6 The Scoop on Chips II

It is the contact pattern, not the chip itself, that makes chip-based cards intriguing to many collectors. Robert Merkert looks at the how the cards are made, and peers into their future.

38 Mmmm good!

There are a lot of M's revolving around Worldcom Inc. — mergers, Michael Jordan and MCI, and most collectors might have some Worldcom cards and not even realize it, Art Becker reports.

40 Readers' Favorites

ON THE MONEY

If you set aside the cover letter that came with this issue, please go back and read it now. Big changes are coming for Moneycard Collector, beginning next month, and you, the reader, are invited to be part of those changes as never before.

Beginning with the March issue, the magazine will look and feel different. It will be printed in a bigger format, which will allow more room for stories and card images. It will be printed on a different stock of paper, which means that advertising will be substantially cheaper. And a new classified ad policy means that every Moneycard Collector subscriber will be entitled to a free classified ad every month – you can't get much cheaper than that! Please see Page 33 for a handy classified-ad form.

Readers also will enjoy the chance to participate in our new "Trading Post" card-swap section as well as having a chance to sound off in the new "Guest Commentary" column. We also are revamping "New Issues," returning contact information so that readers will have a starting point from which to find their favorite moneycards.

We're excited about these changes, and hope that you will be excited about them as well. While others might talk about how important it is for the hobby to grow, we are committed to making changes that will help ensure that growth.

In the classic holiday movie "Miracle on 34th Street," the existence of Santa Claus becomes the issue at the trial which is the movie's climax. In a Tennessee lawsuit filed in the aftermath of Strategic Telecom System's demise (See "Quik Takes"), the existence of the phonecard hobby is being questioned in much the same manner.

Among the Tennessee Division of Consumer Affairs' charges in that suit is this gem: "STS also represents to potential new recruits that certain of its telephone cards hold intrinsic value as collectibles, comparing the prepaid telephone cards to collector sports cards. STS does not have a reasonable basis for this claim, and cannot substantiate that any of its cards have intrinsic value as collectibles."

Whether or not the claim is that of STS or an industrious lawyer rushing to build a case against the MLM, the author of that paragraph obviously did not understand what he or she was saying. Of course phonecards have intrinsic value – they represent phone time already paid for. "Intrinsic value as collectibles" is a phrase that unnecessarily muddies the realities. Intrinsic value, yes. Collectible value, yes. The two are separate statements, separate ideas.

To say that there is not a "reasonable basis" for claiming cards are collectible is a statement grounded in ignorance. Thousands of collectors, dealers and issuers would stand up to testify that prepaid phonecards have collectible value. Our recent catalog has 872 pages of examples of that collectibility.

Strategic Telecom Systems will be judged on the totality of the charges against it, and the judicial system will decide their merit. But collectibility of phonecards is not an issue. Like Kris Kringle in "Miracle on 34th Street," the hobby does exist.

Collectors eventually will decide what effect the downfall of STS will have on that issuer's cards. Like Globalcom 2000, or OmniTel, or Finish Line, some STS cards no longer will stimulate interest, while others might become hard to find and thus increase in desirability. Especially challenging for an MLM's cards are that many of them trade internally for more than the general market price – something we warned collectors about more than a year ago, in January 1997's "Words on Numbers" column.

Some other moneycards that have increased in desirability are shown in the "Readers' Favorites" article starting on Page 40 of this edition. Be sure to take a look at what you and your fellow collectors like the best.

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

Catalog in a class by itself

King James II did many strange things during his reign, but one thing he did do right is put scholars to work and came out with the first widely circulated English translation of the Bible. Murray Church and the folks at Moneycard Collector have done something along these lines in the hobby. Not to diminish the great work that Chris Garibaldi and Steve Hiscocks have done, but this is a magnitude above earlier work.

Like the King James Bible, this catalog makes collecting much, much more accessible to thousands that would not have known of prepaid phonecard collecting. We know it will go far to promote the hobby. It gives the hobby a legitimacy and accessibility it didn't have before.

But, the publication of the catalog is also a challenge – for the rest in the collector community and in the industry at large – to come up with other important efforts that will build phonecard collecting into the national hobby it should be – and sooner, rather than later.

Howard Segermark, Executive Director, International Telecard Association

The Card Mall's Alan Cohen points out that it was James I, not James II, who commissioned the bible, but hastens to add "I love the Moneycard Collector Catalog, too!" Our thanks for those kind words as well as the hundreds of other compliments we have heard.

'94 Phone Phair featured one of earliest U.S. puzzle sets

Various issuers (Communicard; GTI Telecom, MT World Card, Prepaid Telecommunications International; Topsis Communications; Worldlink); Margaret Keane puzzle set of six; each $5 denomination; 2,000 sets issued; March 1994.

Editor's Note: In a letter in the January edition, Tim Sockriter of Kissimmee, Fla., nominated this puzzle set as the first in the United States, and sent it in so that we might share it with other readers. We believe the first puzzle set may have been produced by GTS. That issuer's New York puzzle series of five cards (GTS 143/147) was issued in February 1994, edging out the Phone Phair cards by a month. Thanks for the submission, Tim. Does anybody have an earlier nomination?

Genesis Telecom not same as MLM company

In response to the "Readers Always Write" letter from Roberta A. Gregory (November 1997) about AmeriVox, we at Genesis Telecom Incentives LLC greatly appreciate Moneycard Collector and your willingness to present our "Freedom of Flight" collector card in the "New Issues" section. We feel compelled to make certain that readers and avid phonecard collectors understand that Genesis Telecom Incentives LLC is no way affiliated with Welcome Back Genesis, or has in the past been associated with AmeriVox. There also is no relationship with the company known as GTI. We are not an MLM business!

We serve our locale and regional businesses with ideas (incentives) for building their images through prepaid phonecards (mini-billboards). We also provide organizations with fund-raising ideas. However, we also are having fun in this business of creating collector cards.

Hank DeRaad, Genesis Telecom Incentives LLC, Owatonna, MN

Apologies for the Genesis confusion

The purpose of this letter is to acknowledge and apologize for an error that was made in a letter featured in the November issue of Moneycard Collector.

In that letter, I indicated that Genesis Telecom Incentives is affiliated with World Telecom Group Inc. (AmeriVox). This information is incorrect. The correct name of the company being run by three former AmeriVox reps is Welcome to Genesis (featured on Page 9 of the November issue). I apologize for any inconvenience this error may have caused you, your magazine or Genesis Telecom Incentives.

Roberta A. Gregory, Rochester Hills, Mich.

AOL Phone Card Club picks new meeting time

At a recent AOL Phone Card Club meeting, we had almost 20 people show up to help us make important decisions. First, we picked a new meeting time – every Tuesday at 9 p.m. Eastern. Our second decision was a unanimous one, naming Ginger Gragg as our new vice president. There also was discussion, card trading and card giveaways.

The club, unfortunately, is only available to AOL members. If you are an AOL member and you would like directions on how to get there just contact me at <Weasel2e57@aol.com>.

I hope to see many new faces in upcoming meetings!

the Scoop on Chips

The intriguing integrated circuit chip cards

by Robert J. Merkert Sr.

Integrated circuit chip, or ICC, cards are not only being used widely for payphone cards and cash cards — also known as stored-value cards and electronic-purse cards — but also are increasingly making their way into the hands of American collectors. Last month, we discussed the history of ICC cards. This month, we focus on the types of chips used in ICC cards and the manufacturing process.

In the United States and Canada, the largest issuers of telephone chip cards are U S WEST, GTE, and Bell Canada. Stored-value systems are being implemented by Visa (Visa Cash), Mastercard (Mondex), American Express (Proton), and many others. Colleges and universities throughout both countries have moved to chip-based identification cards. Stored-value systems also are being issued for use in stadiums and sporting events. Examples include cards for the Jacksonville Jaguars and the Carolina Panthers (football), the Chicago White Sox (baseball), and the St. Louis Blues (hockey). With all of these new applications, the atmosphere for collecting ICC cards has never been better.

The six-contact Inferno card (below) from Lucent Technologies is in competition with the eight-contact JAVA card for adoption by all smart-card manufacturers.

Memory Chip Cards

Basically, all ICC cards have an embedded-memory chip or a microprocessor chip bonded to a set of contacts. It is these contacts, and not the chip behind it, that is recognized by collectors throughout the world. The memory chip can be a free access memory design or a pro-TECTED memory design. The German healthcare system's cards are the free-memory type. Because of the free-access feature, they are not used in cash-card applications.

The protected memory chips have a secret code protecting the memory. They are by far the most widely used chip in the world; virtually all payphone chip cards in the world are this type. A special configuration of this memory chip, namely the abacus counter, is the workhorse of the telephone chip card industry. Because of its special configuration, it is also commonly called the token memory card. One token is removed from the memory for each unit of telephone time. When the last token is used, the card can be disposed, or for collectors, saved as a treasured collectible.

