog will include those IVR features.

On the issue of functionality, Terry Peterson, vice president of Phone Debit Systems, notes "It makes us very happy when people use our cards." The Walgreens-Disney castle card produced by PDS ("Corporate Corner," July 1997 Moneycard Collector) not only offers prompts in various languages, but give weekly specials at Walgreens. Other PDS cards offer voice-mail capabilities, message forwarding, polling and Information Services, weather, road and slope conditions, plus directions to various U.S. National parks. One, produced for the Wisconsin Association of Campground Owners, offers callers weather and road conditions, a camp directory, a suggestions hotline, and a 800-number voice mail box.

Frontier Communications also offers an array of perks on cards while seeking out a specific niche. "The travel industry and communications are a natural combination," says Kevin J. Rennis, president of Frontier. "Prepaid phonecard users now have a single source for all their reservations and traveling needs combined with flexible prepaid phonecard capabilities.

Travel Source cards issued by Frontier are available at airports as well as through some members of the American Hotel & Motel Association and offer an array of features, including access to major airlines and car rental agencies and more than 40,000 U.S. hotels and motels..

Better known to collectors are interactive Frontier cards featuring the popular TV cartoon family, "The Simpsons." Frontier Marketing Manager John Ahlman notes that licensed cards "provide sizzle" to an already hot idea. The cards could not only deliver a pre-programmed greeting from Bart Simpson, but the purchaser can add his own voice to the message as well.

Creative Communications also has developed interactive cards for various retail businesses and for the rock band KISS. With the "KISS My Access" cards, fans can access concert dates and leave messages for the band, as well as hear messages back from the band.)

Many companies offer cards with interactive sports links. New from The Score Board Inc. is the "Talk N' Sports" series, which offers trivia and on-line sports update cards. The program includes $10 "Trivia Catch" phonecards, 10 images, which give callers the either-or choice of using the time or playing a trivia contest to win autographed memorabilia. Each "Talk N' Sports" pack includes trading cards and one phonecard. A $20 denomination On-Line Sports Update set, 10 images, offers phone time or the ability to call an on-line sports update.

Chris Foster of SportsCom Inc. notes the interactivity on his "FanScan" cards. With FanScan, NASCAR fans can dial up during the race and patch into the cross-talk between the various drivers and their pit crews. Each card offers 10 minutes of access time and features a different driver. Other functions of the FanScan card include Dan Elliott's "Straight from the Garage" reports. Also tapping into the NASCAR circuit is the new National Racing Club, developed by The West Group. Plans call for cards with driver and race updates and interviews.

Pivotal Communications cards, featuring Major League Baseball images, should soon be available, according to Heather Voight, marketing manager for Pivotal. The cards, in 25- and 50-minute denominations, will offer pre- and post-game stats, and game notes for players. Two designs, both using lenticular-motion technology, are planned and will be offered with the logos of each major league team.

A recent Destiny Telecomm telecard will allow baseball fans the opportunity of a lifetime. Holders of the special Steve Carlton jumbo card will be able to tap into a live interview with the Hall of Fame pitcher before the 1997 All-Star Game and, if beeped, ask their own questions. (More details on Page 39).

Innovative Telecom also offers sports-related interactive phonecards. These cards give users the opportunity to assemble "fantasy" baseball or football teams. Card holders choose a full roster from all divisions of the respective sport and then track the various players records via their daily stats (which are acquired by tapping into the phone net).

Jack Miller, Innovative's director of marketing, says that his company also uses phonecards to conduct surveys for clients. Again, these cards tend to be distributed at professional conventions or are disseminated to the general public via mail-ins ("send in UPC symbols and receive a free 10-minute phonecard"). As with the STS cards, these cards ask consumers about five questions before the time can be used. Innovative also offers a card that acts as a wedding invitation. In addition to the RSVP, the guest can follow voice prompts to get directions, choose a meal, or leave a message for the couple.

