••• FUN 1999 SHOW INFORMATION UPDATE •••

A Phonecard/SVC Section has been established at the 44th Annual Florida United Numismatists (FUN) Show, Jan '99. Response from Collectors and Dealers has been fantastic. From comments we have received, the FUN Show will be the place to be in 1999. Hotel & travel information is available upon request. Make your plans now to attend and be a part of the 'fun' in Orlando. The new phonecard/SVC Section will be included in national advertisements by the FUN Organization as part of their usual show promotions and in MoneyCard Collector. Plans are being made for a Collector get-together one evening. Dealer Booth applications for the Phonecard/SVC Section are available from KARS. We look forward to seeing you in Orlando.

ON THE MONEY

Summer in western Ohio provides many opportunities for bicycling – spending golden mornings winding through shaded groves, past fields waist-high in lush green corn that stretch to the horizon, up and down the roller-coaster hills that challenge and reward.

What does that have to do with moneycard collecting? As any cyclist knows, and any true collector will affirm, the journey is the reward. Just like it is nice to get home from a day of cycling and put your feet up, it is great to complete a collection, to get the final card that you have been hunting for months or even years. But the accumulation of those cards, the excitement of finding that missing one, the pleasure of meeting new friends and fellow collectors, the side roads that beckon you to explore new themes and topics – those are what make the trip worthwhile.

Collectors and dealers alike might consider a side trip that we hope will make the journey more fun. Next January, the Florida

United Numismatists show will be held in Orlando. It will be the 44th annual FUN show and plans are under way to expand what has been a growing moneycard presence.

Why? You can't argue with numbers, and the attendance at the show was more than 10,000 this year. It is the first major numismatic event of the year and it is not only a trend-setter for the hobby, but also a collector-oriented show.

For all the collectors and dealers who have been frustrated by the pervasive "trade show" atmosphere at virtually all of the industry's shows, this should be a breath of fresh air. And a final reason, one moneycard dealer points out, is that Florida in January beats the stuffing out of most other places.

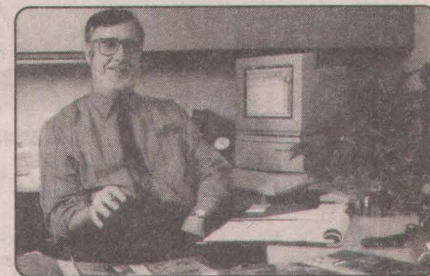

Scott and Kathleen Shapiro of KARS Unlimited in Ormond Beach, Fla., are spearheading the effort to bring more moneycard dealers and collectors to the show. Efforts are being made to group participating dealers on the bourse, and Moneycard Collector is planning to be there, too. We are hoping to have a display area for prepaid cards as well as possibly conducting seminars for collectors.

The show is scheduled for Jan. 7-10 at the Orange County Convention/Civic Center in Orlando. Bourse information is available from Cindy Grellman, chairwoman, at P.O. Box 951988, Lake Mary, Fla. 32795-1988. Phone (407) 321-8747 or fax (407) 321-5138.

Dealers who are concerned about table costs – not that expensive, Scott Shapiro points out, when you consider the standard features that are "extras" at so many shows – are encouraged to find another dealer as partner. KARS Unlimited has volunteered to provide information and coordinate that effort, and anyone interested in participating should call Scott or Kathy at (904) 441-1101.

More immediate and closer at hand is another effort to make the collectors' journeys more interesting. This month, you will find several half-page advertisements in our pages, listing hundreds of cards from dealers across the country. Regular readers will recognize that some of these ads are a departure from offers that highlight only a few specific cards. We feel that both kinds of ads have their places in the magazine, and hope that collectors will appreciate seeing the expanded listings of some of the more exciting cards available.

"Exciting cards" reminds me of an e-mail debate that I recently became involved in on the Moneycard List (moneycards@ListService.net). The bottom line was that some collectors wanted to remain phonecard purists, while others welcomed collecting any form of prepaid cards. We, of course, support the latter position. There is enough room and excitement for all kinds in this hobby!

Please dive into this month's edition, and enjoy the journey.

Post card entries pouring in for new contest!

Just in case you missed it last month, Moneycard Collector and some of your favorite moneycard dealers have teamed up to give you a chance for something that all collectors hold dear – free stuff.

In the July issue, we launched our "Card Critter" hunt. The contest continues this month, with a new Card Critter hidden in a dealer's advertisement. The Moneycard Collector Card

Critters look exactly like the ones you see sprinkled around this story, only much smaller. We have hidden one of them in a participating dealer's ad this month.

We again invite readers to look for the Card Critter – remember, it might be tiny. When you find it, send us a post card telling us the page number and the name of the dealer. Every month, we will have a drawing, and pick one lucky winner.

We will present that collector with a $25 certificate, good toward any purchase from the dealer in whose ad the Card Critter appeared.

The deadline for entries in each month's contest will be the fifth day of the following month.

The deadline for this month's contest will be Sept. 5.

GUEST COMMENTARY

Canadian pricing won't change much without more dealer input

As a result of my ongoing involvement in cataloging Canada's moneycards, I have spoken to a variety of people involved in the hobby. Many are impressed at the stunning quantity of cards and issuers here. Some, however, have offered constructive criticism of the market value of Canadian cards as published in the Moneycard Collector Catalog and monthly price guide. Here then is one person's view of pricing.

Let me start by saying that I do not look at moneycard collecting as an investment. It would take away much of the fun of this hobby if I looked at every card issued in terms of its future or present value. I would be terrified of leaving 14-plus binders of cards in my house when I go to the grocery store, let alone to work or university! Nevertheless, there is a need for at least an indicator of what one can expect to pay for cards through a dealer.

When the catalog was being prepared in 1996 and 1997, I did the research for Canada, unearthing in excess of 70 issuers including those out of business. Many of these companies market their cards in certain regions and are unknown elsewhere. (Try purchasing a Westel card in Montreal, for example.)

With very little dealer activity in Canada at that time, Moneycard relied on American dealers to supply prices on Canadian cards. Sadly, this did not happen to the extent of participation on the American side. This meant that the bulk of Canadian cards had to be priced by estimate, and yours truly provided those estimates. While I gave the Ohio team the liberty to adjust my market values if they were out of line, most were printed as is. Some were all right, others turned out to be way off.

In preparing issuer listings, my focus was on providing a complete history of cards. From my point of view, if a company has produced say 20 cards, I would prefer to see 20 listings with estimated market values than only 10 listings with extremely accurate pricing.

A number of the cards that grace "Oh Canada" are sold at the retail level. Quite a few issuers will sell cards directly by mail order, both retail and private. If one can go to a convenience store and purchase a chip or remote-memory card at face value, plus 15 percent or so tax where applicable, and this same card is still available from the issuer, to me the market value should be pretty close to face value.

Stagnating prices every month indicate one of the following:

- 1) The card is always selling at that price on the dealer market.
- 2) The card has no market with dealers.
- 3) The card is selling, but dealers are not keeping Moneycard Collector abreast of price changes.

So the moral of this story is: Collectors, if you take exception to a published market price, get in touch with Kathy Utz or Tom Williams. Issuers, if you want to see your cards in the "Price Guide," get in touch with your favorite dealer. (Submissions to "Oh Canada" are always welcome in Montreal.) And dealers, please send in your price lists every month! We need regular, consistent feedback to provide the best reference for our readers.

A call for your favorites

Next month's issue will mark Moneycard Collector's fourth anniversary. When we turned three last year, we put out a call for readers and dealers to tell us their favorite cards issued during the past year and their favorite cards of all time. The response was tremendous, and we spent several months reporting the results to you.

So, what's changed in the last year? What new favorites do you have? Have any cards been issued that have caused you to juggle the order of your all-time favorites?

We want to hear from you again, dealers and collectors alike. Like last year, we ask that you please limit your responses, to your five favorite cards issued in the past year, and your five favorite cards of all time. Please provide details, if possible, as to the card's issuer, time carrier, denomination, issue date and quantity. And throw in a sentence or two on what makes each card one of your favorites.

We aren't offering any prizes, just a chance to tell the collecting world what you like and why you like it. We'll collect your responses through Aug. 31, and share them with our readers in the upcoming months.

Please send your nominations via mail, fax or e-mail. If you aren't typing, them please print legibly.

We're looking forward to hearing from you!

PROMOS & OFFERS

The major buzzing you hear this month is about the set of four Disney "Mulan" AT&T 10-minute phonecards available with purchases of Nestlé and Stouffer's products and $1 handling fee per card.

The form was in the Sunday, June 14, coupon supplement to many newspapers. There is a limit of one of each of the four cards per household, and the sales flyer had a big "Collect all four" invitation. The cards picture the animated film's heroine Mulan, Mulan in Armor, wacky dragon character Mushu, and warrior Shang and to get them, you need to send in proofs-of-purchase totaling 50 points per card.

Among the brands involved are Friskies dog and cat foods, Ortega seasonings, Carnation, Quik (powdered or ice cream versions of chocolate), Nestea, Dole frozen novelties and others. The offer expires Oct. 31, and most likely involves hundreds of thousands of cards. To see these cards, please turn to "New Issues," Page 23.

Note about a VW Beetle offer described here last month: We visited the website suggested in July's column, and got a nice brochure about Volkswagen's hottest set of wheels, but we didn't get a phonecard. Others have reported the same. With that said, there are still plenty of other offers out there. Let's get to them!

• Starting June 9, a 10-minute "collector's" phonecard was free with the purchase of the Brandy "Never Say Never" compact disc when you pay $11.99 for the CD at Best Buy stores. There are 30 cards per store, and no rainchecks.

• Reserve and pay for your stay at Best Western with your Visa card, receive a 5-minute AT&T phonecard with a cartoon character on it, a Fuji Quicksnap camera, and a coupon booklet. Call (800) 528-1234 and ask for "FP." The picture of the phonecard is very colorful with a DC Comics superhero on it.