Although it is the integrated circuit chip that defines a card's functionality and often what manufacturer produced the card, to many collectors it is the contact pattern that distinguishes the card. In many ways the card manufacturers have fostered this. They have each developed unique contact patterns, in essence, their card signature. Most smart cards only require five or six contacts; memory cards usually use six, although there are some that require seven.

The International Standards Organization has established a standard for the number and position of the contacts on the card. It also governs dimensions and physical characteristics of the card, contact location, dimension and location of the chip with respect to the card and other functions.

It is not possible to show all of the contact patterns used; some manufacturers use several different ones.

Smart Cards

The protected memory card is frequently used for purse card applications also, although usually only in closed-system applications. The disposable Visa Cash cards used at the Olympic games, the early DANYL purse card, the Jacksonville Jaguar cards, and the Carolina Panther cards were all based on the protected-memory card. However, for worldwide open systems a more secure card is required. The microprocessor chip card is used. Because the chip has the intelligence of a microcomputer protecting the memory, it is often referred to as a "smart card." Reloadable Visa Cash cards, the Mondex cards, the university ID cards, cryptographic cards, the electronic benefit transfer, or EBT cards, and other multi-application cards are all based on microprocessor smart cards.

Memory-chip cards for a given telecom program can come from multiple suppliers. The semiconductor manufacturer produces the chips and provides them to the card manufacturers. Since they are all the same chip, the only thing that distinguishes card manufacturers is the embedding process, the quality of the card and the graphics. Today, telephone chip cards are a low-cost commodity product. Close to a billion cards will be sold in the year 2000, giving collectors a field day.

Smart cards, however, are a different story. Each manufacturer typically has its own chip operating system written into the Read-Only Memory (ROM) of the microprocessor. This allows differentiation among the chip card manufacturers. It is as though one manufacturer uses DOS, another UNIX, and yet another Windows.

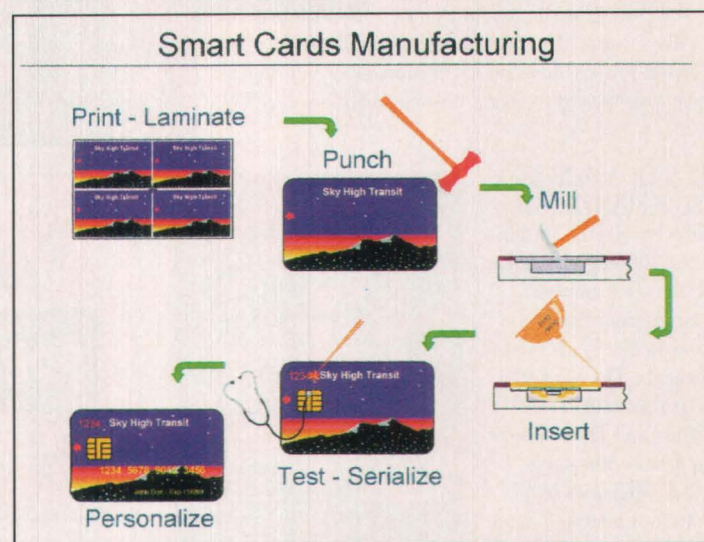

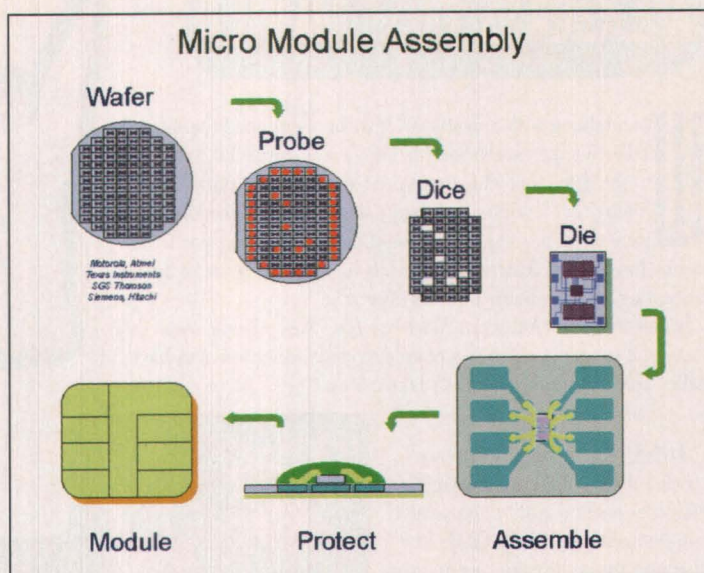

Features and benefits of each chip-operating system, or COS, can be touted by the manufacturer to distinguish its product. Recently, however, large users of smart cards are looking for a common chip card programming language rather than a common card. The language being chosen is Sun Microsystems JAVA. This should cause an explosion in the number of applications being considered for smart cards throughout the world.

Making Chip Cards

Chip-card manufacturing is a fascinating process. Semiconductor chips are fabricated on a wafer, typically 6 to 8 inches in diameter, and then each circuit is tested. The wafer is sliced into individual dies. The good ones are wire-bonded onto the reverse side of six- or eight-lead metal contact. A protective resin coating is applied, and the resulting module is ready to be inserted in and bonded to a plastic card. The modules are typically formed on a continuous roll of 35 mm contact material, typically gold-plated tungsten, although other metals also are used.

The plastic card manufacturing process is very similar to that used to produce credit and other cards. Large sheets of cards are printed and laminated, then they are punched to size. The area for the chip is milled out. The completed chip module is bonded into place. Next the card is tested, serialized, and, if required, personalized.

The latest type of smart card is the cryptographic smart card. The integrated circuit embedded in these cards contains both a microprocessor and a co-processor configured to quickly process cryptographic algorithms. The cryptographic card is increasing in use as people want to encrypt documents when they transmit them over the Internet. These cards can also be used to make secure purchases over the Internet.

It is difficult to say just how much will be placed on a smart card in the future. Today, the 6800 series of microprocessors is common. Just a few years ago, this was the heart of the Apple II computer! Recently, it has been announced that a 32-bit RISC processor will be used as the basis for a JAVA smart card. Could it be that a Pentium II processor will one day be in your wallet?

The future of smart card collecting and smart card systems seems unlimited. Enjoy this wonderful hobby and be part of an exciting new world!

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

When talking with a dealer recently he mentioned that his top seller for the month was his phonecard starter kit. It's great to see collectors who are excited about getting started in a hobby that is still in its infancy stage. Despite our new 872-page catalog, you can still count on one hand the years this hobby has been in America. This is a chance to be there at the beginning, and not many hobbies offer that.

In this month's "America's Most Wanted," we welcome some new faces and say hello again to a couple of cards which seem to have called this column home. Let's take a look.

THINK DQ. Sprint (SPR); Guy with a phone and Guy thinking; 5 minutes each; quantity unavailable on both; August 1997. Cards featuring cartoon drawings were given away during promotions at Dairy Queen stores. This card, as well as the Radio Shack/Jetsons, done strictly as promotions but capturing collectors interest, are welcome additions to AMW.

CLASSIC MOVIE MONSTER STAMPS. Tell One Inc. (TO1); 10 minutes, 300 issued; October 1997. Five monster stamps from classic movies like Frankenstein, Dracula, The Wolf Man, The Phantom of the Opera and The Mummy appear on this jumbo card. Memories of Saturday afternoon monster matinees are brought back to life on this card that jumped from last month's "Hot Cards."

TGI FRIDAYS/JACK DANIEL'S GRILL. Frontier Communications (FRO Pr162); 5 minutes; quantity unavailable; July 1997. This was a promotional card given out to customers who signed up for a frequent Fridays card and collected 500 points. This card has been among "America's Most Wanted" for three months, and it's still wanted.

RADIO SHACK/JETSONS. Sprint (SPR); 5 minutes; 6.85 million, 20 minutes; 200,000, 60 minutes; 50,000 issued; September 1997. This card was done to promote the opening of Sprint Stores inside more than 7,000 Radio Shack stores. Visitors received this Cartoon Network card showing "The Jetsons," free when they visited Radio Shack between Sept. 21 and Oct. 2.

ANGELS. USACard (USA); 10 minutes each; 1,500 issued; November 1997. These three die-cut angels with different color backgrounds have very sweet angelic faces. Add them to your collection for that warm and fuzzy feeling.

GARFIELD CHRISTMAS. ACMI (ACI); 5 minutes; 500 issued; November 1996. It's Christmas and Garfield is serving up a turkey. There's only one catch he says it's "all mine." If you missed this card last year it's back and in demand again.

PINK PANTHER THANKSGIVING. USACard (USA); 10 minutes; 500 issued; November 1997. The Pink Panther celebrates Thanksgiving Day with an old friend of his, Inspector Clouseau. A nice card to add to your collection of the Panther and his holidays.

TOOTSIE POPS. Image Telecards (IMG); 5 minutes; 1,997 issued; October 1997. There were also jumbos produced; 10 minutes; 200 issued; October 1997. The low mintage on the jumbo means there will not be many sets available and they will not be around long.

