10 Oldies but Goodies

While new moneycards are exciting and collectible, collectors should remember that some previously issued cards merit their attention. Nancy Blackburn takes a look at some of those golden oldies.

12 Usage Preferred?

Dealers and issuers hold varied opinions on topics such as usage, expiration dates and exposed PINs and impact of those issues on the growth of the phonecard hobby and industry, Bob Brill reports.

50 A Christmas Collage

Christmas means different things to different people, and that is reflected in the multitude of phonecards that have been generated. Ulf Helmke shares his European collection, and we look at some card sets that could make grand stocking stuffers.

Baby Bell Notes

Senior contributing writer Art Becker tells about some new cards from U S WEST and Pacific Bell, and continues his look at the performance of collectible RBOCs cards with an examination of some older Pac Bell issues.

America's Most Wanted

The Crayola telecard leads this month's listing, and corporate or promotional cards make a strong showing thanks to the presence of the P's — pizza, panthers and a parrot playing prominent parts.

Collector Profile

A drive to collect and the common sense to know that card usage and public awareness are keys to the future help define the "Collectors' Collector," Alex Rendon, according to writer Carol Condon.

Show Stoppers

More than 4,000 collectors attended B&B's Southern California Collectors Expo, and while reactions were mixed, there were some dazzling cards at the show, featuring such popular images as the Pink Panther, Garfield, Betty Boop and Bozo.

Oh Canada

Canada Telecom Network, with distribution to 6,000 retail outlets and a new alliance with Telenova as its worldwide agent for the collectors' market, is an issuer to be included in anyone's Canadian collection, Rosemary Warren writes.

The prepaid phonecard industry is growing fast, but it is important that such growth should have a firm foundation and be resistant to the winds of controversy that will blow from time to time.

One way to make sure that the growth in our industry and hobby is firmly rooted is to adopt and support regulations that make sense. The International Telecard Association has hailed the Florida Public Service Commission's recent adoption of regulation policies as a "great victory" and has called it the kind of action that could be adopted by other states.

Florida will begin Nov. 30, fining firms that do not conform with the minimum requirements of filing tariffs with the commission. The state also has committed to a rule-making procedure based on recommendations that we think reflect good sense and good business. Providers across the United States should move to adopt them. They include:

- The value of the card must be made clear to the buyer.
- The name of the certificated entity must be printed on the card.
- Expiration dates must be made clear to the consumer.
- Refunds must be made to consumers by firms that suspend service.
- Each card must include a toll-free customer service number manned at least eight hours a day, five days a week, by a live operator.
- Customers must be able to learn the cost of an intrastate call prior to purchase.
- All charges for calls must be indicated, and time charged only for connected minutes.
- If the card is a sample or other nonfunctioning card, there must be clear information on the card to that effect.

Those rules should go far to standardize information on the reverse of phonecards. Yet we would suggest even further steps: Every collector and user should expect to find date of issue, name of issuer, mintage and denomination on every card, as well as, of course, the customer service number and recharge information — even if the card cannot be recharged, it should be so stated.

Consumers are used to seeing basic information on virtually any other product they buy, whether it is an automobile or a package of macaroni and cheese. Issuers who make sure that such basics are on their phonecards will be boosting collector and user confidence and reducing confusion, thus paving the way for strong, stable growth. Other topics worth considering include, when practical, issuing cards with exposed PINs and the removal of expiration dates, or at least adopting expiration dates that are deferred for a reasonable period after the card is first used.

We relish the excitement and potential growth inherent in competition. But that competition must come with the participation of the buyer, not at his expense. Basic information and standardized practices are a basis from which we can all grow. Let the groundswell begin!

CATALOG COUNTDOWN

There are people in this hobby who wouldn't do my job for any amount of money(cards). What holds thousands of would-be cataloguers at bay?

Is it the long hours researching and valuing cards? Hunting innumerable cards issued by hundreds of companies, large and small? Daily cubicle confinement with a jovial publisher on one side and a eagle-eyed editor on the other? Whatever it is, I'm happy to say I've got a brand of job security matched by few: you have to be crazy to want this job ... crazy about cards that is.

As we enter the final phases of the "Moneycard Collector Catalog of U.S. and Canadian Prepaid Phone, Cash & Debit Cards," prepaid cards are stacking up in my cubicle. They keep me company as I write letters to dozens of illusive issuers and track them down like fugitives from phonecard justice.

We want to do justice to our subscribers and collectors, who will invest in catalogs of their own when it is available in early 1997. The yearly catalog will be a companion to our Price Guide; armed with both of them, you'll be able to identify cards, inventory your own collection and continue to use the Price Guide as a way to determine what cards are moving. We've designed these two products to work together to make your collecting easier.

Who wouldn't want a job like that?

Phonecard presence disappointing

We attended the Tri-Star Collector Show at the Overland Park International Trade Center in Overland Park, Kansas City, Kansas on June 15. The only reason we attended was because it was advertised in the Moneycard Collector Calendar of Events. Because of this calendar, we mistakenly assumed there would be phonecards for sale or trade.

It turned out to be an overpriced ($7 entrance fee) sports card show with fewer tables than expected. Oh, by the way, there was one phonecard for sale – the highlight of our day! We found a limited edition, premiere issue 20-minute prepaid phonecard from the Legendary Ladies of Baseball HOF 88. The card was designed and distributed by North American Telephone.

The bottom line: I don't believe the Tri-Star Collector Show should be announced in your magazine unless they intend to sell phonecards.

North American Telephone; Legendary Ladies; 20 minutes; 2,000 issued; August 1995.

Pam Fuentes, Whiteman AFB, Mo.

Moneycard Collector has been assured that all the shows and other events listed in the Calendar have some phonecard participation, but there is no guarantee as to the level of that participation. We advise collectors to check with show organizers to determine the presence of phonecards. We're glad you found a limited edition card!

Let's Insist On Uniformity

Telenumia is an exciting new hobby that is just taking strong roots in North America. I enjoy the hobby because it gives me satisfaction, and I like uniformity. The first few telecards that I have obtained were standard size: 54 x 85mm and 30 mil thick plastic. I was impressed that at least over 200 nations around the world did something that was uniform in size. But then I found a Sprint Gillette card that measures 51 x 76 mm, and another that is 85 x 108mm. A 7-Eleven card came into my possession that is the correct dimension but it is paper thin.

According to recent catalogues, magazines and price lists there are cards of many different shapes: round, double length or width, heart shape, ovals, coins, etc.

Several articles that I have recently read in the hobby publications insist upon a standardized card made of 30 mil plastic. So why aren't the card producers listening?

If we are going to shape the future of this hobby, we should at least follow the examples of countries who have had experience with phone cards for 20 years. They are not putting an 800 number on a piece of paper or plastic that is shaped like a banana or a palm tree. If that image was contained within a 54 x 85mm frame there would be room for a bunch of bananas and a forest of palm trees.

I am sure that many of your readers feel the same, but to reinforce that concept, may I propose a survey to your readers? Produce an insert (like a pull-out postcard) that your readers may vote on the issue, and publish the results in your magazine.

Louis Kurowski, Mississauga, Canada

More on car cards

I am an avid reader of your magazine and like to refer to your nice article "Cars On Cards" (September 1996).

I am very impressed about the variety of car and racing car related cards. Since you also cater for the foreign market, I have enclosed a card issued in the British Virgin Islands by Cable & Wireless.

This is the first card issued in the BVI bearing advertising. There were 950 cards issued in 1995 as a sales incentive from the Pennzoil distributor in the British Virgin Islands – General Supplies Ltd.

There are no more cards available and used cards are traded as high as $120, while offers have been made for mint cards up to $1,200!

A second racing car card is in progress and will be issued later this year.

Cable & Wireless; Pennzoil racing car; $5 denomination; 950 issued; 1995.

No juice for Juiceline card

Enclosed is an O.J. Simpson card on which the 800 number does not work. Therefore, anyone I sell this card to cannot use it. I cannot contact the company since I have no knowledge of the company. Please advise.