In the final analysis, collectors must weigh each interactive phonecard in terms of functionality and collectability. Scarcity is not necessarily the only measure here, as mintages of more-desirable cards (for instance, a Frontier "Simpsons") might be far higher than that of a less-desirable card that functions as a wedding RSVP or a marketing survey. The bottom line is that a card's value, as a collectible, always will be in the eyes of the beholder.

CATALOG UPDATE

Even though you'll still have to wait a few more months for the Moneycard Collector Catalog, we have no intention of torturing you. Here's a look at one of the catalog pages and an explanation of what you see here. It won't be long before collectors can own 600 or more pages just as crammed full with card information and images.

Let's start at the top:

Each U.S. and Canadian moneycard issuer will have a title, followed by a three-letter acronym that we have assigned. We have tried to represent each company's name with the most logical acronym possible. However, the number of issuers that have similar sounding names (companies starting with "American," "Global," "Inter-," "Phone," "Sports," "Tele-," "U.S." and "World" are especially popular) occasionally forced us to be creative, so it behooves the reader to check issuer titles by name AND acronym.

Company biographical notes are included for all issuers, ranging from a few words for defunct companies or those who declined to provide such information to a few hundred words for major issuers and historically important companies. Some comments about noteworthy card programs or even specific cards might be included in this section.

There are as many card images as our page designers could include. Each will be identified by a caption containing its MCN. (For more details of the Moneycard Collector numbering system, please see "Catalog Update," in the July edition).

Actual card listings will contain the following information (from left): The MCN; DATE - the month and year a card was issued; QTY - the quantity of the cards issued; DESCRIPTION - up to 32 letters and numbers to describe a card; EXP - the expiration date of the card; CAR - the time carrier (switch provider) for the card; TYPE - i.e., remote-memory, magnetic stripe, chip-based, etc.; STK - stock, i.e., what the card is made of; and MINT and USED prices. There also will be a check box beside the mint and used columns and a "NOTES" column for collectors to keep track of information about their cards.

In the case of sets, individual cards will be listed and sets will be italicized. Also included in the body of the listings will be notes, as necessary, covering significant details of card distribution, destruction or availability, as well as other pertinent card information.

It's shaping up to be a wonderful book. Only 3,000 will be printed initially and, as the saying goes, when they're gone, they're gone. If you haven't already done so, reserve your copy now!

MONEYCARD COLLECTOR CATALOG

CORPORATE CORNER

"When Giants Walked the Earth" is not a song name nor the title to a 1950s horror movie. It is perhaps an apt description of a trio of phonecards that show BOTH the AT&T and Disney logos on the reverse. The 10-minute cards, featuring a Donald Duck character on for the 10-minute cards. The cards were available at a meeting of the United Way chapter of Norwalk and Wilton, Conn., on May 20. There's no scratch-off and a small percentage of the cards is available to collectors.

Phonecard Express teamed up with the Indiana Pacers of the NBA and Coors Beer for a promotion at a January Pacers' game. The first 10,000 fans over the age of 21 received a cool three Disney World rides, came stuffed without wrappers in Kodak products sold at Revco drug stores.

AT&T also has come out with a second Cook's Ham card, a 10-minute card packaged in cellophane and stuck behind the label of the spiral-cut hams around Mother's Day. Anyway you slice, it is a nice card.

Other promotional cards and a fund-raising card round out this month's Corporate Corner roster, including 500 United Way cards issued by SNET, which donated the time five-minute card. Two lucky fans whose phonecard PINs matched numbers drawn at the game had 45 seconds to make a lay-up, free throw and a three-point shot for a chance at other prizes — the card itself should be a prize for any collector.

Also from Phonecard Express comes a nice 30-minute card issued for Colgate-Palmolive. A whopping 50,000 cards were issued and offered during two week-ends in May for a bilingual promotion that ran in 830 stores. In order to receive a card a customer had to send in three proofs of purchase from various products. An added bonus — the carrier's reverse was a postcard, so you could drop Mom a line, too. Since Phonecard Express doesn't make their cards available to collectors, this could be another tough card to find, despite the high mintage.