SEAFAIR AIR SHOW. U S WEST (USW77); $1 denomination; 10,000 issued; July 1997. This chip card features the Blue Angels as they appeared at the SeaFair Air Show held earlier this year. This is the third visit for the Blue Angels to the "America's Most Wanted" column.

LIFESAVERS. AT&T (ATT); 10 units; 5,000 issued; October 1997. Nabisco is commemorating the 85th anniversary of the popular hole-in-the-middle candy. This very cool, very colorful die-cut card is a must for your collection. The cards are being marketed exclusively through the LifeSavers Candystand website.

STORED VALUE SIZZLERS

Two of the more asked about stored-value cards come from two banks who have been pioneers in the chip-card industry. Their introduction of VISA stored value cards with the 1996 Olympic Summer Games produced a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for collectors.

FRENCH FRIES.

Wachovia Corporation (WAC); $20 denomination; 10,000 issued; 1996. Collectors only found out about this card days before its expiration date of August 1997. Therefore, very few made it out of the bank's vaults. Despite the quantity printed, this card could prove difficult to add to your collection.

OLYMPIC CENTENARY PUZZLE. First Union (FUN S39/S59); $540 denomination; 5,000 issued; June 1996. This 16 card puzzle set was co-issued with Standard Charter Bank of Singapore.

GOLDEN GLOW

This month's selection for older cards that customers are asking about is six sets of cards issued from November 1993 to March 1995. Two dealers mentioned this set and I thank them both; Rick's Phonocards & Racing Collectibles and USACard Corp. Gregory Perillo is well-known Staten Island artist who specializes in Indian and Western works. All the cards depict dignified and proud individuals. Some scenes are created from imagination, while others were of actual Indians posing in native garb.

GREGORY PERILLO
NATIVE AMERICAN
SERIES. AmeriVox; $2.50
denomination on each card;
5,000 issued of each.

Series I (Pr116/118)
November 1993

Series II
(Pr152/Pr154)
January 1994

Series IV (Pr373/Pr375)
September 1994

Series III (Pr232/Pr234) April 1994

Series V (Pr430)
December 1994

Series VI (Pr592/Pr594) March 1995.

INTERNATIONAL EYE

For our international spotlight this month, we're not going too far from home — we will be visiting our northern neighbors in Canada. This foreign chip-card also has the added collectible logo of Coca-Cola going for it displayed big and bold on the reverse. Branche Vrai translated means "really networked" which I'm told can also mean "together, connected." This card clearly connects with collectors. Thanks to KARS Unlimited for bringing this card to our attention.

BRANCHE
VRAI. Bell
Canada/LaPuce
(LPC); $5
denomination;
50,000 issued;
June 1997.

GETTING STARTED

Getting started is easy! The hobby is young and the important stuff you need to know can fit into a few dozen pages. A few years ago I would have recommend a couple books to beginners and told them to budget two weeks of study to what was between the covers, and then could have pronounced them experts! And it's just about as easy today if you have a plan and stick to it. What is important is that you start!

Last month we talked about how to figure out what to collect, and some of the places to get your first cards. Let's assume you have some cards now. What to do with them once they cover more than a tabletop? There are many brands of albums available, from inexpensive to very plush. Most of the European stamp supply houses carry a fine line of telecard supplies. They tend to be very expensive and much better than our domestic products, most of which have come from sports card suppliers. Some overseas telephone company collectors clubs also have their own in-house albums they supply their members.

But you don't need to house your cards in albums. Boxes are available that handle a few hundred cards at a time; they are available from the sports card field or from the coin field. There are clear telephone card "slip cover" holders that will protect your cards. They go around each individual card and are a snug fit. Don't use baseball card holders. Your cards will fall out and damage themselves quickly. Most dealers handle holders and sell them by the hundred. That's about all that's needed to house a modest collection.

Be sure you stay away from plastic that contains PVC. If the plastic feels slick or oily, like the cheap sheet protectors at office supply stores, it probably uses PVC as a softener. PVC attacks everything it comes in contact with and eats away at it. Over time, it will turn a copper coin green, and a banknote to juice! It will certainly strip the ink off a phonecard, and discolor it. This process takes years, but it is just as easy to use quality products from the beginning. Watch the rubber bands, too. They are active and will indelibly stain the plastic, sometimes in weeks or days. Some are more active than others.

You should avoid them.

And tape — yuck! Within a few weeks, tape leaves a residue on everything it touches. Then you have to clean up the residue. When I buy, I always specify: "No tape!"

Let's tackle the subject of budgets as we close this month. How much should you spend on your newfound hobby? Well, the first month I would spend very little — just remember that you should arm yourself with some knowledge before you jump in with both feet. First, I firmly believe you should subscribe to Moneycard Collector. There are lots of words right here each month, and they are quality words! Soak them up! Then there is the Moneycard Collector Catalog: spend another $35 and get 872 pages of info.

There is probably a full weekend's reading just to cover the introductory sections and the headings that precede the listings of each company's cards. Lots of information that we will be discussing in this column is already there — just waiting for you! That's not a big entry fee to a new hobby: $55. Just think how much it costs to begin another hobby: Skiing: $100++, Cycling: $200+, Rollerblading: $65++. So it goes. And you can hop right in for $55.

Arm yourself with information before you go do something dumb! There is usually plenty of time to purchase cards for your chosen area of collecting. No reason to choose something too hastily. Just begin a bit later, smarter!

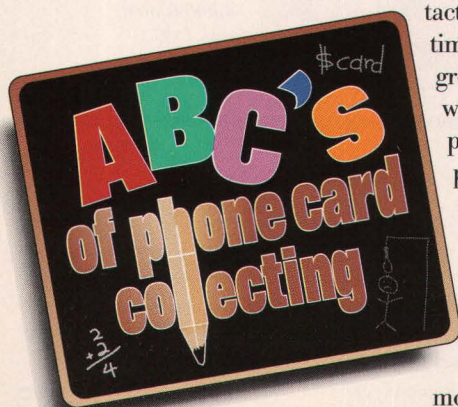

Spend two weeks now becoming an expert (at least in your neighborhood) and then, and not before, investigate buying some cards. Now the monthly budget: never, never spend more than 25 percent of your disposable income on a hobby. Better that you slow down on another hobby or pastime and redirect those funds into telecards. That way, no overall change in your financial condition will occur. Later you can modify this when you begin to feel comfortable in your hobby.

After you've set your budget, stick to it. Say you budget $50 a month for telecards. One month you may have to spend $75 to purchase a group of cards or a set. Next month then your budget is $25! Try to keep track and resist the temptation to splurge. Realize that the total mintage of the phonecard means it will probably come up again soon. And there are other cards to buy. Resist siren songs! A happy collector is one on budget!

See you next month. Drop us a note; tell us what you don't understand. We'll cover it.

WORDS ON NUMBERS

Toll-Free Numbers Attract More Inquiries

People are always looking to save a little money in everything they do. We clip coupons, take advantage of free offers, buy items on sale all just to save a little money. Phonocard collectors are no different. It only makes sense that if someone — especially a new collector — is going to buy a phonocard, his first choice of dealers to call might just be the ones who list a toll-free number.

Once a business relationship is formed between a dealer and a collector, perhaps that 800 number doesn't matter as much. But for newcomers to this hobby who have lots of questions, a free call and free information from a dealer could result in a sale, and more importantly, a satisfied customer who has been encouraged to take up a new hobby.

However, having a toll-free number can not take the place of what every consumer wants: a fair price and good service. No matter how tempting it is just to call dealers with 800 numbers, keep in mind that there may be other dealers with lower prices. Some of these dealers may also offer other incentives such as a free price list, orders over a certain dollar amount earning an additional discount or free phonocards. Phonocard dealers have specials and sales just like any business.

It benefits the collector to make a few extra calls and see who really has the best deals. And it benefits the dealers to explore getting a toll-free number to better serve customers and boost sales. Perhaps even a better idea is to get on a dealer's mailing list if it's available. Then, they can send you their price list and, even better, let you know what's on SALE.

Do you collect a certain topic or theme? Or do you collect primarily AT&T or Ameritech or MCI? Do you know if any dealers specialize in the cards you collect? This is a question you might want to find out more about. If you refer to our Dealer Directory on page 31 this will help answer some of the questions you have regarding dealers. Company names, addresses, phone/fax numbers, e-mail addresses and their specialties are listed on this page. By reading each company's specialties you can narrow down the field of dealers you want to contact, if you collect a certain theme, and if you're just starting out it gives you some good topics to think about for your own collection. It's a great place to start!

SCA Promotions (SCA)

SCA Telecards is a division of SCA Promotions, the largest underwriter of promotional risk in the United States. Founded in 1986 and based in Dallas, Texas, SCA provides over redemption coverage for sports promotions such as when a person attending a basketball game may win $1 million by scoring a basket from the center of the court.

