It gives "gold card" a whole new meaning.

With the Brasher Doubloon coin on the front of the cards and the NYNEX name backing them, they really are as good as gold. 5,000 matched serial number sets of five cards are available for $101 each. The set includes standard size cards, each with its own unique design in denominations of $5, $10, $20 and $50, as well as a $16 original value oversized card. Standard size cards may also be purchased separately.

If you order a complete set of NYNEX Brasher Doubloon coin prepaid calling cards you will receive a free commemorative card which was given out at the Governor's conference held in Burlington, Vermont in 1995. Quantities are limited, so be sure to reserve yours today. Who knows, they may become as priceless as the Brasher Doubloon gold coin itself. If you need more information, please call 1 800 NYNEX-90.

To order, call 1 800 NYNEX-90 or fax this order form to 1 800 NYNEX-91 or mail it to: NYNEX, Two Harrison St., Nashua, NH 03060.

Welcome to another edition of Moneycard Collector. We hope you enjoy it. On the near horizon are two shows that could become major events for our hobby: the 1996 National Sports Collectors Convention in Anaheim, June 27-30, and the So-Cal Collectors Expo, also in Anaheim at the Disneyland Hotel, August 23-25.

As was the case with last year's Sports Nationals St. Louis, Moneycard Collector will join with Score Board/Classic and other issuers to help promote phone cards. We'll be taking that same objective to the second Anaheim show about a month later. Organizers Buz and Betty Houghtaling, owners of B&B Collectibles, are organizing what should also be an excellent show. We hope you can make it to one or both of these events.

Naturally, there will be cards issued at each of these shows, but none will likely turn out to be as controversial as the Marilyn Monroe card issued recently in Singapore. Readers will recall that this card soared to the top spot in "America's Most Wanted," but it seems it also may have been at the top of the Singapore Police most wanted list too! Issuers of the card, GEM International and KARS Unlimited, had thought it would be a great publicity coup to modify the famous Marilyn/U.S. flag photo and create one using the Singapore flag. It seems the authorities did not care for the idea, however. As is the case with many countries, Singapore has strict laws about how its flag may be used and this card crossed the line. The card in question came to their attention just as the show was ending. All of the cards had been sold and the folks from GEM and KARS had left when the authorities called on show organizer B. H. Lim, whom we are told was subjected to some intensive questioning.

Another story bound to be of international interest is the outcome of tests we conducted on cards issued by HT Technologies. While working on this story several related questions arose. First, is there some means other than scratch-off to conceal PINs so that a collector can test his or her own card to make sure the PIN is valid, while not affecting the mint appearance of the card? Secondly, whenever an underlying carrier is involved, should it be allowed to shut off PIN codes if payment is not received from the re-seller? Does such an occurrence really represent a mistake by the underlying carrier in granting credit to the re-seller? Deactivating the PINs harms the re-seller much less than the total negative impact on the thousands who purchased the card expecting it to work. All issuers must ensure that every card functions as promised and can withstand the scrutiny of anyone. Moneycard Collector will continue to conduct periodic tests of this nature to help ensure the integrity of the industry and the hobby.

With credit to Bob Mish, co-owner of USACard, here's a special Letterman-style Top 10 List – USACard's Top 10 Problems while producing its new Cracker Jack phone card:

10. Attorneys required a $5 million insurance policy because the card looks so good people might try to eat it.
9. Printing press jamming from sticky residue.
8. Computer virus added extra units to random cards as prizes.
7. Persons running presses kept breaking into song "Take Me Out To The Ball Game."
6. Confused convenience store clerks mixed up phone cards with snack food.
5. Food and Drug Administration complained that cards did not have an expiration date.
4. Release date delayed when 169 cards returned for recoating over PINs, because production personnel had succumbed to the irresistible urge to scratch and sniff.
3. Cards not stacking straight – lumpy prizes.
2. Stock market speculators upset at secret cause of rally in corn market futures.
1. Employees caught eating the profits.

Thanks, Bob, for a good laugh and a great new card.

With this issue we say good-bye to Randy Moser, our founding editor. Randy made invaluable contributions to our magazine. He introduced many popular new features – "America's Most Wanted" and "Corporate Corner," just to name two – and made other detailed improvements too numerous to mention. He takes his creativity to a senior sales position with ACMI, one of our charter advertisers and an issuer of high standing. We sincerely thank Randy for all of his hard work and dedication and wish him great success in his new endeavors.

The Travel Series From American Express

Experience the Travel Series

From the clear waters of Maldives to the ice-capped mountains of Valley, California, the new Travel Series prepaid phone cards from American Express capture the hidden beauty of five travel destinations. The Travel Series will enhance the value and image of any prepaid phone card collection.

Mount Shuksan - $100.00, 300 U.S. minutes

The vivid colors of this tree-lined landscape are common in the mountainous regions of northwestern United States.

Tropical Waterfall - $50.00, 125 U.S. minutes

The lush forest and fresh waters of this image are typical of scenes found throughout Central and South American rain forests.

Alaskan Whale Tail - $20.00, 45 U.S. minutes

This composite photograph gives the illusion of a whale descending into the icy blue waters of Alsek Lake in Point Adolphus, Alaska.

Extreme Skiing - $10.00, 20 U.S. minutes

Free falling from a rugged cliff in Valley, California, this skier thrives on the adventure and challenge this area presents.

Kudabandos Island - $5.00, 9 U.S. minutes

Off the coast of the Maldives Islands, this scene of sand and palm trees offers a striking contrast against the turquoise sea.

GIVE IT THE OL' COLLEGE TRY

Smart cards gaining popularity on college campuses

by Nancy Blackburn

Perhaps Smart Cards 101 should be a required course on all college campuses. And the course shouldn't be limited to students. Administrators, professors and staff members also have a lot to learn about the advantages and use of smart cards, which could eventually turn the U.S. into a cashless society.

School campuses — starting with the 1987 Michigan Bell prepaid phone card trial at University of Michigan, down to First America Bank's campus Mcard — have provided the ideal environs to introduce the leading edge of card technology.

Almost 200 college and university campuses throughout the United States currently are members of the National Association of Campus Card Users (NACCU). According to Robert Merkert, owner of RM Associates and formerly of DANYL/Schlumberger, there are roughly 2,000-3,500 schools using some form of stored value card.

Usage ranges from very simple magnetic stripe cards used in vending and copy machines to smart cards with embedded microprocessor computer chips. Smart cards go beyond prepaid phone cards to store, process, read and even write information.

While it is estimated that 360 billion financial transactions are conducted each year in the U.S., 300 billion of them are for less than $10, with 90 percent of those being $2 or less. Think of the time and paperwork required by customers, staff and those waiting in line.

"Electronic cash always has the right change,"

Michigan Bell Cash Card;
1987 U. of Michigan

Michigan Bell Cash Card;
1988 U. of Michigan

Merkert points out. "Over-the-counter food purchases average $5, and cash exchanges take anywhere from 8 to 59 seconds. Smart card use reduces the time to 6 to 14 seconds because there is no PIN to be keyed or change to be handed back." Multiply that time by 10 people standing in a lunch line, for example, and the advantage is readily apparent.

Last fall, the University of Michigan and Western Michigan University issued each incoming student a one-kilobyte chip-embedded smart card/identification card with five different functions. The front displays a photo ID, student/bank account ID number and the embedded chip; the back includes a magnetic strip (for meals, security entrance, and access to ATMs), as well as a bar code for library use. Also on the reverse is a First of America Bank logo, the student's digitized student signature, and an AT&T credit card calling number. For more information, access the University of Michigan website at <www:mcards@umich.edu>

The Card Application Technology Center (CATC) at Florida State University could probably write the textbook for Smart Cards 101. After eight years in development and a $2 million investment, CATC introduced the FSUCard, the "nation's first stored-value comprehensive campus ID card to be fully integrated into the banking system and other services."