• Here's an offer we spotted that might already be expired. Winn-Dixie is giving a 5-minute phonecard when you purchase $15 worth of groceries.

• Call (800) 533-0143 to join the Kmart Baby of Mine Club. Kmart will send you a $5 Kmart cash card that can be used as a calling card - they do say you have to have a child a certain age - but our correspondent was unclear how Kmart planned to check that.

• There is a new phonecard out by Expert software. It's available at Sam's club. The card is a 15-minute plastic card with no scratch off. It has pictures of all of the Expert products and Sam's logo, and is in specially marked packages.

• Update! This offer in the June 2 issue of Family Circle is still available. If you sign up for a free membership to Toyota Sienna's Families on the Run Club you will get a 15-minute long-distance phonecard. The club provides a newsletter with tips and on-the-road entertainment ideas for kids. To sign-up call (888) SIENNA7 and leave your name and address. You will receive a flyer in the mail that looks like junk mail. Don't throw it away - the phonecard is inside.

• Seen at Circuit City - a free 90-minute phonecard with the purchase of a Toshiba 900MHz Digital Spread Spectrum Cordless Phone. The ad was spotted in a sales flyer inserted in a June 7 newspaper. Another offer was to buy a Toshiba cordless phone at Circuit City with a 60-minute phonecard offer attached. So it seems as if there are two different offers for phonecards with the purchase of a Toshiba cordless phone.

• There was a Free Father's Day phonecard from Shopko when you purchased three American Greetings cards. Offer was only good through Father's Day.

Contributing to this month's column were Ginger Gragg, Judy Medeiros and Jim Chudnow. Thanks to all for their help!

GETTING STARTED

It was very pleasing to discover our little articles are read around the world! I received a letter the other day from Fabio Mazza, the general manager of Intermedia Brazil, the advertising and promotional division of the largest printer of phonecards in Brazil. He mentions matter-of-factly that Brazil has produced more than 1 billion telecards since 1992. Think about that: if 500 US companies that produced telecards each produced two million cards, that would just equal the output of Brazil. Mazza thought — correctly I might add — that I gave only passing mention of Brazilian cards. My problem is that I didn't thoroughly understand them; he corrected this with a nice, concise explanation of the cards and the cardphone technology. It is repeated here because Brazilian telecards have beautiful designs and are common.

Inductive Technology

TELEBRAS' research and development laboratory (known as CPQD) developed the so-called "inductive technology" in Brazil in the late '80s. TELEBRAS has the monopoly for Brazilian telecommunications.

The technology was developed as a reliable and cheaper alternative to the very expensive Smart Cards and the low security Magnetic Cards to start the modernization of the Brazilian Payphones plant. Until that moment all payphones were token operated, with a high failure level (too many mechanical parts), high operating costs (tokens had to be permanently collected country-wide) and high maintenance costs (phones were frequently destroyed and tokens stolen).

The inductive technology card is based on a 12-mil ABS plastic sheet that goes under a metallization process (lead and tin baths) and receives an electric printed circuit. The printed circuit contains lots of "microfuses," each one is one unit of phone time.

After the circuit is printed on the backside of the ABS sheet it receives a protective "primer" layer in gray color that makes impossible to see or touch the circuit. The sheet is then printed with the relevant image using four-color offset process on the front of the card (plus a gloss layer) and one-color (black) silkscreen process on the back (applied over the gray primer layer).

Each card is tested to assure proper operation and number of units.

The user inserts the card into a slot located in the front of any card-operated payphone. This special reader has "sensors" that scan all "microfuses" and check how many remain intact. Then the number of remaining units (intact "microfuses") appears on an LCD display located above the card slot. The only way to know how many units remains on a card is by inserting it into a payphone.

After the call is completed and after a predetermined amount of phone time, the Regional Payphones Control Station sends a signal to the pay phone being used to apply a small AC current in one "microfuse." Once the current is applied the "microfuse" is Diagram shows how inductive technology "microfuses" work.

"burned." That means the gap is opened on that fuse. The LCD Display shows the new number of units remaining on that card.

In this technology, no damage to the surface of the card occurs.

In order to prevent fraud, there is payphone software automatically identifies the exact position the card was inserted (the user can insert the card in any of four possible ways) and confirms that the "micro-fuses" were burned in a certain sequences. If the card reader identifies any discrepancy between the sequence that "microfuses" were burned and the preprogrammed sequences, the payphone rejects the card.

Each card has one "microfuse" for each unit, plus 10 microfuses used for operation control and four positioning "microfuses" used to identify the position the card was inserted into the phone.

General Information:

- The commercial production of inductive cards started in 1992.
- There are five manufacturers in Brazil; Interprint is the largest.
- To present, more than 1 billion cards have been produced and distributed country wide.
- More than 350,000 card-operated payphones are installed.
- Inductive cards are available in the following denominations: 20, 50 and 90 units.
- There were also 10-, 35-, 75-, 100- and 400-unit denominations available in the past but these have been discontinued.

• Inductive cards allow local and long-distance calls from any card-operated payphone. Some specific payphones allow international calls, fax/data transmission and Internet, using inductive cards.

Now, I hope to hear from someone from Belmont College in Nashville, Bell South or Protel Florida who can tell us the details about the Belmont College trial and its special narrow mag stripe cards. Little is known of this trial and it is a distinctly separate type of card.

How small an order?

It is my turn to growl a bit. Recently, mainly on the Internet (so this doesn't refer to you!), our company has been bothered occasionally by some who order a very small amount of cards, and then balks at our postage and handling cost of $2.50. Or they enclose an envelope with a 32-cent stamp and payment for only the cost of the cards. I can understand the desire to save money, but the postage and handling is there for a purpose. It is there to encourage the collector to gather his orders together and send them in at once.

Here are the costs for handling an order. They are about the same whether it is a large order or a small order:

1. Write invoice. 3 minutes and 20 cents.
2. Pull the card from the safe. 2 minutes.
3. Package the card in protective mailer. 2 minutes and 37(+) cents.
4. Make address label. 2 minutes and 11 cents.
5. Accounting to process order through bookkeeping. 3 minutes.
6. Deposit check, or process VISA. 2 minutes.
7. Actual postage. Minimum 55 cents if protective mailer is used.

For just a minimal order we have 14 minutes (at $20 per hour that's $4.67) and $1.23. Total $5.90.

Be kind to your favorite dealer and gather your orders until they constitute a meaningful total. The dealer will still be happy to handle inexpensive cards if everyone plays fair. And the collector wins!

The columnist is a phonecard dealer in Mt. Zion, Ill.

German hobby rebounds from market glut

by Ulf Helmke

The most dramatic change in the German phonecard market since the last time we took an in-depth look ("Telefonkarten in Deutschland," Moneycard Collector, April 1996) has been the break-up of Deutsche Telekom, the state-owned national telco and the emergence of more than a dozen competitors.

Deutsche Telekom was converted to a private company, and while it faces competition from foreign telcos and sister companies of Deutsche Bahn, the German railway company for residential service, it remains the only company issuing prepaid cards. Most payphones now accept Telekom's stored-value chip cards and only a few coin-operated phones can be found. The public is generally familiar with the concept of prepaid phonecards and almost everybody carries a card.

If you think, though, that picking up cards discarded by Germany's 81 million residents is easy, think again. It is rare to find used cards left behind at a phone kiosk since most people are aware of the cards' collectibility. Any that are discarded usually go into special boxes for card recycling.

High interest in sports

Similar to the United States, sports is a main topic among collectors. Telekom, active in sports sponsorships, has issued many sports phonecards. Its involvement in bike racing was crowned by Germany's Jan Ullrich winning the Tour de France last year. For collectors and sports enthusiasts alike, a set of "Team Telekom" bike racing cards was issued. Between public and private issues, all sports can be found on German phonecards.

Telekom also has been involved in the arts, and cards have been issued featuring famous artists' works, as well as cards featuring winners of phonecard design contests. The latter are high-mintage cards, giving the artists nationwide recognition.

Stored-value moneycards have found their way into Germany and are being tested for different uses. The "Geldkarte" is a system introduced by German banks, and a smart chip has been added to the "eurocheque" cards used by most Germans. These cards are tied to a bank account and offer electronic payment. Unfortunately, disposable cards are not available.

Another moneycard is the "PayCard" ("International Issues," November 1996), issued by Deutsche Bahn and Telekom. The cards can be used to purchase tickets for Deutsche Bahn's trains or local transportation as well as for phone calls. Both reloadable and fixed-value cards are available.

While the prepaid card hobby has received a lot of bad press in Germany, there is a small but active base of collectors. Far fewer people collect phonecards now than five years ago, when new phonecards seemed to be issued almost daily to be snapped up by card-hungry collectors.

A lot of hype created card issues now worth only face value and left both collectors and dealers with a bitter taste. A large number of dealers went out of business or refocused their efforts on other hobbies such as coin and stamp collecting. Today, only a handful of major dealers and a somewhat larger number of small businesses remain.

The changes to the German market don't end there. In the early 1990s, card issues were dominated by speculative cards targeted at collectors or investors, but, before too long, people found out that no fortunes could be made with phonecards mass-marketed as investments. By contrast, only a small fraction of the cards released now are promoted as collector cards.