Since 1994, CA's telecard division has successfully produced phonecard promotions for a wide variety of commercial clients in the U.S., Canada and Great Britain. It provides coverage to the carriers of phone time in a phonecard promotion. Such coverage indemnifies the telecommunications company in the event that the usage of phone time in a phonecard program exceeds agreed-upon levels. The effect of this unique over redemption product has been to reduce the overall cost of phonecard promotions and make them more attractive to companies wishing to use prepaid cards as a means to promote the sale of their products.

Many of the issues in which SCA has played a pivotal role are not listed here, but rather under the carriers, e.g. the two Gillette Final Four promotions are listed under Sprint (SPR). Other SCA clients include: Coca-Cola, Ore-Ida, Johnson & Johnson, Tetley Tea and Comp USA.

PLANS GROW FOR AIDS CARD. Ken Streetman, president of Capital Communications Group, says that his Aids

International Research Foundation card ("New Issues," December 1997) eventually could be offered to 990,000 U.S. residents who have tested HIV positive.

The research foundation and other organizations are planning mailings that offer the card as a fund-raiser or urge potential buyers to send the phonecards to friends who might be at risk. Streetman says that different service providers might be used for future runs of cards; all cards produced so far have used Cable & Wireless time. There are 1,000 cards in the first run, plus variations handed out at the Intele-Card News show in Miami (See Page 43), where the fund-raising program received recognition. There are 150 cards with Streetman's name on the reverse, plus another 100 cards with Lucas Color Card's Marcia Wilson's name on the reverse. Yet to be released are 500 cards which read "Inaugural edition" on the left side of the obverse, along with the words "Reach Out... Make A Difference" along the bottom. Streetman plans to distribute those to 50 phonecard dealers, each receiving 10 cards.

HIGHLAND TRIES PIGSKIN PROMO. The Highland Mint, which introduced its combo Major League Baseball phonecards and medallions series earlier ("Quik Takes," January 1997), has come out with a National Football League series, featuring the 10-minute Sprint Spree football phonecards along with gold-plated medallions of eight popular NFL stars. There are 2,500 of each design. The first four players featured in the combo offer are Drew Bledsoe, John Elway, Brett Favre and Steve Young. Due out in the second round are Dan Marino, Jerry Rice, Barry Sanders and Kordell Stewart.

The Highland Mint has followed its baseball phonecard-and-medallion series with one featuring NFL stars on Sprint cards and medallions, packaged in velure boxes.

CANADIAN ISSUERS MERGE. Late in September, PhoneLine of Ottawa and Datawave of Vancouver joined forces. The merged organization will combine PhoneLine's account and retail expertise with Datawave's vending machine technology, continue to use AT&T Canada as a network service provider, and base itself in Vancouver. During the summer, PhoneLine's card production was temporarily suspended pending the outcome of this deal. Aside from incorporating magnetic stripe technology, it is unclear what the merged company's new cards will look like, or how the OK and Canada Phone Card lines (private PhoneLine labels) will be affected.

S COREBOARD CEO GOLDIN QUILTS. Ken Goldin is stepping down as chief executive officer, chairman and board member of The Score Board Inc. His last day was Dec. 4. In the short term, his responsibilities will be assumed by John F. White, the company's president and chief operating officer. No reason was given for the resignation.

Score Board, which has been financially troubled, also announced that the company has been found to be in compliance with NASDAQ requirements for continued listing on the stock exchange. The retirement of debt and a payment from Frontier Communications as part of the termination of their agreement ("Quik Takes," January 1997) led to net gains in the fourth quarter of 1997.

F CC RULES TO OPEN GLOBAL COMPETITION. The Federal Communications Commission in late November took steps to open the United States to overseas telecom firms and force down the cost of making an international phone call. Regulators hope the new rules will make it easier for U.S. companies to get into foreign markets, according to a Reuters news report.

U.S. consumers on average pay about 88 cents a minute for an international call, or more than six times the cost of the average domestic long-distance call. Yet the actual costs of providing the calls are nearly equal, the news agency said.

The unanimously approved rules aim to meet U.S. obligations under the World Trade Organization's telecommunications treaty, which was scheduled to go into effect on Jan. 1, that seeks to remove barriers in the $600 billion global telecom market.

D ESIGNING CARDS ON LINE. Customers eventually could have a chance to design their own phonecards on the spot, thanks to a new company created by phonecard industry veteran Barry Brilliant. The key is B. Brilliant Inc.'s website, <www.makeacoolcard.com>, which allows visitors to pick from standardized templates. As of press time, the only templates available were for business cards, Brilliant plans to offer templates for telephone debit cards, stationery, envelopes, labels, postcards, membership cards, personalized ATM cards and other applications.

"The consumer knows what the card looks like because they made it themselves. After entering their specific information (name, address, etc.), they can take all the time they need to try out the different graphic designs available on our site. When they're serious about ordering, they pay to download a high resolution file and send it directly to the printer" Brilliant says.

This NationsBank Visa Cash Canteen Cash card is one issued for the Tampa pilot program. Other cards issued include the Constitution and Abraham Lincoln cards pictured in January's "Quik Takes," Page 40.

VISA CASH HEADS SOUTH. The second phase of a one-year pilot testing Visa Cash cards in Veterans Services facilities is under way in Tampa, Fla. NationsBank and the federal government launched the program at the Bronx Veterans Affairs Center in October, and began the Tampa pilot in late November.

Approximately 23,000 cards will be issued for a variety of functions in the Tampa pilot. A NationsBank spokeswoman was unable to give a breakdown for each of the card varieties. Like in the Bronx, the program at Tampa's James A. Haley Veterans' Medical Center, will put Visa Cash in the hands of patients, physicians, visitors, volunteers and employees. In addition, the Tampa pilot also will have a special purpose card that will be distributed by veterans' organizations for special events hosted by the medical center throughout the year.

BELL CANADA COLLECTORS CLUB SOLD. The Darnell Corp., owners of Editions Darnell in Montreal and Darnell Publishing in Toronto, has been chosen by Bell Canada to take over the Bell Canada Phonecard Collectors Club. Watch for complete coverage of this story in next month's Moneycard Collector.

STS CLOSES DOORS, IS TARGET OF SUIT. Strategic Telecom Systems of Knoxville, Tenn., once one of the most dynamic multi-level marketing companies involved in prepaid phonecards, has closed its doors amid multi-million dollar losses and hundreds of complaints. The company also is the target of a suit filed by the state of Tennessee.

The Knoxville News-Sentinel reported in early December that the company had closed its doors and was selling assets to pay debts. The newspaper quoted STS spokesman Ken Renner. Neither Renner nor any of several STS officials returned telephone calls made by Moneycard Collector.

The state consumer affairs division has logged about 1,400 complaints against STS during the last 18 months, the newspaper reported, most from people claiming to be owed refunds.

The MLM's financial difficulties led parent company Easy Access International to rescind a merger agreement it had made with STS, and STS chief Rick Catinella resigned as president of Easy Access. STS had unaudited net losses of $5.2 million in 1996, and another $1.2 million for the first six months of 1997, according to an Easy Access press release.

Many STS assets already have been sold to another Easy Access subsidiary, the Success Group, incorporated in Tennessee in September. Success Group has its sign outside STS' former headquarters in Knoxville. Several former STS employees are working for Success Group. Like STS, Success Group sells prepaid long-distance phonecards and other products through independent sales representatives who purchase the merchandise to resell.

According to the Knoxville newspaper, no Success Group credit will be given for the return of STS merchandise. "How could we afford that?" the newspaper quoted Sonny Spoden, chief financial officer of Easy Access.

On Dec. 9, the state of Tennessee filed suit against STS, charging that they engaged in "unfair and deceptive conduct" in violation of consumer protection laws. According to the complaint, STS allegedly misrepresented potential earnings of STS reps, failed to process refunds in a timely fashion, sold prepaid cards that did not work or expired in an "unreasonably short" period and misrepresented the market value of STS cards.

One of the state's charges is that STS also represented to potential recruits that certain of its cards "hold intrinsic value as collectibles, comparing the prepaid telephone cards to collector sports cards. STS does not have a reasonable basis for this claim, and cannot substantiate that any of its cards have intrinsic value as collectibles." (See this month's "On The Money" for more on this topic.)

Time carried by Athena and Zenex did not work on cards tested by Moneycard Collector, and a Zenex spokeswoman confirmed that the time had been cut off because STS "failed to meet contractual obligations." But STS cards with time carried by Cable & Wireless still work, in accordance with C&W's policy of honoring cards until they expire or all time is used. MC

S MARTALK BUYS CARDINAL VOICE-CARD. Smartalk Teleservices Inc. of Los Angeles is on the acquisition trail again. The company in December confirmed its purchase of Cardinal VoiceCard of Toronto. The new company will be called Smartalk Teleservices Canada. See March's issue for more details.

N NEW PHONECARD COMPANY LAUNCHED. Amplex Corp., a distributor of U.S. postage stamps to retail outlets and Front-End Services, which distributes 7-Eleven phonecards for the Southland Corp., have formed a joint initiative called The Phone Card Group. The new company's services will include developing retail card programs, design and produce phonecards and point-of-purchase materials, fulfillment, distribution and retail marketing consulting. The company, located in Grand Prairie, Texas, also announced an alliance with Phones For All, LLC, a service provider in Texas and Florida.