Regarding your recent story dealing with phonecard problems, I feel it would help everyone solve problems by requiring the complaining customer to first try to resolve the problem with the dealer from whom they bought the phonecard, if possible. I am concerned that dealers can be slandered for dishonest behavior when there is only a misunderstanding or oversight that may be resolved quickly without bothering your excellent staff.

Jerome Stevens, LM Collectibles, Los Angeles, CA.

Juiceline Communications; O.J. Simpson; 32 minutes; unknown quantity; December 1994.

Moneycard Collector first warned collectors to beware of the Juiceline O.J. Simpson card in our June 1995 edition. The 800 access number on the card you submitted tells callers to dial the 800 customer service number on the card. The customer service number rings constantly busy. The 800 number listed on the card to order more cards is not in service. Calls to the Juiceline Communications number were not returned. One prominent dealer informs us that the Juiceline cards never worked – the time was never paid for and the cards were never activated.

BABY BELL NOTES

Baby Bell Notes, for the last two months, has featured value appreciation information for Ameritech and NYNEX. This month, we've got news about some new issues. Plus we'll take a look at Pacific Bell's prepaids — they've appreciated nicely during the last few years.

U S WEST issued 2,000 $5 cards for the Minnesota State Fair, which was held from Aug. 22 to Labor Day. Most of the phonecards were sold at the fair's gift shop, and at a U S WEST exhibit. A few cards might still be available to U S WEST Collector Club members, by calling (800) 739-3339. When Moneycard Collector previously reported this information, the final card design wasn't available.

Pacific Bell issued a set of two cards, in July, for Kinko's Copy Centers. These $10 and $20 cards are available only from vending machines at Kinko's, and not from PacBell's 800 number. The Kinko's cards are rechargeable, though that information is not provided on the cards. After the PIN is entered, the caller hears a series of prompts, including information on how to add value from a credit card or another phonecard. Cards can be recharged in increments of $5, $10, $20 and $50. Plans are for all PacBell cards to have recharge capability, but for now, the recharge feature only applies to the Kinko's cards.

Two cards were issued by PacBell for the De Anza Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America. This nationwide organization performs good works in its communities. California counties of San Diego, Imperial, Orange, Riverside and San Bernadino make up the service area of the De Anza Chapter. There were 2,100 $5 cards and 900 $10 cards produced. These cards also are not available from PacBell. They are being marketed directly to the Pioneers membership. PacBell is not the only RBOC issuing Telephone Pioneers of America phonecards: NYNEX also issued one which wasn't available to the general public either, except through dealers.

Besides the $10, $20 and $50 Republican National

U S WEST; Minnesota State Fair; $5 denomination; 2,000 issued; August 1996.

Convention PacBell phonecards, 300 special $5 cards were produced, to be given to VIPs. PacBell had a booth at the convention, held in San Diego, and sales were reported as good. Incidentally, the $5 cards were not available at the booth.

Pac Bell early issues

Speaking of PacBell, here is some information about their very popular early issues. Keep in mind that, while Pacific Bell is owned by Pacific Telesis, which also owns Nevada Bell, PacBell's service area consists solely of the state of California.

Three sets of PacBell phonecards were issued, as a trial, in October 1994. These sets contained denominations of $5, $10 and $20, and had bilingual instructions on the reverse.

None had their PINs covered, and various expiration dates exist. California's Public Utility Commission had approved a tariff for a trial in the Los Angeles area only. Curiously, two of the three sets, Los Angeles Scenes and Numbers/Numerals, were marked First Edition, while the third, Olvera Street, was not. Initially, there were only two PacBell business offices selling these cards.

With a face value of $35 per set, you can now expect to pay from $55 to Pacific Bell/Kinko's Copy Centers; $10 and $20 denominations; unknown quantity; July 1996.

Pacific Bell/Phonecard Pioneers of America, De Anza Chapter; $5 and $10 denominations; 2,100 ($5) and 900 ($10) issued; August 1996.

Pacific Bell; Los Angeles Scenes/Olvera Street/Numbers/Numerals; $5, $10, $20 denominations; unknown quantity; October 1994.

$85, depending on the set, with the Olvera Street cards costing the most. Sample (PacBell uses this term, though Moneycard Collector prefers specimen) sets of these first nine cards are floating around for about $225.

It was later discovered that Spanish language only versions of the Olvera Street cards had also been issued. The company didn't think this information was of interest to collectors, and apparently few collectors lived in the predominantly Spanish-speaking areas of Los Angeles where the cards were sold.

Expect to pay from $100 to $150 for this somewhat rare set of phonecards. More than likely, most of these cards have been lost to collectors or destroyed. A sample (specimen) set of the three Spanish only Olvera Street cards exists, but hasn't been seen offered for sale.

For a very limited time in December 1994, customers and collectors could order a set of 12 holiday phonecards from a special PacBell 800 number. There were four designs, each having the usual denominations of $5, $10 and $20.

While the face value of these cards is $140, the current retail price ranges from $565 to $595. The main reason for this price is that it seems likely that less than 500 complete sets of all 12 cards exist. One reason for this is that many collectors decided to collect only the $5 card from each of the four designs. It wasn't until the cards were taken off sale that the low quantities sold of the $20 cards was apparent. A set of 12 sample (specimen) cards goes for $200 to $225, and is unchanged from when they were first offered for sale.

All the early PacBell cards almost immediately shot up in value, and then pretty much stayed where they are today. This is surprising, as, for example, the first holiday set of 12 cards exists in a much smaller quantity than, say, just the NYNEX $1 Democratic National Convention card alone. PacBell continues to issue attractive phonecards, so it shouldn't face the price freeze that often comes with being a dead company, which no longer issues phonecards. Now is the time to fill in any blanks you have in your PacBell collection. More than likely, prices will never again be lower for this Baby Bell company.

OLDIES BUT GOODIES

The newest is not always the best," is a truism that phonecard collectors should appreciate. As hype of the most recent releases bombards hobbyists, some might get the idea that keeping up with the latest releases is the most important aspect of collecting.

But sometimes a backward glance gives a vital perspective of the future — experience confirms that the passage of time can redefine a hobby. Tapping into several dealers' composite experience turned up quite a few affordable good oldies, cards issued in 1993 or earlier, that beginners may not have not heard of and old-timers may have passed over and forgotten.

Klaus Degler, of USACards in Denver, believes that opportunity can strike for the collector when small hordes of highly desirable cards are released onto the market. The 1992 NYNEX Democratic National Convention $1 card was selling for more than $1,000 two years ago, and currently can be found for $200-$350; the $5 card is valued at about $100. For serious collectors, this is the time to buy, since these cards are expected to quickly disappear and force prices up again.

Lori Porreca of Univox in New York, relates this to the stock market truism that when blue-chip companies like IBM or Coca-Cola go down, they will go up again. Whereas common inexpensive cards always will be available, hard-core collectors tend to leap at the chance to obtain rare classics, like the Democratic National Convention card or AT&T's 1995 USTA Banquet "Lucy" card, when prices have dropped.

West Coast dealer Betty Houghtaling of B&B Fone Collector Cards & Promotions, Alta Loma, Calif., takes the stance that most "hobbyists do not have the budget to be speculators." For this reason, she recommends that "collectors who want to invest should only buy two — one to keep and one to sell for speculation."

There is consensus

NYNEX; Ellis Island Paddle Steamer; $5.25 denomination; 48,031 issued; May 1993.

NYNEX; Democratic National Convention; $1 denomination; 20,000 issued; July 1992.

AT&T; 1995 USTA Banquet "Lucy"; 10 minutes; 250 issued; April 1995.

Sprint; World Cup USA with logo; 10 units; 15,000+ issued (most recalled); July 1993.

among the dealers that the early AT&T TeleTickets should be a serious — even first — consideration of those intent on acquiring a definitive collection. Stephen Schwartz, Sears Phone Card Dept., Florida, (407-898-7778) described them as the "sleepers of the U.S. collectors market ... not only are they some of the earliest cards, but they were issued by the largest telco." If values placed on private issues such as some ETs, Democratic or Republican national conventions are indicative of potential, then these are important cards.