Promotional cards strong

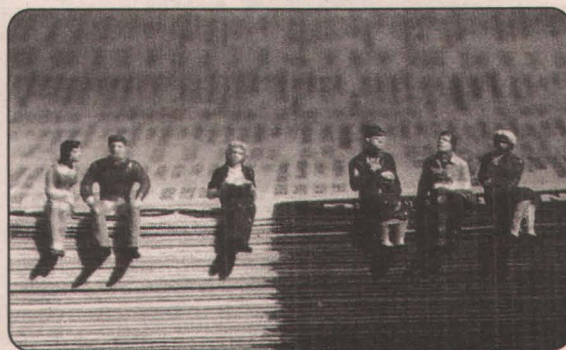

Unlike the United States, since Germany has a strong national carrier, Germany's collectors do not need to fear the cards' calling value being lost. Like the United States, Germany's industries have discovered the phonecard as an advertising tool and many public cards carry colorful advertisements. Phonecards also are used for various promotions and giveaways. One example is a card distributed by the Institute for Phonetics at the University of Munich. The card was a thank-you to volunteers who tried a new voice-activated computer via the telephone.

Collectors in Germany appreciate the sound market for phonecards. "The vast flood of private-issue cards led the market to a crash," says Thomas Deeg of Fürth. "The card boom came much too quickly and disappeared equally fast." Concentrating on railroad-related phonecards, Deeg has found Deutsch Bahn to be a serious card issuer. He also collects other train phonecards and cards he picks up on trips abroad. When phonecards boomed, Deeg got bitten by the collecting bug. Because of his long fascination with railroads, his collecting theme was easily decided.

Torsten Möller prefers automobiles to trains for his collection. A free phonecard with a mintage of Deutsche Telekom (Germany); Visual Communication; 12 DM; 300,000 issued; September 1997.

Deutsche Telekom (Germany); Young Art on Phonecards; 12 DM; on-going mintage; April 1997.

8,000 – rare when most public cards have mintages of 300,000 or more – started him collecting. Most of the images in his collection are low-mintage and hard to find. It is the hunt that Möller enjoys. He searches for cards at shows and swap-meets, buys from dealers and also has sources at car dealerships. “I appreciate that phonecard prices have dropped and cards are not being hoarded by the pack anymore,” he says.

Special issue cards

Special issue cards are still hard to track down, but at least they are affordable to the average collector.

Phonecards issued to the public are much easier to obtain. While they were available at post offices a few years ago when Telekom was part of Deutsche Bundespost, Germany’s postal service, now they can be found at newsstands, gas stations and even from conductors on Deutsch Bahn’s trains.

For collectors, Deutsch Telekom offers the range of public cards and cards issued as incentives by Telekom itself through its collectors service in

Deutsche Telekom (Germany);
Esso (Exxon); 12 DM; 360,000 issued; November 1996.

Nuremberg. Telekom also publishes “Cards & Service,” a free quarterly newsletter that shows card issues that can be ordered directly. The newsletter gives interesting information for collectors, card designers are interviewed, shows are announced and background stories are told about the cards. The collectors’ service also has a toll-free orderline so collectors can keep cards they purchase in Mint condition if they wish.

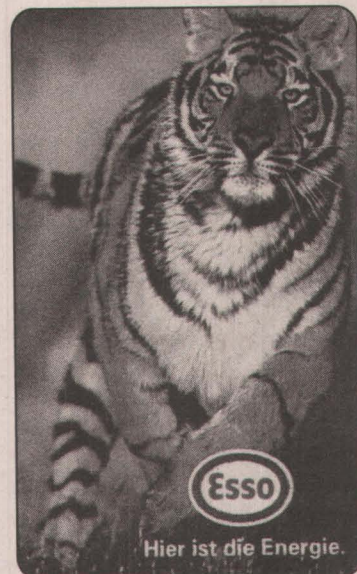

Private-issue cards are sold to collectors through the collector service of DeTeMedien in Frankfurt am Main. DeTeMedien markets private-issue phonecards for its parent company – Deutsche Telekom. Most are made available to collectors, but there is a series of cards produced that are not officially sold to collectors. German laws prohibit advertising for most drugs to people other than physicians and pharmacists. These drugs are advertised on phonecards delivered directly to pharmaceutical companies and not sold through collectors services. Naturally, some such cards find their ways in collectors’ hands.

Bernd Behl, a collector who uses Telekom’s subscription service for public cards, heard about phonecards in 1989. Since there were no card-phones in his hometown of Würzburg, he asked his parents to pick up a card for him at the Frankfurt airport. His collection of “P”-series cards with Telekom’s own advertisements is nearly complete, with only cards from the earliest days missing.

Being a stamp collector, Behl was concerned about forgeries and thought phonecards would be a safer investment. While the eventual appearance of fake phonecards may have proven him wrong, he still appreciates the easier handling of the cards.

Swap meets, clubs

Collectors have to rely on local swap meets or organize clubs, the oldest and largest of which is “TeleSammler,” with more than 800 members. Founded in 1989, the club publishes a quarterly magazine for members and organizes swap meets. It also has a regular presence at card shows and plays an active role in recruiting new collectors.

Topical collectors often find information about the hobby in special interest groups that serve more than one field of collectibles. A good example is the "ArGe-Pfadfinder" of Germany's stamp collectors club, Bund Deutscher Philatelisten. The group collects information on stamps that are scout-related and also has a strong phonecard section.

The German phonecard market will see more changes in the coming years. One major change will be the introduction of the "euro," Europe's common currency, in 1999. And with private phone companies competing with Telekom, it will only be a matter of time until we see prepaid cards issued by other companies, or even remote-memory cards. But even with moneycards and cellular phones, there always will be room for prepaid cards as a cash replacement. And there always will be collectors enjoying these cards, either used or in their original mint condition. As Torsten Möller puts it: "After all, it is a hobby and not an investment. But who knows, maybe in a few years ..."

BRAND NEWS

Viagra is on the mind of everyone lately and this month it tops the "Brand News" column, although a fiery Taco Bell Chihuahua is nipping at its heels and a quartet of AT&T-Disney-Nestlé cards also are vying for attention.

Innovative Telecom recently issued a die-cut card in the shape of the famous Viagra pill. The card has 30 minutes of time and was issued for Pfizer, the manufacturer of the pill. A total of 10,000 of the pill-shaped cards were issued as a giveaway at the 93rd annual meeting of the American Urological Association, held May 30 through June 4. Despite the high mintage, this could be a very tough card to find as the card was not made available to dealers.

Mercury Marketing issued a sharp-looking Cadillac Seville card back in May as a joint venture with USACard. A total of 10,000 20-minute cards were issued and sent to customers who purchased the 1998 Seville if they agreed to take a short survey.

Also from Mercury Marketing is a Disabled American Veterans card.

Innovative Telecom; Viagra; 30 minutes; 10,000 issued; May 1998.

There were only 400 cards issued as a recruitment award. The cards have 20 minutes of time and were used as awards.

¡Yo quiero Taco Bell! iTELSA is capitalizing on the popularity of the Taco Bell Chihuahua. One of its latest issues is a 30-minute card featuring the little rascal. The card was issued for Taco Bell and used as a thank you to employees for a job well done. Mintage is unavailable and the card is tough to find.

iTELSA also issued a card for Sears HomeCentral recently. This 10-minute card was sent to customers who responded to a television ad requesting photographs of customer's homes. Customers were then offered the opportunity to have their home chosen for Sears FREE home improvement projects and also received this card. Mintage is unavailable. While the card is rather plain looking, it features the Sears logo prominently for collectors who are trying to add to their corporate brands theme.

A logo-laden Cable & Wireless card was issued for The Outdoor Company and features the publishing company's Field & Stream and Outdoor Life titles. The 10-minute card, quantity unavailable, also was issued in April 1998 and distributed to advertisers and agencies. The slogan on the obverse, against a backdrop of mountains, reads "12 million men are out right now. Leave a message."

This month, we can show you the Hanson phonecard by RealTime that was mentioned in last month's promo column available at Best Buy stores. There were only 30 per store available and as hot as the musical brothers are, the cards disappeared quickly.

Finally, collectors are scrambling to track down the much needed Nestlé UPCs and forms necessary to obtain four different AT&T cards depicting characters for Disney's animated "Mulan." This will be a much sought-after set considering how it will appeal to both AT&T and Disney collectors.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

While the real Titanic sunk a long time ago and even the blockbuster movie's momentum has faded in recent months, the "Titanic Trilogy" offered by American National Phone Card is still sailing along, with all three parts being named to "America's Most Wanted" this month. A diverse collection of promotional cards, collector-oriented cards and show cards round out this month's list.

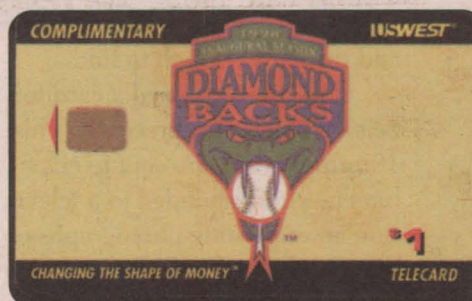

American National Phone Card; Titanic Calling Coin; 10 minutes; 1,912 issued; May 1998.

American National Phone Card; Titanic No. 2 Jumbo; 10 minutes; 1,000 issued; April 1998.

Continental Plastics; Intel-Card '98 Flowers three-card set; 15 minutes each; 100 sets issued; May 1998.

U S WEST; Arizona Diamond Backs; $1 denomination; 11,000 issued; May 1998.

DeltaCom (DLT); Chips Ahoy-Oreo-Nutter Butter; 15 minutes; 500 issued; March 1998.

Readers' favorites sought

Here's your chance to voice your choice for "America's Most Wanted."

Readers who want to participate should send their top five choices to Tom Williams, Editor, Moneycard Collector, 911 Vandemark Road, Sidney, OH 45365. Submissions may also be sent via e-mail to <twilliams@amospress.com> or faxed to (937) 498-0876. We'll draw one lucky winner each month to receive a genuine Moneycard Collector T-shirt.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector. All dealers are encouraged to participate by faxing a list of their company's top sellers, including stored-value and any older or foreign cards in which their customers are interested to (937) 498-0876 by the 16th of each month. This month's AMW is courtesy of Acme Telecards Inc.; B.A.B. Collectibles; Global Telecard Company; KARS Unlimited; Phone Card Connection; TW Phonecards; United America; USACard Corp.