"Currently, the majority of consumers have only a vague understanding of prepaid phonecards," says Walt Abele, vice president of marketing. "We predict that in the next few years that will change dramatically. Finding and buying a phonecard will be as easy and commonplace as buying a postage stamp, a newspaper or any other item."

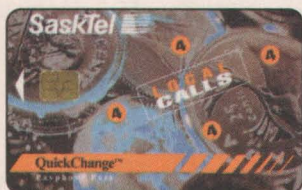

Canadian correspondent Rosemary Warren contributed to "Quik Takes."

Lots of news from Canada this month, from a variety of issuers!

SaskTel QuickChange

Sasktel is the Stentor Alliance member serving Saskatchewan. The company introduced QuickChange cards in April 1997, using among its test sites the Royal Canadian Mounted Police training center in Regina and several universities. The retail cards feature a handful of Canadian coins and are colored to match the paper money of the same denomination. Four promotional cards have been released so far. One matches the retail set, but in $1 denomination; another shows the Sasktel logo in dark blue; a third was handed out at a country music festival in Craven; the most recent honors the efforts of the Sasktel Pioneers, and was given only to retired and current employees.

SaskTel QuickChange; Coins - Brown; $1 denomination; 7,500 issued; August 1997.

SaskTel QuickChange; Sasktel Pioneers 50th Anniversary; $1 denomination; 6,000 issued; October 1997.

Télébec

Imagine for a moment 170,000 people dispersed over almost 300,000 square miles with only 2,000 payphones at their disposal. Télébec has that challenge, in a jurisdiction that is quite fragmented — areas served in Quebec include Schefferville in the far north, the Magdalen Islands in the east, the James Bay and Rouyn/ Noranda areas as far east as Chibougamou, and Becancour in the southeast. This fragmentation resulted in an agreement among Télébec, Bell Canada, and Quebec Telephone so that all the companies' chip cards are interoperable. Unlike the prairie provinces, which are served by a single entity, it is possible to buy a LaPuce card in one Quebec town, drive to the next town, and be in a different local-service jurisdiction!

Télébec cards produced to date have been targeted at local residents. All can be purchased through the telco's web site except for the $2-denomination cards, which are sold out.

Eton International

Eton International is a Toronto-based company that has issued several cards in collaboration with Globafon and AT&T Canada. For an American convention, transportation manufacturer Bombardier handed out 500 cards picturing the company's new battery-powered automobile to visitors to their booth.

AT&T Canada/Eton International; Hamilton Chamber of Commerce / David Art Gallery set (Laking Garden, 4,000 issued; Dundas Marsh, 3,000 issued; Old Market, 3,000 issued); 32 minutes each; August 1997

On the retail side, a set of three fund-raiser cards is now available. Commissioned by the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce, the cards feature the artwork of local painter Frank Panabaker. Various charities in Hamilton sell the reloadable cards individually, and the David Gallery can provide matched serial number sets of the first 50 cards.

Earlier Eton cards have been cataloged in the Moneycard Collector Catalog as private issues of Globafon (e.g. Asian Pacific Foundation, GLO Pr1) and AT&T Canada (e.g. Household Finance, ACA Pr2), because Eton's name does not appear on the cards, neither does the company's name appear on the Bombardier or fund-raiser cards, which have time by AT&T Canada.

JJ&B Enterprises

A new issuer from Mooretown, Ontario, JJ&B's first issue is a commemorative set of three 10-minute cards. The cards honor the construction of the Bluewater Bridge "Second Span" linking Port

SHOW STOPPERS

COLLECTOR'S INTERNATIONAL The 2nd annual Collectors' International show was held October 17-19 at the Olympic Stadium in Montreal, and while hockey and other trading cards made up the bulk of the offerings for the 200-plus exhibitors, there were six booths fully dedicated to phonecards.

Two Quebec dealers, Marc Binette Phonecards (Terrebonne) and Les Collections Sartigan (St. Georges de Beauce) offered a staggering selection of mostly used international cards, focussing on chip-based technology. The Frank Ataw Phonecards booth (Toronto) showed a number of binders of sport, Coca-Cola, and promotional cards; most of these cards were North American.

From France came Jean-Luc Gosse, a French dealer and publisher of Infopuce magazine, with debit cards from France Telecom, Disneyland in Paris and Tokyo, French possessions, Visa Cash from Italy, and other cards of interest. Representing Canadian issuers were the collectors' clubs for Bell Canada (LaPuce/QuickChange) and Telebec.

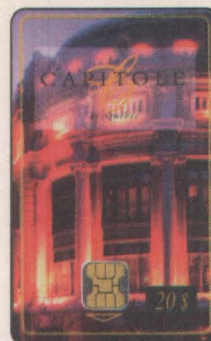

Between purchases and exchanges, I added more than 100 cards to my collection. New countries for my collection included Venezuela, St. Maarten, Yemen, China, Sri Lanka, and the Dominican Republic. My France Telecom "Grands Figures des Telecommunications" set is two steps closer to completion, as I found two of three missing designs at separate booths. Another long-sought treasure for me, the St. Lucia phonecard advertising the Bank of Nova Scotia, was also discovered at the show.

Canadian cards, particularly chip cards, were much in evidence over the weekend. Exhibitors and purchasers of a three-day pass received a 50-cent Bell Canada show card, continuing last year's vintage-photo theme. Hello cards of various ages and conditions were spotted, from mint 1994-era cards to this summer's Toronto Blue Jays cards (mint or used).

Tucked away for the determined collector to find were used examples of CardCaller, Alliance Telecard, Promo Laser, GTS Canada — and yes, even LaPuce cards from Bell and Quebec-Telephone. Mint QuickChange cards from Telus, Sasktel, and MTS were admired by many and purchased by some (See more on Sasktel in this month's "Oh Canada" column, Page 36). And one booth had cards for display only: the CTN Canadian Tire cards, at the booth for collectors of Canadian Tire paper money.

CANTV (Venezuela); Orchid Series - Cattleya peruviana; BS.1000 denomination; 400,000 issued; April 1996;

Capitele de Quebec debit card; Facade; $20 denomination; 5,000 issued; November 1995.

Bell Canada-LaPuce/QuickChange; Collectors' International 1997; 50 cents denomination; 1,500 issued; October 1997.

Phonecards were not the only type of debit card at the show. I found two other cards that I had been looking for: the Restaurants Normandin meal-payment card; and the Capitele de Quebec payment card, usable anywhere in the Quebec City theater and adjacent restaurant and hotel where cash could be used.

This year, I saw the show from a different perspective: from behind the counter at Frank Ataw's booth. Visitors to his booth were about evenly divided between collectors and non-collectors of phonecards.

Since Montreal is very much a hockey town, the binder of hockey phonecards was well thumbed through — the 7-Eleven/Score Board Canada hockey set was especially popular. Next most popular was Coca-Cola, then local figure Jacques Villeneuve and other racecar drivers. A number of Elvis Presley fans inquired about two AmeriVox packages but were dismayed at both the asking price and the contents.

These are only a few of the crossover opportunities I observed during the show. Being behind a booth also afforded me the opportunity to introduce Moneycard's magazine and catalog to new readers and trade my duplicates with visitors and other dealers. My duplicate book is now completely empty!

WorldCom builds on mergers, Michael, MCI deal

by Art Becker

Chances are you have some WorldCom phonecards in your collection, even if you don't know it. Oh sure, the Michael Jordan images are easy to identify as WorldCom cards and have proved immensely popular with collectors, but WorldCom has been so many different companies, that you'll need a guided tour to know what's what. So, here's the tour.

Metromedia issued phonecards in 1992. In 1993, it merged with LDDS, a Mississippi-based company which had been founded in 1983. According to company history, the name LDDS stands for "Long Distance Discount Service," a name suggested by a waitress in a Mississippi restaurant. Over the years, various names have been associated with the resulting company, including various combinations of LDDS, ATC LDDS, Metromedia LDDS, LDDS Communications, and LDDS WorldCom. Among the other merger targets was WilTel Communications. WilTel is still issuing cards under its name (see this month's "New Issues" section) but the cards also carry the explanation that "WilTel is a trade name of Worldcom Inc."

And that only brings us up to 1997. WorldCom was a busy company in 1997. Among other accomplishments, it bought the computer information service CompuServe, bought the phonecard company BLT

Technologies (BLT), and, subject to various approvals, merged with the second largest U.S. long distance phone company, MCI, to form MCI WorldCom. MCI has been producing phonecards of its own since 1993 (see "MCI Attraction" in the January 1997 issue of Moneycard Collector magazine).