From our friends to the north, CTN (Canada Telecom Network), comes a card featuring the Kmart logo. There were 5,000 20-minute cards issued in March for Kmart stores throughout Canada and available as prizes in a scratch-and-win contest.

Grapevine Telecards issued 10-minute cards for the Maui Marathon held in March. There were 1,300 cards, most of which were put into the packages that runners received for competing in the marathon. Some cards are available through dealers.

Another exotic card is one issued this spring for Princess Cruises, to laud the launching of a new ship, the Dawn Princess. There were 5,000 15-minute cards produced.

Finally this month, a couple of promotions: If you purchase three packages of Marcal Napkins (250 count), send in the three phonecard symbols found on some of the packages along with your receipt and the word NAZ on a 3 x 5 card to the address on the wrapper and you'll receive a 10-minute phonecard. The offer ends Dec. 31. There's also an Innovative Telecom card available through specially marked boxes of Afrin, Drixoral, Chlortrimeton and Coricidin medicine. Send the refund form that's inside the box along with the UPC and you'll receive a 15-minute card.

FAST FOOD

Any way you slice it, it's an appetizing theme

PART 2

By Jim Chudnow

According to the American Restaurant Association, industry sales will hit $320 billion this year — an increase of around 50 percent in the last 10 years, and fast-food restaurants are a big part of that growth. It's no wonder that there are many examples of phonecards sporting fast-food logos and products.

In the July issue, we looked at some of the moneycards that bear images and logos from nationally known chains. We continue this month with more regional offerings, as well as pizza parlors' cards.

BIG BOY

Big Boy franchises, whether they are called Elias Brothers, Shoney's or Frisch's celebrate 61 years of service this year. Their mascot (drawn by a Warner Brothers animator who frequented one of their stores) has long been familiar to fast food aficionados. The American Advertising Museum saw fit to recognize the Big Boy and you can see him on a new 6-minute Telenova / Hannibal Communications phonecard scheduled for release this summer. There reportedly will be 750 issued, plus around 25 test cards, 25-50 proofs and 10 special numbered sets.

PromoTel; Blimpie Coca-Cola set of four; $10 denominations; 1,000 issued; March 1996.

which was repeated on a folder. All were serially numbered $10 denomination cards, featuring the famous bruins doing winter sports: skating, skiing, playing ice hockey, and tobogganing. Originally, the 1,000 sets of cards were designed to be given for corporate use.

CLASSIC PIZZA

An example of a small firm that has played its (phone) cards right is Classic Pizza, a store in Bristol, R.I., serving students at Roger Williams University. SmartTel produced a multi-purpose card for them in September 1995. The card is not only good for five minutes of calling time, upon presentation at the store (with an I.D. from RWU), it allowed a 10 percent discount on the price of food items. Students using it 10 times got another phone/discount card. The mintage is less than 1,000.

DENNY'S

In March 1995, a couple of local Denny's restaurants in Anaheim and Orange, Calif., offered a phonecard that also featured a 10-percent food discount at the stores. The 10-minute card, 2,000 issued with time carried by LDDS, features the Denny's sign near a silhouetted farm at sunset time.

LDDS Worldcom; Denny's Restaurant; 10 units; 2,000 issued; March 1995.