HOT CARDS

Welcome to Hot Cards. This list represents the most heavily sold and traded cards within the last month. Due to the size of the Price Guide, it is often very time-consuming for readers to make their way through the listings in a short amount of time. We created HOT CARDS to provide you trends information quickly, accurately and concisely. Prices reflected on this page are dealer asking/selling prices for only this month.

NUMBERING SYSTEM

a card depicting an organized, competitive sports-related image (comes before numerals, e.g. S125)

Pr (before #) = Private card issued for a customer, distributed by the customer at his/her discretion

Post-numerical descriptor (falls after the numeral)

#2 = Second Printing

the second printing of a card; a three, four or greater number can follow to denote the actual print run; occurs often with Canadian cards or unlimited run cards

a-z = error/variety

a card whose identical front or back differs from the card with the primary listing; includes language variations, but not denominational variations

M = model/prototype

full-front printed card, may or may not be full-back printed, never issued

card with an error that caused its destruction or recall

J = jumbo

an oversized or jumbo card

P = proof

artwork on front, blank back

R = replacement

a card that replaced a defective or recalled card

artwork on front, complete back with false or no pin, or word "sample" or "test"

BellSouth states that a grand total of 80M cards were produced for the trial, but the exact number of each denomination is not known. All remaining unsold cards were withdrawn in May 1995 and destroyed in October 1995. Most dealers estimate that approximately 15,000 of each card were actually issued, but the actual number may even be lower than that.

NEW ISSUES

AT&T; Disney's Mulan/Nestlé four-card set; 10 minutes each; quantity unavailable; June 1998.

Disney's 'Mulan' comes to phonecards

Promotional powerhouse features Nestlé branding, AT&T time and images from Disney's latest animated feature about a young Chinese heroine. The cards were offered through a sales flyer in Sunday newspaper supplements. Please see "Promos & Offers," Page 5 and "Brand News," Page 11, for more details.

Global One kicks up its heels

Global One, the international joint venture of Deutsche Telekom, France Telecom, and Sprint, announced in June that it had been selected by MasterCard International as a global service provider for its official MasterCard World Cup '98 prepaid phonecard.

Global One, under its agreement, will market and distribute the official MasterCard World Cup '98 prepaid card through special programs in more than 100 countries outside of France.

The launch of the MasterCard World Cup '98 prepaid calling card responds to overwhelming global demand among the millions of soccer fans and the general public who wish to commemorate the world's largest single sporting event – this year with 32 competing teams, an estimated 2.5 million spectators, and a cumulative television audience of around 35 billion.

Global One, in collaboration with France Telecom, also issued a 5-unit card commemorating soccer legend Pelé. That card is good only for calls originating in France.

Call (800) 821-6176. MasterCard cardholders in the United States may purchase MasterCard World Cup '98 prepaid calling cards online through the MasterCard website at www.mastercard.com.

Global One; World Cup '98; 25 units; 100,000 (approx.) issued; June 1998.

Making the list

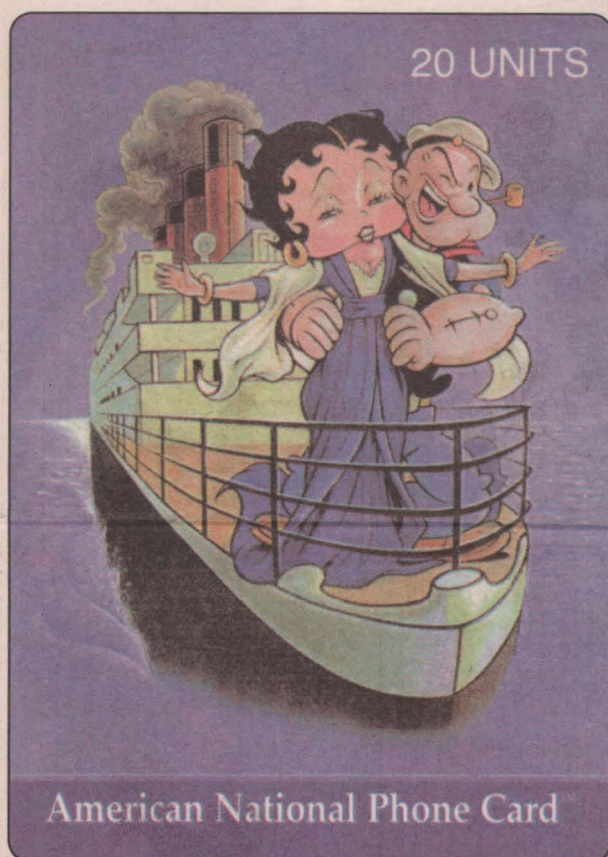

SLSC Inc.; Moneycard List; 10 minutes; 100 cards; June 1998.

The first five of these numbered cards were chip cards. The card, with time by MMC Interactive Exchange, was sold to members of the Moneycard List (e-mail "moneycards@listserv.net") and reportedly is sold out. This is the first in a planned series of cards. Contact your favorite dealer or consult the "Dealer Directory" page.

Global One/France Telecom; Pelé; 5 units; quantity unavailable; June 1998.

NEW ISSUES

Betty, Popeye and that big boat

American National Phone Card; Betty Boop, Popeye & Titanic; 20 units; 1,000 issued; July 1998.

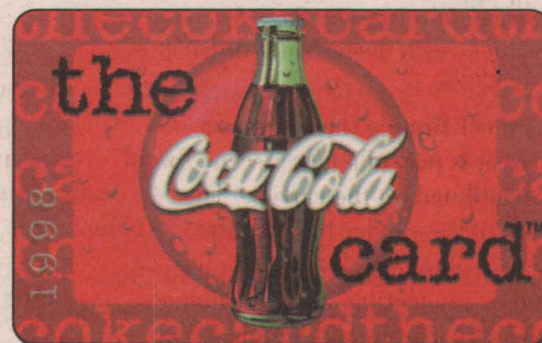

Fresh from the success of its Titanic Trilogy (a die-cut, a jumbo and a calling coin), the issuer's latest jumbo features cartoon characters Betty Boop and Popeye on the bow of the Titanic. Time is Frontier, and 50 Printer's Proofs also were issued. Call (818) 609-7666.

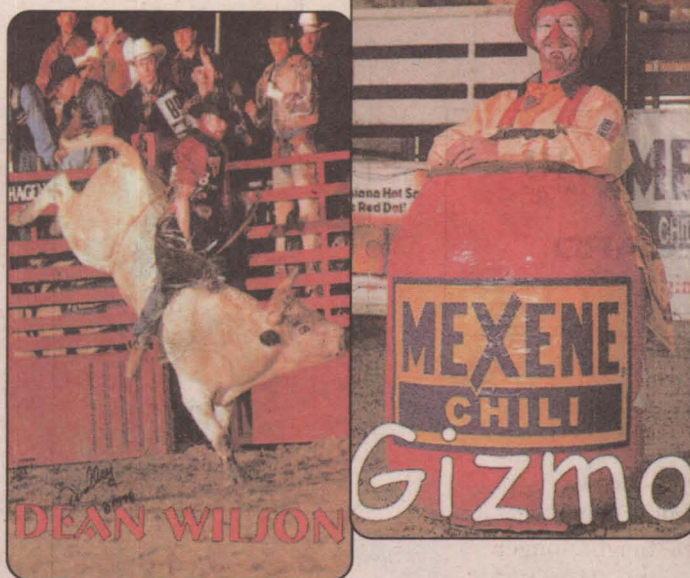

MasterCard; Coca-Cola ATM card; variable denominations; quantity unavailable; May 1998.

Coke is it, again and again

With more than 1.2 million instant-win ATM prizes available ($20, $40 and $100 denominations), most collectors should have a shot at winning something, and even if the card reverse says "Sorry, not a winner," they will have a nice card with Coca-Cola and MasterCard logos. This promotion, which runs through August, follows up on last summer's "Red Hot Summer" campaign. Also in ample supply this summer (many convenience stores had them stacked on the counter) are Coca-Cola coupon cards good for food and entertainment discounts. Those cards also feature the MasterCard logo.

Coca-Cola coupon card.

Ride 'em, cowboy!

Hello World; Cowboy Bull Riders Collection 15-card set; 30 minutes each; quantity unavailable; June 1998.

This set was produced on behalf of Cowboy Sports Agents Inc. of Oklahoma City, Okla., and features top professional bull riders as well as rodeo clown Gizmo McCracken. Rodeo reportedly is one of the top growth sports in the United States. Fax (405) 942-5102 or write OKC Gear, 5030 N. May Ave., Box 345, Oklahoma City, Okla. 73112.

Cards for a cause

The card's rainbow design represents the gay and lesbian "pride" flag. The card is intended for distribution at gay and lesbian events such as June's Summer Pridefest in Fort Lauderdale and Womanfest in Key West in September, as well as in retail stores and night clubs that cater to gay and lesbian customers. Time is by Access, and more cards might be printed, depending on demand. Call (305) 757-6138.

Q Comm; Pride Card; denomination unknown; 5,000 issued; May 1998.

NEW ISSUES

TOPOL PLUS 10 MINUTES FREE PREPAID PHONECARD "Uncover the White!"

Something to smile about

SCA Telecard Services; Topol Tooth Polish; 10 minutes; 75,000 issued; June 1998.

