ON THE MONEY

ow time flies! It was two years ago this month that our initial price guide made its debut with about 300 listings, a mere fraction of the thousands of listings we run now. That whopping difference is just one of the many indicators of how the prepaid phonecard industry is booming. See Cataloguer Tori Stone's "Words on Numbers," Page 11, for more. This issue also marks Tori's one-year anniversary with the magazine.

Another example of growth: It was in last February's edition that we first reported on the U.S. Postal Service's "FirstClass PhoneCard" trial program. This month's "Quik Takes" > reports on the national roll-out of the program which is co-branded with American Express Telecom Inc. See Page 38 for details.

Other developments that promise future changes in moneycards include separate mid-November announcements from American Express and MasterCard concerning smart card technology (See "Quik Takes," Page 38). American Express purchased rights to Banksys' smart card technology, including its Proton electronic purse, while MasterCard announced it would purchase controlling interest in Britain's Mondex.

While we continue to monitor the impact of those new alliances, we will use this occasion to point out once again that collectability of smart cards depends on their their exchangeability and the extent to which they replicate cash. There are many enhancements that "multi-function" chip-based cards can offer, but while they might make marketing and banking services easier for financial institutions, those enhancements infringe on the fact that money should be anonymous, and that consumers should be able to carry, use, enjoy and collect moneycards without their name and identity attached to the card.

Nowhere is the growth of prepaids more evident than in the expansion of network marketing companies. Last month we launched Moneycard Collector's new "Tapping the

Whether you think good or ill of network marketing companies and their impact on telecard collecting, their burgeoning ranks include many level-headed representatives who have sound philosophies about collecting.

One veteran Strategic Telecom Systems representative who visited the Moneycard Collector offices recently pointed out that the growth of the hobby would be smoother and faster if issuers — NMCs or otherwise — concentrated on retail sales of cards. The philosophy that promoting usage will educate consumers and in turn stimulate the growth of the hobby is not a new one, and has been extolled in these pages not only by us, but by such industry notables as Powell Associates' Luis Vigdor and consummate collector Alex Rendon.

It is always a mistake to try to force people to collect something. Interesting cards with real value always will attract collectors—and it is a more enjoyable feast if the diners come to the table willingly.

How about a contest to shake you out your winter doldrums? The prize is a very rare set of Nevada Bell holiday cards. Check out the details on Page 45.

Readers might remark that this edition, like its immediate predecessors, is somewhat more slender than those of last summer and early fall. Here's why: Bulkier editions in August, September and October were due in part to special events such as the Olympics, our second anniversary and the Definitive Phonecard Collection. The norm for the magazine's 30 issues to date is 52 pages (50 percent) or 60 pages (30 percent) - 24 of 30 editions have been those sizes. Even if the magazine feels a tad lighter, our readers readily can see that the same elements to which they are accustomed - such as feature stories, letters, new issues, "America's Most Wanted," "Corporate Corner" and "Quik Takes" are still there, plus the new "Tapping the Networks" column. As advertising support grows in 1997, we will be able to expand our pages to include even more of your favorite cards and features.

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

On the right trail

I am the president of the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge No. 59 in Cleveland, Tenn. I am also a subscriber to your fine magazine, which got me interested as a collector, and now, in the moneycard business.

I recently, with the help of USA Card, produced a card as a fund-raiser for our lodge. The "Trail Of Tears Commemorative" (November 1996, Page 55) which you were kind enough to include in your new issue section has really taken off and is on its way to being sold out! After the mention in your magazine we were contacted by the Sears Phone Card people in Florida and they not only purchased cards but have included them in their publication. The card was initially sold locally for $9.95; Sears advised us that they would retail for about $12!

My purpose for this letter is to say thanks. Not only for the boost you gave our first issue, but for the great magazine you produce and the support and education you provide to all collectors.

John Cook, Cleveland, Tenn.

USACard; Trail of Tears; 10 units; 525 issued; August 1996.

Scratch & win

I received a "Scratch & Win" game ticket from my local Food Lion store after making a purchase in the grocery department. It is a prize ticket offering a collectible FANSCAN phonecard, 5 minutes for $4.95, a regular $7.45 value.

I hope your catalog will have a price listing giving at least two prices for each card: "new, unused," and "used, in good condition.'

Calvin S. Hunt, Spring Grove, Wash.

Thanks for the game ticket, and rest assured that plans for the upcoming "Moneycard Collector Catalog of Collectible U.S. & Canadian Prepaid Phone, Cash & Transit Cards" will have both "mint" and "used" price listings.

Eagle card's clipped wings

Regarding your "Cards and Promises" article (October 1996, Page 78), I have some additional comments on the Valuline Eagle card.

I first became aware of the cards at a collectors' show in Denver, Colo., in November 1994. Each person who had a table was given a $2.50 Eagle card. During the show, one of the dealers tried to use the card and found that the 800 number was wrong. Word of the error got around the show fast and soon everyone knew about it.

I talked with the individual who was distributing the cards and was told that the 800 would be corrected. I thought the card so attractive that I traded foreign cards for the $2.50 version - the only $10 version the distributor had were sample cards.

In January 1995, I called the distributor to tell him that the 800 number still wasn't working and he told me that they were still trying to correct it.

William N. Gunderson, Englewood, Colo.

Readers will remember that several Valuline and former Valuline branches were contacted during the preparation of the October article. None claimed ownership of the Eagle card.

Color makes it better

I understand that you are in the process of preparing to issue a catalog of U.S. telephone cards.

This is a welcome effort indeed. However, I have heard that you are undecided whether the illustrations are to be in color or not. May I therefore urge you toward the option of color. This will make for a much more meaningful and significant contribution to the hobby. I am convinced that the purchasers happily will absorb any added costs involved.

Dr. Uriel P. Federbush, P.O. Box 2154-Rehovot 76121, Israel

You are not alone in your wish for a color catalog. Readers have requested overwhelmingly that card images appear in color, and that is our objective.

TAPPING THE NETWORKS

Telenet; Bobby Hull; 5 minutes; 1,018 issued; November 1996. The mintage reflects the number of goals scored by the hockey legend during his career. This card was personally autographed by Bobby Hull. xpansion continues to be the norm rather than the exception for network marketing companies involved in the sale of prepaid phonecards, with Oakland, Calif.-based DESTINY TELECOM recently boasting their topping the 400,000 figure for independent representatives (See "A Matter of Destiny," Page 9).