Further, MCI has a significant business relationship with British Telecom (BT), though BT & MCI agreed not to merge, as they originally had intended. BT has been issuing phonecards since 1981. BLT is best known for its ubiquitous TALK 'N TOSS phonecards. Previously, the company was known as Bottom Line Communications, and it issued its first phonecards in 1992. All the USA companies that are now WorldCom have issued their own phonecards, and most have also provided long distance service to private phonecard issuers. Many great promotional phonecards have been WorldCom issues, in one way or the other.

When Metromedia Communications merged with ATC LDDS in 1993, the resulting company was the fourth largest provider of long distance telephone service in the country. After the merger, more colorful phonecards were issued, in denominations as high as $100. These early cards had worldwide scenic designs. In September 1984, the first commemorative set was issued, marking the 50th anniversary of D-Day. After this, the floodgates opened, and LDDS WorldCom cards came pouring out.

Showcards are very popular with phonecard collectors, and LDDS WorldCom has issued several. At Telecard World in 1994, the company issued a commemorative phonecard. Brilliant Color Cards (BCC 18/20) issued a set of three heart-shaped commemorative phonecards at this show. The phone time for the Brilliant cards was provided by LDDS Metromedia Communications.

For Telecard World West 1995, LDDS Communications again issued a show card. In addition, a triptych (three-card) puzzle set was produced by BCC, using phone time by LDDS Communications. Do you consider this set to be LDDS, BCC, or both? A month later, at the San Francisco International Phonecard Conference & Exhibition, the company issued a showcard under the name LDDS WorldCom, with LDDS now in small print. This card was also produced by BCC.

Most corporations try to make their annual reports as impressive as possible. LDDS Communications Inc. included a phonecard with their 1995 annual report. The 10-minute card looks like a miniature share of stock.

Perhaps you are more familiar with the promotional phonecards produced by WorldCom. Pepsi Cola has long had a relationship with the company. The first LDDS Metromedia Pepsi PhonePass cards were issued in 1993. A second series came out in 1994, this time under the name LDDS Communications. The popular Pepsi Congo phonecards of 1995 were a product of LDDS WorldCom, as were the two Pepsi cards you could get for sending in Pepsi Points. Do you own a 7-Up Uncola phonecard from 1994? It's an LDDS card, too.

Finesse shampoo and conditioner ran a popular in-pack promotion using LDDS WorldCom phonecards. Remember the Union 76 series of sports phonecards? These were an LDDS/BCC production.

While it seems the company wasn't always consistent in using one name at any given time, it has almost always called its phonecards by the name PhonePass. This has even extended to the promotional phonecards produced for Pepsi and Union 76.

Talk 'N Toss phonecards are everywhere. They are frequently co-branded with drug stores and supermarkets, as well as other stores and services. One of the geographic service providers for the first 7-Eleven coins phonecards was Bottom Line. Interestingly, MCI was another provider, and now they are going to be the same company.

Talk 'N Toss; Holiday Puzzle Series six-card set (BLT 56/61); each $10; quantity unavailable, 1997.

Many of the Talk 'N Toss phonecards are cardboard, and frequently they are punch-out cards. Inexpensive introductory cards are a specialty, in order to help customers become familiar with phonecards in general. You could easily develop a wonderful collection simply specializing in Talk 'N Toss phonecards. They are easy to identify, as most have the Talk 'N Toss logo on the front of the card.

Among the newest are a retail Talk 'N Toss series of Michael Jordan phonecards, and another post-Worldcom Talk 'N Toss program is a six-card puzzle set which features holiday and Americana images. Both programs should help bridge the gap between retail "user"-oriented phonecards and collectible phonecards. Six WorldCom images of Michael Jordan and the animated "Space Jam" movie crew also are being sold on 80-minute phonecards at your local Wal-Mart store, too, while the "Space Jam" characters, sans Jordan have been sold on 30-minute cards at other store chains ("New Issues," September 1997).

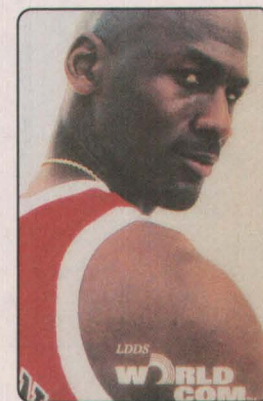

So, what does the future hold for phonecards from MCI WorldCom? Just prior to the recent merger, MCI had announced that it was providing a total service approach to its phonecard customers, including inventory management, point of sale activation, and so on. LDDS WorldCom has been actively producing phonecards for years. And, has any company been more aggressive in providing co-branded phonecards to businesses than Talk 'N Toss?

Before the MCI merger, WorldCom encouraged its distributors to sell phonecards, as well as other services. If the past is prologue, there can be no doubt that the new company will be among the top producers of phonecards in the USA. What companies could possibly be bigger issuers of phonecards? Well, there are a few contenders that come to mind. Look for articles about them in upcoming issues of Moneycard Collector magazine.

And the winner is ... Neil Koshnick of Kissimmee, FL. The ITA set will join a collection that includes his favorites — the Disney 25th anniversary hologram card, the original Cracker Jack by USACard and the McDonald's Happy Meal die-cut set of three.

Tying for the top spot among readers were AT&T's Oreo diecut and GTI's Polaroid hologram card. Those two choices narrowly edged out the most-preferred set, the Pink Panther Easter Egg set. Finishing next was another set, the Duracell Putterman five-card set.

While Coca-Cola led the thematic parade, no Coca-Cola card received multiple votes, with several readers simply listing "Coca-Cola" as their favorite cards. The second most preferred theme was the Pink Panther, with Long Beach and Olympic versions mentioned in addition to the Easter Egg set. "Disney" and "Lifesavers" were listed as the next most-popular thematic, with the Disney 25th anniversary card (another hologram!), specifically mentioned more than "McDonald's," specifically the die-cut Happy Meal set by The Score Board, and "Sports" were next, followed by "USPS." The Postal Service's Midnight Angel card also received specific mention.

Other cards earning multiple votes were the original Cracker Jack card as well as the Gillette series I and/or II. Cards featuring 101 Dalmatians, Cigar Aficianado Demi Moore, Michigan Bell, Michael Jordan, YooHoo, and Caulastics' 1995 San Francisco International Phone Card Expo and the "nature/wildlife" thematic also were ranked by multiple collector.

Those selections made AT&T and USACard the top service providers among the collectors who responded, and phone time and usage was on our mind when we created the contest. Another question asked if readers bought pre-paid phonecards to use, and Sprint took top honors among the 62 percent who said they did. Other cards that users preferred, in descending order, were GTL, Frontier, PT1, AT&T, Smarttalk, Cable & Wireless, MCI, Postal Service-American Express and Cominex. Another dozen companies got single votes.

Contestant James R. Dauber Sr. of Redlands, Calif., was among several who couldn't narrow their collections to three favorite cards, and listed many cards as "ties." (Each card specifically mentioned got a vote).

"I collect what appeals to me, at the most reasonable price and to add to my collection, new or used," Dauber wrote. "If it happens to increase in value, for reasons of supply and demand, then so be it!"

Dauber also sees retail, sports-themed phonecards (he mentioned cards sold in 7-Eleven) as an attraction for young collectors.

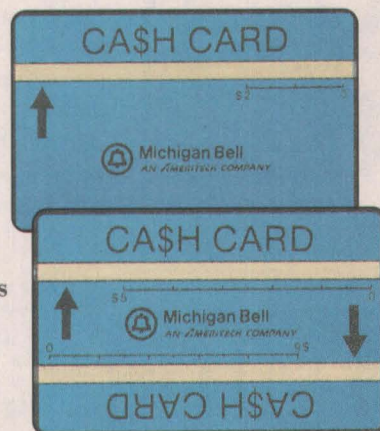

"I predict that retail and user cards with the lowest price-per-minute will prevail as far as money-makers for manufacturers, and sports, comics and racing cards will keep the collector market above water!" he wrote.

A custom voice prompt including music from Aqua Velva TV commercials is a nice touch to this card. Call your local dealer for this card as well.

A few months ago, Deltacom issued 7,500 cards complete with a folder, for Bausch & Lomb Soft Contact lenses. Customers who purchased a box of Bausch & Lomb Soft Lens 66 received the 30-minute cards with purchase. A nice card if you can find it.

Finally this month, we have an award winning card from CDG. There were 600 10-minute cards issued for New York Life. The card was given out to Chinese-speaking customers in Chinatown as a thank you. The voice prompt is available in three languages: Mandarin, Chinese and English. Instructions on the back of the card are in both English and Chinese. An interesting card that recently won an international award.

That's it for this month. Happy collecting!

SHOW STOPPERS

M IAMI '97 The Intele-Card News "Expo of the Americas," held in early November in Miami was another in the continuing trend of shows not designed for the collector and with no dealers exhibiting — although some were walking the aisles. The show cards were there, although sometimes hard to find.

I counted 13 different cards with some available for sale and some as giveaways. Many companies have been selling the show cards. Quite often, this is the only opportunity to purchase them as very few dealers sell show cards. The 85 exhibitors were mostly utility card distributors, card and plastics manufacturers, phone time providers, and various other telecommunication product vendors.