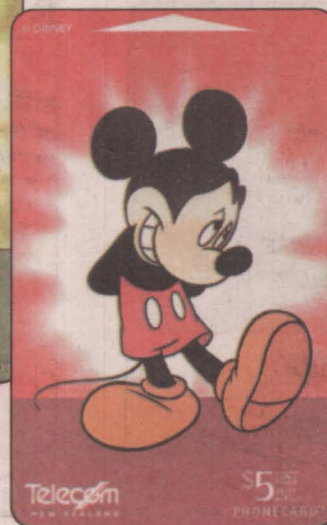

This card should interest collectors of odd-sized phonecards, since it is less than normal height, longer than normal length and has square corners. The Dep Corp. of Rancho Dominguez, Calif., ordered the cards, which were packaged in two groups. Twenty-five thousand were placed in packages of Topol Plus Polish while the remaining 50,000 were packaged with Topol Whitening Polish. Call (213) 860-3700.

Boy, oh, Big Boy

Cable & Wireless; Big Boy; denomination unknown; quantity unavailable; July 1998.

Card celebrating the restaurant mascot is part of a larger scene that is continued on the carrier. The back of the carrier has a short history about Big Boy restaurants and its pioneering accomplishments such as car hops and double-decker hamburgers. The promotional card was available at certain Big Boy restaurants. Call (914) 674-0408.

Event Masters/Telecom New Zealand; Mickey Mouse Part V four-card set; NZ$5 denomination each; 1,100 sets issued; June 1998.

Mickey Mouse's final bow

Part V concludes the Mickey Mouse series began in July 1994. There are 750 numbered sets in folders, plus another 250 "loose" sets. Disney's famous mascot is shown with various expressions. Call (800) 777-7610.

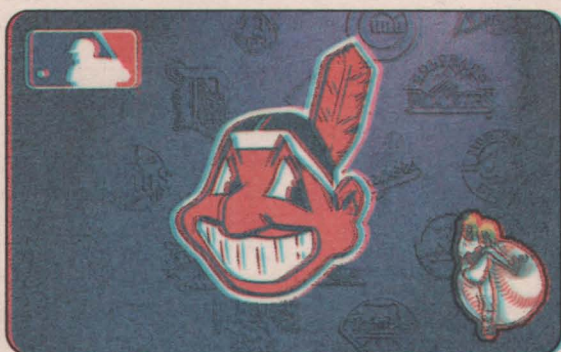

A honey of a collector series

Event Masters/Telecom New Zealand; Winnie the Pooh four-card set; NZ$5 denomination each; 1,000 sets issued; June 1998.

As with other Event Masters sets, there are 750 numbered sets in folders, plus another 250 "loose" sets. Disney's lovable Pooh Bear and his friends Eeyore, Tigger and Piglet are featured on the cards. Call (800) 777-7610.

NEW ISSUES

Take us out to the ball game ...

Telesonic Communications Inc.; Major League Baseball logos 30-card set; 5 minutes each; 45,000 issued (active); July 1998.

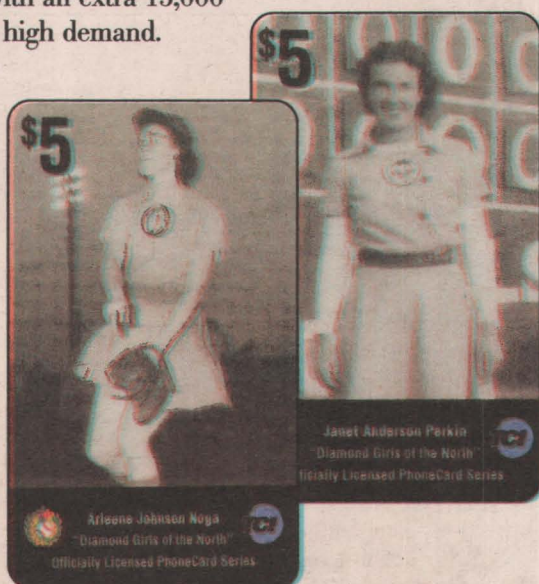

It might be called "America's Pasttime," but a Canadian issuer has come up with the latest promotion involving Major League Baseball, and has thrown in some popular soft-drink branding to boot. Telesonic Communications Inc. of Markham, Ontario, has launched the Canada-only promotion. The obverse of each card features a baseball team's logo on a striking purple background; the reverse of each has miniaturized version of each of the following soft drinks: Crush, Dr. Pepper, Mountain Dew, Lipton Brisk Iced Tea and Mug Root Beer.

To get the cards, collectors must mail in three proofs-of-purchase from specially marked two-liter bottles or 12-packs of the soft drinks mentioned above. Collectors are allowed to specify which team's phonecard they want, with an extra 15,000 cards printed in case of high demand.

The time is carried by ACC TelEnterprises.

Another Telesonic set on the baseball theme is an officially licensed limited-edition series (100 sets) of 16 ball players. The set marks the induction of a group of Canadian female ballplayers into the Canadian Baseball Hall of Fame & Museum.

Call (800) 811-9876.

Telesonic Communications Inc.; Canadian Baseball Hall of Fame 16-card set; $5 denomination each; 100 sets issued; June 1998.

Is this card coming or going?

Gazelle Telecard; Marketing 1998 Atlas; 60 minutes; 50 issued; March 1998.

When Marketing magazine wanted to produce a gift for regular advertisers in the magazine's annual atlas, Gazelle saw an opportunity to prove that the reverse of a promotional phonecard is as important as the obverse. The card front features a running list from edge to edge and top to bottom of all the recipients of the card, thus personalizing the card without extra expense. Cards were presented to recipients in black velvet cases, and sample cards were sent with each. The back of the card contained the logos of the magazine, issuer and time carrier Cable & Wireless. Call (206) 935-3576.

At the Phone Card Connection, we believe in the long term collectibility of this hobby. With this in mind, we look for first issues and early releases of the major players that will be here in the future. The U.S. Post Office is in testing for the Liberty Cash program, which will be used to purchase goods and services inside the post office. Rumor has it that the program is ready to move into its next stage and will be distributed on a larger basis. The first two listings in the price list were early releases and are no longer available. Part of the third listing is still available but in extremely limited test markets. Contact the Phone Card Connection for more info on these historic releases and other releases such as stamps on cards and closed loop stored value cards (SVC's).

SHOWSTOPPERS

The first show by the Greater Toronto Phonecard Club, held on June 7 in suburban Toronto, may have been the first in North America devoted entirely to moneycards and to the collector.

Sixteen booths offered a stunning variety of cards to suit every taste, theme and budget. Dealers ranged from Ontario-based Ben Osato, Darnell Inc. (representing Bell Canada) and Phone Cards Canada to Phonecards Del Mundo of Ohio, New York-based Com-Gal Ltd. and Elias Garcia of Puerto Rico. Some dealers focused on Canadian material, and others offered a wide variety of countries.

Launched at the show was a fund-raising card for the Sudbury (Ontario) Regional Police Pipe Band. Issued by PhoneTime International, the cards marked the 10th anniversary of the band.

Two show cards were sold at the show. Bell Canada issued a LaPuce/QuickChange card picturing some recently issued cards of theirs, as well as the logo of the GTPC. To obtain this card, guests could join the GTPC and pay face value; club members will also sell the cards as their club card.

A much scarcer card, however, is considered the official show card. The show organizer, Louis Kurowski of Mississauga, formerly published a phonecard newsletter under the name Telecard Trader (TCT). While the newsletter is no longer being printed, he has resurrected the name as an issuer trademark, which he will use to issue low-mintage show commemorative cards. The first TCT card is the card honoring this show. While PhoneTime is the carrier for this card, Kurowski intends to shop around for carriers for each upcoming card. All of the cards pictured on this card are from Canada – and from his personal collection.

Prizes were available to attendees and exhibitors. Frequent draws were made to distribute handfuls of donated mint, used and sample cards. A separate raffle was also conducted: first prize was an IDC Air Canada Series Two set (IDS Pr 69/Pr86) mounted in a descriptive folder, won by Andrea Kurowski, Louis' wife. Other prizes included a Moneycard Collector Catalog signed by yours truly, a Bell Canada jacket won by GTPC Vice President Dave Evans, a show card and subscriptions to Moneycard Collector and to the GTPC. I won one of five London Telecom Network phonecards produced for this year's Corporate Challenge in Hamilton, Ontario – a quasi-athletic event in which local companies put together teams.

Collectors of Canadian cards had a huge variety of material to choose from. Lots of Hello cards from across Canada were displayed, as were LaPuce and QuickChange cards from Bell Canada. Tom and Paul Frater exhibited an unusual error find: a set of Quick-Change Toronto Raptors cards (QCH S31/S34) without chips! (This set was not for sale; the Fraters wouldn't even venture a guess at its market value or how many slipped through.) Enough CommSen cards were available in different areas to build virtually a complete collection. Other Canadian issuers spotted include CardCaller, Canada

Telecom Network, Bravo and Freedom Telecard Network. Sales also were reported of Esso Extra, a loyalty card for Esso gasoline that has no cash value, but is used to earn points.

For the collector of international cards, the world literally came to Toronto. Elias Garcia brought a sizable number of West Indian and South American cards – I was especially intrigued by those picturing butterflies and/or flowers. More flowers bloomed on cards from Japan, Korea, and Singapore.

Visitors brought their own duplicates for trading from Belgium, Finland and the United Arab Emirates, among others. One guest from England showed me a draft copy of an upcoming catalog of Middle East phonecards that he is editing. Another dealer had many Asian cards, focusing on China and Hong Kong. Com-Gal brought Visa Cash and other cash cards from various locations.

After six short hours, I counted more than 200 new cards for my collection. Next year's show is already in the works!

OH CANADA

There are lots of stunning phonecards being issued by Canadian companies, and, like the United States, cards that are issued primarily for promotions have caught on and are striking enough to tickle the fancy of many collectors.

Telesonic Communications Inc.