Nowhere is the growth more evident than at one of the top NMCs' conventions. Moneycard Collector took part in STRATEGIC TELE-COM SYSTEM's Dallas gathering in November and came away impressed. Behind all the hoopla and the unrealistic "get-rich-quick" mentality of a few, there are many who are know that the combination of effort, ethics and energy is the surest way to success. (For more details on the STS Dallas event, see "Show Stoppers," Page 43).

Rough calculations show that the top half-dozen NMCs now account for more than a million and a half members — and there are about 40 telecommunications network marketing companies out there! Even assuming that some independent representatives belong to more than one company — we know that some do — those numbers are huge. As we mentioned in this column last month, such growth in the already booming field of prepaid phonecards promises to have an impact for years to come.

Mark Keene, consumer affairs director for the International Telecard Association, says three NMCs — Destiny, STS and AMERIVOX — are members of the association. "We don't give references," Keene observes, and while ITA membership doesn't imply any endorsements, those companies have shown an interest in the industry's future by signing up.

The ITA will provide consumers with as much information as they can, but is not specifically monitoring NMCs, he says. He suggested that consumers or those thinking about joining a network marketing company request the ITA pamphlet "Is It a Pyramid Scheme or Legitimate Multi-Level Marketing?" by calling (202) 544-4448. Other sources include local Better Business Bureaus, states' attorney general offices and public services commissions — the latter to check NMCs' claims of being certified resellers of telephone time.

Among the other NMCs showing growth is TELE-SALES INC., which has corporate headquarters in Oklahoma City, Okla. Stan Denison and Eddie Keith founded the company in July 1994, and count more than 100,000 associates in their ranks. The company boasts a state-of-the-art fiber optics network and daily payment of commissions. In May 1996, TSI expanded to Canada, opening TELE-SALES OF CANADA INC., or TSCI.

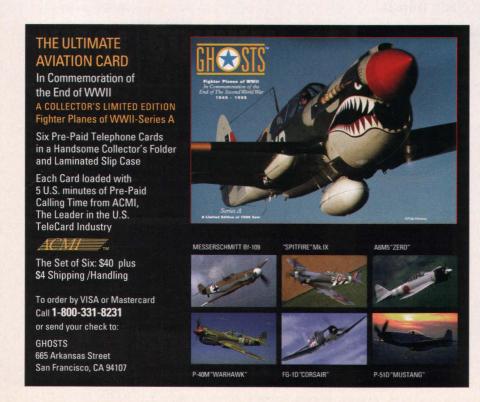

Other network marketing companies' presence is increasingly being felt north of the border as well, with Destiny, CANAVOX and TELENET holding recruitment meetings at the Telecard World's November show in Toronto. All three meetings were scheduled on the same night, which made it hard for an interested attendee to "shop around" and truly judge the companies.

One of the highlights of the Telenet meeting, a standing-room-only affair, was the chance to receive an autographed card featuring the Winnipeg-based NMC's most prominent phonecard peddler, hockey legend Bobby Hull.

Those who didn't mind waiting in line for a few hours could get the "Golden Jet" to sign his phonecard, appropriately, in gold ink.

Also holding recruitment meetings were CanaVox, whose launch by parent company AmeriVox was reported in the November issue of Moneycard Collector, and Destiny, which officially established itself in Canada on Nov. 1. Destiny also had a booth and was selling cards at the Toronto show.

A MATTER OF DESTINY

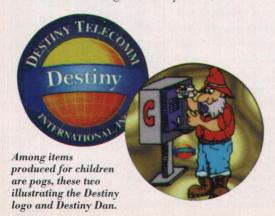

ts president, Randy Jeffers, sums up succinctly the success and future promise he sees for Destiny Telecomm International, "We've come a long way in a very short time. Our next goal is to become a Fortune 500 company within six years. That's a record pace but I know we'll achieve it."

The results so far and future plans suggest that this may be no idle boast. According to company officials, by the end of November the number of independent representatives involved in Destiny exceeded 400,000, with cards being marketed in the U.S., Canada and 29 European countries. The number of staff at its Oakland, CA-based headquarters has grown from 2 in July 1995 to some 300.

From June through November 1995, Destiny issued cards under the brand name TEL AMERICA International. The most valuable of these issues is the Fast Start Award Eagle card first issued in June 1995 and which now sells for about $350. Corporate Destiny-branded issues began in March 1996 with the release of "A Company of Destiny - Liberty" card with the Destiny logo replacing the TEL AMERICA logo. This card is included with all new independent representative kits and therefore its final mintage is yet to be determined.

Like other network marketing companies Destiny offers several products and services in addition to pre-paid cards. Among these are: voice messaging, teleconferencing, paging, 1plus and prepaid cellular.

For its prepaid cards, Destiny has placed strong importance on developing a collector community and to that end has established a dedicated full-time staff of three persons: division manager Rich Downing, Bob Kajiyama and Michell Croy. When asked for his views about the collecting of Destiny cards, Destiny Telecomm; TEL AMERICA Fast Start Eagle; 60 units; quantity unknown; June 1995.

Downing's face lights up and his enthusiasm kicks into top gear. "When we talk about people working within the Destiny family, we really mean it. We believe that by making Destiny enjoyable for collectors and for children, families enjoy it that much more and they get more involved in the company."

Downing's office is packed to the rafters with current and soon-to-be released booklets, Christmas decorations and other graphic art, and he's conversant with all of it.

"We've got a lot of products for collectors and for families. And we've developed characters of our own that have great kids appeal such as Destiny Dan, Destiny Beaver and Destiny Rhino." These characters are elements of the Destiny Kidz Club, an umbrella spanning three youth collector groups: Destiny Dan (birth to 8 years), the Youth Club (9-13 years) and the Scholastic Club (14-18 years).

Look for future Destiny issues to feature different kinds of images. Commented Downing, "In future we're going to put less emphasis on stock shot images such as a Mt. Rushmore. It seems like everybody's done a Mt. Rushmore. We plan to be doing images that will be unique to Destiny prepaid cards."