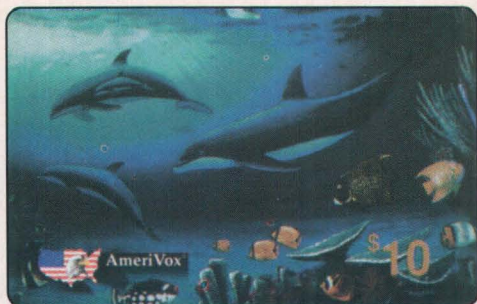

According to Schwartz, there are 10 of the public issue Americana Series AT&T TeleTickets issued in 1992 that can still be purchased in the range of $18 to $30 each: Statute of Liberty, American Bald Eagle, Bridge Connecting Two Worlds (Swamp Phone), Grand Canyon, Golden Gate Bridge, TeleTicket — Line Design, Apollo Lunar Module, New York City Skyline, Redwood National Park and Nubble Lighthouse. The first six designs, designated "Service Launch," present a special challenge to collectors because they can be found in nine other languages: Mandarin Chinese, Dutch, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Portuguese and Spanish. Some of the 6,000 November 1992 Holiday Series can still be obtained for about $115 for the set of six in their original, sealed envelopes.

Porreca highly recommends the AT&T test cards, marked "sample" on the back, that were "spread very thinly at test locations and given away at retail stores around the country." Known as the A-Line Series, each of the 10 public issue Americana Series plus three U.S. scenes — Capitol, Washington, D.C.; Art Deco District, Miami Beach and Waimea Beach, Hawaii — can be found in the $65 to $175 range.

Degler is of the opinion that phonecards that involve cross-collecting will "hold their value because of a solid collector base." Collectors are not even aware of cards like the 1993 American Numismatic Association Convention cards by AmeriVox. The first card of the Collectors' Series had a first issue of only 500 and is now valued at $125. With thousands of coin dealers in the United States, early releases such as these will be, in Degler's opinion, "key coin cards" as more coin collectors jump into this area.

Another example cited by Degler is the AmeriVox cards issued during the historic visit of Pope John Paul II to Denver in 1993. There already is a market for papal coins and medals and John Paul is a very popular pope.

The first printing of 500 was widely disbursed, which means there are no private hordes, and the price has been established as a result of real collector demand.

Houghtaling believes that AmeriVox test and sample cards also are excellent buys. Not only do they offer extremely low mintage, but they are numbered and dated, a rarity with all early test and sample cards. With many samples priced from $40 to $50, and based on the recent appreciation of the Wyland Whales and Beetle Bailey sets, she would not be surprised to see most AmeriVox sample cards around $100.

Porreca suggested some interesting esoteric cards:

ComSat-issued cards in 1989-1991 accessed its ground stations and the INMARSAT satellite system from remote areas, ships, and oil rigs. These chips cards were made by Schlumberger, and range in price from $65-$500.

In 1993, Nippon Telephone & Telegraph, the largest telco provider and producer of debit cards in the world, passed out their first phonecards in the U.S. The Japanese company issued 950 cards for the NTT MultiMedia and Lan Seminar. Admittedly $500 is the high range in the U.S. market, but phonecard values reach $1,000-$20,000 in Japanese collector circles, so these are considered "low-buck" cards by their standards.

The original Sprint World Cup series, produced in 1993 to commemorate the U.S. World Cup tour, was linked to controversy, ending in a legal dispute that Sprint lost. Sprint created cards with the licensed World Cup logo, which is owned by the MasterCard Corp. The cards were ordered recalled and destroyed, and a second issue was released without the disputed logo. Now some of those first sets can still be found for about $150 per set.

A general word of wisdom from dealers is that first-issue cards by any Regional Bell Operating Company (RBOC) have held their value — prices are still viewed as reasonable on the cards, and often the mintage was low. If you see NYNEX "Ellis Island" series for less than $50 or "Wish You Were Here" for a bit more, those should prove to be money well spent. The Ameritech Snowflake first edition is worth shopping around for, as prices vary. GTE was frequently mentioned by dealers as worth searching out.

"People cannot collect everything, but we must consider what is going on down the road," Degler said. That would suggest that if we go back and look, the future will be found in our collective past.

Opinions vary on ways to help the hobby grow

by Bob Brill

They are questions as old as the telephone debit card itself and chances are they are not going away. What constitutes "mint" and "non-mint" and does the mere fact that a phonecard no longer has time on it mean that it is not a mint card? Then there is that troubling question of expiration dates. Should they appear on the cards or not?

As you can imagine, a random sampling of dealers produced a random load of answers and opinions.

"If the card does not have a scratch off and you use the time, it should not detract from the value of the card," said Scott DuPont, owner of the Keep the Change store in Orlando, Fla. "The PIN is eventually going to expire anyway."

That would seem like the most logical answer but many others offer the opinion that if there isn't any time on the card, all you have is a piece of plastic. While true, it begs the question of "Why was it purchased in the first place?"

Art West of Finish Line Collectibles in Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla, takes a strong stance on the issue. As a long-time manufacturer of collectible trading cards and now a major phonecard producer, he speaks from both sides of the fence.

"If you had only 500 items of high-quality plastic trading cards and only 500 serial numbers, they would have a value associated with them based on the limited production quantities — as it relates to trading cards," he said. "If you did a set of trading cards like that, then dealers and collectors would associate a value with that low production as cards that are difficult to find."

That concept shouldn't change in the case of phonecards, West says — just because a used phonecard doesn't have any time left on it doesn't change the number that were issued. "There are still only 500 of these collectible cards and the value should be judged the same as if they had not been used."

Collectible vs. utility

This brings the argument back to the issue of why the card was purchased in the first place. If it was bought as a collectible then should phone time even matter? However, if it was purchased as a utility card then why would the collectibility matter?

"If a $10 face value card is selling for $25, the people who buy them aren't buying them to use, they are buying them as collectibles," says DuPont. "We think utility is great and we're pushing that as a way to grow the industry." DuPont estimates 60 percent of his sales are going to people who will use the cards before they collect them. Convenience stores, such as 7-Eleven, push collectible phonecards as utility cards. As a result, the largest seller of phonecards in the U.S. is 7-Eleven.

There is however, a steadily growing collector market, says Chris Giorelle, owner of Copley Phone Cards in Yorktown Heights, N.Y. "The majority of my customers do not ask about PIN numbers or expiration dates because if they want the card and the price is right, they aren't going to use it anyway," she said. "I haven't lost sales because of expired cards and I've never had anyone say they didn't want it because it had expired."

Giorelle believes if the PIN number has been scratched off, the card should be worth less than if the number remains covered. "Scratched-off cards should be devalued because they have been altered and are no longer 'as issued'," she added. "I had people begging for the Cracker Jack cards but they wanted the 15-unit cards and you have to scratch them off to determine the minutes. It was like a toy surprise."

She says she isn't sure if there should be a pre-set formula regarding how much a card is devalued when it's scratched off, but the price should drop.

Klaus Degler of USA Cards in Denver, Colo., believes the problem could be solved by making cards that do not expire. "If you buy an American Express money order, you can use that several years down the road, because you pay for the product," he says. "Phone time should not expire, and the company should be liable for that time. The problem is that many of these companies are using the money to stay in business rather than putting it in an escrow account."

Less value for used cards

Degler believes the value of used cards should be less, citing the treatment of stamps and coins that are used. It revolves around collector perception. "If the collector perceives it has as much value used as it does unused, that is fine, but the collector mentality generally is that 'mint' condition is more desirable, and that means unused," Degler added.

Powell Associates' Luis Vigdor also believes used cards need to be valued lower, but only when it comes to higher denominations. Low denomination cards aren't a real problem, he says.

"If it's a $20 card and it expires, the dealer doesn't have that value anymore, but if it's a $5 card, it really doesn't make much difference," Vigdor says. Used cards are different. "An expired card means it has never been used or changed and it is still very collectible. However, 'used' means it may have been in and out of a purse or wallet many times and been scratched."

Vigdor's best possible scenario would be to place every card in a secure package without a scratch-off. The cards could be placed in an album and the PINs copied onto a piece of paper to be used. Both Vigdor and Degler encourage usage.

On the topic of expiration dates, Vigdor wants to see the meter begin running when the card is first activated. In that way those who want to keep them unused and pristine forever can have that advantage. Those who don't mind a used card also would be satisfied. "That encourages the use of the card and allows the company to discharge their obligation within a certain time frame," says Vigdor.

As with most collectibles, perception becomes reality, and phonecards are not exempt. Chris English, owner of Phone Cards Plus in Oklahoma City, says it is a growing concern.

"Most people don't want expiration dates on the cards, especially if there were a lot of the cards made, because once they expire they become useless," said

English. "I've seen cards listed in the price guides at $20 but these same cards were being offered for pennies on the dollar once they had expired. There was no need to hang on to them anymore."

When it comes to exposing PINs, he says it is a matter of time. "If it's five minutes or less you may as well have a scratch-off on it because, in my case, I never use them with less than five minutes," said English. "If you put 15 minutes on a card, or at least 10 minutes, you have something you can use."

Finish Line learned the same thing and in its second series of PhonePaks offered One Call Cards rather than $2 cards (which offered three minutes of long distance time). West thought that five minutes were usable. Collectors complained to the company that a three-minute card was not. Score Board's one- and two-minute cards, designed as collectibles, not utility cards, have the same effect.

DuPont agrees that true collectors are not concerned about expiration dates — collectors will continue to buy early Disney cards regardless. "If there is an expiration date it should be clearly exposed and it should be clear whether or not it's been used," says DuPont.

Instead of scratch-offs, many of the newer cards come in cellophane packages backed by a slip of dark paper that covers the PIN. If a phonecard user wants to purchase one of these cards, now out of the package with an exposed PIN, the question arises: Has the PIN been activated and is there any time on the card at all?

"Our policy is that we take the card out of the envelope and demonstrate it with a speaker phone so the customer sees it still works," says DuPont.

Most price guides, as a rule of thumb, decrease a mint card's value by 50 percent if the card is either used or expired. Another thought is to reduce the value of the card by the amount when the card expires. For example, a $25 card that is valued as a collectible at $200, would be listed at $175 when it expires.

The problem with this formula is that it doesn't apply in all cases. Can you imagine a dealer trying to sell a used $2 card that is valued in a price guide at $1? Would he be forced to pay a collector $1 to take it?

And what about the card that has been used and then recharged? That's a whole other phone booth! MC

Growth issues

While the opinions and suggested actions are varied, Moneycard Collector believes it is clear that progress on certain issues will help the hobby and industry grow:

- More use of uncovered PINs, which helps preserve a card's appearance and thus benefits the used-card market.
- Removing expiration dates or deferring expiration until after first use, which could bolster a card's perceived value.
- Reasonable rates for phone time, which help validate the reason for the card's existence and stimulate use and collectibility.

CORPORATE CORNER

1996 might be winding down, but phonecard collecting is perking up. It is hard to believe that the hobby is another year older. It seems like it was only yesterday that I was trying to figure out what all these neat little pieces of plastic were all about.

With Moneycard Collector now two years old and Auld Lang Syne approaching fast, I thought it would be interesting to look back over the past year to see how some of the cards that were featured have been accepted by collectors.

We'll start by taking a look at which cards actually made it into "America's Most Wanted" (Please see Page 48 for this month's AMW). In January's column everyone got their first look at the two-card Lifesaver candy set by Innovative Telecom and CDC's Barq's Root Beer card. Those cards peaked on "America's Most Wanted" at No. 1 and No. 5, respectively.

February's column featured a host of cards which included the very popular Ascot Inc. Domino's Pizza/Coke among others, a card that appeared on "America's Most Wanted" a couple of times and peaked at No. 5.

OmniTel's Carefree gum card jumped out of the March "Corporate Corner" and landed in AMW for two months peaking at No. 2 in May.

April's good-looking cards did not make "America's Most Wanted," but May saw two attractive cards busting out of the "Corporate Corner." AT&T's Pocahontas card promoting the home video and Liberty/Quest's Nabisco card. These cards were extremely popular with collectors and both peaked at No. 9 in AMW.

DeltaCom's IceBreaker gum card was one of the more striking cards of the year with its blue holographic foil front and silver holographic foil back. This card was featured in the June "Corporate Corner" and was a constant seller for a lot of dealers. It was in "America's Most Wanted" for three months, from September to November.

Two popular cards that excited collectors this summer — USACard's Cracker Jack and AT&T's Dennis the Menace — sported familiar company images but were not corporate/promotional cards per se.

Generally, the category can be defined as cards that have been created by a company to promote its goods or services, in contrast to an issuer soliciting the use of a company's logo or image, providing the company with part of the mintage and retaining the rest to sell to dealers and collectors. Both kinds of phonecards are very collectible — yet one was made with collectibility as a pleasant after-effect to the card's value as a promotional device, the other was produced with collectibility foremost in mind.

In addition to all of the cards that made "America's Most Wanted," there were a number of other cards that caught collectors' attention:

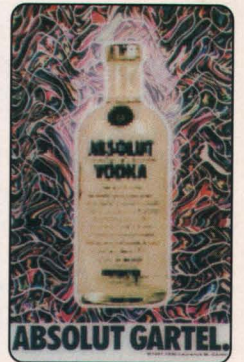

Phonecard Express issued two cards for Blockbuster Video. One was for the home video release of Disney's Santa Clause and the other one was for the home video release of "Power Rangers: The Movie," which made "America's Most Wanted" for the first time in October.

Other sought-after cards included Grapevine's Absolut Gartel, TeleNova's Little Caesar's Pizza, GTI's Budweiser Frogs and Ants and Star Telecom's Continental Airlines.

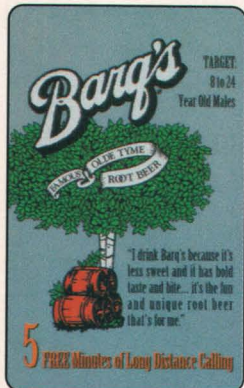

If you're looking for something new, head down to your supermarket and look for specially marked boxes of Kellogg's cereal. Innovative Telecom recently issued a card promoting Nintendo and Kellogg's. Each card has 6 minutes, 40 seconds of time as it promotes Nintendo's new 64-bit game system. The cards are not in every box but if you get lucky, you'll have a nice card to add to your collection.

Phonecard Express; Blockbuster "Santa Clause"; 10 minutes; 5,000 issued; September 1995.

Grapevine Telecards; Absolut Gartel Vodka; 10 units; 2,000 (regular) and 200 (artist edition) issued; March 1996.

CDC; Barq's Root Beer; 5 minutes; 2,000 issued; September 1995.

Ascot Inc.; Domino's Pizza/Coke; 5 minutes; 2,500 issued; November 1995.

WORDS ON NUMBERS

This column marks the beginning of a new feature in our magazine: editorial comments about the Price Guide. This scope of these observations encompass several areas: trends, new cards, pricing practices and good values for you, the collector.

In the November issue, you may have noticed errors in the Price Guide, specifically with Score Board, Grapevine Telecards, HT Tech, LDDS and Cable & Wireless. We experienced a computer error that shifted numbers on these issuers' listings. We have corrected the problem and apologize for any confusion.

TALES FROM THE PRICE LISTS

I've been with Moneycard Collector for a year now. Cards come and go, their prices rise and fall, but one thing is for sure: the stories behind the cards are often as interesting as the cards themselves.

Take the U.S. Mint Olympic TeleCoin Phone Pass cards from J Cubed Inc., which were pictured on the October cover of Moneycard. Take 'em ... they're a steal! In late September, we saw the Olympic coin phonecards in a local Odd Lots closeout store. Would you believe...$20 phonecards for $3.99 and $10 phonecards for $1.99? Neither did we. We bought out the store. Hey, at $.13/minute, you can't go wrong.

But someone did go wrong: days earlier, those same cards were available at a local Wal-Mart for face value ... a price of $.67 a minute. Yikes! About 100,000 of each denomination reportedly were made, but evidently a large number had not sold at issue price.

If you purchased these cards at face, you should be annoyed. This isn't the first time a company has dumped cards that haven't sold. Whenever we find out about card dumping, we drop our list prices accordingly.

Issuers who dump cards help no one: not their customers, whose loyalty they lose, and certainly not their reputation, the integrity of which quickly goes the way of the dodo. The best way to save face in a situation like this is to destroy the remaining cards. Report the number of destroyed cards and protect your customers by upholding their investment.

We will report further in next month's edition.

According to Coin World magazine staff, the U.S. Mint is scheduled to appear in Congressional hearings to answer questions regarding the Olympic Coin program. If you've got a beef, take it right to the top. Write to: U.S. Mint, Kenneth B. Gobin, Chief Counsel, 633 3rd NW, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Lithograph 18"x14" autographed by J.E. Ray #65477

James Earl Ray inmate #65477, political prisoner and author of the book "Who Really Killed Martin Luther King? The true story by the alleged assassin," has been held without trial in a maximum security federal prison for close to 30 years! These "art print" phone cards were created from original paintings created for his "adopted son" comedian actor Mike Gabriel to document the hoax of the century.

Comedian/Actor Mike Gabriel has appeared in over 17 feature films. A Black Panther in "Forrest Gump," a singing, dancing reform school inmate in "Cry Baby" with Ricki Lake and Johnny Depp, "Rocky 5," "Meteor Man," "Avalon," "Sleepless In Seattle," and many more (A drug dealer and circus clown in the same Tom Selleck film "Her Alibi" with super model Paulina Porizkova.) I hoaxed the media into reporting a story that claimed I teach Yoga to turban wearing house cats. Then on the Geraldo show I claimed I was engaged to Rosa Lopez (maid from El Salvador in O.J. Simpson case), Vanity Fair writer Dominic Dunne reported Rosa Lopez ended the engagement because she is allergic to the cats at my Cat Yoga school. Larry King, Dan Rather, Jay Leno, Conan O'brien, The Globe Tabloid and the Baltimore Sun all reported this funny story hoax.

While doing a "live" TV show in Baltimore "Rise and Shine" with Marty Bass and Don Scott (WJZ-13) at my Cat Yoga® school. I yelled out "Howard Stern for Governor". A Caller at the Stern radio show reported this. "I was going to say Cat Yoga® is a ridiculous idea, but I won't", quote from Howard Stern. ## Alex Rendon - The Collector's Collector

If Alex Rendon traveled around the world he would probably have a prepaid phonecard for every country he visited. In honor of this man who is one of the world's most knowledgeable experts in phonecard collecting, AmeriVox produced the "Don Alessandro" card. The front of the card shows Alex Rendon alias "Don Alessandro," standing next to the "North Lion" in front of the New York Public Library, his favorite rendezvous spot. The phrase "Meet Me at the North Lion," found on the reverse also refers to this meeting place. Rendon's signature is superimposed on the bottom of the image. The photo and design are by David Michael Eastis and graphics by Christopher T. Chope. The card was printed on Dec. 14, 1995 and only 100 of these promo cards were made as a gift to Alex Rendon. David Michael Eastis dubbed the card "Don Alessandro" because Rendon was born in Milan and speaks Italian fluently.

Rendon has been a collector all his life, selecting areas of interest, finding all the items necessary to complete a collection, then moving on. As Rendon describes himself, he is a collector but not of "collectibles." While he was aware of phonecards, he did not decide to collect them until he saw the first Hiscocks catalog in a London stamp shop. The catalog sparked Rendon's interest with its details about the countries and phonecard companies producing the cards. Rendon was also attracted by the ease with which cards could be obtained since at the time, most were produced by government enterprises.

Not concerned with themes or images, Rendon has created a phonecard collection based on complete sets for each country. When Rendon first began collecting mint cards, he found companies were amused that someone wished to purchase their phonecards and not use them.

With prepaid pre-phonecard use escalating around the world, the production numbers involved are huge. And as the size of his collection has grown (now estimated to be well over 250,000), Rendon has become more selective in his collecting. For Europe, for instance, he has established a cut-off date of 1989. For that period he has complete early issues with the only cards missing an elusive set of six cards from Italy. Among U.S. companies he continues to purchase AmeriVox, AT&T and Sprint. Rendon says he must have easily 600 AmeriVox cards that he describes as colorful and well made. For any new countries he now only collects the initial one or two issues.

When asked which card he most prizes, Rendon quickly names a 1985 card that commemorates the Pope's visit to Venezuela. The card was produced by Tamura for Venezuelan Telco field trials. This very rare card displays the Pope's emblem and was given to Rendon by an official of the Tamura company.

If he were to design a card or cards of his own, Rendon says it would be a puzzle set that would fit in an album page, since he enjoys looking at his cards easily. For the same reason, he always removes his cards from envelopes to allow easy handing and viewing.

Rendon says one of the big differences in the U.S. is that it is expensive to collect cards compared to the rest of the world. No one seems to discard used cards; they seem to be destroyed, like old credit cards, rather than being found in phone booths or on sidewalks as in so many other countries.

Rendon is convinced that the true potential of prepaid phonecards lies with these everyday users and that phonecard companies focused on selling cards only as collectibles will not survive.

As a side note, the "Don Alessandro" phonecard not only pays tribute to Rendon's role in the world of phonecards but also commemorates the historic first phone call by a collector to AmeriVox in April of 1992. Although phonecard collecting was growing in Europe and Japan for several years, in the U.S., it was a relatively unknown hobby. When Rendon found out about the new company, Amerivox had been producing cards for only a few weeks. He called AmeriVox, and asked for samples of the new cards. When David Michael Eastis, a collector himself, heard about the call, he understood the importance of the request and immediately sent Rendon a generous selection of the cards. It marked the beginning of the AmeriVox Collector Division and a strong friendship between Rendon and Eastis.

COLLECTOR Q & A

Alex Rendon is not a man to be taken lightly in the collecting world. He is vice chairman of the Philatelic Foundation, and he owns what is considered one of the largest and most complete collections of phonecards in the world. His knowledge of the stamp industry has helped establish the patterns that dictates what is collectible in the phonecard world. He has collected phonecards for more than seven years.

Q: How did you become aware of prepaid phonecards?

A: "Just by traveling around Europe. It didn't dawn on me that I should have started even earlier. It was just an accident that got me started. I had to make a phone call at an airport where there were no coin booths, only card phones. Somebody actually had to lend us a card in order for us to make that call. Then, a few days later, I ran into a Hiscocks' catalog. It was the first and it had only been published a week before. After that, I became intrigued. I said to myself, 'Gee, this could be fun collecting,' and the rest, as they say, is history."

"What gets me now is I used to see them for years around the airport in Milan. These were some of the original cards that were used at that time, and both the booths and the cards could only be found at the airports in Italy. Shortly thereafter they removed those phones and put in the card phones you see today. I should have bought the things then and there because it was five years before I saw the same cards afterwards."

Q: There's an incredible amount of information about phonecards that the American public doesn't know. Do you see the same thing?

A: "Absolutely. I wouldn't even say that it's just American collectors but collectors in general. This goes for stamps as well. For one thing, collectors usually become too provincial. For instance, they only collect cards from their country and don't pay attention to what's happening elsewhere. I collect cards from the entire world. I am forced to keep up with all kinds of weird things."

Q: Sounds like a heck of a job.

A: "It is! It's hard work, but true collecting as far as I'm concerned is hard work. You can't just sit back and wait for people to tell you what are the good new cards.

"Let's look at how I collect. Let's take a country, say Spain. It's a country that has long sets. Most of my collection is mint, because it is the only way you can be sure you have everything. It's the same with stamps. If you try to get the set used, you are going to find that the low and high values are practically impossible to get. The low values are usually bought by dealers in volume and the high values are hard to get because almost nobody buys them. So, the easiest solution, which is actually an expensive solution as well, is to buy a whole set mint. Just buy the cards and be done with them."

Q: So here I am, Joe Public Average American. I want to buy some phonecards. I don't really know that much about them. What should I do? What questions should I ask from a person who is trying to sell me their cards?

A: "I get calls all the time. Now, for example, let's use one company that called me. I asked how many cards are in the set. The company tells me there are three cards. What's the price of the set? $180. These are actual figures I'm quoting you. How many minutes do I get? There are 10 minutes to a card. So, actually, I'm getting 30 minutes of real phone time for $180. Do I buy these things? Of course not! They might argue that they are only 2,000 of them - 2,000 sets of something like that usually only ends up in the hands of collectors or dealers. That is not what a phonecard is supposed to be about to me."

"Now, another company might issue 500,000 cards and you are lucky to get one. Take that NBC fall TV series promotion that was done by Sprint. I made over 60 calls using just about every telephone number I knew to get just one of those cards of the eight."

"By my definition that's a real collectible. So, what I'm doing with the U.S. is I'm sticking to about 20 to 25 companies that are doing real promotional campaigns with their cards. Those I try to find as many as I can get."

Q: Is there anything the industry should do?

A: "All the industry should try to do is educate the public so they use the cards. Nobody can force you to collect anything. People who want to collect will find your cards." MC

SUSTAINABLE GROWTH FORECAST. The explosive growth in sales of prepaid calling cards is expected to slow to a more sustainable pace of 27 percent compounded annually through the turn of the century, according to "1996 Calling and Prepaid Card Products: Trends & Opportunities," a new report by a Boston-based strategy consulting firm.

Atlantic-ACM estimates overall revenues for prepaid calling cards at $750 million in 1995, increasing to $1.1 billion in 1996 and $2.5 billion by 2000. The driver for this growth will no longer be the promotional segment but the retail segment, which the report says will account for nearly 60 percent of all sales in 2000, up from 30 percent in 1995.

"The other market segments — promotions, fund-raising and collecting — will experience more modest growth while the fifth segment involving information services may soon develop giving 900 numbers a run for their money," predicts Judy Reed Smith of Atlantic-ACM.

PROMOTING CHILD SAFETY. MTC Telemanagement of Petaluma, Calif., is offering "CallHome Cards" through its MTC Partners program. Card purchases help promote nationwide child safety through the Klaas Foundation for Children in Sausalito, Calif.

WORLD COM ACQUIRING BLT. WorldCom Inc. has signed a definitive agreement to acquire Vancouver, Wash., based BLT Technologies Inc., producers of Talk 'N Toss prepaid phonecards. Terms of the agreement to acquire the privately held company, expected to be formally completed late this year or in early 1997, were not disclosed. Bob Sternberg, president and chief operating officer of BLT Technologies, will head the company as a subsidiary of WorldCom. BLT's revenues grew from $3.5 million in fiscal 1994 to $36.6 million in fiscal 1996.

BLT has announced several agreements: Core-Mark International, a distributor to the retail convenience industry in western North America, has added Talk 'N Toss prepaid phonecards to its distribution network in the U.S., and the cards also will be sold in 10-, 30-, 60- and 200-minute denominations in vending machines at Safeway Inc. stores across the U.S.

ARCO has signed BLT to create and launch a private label prepaid phone card program in the most commonly-requested denominations of 15, 30 and 60 minutes for at least 400 am/pm convenience stores in Oregon, Washington, California, Nevada and Arizona. BLT also will create and support a private label prepaid phone card program for Citizens Telecom of Stamford, Conn. Citizens is a nationwide provider of local, long distance, paging and other telecommunications products and services. Citizens Telecom cards will be sold in increments of five to 90 minutes.

G.E.M. DEACTIVATES CARDS. An ongoing legal dispute has prompted G.E.M. International to deactivate thousands of PINs on collectible cards. G.E.M. chairman Glenn E. Martin said he didn't know all the cards involved. He also has advised customers, until further notice, not to use G.E.M.'s 800 number (800 GEM-3004) because it does not connect to G.E.M. Martin said that any G.E.M. clients who have made purchases prior to Aug. 29 can have their cards reactivated with the proper documentation. "I want to reassure the public that G.E.M. International is alive and well ... Our long-distance carrier stands behind G.E.M., so any G.E.M. phonecards purchased but currently disabled will be reactivated as soon as possible." Martin said all calls should go to (520) 749-9400 or fax (520) 722-2300.

MCI EXCHANGE CARDS IN EUROPE. E-Tel Corp. of West Palm Beach, Fla., contracted with Austrian-based IFG Corp. to market $9.5 million worth of MCI Exchange Cards throughout Europe. The MCI Exchange Card allows country to country calling without the necessity to change PIN numbers — attractive to Europeans who travel in different countries. E-Tel's SEMCO Manufacturing will be supplying IFG with up to five thousand dual and triple bin machines in 1997 capable of foreign bill validation. The machines will be programmable to change from one currency to another allowing IFG to move machines from country to country as needed.

U S WEST, GTE IN SMART CARD ALLIANCE. U S WEST Communications and GTE announced that they joined forces to provide services for their smart card customers. Beginning in September, U S WEST telecards worked in any GTE Millennium pay phone and GTE Smart cards worked in any U S WEST Millennium phones.

The USW/GTE smart card agreement includes all Millennium pay phones in USW/GTE's serving areas. U S WEST is deploying approximately 16,000 phones in downtown Seattle, Denver, Portland, Phoenix, and Minneapolis. GTE currently has 10,000 pay phones installed, primarily in California, Hawaii, Washington, Texas and Florida, and is in the process of deploying additional sets across the United States. MC

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

A look at this month's America's Most Wanted shows a strong mix of corporate-themed and promotional cards, with cartoon characters and food continuing to be popular topics.

One of the nicest parts about collecting corporate cards is that many are free promotional cards, others are nominally priced, and only a few have reached high prices. The frustrating part is that corporate cards generally are not available by just picking up the phone. But digging for cards is what collecting is all about — the search!

While Datatel's Coca Cola set climbed to No. 2, this month's listings show no McDonald's cards. And now on to the cards!

1 KARS/TELENOVA CRAYOLA STORE. For the opening of the Easton, Pa., Crayola store, this card is no stranger to America's Most Wanted. A pleasant handful of crayons adorns the left of the card with the ever-present box of crayons in the upper right. This is its third consecutive month in AMW. There were 1,500 of the 10-minute cards made.

2 DATATEL INTERNATIONAL COCA-COLA SET OF SIX.

Featuring a variety of exciting themes, this set of six, each with 10 minutes, was produced in collaboration with Coca Cola. The mintage is 2,500 and the set comes in attractive packaging.

3 USACARD PINK PANTHER OLYMPICS. This variable unit card is becoming a regular in America's Most Wanted!

Collectors scratch off the small panel to see if Pink wins the bronze, silver or gold medal. Although total mintage is 1,996 pieces, only 96 golds are available. Lots of fun.

4 SEARS/ACMI TOP HAT GARFIELD.

A newcomer to the list, this 5-minute Garfield card was produced in just 425 numbered copies and released at the Southern California Collector's Expo. The idea for the design came from Sears' Phone Card Department's Steven Schwartz. Sure to be sought after, the card is very attractive and highly recommended.

5 6-PAK CORONA PARROT. Another newcomer, the famous Corona Beer Parrot is astride a jet ski on this 10-minute card. Number one of a series, the mintage is for the mass market that Corona enjoys. Additional information appears in Moneycard Collector, October 1996, Page 89.

6 USACARD PINK PANTHER IN ANAHEIM. Pink is a movie director in this 10-unit Southern California Collector's Exposition show card. Very attractive. Three thousand produced and a substantial number used as give-aways in entry packets for the Expo.

9 QUANTUM COMMUNICATIONS HARD ROCK CAFE. Their 25th anniversary card, $10 denomination, is available at 11 Hard Rock locations, listed in Moneycard Collector's October New Issues, Page 88. The design is a slightly stylized version of their logo, and the second Hard Rock card produced by Quantum.

7 TELENOVA'S LITTLE CAESAR'S PIZZA. Produced in a mintage of just 1,000, this 5-minute newcomer, with time carried by AT&T, is causing some excitement. Clever copy on the card cement this is a winner. Like a slice?

8 TELENOVA'S DOMINO'S PIZZA. The addition of the Coca Cola logo lends world-wide appeal to the Domino's card, which has time by Cable & Wireless. A mintage of 5,000 of this 6-minute card makes the card affordable and usable. Get one now!

10 AMERITECH CHERRY FESTIVAL SET.

$4 and $12 sets promote the annual National Cherry Festival in Traverse City, Mich. This pleasant set will make a nice addition to your collection, and a mintage of 2,500 should ensure availability.

America's Most Wanted is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mount Zion, Ill. All dealers are encouraged to participate by faxing a list of their company's top 10 best-selling cards for the month. Please fax before the 20th of each month.

A Christmas Collage

European Yule phonecards show holiday spirit

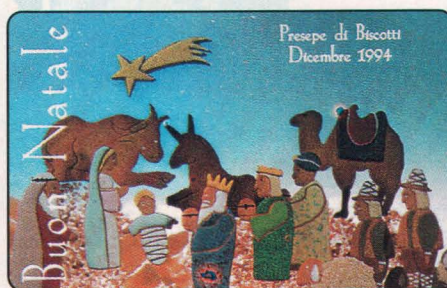

By Ulf Helmke

Christmas, celebrated all over the world in many different ways, summons myriad associations, memories and stories. For phonecard collectors, that means many images as exciting as the anticipation of packages under the tree Christmas morning. Yet what constitutes a Christmas phonecard is up to each collector.

Is a phonecard issued in December showing holiday ornaments already a Christmas phonecard, or would you only accept cards with a nativity scene or featuring Santa Claus as "real" Christmas phonecards? How about snowy landscapes? Church bells?

Even setting individual definitions does not necessarily limit a Christmas collection — if you limited yourself to cards showing just Santa, there still would be many many cards for you to collect! Christmas phonecards can be found from almost every corner of our world. For my private collection, I have tried to group the Christmas cards in categories, regardless of where they were issued.

CHARITY Christmas cards can help support a charity in different ways. In Denmark TeleDanmark, the nation's telephone company, issues Christmas cards at the regular rate with a design similar to one of the year's Christmas seals. For every phonecard sold, TeleDanmark makes a donation to the Christmas Seal charity. The donation is not added to the regular phonecard rate. Thus, customers get calls at the regular rate and still Telecom Italia (Italy); Presepe di Biscotti; 5,000 lire; quantity unknown; 1994. "Presepe di Biscotti" literally translates to "manger made of gingerbread." The Nativity shown is made of gingerbread.

TeleDanmark (Denmark); Christmas 1995; 30 DKK; 75,000; Oct. 1995.

Telekomunikacja Polska (Poland); Christmas 1995; 50 units; quantity unknown; 1995. The text on the card translates to: "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year 1996."

support a good cause. Other cards include a donation in the sales price or are used as a thank-you for a donation.

ETHNIC CARDS Like the nativity, topics on some cards are matched with local customs or traditions. While in Germany Christmas is celebrated more reverently, you can find Australian animals having fun in the Christmas sun on phonecards from Down Under.

INTERACTIVE FUN This category includes cards that really express the joy of Christmas. Although not providing long-distance service, the "FunCalls with Santa" card issued by Imagine Corp. last year fits perfectly into this category. With this card, kids could call Santa Claus at the North Pole and tell him their Christmas wishes. The parents could then call and check the wish list. The card has a Santa Claus design and can be used as ornament for the Christmas tree once the phone services are used.

LANDSCAPES These are basically phonecards that show a beautiful landscape or cityscape at Christmas time. This does not mean that the landscape has to be snowy!

NATIVITY SCENES These cards show the birth of Jesus Christ, or the homage of the shepherds or the Magi. Many of these cards show famous paintings that can be seen in museums or churches. Other cards show more modern art or a folkloristic setting of the nativity, which brings us to our next category:

ORNAMENTS These can be cards showing Christmas trees or ornaments of all sorts. An interesting card by British Mercury Communications in 1990 shows a Christmas tree colored in Mercury's company blue. Little phone kiosks are used as ornaments.

REINDEER CARDS Connected closely to the next category, there are cards where Santa's reindeer, not the jolly old elf, are the center of attention. One favorite is a 1994 French chip-card issued by SNCF, the French National Railways, to wish customers a Merry Christmas. On the card, Santa's reindeer have decided to take the train on Christmas Eve.

Cable & Wireless (Cayman Islands); Christmas '92; CI$7.50; 10,000; 1991.

France Telecom; SNCF Christmas 1994; 50 units; 2,500,000; December 1994.

Telecom Finland issued a card promoting Santa's post office in northern Finland that shows Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer and some of his bird friends.

SANTA CARDS Santa seems to be a favorite among phonecard designers and issuers, making this one of the largest categories. In addition to the more traditional designs like Santa making toys, Santa preparing gifts, Santa riding the sleigh, and Santa filling stockings, there are a number of cards showing Santa using phonecards, receiving faxes or making calls from a cellular telephone. Santa's elves can be found on many Santa cards, but also are featured on many cards from Scandinavian countries, where they have a long tradition.

SEASON'S GREETINGS Promotional cards in some cases just have a simple but warm Christmas greeting to the customer as their design. No Santas, no ornaments, just words. Special Christmas cards from Germany have a blank area on the card's back that can be filled out with a pen to be used for a dedication or personalized greeting if the card was purchased to be given as a gift. Australian Telstra sends out Christmas wishes to their customers on greeting cards with a design matching the annual Christmas phonecard. There are many cards that fit into more than one cate-

HANNIBAL CARD SENDS HOLIDAY PEACE WISHES

U.S. issuer Hannibal Communications produced 1,000 30- and 60-minute phonecards offered as a holiday gift selection by the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute of Detroit. The phonecards, which are packaged in a greeting card and envelope with the same design, support the cancer institute's research, education and care programs. gory, while others may not fit any of the categories above. Of course this is not the only way to categorize cards; you could also collect Christmas phonecards by country or telco, concentrate on first issues or limit yourself to a certain artist.

Or you could stress promotional cards issued for Christmas (check the "Corporate Corner" in past issues for a few ideas), collect regular use cards with a Christmas theme or phonecards included in greeting-cards.

Still, you should remember that the most important thing for you is to have fun with your collection and to use it to enjoy and share the spirit of Christmas — all year long!

STOCKING STUFFERS

SETS FROM STS, SPRINT, OTHERS MAKE NICE HOLIDAY GIFT IDEAS

Some snazzy sets of phonecards might be just the thing for that hard-to-shop-for collector in the family.

Recent sets from Strategic Telecom Systems should spark some interest in the classics — classic cars and classic art are the topics of STS sets. The 12-card car set features fancy Porsche, Ferrari and other exotic autos, while works of Van Gogh, Rembrandt, and Gauguin each are featured in “The Masters” — three-card sets commemorating master artists. Mintages on both the car series and artist series are 20,000, and each set is packaged in collector-friendly full-color folder. Whether your preference is for cars or paintings, these sets won’t make as much a dent in your wallet as the real thing.

Two other recent sets that might have to go under the tree — unless you have a very big stocking — are Sprint’s $10 and $20 NFL 30-card collector’s series. There are 5,000 sets of the both the $10 die-cut helmet cards and the $20 die-cut football-shaped cards, and each comes in a collector’s portfolio or framed edition.

A gift idea for comic strip fans might be the Cathy four-card set from USACard. The images created by cartoonist Cathy Guisewite are offered as a 10-unit set, with a mintage of 2,000. USACard’s Robert Mish says the series featuring the funny pages’ “woman of the 90s” appeals to women.

Two sets that should help fill collectors with holiday cheer were issued by the U.S. Postal Service and American Express. Love is an appropriate holiday theme, and a three-card set, issued in January, features the “Love” stamp series. Prehistoric-themed cards released in June include stamp images of the mastodon, eohippus and saber-tooth cat.

Those who want to stay in the holiday mood might seek out The Score Board Inc.’s five-card Coca-Cola Santa set from last year’s holiday season. The jolly old elf is featured in 5-, 10-, 15-, 30- and 60-minute versions. There were 2,500 of each made.

Those aren’t all the sets that are out there by a long shot. Make a Christmas list, check it twice, then call your favorite dealer before the holiday rush!

STS; Van Gogh three-card set. “The Masters” series also features Rembrandt and Gauguin sets.

U.S. Postal Service/American Express; three-card “Love” stamps.

USACard; Cathy four-card set.

SHOW STOPPERS

More than 4,000 collectors attended B&B's Southern California Collectors Expo at the Disneyland Hotel. Responses ranged from an enthusiastic "Good sales!" to a frenzied "Shows are a lot of work!"

While some phonecard collectors grumbled that show cards were too limited and difficult to obtain, others ran into some outstanding buys — like Tokyo Disneyland's Fantillusions II with folder for $18.

Prepaid VIP pass holders randomly received three of five collectible low-mintage cards issued specially for the show. One of the show cards, issued by Mercury Marketing Co., pictures a castle against a dark background with fireworks glowing overhead. There are 1,000 of the 3-minute cards, plus 200 test cards. The cards were priced at $25, but some dealers were offering them for $10, or free with another purchase.

American National Phone Card produced two cards for the show: Betty Boop "Anaheim or Bust," as well as a special edition Bozo 50th Anniversary. Both 3-minute cards are limited to a mintage of 1,000 each, with services provided by Frontier Communications. Another show card, USACard's Pink Panther Director's card is distinctive for being the first front co-label permitted on a Pink Panther card.

Destiny Telecomm

International Inc., re-issued and sold its Mother's and Father's Day 1996 cards as part of a large laminated presentation card. Only 100 James "Bonecrusher" Smith cards of the 5,000 mintage were available at the show, and the evangelist, Destiny representative and former boxer was on hand to autograph them. Steve Schwartz's Sears "Garfield" was released at the show, though not a true show card; the show's name, date, and location were not printed on the card, but on an accompanying piece of paper. With only 425 produced, it has proved to be very popular with collectors. (See America's Most Wanted, page 48.)

So, what makes a show great? Since the first phonecard-only show in 1994, collectors and dealers have argued back and forth as to where the hobby is going and how to get there: do phonecards belong with the telecommunications industry? Coins? Sport cards? Memorabilia? A dealer commented that he looks for events at resort areas that allow him to also vacation with his family.

Dealers will want to note what attracted collectors. Several comments were heard that clearly marked prices were a drawing factor, as the chase for a good buy is part of the fun of collecting. Priced display books are especially appreciated so collectors can peruse pages. Booths such as Phone Cards Plus and Steve Eyer's had well-marked boxes of inexpensive used sports/foreign/expired cards generated excitement as they were pawed over, exclaimed about and purchased.

Betty and Buz Houghtaling are the first to admit the Expo was an experiment in cross-collectibles, with an emphasis on "The Family Experience." And like any new venture, some rough spots such as parking validation and VIP passes need to be smoothed out. Even the "Happiest Place on Earth ..." can have its bit of discord, and collectors expressed their disappointment upon finding that last-minute events had blocked the production of some anticipated promotional show cards. Plans to issue special McDonald's and Coke cards had to be canceled due to a dispute between B&B and The Score Board Inc.

At the conclusion of the Disneyland Adventure, Jim Silva, ASL of CompuServe's Phone and Money Cards Forum, well expressed the sentiments of many collectors: "Once at the show. . . I realized that it's well worth the trip — It's a blast to meet everyone; see old friends again; check out all of the cards in person; and pick up some great buys."

Canada Telecom Network

Canada Telecom Network is a Montreal-based firm established in 1994. With more than 6,000 retail outlets coast to coast — including the 7-Eleven convenience store chain and La Cabine Telephonique/The Telephone Booth stores — CTN claims the largest distribution in Canada.

In January, CTN chose Telenova of Woodstock, Vt. (802/457-9000, 800/505-NOVA) as its exclusive worldwide agent for the collectors' market, so more collectors outside Canada will have opportunity to obtain CTN cards.

CTN's cards generally fall into three categories. Retail cards are sold nationwide by all distributors. Promotional cards are produced for special events or to advertise a product, and enjoy limited distribution. Private-branded cards are commissioned to increase the impact of a brand name. CTN cards can be used for worldwide calls originating in Canada, the USA, and more than 20 countries around the world.

For quite a while, the only design available at the retail level was a relief map of the world forming the background to a touch-tone keypad and globe. This design is available in $10, $20 and $50 denominations, with matching cards marked "Complimentary" in $2 and $5. In 1996, this limited choice was broadened at the $10 level with a set of attractive cityscapes, including Montreal, Calgary, Toronto, Whistler and other communities. Other retail designs use sports figures such as hockey's Eric Lindros and Formula One driver Jacques Villeneuve.

Promotional cards are always sought by collectors. Some of CTN's promotional designs have already been shown in past "Corporate Corner" and "New Issues" columns, so I will describe some more recent releases. Three inter-city bus companies — Greyhound, Voyageur, and Orleans Express — have commissioned separate card lines to be sold at bus stations. Each of Shell Canada's four cards shows a different automobile on it, and are available at Shell gas stations across the country.

CTN; definitive (globe and keypad); $20 denomination; 5,000 issued; February 1995.

One of Montreal's downtown shopping malls, Place Montreal Trust, has just begun a promotion where a phonecard advertising the mall is offered to shoppers who spend a predetermined amount at the mall's merchants.

To encourage advertisers to choose CTN, a card was created in December 1995 depicting a highway billboard with the caption "This Space for Rent" and inserted into copies of InfoPresse, the French-Canadian version of Advertising Age magazine. Coming this fall will be one or more cards pairing up the well-known names Kellogg cereals and Star Trek.

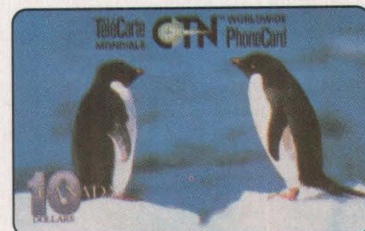

Private branding is an area in which CTN is heavily involved, and the company foresees continued growth in this area. With a private brand, it seems as though the advertiser is the issuer. Using popular images such as hockey players, awareness of phonecards as a whole, as well as a particular brand, can be created. This technique works well for organizations such as 7-Eleven and Parkhurst, who can use their heightened brand recognition to encourage retailers to choose their card over competing brands.

Smaller issuers such as ITG can buy blocks of time from CTN to resell under their own name. CTN also provided the Canadian phone time to a couple of American organizations marketing their cards in Canada, such as Incomnet and the short-lived Canadian branch of B&J Telecards.

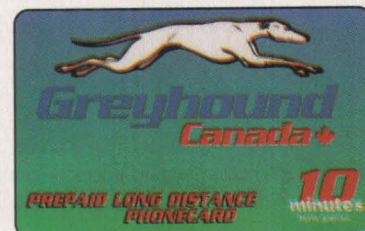

With such a variety of material available, Canada Telecom Network is certainly a company to include in a Canadian collection. And the partnership with Telenova will ensure a wider distribution for CTN's cards.

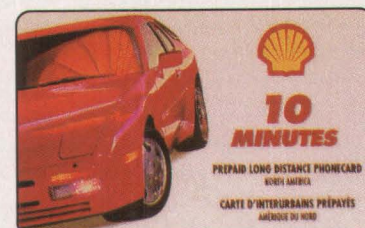

CTN; Pepsi logo; 15 minutes; 13,000 issued; June 1996.

CTN; Two Penguins; $10 denomination; 22,500 issued; November 1995.

CTN; Greyhound; 10 minutes; 1,500 issued; June 1996.

CTN; Shell; 10 minutes; 12,500 issued; June 1996.