There are two magnetic strips on the back. The first is used for registration, tuition payments, class attendance, ATMs, and book purchases; the second is designed for vending machines. With more than 40,000 students and staff members using the card, 300 downtown merchants, stores and restaurants now accept the card for transactions.

CATC Administrative Assistant Kathryn Giles confessed that she had been skeptical because she felt she "knew everything about them" and this was just one more change with which she did not want to deal. After being nagged by her boss to use the debit card, she now has high praise for the convenience that card offers.

Now the FSU employee never needs to worry about obtaining cash — she simply deposits her check then takes her pick of campus eateries or a variety of off-campus restaurants, as well as hundreds of other area merchants. Rather than stopping at the ATM machine on Friday night after work, she now goes straight to her favorite restaurant and uses her card.

A more advanced replacement for the FSUCard has recently been announced at the progressive Florida campus. A team of six technology companies — CATC, MCI, V-One, Debitek, Product Technologies and GemPlus — developed the multi-purpose, multi-function integrated circuit card that uses encryption and database access control to authenticate the card holder to engage in secure network transactions. A proven leader in the college market, CATC will continue to aid other educational institutions and state agencies in smart card applications.

Indiana State University recently launched a triple-duty "one card" ID system supplied by long-distance carrier MCI. According to Dennis C. Graham, ISU vice president for business affairs, "all uses of the Sycamore cards are optional, with the exception of identification, access and security."

In addition to the obvious MCI services, the Sycamore cards can be activated as prepaid debit cards to purchase campus meals and vending machine snacks. Future plans include banking services.

There are numerous benefits to a university card system. Some contracts reimburse the university up to 20 percent of long-distance telephone revenues, as well as rebate a percentage of merchant discounts, ATM transactions and interest on deposits.

Indiana State expects these revenues to offset the cost of its initial program investment. Other universities consider that when all financial aid is deposited directly to student accounts, schools will realize substantial earnings from interest. There is also more staff time available when checks do not have to be issued and dispersed to each individual student.

Thus far, the reaction is mixed over the collectibility and value of college cards. Obviously, the first trial of prepaid phone cards at the University of Michigan in 1987-1988 produced some extremely desirable and hard-to-find test cards. However, campus cards are usually declared the property of the issuing college and must be returned when the student leaves.

Some collectors who search out the logos or mascots of well-known schools, perhaps their own alma mater, will be attracted by the limited non-public aspect of these cards, as private phone cards issued by public entities have been rare and difficult to obtain, which adds to their value.

FSU directly addressed the collectible market by issuing a set of sports cards during the college football season. The matched set of six cards featured four FSU football players, the head coach and the school mascot. Although not phone cards, each included $10 in prepaid food concession purchases and $5 in discounts.

With the 1996 Olympic smart cards, many collectors are expanding their collections to include money-cards, and these FSU cards certainly qualify.

Why, this new technology is almost enough to make one think of going back to college — especially if Smart Card 101 is part of the curriculum. MC

There's a little something for everybody in this month's Corporate corner. First up is an exciting card featuring one of America's all-time favorite snacks — Cracker Jack. USACard Corp. was granted approval from Borden to produce 1,893 of the cards for the dealers — 1,500 ten-unit cards; 300 12-unit cards; and 93 15-unit cards. The total number equals the birth year of the popular snack. At press time the card was already sold out.

Like the surprise inside the box, collectors will not know which denomination they receive until the scratch-off is removed.

If you're into beverages, AT&T has issued an interesting 10-minute card promoting General Foods' International Coffee. Placed inside specially marked cans of the product, the cards have been relatively difficult to find. Production numbers are not available, but AT&T cards are usually quite collectible.

I recently discovered a couple of attractive cards from Innovative Telecom. A five-minute card promoting Doans Pills has been available nationally since January 1. You can find the cards inside specially marked boxes of the product.

Innovative issued another interesting card a few months ago featuring Promise Margarine. Advertised nationally in the Sunday newspaper, collectors had to send in two proofs of purchase and the cash register receipt to receive the card.

Newly formed Grapevine Telecards used the image of world-renowned computer artist Laurence Gartel to create a striking new card. Gartel was commissioned in 1991 to create the image for Absolut Vodka's advertising campaign. The card's image was depicted on a computer canvas in such a way that it appears slightly out of focus — but only to the sober eye! Two thousand of the 10-minute cards were issued together with 200 artist edition cards. After the card was issued there was some confusion over licensing. Pending the outcome, Grapevine has recalled about 150 unsold artist edition cards and some 900 of the regular edition. If these recalled cards cannot be sold, it will make this very attractive card a rare drink indeed!

ITS issued 2,500 10-minute cards for Sunoco's Marketers Conference, held in Orlando during March. The card looks like a MasterCard, and even includes the distinctive logo on the front. The telecard was designed to create an interest in the Sunoco MasterCard.

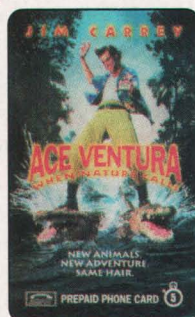

ITS also offered kisses with a cute Hershey's card issued as a co-op between Hershey's and Aramark Vending. The card was used as an incentive to purchase more items from Aramark vending machines. Lucky vending machine customers received coupons that could be redeemed for five-minute cards. Though 66,000 of the Hershey's Kisses cards were produced, I haven't seen many yet.

A second Ace Ventura card has been issued, this one with the original movie poster artwork. The five-minute SmarTel card can be found inside the home video release of the movie, "When Nature Calls," when purchased at Best Buy stores.

New from Quest Telecom is a limited-edition 15-minute Paul Mitchell hair care phone card. Only 750 cards were purchased as a premium giveaway to distributors for purchasing Paul Mitchell products.

To wrap up, here's an important tip: keep looking in your Sunday newspaper coupon section for promotional cards. And above all, have fun collecting!

UNCERTAIN UTILITY

MORE THAN JUST A RUMOR As is the case with most industries, rumors within the phone card industry are always plentiful. For any responsible publication, checking out rumors is important, because while most prove to be untrue, there are some that turn out to be of substance. In publishing, the following story is part of what we term "due diligence" and it is one of the core principles we observe to help serve the interests of our readers and collectors.

During the past several months we began to hear rumors that some cards issued by HT Technologies of San Francisco had PINs that did not work. We would be concerned about any rumor to this effect about any issuer but it was especially worrisome in this case because HT has demonstrated a real knack for producing collectible cards and has vigorously pursued the collector market. Articles about their cards have appeared in Moneycard Collector and HT has been a regular advertiser with this publication.

In late March we began to receive more substantial information. Two separate anonymous faxes arrived at Moneycard Collector. Each complained that PINs on the Exotic Birds set (see HT Test Results table) and the Busacca Flowers set did not work. We tested the PINs involved and found that indeed, they did not work. In our eyes, however, the validity of these complaints was highly suspect. Neither fax was signed and no where on the pages of either message was there an indication from where the fax had been sent. We had to allow for the possibility that someone might have been trying to malign HT.

We next checked our own inventories and found one of the cards mentioned, a Pelican card from the bird set, which had a PIN we could test. It did not work.

This warranted a broader investigation. We began by faxing a letter on April 1st to HT that we were conducting this investigation. The letter read in part: "We are taking the necessary time and care to investigate this matter thoroughly, but for now would welcome any initial comments you might have. In the meantime, given the seriousness of this matter, Moneycard Collector will not run your ad scheduled for the June issue."

Dan Tudor, HT's president, first responded by phone the next day. "We don't sell cards that aren't inactive," he said. "Sometimes LDDS misses (activating) a batch. As soon as we find out we activate the PINs."