Some of those new images may make their debut at Destiny's first national convention to be held at the end of January in Oakland. Along with some 5,000 delegates Moneycard Collector expects to be there and will bring you a full report.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

his month's column is a nice mix between McDonald's, Coca-Cola, brand names, politics, and movie themes. We even have an unusual stored value card on the list this month. As usual, the special die-cut shapes and chips are more expensive, but collectors seem willing to pay for it. This is the second month we have chosen to list "America's Most Wanted" without numbers to reflect the closeness of the rankings. Let us know if you like it.

COCA-COLA PIN TRADING. AT&T/Score Board; 10 minutes each; 2,500 two-card sets issued; September 1996. The Coca-Cola Pin Trading Center is featured on this Atlanta Olympic set of 2. The set carries some Olympic logos on one card and is packaged in an attractive folder. Pin trading, a great worldwide hobby, seems to flourished during the Atlanta Olympics last summer. AT&T carries the time on this set.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION.

AT&T; 5-unit; 40,000 issued; August 1996. Sold on the floor for $3, this card will be very popular because of its low price, not its design. The companion 25-unit card with the Chicago skyline is a more interesting design, but is priced higher.

1966 PACIFIC BELL Mable Services

PACIFIC BELL MOBILE SER-

VICES. Pacific Bell; 500 issued; August 1996. Pac Bell's Mobile Services division issued this chip card for use with special "handsets" (cellular phones) distributed at the Republican National Convention. It makes sense to acquire one of these pioneering cards for your collection.

CRACKER JACK CHRISTMAS.

USACard; 10 units; 2,500 issued; November 1996. Like last year's issue, this one also has a special scratch-off that reveals the true denomination – 10 units, 12 units, or a very scarce 15 units. An old advertisement for Cracker Jack is depicted.

HAPPY MEAL DIE-CUTS.

Score Board; $25 denomination; 856 of each design issued; July 1996. Die Cut McDonald's Happy Meal Guys. These diecuts are very cute, but definitely in the "made-for-collectorsonly" category. It is already priced out of the range of some collectors, which could dilute the fun of collecting it.

DO MISTY SLUSH.

Telenova; 5 minutes; 1,000 issued; April 1996. Another two-time visitor to America's Most Wanted. Here's a card that's sensibly priced. Telenova is supplying excess Dairy Queen cards to the collecting fraternity at a reasonable price.

telecard. Shows one of the original advertising posters from the movie. Clark Gable alone on a telecard would make this a success, but you get Vivien Leigh and more, and at a very reasonable price.

NABISCO SNACKWELL'S

DeltaCom; 15 minutes; 500 issued; September 1996. SnackWell's, a second-time visitor to "America's Most Wanted," will be a welcome addition to a corporate logo collection. But don't wait too long — 500 cards don't last too long when reasonably priced.

$100 BILL. USACard; 10 units; 2,000 issued. The new $100 bill caught the eyes of collectors instantly. Two thousand cards disappeared in no time at all. I believe it is one of the first depictions of the new bill on a telecard.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mount Zion, Ill. All dealers are encouraged fax a list of their company's top 10 best-selling cards before the 20th of each month.

This month's listings courtesy of ACME Telecards, B&B Fone Cards & Promotions, Buffalo Bill Telecard Gallery, Blue Ribbon, Fiedler & Associates, Global Telecard Company, JR's Telecards, KARS Unlimited, Phone Card Connection, TW Phonecards and USA Card.

A-Dumping We Will Go

I hear on a daily basis about cards being dumped. I hear about it so often I'm past weariness and mired in blasé. With each call or letter, I mark it down in my journal, keeping records of whose cards will now plummet in value because they chose to deceive dealers and to exploit collectors.

Older, respected issuers such as Frontier and AmeriVox and even the young-uns such as DataTel and J-Cubed are indulging in that biggest of no-no's in our industry: dumping cards. And they are "dumping on" those of us they should hold dearest; collectors.

You always hurt the ones who love you, it seems. Selling cards for considerably less than what dealers paid for them causes dealers to lose money and credibility with their customers. And for collectors? If a card set suddenly drops to less than half its original value, collectors start to believe their purchases are not just an understood gamble, but a set-up for a guaranteed loss Issuers have to think long-term. Don't dump unsold cards. Instead, destroy them. Then issue a press release reporting the final number released. That way, you'll hold onto the respect of dealers and collectors. who will be impressed with your actions and much more interested in your subsequent issues.

Price Guide Reality Check

What is the purpose of this Price Guide? How is one supposed to use the prices listed here? Are they exact prices? Are they higher or lower that real prices? These questions are discussed everywhere: on-line, and in letters and phone calls to us.

Let me clear this up as simply as possible: Every price listed here should be at least in the neighborhood of the price of a card. We determined prices from dealer price lists and some actually may be higher or lower than what we report. If our prices aren't "in the neighborhood," then no doubt an error has crept in and we welcome your corrections. Where sports cards are concerned, card prices vary drastically and depend greatly on demand for such cards, which is currently waning.

Look for a story about valuing cards in the April edition of Moneycard Collector.

B & B "THE BEST IN THE WEST" SAYS "WHAT'S ALL THE FUSS!!"

For several years B&B has had the preferred collector's club, we are the only dealer in the world to offer a money-back or trade-in policy on our preferred items. We challenge all phonecard clubs to match this offer. We have a continued success of predicting the top phone cards each year. We challenge all clubs and any dealer to match our successes. Just look at Moneycard over the past two years. Football card collecting has changed ust as today's high-octane, high-impact football is far different from the gridiron tilts of a few decades ago, football card collectors have evolved, too.

By Barry Shuck

For more than half a century, collectors spent countless hours putting together complete "master sets." Each season this has surpassed habit and become a ritual.

But the '90s changed that, as more and more sets were issued. Beginning with the 1992 season, there were simply too many to digest. Collectors begrudgingly realized that they could not financially keep up with them all - choices had to be made. Football card collecting moved from sets to teams or even individual players.

This change in collecting philosophy is at the heart of National Football League phonecard programs from Sportscall and The Score Board.

Sportscall's Premiere Edition made its debut last spring and now its Second Series is poised to follow the success of that first effort. Each series consists of a massive 400player checklist and is fully licensed through Players Inc. and the Quarterback Club. Although most teams average 11 athletes pictured in each series of phonecards, the Dallas Cowboys are represented by a whopping 77 players in the two series.