The winner of the "People's Choice" award went to Jericho Printing for its card, which shows a colorful fishing scene filled with a lobster, fish, and a fishing line with the information about the show attached to the hook. Always a favorite, the Continental Plastics entry featured a jumbo- and regular-size card set mounted on a folder with a cartoon water-and-beach scene.

Worldwide Digital, another popular printer, celebrated Miami's diversity with a cityscape water scene, a Spanish dancer, and palm trees.

Perhaps the most unusual card was offered by Corn Card International, which showed a card made from Nebraska corn, picturing, appropriately, a corn field. The card is biodegradable.

Other entries such as those from Galaxy and The Phone Card Group offered various Miami scenes, while the Karis card shows a handshake across the globe.

U.S. South/Incomm offered two cards, one with the word "Miami" in the sand and the other a water scene with a "Miami" life preserver.

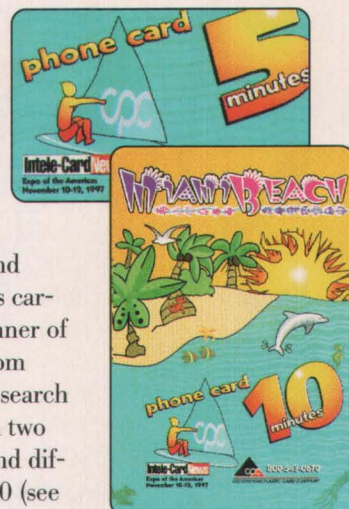

SSI produced a laminated card with a mintage of 200 showing a wind surfer and palm trees. The card breaks away from its carrier. The lowest mintage card, and the winner of the International Card of the Year, was from CapComm, with its AIDS International Research Foundation card. The card was offered in two versions, with the same picture on front and different backs, with mintages of 100 and 150 (see "Quik Takes, Page 34").

VIVA MEXICO!

Collectors can find a Mexican phonecard fiesta

by Art Becker

A book could be written about Mexican phonecards, so this article, a follow-up to the original July 1995 story in Moneycard Collector, can only cover the highlights. Mexico has issued hundreds of different phonecards over the past seven years, not to mention U.S. phonecard issuers who increasingly have seen our southern neighbor as fertile ground for expansion (See related story).

Mexican phonecards are highly collectible. Their designs are attractive, and the older cards of historical importance. There is a growing number of collectors of their wonderful phonecards. Since Mexico shares the United States' second longest border, it's likely that either you are planning a vacation to Mexico, know someone else who is, or know someone who goes there on business. With the price of the lowest denomination phonecard averaging $3, you sure can't go wrong getting some for your collection.

Let's set the stage with some background on Mexican card issuers. TELMEX is the larger of the country's two companies. TELNOR, the second company, is a wholly-owned subsidiary. TELNOR's service area is what used to be the state of Baja California Norte, while TELMEX has the rest of the country, including what used to be the state of Baja California Sur. The first three years of TELMEX phonecards saw GPT magnetic cards in use, and then a switchover to chip cards. TELNOR's phonecards have always been chip cards.

There have been many developments and changes over the years that have affected phonecards. In addition to switching from magnetic cards to chip cards, the peso has been redenominated three times (from pesos $, to new pesos N$, to pesos $). New pesos are simply old pesos divided by 1,000. Shortly after the switch to new pesos, the value of the currency dropped considerably. For example, the TELNOR N$25 Cactus & Fibre Optics phonecard actually cost more than twice that, in real terms, of the next issue, the N$25 Whale. The current $25 phonecard costs about one-third of what the first N$25 phonecard sold for, in terms of purchasing power.

Further, the TELMEX Ladatel design can be found in three versions (old peso magnetic, new peso magnetic, and new peso chip). To further confuse the matter, the second arrow design can be found denominated in new pesos, yet there were two intervening versions of the Ladatel design. Got that? Some cards are denominated in both old and new pesos. Then, for a short time, TELNOR ran out of chip phonecards between shipments, so they temporarily used a small quantity of TELMEX phonecards (the Ladatel N$10 chip).

The only way to figure out what's what with the TELMEX magnetic

Trident $20 chip card

N$5 Promotional chip card

N$10/$10,000 Sanborn's (upscale department store chain) magnetic card.

Pyramid $10,000/N$10 magnetic card.

Ladatel N$10 Telefonía Pública magnetic card.

cards is to do some detective work with control codes. The magnetic phonecard control codes consist of one or two digits (1 to 20), MEX, the letter A to D, and a six digit serial number. Thus, the first GPT card probably had control code 1MEXA000001. The highest control codes are in the 20MEX series. Then TELMEX switched to chip phonecards.

TELNOR expands

TELNOR was first covered in the July 1995 issue of Moneycard Collector. Since then, this progressive telephone company has significantly expanded their phonecard operation. The number of payphones accepting cards has more than doubled. In downtown Tijuana, for example, there are public payphones on at least every other corner, which is more than you can usually find in Washington, DC.

An unscientific poll, which consisted of me walking around, looking into phonebooths, estimated that about one-third of the customers were using phonecards. Whereas in late 1994, I was lucky to find one used phonecard a week, during my most recent visit in early 1997, I was able to find about two dozen used cards a day, in collectible condition, and half again more that were damaged beyond collectibility.

TELNOR phonecards issued since the first Moneycard article include two ecological cards (whales and mountain sheep), a volcanic crater, piñata, two phonebooths, and a card explaining the changes in LADA (long distance) codes. A card that should have been issued by the time you read this commemorates the 40th anniversary of the University of Baja California. This attractive card, in shades of green, features a stylized 40 which resembles a mountain sheep's head.

While there are exceptions, most TELNOR cards are issued in denominations of $25, $35, and $50 for the same design. Two sets were also issued with two different chip types for all denominations. The most interesting card was the only $10 denomination; a piñata promotional card. This was the first TELNOR promotional card, and a mere 3,000 were produced. Most of them were given out when new payphones were installed in a particular location. This same design was also issued in the usual denominations. Check out <www.telnor.com> for TELNOR's web page.

TELNOR's remote memory cellular phonecards are called TELCEL. Another company selling cellular phonecards is Baja Celular (the Spanish spelling). While the $100 denomination might seem high, in U.S. currency it is only about US$13.

A drop in the bucket

Here's something to think about while I tell you about TELMEX phonecards: Mexico City has a population of over 18 million people. Thus, even the quantity of 100,000 phonecards of any particular design is a drop in the bucket, when you consider the entire population. Plus, TELMEX serves the rest of the country, and that includes several other major cities.

TELMEX started with definitive cards, then in 1993 issued some advertising cards (TELNOR has

N$50 Ballena (whale) ecological sanctuary

Ladatel $50,000 Telefonía Pública magnetic card.

$100 Baja Celular.

$35 Pinacate Crater, Sonora.

$35 Borrego (mountain sheep) cimarron (high country) ecological sanctuary.

Typical reverse, showing TELNOR service area and part of obverse (right) of above Borrego card.

yet to issue an advertising card). The current definitives have gone through several different chips and printings. There are plenty of advertising cards, promotional cards (both low and high quantity), and several cultural series. The usual denominations are $20 and $50. Cards are issued in sets of six. The series and card number are marked on the reverse. Some of the series have multiple chip types, and even both denominations ($20 and $50). Cultural series have included prehispanic art, abstract art, ceramic tiles, movie star eyes, festival days, and sculptures.

Mexican phonecards, in good used condition, are difficult to obtain. In the USA, Steve Eyer sells Mexican phonecards, including some rare versions. There are no known dealers of phonecards in Mexico, though in Mexico City there is a collector club that sells recent cards at $2 each, or less. They occasionally come across some older cards. The club has a series of web pages, but they are in transition.

For the latest information, write to me, care of Moneycard Collector, and include a #10 SASE.

LOOKING SOUTH

U.S. issuers show interest in Mexico

While there are many USA phonecard companies providing discount calls into Mexico from the USA, few companies provide similar service from within Mexico. Sprint, in partnership with Telmex, recently introduced a Mexican version of their popular Spree series of phonecards, good for calls made from Mexico. Three denominations (and colors) are offered. Naturally, all text on the cards was in Spanish. AT&T offers special outward bound long distance service from Mexico, as it does from many countries.

Prepaid cellular phonecards are popular in Mexico. IUSACEL has long been issuing prepaid cellular cards, mostly for use from oil rigs. Baja Cellular is a private company offering prepaid cellular cards, while TELNOR, the "official" phone company, is selling the TelCel Card. Southwestern Bell, now SBC, has long been a significant owner of Telmex stock.

USA providers of service to Mexico include PacBell, which issued some phonecards entirely in Spanish, and 7-Eleven, which has three new regional discount phonecards, one of which is aimed at Mexico. Time on that card is carried by MCI. In addition to regular $10 and $20 denominations, there is a five-minute version which was given free to all 7-Eleven employees to familiarize them with the new product.