Tudor also said that some of the problem might be due to the possible theft of cards by former company employees.

The next step in our investigation was to canvass several dealers who sent us some 50 different cards. We tested them all. Some worked and some didn't, but a pattern quickly became apparent. Cards with PINs running on HT's own switch were problem free, while those with LDDS as the underlying carrier were not.

Next we contacted Clara Thompson, Phone Pass Marketing Specialist at LDDS/WorldCom and the Chairman elect of the US Telecard Association. She expressed deep concern and promised the company's co-operation to correct the situation. She explained that while there had been problems with HT cards, LDDS did not want to see the users or collectors of these cards suffer these problems. She said she would arrange to activate any unexpired HT/LDDS card that was brought to her attention. Similar expressions of concern were received from three other LDDS officials.

On April 9th, with the results of the text completed, Moneycard Collector wrote to HT to provide them with the results and to ask for its formal response. Specifically, in relation to the problem cards, we asked for "the quantities of each card issued to date, how and where they have been distributed and an explanation of why these cards were distributed before the PINs were activated."

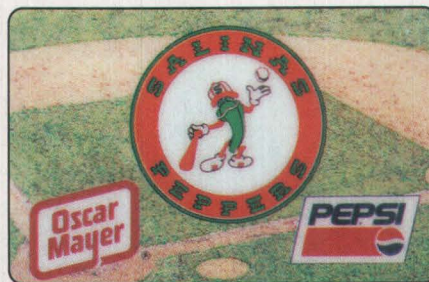

None of these questions was addressed in HT's reponse dated April 12th. The heart of the letter read: "The eight 'inactive' cards were from batches of cards that had not been activated. The time on the cards is supplied by LDDS WorldCom. Cards are activated in 'batches' and stored in HT's inventory in an inactive condition. If and when a card ever has a problem, for any reason, our customer services remedies the problem immediately."

HT's PIN problems are also reflected in

Mason New Universe set/3

Salinas Peppers - Oscar Meyer

relations with at least one of its card printers. Mark Demarest, President of Worldwide Digital in Woodstock, IL, explained that in recent months his firm had printed several issues of cards for HT, including its Zodiac series, and had not been paid for any of them. Demarest further stated that to produce the cards he was furnished with a computer record of all the PINs involved and from time to time tested some of them. In the tests he has conducted, Demarest said that many of the PINs did not work.

Tudor at HT strongly disputes all of this, stating that HT's disagreement with Worldwide Digital revolved around the price it paid for cards printed by Worldwide, that the Zodiac set in particular sold extremely well and that all PINs had been turned on.

For its part LDDS has been true to its word and has activated complete batches of the cards brought to its attention by Moneycard Collector (the batch number is the first four digits of the PIN). We believe that all of the PINs have since been activated for the sets of: Busacca Flowers, the Exotic Birds and the Mason New Universe cards.

But many questions remain unanswered. How wide-spread is this problem with HT/LDDS cards? To what extent has possible employee theft within HT affected the situation? Were the inactive PINs an oversight or was there another root cause?

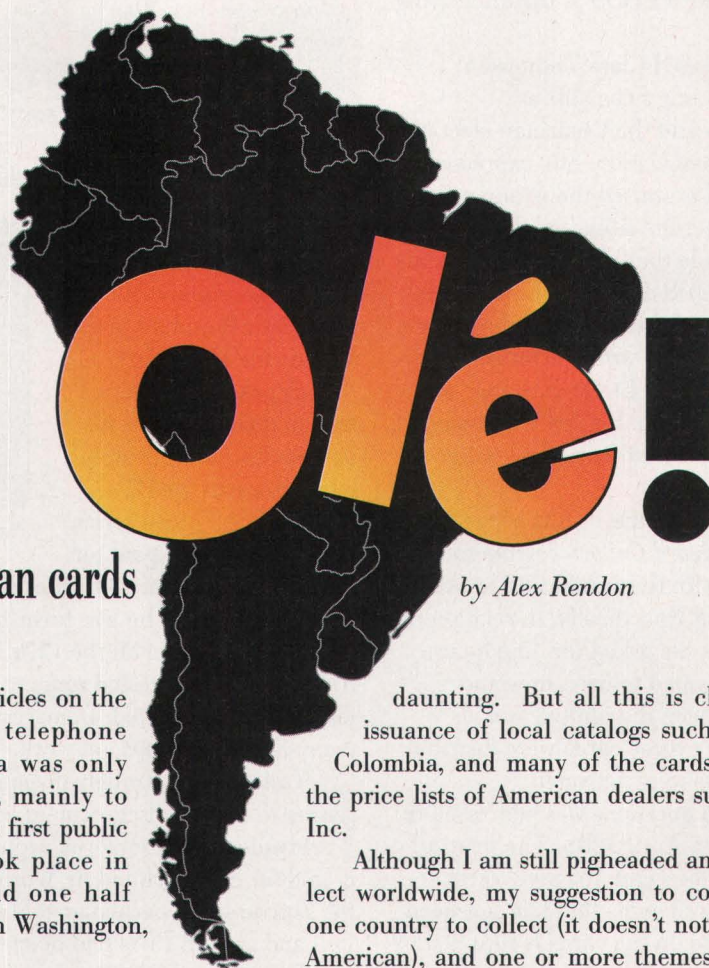

Whatever the answers may be, the unfortunate fact remains that a substantial number of HT/LDDS cards were issued that should have been active and were found not to be. And that is of concern to us, to all collectors and to the industry as a whole.

Have you ever purchased cards directly from HT Technologies or any other issuer and have found that they did not work? If so, we want to hear from you. You can fax the particulars plus the fronts and backs of such cards to (513) 498-0876 or you can send the actual cards themselves and we will try to ensure that the PINs are turned on. Do not send in cards anonymously or if any of the time has been used. Computer records make it easy to verify card usage.

South American cards

by Alex Rendon

In my 1994 series of articles on the early use of prepaid telephone cards, South America was only lightly touched upon, mainly to record the fact that the first public trial of telephone cards took place in Venezuela in 1985, two and one half months before INTELEXPO in Washington, DC.

Currently, all of the South American countries, with the exception of Paraguay, are using and collecting telephone cards. Getting information on those cards is not easy when you live in the U.S., however, and finding a local supplier is even more daunting. But all this is changing with the issuance of local catalogs such as in Brazil and Colombia, and many of the cards can be found in the price lists of American dealers such as Steve Eyer, Inc.

Although I am still pigheaded and continue to collect worldwide, my suggestion to collectors is to pick one country to collect (it doesn't not have to be South American), and one or more themes. South American cards cover a wide variety of thematic: flora, fauna, architecture, pretty ladies (even nudes), as well as the usual techno-stuff (antennas and the like).

All the different card technologies used elsewhere in the world are also being used in South America. So if you only collect cards produced by a particular company, such as Tamura or Gemplus, or a system (chip, magnetic, etc.), you can still have a lot of fun with South American cards.

Now on to a few of the cards from individual countries:

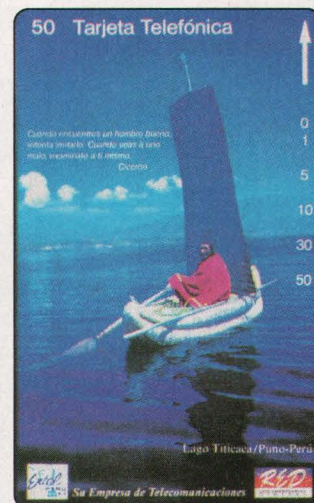

TELEMOVIL
(Peru);
Mount Cook;
S/. 20.00
denomination;
1992.

TELEPOINT (Peru); Cactus; 50 N. Soles;
1993.