"The NFL likes to promote as many players as possible, in whatever project you are working with," says Ed Potash, CEO at Sportscall. "By making both series a 400player set, each becomes a collectible series phonecards that rival the trading card sets. Plus, it entices the team and player collector with a good variety."

The Second Series phonecards come in 10- and 30-minute denominations, with time carried by MCI; whereas each card in the Premiere Edition was available only in a two-minute denomination with ITS as the carrier. All cards are rechargeable.

The Score Board's Pro Line II Intense combines trading cards with phonecards. The basics of this 100-player football card set are simple: an economical brand with the NFL's best veterans and rookies. crisp photography and enough quality so that everyone from avid collectors to kids will enjoy the product. Keeping expensive technology to a minimum ensures a low per-pack price.

"We produced several sets last year that introduced the phonecard concept as a collectible to the football traditionalists," says Tom Geideman, Score Board's director of marketing. "The idea was to get the trading card people and the phonecard people together. The execution worked to where the avid football card collector will now collect phonecards."

The Pro Line II Intense phonecards are found in denominations of $5 and $3 and are offered as insert sets of 20 players and 50 players, respectively. An average of $11 in phone time is included in every 36-pack box.

Both of these products proffer phonecards for different reasons. The Score Board program uses the phonecards as the "hook," while Sportscall's cards are the meat and potatoes.

Collectors will notice several differences between the two Sportscall series, beginning with the design. The Premiere Series contains wide black borders encasing each photo, while the Second Series has no borders - a wide colored stripe down the card's side includes the player's name and team. The first series was sold through hobby dealers in four-card packs. The second offering is available at mass-merchandising retail chain stores in one-player blister packs.

In addition, each player in the Premiere Series was limited to 5,040 cards. In the Second Series. Sportscall is offering more of the popular star players and limited numbers of the lesser-known names. Final mintages will be announced later.

"The phonecard industry is really taking off. The football portion of the market is simply the new thing to collect," says Ray Martin, Sportscall's director of sales. "Football card collectors always are on the lookout for the players they collect. This adds something unique to their collection."

The NFL's superstars are the key in each series, but team collectors will appreciate the availability of unheralded players, such as the Cowboys' Mark Tuinei and Clayton Holmes, Arizona's Kent Graham, Matt Stevens

When it comes to NFL programs, phonecards by Sprint are worth another mention. In Contrast to the Sportscall and Score of the Bills and Jacksonville's Keenan McCardell.

When the two series are combined, the 800-player checklist weighs in as one of the largest NFL sets of all time. That should give any collector plenty to do.

Players selected for the $5 Pro Line II Intense phonecard series are considered the top talent in the National Football League.. The ratio is one per box, with each card sequentially numbered to 1.800.

Sixteen rookies are included in the $3 series, including Kevin Hardy, Terry Glenn, Karim Abdul-Jabbar and John Mobley. The series also spotlights a number of last year's top prospects, such as Kordell Stewart and Kerry Collins. "The $5 phonecards are the cream of the NFL," says Geideman, "whereas the $3 phonecards offer a wide variety of players with at least one player from every team."

Football card enthusiasts and phonecard collectors were once completely different breeds with divergent interests, but the phonecard programs launched this season by Sportscall and The Score Board hold the promise of pulling them closer together. The phonecard issuers seem to have found success in numbers, and their strategies could in turn help swell the numbers of sports phonecard collectors.

QUIK TAKES

Postal Service Roll-Out.
After a nine-month pilot, reported in the February 1996 issue of Moneycard Collector, the U.S. Postal Service and American Express Telecom Inc. announced in November the national roll-out of the FirstClass PhoneCard. The phonecards, in $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100 denominations will be available in about 10,700 post offices across the United States. The phonecard pilot program was launched during the 1995 holiday season in eight cities, with San Francisco, Atlanta, New York and Orlando, Fla., later added.

According to American Express' Toby Usnik, time on the cards was purchased from MCI. The USPS and American Express announced a new three-card holiday theme series in December 1996.

MART CARD MANEUVERINGS. MasterCard International has shifted gears in the global chip-card sweepstakes by buying 51 percent of London-based Mondex International, while American Express has purchased rights to Belgian Banksys' smart-card technology, including the Proton electronic purse technology. Both announcements came in mid-November.

"Using Mondex as our strategic chip operating platform provides MasterCard with the best possible opportunity to leapfrog other technology," says G. Henry Mundt III, MasterCard executive vice president for Global Deposit Access.

Mondex Chairman David Mills hailed the agreement, saying "Mondex is on the way to become the global standard for electronic cash." Mondex electronic cash cards are being used in pilots in England, Hong Kong, New Zealand and Canada, as well as a Wells Fargo Mondex trial in San Francisco.

The 17 organizations that founded Mondex in July 1996 will own and direct operations in regional franchises. They include, in North America, Wells Fargo Bank and AT&T, through a wholly-owned subsidiary of AT&T Universal Card Services, as well as companies in Asia, Australia and Europe.

American Express, in its agreement with Banksys, will use the smart-card technology to launch multiple smart-card pilots during the next year.

"This reinforces American Express' commitment to providing consumers with safe, secure cash substitutes," says David Boyles, senior vice president and head of the American Express Smart Card Center of Excellence. American Express' use of Banksys technology will make it a "de facto global standard," according to Armand Linkens, Banksys marketing and sales director. The Proton electronic purse technology is undergoing pilot programs or roll outs in Canada, Australia, Sweden, Belgium, Brazil, the Netherlands and Switzerland.

ISNEY ON THE SPOT. Collectors seeking Disney's set of five "101 Dalmatians" phonecards mentioned in Moneycard Collector's story on animal themes ("All Phonecards Great and Small," Page 46, January edition) as Christmas gifts found out that in early December that they would have to wait until after the holidays. Order-takers answering the Disney catalog's 800 number said that the phonecards were back-ordered until January. The cards, featuring the same art as the "101 Dalmatians" movie posters, were only available if customers ordered a sweatshirt.

TS REP MAKES A DAZZLER. A phonecard unveiled at the Strategic Telecom Systems conference in Dallas is a jewel -270 of them, to be exact. What we believe is the most expensive phonecard ever produced started out as a 16-gauge platinum plate, decorated with 18-karat gold and 91 diamonds, 70 rubies and 113 sapphires in the shape of a Texas flag, with 10,000 units of Cable &

Wireless phone time.