Denny's headquarters started a test program in December 1995. Because many of the chain's customers are travelers, Denny's thought that prepaid phonecards would be a convenience to offer its guests. The pilot program was initiated with cards available at certain restaurants in the Phoenix, Ariz., Salt Lake City, Utah, and San Antonio, Texas. In Phoenix, they even installed automated dispensers for the cards. Cards — all the same design in denominations of $5, $10, and, in some areas, $20 and $50 — are dispensed inactive, and are activated

BLIMPIE

The Blimpie chain can be found in many locations in the eastern U.S. The chain had PromoTel produce a series of four cards in early 1996 using the Coca-Cola polar bears, with the Blimpie logo, at the time of purchase via a magnetic stripe on the back. The overall program regarding the cards is managed by Intera Communications of Minneapolis, with calling time on the (non-interactive) cards provided by LDDS Worldcom on the original version, though newly printed cards will be via Datawave utilizing the MCI network. At this time, there are no plans for any additional designs in the series, and they declined to report quantities issued.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

As reported by Bruce Harmon ("Corporate Corner," Page 11, February 1996) Ascot issued 2,500 Domino's Pizza cards in November 1995, picturing a Deep Dish Pizza. You could get the five-minute card free at the Robbinsdale, Minn., franchise if you bought an "Ultimate" pizza and a six-pack of Coca-Cola. The front of the serial-numbered card has a number to direct you to the closest Minneapolis area Domino's location. The back has logos of Domino's and Coca-Cola.

A regional phonecard issue came out in June 1996, courtesy of Telenova. Utilizing services of Cable & Wireless, this unusually colorful five-minute card features two yummy-looking pies and ingredients, with the company's logo and the motto "Just Call and We'll Deliver." There were 1,000 sequentially numbered cards issued.

Telenova; Domino's Pizza; 5 minutes; 1,000 issued; July 1996.

with their logo in early 1996, for sale to the public. There were 10,000 cards printed, each stating that the $10 cost provided 30 minutes of domestic calling time.

JACK-IN-THE-BOX

In February 1996, five Jack-In-The-Box restaurants in the Los Angeles area began offering customers a chance to pick up one of their four different "Jack's Back" collectible phonecards. You could get a card for $3.99; or if you bought a "combo" meal you could buy a card for $1 less. In general, if you bought a meal, you could then buy as many of the individual cards as you wanted. A total of 15,000 of the five-minute cards were produced by Premier Telecom, with 3,750 of each design. Additionally, there was a special folder available for collectors who purchased an entire set, with only 500 such sets available. Franchisee Luis Carcavallo came up with the idea for using the cards after seeing some McDonald's phonecards at a Frank & Son show.

LITTLE CAESAR'S

Known for using repetition in their ads, Little Caesar's Pizza had what appears to be the first card for the chain produced by Telenova in July 1996. Utilizing services of AT&T, the cards (1,000 issued), picture the toga-clad cartoon spokesman holding up a slice of pizza while saying "Phonecard Phonecard." You can also see a Coca-Cola Classic logo on the front.

Premier Telecom; Jack-in-the-Box set of four; 20 minutes each; 500 of each image issued; April 1996.

PIZZA HUT

In early 1995, Sprint produced a 20-minute phonecard with the red-roof Pizza Hut logo, followed by their motto "You'll love the stuff we're made of." According to a spokesman at Pizza Hut, the card was a sample version printed but apparently never released officially to the public. But, at the end of 1995, Pizza Hut headquarters did authorize the public issuance of two other cards as part of a limited test program in Knoxville, Tenn., and Tucson, Ariz. The cards feature two wonderful Norman Rockwell drawings and could be obtained for an additional $2 when you bought a regularly priced pizza. Time was by Sprint, with between 5,000 and 7,000 issued of each card. This is one of the best fast-food cards to use because the cost per minute was low and the card was relatively easy to obtain.

This month's column could be called a study in contrasts. It covers news from a giant in Canadian phonecards, a growing western issuer and a network marketer that never truly got off the ground.