Compania Peruana de Telefonos (Peru); CPTCard; 160 unidades; 1994.

Entel Peru; Lake Titicaca;
50 units; 1992.

ARGENTINA

Two main companies serve this country – Telecom Argentina and Telefonica de Argentina. Originally both used magnetic cards manufactured by Urmet in Italy, but both have switched to chip technology.

Cards from Telefonica de Argentina are manufactured at the Mint in Madrid and bear the “Crowned M” logo. With the exception of one advertising card (Banco de Galicia) and two cards for the XII Pan American Games, all of the cards promote different telephone company services.

PERU

Peru got a late start (1992) in telecards, but now there are three companies issuing cards. ENTEL PERU, with Tamura magnetic stripe technology, began with two consecutive sets of scenic views. TELEMOVIL, again with Tamura phones, issued three cards adapted from an earlier card that depicts New Zealand’s Mount Cook. Earlier, the same card had been offered to New Zealand. The issuer’s name was then changed to TELEPOINT and the technology switched to chip cards supplied by Telkor of South Africa. The third company is CPT (Compania Peruana de Telefonos), which issues chip cards.

COLOMBIA

The current set of cards from TELECOM gets my vote for the most fun set to collect – 48 cards that depict paintings by contemporary Colombian artists. The set uses four works from 12 different artists (two $5.500, one $10.500 and one $15.500). It is not an easy set to complete, as it is being distributed randomly throughout the country.

CHILE

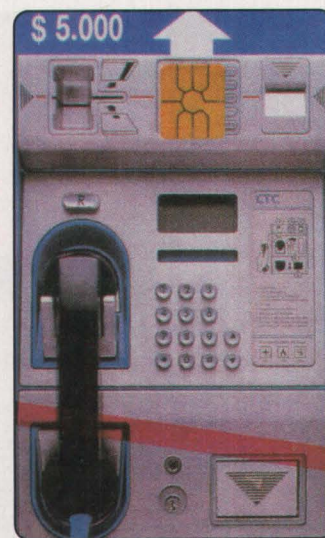

ENTEL CHILE originally used Tamura equipment, but switched to chip technology. Two other companies now operate in the country: Telefonica del Sur (with Siemens chips) and CTC (with Gemplus).

Colombia Telecom; Fernando Botero; Contemporary Colombian Artists 48-card set; $15.500 denomination.; 1995.

Telefonica del Sur (Chile); Siemens Chips; Oficinas Comerciales.

CTC (Chile); Gemplus Chips; Card Phone; $5.000 denomination.

ENTEL CHILE; Entel Directo; 5.000 units.

After a short field trial with GT magnetic cards in early 1990, the Brazilians initiated field trials of their own “inductive” system cards, a system invented more than 10 years earlier by the Brazilian Engineer Nelson G. Bardini.

The “experimental” inductive cards category includes those distributed to technicians, such as the 800-unit cards in blue, and the first multicolor card, of which 200 were produced by the Ministry of Infra-Structure and given away to leading businessmen.

Specific trials were conducted in 1992 and 1993 by the regional companies that form part of the Telebras System, such as TELERJ in Rio de Janeiro, SERCOMTEL, and TELEPAR in Parana, TELESF in Sao Paulo, etc.

Most of the cards of this period were printed by three different companies: Casa de Moeda (the Brazilian Mint); Interprint; and Thomas de la Rue. So for practically every issue added to a collection, one really needs three cards.

Among the most desirable cards of this period are those issued for the Formula 1 Grand Prix of Brazil (1,000 cards; April 1992), and the card used at the airport in Sao Paulo (June 1992) when the Sistema Telebras (Brazil); Ministry of Infra-Structure; 100 units; 200 cards issued.

Sistema Telebras (Brazil); Grand Prix of Brazil; 1,000 cards issued; April 1992.

Telebras (Brazil); Blue technician's card; 800 units.

Sistema Telebras (Brazil); Brazilian Women's Olympic Basketball team; 948 cards issued; June 1992.

Brazilian Women's Basketball Olympic team left for Barcelona. The three different printers produced a total of 948 cards, or 316 each.

When prepaid cards went national, the number of different issues increased and is now about 150, with the total number of individual cards at almost one million. The subjects range from local festivals, carnivals, scenery, Brazilian Navy ships, Air Force locations, fish, flowers, and many other topics. Most cards are inexpensive, and they are no longer printed by three different printers. Interprint and American Bank Note (which acquired Thomas de la Rue) now manufacture all of the cards.

CUBA

Although Cuba is not part of South America, this is an opportunity to mention that for the past two years a four-card set manufactured by Schlumberger has been in use. I cannot imagine the locals using these cards; they are really only used by tourists.

So after reading this magazine, grab a phone and quickly call your phone card dealer. The longer you wait to start collecting a country, a region or an issuer, the sorrier you'll be in the near future. Enjoy!

MC

Intertel S.A. (Cuba); Schlumberger; Landmark Series; 4-card set; $10/$25/$45 denominations.

EARLY SUMMER 1996

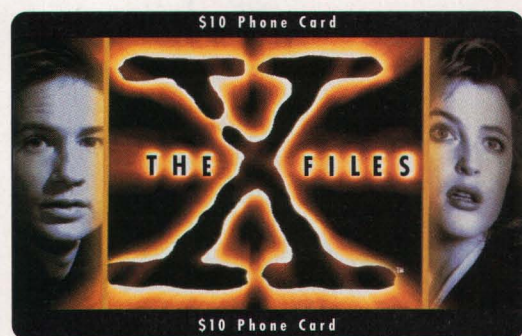

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

This month the lure of Coca-Cola and McDonald's has been broken with newcomers such as The X-Files, The Race for the Presidency, Michael Jordan, Wrangler Jeans, Dunkin' Donuts and a stunning Porsche 911.

We've heard from more and more collectors who feel the massive investment necessary to keep up with the Score Board/Coca-Cola program is just too much for them.

And several collectors have recently told me that the great volume of McDonald's cards has caused them to stop collecting the Golden Arches, as well. Manufacturers need to carefully consider the budgets of their collectors and not overissue or overprice their cards, lest they break the budgets of their ardent supporters. It's a hobby, and when collectors feel uncomfortable, they just go elsewhere.

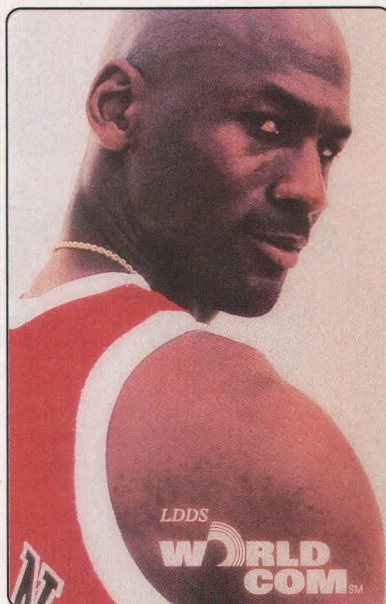

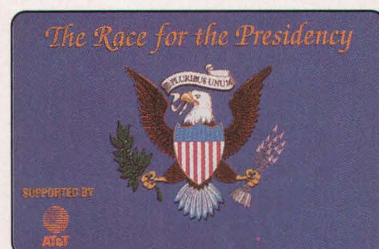

Let's move on to the cards this month, and be happy that an inexpensive $10 card leads the pack:

1 FRONTIER $10 X-FILES Reported as a best seller by many dealers, this begins the telecard parade for this popular Fox Network TV program. Already the foreign spin-offs are beginning to appear, and the collection is building in size. Four or five countries may soon produce The X-Files cards.