STS independent representative Gordon G. Clauss of Panama City, Fla., is asking $15,000 per card, and said recently that he thinks he has three sold. He and his partner, Volker Kracht, are jewelry designers by trade. Each card comes with two plastic cards of the same design, so that the buyer can carry them and use the time if he wishes. The platinum card comes sealed in a wooden frame with glass on both sides so that the obverse and reverse of the cards can be seen.

Clauss is planning "something of the same caliber" for STS' Atlanta conference April 24-26. Any purchaser of the numbered card would have first right of refusal for any other collector card with the same number in the "Jeweled Series."

Interactive Telecard Services; IRIS Medical; 30 minutes; 7,500 issued; November 1996.

TS CARDS STIR INTEREST. Interactive Telecard Services produced phonecards for a medical trade show that were designed to stimulate traffic to a specific booth. The cards were part of a pre-show mailing, but customers who wanted to use the time had to bring the cards to the IRIS Medical booth, where they were given the PIN number with 30 minutes of long distance time.

Cards opposition of the Internet

Being inquisitve, alert untangles Web concerns

By Bob Brill

ollectors may not be able to find a card show every weekend or a local phonecard store to fill their hobby passions, but the wide world of moneycards is just a click or two away for those who chose to navigate the Internet and the World Wide Web.

"The Internet is where collectors will find a lot of what they are looking for," says Martin Berson of HyperMedia Technologies in Avon, Conn., a Web site provider (hyper@hmt.com) and a web master for Moneycard Collector. "If you are looking for Marilyn Monroe cards, you just post a certain list and you get feedback."

Sounds simple and, with some practice and patience, it is fairly easy to guide your way through the maze. How do we get there and what are some of the pros and cons? A computer, a modem and an on-line service are good places to start.

CompuServe and America On Line both have phonecard arenas. CompuServe has more phonecard activity, making it the preferred choice for collectors.

"People on CompuServe love the software and their browser is better than AOL's," said Bruce Harmon (www.cardmall.com/ipc/ or e-mail acmetel@juno.com).

Harmon is the owner of Florida-based Acme Telecards Inc., and president of International Phonecard Collectors.

"I've been a phonecard dealer for almost three years and about 90 percent of what I do is via the computer," said

Harmon. "My Web site was a little slow in the beginning, but recently it's really kicked in."

There are dealers like Harmon all over the world who use the Internet and the Web in response to the scarcity of shows and shops which deal in quantities of phonecards. So how do you find all of these Web sites?

The numbers are staggering. Berson says in 1994 there were 4,000 Web sites. Now there are 500,000 with more than 30 million pages. There are almost a million more pages added monthly.

New collectors should try to find out as much information as possible, advises Alan Cohen, webmaster of The Card Mall (www.cardmall.com) and author of Phonecards On-Line. The latter (pol@cardmall.com) is free to anyone with an e-mail address. Cohen also suggested connecting to rec.collecting.phonecards, an Internet News Group that he describes as "similar to CompuServe, in that people can post messages." That site has a pretty big international flavor, Cohen says.

Many CompuServe users might be too self-conscious to post messages, but take advantage of private email correspondence, he estimates.

Cohen is bullish on phonecards and their growing presence on the Web. Phonecards On-Line has more than 1,200 subscribers and gets daily inquiries from interested collectors. "Something I see happening is that a lot of magazines will have more of a presence online. There also will be a lot more collectors, as more dealers move to put up sites to sell phonecards."

Finding better payment options – more secure than MasterCard or VISA – will spark growth, he says.

Another place to start is HyperMedia (hyper@hmt.com), which provides a lot of information in a concise manner. The site will link you to other web pages and offers lots of phonecards news.

"Consumers come to HyperMedia because it's an international phonecard hub and a good starting place

We tried the HyperMedia site for this article and found it very useful, well laid out and easy to use. It looks good and is colorful. The site shows every card. This is a nice touch, but can be time consuming because of the download time.

While the Web and Internet continue to expand rapidly, some find scant reward.

Eli Rossler (www.cardmall.com/rossler/) is a retired CBS network cameraman who travels back and forth selling phonecards between Los Angeles and his second home near Innsbruck, Austria. Rossler, 70, sets up at shows and deals exclusively in used phonecards.

He has a spot on the Card Mall, which is a large Web site (www.cardmall.com/), but hasn't gotten one response. For Rossler it's more of an advertisement because he doesn't have his own Web site. He'd rather do shows.

Lary West, vice president of Finish Line Racing, a major phonecard issuer, shut down his Web site, although it was generating a lot of e-mail. However, dealers complained if Finish Line tried to sell anything or listed prices on the Web site..

"We felt we were putting up good information for the consumer by putting up prices and it became a fulltime job," said West. "However, we didn't make any money from it and if you can't make any money to offset the expenses, why do it?"

Berson says however, there is more to the Internet and the Web than sales.

"Sales are not necessarily the key because you use your Web address, through your letterheads and mail, to direct people to your Web site where they can find out more about your company and your products," he said. "The Web site can be a giant archive where your ads can be placed and you can put it all there. You do it to position yourself for the future because eventually everyone will have one and you won't have a choice."

Collector and dealer Chip Parsley of Texas (www.card mall.com/Chips/ or e-mail cparsley @tenet.edu). and other dealers confirmed that on the Internet it seems the basic theme is Europeans want to trade, Americans buy. This can be good for U.S.-based collectors who want to build their collections with foreign cards. Many Americans have the cash-value mentality stemming from the boom in the collectible trading card market of the 1980s.

The other comparison to sportscards is in the "Buyer Beware" department.

"The most important thing is to buy cards from serious dealers because sometimes there are dishonest persons who can defraud collectors," said Leonardo Costa (www.agora.stm.it/L.Costa/newissue.htm), a dealer in Chiavari, Italy.

As with any transaction where it's not face to face, always check whether or not you are paying postage or if postage is included in the price. If you send a check will it be held until it clears? Try to determine how long it will be before you get your merchandise.

Harmon cautions to watch out for aliases. Anyone who is trustworthy probably is not using a handle like "Batman" or "The Card Guy." Ditto from Jobey Jones, who constantly reviews his Web site from London (www.jobey.com/pccoll/forum.htm).