Leading off the moneycard buffet this month are two die-cut Campbell's Soup cards. The same design was produced in English and French as a contest prize to encourage consumers to order Campbell's soup in restaurants.

The original run was diecut upside down, and will be held for dealer distribution until the program is over.

Purchasers of Umbro products at Athlete's World received a choice of three cards featuring soccer players. Holders of the Via Preference loyalty card for train travel can obtain a 5 minute card that uses two carriers: ACC Long Distance for land-line calls or Bell Mobility for calls placed aboard a Via train. The TD Access cards may become interesting items: the Toronto Dominion bank distributed these cards to employees for promoting telephone banking. TD and the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce expect to merge in the near future – if the merger is approved, the TD name and logo will disappear.

Cantel

Cantel is the wireless division of AT&T Canada. The company has launched a prepaid card service known as Pay As You Go, where one purchases a cellular phone, pays a one-time activation fee on the Cantel network, and thereafter buys cards for the airtime. A 60-minute card works out to 42¢/minute for Canada and 75¢/minute for the USA. The same concept is also available for paging, where cards are denominated in months.

Eton International

Eton issued a $20 card for the Rotary Club District 7070 in Ontario. This fund-raising card was launched April 15, and $16 from every purchase goes toward the construction of the Children's Hospital of Hope in Los Alcarizos, Dominican Republic. Network time is provided by Canquest.

San Francisco Group

This is a mini-update to the "Quik Takes" article in the April issue. This organization has issued a variety of smart cards to be used as gift certificates in 130 clothing stores across Quebec. In addition to the regular designs advertising each of seven stores in the group, and Christmas and Valentine-theme cards, special cards have been produced for Hugo Boss, Toyota, Wonderbra, Lever Brands and the National Bank, among others. At the company's annual stockholder meeting on June 4, each attendee received a $10 promo card bound into the 1997/98 annual report.

IDC Canada

IDC's continuing involvement with Air Canada includes 25,000 cards for the Skyriders program. Skyriders is a marketing and loyalty program for young flyers. Other recent programs include Pears shampoo, the Snow Maiden ballet and a reprint of the 15-minute Canada Dry Season's Greetings card.

SaskTel / QuickChange

Last winter, SaskTel produced a number of attractive designs. At the retail level, three Christmas designs and three winter scenes featuring frost-covered plants were available. A series of four Olympic cards were released in January, but arrived after the Olympic cards were discussed in Moneycard (March/April issues). These Olympic cards were available separately and as a set. Recent promotional cards include the 1997 Agribition (a large-scale agricultural fair) and an anti-racism card.

Canada Telecom Network

Smartalk Teleservices has acquired CTN as of June, adding to its earlier acquisition of Cardinal VoiceCard. The proposed intent is to retain CTN's Montreal office as the promotional arm of Smartalk Canada, while Cardinal's Burlington, Ontario, office handles the retail side. It is expected that both the CTN and Cardinal names eventually will be phased out.

Recent designs from CTN before the merger include a 90-minute promo for purchasing a Canon Bubblejet color printer, programs for three different Quebec-based grocery chains under the Provigo banner, and two denominations for the Montreal Gazette newspaper as a premium for new subscriptions, upgrades to service, or changing to automatic payment. This is the Gazette's third phonecard program; earlier cards with similar designs were from Between the I's in 1996 and Debitron in 1995.

Bell Canada / LaPuce & QuickChange

The next flyer from the LaPuce/QuickChange Collectors' Club will only appear in the fall. However, during April and May no less than 24 new designs have emerged. Four of them feature a $2 rebate from face value – $10 for the price of $8. At least two cards were commissioned by Volkswagen to advertise the new Beetle. And for the fourth year in a row, a LaPuce card will be promoting the Just for Laughs comedy festival in Montreal.

Club News

The Quebec Phonecard Collectors' Club, better known by its French name Collectionneurs des TÈlÈcartes du QuÈbec (CTQ), is now accepting membership applications. Dues for American addresses are US$15 per year, C$10 for Canadian addresses and US$20 for other countries.

Membership includes a newsletter published in French and discounts at MB Phonecards. Marc Binette, principal at MB Phonecards, is the president of CTQ. Monthly meetings in Montreal are conducted primarily in French and include an auction. The club will produce a QuÈbec-TÈlÈphone LaPuce card in September and hold its first show in November in Montreal.

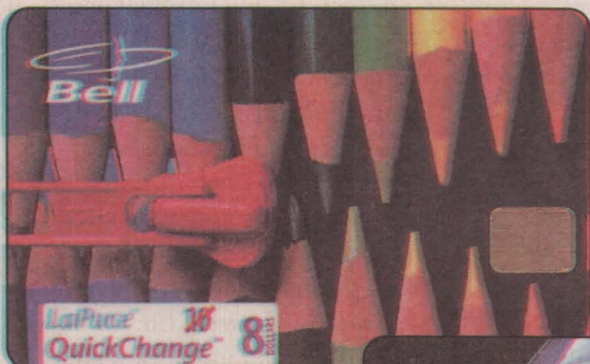

The Greater Toronto Phonecard Club (GTPC) has the same fee structure as CTQ. Monthly meetings are

Postal Service moneycards are attractive collectible

by Nancy Blackburn

Moneycard collectors have some attractive choices when it comes to services and goods offered by the United States Postal Service: Will it be stamps or phonecards? And will that be cash, check or LibertyCash? But don't be surprised if you haven't seen LibertyCash cards at your local post office.

According to the Postal Service, LibertyCash cards are only available in seven areas: Indianapolis, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Sacramento, San Jose and Lake Tahoe, Calif., and Orlando, Fla. An inquiry at the local post office, just three hours from San Jose, brought a very definite, "LibertyCash ... let me check ... nobody's ever heard of them." We first mentioned them in Moneycard Collector in March 1997 ("Stamp of Approval").

Actually when the Postal Service began to test market the LibertyCash Special Edition cards in specific cities nearly two years ago, a toll-free telephone number was also available so collectors could order special issues, regardless of where they lived. U.S. Postal prepaid moneycards were called the "new payment method that will make all your postal business easier," and are now advertised as the "only moneycards issued by the U.S. Postal Service." But more about that later.

Inaugural sets

These inaugural sets were produced in limited quantities and numbered, and each came with its own free collectible card carrier. Holiday Contemporary Set (1996) features four original stamp designs by Julia Talcott; 10,000 sets of four $5 moneycards were produced and packaged in a "Season of Joy" folder: Christmas Tree/Star, Santa in Chimney, Family Fireside and Holiday Shopping (ULC 10/13).

The Hanukkah Card commemorates the Jewish Festival of Lights and portrays the first-ever Hanukkah stamp, designed by Hannah Smotrich. The Postal Service issued 10,000 of the $10 cards.

A $5 POW/MIA Commemorative was issued to "honor the memory of our lost soldiers." The stamp art design is by Carl Herrman, and 15,000 were produced.

A $20 Endeavour Shuttle Card, featuring the "dramatic imagery from the shuttle mission STS-57" stamp designed by Phil Jordan, is "a tribute to the triumphs of our nation's pioneering tradition." The first 100 Endeavour Shuttle cards came with the official first day of issue cover of the postage stamp and were available for $30, on a strictly first-come telephone order basis.

A Flag series was also available in $5, white; $10, black; $20, blue; $50, red. These moneycards also came in a reloadable version. The USPS hologram was printed on the front of some and the reverse of others. (ULC 14/21)

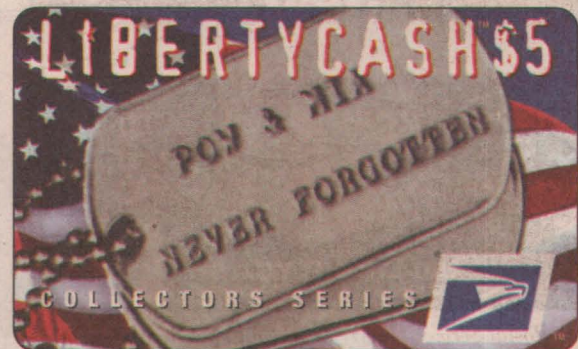

In late 1996 and 1997 several other moneycards were issued, some with area-specific designs: Florida Alligator, California Seal and San Francisco 49ers "Building With Class - Fiftieth Anniversary." Two other moneycards were released in December 1997: Kwanzaa and First Supersonic Flight. The Kwanzaa card honors the "proud cultural heritage of African Americans," while the Supersonic Flight was issued in tribute to the Bell X-1 flight that first broke the sound barrier in 1947. Both are limited to 5,000 each.

Enthusiastic about moneycards

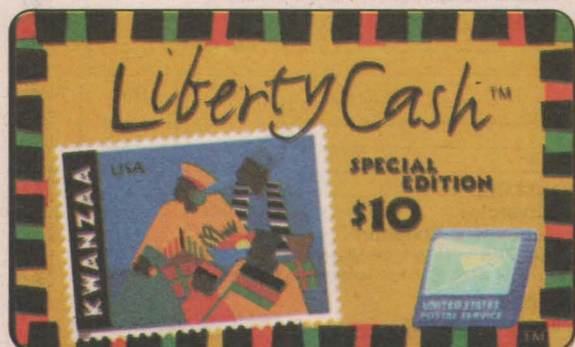

Scott Shapiro of KARS, Ormond Beach, Fla., is enthusiastic about these moneycards that he buys right at his post office: "LibertyCash is great! They are stored value, and we love them. They are fairly widespread, and I consider them to be part of the true collector utilitarian system because they are real user cards and not for collectors only." Shapiro considers the cards an excellent value and he buys them all the time for personal and business use, uses them up, and offers the collectors used cards for them.

Shapiro makes an interesting point that we might want to note: "Although collectors may be reluctant to spend dollars on cash cards, it is the way of the future. These moneycards of the past two years - starting with the Olympic cash cards in Atlanta - are the 'granddaddies' of what the 21st century will bring."