Bell Canada: LaPuce & QuickChange

Good news and bad news for collectors of these chip cards. The bad news is for people who are after used cards: Payphones accepting LaPuce/QuickChange cards have been reprogrammed to beep loudly and annoyingly for 10 seconds if a caller hangs up and leaves the card in the phone. Even the roar of the Montreal subway can't drown out the racket! In my opinion, this new feature will be a detriment to collectors. Used cards, scarce to begin with, will become even harder to find here. Most of the collectors who write to me from around the world specifically request used Canadian chip cards. They have virtually no interest in remote cards of any sort, or mint chip cards that they cannot use in their country. Since LaPuce was introduced in August 1994, I have picked up less than 10 discarded cards out of Montreal phone booths. Compare that to the beginnings of my collection: 30 used British Telecom and Mercury cards (including duplicates) gathered over a two-week period in various less-traveled parts of England in October 1993.

Collectors of mint cards will be pleased to know that they can register with Bell for an automatic subscription. This process should be familiar to collectors of mint stamps. When a LaPuce/QuickChange catalog is issued, one of each card will be sent automatically to anyone on the automatic-subscription list, and billed to the collector's credit card.

For the third year in a row, shareholders attending BCE Inc.'s annual meeting received a $5 phonecard. This year's meeting was held April 30 in Montreal. A telecommunications holding company, BCE is the parent company of Bell Canada and has a stake in a number of Canadian and international companies. Look closely at the 1997 meeting card, and you will see pictures of other Bell phonecards, including the 1996 BCE meeting card.

Bell ran a contest in May to find a LaPuce card in Montreal and Quebec City phone booths and win LaPuce wristwatches and plane tickets. Purchasers of the $5 LaPuce Adventures card, advertising the Wild Booth Chase, could obtain a LaPuce watch.

A retail design in Ontario has been spotted with an error. The original print of the Chalk Pieces design bore an erroneous reference code, and was recalled. The correct code on the cards being sold is B20039. The recalled cards, bearing number B20019 (the same number as Watson the dog with hockey stick) should be available through the collectors' club upon special request. Like the LaPuce Chutes au Rats error card, Bell will charge no premium for the error card.

Freedom Telecard Network

Not all phonecard issuers are a rollicking success. FTN, a network marketing company, began with much hope and promise on May 7, 1996 in Calgary, Alberta. Telesonic Communications, Inc. (TCI) printed up FTN's first four double-branded cards using images of Canada: a loon with its young, a lighthouse, two polar bears, and Moraine Lake in the Rockies. (At least two of these pictures, the loon and the Rockies, are also TCI retail cards.) Out of 6,000 cards printed, 500 were sent to FTN, but the cards were never put into service.

FTN then approached Powertel Communications in Calgary. I understand that least one card was produced, but details about the FTN/Powertel card(s) were not available at press time. Like TCI, Powertel did not activate the FTN cards. FTN ceased operations in December 1996, without an active card to its name. TCI would consider selling its inactive FTN cards if there were any interest in cards from a defunct company.

PowerTel Communications

The Canadian Hockey League held its playoffs for the Memorial Cup championships in Hull, Quebec in May. Powertel issued a set of seven cards to commemorate the most important event in Canadian junior hockey. It is not clear how many of these cards were produced; Powertel indicates that 834 of each design were made, while the cards themselves are numbered out of 10,000. Also, the reverse of all designs contain spelling errors in the French instructions.

BABY BELL NOTES

Among new developments from the RBOCs is the April merger of Pacific Telesis (Pacific Bell and Nevada Bell) and SBC Communications (Southwestern Bell), which prompted Pacific Bell to issue new cards marking the union.

Four cards, all with the same design but in different denominations, were issued to commemorate the merger. Denominations and mintages are $5 (15,000 issued), $10 (4,000), $20 (750) and $50 (250). PacBell's web site has a nice listing, with illustrations, of most of the phonecards they have issued: www.pacbell.com.

While the corporate headquarters will be in San Antonio, Texas, the company will maintain headquarters of Pacific Bell and Nevada Bell in California and Nevada. SBC's Pacific Telesis Group includes Pacific Bell, Pacific Bell Mobile Services and Nevada Bell. Other subsidiaries include Southwestern Bell and Cellular One, and SBC also owns part of Telmex, the Mexican state-owned phone company. The merger, creating a company with a market value of $47.9 billion and annual revenues of $23.5 billion, was hailed as the third largest in U.S. history.