"The trouble is, with the Net, people have a feeling of 'Who can they trust?" said Jones. "About 95 percent of the people are very genuine, but there are those who are not." Jones hopes to develop technological safeguards to cut down on less savory dealers and consumers.

"There is a lot of correspondence on the Internet and consumers must be very careful who they deal with," he say. "There is a pretty strong future for Internet trading because it places people directly in contact with each other automatically. The basic problem is demystifying it."

"People who buy from catalogs today will order on-line in the next two to five years," Berson predicts. "In our area, right now you can order from Shaw's grocery store via e-mail and you get $1 off the purchase if you order through their Web site."

But do they sell phonecards?

potpourri of interesting developments have surfaced on the Canadian phonecard scene, with name changes, new issues and card shows keeping the pot bubbling for collectors.

Collectors International

Montreal's Olympic Stadium played host to the first Collectors International, a three-day exhibition in October bringing together all sorts of collectibles. While the grand majority of booths were devoted to trading cards, phonecards could be found by the eagle-eyed collector.

A couple of booths were selling individual Incomnet NHLPA Set 1 cards: Patrick Roy was tagged at $35 mint, $5 used; Eric Lindros was priced at $25.

The Boutique D'Argent (Montreal) offered the Bell LaPuce Coca-Cola cards at $20 for the $10 card and $35 for the matching $20 card. Vanier Sportcards (Quebec City) was carrying a small number of used CTN definitives and LDDS License Plates for $2 each. Mint one-minute Sprint Assets I were selling for $3 each, no matter who was pictured.

Lincoln Heights Coins & Stamps (Ottawa) offered their own PhoneLine International cards at face value, and the American X-Files cards at double face value. One of the very best deals was at the London (Ontario) Coin Center booth, where there were hundreds of used cards from Brazil, Hungary, Argentina, and the Middle East for $1 per card or less.

Bell Canada ran the only all-phonecard booth, selling LaPuce and QuickChange cards at Collector Club prices. Purchasers of a three-day pass received a 50-cent show card.

Those who were selling phonecards had little interest in buying, and used a tight definition of "sports phonecard." Only cards showing sports celebrities are considered sports phonecards to these dealers — non-sports cards, or cards showing generic athletes such as the BCTel Commonwealth Games cards, did not interest them.

AGT/Telus

Edmonton, Alberta-based AGT, a member of the Stentor Alliance of provincial telephone companies, is changing its name. It will now be known as Telus, the name of the company that bought Alberta Government Telephones after it was privatized in 1990. All PhoneTime International; Cigar Jumbo; C$100 denomination; 500 issued; October 1996.

PhoneTime International; Breeders' Cup Toronto Skyline; 5 minutes; 2,500 issued; October 1996.

Hello! cards bearing the AGT logo disappeared from retail sale on Dec. 31, to be replaced with new designs incorporating the new Telus logo. There is no word yet on what will become of these withdrawn cards. Recently released designs such as Disney's Toy Story set show both logos.

Telus is also the third Stentor company to launch chip-based cards, with test phones being installed in the Edmonton area. The first 5,000 cards were packaged in blister plastic, the remainder in JHook packaging. Despite the similar name, Telus QuickChange cards are not yet compatible with the Bell LaPuce/QuickChange system in Ontario and western Quebec (I couldn't resist trying!).

The second Canadian issuer to implement chip technology, Quebec-Telephone, is reluctant to discuss its Hello! or LaPuce cards with anyone who does not live within its territory. Quebec-Tel serves eastern Quebec, excluding Quebec City.

PhoneTime International

Horse racing fans will be interested in a new release from Mississauga, Ontario-based PhoneTime to commemorate the Breeders' Cup race in Toronto. Among the cards is a whopping 11x17 inch card of Cigar, last year's winner and this year's third-place finisher. In addition to the set of four, 2,500 made, and the big-as-a-horse $100-denomination jumbo card, 500 issued, the $8 Woodbine design was sold separately at the track. The Cigar card also comes in a 30-minute version, and the Toronto Skyline card also was issued as a press/VIP card.

Not to be overlooked are PhoneTime's definitive cards picturing Canada's coins. Face values range from $5 (nickels) to $200 (twonies). The penny and mixed-coin designs are available for customization.

The Canadian scene is dynamic, and it can only get better with time. Next month: news about last November's Telecard World Toronto.

SHOW STOPPERS

f anyone ever really thought that representatives of network marketing companies selling prepaids were interested only in selling cards, they should have been at the Dallas convention of Strategic Telecom Systems.

Not that there wasn't lots of STS product news. The 3,500 delegates eagerly collected information about a number of new STS services, including prepaid cellular and the new Wildfire voice messaging and personal attendant. Presentations from major outside suppliers and experts, including Moneycard Collector, Cable & Wireless and MCI. among others, were well attended, as was a gala awards night that featured country singer Lorrie Morgan.

But what had many delegates really talking were the collector activities. A special collector fair was held during a lengthened lunch hour. While organizers had asked that only STS cards be traded, participants stretched it to include those of STS suppliers Cable & Wireless and MCI. One highlight was the discovery of a variety of the "Don't Mess With Texas" card, this one bearing slightly misaligned gold printing instead of white and numbered on the back as an issue of 40 pieces. This rare error card was priced at $1,500. Several new private issues also were unveiled, including some from hearing-impaired STS reps who are using phonecards as fund-raisers. More about this next month.

The major collector event that involved everyone and caused a frenzy was a four-card Cable & Wireless puzzle set. Single cards were sold to delegates through an on-site vending machine. Quickly it became apparent that each card was serial-numbered and that it was therefore possible to put together matching four-card sets. For hours, reps roamed the hotel lobby, posting notices or yelling out who had or needed specific numbers.

The next STS convention has been scheduled for April 1997 in Atlanta. If Dallas is any indication, we can expect this event to be even more successful!

BABY BELL NOTES

NYNEX

After a long period of inactivity, NYNEX released six new Change Cards (stored memory) in time for Telecard World '96 New York in September. The first of them is the long-awaited $10 Jacob Javits Convention Center of New York client card, of which 10,000 were produced. A client card is one produced for the exclusive use by the client, at the client's expense.