3 EAST/WEST TELECOM/AT&T 10-UNIT "THE RACE FOR THE PRESIDENCY"

Featured in Moneycard Collector's May "New Issues" column, this pair of phone cards is being used to stimulate teenage participation in political issues of the day. The cards were provided to teenage participants in the "We the People" program, to raise political awareness by using phone cards to speak to politicians in Washington and Massachusetts. Each of the participants must follow prompts to be heard in "Issues of the Day" and direct messages to their Governor, Congressman, Senator or President Clinton. The remaining card inventory is being sold as a fund-raiser for a "Free Enterprise" program that will fund small business ventures for teens.

4 LDDS 10-UNIT MICHAEL JORDAN

The first of several planned issues has already made the cover of Moneycard Collector (April 1996). Although not a particularly low mintage at 10,000, the far-reaching popularity of today's most popular athletic icon should make this one a slam-jam sell-out.

2 SPRINT/SCORE BOARD COCA-COLA CELS '96 48-CARD $2 SET

The 48 $2 cards are inserted in Cel trading card packs, with one phone card per pack. If you don't want to split out all the cards yourself, specialized dealers will do it for about one-and-a-half times face value. The set is very attractive but requires a healthy one-time investment. Also included in the series are $2 Gold Edition Phone cards; $5 Etched Acetate and Calendar Girls phone cards; $10 Micro-Lined and Die-Cut telecards; and $25 Four Seasons prepaids. All in all, there are 127 different cards with a retail value of more than $3,000 to complete this set.

5 MCI $8
PATCH/TEXAS

RODEO Designed to emulate Wrangler's world-renowned blue jean patch, this popular corporate logo coupled with a mintage of 1,500 should make this issue ride off into the sunset real dern quick.

6 OMNITEL 5-MINUTE
DUNKIN' DONUTS/UNIV. OF MASSACHUSETTS

A hustling Fred the Donut Man races down the U Mass court with another load of hot product from the Dunkin' Donuts kitchen. With a low-cal 750 mintage, this could be the Dunkin' gem. Delightful and tasty!

7 MCI $10 SCOTTSDALE PORSCHE 911

This is a nice reward for taking a test drive. The Arizona auto dealership plans additional offerings for Jaguars, Audis and other car lines, so locals could become regular phone card/test drivers and collect a whole set. A nice low mintage (500) for an MCI card, and sure to remain popular with collectors.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion, Ill. Rankings are based on actual sales figures supplied to Moneycard Collector by U.S. phone card dealers. All dealers are welcome to participate by faxing their Top 10 best sellers for the month, along with the actual number of cards sold to retail customers. All sales figures will be held in strict confidence by Moneycard Collector. Dealers need to fax their data by the middle of each month to be included in the rankings.

8 PREMIER TELECOM 3-UNIT MCDONALD'S
HOMBURG/PIRMASENS SET Currently

enjoying a resurgence of demand, this pair of German-related McDonald's cards features the Golden Arches intertwined with the city name. The cards are very popular with the export crowd.

9 NATIONSBANK $20 CASH CARD PILOT ISSUE

As an official sponsor of the Atlanta Olympics, NationsBank will be the only telecard issuer allowed to feature the official Olympic Rings. Other issuers will be limited to the Atlanta Flame or local country sponsor logos.

Initially tested in Norfolk, Va., the Pilot Issue cards were mostly utilized in a cafeteria environment. Additional uses are planned, including the telephones to be installed at the Olympics. Since the cards are not rechargeable in this pilot program, we hope some light eaters will save some of the time for telephone use.

On the reverse are the Olympic rings in color. See March 1996 Moneycard Collector for more Cash Card details and images.

10 PREMIER TELECOM 3-UNIT MCDONALD'S PIN CLUB

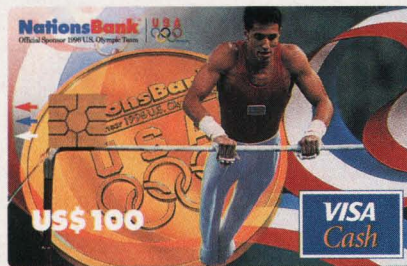

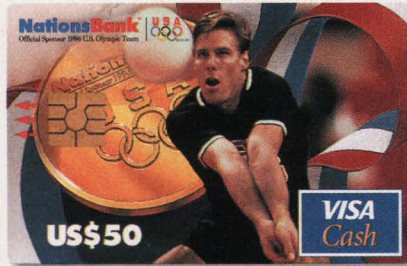

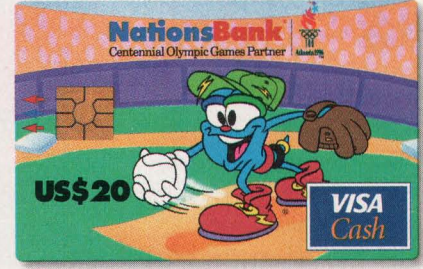

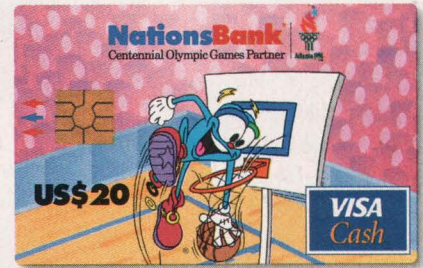

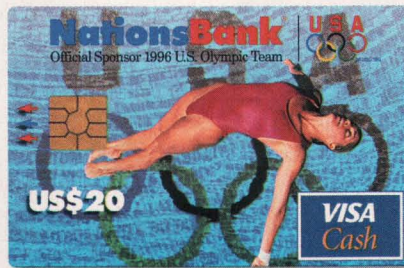

Europeans collect pins, the kind you trade for and put on a hat at a sporting event. One of the most popular Pin Clubs is the McDonald's Pin Club, which has been featured on a recent American phone card. The McDonald's Pin Club telecard features a lion cub from "The Lion King" movie, a McDonald's Hot Air Balloon pin, and a German Flag pin.

Phone Cards, Etc...

Michael Jordan

LDSS World Com and Michael Jordan team-up for the Michael Jordan PhonePass™. The newly licensed phone card pictured here is the first in a series of this NBA great. Collect them all.

Marilyn Monroe

We all know that Marilyn is big, but have you ever seen her Jumbo Card? It is big; bigger than ever! CALL FOR HER MEASUREMENTS. First shown at both March Shows in Singapore and Seattle. Several other Marilyn cards are available too; such as, the new "Marilyn Mystique" Card. This attractive card of one of Hollywood's greats comes in a folder along with .999 silver coin. Call for details.

Betty Boop

Betty, Bimbo, and friends are on the go again. Their next stop is Phoenix where #5 of "Betty Boop on Tour" Jumbo Phone Card will be issued in May.

We also have a nice array of Pink Panther, Coke, McDonalds, Disney, Flintstones, James Bond, corporate, some sports and non-sport issues, and user cards. Please let us know your interests. We can also save you money on your long distance phone calls; residential, business, 800#, international and calling card calls. Call interstate for 12 cents a minute and intrastate for 10 cents a minute 24 hours a day, and as low as 13 cents a minute to the Philippines. Other great international rates available too.

B & B THE BEST IN THE WEST

Presents a Family Experience
The Southern California Collectors Expo
Disneyland Hotel Convention Center Anaheim, California
August 23, 24, & 25, 1996

The phone card show every phone collector in the USA and throughout the world has been asking for!! The First Collectible Card Show in the USA, exclusively for the phone card collectible market. The show will feature the leading Phone Card Dealers not only in the USA but throughout the world offering collectible phone cards for Japan, Germany, England, Australia, New Zealand and the USA. Plus the leading Phone Card Collectible Manufacturers including Classic/Coke, Gem International, Marilyn Monroe, Australia Telecom, New Zealand Event Masters Disney, Japan Disney, Hawaii GTE, MoneyCard, PCM, Beckett, plus much, much more. Millions of dollars worth of collectibles will be on display for sale at over 200 tables and booths plus Disney Collectibles Dealers, Sports Memorabilia Dealers, and Trading Card Dealers.