The USPS moneycards should have a special appeal to collectors. First, their numismatic value is apparent. They are issued by an entity that has the capacity of issuing billions of moneycards and could potentially become as commonplace as the cent. So far only a comparatively small number of issues have been produced, and they are still available in a price range that is reasonable. With a few hundred dollars and the time spent to search and trade, collectors can obtain all the USPS issues.

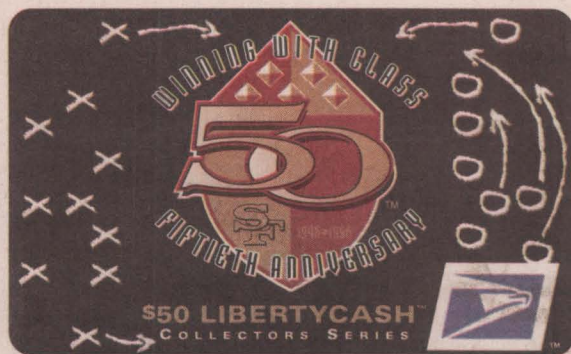

U.S. Postal Service Liberty Cash; POW/MIA; $5 denomination; 15,000 issued; October 1996.

U.S. Postal Service Liberty Cash; Kwanzaa; $10 denomination; quantity unavailable; December 1997.

U.S. Postal Service Liberty Cash; First Supersonic Flight; $10 denomination; quantity unavailable; December 1997.

U.S. Postal Service Liberty Cash; San Francisco 49ers 50th; $50 denomination; 5,000 issued; December 1996.

Prices on the USPS moneycards have been steady going up. According to Steve Schwartz, Sears Phone Card Department, Orlando, Fla., "The value of the first six LibertyCash cards have already taken an increase, and I expect prices to continue to rise steadily as the demand increases for them."

Postal Buddy cards

The hardest USPS issues to find are the two Postal Buddy cards that are forerunners to the LibertyCash. Although the Postal Service claims that LibertyCash cards are the "only moneycards issued by the U.S. Postal Service," an unknown number of cards that could be inserted into machines were available in post offices and shopping centers in north Virginia and San Diego in 1992-93. Identified as "Postal Buddy," these cards are printed in red and blue on a blue background, with two eyes and a mouth.

Asked about the availability of Postal Buddy cards, Schwartz explained: "As forerunners of the LibertyCash program, Postal Buddy cards are extremely difficult to obtain. The rarest ones are used cards, which are almost impossible to find as a receipt for purchase is necessary to prove the card was used - and how many people would have kept the receipt? An authentic receipt indicates the number that matches the card number."

And what are the chances of finding LibertyCash at your local post office? Postal Service advertisements hint that more LibertyCash is planned for the future, but no definitive answer has yet been given. Right now only two moneycards are available through the Postal Service (800) 782-6724: Kwanzaa and First Supersonic Flight. Hey, you can't lose - use the moneycard to buy phonecards and then keep the cards. That way you have both: phonecards and LibertyCash!

Many moneycards have post office interoperability

by Art Becker

Buying stamps and services from the U.S. Postal Service becomes easier every day. Right now, besides cash, credit cards, ATM cards and LibertyCash prepaid cards (see Nancy Blackburn's story, Page 36, and the ULC section in the Moneycard Collector Catalog), there are some other types of prepaid cards you can use in selected post offices. We'll get to these in just a moment.

What's more, there are plenty of other cards that can be used in many different foreign countries, at their post offices. Cards discussed in this article will include Visa Cash, Mondex, Danmønt and Japan's fumi cards. Incidentally, all of them are great collectibles.

Visa Cash

Visa Cash prepaid chip-based cards can be used at post offices in the upper west side of Manhattan, in New York City (see cover story, Moneycard Collector, December 1997). While CitiBank issues Visa Cash cards in that city, any unexpired Visa Cash card, from any U.S. bank, will work just fine. The cards can have a fixed denomination, or be reloadable.

Another partner in the New York City prepaid card trials is Mondex. Chase is the bank issuing these chip cards in New York. MasterCard is the parent company of Mondex, which only issues reloadable cards. Further, there are now co-branded cards with Burger King, available at several locations in Long Island (Garden City, Westbury and East Meadow). These Long Island co-branded cards can be used to buy stamps in New York City, too.

Interestingly, Burger King was a partner with First Union Bank, which issued co-branded Visa Cash cards in Atlanta during and after the recent Olympics. In fact, there are now enough prepaid cards featuring various combinations of soft drinks, hamburgers and french fries, that quite a topical collection can be built up just from them alone. You can see some in the Moneycard Collector Catalog (numbers FUN Pr40 & Pr41), and in back issues of Moneycard Collector (example: February 1998, page 9)

Outside the United States, Danmønt, in Denmark, is probably the best known general-purpose prepaid card that can be used at post offices. One design, showing some of the uses of the card, features a postage stamp, just so you get the point. Danmønt technology is the basis for Visa Cash, so Visa bought the company to get it. Danmønt cards are chip based, with fixed denominations. Hundreds of different designs have been issued. The first Danmønt test card was issued in early 1990. Coca-Cola, McDonalds, IBM and Pepsi-Cola are among the many topics available.

Japan's fumi cards

However, the country where prepaid postage cards are used the most is Japan. The first batch of 17 national fumi cards were issued on April 4, 1989. On Aug. 23, 1990, card No. 18 was issued, and it didn't even have a design at all! It was a type of card known as a white card. These mostly blank cards are available for purchase so that companies, groups or anyone else can print their own design on them.

What's a bit unusual is that you can go to a post office in Japan, purchase a fumi card, immediately use it to buy stamps, and then get the used card returned to you. In essence, it is totally free. The cards can also be purchased from vending machines outside all but the smallest post offices.

Just like Japanese phonecards, fumi cards have an all-over magnetic coating on the reverse, and holes are punched along the top of the card to indicate remaining value. For used cards, those with a single hole are considered the most collectible.

Originally, just the national cards were available nationwide. Between 175,000 and 455,000 of each card were produced. While that might sound like a large quantity, remember they were intended for nationwide use in a country with a population of more than 125 million people.

Commemorative designs

Most cards probably were discarded, as many people don't seem to collect anything new, preferring to wait until they have to pay considerably more than face value. Eventually, regional cards were produced, which were only sold in specific areas of Japan. Later, commemorative cards were produced. Just like the beautiful Japanese phonecards, fumi card designs cover the collectible spectrum. Photographs are among the most popular designs.

As you might expect, postage stamps are an occasional feature of fumi cards. Card No. 17, one of the first set, featured the four Dragon series postage stamps of 1871, Japan's first stamps. Another interesting topic is collecting both fumi cards and phonecards that have the same design. Japanese stamp catalogs listed the early fumi cards, but soon stopped this practice.

Here's how to tell the difference between a Japanese fumi card and a phonecard. While both are the same size, phonecards are thicker, and only phonecards have a large barcode on the reverse. The phonecard would probably have the NTT initials or symbol on it. The front of a fumi card always has the symbol of the post office, which looks like a T with a bar over the top.

Over the denomination will be the 5 Japanese symbols for "fu-mi-ka-a-do," which, when said at normal speed, sound like "fumi kaado (card)." Usually, additional information is printed over the "fumi card" symbols. Examples would be the series number itself, or what region the cards are from. Denominations are ¥500, ¥1,000 and ¥3,000. The word fumi means letter, as in mail.

You probably want to see some interesting examples of fumi cards, so the accompanying illustrations show a few. A three-card set was issued to commemorate the opening of the Kansai International Airport, built on reclaimed land near Osaka.

These cards are prominently marked A, B and C. Another fumi card that isn't part of the set is shown for comparison. Incidentally, airports are a major topic for Japanese phonecard collectors. The Asian Games of 1994 resulted in several fumi and telephone cards being issued, not to mention postal items.

In short, you have plenty of great prepaid postage cards to collect. In the USA are the old Postal Buddy cards (ULC 1 & 2), Liberty Cash, Visa Cash, and Mondex. Of note is the fact that stamp collectors themselves don't seem too interested in collecting prepaid cards used at the post office.

You rarely see any mention of them, even in Moneycard Collector's sister publication, Linn's Stamp News. Go figure. That probably indicates you still have a ground floor opportunity to collect these great prepaid cards.

Just remember, if you snooze, you lose.

B.A.B. Presents Coca Cola Madness Sale

During the last 4 months we have purchased over 100,000 Coca-Cola Logo phone cards from dealers throughout the world. All cards have the Coca-Cola logo, are mint, and are unused. They represent denominations from $1.00 to $25.00 from over 15 different companies. We just checked with several dealer-friends in Europe and Asia and found that the average price for the lower Coke cards that we are selling is $1.00 each. This sale is good for 30 days only (7/8-8/7/98) as we are taking the balance of inventory to Europe, but we feel that we should offer you, our preferred customers, the first opportunity on this madness sale.

- Lot #1. 100 Coca Cola phone cards - Starter Lot. At least 70 different cards. Includes $2, $5, $10, and each lot has at least (1) $25 card, plus we have enclosed 10 proof and 10 sample Coke cards from the 17th National. Regular Price $350.00. Preferred price $35.00.
- Lot #2. 500 Coca Cola phone cards - Dealer Lot. Too many different cards to count! Includes $1, $2, $5, $10, proof cards, and each lot has at least (7) $25 cards, plus we have enclosed 50 sample and 50 proof cards from the 17th National. Regular price $1750.00. Preferred price $150.00.
- Lot #3. 1,000 Coca Cola phone cards - Wholesale Lot. Too many different cards to count! Includes all denominations and each lot has at least 16 $25 cards, plus we have enclosed 200 samples and 200 proof cards from the 17th National. Regular price $4,000.00. Preferred price $300.00.
- Lot #4. 10,000 Coca Cola phone cards - The Madness Lot. Has some of everything and more! Each lot has 150 $25 cards, plus 1,000 extra proof cards and 1,000 extra sample cards from the 17th National. Regular price $40,000.00. Preferred price $2,700.00.