Radio City Music Hall has had a continuing relationship with NYNEX. Previous Change Cards have featured both the Music Hall and the Rockettes. Two more Change Cards featuring the Rockettes were issued in September, with 20,000 of each produced. The cards form a puzzle, with the dancers as a mirror image, while the buildings in the background are different. Sets with matching serial numbers were made available through the NYNEX Collector's Club.

Next comes the "Signs of the Times" set, complete with a multi-panel folder. Attached to the folder were two $5 Change Cards, featuring Broadway on one, and 42nd Street on the other, as well as three $5 Prepaid Calling cards (remote memory), showing Wall Street, Canal Street, and Fifth Avenue. Two of the Prepaid Calling cards had logos of NYNEX suppliers, NEC Card Services, and Innovative Telecom, included in the design. There were 10,000 of each card produced, with appropriate matching serial numbers. Members of the NYNEX Collector's Club received a $1 Telecard World '96 New York complimentary card in their folders. A mere 3,000 were issued, with many of the $1 cards having been given away to attendees at Telecard World.

Pacific Bell; Transamerica Senior Golf Championship; $10 and $50 denominations; 7,000 made, 30 net issue ($10), 300 made, 250 net issue and 250 reissued ($50).

PACIFIC BELL

There always seems to be plenty of news from PacBell. Their prepaid card staff continually must be working overtime to come up with so many great cards and innovative approaches to merchandise them. More people calling on retail accounts and more promotional materials have helped boost retail sales by more than 800 percent in 1996. Further helping to publicize and sell cards are the 14 million PacBell invoices that are mailed each month, through which customers can be invoiced up to $200 for prepaid cards.

This year's holiday cards are available in the usual $5, $10, and $20 denominations, each having a different design, along with a complimentary greeting card.

A special $5 Republican National Convention card was issued to give to VIPs at the convention in San Diego. A mere 300 were produced, and none was available for sale. This card had the same design as the other RNC cards.

Two denominations of cards were issued for the Transamerica Senior Golf Championship, held at the Silverado Country Club and Resort. Seven thousand $10 cards, and 300 $50 cards were made. Two hundred and fifty of the $50 cards were given to participants, and about 30 $10 cards were sold at the tournament, but the remaining cards were withdrawn, due to an incorrect 800 number printed on the reverse. While the 800 number for Spanish was correct, one digit was wrong in the English number.

PacBell's Bob Gross says that 250 $50 cards were reissued with the correct number, while the remaining $10 cards, about 6,970, were destroyed, with no plans to repeat them, since the tournament is over.

Speaking of Spanish-language cards, co-branded cards with La Opinion, a newspaper, will be made available via retail sales outlets, but not through the PacBell 800 number. Denominations will be $10 and $20, with designs similar to the current definitive cards (see Moneycard Collector, April 1996).

As far as the current definitives, Pac Bell now will offer cards for retail sale. Cards with the $10 definitive design will be displayed as cold cards (no denomination). A customer takes the card to a cashier to get it activated, choosing from a range of values, which is why there is no denomination on the card. When activated, a sticker will be placed on the reverse of the card, giving value and PIN information.

The definitives are being reissued, this time without expiration dates.

US WEST

For the first time, a U S WEST holiday card was issued. The $5 card design was chosen from an art student competition. The winner was George Streeter, of the Al Collins Graphic Design School, in Phoenix, Ariz. Five thousand cards were produced by Solaic, in France. A matching greeting card was available at no additional charge. Also, for the first time, a limit was set on the quantity of cards that could be purchased. A customer could buy a maximum of five of the holiday cards, in order to allow as many people as possible to obtain them for their collections.

U S WEST also released a Spanish language card. This was a private $1 complimentary card, 1,000 issued, for a conference sponsored by the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce in Denver in September 1996. An additional 250 were printed for and distributed free to members of the U S WEST Standing Order Club, a generous gesture to collectors. There was even a special promotion where non-members could get the card.

A special employee-only phonecard is under consideration by U S WEST. More than likely, it will be made available to collectors as well.

CardEx '96, held in the Netherlands last September, was the venue for the release of a four chip card international puzzle set (see Page 40, Moneycard Collector, January 1997). In fact, both the obverse and the reverse form puzzles. Cards making up the puzzle were from U S WEST ($5), GTE ($5), Bell Canada (CDN$10) and PTT Telecom (Nlg 10) of the Netherlands. The global card series was issued to demonstrate the potential of world wide chip card technology and interchangeability. For example, the U S WEST and GTE cards are interchangeable, as are PTT Telecom, Deutsche Telekom, and Swiss Telecom. Since U S WEST and Bell Canada both use the same chip-card payphones, perhaps there will be some common cards produced in the future.

Along these lines, the VISA Cash chip cards are useable in Bell South payphones in Atlanta. These are also the same type phones that both U S WEST and Bell Canada use. Actually, all these cards are physically compatible. It is the software in the chips and in the phones that has to be made to interact. While technically possible, payment details and costs are the main problem to be ironed out if interchangeability is desired. It is probably just a matter of time.

Pieces of History

Phonecards celebrate African Americans

By Nancy Blackburn

istorical milestones, cultural events and the African Americans behind the legends come together on phonecards to celebrate Black History Month 1997.

Celebrating pride in the spirit and accomplishments of Black Americans, recent phonecard releases portray events of black enpowerment: The Million Man March in Washington, D.C., in 1995; Rosa Parks' refusal to surrender her bus seat to a white man in Montgomery, Ala., in 1955; and Jesse Owens' 1936 Olympic triumph.

The strongest showing of a historically significant event is the October 1996 release of 3 million telecards celebrating the first anniversary of the Million Man

> March. Each of the three 20-minute cards has an issue of 1 million. The cards were issued by B&L Licensing under exclusive contract with SCI/SCIN, the telecommunications arm of the National African American Leadership Summit. Time is carried by ACMI, a division of ConQuest.

The first card is the official first anniversary card, "History was Made," and portrays the Oct. 16, 1995, gathering at the White House. The seccard. "12-Step Commitment," lists the steps of the pledge speech given Minister Farrakhan. The third is a card of celebration, "Atonement, Reconciliation, and Responsibility." A special feature is the opening voice prompt: "Welcome, Sisters and Brothers," followed by a greeting from the Million Man March Speech: "my dear brothers, strong black men; together, black men; free, black men; justice, black men."