Added Attraction:

1000 free phone cards each day made especially for the Show including Marilyn Monroe, Disneyland and Coke. Plus major celebrities signing autographs including the first West Coast show featuring the greatest Hockey family of all times Gordy, Mark & Marty Howe. Special appearances by many other major sport Celebrities, Phone card Artists, Disney Artists, and much, much more. Free $10.00 validated parking at Disneyland Hotel with purchase. Show admission $5.00 Adults, $3.00 Student, Children 9 and under free.

Other Special Attractions: Special admission rates to Disneyland -- special room rates at Disneyland Hotel (714) 956-6400 -- There are also 20 other hotels near Disneyland for your convenience, many within walking distance. Call Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, (714) 758-0222.

This will be the first of three yearly phone card collectibles shows that we will have with Disneyland. We also plan on having a future show at Disneyworld, Florida.

We encourage all of you to purchase VIP Advance 3-day Show Admission Tickets to ensure that you receive the collectible show phone card for each day of the show, as they will be 1st edition cards and will be sure to trade for high dollar value at the show. Those who cannot attend can still get the show phone cards by sending in $15.00 plus $5.00 shipping & handling. We also advise everyone to book their hotel reservations immediately as we are expecting a large attendance at the show. For further information, call (909) 466-1666. To order tickets, call (800) 777-7610.

Note: Due to rapidly changing prices on all collectible phone cards a complete and current price list is not feasible at this time. Therefore, we recommend that you call us to be put on our preferred customers list to receive our monthly newsletter with hot items and monthly specials. Need Supplies? We have the largest selection in the World. Do not forget to purchase your Wachovia Visa Olympic Cash Cards -- we are almost sold out!

CHILL OUT!

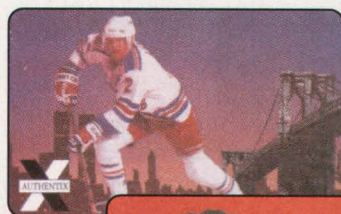

HOCKEY PREPAIDS SLOWLY MOVE TOWARD 'GOAL' Baseball wasn't the only sport rocked by labor problems last year. Most Americans have forgotten that the National Hockey League lost half a season due to a labor lockout during the 1994-1995 season.

American arenas like Madison Square Garden and the new Boston Gardens are still packing them in to watch the Rangers and Bruins, respectively. And new teams, such as the Tampa Bay Lightning and Florida Panthers, report record attendance numbers due to the expansion teams' making the playoffs.

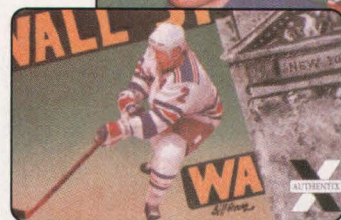

But, no matter how you look at it, hockey is still the number-four sport in the U.S., falling behind football, basketball and baseball. Still, that hasn't stopped a number of issuers from creating some attractive and collectible hockey prepaids.

Quite a few of the NHL telecards were created before the damaging strike, when afterward, hockey-related issues plummeted. In fact, you won't find a single card that celebrates the 1995 Stanley Cup winner, the New Jersey Devils.

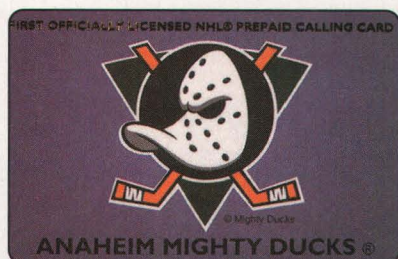

The first U.S.-produced hockey phone cards were issued in January 1994, when Global Telecommunications Solutions (GTS) released a 26-card set of NHL team logos plus a bonus All-Star game prepaid. Although some of the individual team cards sold well, the set was not an instant winner for the New York-based licensing leader. Five thousand of each of the 16-unit team cards were produced, and most of those have remained steady sellers at the $15 mark.

Next on the ice came the well-known Wayne Gretzky telecard from IDB Worldcomm. Although 5,000 of the cards were produced, demand has pushed the value up to $50 each.

SmarTel celebrated the New York Rangers' first Stanley Cup victory in 50 years with a commemorative phone card in June 1994. ConQuest added the artwork entitled "Denied" to the growing list of hockey images the following month, followed by Score Board's 4-Sport and Assets sets, and Parkhurst's Four-on-Four Challenge later that same year.

And the "year of the puck" was topped off with an interesting set of five mass transit cards from the Metropolitan Transit Authority (MTA) featuring scenes from the New York Rangers momentous victory celebration.

Since then, hockey cards have been issued by Authentix, Main Street Marketing, Mountain America Technologies, OmniTel and Signature Rookies. Although most have been popular as collectibles with ice fanatics, few of those cards have enjoyed tremendous monetary gains.

But Kent Ulrich, vice president of sales and marketing for GTS Canada, predicts that the trend will soon begin to turn around.

"The major North American markets, as well as the Asian market in Western Canada, are already predisposed towards phone cards,"

Ray Bourque set/4-OmniTel says Ulrich. "In order to get the product to more mainstream persons, you will need something like the NHL license to assimilate cards and for collecting and usage."

Ulrich can now point toward his own product line as proof of this. GTS Canada recently secured a distribution arrangement with the Mohawk chain of convenience stores to sell a set of 12 licensed NHL cards.

Distributed throughout Western Canada, the issue has now sold through. GTS is currently creating a second set of these cards for September.

In the meantime, here's a breakdown of some of the hockey-related phone cards issued since 1994.

QUICK TAKES

DIET COKE KEEPS IN TOUCH WITH 'FRIENDS' More than one-half million specially designed prepaid phone cards were randomly inserted in Diet Coke multi-packs during a special Spring promotion. Tied into the hit comedy series, "Friends," the final phase of the Diet Coke campaign featured four different card designs with the "Watch Friends on NBC" logo. Each of the prepaid telecards included 15 minutes of phone time.

SMART CARD MARKET SHOULD BOOM According to a recent story in Futurist magazine, more than half a billion cards will be in use in the U.S. by year 2000. Initially, most of the cards will be used as prepaid or stored value cards for prepaid phone calls and conducting small purchases, the publication predicted. After five years, smart cards will increasingly replace magnetic stripe technology on credit and debit cards. As these cards acquire more memory, they will provide higher-value applications such as updating and processing information.

BELL ATLANTIC, NYNEX BECOME ONE Two of the Regional Bell Operating Companies (RBOCs) have merged to create the second largest communications company in the nation. Bell Atlantic and NYNEX closed the multi-million dollar merger on April 21.

The new company, which will retain the Bell Atlantic name, will create one telco covering customers from Maine to Virginia. The company is targeting nearly one-third of the U.S. long-distance business.

The deal came just three weeks after Southwestern Bell purchased Pacific Bell. Both deals were prompted by a new law allowing long distance carriers, telephone companies and cable operators to invade each other's markets.

AMERIVOX ANNOUNCES EXPANSION Before a large audience of wildly enthusiastic AmeriVox representatives in New Jersey, President Towru Ikeda and Vice-President David L. Eastis announced a series of major service enhancements and plans for expansion into foreign markets.

Although recently having suffered the failure of its old switch in Los Angeles — an event Ikeda sheepishly referred to as "the meltdown of '96" — Ikeda noted that a temporary replacement switch was on-line within a few days and that the mishap had spurred the completion of new equipment which Ikeda termed "state of the art." The new switch permits voice messaging, fax services and a host of information services (time, weather, sports scores, etc.). Also part of the changes are the latest computer-based voice prompts which guide users through the system and the services offered.