U S WEST

April 22, 1997 was U S WEST Telecard Night at Coors Field in Denver. The company is a major sponsor of the Colorado Rockies baseball team. The first 20,000 fans received a complimentary $1 card (a total of 22,000 were made). On-site vending machines sold $5 and $10 versions of these phonecards, in quantities of 5,000 and 2,000, respectively. Some of all three cards were held back for collectors, and may be purchased from U S WEST's exclusive agents, USACard and KARS Unlimited.

Sharp-eyed collectors will notice that the three Rockies cards are among the first U S WEST issues to carry expiration dates. U S WEST began putting expiration dates on their cards this year, according to Randy Tada, telecard marketing manager at U S WEST. So far, the cards that have expiration dates (December 1998) are the Seattle Reign $1 card (Moneycard Collector, "New Issues," May 1997 - 3,500 issued); both the red and blue versions of the TeleCard Times anniversary card (Moneycard Collector, "Baby Bell Notes," June 1997 - 10,250 issued) and the Rockies cards.

Tada says the move to expiration dates was due to escheat considerations in some states as well as the urging of the U S WEST accounting and finance departments to get the phone-time obligation off the company's books. Tada says that when a card is issued, it generally will have an expiration date which will give the user at least two years to use the card.

U S WEST also produced $5 cards for the Portland Rose Festival. The cards were sold on the grounds of the month long event, which started May 29th. The cards are also available from the official distributors.

A $1 complimentary phonecard, that isn't marked U S WEST, but which will still work in their phones, was issued for CardTech/SecurTech in Orlando, Fla. Giesecke & Devrient (G&D), which manufactures U S WEST's phonecards, produced this special card for the May 19-22 trade show. The Global Chipcard Alliance is working towards worldwide chip phonecard interoperability. Because of its participation, U S WEST payphones accept GTE cards, too, which include the new Hawaiian Telephone chip phonecards, as well as the special card produced by G&D. More U S WEST phonecards are in the works, but, for now, they remain a secret.

Pacific Bell; Merger Commemorative; four denominations; total of 20,000 issued; April 1997.

U S WEST; Coloradio Rockies $1 complimentary; 22,000 issued; April 1997.

NYNEX

The NYNEX Collector Club is still in operation. Remember, of all the magnetic stored memory Change Cards, only the $10 Jacob Javits Center card (issued in 1997) never went to retailers. Thus, you can only get it through the club.

NEW ISSUES

That wascally wabbit's back

Tell-One; Bugs Bunny stamp; 10 minutes; 500 issued; May 1997.

Tell-One, producers of other stamp phonecards such as the Marilyn Monroe/James Dean and Big Band issues, also has produced a jumbo version, 50 minted. The first 50 regular cards are being offered with their jumbo counterparts as a matched serial-numbered set.

One for the trophy case

Strategic Telecom Systems; Danny Wuerffel; 10 minutes; 5,000 issued; April 1997.

Card, with Cable & Wireless time, honors the 1997 Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback of the Florida Gators with a lithograph by artist Daniel Moore depicting Wuerffel in action against the arch-foe Florida State Seminoles. There are 100 cards signed by the artist and Wuerffel, and another 400 signed by Wuerffel.

AT&T cards at Epcot Center

AT&T; Spaceship Earth at Epcot; 20- and 40-unit versions; quantity unknown; April 1997.

The cards combining the popular AT&T logo with the Epcot Globe from the Disney World complex, went on sale in vending machines in Epcot's "Global Neighborhood." The card reverses read "Distributed by Vista-United Telecommunications."

New Visa Cash card issued

First Union; G&DAmerica - Smart Future; $10 denomination; 1,000 issued; May 1997.

To promote its participation in the 1997 CardTech SecurTech held in May in Orlando, Fla., Giesecke & Divrient America, Inc. issued through First Union this striking new Visa Cash card.