Phase Four; Rosa Parks; 15 minutes; 25,000 issued; Sept. 1995.

According to CEO "Dollar-Bill" Waller, "B&L offers what consumers want, rather than targeting collectors. However, with 16 years of experience managing athletes and entertainment celebrities, we feature the legends, the icons, that telecard collectors are searching for." He explains, "To celebrate Black History Month, the Million Man March series will be available to millions through retail outlets, college book stores, dentists and doctors' offices throughout America and the Caribbean, as well as on the Internet. (www.blpop.com)."

Rosa Parks, "Mother of the Modern Day Civil Rights Movement, was saluted on a Pathway to Freedom phonecard issued by Phase Four in September 1995. Designated "40th Anniversary of the Montgomery Bus Boycott," 25,000 of the 15-minute cards were issued and appeared in Moneycard Collector's "America's Most Wanted" in March 1996.

Jesse Owens / BIG (Blacks in Government) fundraising ITS phonecard was available only during the BIG 18th annual training conference in Atlanta. Issued August 1996, the 2,100 cards commemorate the 60th anniversary of Jesse Owens' triumph at the Berlin Olympics in 1936. The 20-minute cards show Owens and the BIG logo, along with the slogan "Extra effort separates the winner from second place."

Card proceeds are divided. Part of the proceeds go to the National Council of Churches to help rebuild the 80 mostly rural Black churches vandalized or firebombed in the early '90s. Besides the Jesse Owens Trust, funds also go to BIG, which is a national non-profit organization of Black federal, state and local government employees.

Other cards also feature well-known African Americans. MCI observed the Martin Luther King Holiday in January 1996 by issuing a Black Heritage Series phonecard. Designed by artist Robert Templeton, the card features a collage of noted African-American leaders including Frederick Douglass, Brooker T. Washington, Mary McLeod Bethune and Ida B. Wells. The card was issued in various denominations, with an ongoing quantity.

In July 1994, ATS (later acquired by LCI) issued 1,000 telecards featuring a turn-of-the-century, black-and-white photograph of a black family in a mule-drawn wagon, taken in front of a grocery in Memphis, Tenn. The photo was a reprint of one of hundreds of thousands of photographs archived by the Center for Southern Folklore, located on historic Beale Street. The Center was established 25 years ago to preserve the history, folklore, crafts, and music of southern culture of Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi. The 20-minute cards sold for $10 each.

Sometimes the work is behind the scenes. The art of black artist and comic illustrator Matt Baker is visible on "Phantom Lady No. 17," a phonecard issued by Argo City Company that replicates a comic book cover. According to Argo City owner Ken Barnes, "Baker was a master of the 'Good Girl Art' and his talent produced a sensuous heroine. In the late '40s, his sexy work drew the wrath from everyone in the PTA to Congress! Now Phantom Lady No.17, the comic book, commands prices in the four-figure range."

Spectacular achievements of black athletics in the sports arena are well documented on phonecards. World-renowned "larger than life" sports icon Michael Jordan is featured by Worldcom. Other notable issues include Quest/Liberty's 5-card Charles Barkley set; Frank Thomas has "The Big Hurt" set of three by Ameritech, and is also featured on the first Regional Bell Gold Card.

The skills of black professional athletes are acknowledged in sets or individual cards issued by Score Board, Sprint, GTE and a host of others, while Sportscosm's May 1996 five-card series, 2,000 of each issued, pays tribute to baseball clubs from Negro Leagues, featuring the logos of the New York Black Yankees, New York Cubans, Brooklyn Royal Giants, Newark Eagles and Philly Stars. A message on those cards' reverses notes that "Royalties from the sale of all licensed MLB Negro Leagues merchandise benefit former Negro Leagues players, the Negro Leagues Baseball Museum and the Jackie Robinson Foundation." There also is a Collector's First Edition by Sportscosm, 6,000 issued in April 1996. That card features a sketch of an African American ball player.

So this year, celebrate a culture's history and contributions to our nation – and while you are at it, add some important phonecards to your collection!

MC

f you collect promotional cards, this month's roundup may prove to be a tough bunch to corral. Still, you can rope some great cards if you're willing to hoof it a little!

LCI International recently issued 5,300 10-minute cards that look good enough to eat!

The cards were issued for Folk's Folly, the oldest steak house in Memphis. Cards are being used as an incentive to join their first frequent dining club as well as a thank-you to their loyal customers. If you're in Memphis, stop by and perhaps pick up a card.

LCI has also produced its second Jimmy Dean sausage card. Identical in design to one they issued early last year with 15 minutes of time, this one has a nice story to it. The 5,500 five-minute cards were placed in special meal kits for Army trainees who couldn't make it home during the Christmas holidays. A nice card if you're lucky enough to come across one.

If you're looking for a way to serve up those cards, how about Gazelle Telecard's 500 15-minute cards issued for the grand re-opening of the J.F. Henry store in West Seattle. Henry is a retailer of tableware and home accessories, and the card features a place setting, with logos of Lenox, Spode, Royal Doulton and Wedgewood on the reverse.

ITS Network continues to build on its success in the promotional market. First from them this month is a 20-minute card promoting Jenny Craig. Only 500 cards were issued and packaged in a press kit to promote their new book. The card offers a custom voice message that changes weekly through January and monthly through March.

Another nice card from ITS promotes the grand opening of National Car Rental's new facility at a folder that looks like the restaurant chain's red-and-white roof. Most of the cards went to T.G.I. Fridays; you might be able to find a dealer with one.

CDG (Communications Design Group) recently issued a couple of nice cards. There were 10,500 10-minute cards issued to promote Exxon Superflo motor oil. The cards were distributed to participating auto part stores for use as an incentive to purchase Exxon motor oil. A percentage of the cards are available from select phonecard dealers. Speaking of Exxon, dealers in California are giving away free 5-minute laminated paper phonecards to help promote gasoline sales and the sale of 5- through 120-minute plastic phonecards. Phone time is provided by Sprint.

CDG also issued a card for Carrier Air Conditioning – 1,200 cards with 15 minutes of time were given to the Carrier sales force as an incentive. A small percentage of the cards was made available to phonecard dealers.

Finally this month, I get to show you the Innovative Telecom Kellogg's/Nintendo card that I mentioned in the December issue, found in one out of 64 specially marked Kellogg's boxes.