Attention Starter, Dealer, Wholesale, and Madness Lot buyers: No further discounts available so please don't ask. All lots are well mixed - don't ask for special selections. Please note: No credit cards accepted for this sale - checks, money orders, wire transfers, cashiers checks only. Sorry, no returns if lot bags' seals have been opened. Shipping extra.

STORED VALUE SPECIFICATIONS COMING. Visa International in June announced that common global specifications for stored-value "electronic purses" will be published later this year, paving the way for world-wide interoperability. The specifications will make use of public key technology and ensure that each electronic purse is capable of holding multiple currencies.

Joining Visa in the announcement were two of the world's largest operators of domestic electronic purse programs. The agreement between ZKA, Zentraler Kredit Ausschuss, which represents the German banking industry and operates the "Geldkarte" program; SERMEPA, the technology subsidiary of Visa Espan in Spain, which represents more than 150 financial organizations and operates the world's largest Visa Cash program; and Visa International, will mean that the 50 million electronic purse cards issued by the various members of the three associations will become interoperable. Commitments to adopt the new common specifications also have been received from the Italian electronic purse operator, SSB, and the national payment organization in Sweden. The move is significant for Europe, where the 1999 introduction of a common currency has created added desire for a suitable cross-border electronic-purse solution. In the future, the new standard will allow cardholders to make purchases with electronic purses in "euros" when traveling around Europe.

CELEBRATION VISA CASH CARDS ISSUED. A variety of Visa Cash cards have been issued by SunTrust Bank for the Disney-created community of Celebration, Fla. Among the dealers initially handling the cards are KARS Unlimited of Ormond Beach, Fla., and the Sears Phone Card Department of Orlando, Fla.

Images of all eight Visa Cash cards from the new Town of Celebration/SunTrust Bank Trial can be seen on the KARS web site, <www.kars-unlimited.com>. Disposable cards are: $5, $10, $20 (two versions) and $50. There also are reloadable cards for residents, children and nonresidents. The residents' cards have two chips, the second (contactless) chip allows certain special functions within the community. The nonresident cards are for people who live within the same zip code, but not in the Town of Celebration.

The planned community was created by Disney. (See "Quick Takes," January 1998.)

CARDS STILL FEATURE AT&T CANADA LOGO. Phonecards branded with the AT&T Canada logo are still being produced, according to Christa Veri of AT&T Canada in Toronto. However, no one debit card provider can claim exclusivity. Some programs are being outsourced to PhoneTime International of Mississauga, Ontario; others to ACC Long Distance through Telesonic Communications Inc. of Markham, Ontario. These issuers were chosen so that network services on these cards could be supplied by AT&T Canada.

When AT&T Canada closed down its in-house switch in March, "wholesalers" (AT&T's name for issuers using its switch for their own branded cards) using it were free to switch to any other carrier - including Canquest, BCS or NBTel. Look for mint expired cards from AT&T Canada to hit the market shortly.

GCN DOES MAIL BOXES, MEXICO, MOTORCYCLES. The "Global Connection Card" is Global Communication Network's most recent issue, coming out in March 1998. There were 10,000 cards printed and it is an international card. "Since opening our offices in Mexico May 1, we needed a card that could be sold in either country with access to multiple switching systems. The denomination of the cards can be set per location of sale," says M.G. "Mike" Michaels, GCN vice president of operations. There are presently 22,000 locations in the United States at which these cards will be sold and 19,000 locations in Mexico.

GCN issued three different cards for Mail Boxes Etc. in January 1998. The cards were available in 3,200 locations. There is a $15 (40-minute) card, 40,000 printed; a $25 (100-minute) card, 40,000 printed; and a $10 Christmas card, 4,000 printed. GCN notes that the cards are "virtual office" cards, offering the capabilities of mail, conference calling, wake-up calling, speed dial, reorigination, IVR and custom prompts, etc.

Each store can activate their cards via a dial-up activation system created by GCN, allowing the cards to be held in the registers at each location until the time of sale.

iTELSA NAMES NEW PRESIDENT. Dale M. Gregory, a pioneer in the telecommunications industry with more than 25 years of experience, has been elected president and chief executive officer of iTELSA Inc., Miami.

A member of iTELSA's board of directors since January 1998, Gregory served most recently as Frontier's senior vice president of corporate development. He previously was president and chief executive officer of Microtel Inc., and president and chief operating officer of Advanced Telecommunications Corp.

iTELSA Chairman Albert Weintraub expressed confidence in Gregory, commending him for his professional insight and leadership. Weintraub, who founded Microtel in 1981, said Gregory has demonstrated a talent for recognizing the direction and potential of newly emerging technologies.

"When we worked together at Microtel, Dale and I kept the company on the leading edge of the growing long-distance industry," Weintraub said. "Now we face a similar challenge with iTELSA, as we blaze new trails in the international telephone calling-card industry."

PRECIS TO DO PGA CHAMPIONSHIP CARDS. Precis Smart Card Systems Inc. has announced that PrecisCache cards will be used for the 80th PGA Championship, slated for Salaahee Country Club in Redmond, Wash. from Aug. 10-16.

Patrons of the tournament will be able to use the disposable stored-value smart cards to purchase food and beverages. The cards will be sold in advance and on-site to Salaahee Country Club members, guests, players and dignitaries. The design features one of the golf course's signature holes and the Wanamaker trophy.

William Haveron, vice president of marketing for Anything's Possible!, a Lewistown, N.Y., gift supplier, will handle on-site coordination of the stored-value card project.

A supplier to major sporting events - four U.S. Opens, Ryder Cup matches and other PGA events - Anything's Possible! has embraced the smart-card technology, saying it "will enhance the unique stature of golf events as well as improve the efficiency of making purchases."

SMARTALK, NEW MILLENNIUM SIGN PACT, Miami-based New Millennium Communications Corp. and SmarTalk TeleServices Inc. of Los Angeles have announced the signing of a multi-year, high-volume network services agreement.

As a network carrier for SmarTalk, New Millennium will provide local, intrastate, interstate and international telecommunications services on a nonexclusive basis. New Millennium will also provide its planned additional services such as Internet access, operator services, conference bridging and other enhanced services.

"SmarTalk will enjoy the economic benefits associated with this telecommunications services agreement and the ability to sit at the planning table with New Millennium in the future," said SmarTalk President and CEO Erich Spangenberg.

ATCALL PROGRAM ON CUTTING EDGE. ATCALL Inc. has created a prepaid phonecard to promote the new Gillette MACH3 razor to be introduced this summer. ATCALL has produced prepaid phonecards with a design of the new MACH3 razor on the front. Gillette sales representatives distributed the phonecards at the General Merchandise Health and Beauty Care Conference in June. The remainder of the phonecards may be used in subsequent customer mail-outs.

While Gillette also manufactures batteries, writing instruments and toothbrushes, the company is best known for its shaving products. The triple-blade MACH3 razor will be available at retail locations this July.

LET'S TALK TO SELL ATCALL CARDS.

ATCALL Inc. has announced that LET'S TALK Cellular & Wireless, a nationwide retailer of cellular and high-tech communications products, will begin selling ATCALL's prepaid phonecards. LET'S TALK will launch a program selling ATCALL's standard 20-, 40- and 80-minute prepaid phonecards. ATCALL is currently in the process of designing a customized prepaid phone card with the LET'S TALK logo on the card. ATCALL's prepaid phonecards will be sold in all LET'S TALK locations nationwide.

Based in Miami, LET'S TALK specializes in wireless communication and advanced communication products. Headquartered in Vienna, Va., ATCALL offers telecommunications products and services including residential and commercial long-distance, calling cards and prepaid phonecards.

DOCUSYSTEMS ACQUIRES SSI CUSTOM DATA CARDS.

DocuSystems Inc. of Morton Grove, Ill., has completed its acquisition of SSI Custom Data Cards of Edmond, OK. The acquisition creates a leading secure document and plastic card company, serving the transportation, entertainment, telecommunications, retail and membership industries. Terms were not disclosed.

"The combination of our respective resources instantly provides a much broader product offering of card materials, such as Teslin, PVC and PET, as well as expanded capabilities to personalize and package documents, all from a single source," says Tom Breen, president, DocuSystems Inc.

DocuSystems Inc. (DSI) is a leading supplier of transportation tickets, tags and related documents, with a growing business in plastic transportation cards.

SSI Custom Data Cards is a provider of Teslin transaction cards to the telecommunications, retail and membership industries. It was founded in Oklahoma City in 1969 to manufacture plastic card products for the identification industry.

Betty Is Back ...and Look Who's With Her!

AMERICAN NATIONAL PHONE CARD™

Presents

THE BETTY BOOP "FLYING" PHONE CARD

Featuring America's Sweetheart and her Handsome Co-Star

© 1998 King Features Syndicate, Inc. / Fleischer Studios Inc.™ The Hearst Corporation

While preparing for her Titanic return to the ANPC "Betty Boop on Tour" Series, Betty decided to take an ocean cruise - and just look at what it got her into! What it got her into really, is one of the cutest collectible Phone Cards ever produced. Only 1000 of the Betty Boop "Flying" Jumbo Phone Cards will be issued, and each card will be serial numbered. While this small number lasts, each of these beautiful full color cards is only $24.95. There are 50 only 2 Card Printer's Proof Sets at $99.50, with each of the 50 Printer's Proofs matched to one of the first 50 Serial Numbered Cards. Visa, Master Card, Discover, Amex and Checks are accepted. Phone, fax or mail your orders to:
