W

elcome to another issue of Moneycard Collector magazine. Whether you've been with us from the beginning, are buying copies at a Barnes & Noble superstore, or are one of our new subscribers, we hope you enjoy this month's issue.

Rather than tackle a single subject in this month's editorial, we've decided to bring you up-to-date on some important developments which will influence our future activities.

This month you will notice a couple of important changes to our staff. Joining us are Meg Schultz, senior production artist, and Tori Stone, cataloger/writer. Meg joins us from Scott Publishing, one of our sister divisions at Amos Press. Tori comes via Popular Woodworking magazine, where she was assistant editor. A hearty welcome to both Meg and Tori.

Tori's arrival brings some immediate and very important changes here at Moneycard Collector. Each month, she will be collecting actual retail sales data from dealers and using this data to prepare the list of top 10 phone cards, that we call "America's Most Wanted." The listing has been imitated by nearly every publication in the industry. Up until now, the order of finish for these cards was based on participating dealers ranking their own top 10 and assigning point values to each. Now the column will be open to any dealer wishing to contribute actual numbers of cards sold at retail, making it even more accurate and representative. AMW has been a terrific and well-read column and this change should make it even better.

With Meg's arrival we double our capacity for producing ads and put in place the additional design talent we need to publish our first catalog and further develop our Internet web site.

We're also putting the finishing touches on our card numbering system, so that we can publish the much-anticipated Moneycard Collector Catalog. This catalog will encompass phone cards and financial service debit cards issued in the U.S. and Canada. In an upcoming issue we will announce the details of our numbering system, explain how it will work, and discuss how we will gather the data.

During the past month, we have also taken steps to improve our phone system at Moneycard Collector. Moneycard Collector has contracted with ConQuest Communications to automate our 800 service, which we hope will provide all of our readers and advertisers better service.

In last month's issue of the magazine we announced the winners of our reader survey sweepstakes. We would again like to thank NYNEX for the prizes and also thank the more than 1,200 dedicated readers who took the time to complete and mail the questionnaire. Having pre-tested it, we know that significant time and thought were needed to complete it, and we thank all of you for your help.

Frankly, this input is absolute gold to us. It tells us, in clear terms, what you like most about the magazine, and points us in the direction we need to go to make it even better.

Next month, we'll have a full report on the results, but the top line information is impressive. How impressive? Well, let's just say for now that you are a well-off, well-educated, computer-literate bunch who loves their hobby. The results also told us that while you had a few suggestions for us, we are doing a very good job of meeting your information needs in a format that you really enjoy.

And, oh yes, the survey told us that many of you read the magazine cover to cover when it arrives at your door. So, let me invite you to sit back, put your feet up and enjoy the efforts of our talented staff, who craft with pride each and every issue of Moneycard Collector.

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

Where is everybody?

I've attended most of the larger phone card shows here in the U.S., and I've noticed the lack of attendance by the general public. Never was this more evident than this past September at a show at New York's Jacob Javits convention center. As a full-time phone card dealer and author of several industry articles, I find this very upsetting.

This particular show is considered to be one of the "largest" phone card shows in this country, yet there were very few people who came to this show because they didn't even know about it. One of the most popular professional wrestlers in the world and a former New York Yankee Hall of Famer were brought in to sign "free" autographs and there was nobody there.

Obviously, the promoters of this show didn't really care if the public showed up or not. If these two celebrities had been making an appearance at a "sports card" show, there is no question that advertisements would have flooded the local newspapers — not only promoting the show, but the appearance of the celebrities. Now that's a concept!

Show promoters encouraged phone card dealers to spend the money for a booth, but failed to say that the show would be billed as a "trade" show and not open to the public. If they would have been upfront with the dealers and told them that there wasn't going to be much, if any, local advertising and it would be promoted as a "Trade Only" show, they wouldn't have had any dealers participating. Most of the dealer business was conducted among themselves. This isn't rocket science I'm talking about, it's about promoting this wonderful and exciting hobby/industry to the general public and most of the promoters are just not doing it!

There has been a lot of talk about the lack of young people being interested in this hobby. Everyone keeps asking, where are the young kids that collect trading cards? But is anybody doing anything to attract them? Not really. Is it so hard for a promoter to give free admission to a youth who wants to attend a show? How about offering special show cards to children only? How about simply advertising the shows to the general public, instead of putting most or all of the advertising budget into the trade magazines?

The bottom line is this: If this hobby/industry continues on the course that it's been taking, which is to actively promote these shows only within the industry, it will not flourish. Everyone agrees that we need to reach out to the general public, and shows are the best way. All we need are a couple of promoters willing to listen and to do the right thing. Let's hope the shows next year are better promoted.

- Bruce Harmon, Acme Telecards, Inc., Sunrise, Fla.

We couldn't agree with you more. With some changes, the shows could be quite beneficial to dealers and collectors alike. We must all work toward convincing these show promoters that the collecting side of the industry is important, as well.

Be more 'Pacific'

As an RBOC, the primary focus of our prepaid cards is to serve the ever growing usage market. At times, however, this focus has put us at odds with the large U.S. collector's market. Moneycard Collector, with its thorough and insightful articles on all aspects of phone card collecting helps us to better understand and respond to the needs of this important niche market.

Toward that end, I would like to take this opportunity to correct several erroneous pieces of information reported in the October 1995 issue under the "Baby Bell Notes," and at least one dealer advertisement. Contrary to what was reported in that issue, we have not discontinued our LA Scenes cards. This confusion stems from the fact that the California Scene card replaced the LA Scene in retail locations. The LA Scene card, however, is still available via our Prepaid Order Center. (Please note: "First Edition" cards in all designs have been discontinued except for the limited edition Alexander Graham Bell $50 card, of which 10,000 have been produced.)

There is also some confusion regarding what denominations are available for each card design. This, no doubt, stems from our efforts to simplify the order process for our retail distribution locations. Under this plan, retail outlets selling our cards carry only one card design per denomination as follows: $5 - Numbers; $10 - Olvera Street; $20/$50 - California Scene. Collectors can still order all card designs in all available denominations ($5, $10, $20 for all designs, plus on-going $50 in California Scene only).

Collectors seeking to acquire full sets of any card design may call the Prepaid Order Center at (800)600-0094, Monday through Friday, 8 am - 5 pm PST.

- Lynda Chaplin, Pacific Bell Prepaid Phone Card, San Ramon, Calif.

Thanks for the updated information.

Terms of agreement

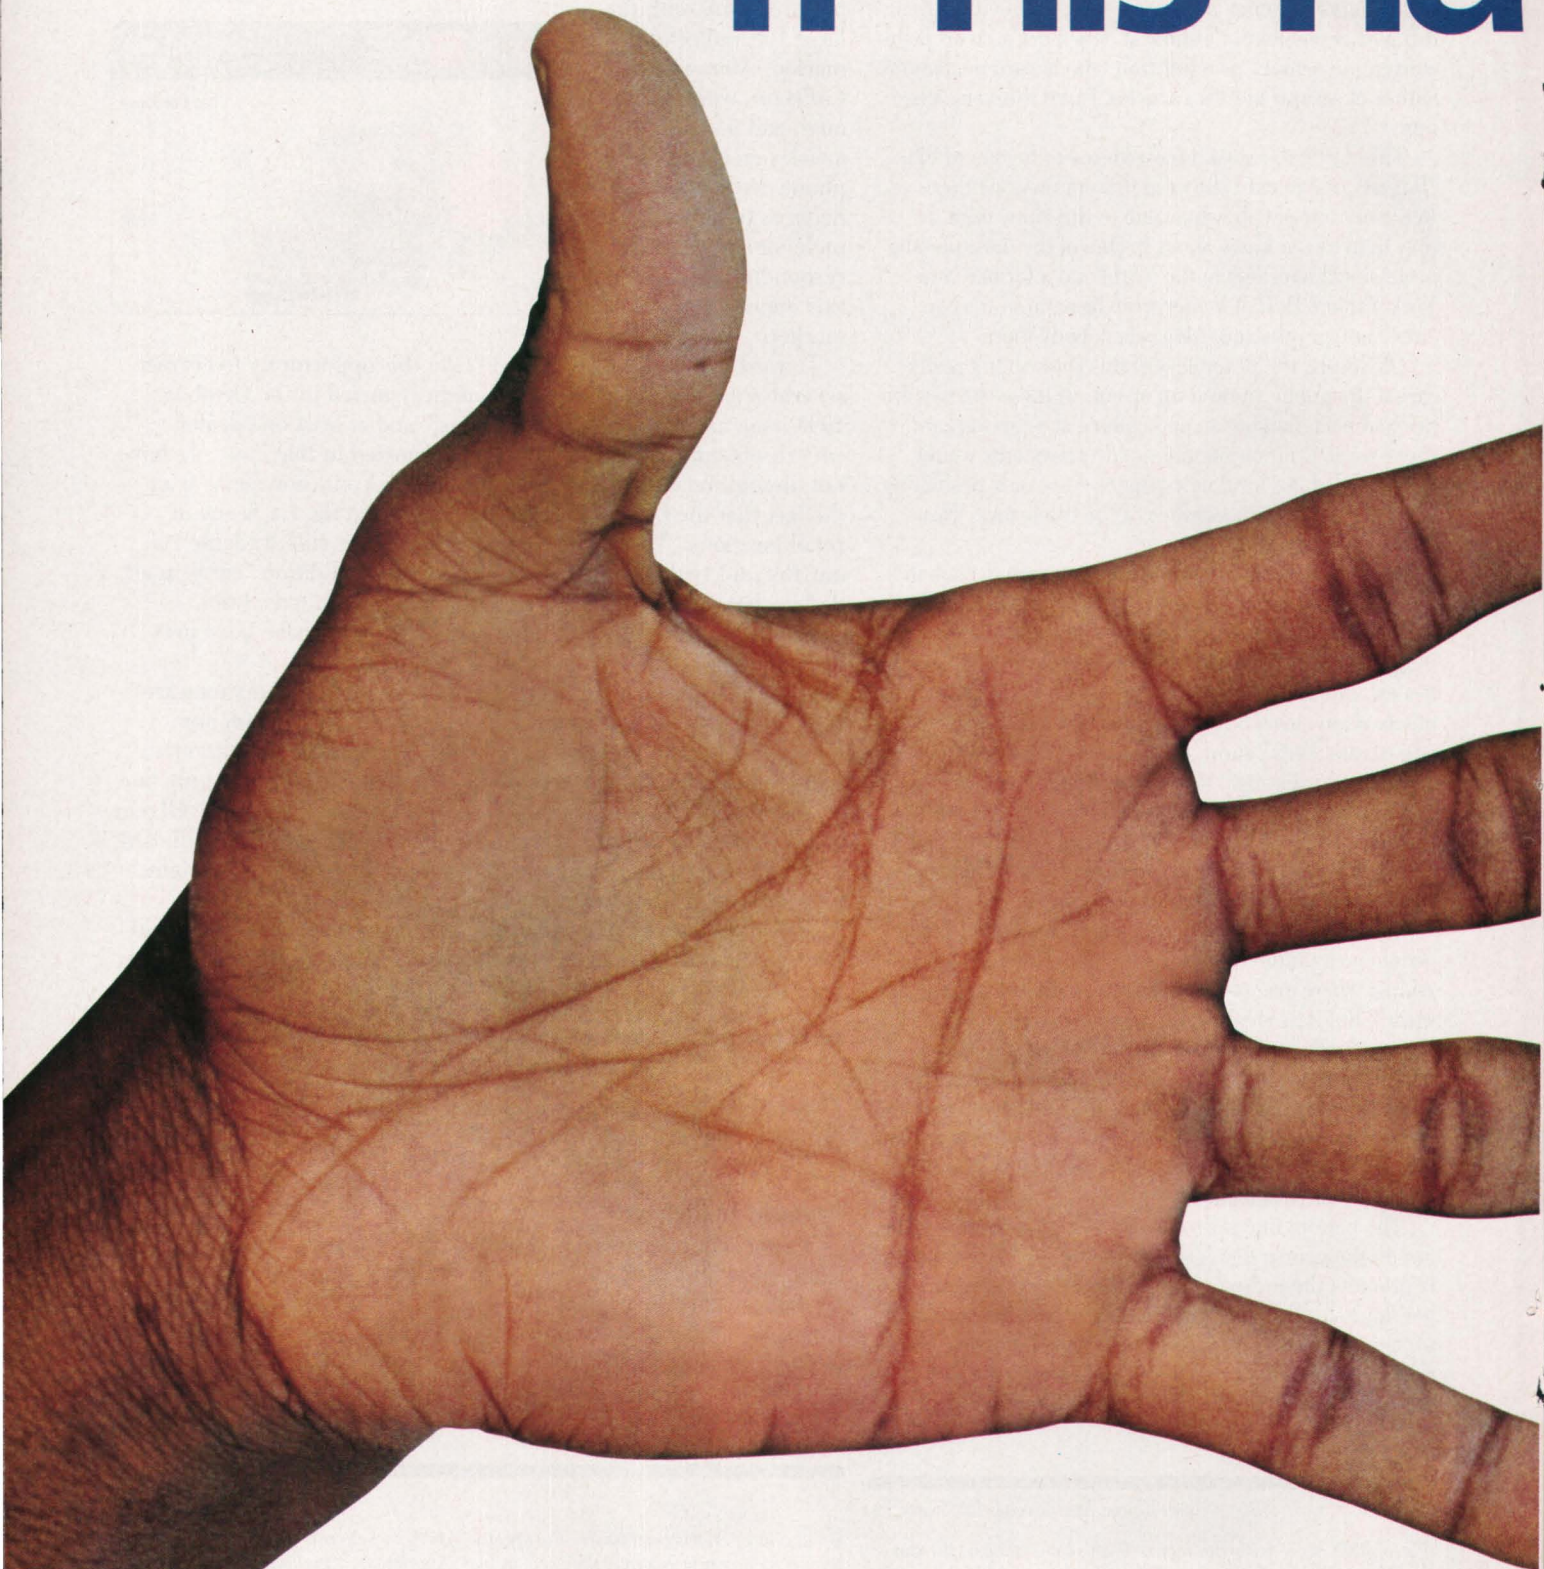

I would like to say what a great magazine Moneycard Collector is. I subscribe to three well-known U.S. telecard magazines and find yours by far the best and most enjoyable.

I wanted to touch on "terms" after reading the October issue. I often receive "promo" phone cards from the sports related companies. Would this be another term to add, or would it fall under an existing term? They fit the description of "SPECIMEN," but say "PROMO".

- Dave Gilroy, CompuServe

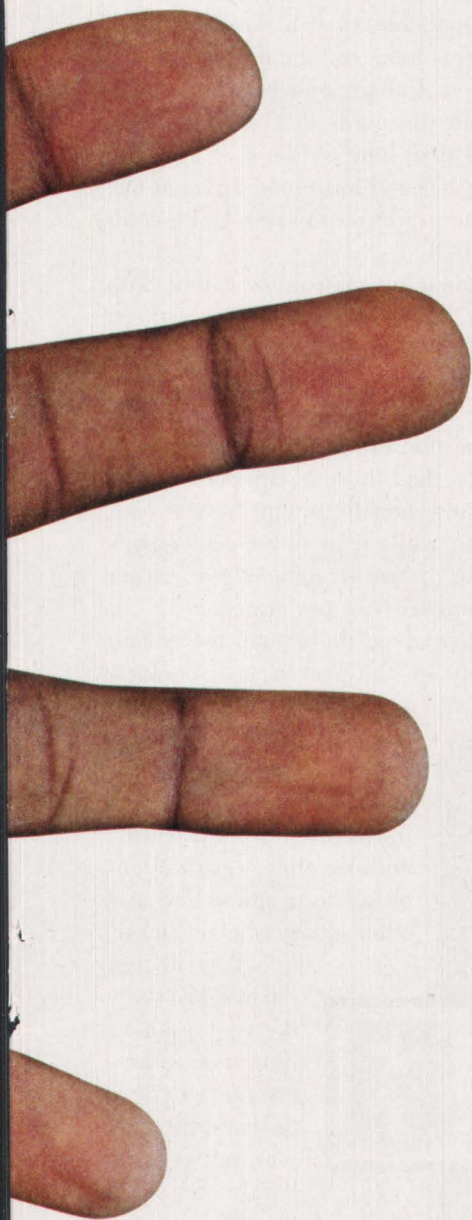

Good point! Sports card issuers use "promo" cards to help pre-sell issues, and the term is well-entrenched, yet they are, in fact, "specimens." Perhaps the best solution might be "promol specimen."

USPS/AmEx cards are 'First Class'

By Art Becker

Telephone cards being sold at U.S. post offices? You bet! Currently, the U.S. Postal Service is conducting trials, offering FIRSTCLASS PHONECARDS, with eight designs, in eight cities: San Diego; Miami; Albuquerque; Providence; Salt Lake City; Austin; San Antonio; and Columbus, Ohio. Generally, post offices within 50 miles of these cities should have at least some phone cards available.

American Express Telecom, Inc. is the official issuer of these very attractive plastic cards.

One feature, not usually found on most telephone cards, provides replacement time for cards lost or stolen (the card packaging recommends that you write down your PIN on the card carrier, and store it separately, as with travelers' check serial numbers). International calling, detailed calling activity reports, speed dialing, and recharging are additional features on the cards that are obviously designed to encourage their long-term use.

If you don't have the good fortune to live near one of these trial cities, you can order the new USPS cards by calling (800)297-7678.

Some of the coordinating companion stamps, with the same basic design, have differences between them, since they were printed on different printing presses, using different types and colors of ink.

For example, the Santa stamps in regular booklet form (that is, with gum that has to be moistened) have a different shade than those in the peel 'n stick booklet. All regular booklet stamps have at least one straight edge, while some of the peel 'n stick stamps have one or two straight edges. Other peel 'n stick stamps are fully perforated.

Most interesting about these unnecessary simulated perforations on the peel 'n stick booklets and coils is that their sole purpose is to fool postal personnel. Previously issued peel 'n stick stamps didn't include perforations, because they were die-cut on all four sides, like any other square label or sticker.

A problem immediately developed, because many postal workers assumed the new stamps weren't legitimate, since they didn't have any perforations. Thus, the postal workers returned them to the sender, marked as invalid for postage. The solution was to die cut such stamps in the form of simulated perforations. These perforations are, in fact, merely wavy lines between the stamps.

There are also some major differences between the designs on the phone cards and the stamps. Phone card designs are narrower and more detailed than those on the stamps. Also, the Carousel Horse stamps included on the phone cards and current stamps should not be confused with previously issued Carousel Horse stamps.

All of these collectibles should be available, in at least one form, at any large post office and philatelic window. They may be ordered by mail through the Philatelic Fulfillment Service Center, USPS, Box 419636, Kansas City, MO 64179.

Stamps can also be ordered by telephone at (800)782-6724, or by fax at (816)545-1212. There is a minimum fee of $3.20 added to mail or telephone orders. The more you order, the higher the fee.

The USPS/AmEx trials will do a lot to educate the public, and make phone cards more widely available. There is also some talk about issuing collector sets in the future.

Special thanks to Kirk Lawson and Steve Schwartz

THE BEATLES

OMNITEL 'ANTHOLOGY' CARD SENDS COLLECTORS SCRAMBLING

On November 19, 1995 the media was astir over an event of worldwide magnitude. Though it was covering neither a war, a sporting competition, or even a political event, the Sunday Boston Globe filled its pages with ads, articles and special sections. National Public Radio's Christopher Lyden asked callers to discuss their favorite songs. In addition to changing its name, ABC began showing its feature presentation of the event.

What was so important? You guessed it — a new Beatles album — and phone cards played an important role in the big event.

"To relive the '60s" composer Aaron Copland once said, "play Beatles music." And that's just what millions of Americans did when "A Beatles C" launched its three-part, six-hour "The Beatles Anthology" television special on November 19.

Music from "The Anthology" was released in compact disc, cassette and vinyl album formats. In addition to promoting the new recording, ad posters illustrated a picture of the first authorized U.S. Beatles phone card.

Produced for the retail music stores of Coconuts, Record Town and Tape World by OmniTel, the phone card was used as a premium incentive for purchasing the new release. For three weeks, any customer pre-ordering "The Anthology" received one of the 45,000 five-minute complimentary phone cards.

OmniTel had previously sold the stores on the idea of producing a phone card to help increase sales of albums in those three outlets. When the Beatles "Anthology" opportunity came up, the business partners instantly recognized that it was the perfect product match.

"The collectibility, universal appeal, and highly perceived value of prepaid calling cards played an integral role in the selection of phone cards as a promotional vehicle," said Jamie Terelak, OmniTel Marketing Director.

Of course, the Beatles phone cards passed the test with flying colors. According to OmniTel officials, the Anthology card helped create one of the most successful promotions ever conducted at those retail chains.

The front of the promotional phone card

features original artwork from the Beatles' "Abbey Road" album cover — the final album produced by the Fab Four. The cover artwork was chosen for the promotion because it is one of the most recognizable, popular and controversial of all Beatles' images.

For those not familiar with Beatles trivia, it was once believed that the cover image symbolized the death of Paul McCartney. Supposedly, John Lennon's white suit placed him as the minister; Ringo Starr dressed in black was the undertaker; George Harrison in working blues was the groundsman. McCartney, walking barefoot in the crosswalk, was the deceased, according to the story. Needless to say, it was the creation of modern folklore.

From the Queen of England naming them Members of the British Empire, to playing to a record-breaking 55,600 people in 1965 at Shea Stadium in New York, the Beatles did it all. Yet, not since the '60s has the group created so much excitement in American media and collectibles.

It is not often that a phone card becomes instantly historic. Yet, the recently issued Beatles card could be a powerful image to attract the attention of new collectors in the U.S. and abroad. Since the cards are promotional with a limited number available to the collector market, this prepaid could become one of OmniTel's most popular issues to date.

"And with a card like that like, you know you should be glad. Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah!"

Anthony R. Lyons

The new year is here and corporate/promotional cards promise to be even bigger than in 1995.

Phonecard Express is an issuer dealing exclusively in promotional phone cards, offering the most recent issues from Nabisco and Blockbuster Video. Select supermarkets in Cincinnati, Columbus and Dayton, Ohio, offered a 10-minute Nabisco Premium Saltine cracker card to customers who redeemed two Saltine proofs of purchase and a proof of purchase from Nabisco Easy Cheese. Only 3,300 cards were issued.

Blockbuster Video stores in Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama and Tennessee offered 10-minute cards promoting the home video release of "Mighty Morphin Power Rangers, The Movie" and Disney's "The Santa Clause."

Five thousand of each card were produced. Customers received the cards when they preordered the movies. This is the first time that Blockbuster has used phone cards to pre-sell movies.

New from OmniTel is a five-minute Carefree Gum card. Two thousand of the cards were produced for various promotions held at ski resorts in New England, with assistance provided by WHEB radio.

Ascot, Inc. supplied the phone time for a hot, new five-minute Domino's Pizza card. Available to customers purchasing an Ultimate pizza and a six-pack of Coke at the Robbinsdale, Minn., store, the cards number just 2,500.

TeleTrading Cards created a 10-minute prepaid for the USA TODAY newspaper. The logo cards were handed out to new subscribers to the publication. A total of 250 of these "test market" cards were issued for the promotion.

SmarTel has issued a "sweet" phone card for Hershey's. Available through the Hershey's mail order catalog, the 20-minute card is included with the purchase of a "chocolate" telephone. Production of the card is "ongoing."

LDDS added cards fashioned after cartons of Tropicana orange juice. Two thousand of these 10-minute cards were produced for internal corporate usage by the Florida fruit juice company.

PATCO, coming off an earlier promotion with Sony, has developed a new program with the giant electronics firm. This one involves 5,000 three-minute cards promoting Qic-Wide Tape, which is used to back up computers.

Creative Communications has produced an interesting card promoting Metro Network, one of the largest sources of traffic report information in the nation. Ten thousand 10-minute cards were produced and distributed at various trade shows for radio and television across the country.

Other current phone card promotions include Kraft Foods, GM Mr. Goodwrench (free card with an oil change at a GM Dealer) and Hillshire Farms sausage.

I could list more but instead, I'll save some good cards for next month. Keep scanning your Sunday newspaper coupon section for offers and above all, have fun collecting.

KEYS TO SUCCESS

DISTRIBUTION IS KEY TO SUCCESS OF PHONE CARDS

Distribution is the key to any line of products — especially new products attempting to forge a path into the marketplace. Now that telephone debit cards are breaking into the American mainstream, many companies are focusing on the distribution of these hot, new collectibles.

With the recent introduction of Finish Line PHONEPAKS, the pairing of the phone card and trading card industries may finally be ready for a trip to the altar.

The trading card industry is driven by sales of “blind packs.” Children, and later adults, would purchase sealed packs hoping to find their favorite player’s picture on a baseball card. The idea was very much akin to playing the lottery.

When the field became crowded and the competition increased, manufacturers searched for new ways to sell packs. “Chase” cards or “inserts” were seeded randomly in packs. These cards were printed in smaller quantities and featured key players or autographs. They were more valuable and increased the thrill of purchasing packs. Make no mistake about it — this was gambling in its purest form.

Chase cards are still the staple of the American trading card hobby. If it wasn’t for chase cards, card technology would not have advanced to the point where it is today. Gone are the low-level cardboard castings.

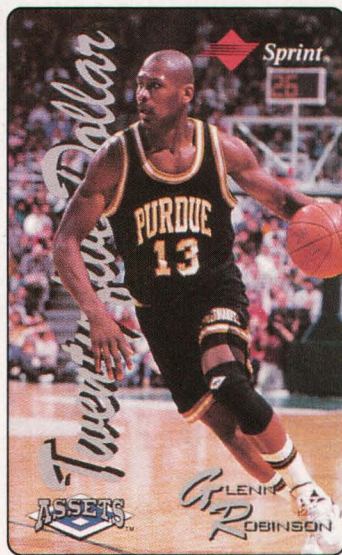

Cardboard gave way to chromium, metalized, clear-cut, foil-stamped, upgraded paper stock that makes the 1991 Topps card (Topps’ 40th anniversary edition) look like the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Now that the phone card industry door is open to the pack and box sales hobby, distribution will change to mirror trading cards.

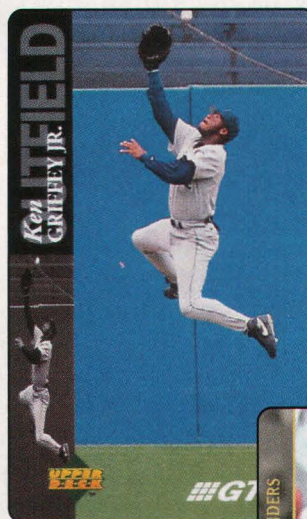

Typically, trading card manufacturers offer their products to three classes of trade. Most cardmakers send about 10,000 mailers to hobby shops and dealers around the country. Each of these dealers may buy either a half-case or up to two full cases of cards.

Finish Line; PHONEPAK; Sterling Marlin; $5 denomination; 570 issued; January 1996; call (904)285-6227, or fax (904)285-5408.

Classic; Assets I; Glenn Robinson $25; 808 cards issued; January 1995.

GTE; Major League Baseball Players Association Series I; Ken Griffey Jr.; $12 denomination; 2,500 issued; March 1995.

GTE/Upper Deck; NFL Players Series; Barry Sanders; five units; 2,500 issued; January 1995.

Let’s say a case of cards contains 20 boxes and sells for $1,000 per case. Each box then has a “factory direct” price of $50. With 25 packs in a box, they wholesale at $2 each. Typically, if a store owner puts the box on his counter to sell packs, he’ll charge $3 per pack. By selling out the entire box, he’ll make a profit of $25 on his $50 investment. In today’s world of trading cards, that’s a tremendous return.

The second channel of trade is the Master Distributor. A Master Distributor is allocated a large number of cases. Normally, he can take up to 30 days to pay for his purchase and gets discounts on top of that. His cost is lower, but his risk is much higher.

The Master Distributor (MD) may purchase 50 cases of a product and receive a five percent discount. He may also receive an additional two percent discount if he pays his bill within 10 days.

At $1,000 per case on just one product, it’s not easy to be a Master Distributor. In the continental U.S., there are about 50 distributors who can be classified as an MD for any one company. There are only about 15 large players who may be MDs for several cardmakers.

The goal of an MD is to sell his product, either by the box, or by the case, to shops and dealers who don’t buy directly from the manufacturer. An MD typically charges customers about 10 percent more than factory-direct cost. The additional percentage points he gets serve as a “bonus” for him. He is not expected to use those bonus points to undercut his competition.

For instance, if an MD orders 50 cases with a five percent discount and pays the bill within 10 days, he actually receives a seven percent discount. Instead of $1,000 per case, the product now costs him $930 per case. If he sells his product at cost (factory direct price), he still makes a profit of $3,500. If he does it properly, he makes an even tidier profit of $8,500 — a difference of $5,000! However, in today's "quick flip" market where dealers hope to turn a fast profit, too many are taking the easy $3,500, which creates a huge problem.

Dealers who bought the product for $1,000 per case see others selling it at that same price on the secondary market and they panic. Many are willing to take a loss right away just to get out of it. In this way, they get most of their cash back quickly and are able to buy the next product, hoping for a "winner."

With a little self-control, phone card distributors can avoid such problems. Most MDs in the card industry don't operate this way, but it only takes a few to ruin it for everyone. Manufacturers work to eliminate these distributors, and in many cases stop doing business with them.

The third channel of trade is "retail" and includes K-Mart, Wal-Mart and drug store chains. Retail is very important because most people will never visit a phone card show or a hobby store. Nearly everyone in America visits Wal-Mart. This may be the first place they see a phone card. If they purchase even one pack and they like it, they will visit shops and shows next.

There are other classes of trade such as mail order (which the phone card industry has been doing for years) and Direct Response TV. Television is a powerful tool for the collectibles industry. At times, more than $1 million in merchandise has been sold during a one-hour QVC or HSN show, seen nationwide.

It is important for phone card dealers to understand pack sales because there is a good profit potential. Buying a box for $50 and selling every pack at $3 brings a return of $75, assuming there are 25 packs in the box.

If he sells boxes outright to his customers, he must discount the price below the combined pack price. A box he purchased for $50 and would sell the packs for $75, would normally be sold for $55-$60 as a complete, unopened box. The sale may be faster, but the profits are much less.

If the dealer "breaks" the box (opens all the packs himself) and sells the singles, he can usually make even more money. However, he must also make more sales. If there are three phone cards in a pack, now he must sell 75 individual cards, not 25 packs. Of course, if he gets lucky and finds a rare card in one of the packs, it may be worth his effort.

At any rate, the phone card market finally may begin to experience the broad distribution and collector excitement of the trading card industry. Packs, boxes and cases have arrived. Each phone card dealer will find their own niche in this new universe, and hopefully avoid the mistakes of their counterparts.

Get ready — the fun is just about to begin.

REPORT CARD

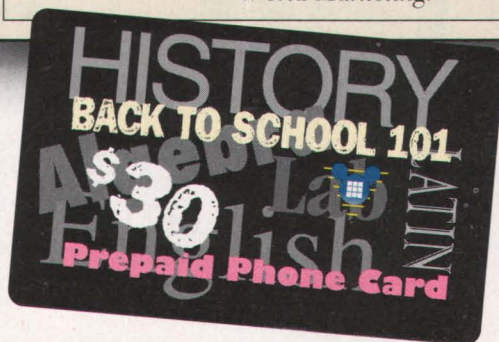

Vista-United Back To School Issue

Student Name: Vista-United Telecommunications

SUBJECT	GRADE					COMMENTS
	A	B	C	D	F
History	✓					Vista-United (51 percent owned by Disney and 49 percent by Sprint) took an informal survey in 1994, with the results showing that cast members (Disney employees) wanted prepaid phone cards for their children going back to school. In August 1995, V-U scheduled a release of four cards called the "School '95" issue.
Attendance			✓			Unexpected delays prevented meeting the time schedule. The "Back To School" cards actually became available at the end of September.
Economics	✓					Instead of canceling the issue, V-U proceeded to issue the four cards, since they were running low on the 1995 yellow rainbow stock cards.
Marketing	✓					It took a minimum order of $500 face value to obtain the cards from Vista-United. The cards also were available individually at the V-U building and at various cast member restricted areas (over-the-counter and at vending machines). All except the $60 cards were sold out by the end of November 1995.
Math	✓					One thousand of each card were issued, with the exception of 1,040 of the $7.50 value card. There were also 50 "Sample" cards made of each design.
Art	✓					The front of the four very different designs all include the Vista-United logo, denomination, the text "Back To School" and "Prepaid Phone Card." The reverse boasts the V-U logo again, the words "School '95," the expiration date of November 30, 1996, a serial number, and the typical instructions.

General Comments: The $7.50 card has a dark blue background and a pencil as its main design element. The $15 issue shows a multicolored explosion. The $30 card lists five school courses on the black back ground, with the main course being "History." The $60 card has a hot pink background with a short stack of three school books. These cards were actually designed by the creative services division of Walt Disney World Marketing.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

This month marks a major change in the manner that we determine the most popular cards in the market today. This month's listing is based on actual retail information submitted on a confidential basis by 15 of the most active and prominent U.S. dealers.

The top 10 sales lists from dealers remain quite diverse, which makes it tough for collectors. You'll probably need to acquire several price lists and spread your business among the dealers, since no one business is likely to have all the cards listed here.

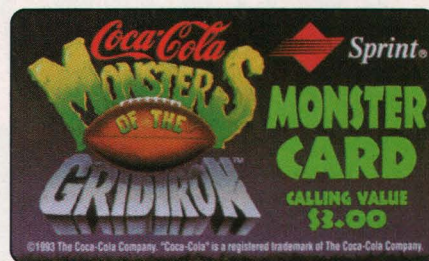

So let your fingers do the walking and call to request a price list from dealers listed in this month's Dealer Directory on page 38.

1 INNOVATIVE TELECOM LIFESAVER SET This brightly colored two-card set has the same appeal as last month's NBC Peacock card — a veritable kaleidoscope of colors at your fingertips. The two cards make a strong case for adding some corporate/promotional cards to your collection.

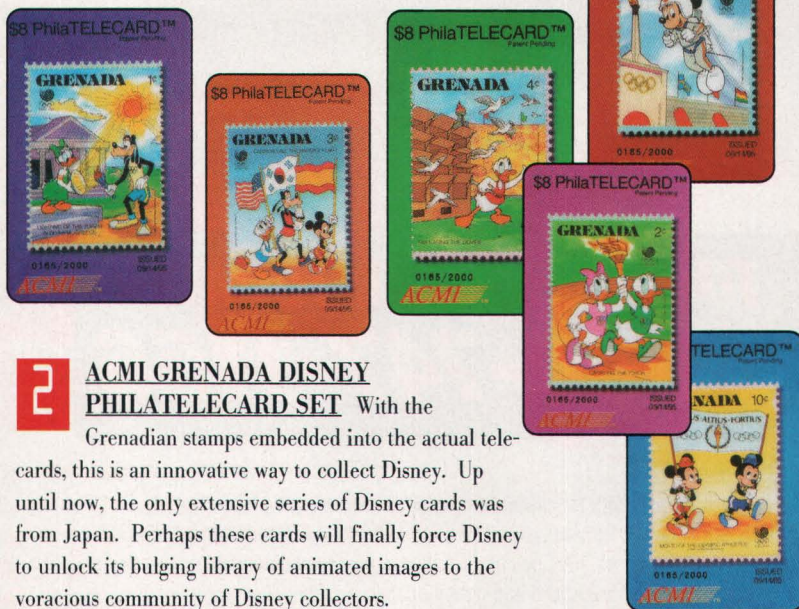

3 SPRINT MONSTERS OF THE GRIDIRON

After a long absence, the Monsters have popped back up on our list. Why now? Because a large stash of the cards recently changed hands, which created a healthy supply situation. The card is a good buy at levels under $10, and will become fairly scarce again in a year or two after this supply is dispersed around the world.

4 PREMIER TELECOM FRANK & SONS THIRD EDITION

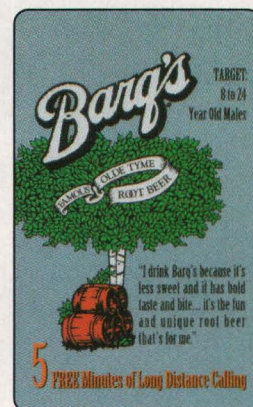

Limited to one per customer at the 8th Annual Ronald McDonald fundraiser during October, the price is now hovering just under $100, or twice the issue price. The mintage was 1,500 this time and the graphics are the best of the three sets. A salute to Frank Zamarripa and all the other donors who've raised more than half a million dollars for Ronald and his projects.

2 ACMI GRENADA DISNEY PHILATELECARD SET With the Grenadian stamps embedded into the actual telecards, this is an innovative way to collect Disney. Up until now, the only extensive series of Disney cards was from Japan. Perhaps these cards will finally force Disney to unlock its bulging library of animated images to the voracious community of Disney collectors.

5 CDG BARQ'S ROOT BEER

A nice promotional card from one of the leading root beer producers. A reasonably priced starter card for soft drink card collectors. If you limit yourself to one of each flavor/brand of soda, you won't go broke on the Coca-Cola "Machine," which could take all of your spare change.

9 GTN EAGLE A solid favorite this month among "users," this GTN card features the patriotic image of the Bald Eagle and the American flag.

6 SPRINT PEARLRIDGE HAWAII MCDONALD'S SET

Now with a mainland-produced folder, the set has made a mini comeback. The holdered sets usually come with matched serial numbers. The attractive four-card puzzle set was created to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the local McDonald's restaurant and includes the ever-popular Coca-Cola logo on each card.

7 PHONE CARDS HAWAII MCDONALD'S ALA MOANA

Though a desirable card to many, the supply was too short and the distribution was just a bit too secretive for collectors to participate. Nonetheless, the graphics are good and several mainland dealers have started selling them. Just be wary of the price that you pay.

8 SPRINT/SCORE BOARD

HOLIDAY SET This beautifully produced five-card set features vignettes of old time Coca-Cola holiday ads dusted off from the Atlanta archives. The only disadvantage to the cards is the hefty retail price of $110 for the set, which averages out to $.91 per minute of long distance time. The mintage is 2,500 sets.

10 PREMIER TELECOM FRANK & SONS SECOND EDITION

Issued for the June 1995 fund-raiser show for the Southern California Ronald McDonald Charities, the set was an early sellout. Also limited to one per customer at $50, Frank Zamarripa's second set features small images of the McDonald's characters in the upper left corners. The current $175 retail takes most of the investment hopes out of the set, but it is a must-have for McDonald's collectors.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion, Ill. Rankings are based on actual sales figures supplied to Moneycard Collector by U.S. phone card dealers. All dealers are welcome to participate by faxing their Top 10 best sellers for the month, along with the actual number of cards sold to retail customers. Fax us by January 17 for inclusion in the next issue of the magazine.

FINISH LINE SERIES OFFERS THREE-CARD PACKS OF PHONE CARDS. You have to go all the way back to 1993 to find the first Finish Line phone cards. That's a long way, when it relates to phone card history.

"We were the first company to do racing phone cards," claimed Finish Line President Art West. In 1994 the company issued phone cards as "chase" cards for their Finish Line Gold trading cards. Last year, in conjunction with Classic, the issuer put a phone card in every pack of Finish Line Assets, which helped move the Assets product.

This year, Finish Line is taking the cards to the next level with their unique PHONE-PAK concept. Beginning January 1996, for the first time ever, collectors were able to purchase packs of phone cards, and only phone cards.

Each PHONEPAK includes three working phone cards featuring 25 top drivers from the NASCAR Winston Cup circuit. One $2 card in every pack will include a silver facsimile signature of the driver and is part of a parallel set.

Each package guarantees a minimum $6 phone card value — two $2 cards and higher dollar denominations ($5, $10, $50, $100 and $1,000 phone cards) — are randomly inserted in the packs. A total of 100 of the $1,000 phone cards will be included — more than any other issuer has previously released.

The odds of finding one of the higher denomination cards in the 800 numbered and audited cases are one in 15 packs for a $5 card; one in 30 packs for a $10; one in 60 for a $50; one in 120 for a $100; and one in 1,920 for a $1,000.

With each display box holding 15 packs of cards, there should be at least one high denomination card in every display box. The average rate on the PhonePaks cards equates to $.66 per minute.

"We knew someone was going to offer packs of phone cards in the same way trading cards have been sold for years, and we're just excited to be the first," West stated. "We believe racing fans will love these valuable, collectible cards and we all feel the trading card hobby market will readily relate to this new way of purchasing phone cards.

"Where else can you buy a pack of collectible cards and know in advance that you are guaranteed at least $6 of value, plus its potential value as a collectible, in return?"

In all, there will be 134 different phone cards in the series, featuring 40 top drivers, including Jeff Gordon, Rickey Rudd, Rusty Wallace, Dale Earnhardt and Kyle Petty. All cards will be numbered, with a total series mintage of 625,660. The estimated retail price per pack is $7.

B & B Presents Your Top 10 Selections for 1995

The following are the top 10 selections for 1995 that the Moneycard readers and our preferred customers voted for during our contest last month. Voting was very close, specifically on the top five items. We thank each of you for your response to our contest.

Regarding 1996, we look forward to the greatest boom that any hobby has ever seen and predict that the major manufacturers and carriers will get serious about us, the phone card collectors, by limiting edition quantities and improving quality. We will also again go on record and make our first predictions of 1996, but they are only available to our preferred customers through our mailer and won't be published until next month (all items will be guaranteed buy-back items.) Don't say we didn't tell you so, only look at our results for 1995 to find out who is the Best In The West: Remember, we are the only dealer in the world with a guaranteed money back or trade in offer.

FLIGHT CALL

SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY WITH AN INTERNATIONAL TWIST A gala celebration that included champagne, the Memphis Symphony, and a special $100 prepaid phone card welcomed VIP passengers on the maiden voyage of the Northwest/KLM Royal Dutch flight.

As Federal Express de-icing trucks sprayed a simulated champagne bath on Elvis I, a wide-bodied McDonnell Douglas MD-11, more than 1,000 Memphians turned out for what Mayor W.W. Herenton called a "historic accomplishment... and economic progress for the city" (The Commercial Appeal).

June 27, 1995, marked the first regular four-times weekly nonstop flight between the two cities. The flights are designed to make convenient connections to Europe, Africa and the Middle East. Fares average $1,000-$1,200 and are already heavily booked through summer.

The complimentary phone cards were produced by ATS Network Communications, Inc., and Walker & Associates. Only 300 of the "Memphis To Amsterdam Inaugural Flight" cards were manufactured.

The cards feature a photographic illustration of the Memphis skyline and its distinctive Pyramid building on left side, which blends into a series of Dutch windmills on the right. Ninety cards were provided to passengers on the Amsterdam flight.

"Everybody calls home when traveling to check in and let their families know they've arrived. We wanted our local Amsterdam travelers to be able to call home to Memphis," said Timothy Whitehorn, president of ATS. "What better way than to produce a great collectible, commemorative card that really provides a much-needed service?"

According to Lewis Weiss, manager of prepaid services for ATS, 200 cards were made available for sale to the public and collectors. The $100 cards carry long distance that can only be initiated from Amsterdam to call anywhere in the U.S. For more information, contact (800)968-1287.

ATS, Memphis to Amsterdam, $100 denomination, 300 issued, July 1995.

CHECKERED FLAG

RACE CALL CASHING IN ON NASCAR APPEAL. Usually, when one mentions cars, this native New Yorker thinks of the Long Island Expressway and insurance rates that rival rents around Central Park West. Auto racing? Gotham lifestyle has me going in enough circles, thank you.

Tony Cloninger would be the first to correct any person with my kind of attitude.

"Racing's appeal," Cloninger explains, "has grown through television exposure. And because the cars look like something you could get off the show room floor, people identify with it."

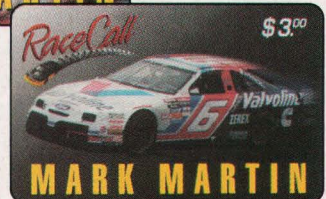

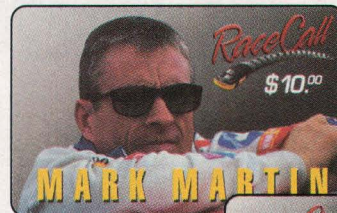

Cloninger recently unveiled Race Call, a company whose main products are NASCAR-licensed phone cards. A Race Call card has more than just pictures of the racers and their cars, though, and that makes these cards particularly attractive, as far as the phone card industry is concerned.

"We offer interactive cards with information that the fans want," Cloninger said. "We hired Dr. Jerry Punch, a racing analyst for ESPN, to give fans their favorite driver's current standings in qualifying, race results, Winston Cup standings, money earnings, and all the other statistics these people find relevant and don't want to wait for."

The reaction has been positive — and not just from the phone card collecting community. Positive results have also been achieved from ads in racing publications like Winston Cup Scene, according to the phone card issuer.

"Racing fans will buy a lot of merchandise that is related to the industry, sponsors and drivers. They'll buy Tide detergent because Rickey Rudd drives the Tide car, whether they like him or not. They'll spend $40 to $50 for a used tire and turn it into a coffee table, if the tire came off their favorite driver's car."

"We've had very good response from phone card shows, as well as sports memorabilia shows," Cloninger said. "I think one of the things that really helps us is that we're at the races every week and showing these people what we're doing. They really get enthusiastic about it."

Race Call; Mark Martin; three-card set; 20 minutes (5,000 issued), $3 (10,000), $10 (5,000); May 1995; (704)483-1005.

Race Call; Dale Earnhardt Silver Anniversary; three-card set; $25 denomination on each; 2,500 issued; 1995.

Race Call; Dale Earnhardt Chevrolet Open House; $10 denomination; 2,200 issued; May 1995.

One of Race Call's most popular cards is a $25 Dale Earnhardt Silver Anniversary card issued this past summer. The commemorative card shows Dale's silver Chevrolet Lumina, which was specially painted for the 25th anniversary race. The first of a three-card set, the remaining cards were unveiled last November. Only 2,500 sets were produced.

All together, there are now 23 different Race Call phone cards available in sets or individually. In addition to personal biography, career highlights, and season updates on the featured drivers, all of the cards are rechargeable with a major credit card.

Despite the success with NASCAR, Race Call may take a slightly different "turn" in the future. Cloninger's father was a well-respected pitcher in Major League baseball during the '60s, and currently serves as pitching coach of the New York Yankees.

Whether Tony Jr. will add baseball superstars to the Race Call starting grid is yet to be determined, but it goes without saying that he has an inside track on Yankees David Cone, Jack McDowell (both Cy Young winners), Jimmy Key (Cy Young runner-up), and future Hall-of-Famers Don Mattingly and Wade Boggs.

YEEEE HAH!

*"Well, it's bulls and blood
It's dust and mud. . .
. . .the white of his knuckles
The gold in the buckle.
It's boots and chaps
It's cowboy hats.
... and they call the thing "Rodeo."*

THIS THING CALLED RODEO More than a century ago, the physically demanding chores of ranch work began to evolve into a competitive way of life now known as the professional rodeo — saddle bronc riding, bull riding, bareback riding, calf roping, team roping, steer wrestling, and barrel racing.

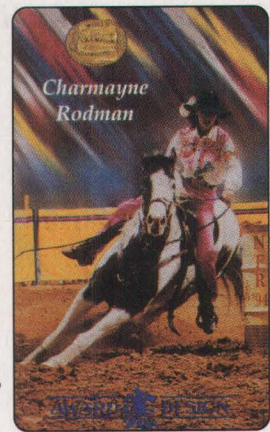

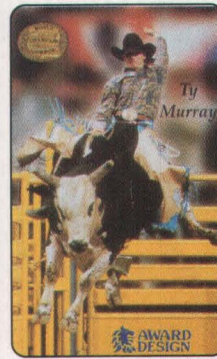

The tremendous popularity of rodeos and phone cards have teamed up for a series of 12 spectacular new cards featuring world champions of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA).

Issued by Empire Cards, founded by Manet Applebaum, the cards were released at the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, December 1-10. Featuring about $3 million in purse money, the event drew almost 170,000 attendees and was enjoyed by some 5.2 million viewers on ESPN and TNN.

Known as the "Gold Buckle Series," the cards feature 12 of the most notable pro rodeo competitors in North America. There are 5,000 of each 25-unit card issued at $15 each.

The riders share in the proceeds of both the initial sale and the renewal, which gives fans an opportunity to support their favorites financially.

Featured on the cards are Ty Murray, six-time All-Around Cowboy and Bull-Riding Champion; Jim Sharp, two-time World Champion Bull Rider; Daryl Mills, a Canadian champion, who is the current World Champion Bull Rider; Don Gay, retired holder of eight world titles in Bull Riding; Joe Beaver, five-time World Champion Calf Roper; Rob Smets, five-time World Champion Bull Fighter; Ronnie Sparks, two-time World Champion Bull Fighter; Ote Berry, three-time World Champion Steer Wrestler; and Clint Corey, World Champion Bareback Rider.

Also featured are Jake Barnes and Clay O'Brien Cooper, who are seven-time World Champion Steer Ropers; and Charmayne Rodman, the 24-year-old 10-time female Barrel Racing Champion. For more information about the cards, call (405)366-7169.

For the uninitiated, Gold Buckle refers to the specially designed belt buckles provided by Award Design Metals to winners of all PRCA's championship events. Each year, hand-crafted and intricately engraved gold belt buckles are given to the World Champion (the best overall competitor) and the top competitor in each event.

Whether sport, business, or competition, the rodeo has developed into a way of life that has its own following. The first phone cards featuring pro rodeo will no doubt find a following among fans and collectors alike.

AMERITECH

This RBOC continues to look for ways to reduce the amount of coinage used in its public payphones. Preparations are nearing completion for the full roll out in early 1996 of its paper cards that will be sold through Cash Station ATM machines.

When customers use a Cash Station ATM to purchase an Ameritech phone card, the phone card they get will be simply the usual thin paper ATM receipt, along with an 800 number and PIN code. In early 1996, Ameritech cards ranging from $10 to $50 went on sale at 250 ATMs in the metro Chicago area and another 300 machines located in 7-Eleven stores in Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Missouri.

Catalina Marketing has developed a similar phone card system, with phone cards at such locations as grocery store checkout stands, or perhaps as a premium for purchasing certain products.

BELL ATLANTIC

Bell Atlantic continues to sit on the phone card sidelines — at least for the foreseeable future. According to a spokesman, there are no plans to convert any of their payphones to accept stored memory phone cards. While the concepts of remote and stored memory phone cards are still being considered, the company continues to believe neither to be economically feasible at this time.

Before the RBOC stopped selling the cards, 23 different designs had been produced. Several were private issues, and one was destroyed before any were distributed at all. Two different employee test cards were used prior to the rest of the cards being made available to the public.

BELLSOUTH

Many of the early magnetic stripe BellSouth cards have been destroyed. While actual figures have not been provided yet, as many as half of the production runs of some cards may have been destroyed. The first Atlanta remote memory cards have passed the expiration date printed on their reverse, but the cards were still functional as of press time.

A unique $2 Change Card (stored value) offered at TeleCard World East Show in late September featured a commemorative photo phone card of the purchaser, along with three members of the Radio City Music Hall Rockettes. For $5 the customers (mostly male) got a color photo, color souvenir phone card, and a chance to flirt with one or more of the famous dancers.

Similar to last year's King Kong set, this year's show set was a vertical three-card puzzle featuring the Radio City Music Hall marquee. The three cards had values of $1, $5 and $10, with the $1 card a complimentary (set priced at $15).

Other Change Cards produced recently include a $10 card commemorating the 50th anniversary of the United Nations, and a complimentary $2 card for Telecom 95, held in Geneva, Switzerland. The latter card had a 10,000 mintage, and might now be available only through the Collectors Club.

From the remote memory side, the Brasher Doubloon trial card, of which 1787 were printed by BCC, also has a magnetic stripe on the reverse. The $5 card issued for the Governors Conference in Vermont is considered a complimentary card, and is not being sold. You can only get one if you buy several hundred dollars worth of the other

Vermont remote memory cards. Even my $300 purchase wasn't enough to get one, however. Apparently $400, or even $500, is the magic number.

PACIFIC BELL

The 1995 Christmas cards were issued in three sets of three denominations each (see January Moneycard Collector's "New Issues"). The long rumored State Parks cards, as well as the anticipated Marine World/Africa cards, may be sold at those venues only, and not at PacBell offices or even through their 800 number. The final decision had not been made at press time.

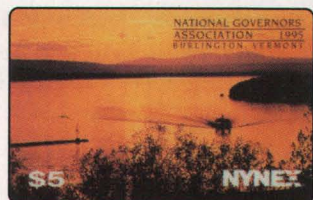

Mid January will mark the release of a new generic line of

SOUTHWESTERN BELL

The Ballgame series, commemorating the career of St. Louis Cardinal great, Stan "The Man" Musial, was delivered during early November. Along with the first Southwestern Bell card issued (the $10 Stan Musial Major League Tryout card), three more sets of $10, $15, and $25 cards comprise the series.

The nine cards in the sets were printed in quantities of 3,000 each. Matched sets in mini albums are priced at $50 each, and a collection of all three mini albums, the folder and a $10 Major League Tryout card sell for $160.

The three-set collection I received had all serial number 66 cards and was autographed by Stan Musial. One thousand of the matched serial number three-set collections are available.

Interestingly, the $10 Major League Tryout card included with the three-set collection is a variety of the $10 card issued last July. While the obverse is identical, the serial numbers and bar codes on the reverse are different. For example, the original card had the serial number in the format 2311/5000, while the 1,000 cards in the collection used the format 0066 / 5000 (a space in front of, and following, the slash). The bar code on the collection card also has a series of digits below it, while there are no such numbers on the original card.

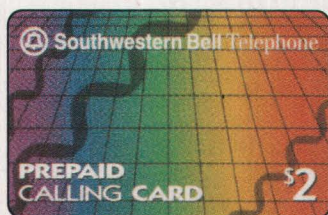

Since 5,000 of these cards were issued, with 1,000 of them reserved for the three-set collection of mini albums, it might be that the two varieties were printed at different times.

Bell has been unavailable for comment.

Many of those who joined the free Southwestern Bell Collectors Club received a complimentary $2 Spectrum card. According to Southwestern Bell, only specific locations received the $2 card. Unfortunately, our nation's capital, Washington, DC, was not one of those locations.

All of the Spectrum and the three-city sets of Southwestern Bell cards are made of laminated paper, while the Stan Musial cards are plastic. The $10 and $20 Spectrum and three $10 and $20 city sets (St. Louis, Houston and Little Rock) can be purchased with matching serial numbers, if requested. Call Southwestern Bell at (800)600-2355.

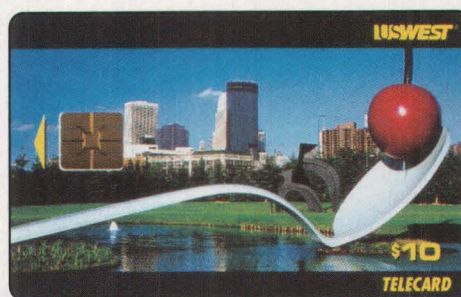

U S WEST

Two more U S WEST cities have new phone card sets. The cards were issued for the 16,000 new Nortel Millennium smart card (chip and credit cards) telephones being installed in Phoenix and Minneapolis. The new issues include a $5, $10 and $20 Skyline set (15,000 issued) for both cities, with the same three denominations used for Arizona Views and Minneapolis Landmarks sets (6,000 of each issued).

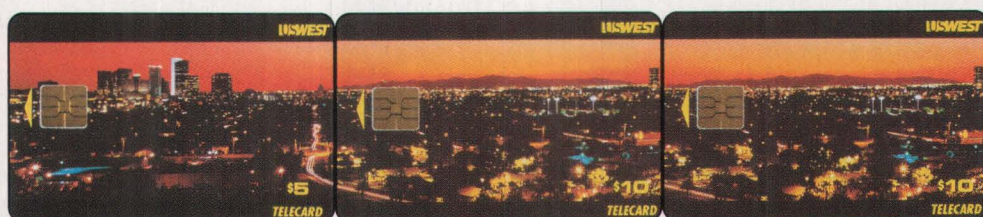

U S West issued three complimentary cards in 1995, including two varieties of the $1 Falling Coins card. Ten thousand were printed for CardEx 95 in Holland. The cards included the text "CardEx 95" on the top, with several logos on the reverse. An interesting feature of the card chips on these two cards is that they only have six pads, instead of the usual eight.

Fifty-thousand of the generic Falling Coins cards were printed for distribution to new customers. The telco mailed some out in August to customers who had used their 800 number to order cards. Call (800)739-3339 or fax (206)345-1288.

Fleet Week Sails Onto Phonecards

Golden Gate Diamond

Fleet Week is San Francisco's annual celebration of the city's long association with the U.S. Navy. The celebration traces its roots to 1908 when Teddy Roosevelt's Great White Fleet sailed to San Francisco. Fleet Week became an official celebration in September 1919 when 36 Navy ships from the Pacific battleship fleet steamed into the bay. This year, Fleet Week 1995 took place from October 4 through 11. The parade of ships was led by the aircraft carrier Carl Vinson which launched and recovered jet aircraft in the shadow of the Golden Gate Bridge — within a few hundred yards of 300,000 cheering spectators.

The Fleet Week air show featured some of the world's best aerobatic pilots and was climaxed by a stunning performance by the U.S. Navy flight demonstration team, the Blue Angels.

This year, for the first time, HT Technologies and Pier 39 capture the fun and the spectacle of this one-of-a-kind event in The Fleet Week 1995 Collector Card Series. Share and preserve the experience with these fabulous limited edition phonecards.

The Fleet Week phonecard series includes images of Fleet Week participants including the Blue Angels and ships of all kinds from around the world. The set carries logos of sponsors Coca-Cola, Swatch, Kodak, Citibank, United Airlines and others.

The John Mason Collection New Worlds Discovered

For most of his 35 years John Mason has brought beauty to life in his music, painting and computer animation and now with the release of the John Mason series by HT Technologies, on phonecards. In viewing the stunning images in this series it is difficult to believe that the strikingly beautiful and realistic universe depicted on these cards is solely the product of John Mason's fertile mind. One simply cannot look at these scenes and not feel that these are real places.

These unique and beautiful cards give this Carmel California artist a new medium for his vision. John Mason has brought new places to the world of phonecards and a new dimension to art. A few fortunate collectors will enter this amazing fantasy universe with the John Mason series phonecards.

The Automobile Turns 100

Celebrate the 100th anniversary of the automobile industry with the ongoing series of automobile phonecards from HT Technologies, the National Automotive Historical Collection and the American Automobile Centennial Commission. The first issues will depict a Dodge Viper (shown), a vintage LaSalle and a 1917 Buick and will be followed by additional cards during the centennial year. Interested collectors should order now so as not to miss any of these beautiful cards.

QUICK TAKES

AMOS PRESS SHOWS OFF PUBLICATIONS Amos Press Inc., the parent company of Moneycard Collector, has issued a new 10-minute phone card commemorating the multi-million dollar renovation of its Ohio-based headquarters building.

Distributed internally to Amos Press employees, the 1,000-card issue is only the second produced by Moneycard, and is the first since the July 1994 ANA Show two-piece set by Ameritech.

The new card shows an architectural drawing of the building, along with the logos of six Amos Press publications: Moneycard Collector, Linn's Stamp News, Coin World, Scott's Stamp Monthly, Cars & Parts and The Sidney Daily News.

Telecommunications service for the card was supplied by ACMI, with printing by Continental Plastic Card.

KIDS CALL SANTA Although a little late for our Christmas issue, Imagine Corporation's CALL SANTA prepaid was quite creative. Shaped like the jolly old Saint Nick, the card allowed children to call Santa with their Wish List. A series of easy-to-follow voice prompts by Santa provided kids and parents instructions on how to leave and retrieve messages.

Young callers were able to visit the reindeer flight academy and enjoy the Jingle Rock Cafe with Santa's elves. After the time expired, the plastic card could be used as a tree ornament.

CALL SANTA was available for $5.99 from such retailers as Spencer Gifts, Genovese Drugs, Bed Bath and Beyond, and many department store chains. Network services were provided by BTL.