Looking chipper

Closed-loop cash cards — disposable stored-value cards issued for a single event or stadium — are growing in popularity, and here's a batch of nice ones.

Precis Card Systems, Oklahoma City, Okla., issued four cards for use at Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox. The cards mark the first non-exhibition meeting of the two Chicago ball clubs since the 1906 World Series. Cards could be used to purchase concessions and souvenirs.

Technology@Work, Jacksonville, Fla., introduced a stored-value card for the Orange Blossom Festival in Riverside, Calif., in April. The cards could be used for food, souvenirs, rides, games and other such activities. The company also produced an SVC for the annual Co-op Convention in April at a resort in Indian Wells, Calif. The cards could be reloaded up to $300, and were accepted at the resort hotel's pro shop, gift shop and deli.

Also in April, West Sports Marketing unveiled Sports Cash, four cards featuring different car models for the Greater Greensboro Chrysler Classic. The intended customers for such card programs include fairs, festivals, carnivals, other golf tournaments and NASCAR events. Leftover Greater Greensboro cards might be used in future years.

Precis Card Systems; Cubs-White Sox logo; $20 denomination; 30,000 issued; June 1997

Technology @ Work; Co-op Convention; $10 denomination; 500 cards issued; April 1997.

Precis Card Systems; White Sox stadium three-card puzzle set; $20 denomination; 5,000 sets issued; June 1997.

Creative Communications' DARE

Creative Communications; National DARE Day; 10 minutes; 250 issued; April 1997.

Cards were produced for the Drug Awareness and Resistance Education campaign, which held National DARE Day in Houston this year. The cards were presented to DARE's board of directors and sponsors.

West Sports Marketing; Greater Greensboro/Chrysler four-card set; variable denominations; 15,000 issued; April 1997.

Technology @ Work; Orange Blossom festival; variable denominations; 43,000 cards issued; April 1997.

Famous fowl phonecard

Destiny Telecomm; San Diego Chicken; 5 minutes; 5,000 issued; May 1997.

All of the net proceeds from the card, first in a planned series, benefit the Food Bank of Corpus Christi, Texas. The first card features the famous mascot in a baseball pose. Future cards are scheduled to include hockey, basketball and other poses. Best known as the "San Diego Chicken," the man in the fowl suit, Ted Giannoulas, has trademarked the name "The Famous Chicken," and performed in all 50 states and nine different countries.

Go, go Golden Gophers

Frontier/MSD Collectibles; Golden Gophers Big Ten Champs; 10 units; 5,000 issued; April 1997.

Cards with Frontier time by Minnesota-based MSD Collectibles are emblazoned with the Coca-Cola logo and carry "Big 10" units of time, marking the University of Minnesota's conference basketball championship.

We love Lucy

Karis Communications/WorldTel; "I Love Lucy" two 5-card series; $5 denomination each; 1,500 of each set issued; April 1997.

WorldTel Communications has produced five numbered cards in each "Lucy" series, including 500 sets in the first series (Lucy on the Phone, The Chocolate Factory, Vitameatavegamin, Portrait of Desi and Lucy and California, Here We Come) being sold in albums that include letters of authenticity signed by Lucie Arnaz and Desi Arnaz Jr. WorldTel's name does not appear on the cards, which have service provided by Karis Communications. The other series includes scenes from "The Housewarming," "1956 Christmas Show," "Lucy Goes to Scotland," "1952 - The Operetta" and "1952 - The Moustache" episodes.

Yummy, yummy, yummy

TresCom International; Candy Fund-raiser Series; 5 unit (Fortune cookies), $5 denomination (Pretzels, Hard-shell candy), $10 denomination (Assorted gumdrops), and $20 denomination (Chocolate kisses); quantity unavailable; April 1997.

Cards are used for fund-raising purposes by schools and organizations. TresCom offers up to 50 percent profit for the fund-raising group.