Most intriguing is a new follow-me service that will be a boon to families and businesses seeking to improve their ability to contact other members by phone when they may not know that person's exact whereabouts. Under the system, persons in a loop (e.g. a family) share a single PIN, but each member has a unique two digit suffix or supplementary number. The suffix allows the member to program where he/she can be reached. By using the suffix, another family member can ask the computer to route his/her call to the person being sought.

Eastis focused his comments on market expansion, explaining that the company will soon be marketing its services in both Canada and the UK.

With the new switch and services, AmeriVox has clearly positioned itself as a major communications and information provider, which in turn should lead to a long term series of new product and service offerings.

POLAROID. SMARTEL TO CREATE HOLOGRAM CARDS

Photographic giant Polaroid Corp. has announced a joint marketing agreement with Boston-based SmarTel Communications to launch phone cards featuring Polaroid's unique photopolymer holograms. The first SmarTel hologram phone card will be a nine-minute prepaid featuring a three-dimensional rendering of the House of Blues' "Godwall," including angels, a heart wrapped in thorns, smoke and several other karmic symbols.

THE RAREST OF THE WEST

US WEST trial, maintenance cards scarcer than a desert Monsoon

By Bo deVries

The artwork is the same on both the Schlumberger and Gemplus cards. The back of the Gemplus cards included instructions for the Schlumberger set. The cards were punched to help distinguish them from the production issue.

During the summer of 1992, the upper management of U S WEST's payphone division attended an international payphone meeting in Geneva, Switzerland. The American contingent took the opportunity to visit with the upper management of other European PTTs, including the Deutsche Bundespost and France Telecom. The emerging smart card market was of particular interest at this time.

The tour of French payphone operations included extensive talks with representatives from Schlumberger Technologies, France. It was at this time that Schlumberger proposed conducting an American trial of their smart card retrofit kit.

The retrofit consisted of a smart card reader that could be attached to the standard American Western Electric coin payphone. The retrofit idea seemed to offer an inexpensive alternative to the purchase of new, fully capable smart card payphones.

During August and September 1992, U S WEST began talks in earnest with Schlumberger to define the parameters of the trial. Schlumberger offered to provide 50 retrofit kits to U S WEST at no expense for a trial period of six months, if U S WEST would agree to purchase a minimum of 50,000 smart cards for the trial. With this basic agreement U S WEST began to implement its telecard project.

Shortly before the trial with Schlumberger was to begin (August 1993), U S WEST made a business decision to alter the smart card deployment strategy. The decision was made to expand the trial and subsequently to change the technology platform (the smart card telephone) to that of the Northern Telecom Millennium smart card telephone. As a result, the early cards received from Schlumberger were rendered obsolete.

The original 50,000 printed versions of the F1024 EPROM card from Schlumberger were destroyed and U S WEST chose to use Gemplus (France) for the first two editions of smart cards.

On September 2, 1993, two complete sets of five cards of U S WEST's first edition of public phone cards were delivered by Schlumberger as manufacturer's proofs and sent to U S WEST for approval of the final art work. The artwork on the front is the same as the cards issued finally by Gemplus, but the reverse side has the instructions for the Schlumberger set.

The cards also have a different format for the card edition and quantity information. The cards were punched to help distinguish them from the regular production issue. Both proof sets survived the trial.

US WEST/SCHLUMBERGER TRIAL CARDS - THE MEXICO CONNECTION

The first trial cards provided by Schlumberger for testing the smart card retrofits were reconfigured TelMex 300-unit smart cards. During late 1992 and early 1993, Schlumberger conducted a trial with TelMex in Mexico, simultaneously with U S WEST's trial.

Schlumberger produced a quantity of 300-unit trial chip cards to support their efforts in Mexico. When U S WEST needed trial cards to test the smart card retrofits, Schlumberger used approximately 50 - 100 of the 300 unit TelMex Mayan Pyramid smart cards, which had been reconfigured into U.S. dollars. Conversion of the 300 units into dollars resulted in an initial card value of $15.25 US.

The TelMex cards were used as trial cards because U S WEST had not yet decided on its own images or unit values for its first issue of cards. Only about 15 cards (out of 50 - 100) of that design apparently survived the trial.

When the quantity of reconfigured TelMex Mayan pyramid cards began to run low, U S WEST requested additional trial cards from Schlumberger. Schlumberger sent an additional 25-60 cards - this time without the Mayan Pyramid artwork. The cards were plain white with TelMex 300UT etched in black ink.

It is not clear whether Schlumberger ran out of the TelMex Pyramid cards or whether they were simply saving money with blank cards. These 25-50 cards became U S WEST's second edition of trial cards and also carried an initial value of $15.25 US. There are now only seven known cards (out of 25-50) of that design remaining.

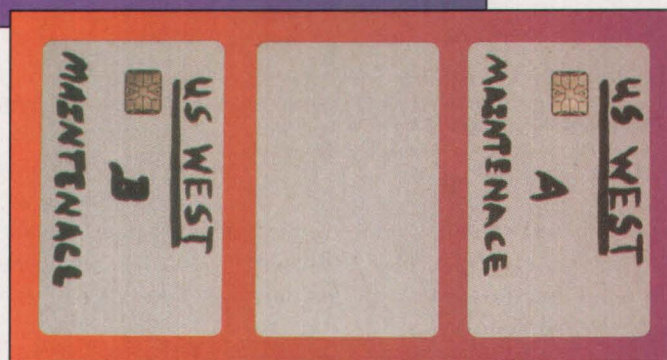

By March 1993, U S WEST had decided on its initial card values - $1 (comp), $3, $5.25, $11 and $22. Schlumberger issued three complete sets of trial cards in These original first-edition U S WEST test cards were used in the laboratory to ensure that each telephone displayed the correct initial value. Denominations on the Schlumberger cards were hand-written; the "F1024" imprint designated the EPROM chip. Of the three sets created, this might be the only surviving set.

Due to security reasons, only two of the U S WEST maintenance cards were issued to the regional field technical managers ("A" and "B"). A third maintenance card was retained in the lab.

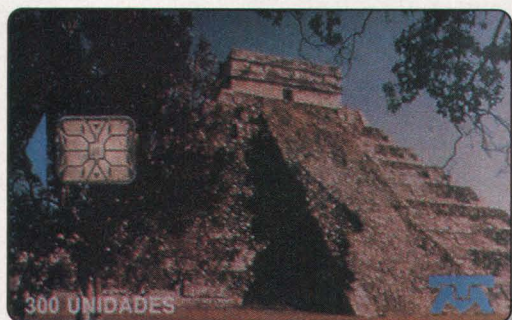

the five denominations. The cards were to be utilized to ensure that the correct initial values were displayed on each of the payphones when they were installed. One set was to be issued to each of the two regional field technical managers for set testing, with the remaining set to be retained in the laboratory.

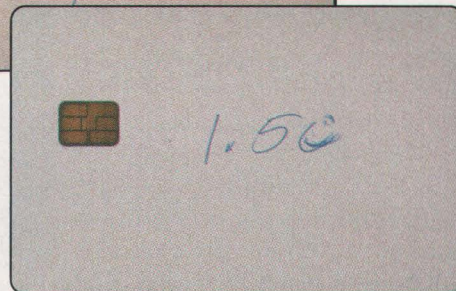

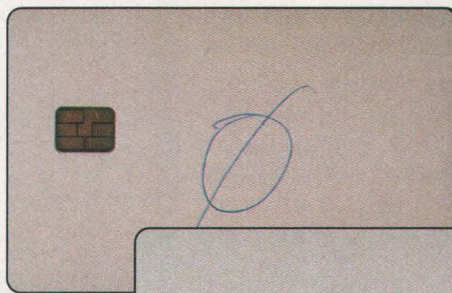

The cards are plain white with U S WEST and the values hand-written in ink, along with the imprint "F1024," Schlumberger's designation for the EPROM chip. These three sets represent the third edition of U S WEST trial cards.