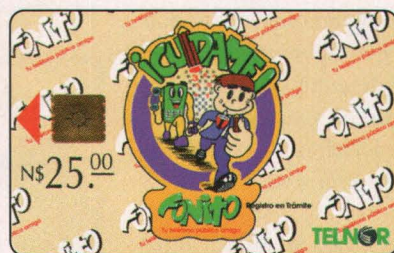

Another company offering prepaid cards in Mexico is SCA Telecard Services of Dallas. SCA recently came out with a series of commemorative 5-minute cards celebrating historic moments in Mexican history and other Mexican themes, with network services by Teltrust.

SHOW STOPPERS

CARDEx '97 CardEx means many things to many people. To me, it is the global event of the year.

One place, one weekend, every year, to share all aspects of this fascinating industry and get together with collectors, producers and dealers from around the world makes the entire trip worthwhile. Held at Les Pyramides Convention Center, in downtown Brussels, CardEx 97 (Oct 24-26, 1997) was no exception. It is quite a pleasure to participate in a Bourse intended for collectors (as opposed to some other shows we have all attended) and the show was easily accessible to local and foreign visitors alike. The name "CardEx" is, in itself, a draw for many and has the potential to become an annual gathering place. Is the United States ready to host such a show? Maybe soon.

The Bourse was busy throughout the weekend. I was surprised at the number of collectors who traveled to Brussels from outside Europe to participate. The vast majority of collectors were pleased with the selection and price of cards offered. Many felt it a great place to find some exceptional deals.

Walking the floor, finding unique and rare cards, and comparing prices between dealers gives a sense of vitality to collecting. One of the most noteworthy aspects of CardEx shows is the number of collectors who come to trade their cards with other collectors, a healthy sign for the hobby. In fact, so many came this year and the Bourse floor became so crowded that a special room was set aside expressly for traders. The Moneycard Collector Catalog was very well received and seemed to spark interest in collecting U.S. cards. More attendees browsed through our general albums, rather than just asking for Coke and McDonald's, this year than in prior years. I guess U.S. cards are becoming more acceptable.

If I had to pin down what was hot and what was not, it seems the Coca-Cola and McDonald's frenzy has slowed down. Disney is still a favorite. Visa Cash and stored-value cards in general, are becoming more popular as trials are popping up all over the globe. Thematics, such as trains, planes and animals are still very popular. All the CardEx cards produced remain strong with people stopping by booths just to seek one out. The second edition of the Biegel catalog (devoted strictly to CardEx issues) was on sale at the show.

The best idea of the weekend goes to Belgacom. Two staff members wore dresses made entirely of linked Belgacom phonecards. Attendees guessed the weight of the dresses and the closest entry won a selection of their cards. (I would have won if I had been allowed to lift the models!)

Regular telecom attendees such as Belgacom (host country), Telecom Italia, British Telecom and Telecom Australia offered regular issues and special CardEx '97 issues at their booths. Most dealers we spoke with were satisfied with attendance and sales, although felt it was down from last year in Maastricht, perhaps 20-30 percent overall. Unfortunately, the entire staff at ITC, the host organization for CardEx, changed just after the show and we could not confirm any information about gate attendance.

An important note is that the foreign phonecard market is different from the U.S. market. We are not used to cards being issued in quantities of 1-2 million, as is common in Europe. Europeans enjoy collecting used regular-issue cards from around the world, so don't throw your user cards away once they are exhausted — come to CardEx next year and trade them for others.

Editor's note: Three cards issued for CardEx '97 by KARS Unlimited with U.S. WEST and Bell Canada appeared in January's "New Issues" section.

NEW ISSUES

Bell Atlantic unveils new cards

Bell Atlantic (BLA); Prepaid Calling five-card definitive series, $5, $10, $20 (two) and $50 denominations; total of 500,000 issued; December 1997.

Bell Atlantic, which merged with NYNEX last year, has introduced its "basic five" designs with the new Bell Atlantic logo.

The cards were issued in December 1997, with single $5, $10 and $50 designs, as well as two $20 designs, one specifically targeted at African-American consumers. There were a total of 500,000 cards initially issued for the ongoing program, although no breakdown was available. While the quantity of cards made and the images might not immediately spark collector interest, the fact that these are the first prepaids issued since the Bell Atlantic-NYNEX merger makes them worthy of consideration in any collection.

Ameritech roundup

Ameritech (AMT); RetailVision 1997; 60 and 120 minutes; 1,525 issued (60 minutes); quantity unavailable (120 minutes); September 1997.

Ameritech (AMT); 32nd Puerto Rican Festival; 5 units; 51,100 issued; 1997.

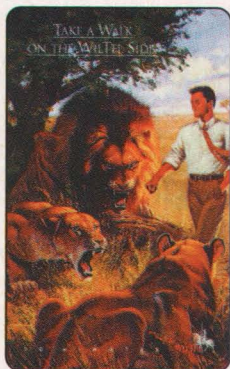

Ameritech (AMT); Happy Halloween-McGruff; 5 minutes; 100 issued; October 1997.

Cards featuring the San Diego skyline and Chicago's 32nd annual Puerto Rican Festival were mentioned in December's "Baby Bell Notes." The sequentially numbered RetailVision telecards were distributed to those in attendance at the fall trade show. The Halloween-themed card features the popular "Crime Dog."

King of the jungle

WilTel (WTL); Take a Walk on the WilTel Side; 30 minutes; 500 issued; 1997.

WilTel is a trade name of Worldcom Inc. This jumbo card is affixed to a sales flyer that promotes WilTel's international and domestic wholesale products and services.

Phonecard Thanksgiving

Carson City King (CCK); Westchester Stamp & Coin Show; 5 minutes; 50 issued; November 1997.

This show card, with time by Teledebit, shows a Pilgrim and an Indian celebrating their Thanksgiving feast with a buffalo nickel.

Being good sports

SportsCom; RPM - Dale Earnhardt; 3 minutes; 1,000 issued; December 1997.

SportsCom; Tuff Stuff-Ty Cobb; 3 minutes; 5,000 issued; December 1997.

ATN; Tuff Stuff-Honus Wagner; 3 minutes; 3,000 issued; November 1997.

Subscribers were offered the Ty Cobb card, the third in a series of "Legends of the Game" phonecards that started with the December 1995 release of a Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig card (TTR SP3M; 4,500 issued) and continued with the December 1996 release of a Honus Wagner card (5,000 issued). The Wagner card shown here is the second printing. The Earnhardt card follows the March 1996 release of a Sterling Marlin (FIN SP3; 1,000 issued) and Rusty Wallace (SPO SP16, 1,000 issued), as well as a Jeff Gordon FanScan card (SPO SP23, 800 issued). Tuff Stuff Publications Inc. also offered a Coca-Cola Polar Bear card (ATN; 3 minutes; 700 issued; December 1996) for subscribers to Tuff Stuff Collect!.

MCI's entertaining cards

MCI; Earth: Final Conflict; 10 minutes; 5,000 issued; November 1997.

MCI; Home Alone 3; 10 minutes; 2,000 issued; December 1997.

Cards promoting the syndicated television series "Gene Roddenberry's Earth: Final Conflict," which debuted in May, and the holiday release of the new "Home Alone 3" movie were part of separate promotions from MCI. In both cases, the cards were given away by radio stations nationwide, and the "Home Alone 3" promotion also gave callers a chance to win movie passes and other MCI holiday-themed cards.

Scenes of the city

Citibank Visa Cash (CTB); Upper Westside four-card series; Ansonia Condominiums and West 79th Boat Basin, $10 denominations; 72nd Street Station and Bethesda Fountain, $20 denominations; 6,250 each; December 1997.

Citibank has issued four additional design for its Visa Cash Money Card (gotta love that name!). The cards feature well-known sites on Manhattan's Upper West Side on both front and back, the scenes on the reverse echo part of the obverse images. A key difference between these cards and the original design ("Quik Takes," December 1997) is that the limited-edition cards come preloaded with the denominations as noted above. They are reloadable up to $500. The cards are available to both Citibank customers and non-customers at six Upper Westside branches.

Rison interest

Access Communications/Alternative Energy Industries; Andre Rison (i); 30 minutes; 100,000 issued; December 1997.

The Kansas City Chiefs wide receiver is pictured on this interactive card that lets users access the Andre Rison Talk Line — updated weekly during the NFL season, monthly during the off-season — or join his fan club, buy sports memorabilia or make a long distance call. According to AEI, the Rison card is the first interactive card done by a pro athlete (Race Call and SportsCom, among others, have done interactive NASCAR phonecards, and GE Exchange recently issued an interactive David Robinson card series — see coverage in this section). The rechargeable card will be sold at Hy-Vee stores and Ballard's Sports Locker stores in Kansas City, as well as stores in Topeka, Wichita and Lawrence, Kansas. Other Chiefs' players and NFL licensing are planned for next season, according to Alternative Energy Industries, an Olathe, Kansas-based subsidiary of Teleconnect.

The cards are being sold through retail stores throughout the United States.