THE PANTRY STOCKS UP ON PHONE CARDS One the largest U.S. convenience store chains, The Pantry, has teamed up with ConQuest to offer prepaid calling cards in more than 400 store locations. The North Carolina-based chain has stores located in five states throughout the Southeastern U.S. The new cards were introduced during early November.

HUNGARIAN CARDS ON CD-ROM The first-ever phone card catalog published on a CD-ROM is now available.

Featuring phone cards from the Hungarian Telecom, the interactive CD-ROM is Mac and PC compatible, with English, French, German and Hungarian language options. Plans call for the catalog to be published annually.

The retail price of $69 includes a limited edition (4,000 mintage) commemorative phone card, with a special three-dimensional magic picture on the reverse.

The Hungarian Phone Card Catalog '95 can be ordered by phone/fax at 36-1-167-3326 or E-Mail to: ColorPlus.MG@applelink.apple.com

KEEP THE CHANGE TRACKS BUYER TRENDS During the past three months, Scott du Pont and John Bridges of Keep the Change in Orlando, Fla., have been tracking buyer preferences for phone cards. What are the most popular themes in collectible phone cards?

Because KTC sells cards to both users and collectors, the results should not be interpreted as representing the most popular collector themes. "There's no doubt that the sports, movies/TV and Coke/Disney categories would have been stronger if we had been tracking only collector card sales," du Pont commented. Still, the statistics are interesting and demonstrate the wide variety of themes available to phone card collectors.

SOUTH AFRICA

Phone cards from the 'Rainbow Nation'

By Rian Olivier

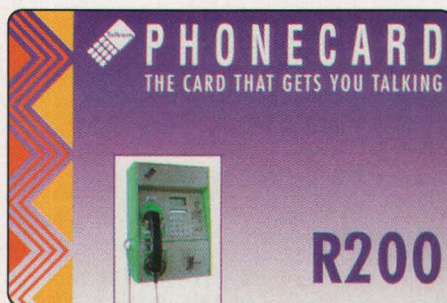

Last April, South Africa celebrated its first anniversary as a truly democratic nation. Despite prophecies of doom in some quarters and the inevitable "teething" problems, South Africa is succeeding in carving out its place in the sun as the "Rainbow Nation."

To celebrate the momentous year, Telkom South Africa issued its National Unity Phonecard to coincide with the first anniversary of Nelson Mandela's inauguration as President of the Republic of South Africa.

Produced as a tribute to this courageous man, the 500,000-card issue of R10 "Mandela" cards is sure to become the quintessential South African Phonecard for international collectors.

In late March, Telkom South Africa hosted the biennial Telkom 95 Conference and Exhibition, the premier event on the telecommunications calendar. This event attracted some 3,000 delegates and more than 120 international and local speakers, all authorities on their specialist subjects.

For this exhibition, 7,000 specially-designed complimentary 20-unit phone cards were produced and distributed to speakers and delegates. The card features the "Telkom 95" logo and depiction of the world of telecommunications as viewed through the eyes of an indigenous Mdebele artist.

As probably the most important international sporting event over the next few years, South Africa also had the honor of hosting the 1995 Rugby World Cup competition. Comprised of teams from 16 nations, the Rugby World Cup was one of the most exciting sporting events in South African history.

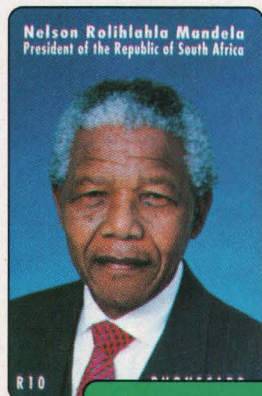

Telkom SA grasped the opportunity by issuing a range of Rugby World Cup Phonecards to mark the occasion and to offer collectors a selection of outstanding World Cup memorabilia.

The series consists of 50,000 10-unit complimentary cards, largely issued to players and rugby officials; 800,000 R10 commercial cards for general distribution; and four R6 Phonecards, with a 100,000 mintage, designed specifically for a special promotion to encourage collection of the set of four cards among young rugby enthusiasts.

The series depicts rugby "heroes" in action, enclosed in promotional folders with collectible "stickers" of other rugby heroes, all having exciting and topical value.

A "souvenir" pack directed at the general public is also being produced, made up of the Rugby World Cup complimentary card and the four R6 "rugby heroes" cards.

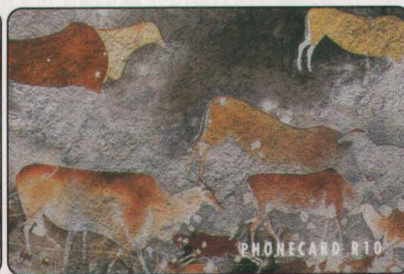

For the serious collector, a limited 2,500 quantity of collector packs has been produced with the complimentary card and the four R6 "rugby heroes" cards. These packs are individually numbered and feature corresponding serial numbers.

A special edition "Greetings" Phonecard was produced in an R10 denomination, of which 500,000 were issued. The card features an angel and sold out within a month.

As the fourth in Telkom's general series, and following the highly successful Big 5, Birds of Prey and Child Art series, a new series titled Bushman Painting was introduced in January 1995.

This series, unique to South Africa, comprises four cards (two R10, one R20 and one R50) based on an authentic rock painting by the San (Bushman) people, and designed in such a way that each card is a portion of the painting while the four cards viewed together in a particular sequence constitute the whole painting.

To achieve some rarity and collector interest, production quantities varied from 1.5 million of the one R10 card, through 800,000 of the second R10 card, through 620,000 of the R20 card and 80,000 of the R50 version. A limited edition 5,000-unit collector's pack has also been made available. The packs are individually numbered with corresponding serial numbers.

Finally, a new issue of Telkom South Africa's generic series has been issued. Based on a South African ethnic design, in different colors for each denomination, the series was available in R10, R20, R50, R100 and R200 denominations, with production quantities of 1.5 million/ 500,000/ 90,000/ 10,000/ 5,000.

Questions about collector packs, the current Telkom Phonecard catalog, ordering procedures and forms should be directed to Telkom Phonecards (Collectors), P O Box 5980, Pretoria, 0001, Republic of South Africa.

COCA-COLA CHASE

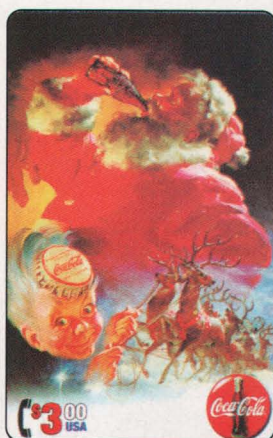

EARLY COLLECT-A-CARD SERIES IS STILL ELUSIVE. Many of the collectors now chasing after the popular World of Coca-Cola phone cards have been a bit surprised to discover that they may not have found the "first" U.S. licensed Coca-Cola set of prepaids.

The now-elusive first Coke issues were distributed by Collect-A-Card, Greenville, S.C. According to Mike DeBoer, distributor for the company, it took over five years to work out the licensing necessary to produce the four different 100-image trading card sets, special limited print inserts, and phone cards.

The popular non-sports trading card series features nostalgic images from the Coca-Cola archives in Atlanta. And, as might be expected, the cross-over distribution of chase and insert phone cards portraying the ever-popular Coke icon was immediately targeted by collectors.

It was the fourth and final series, released during early 1995, that included the $3 phone cards.

Rockwell's "Boy gone Fishin"

"Sprite Boy"

"Big Red Coke Machine,"

"Home Run";
$5 case card;
4,500 issued.

Collect-A-Card produced 15,000 each of four different Coke calling cards. Phone time was provided by Sprint.

The first card in the series is a "Haddon Sundblom Santa." Memorabilia collectors know Sundblom as the artist who painted an extensive series of Coca-Cola Santas over many years. The second portrays Norman Rockwell's "Boy gone Fishin" painting, while the third shows the famous "Big Red Coke Machine," and the last is the "Sprite Boy."

For those unfamiliar with these trading cards, they came sealed in individual packages with eight cards in each pack. Each box contained 36 packs, with 20 boxes per case. The insertion ratio was one phone card per 60 packs of cards.

The term "chase" refers to the fact that since there is a relatively small number of these highly desirable prizes available, collectors must "chase after" them to find even one, much less obtain a complete set.

Even more scarce is the $5 "insert" phone card which was packed in each complete case of 20 boxes. The card pictures a 1977 Coke ad of a visiting team baseball player watching a home run fly over his head. There were 4,500 of these cards produced.

The cards could not be purchased directly from Collect-A-Card. Some dealers have recently advertised that they carry these cards, and the December Moneycard Price Guide indicates a value of approximately $30 apiece. You can also call Mike DeBoer at (313)434-5474 for more information.

And so, collectors, the Coca-Cola chase is on...again!