AT&T does a slam dunk

AT&T; NBA series; 15-, 30- and 60-minute denominations; quantity unknown; May 1997.

The official AT&T NBA 29-card series mentioned in June's Moneycard Collector (Page 45) are now available. Images include: 15-minute cards, Dikembe Mutombo, Dino Radja, Bobby Phillips, Shawn Bradley, Dale Ellis, Latrell Sprewell, Vin Baker, Tom Gugliotta, Jim Jackson, Clifford Robinson, David Robinson and Juwan Howard; 30-minute cards, Brent Barry, Alonzo Mourning, Anfernee Hardaway, Clarence Weatherspoon, Kevin Johnson, Mitch Richmond, Shawn Kemp, Karl Malone and Greg Anthony; and 60-minute cards, Glen Rice, Toni Kukoc, Grant Hill, Clyde Drexler, Reggie Miller, Eddie Jones, Charles Oakley and Damon Stoudamire.

Collectors interested in obtaining these cards should contact their favorite dealer or consult Moneycard Collector's "Dealer Directory." Page 34.

Revving it up for Hermie

Cable & Wireless; Hermie Sadler; 5 minutes; 1,500 issued; May 1997.

The Hermie Sadler Fan Club distributed the cards to its members. Sadler races in NASCAR's Busch Grand National Series.

Hanging out at the post office

U.S. Postal Service; Dinosaur Series; $10 denomination (Pteranodon, Tyrannosaurus) and $20 denomination (Brontosaurus); 75,000 issued (Pteranodon, Brontosaurus) and 100,000 issued (Tyrannosaurus); 1997.

U.S. Postal Service; Spaceship Series; $10 and $20 denominations; 175,000 of each; 1997.

FirstClass PhoneCards, all with time carried by American Express Telecom, also include a Floral Stamp Series and individual cards with basketball, Mother's Day, puppy and kitten, bald eagle and congratulations images.

Taking a shine to telecards

Destiny Telecomm; Chromium Graphics series; 2,970 of each card; May 1997.

First in a year-long series of cards featuring old magazine covers, stamps and original oil paintings of trains framed against a foil-like background. There is a jumbo in both the stamp and locomotive series, each with a mintage of 990 cards.

Mark of Distinction

Strategic Telecom Systems; Bill Blass; 10 minutes; 1,001 issued; April 1997.

The card, with time by Athena, was attached to Bill Blass Black Label clothing as a Father's Day promotion. It also featured an IVR survey asking buyers about their purchase and other Bill Blass clothing preferences.

Up, and in arms, from CDG

Communications Design Group; Joint Standoff Weapon; 5 minutes; 750 issued; April 1997.

Card featuring a pair of armed-to-the-teeth military jet fighters was issued for Texas Instruments.

MAT offers card that rocks

Mountain America Technologies Inc.; The Collector's Edge; 10 minutes; 250 issued; February 1997.

The Collector's Edge is a leading source of fine minerals for collectors, including the Sweet Home Rhodochrosite shown on the card.

Creative Communications' CALLCASH

Creative Communications; CALLCASH $1 Bill; 4 minutes; quantity unavailable; March 1997.

Paper punch-out cards — offered in regular $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100 denominations — come in a carrier resembling the corresponding U.S. currency, with each bill's portrait holding a telephone. Time is by EqualNet Corp.

That old college phonecard

Capital Communications Group; Stephen F. Austin State University; 10 minutes; 1,000 issued; April 1997.

Cards, with time by Cable & Wireless, were produced for the university in Nacogdoches, Texas.

Elvisly Yours

World Telecom/AmeriVox UK; Elvisly Yours 2-card set; £5 denomination each; 2,001 of each issued; January 1997.

The King was a smash in Great Britain, with all of the cards already sold. The mintage of each not only refers to Elvis Presley's theme tune, but also to the date of his death — 8/16/1977 adds up to 2001. Ironically, the cards are not good for calls to the U.S.