Only one complete set is known to exist

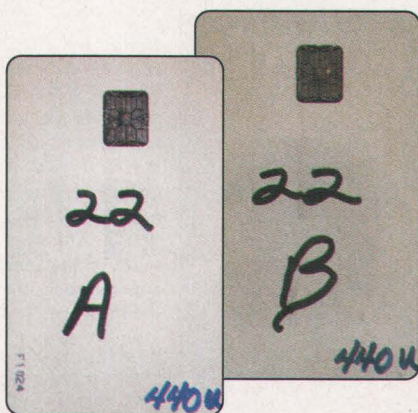

Originally created as a trial card for TelMex, approximately 50 of these Mayan P cards were used by U S WEST to make test calls. Shown is the front and back of the card.

The 5th Edition of the U S WEST trial cards are plain, white plastic cards supplied by Gemplus. The cards are without markings, except "0" or other designation noting the remaining time left on the card.

Approximately 100 of these $22 (440 units) test cards were provided by Schlumberger. Unit values were handwritten to distinguish them from the maintenance cards. Most were discarded when their value had been spent.

today, along with a single $22 card from one of the other sets.

The fourth edition of U S WEST trial cards was produced in March 1993. The plain, white chip cards were provided to the RBOC by Schlumberger, for the purpose of making further test calls.

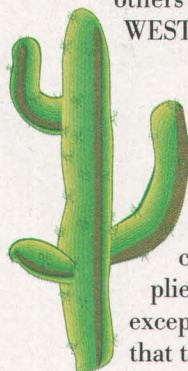

Some, but not all of the cards had the F1024 chip designation imprinted on them. All had various writing in ink to identify and indicate the initial value. The cards were provided as replacements for the previously mentioned TelMex cards (second-edition trial cards).

About 50-100 of the cards were produced, all with "22" written on them to indicate the $22 value. Other markings on the cards vary – some with "A" and "B" added to designate one of the two regional field technical areas. Some include the "440 units" designation; others are marked with "US WEST 440u" or "US WEST Test Card 440u."

There may have been additional variations, but none has surfaced thus far. Most of the cards were thrown away when the value was exhausted. Six of the 50-100 cards are known to exist.

The fifth version of the U S WEST trial cards consisted of plain white plastic cards supplied by Gemplus. Most are devoid of any writing except "0" with a line through it, which indicated that the value had been exhausted.

The total quantity produced was only 200 cards; it is not known how many of them survived the trial.

U S WEST MAINTENANCE CARDS (SCHLUMBERGER)

The Schlumberger smart card retrofit required periodic maintenance routines to extract information captured at the set. Basically, the retrofit was not connected to an external payphone management system when data gathered could be downloaded.

Technicians had to visit the station, insert the maintenance card, and record the number of calls, revenue received, card insertions, etc. The technician would use the maintenance card to run a diagnostic program on the payphone, and then use the card to reset the payphone's meter back to 0.

Due to security concerns, Schlumberger issued only three maintenance cards. One was given to each of the two regional field managers, with the other retained in the laboratory.

The cards issued to the field were marked in ink as "Maintenance" (actually misspelled "Maintenace") with either an "A" or "B" for the respective regions. The card retained in the laboratory did not include the "A" or "B" designation. All three of these cards survived the trial and exist today.

Having learned from these early test and maintenance cards, U S West launched its now famous "Indian Artifact" series in late 1994. For collectors this inaugural issue is historically important and features some of the most beautiful designs to have appeared on phone cards to date.

AMERITECH

Most Ameritech cards issues have included some kind of special card, usually a specimen. As per our definitions in the October 1995 issue of Moneycard Collector, a specimen is a production card without phone time. The card has a standard back, but without PIN code. NYNEX

The long-awaited Collector Club card has been issued and sent to all 1994-1995 members. According to the code on the reverse of the $1 Change Card, 3,000 cards were issued. Since that number exceeds the number of club members, the question is what will become of the remaining cards? According to a high-level NYNEX official, no decision has been made on the fate of these cards, which remain in storage.

Since it was repeatedly announced that the only way to obtain one of the cards was to join the Collector Club, it seems the only honorable solution would be to destroy all of the remaining cards.

Two cards scheduled for late spring release are the previously announced $10 Jacob Javits Center card, which was originally to be available for TeleCard World East show in September 1995, and a $5 Radio City Music Hall card.

Plans are to issue 10,000 of the Javits cards, and 20,000 of the Radio City Music Hall cards. A big marketing push is being planned for this summer, so we might see several new issues then, including more advertising/promotional cards.

The $2 Radio City Music Hall Rockettes photo cards have been referred to as "white" cards and "test" cards. They could be the rarest of the magnetic Change Cards, and certainly each of the photo cards is unique.

Pacific Bell; San Francisco Public Library; $5 denomination; 3,000 issued; April 1996.

PACIFIC TELESIS

By now, most collectors are aware that Pacific Telesis has been purchased by Southwestern Bell (SBC Corporation). Whether we now have six or seven Baby Bells remains to be seen. The umbrella organization known as Pacific Telesis was the actual Baby Bell, but because Pacific Bell has been the only company to issue phone cards, most have referred to it as the RBOC. Now that Nevada Bell (another Pacific Telesis company) has decided to issue cards, and has already installed Nortel Millennium payphones, collectors and publications need to be more specific.

What will now happen to the companies, employees, and phone cards is not known. Perhaps the best idea is to fill in any holes in your collection as soon as possible.

Pacific Bell is now selling the Marine World Africa USA cards through its 800 number. Previously, the only way to obtain these cards was to visit the park and buy them from a vending machine.

A $5 card was issued to commemorate the new Main Branch of the San Francisco Public Library. Three thousand cards were printed, with 500 sold through the Friends of the Library gift shop. The sales number is (800)600-0094.

SOUTHWESTERN BELL

Back in July 1995, SBC issued a $25 Spectrum card for use by employees as a trial. Five thousand cards were printed, but not made available to the public. In Southwestern Bell; Get Connected; $2 denomination; 20,000 issued; May 1996.

Southwestern Bell; Spectrum card; $25 denomination; 5,000 issued; March 1996.

Also in March, six new designs were unveiled, called the Specialty Cards. Available in $10 and $20 denominations, the cards included Happy Mothers Day, Happy Birthday, Congratulations, Keep in Touch, Its a Boy, and Its a Girl. From April 1 to May 31, customers who purchase $20 worth of cards receive an additional, free, previously unannounced $5 card. The $5 cards, which were not otherwise sold to the public, were Spectrum cards, a "Congratulations" card, and a "Keep In Touch" card. This now makes five different Spectrum cards so far, in denominations of $2, $5, $10, $20 and $25. Contact SBC at (800)600-2355.

Though SBC has a Collectors Club, there are still many issues not available. One upcoming SBC card not readily available to collectors is the $2 Get Connected card. Produced as a promotional card for college students at seven Kansas universities, the card was created to encourage students to sign up early for their next semester's off-campus housing phone service. Each participating student received one of the 20,000 cards.

Another difficult card for collectors will be the $10 Ambassador Program card used by sales representatives for promotional use aimed at medium-sized businesses.

U S WEST Collector Catalog

U S WEST

The U S WEST Collector Club issued its first newsletter in April. Prior to this, one high-level official acted as a secret shopper and joined the other collector clubs without revealing his identity. Based on those experiences, the U S WEST club policies were formulated. They still have plenty of their illustrated full-color collector catalogs to give out. Call (800)739-3339 to request one.

NEW PARTNERS

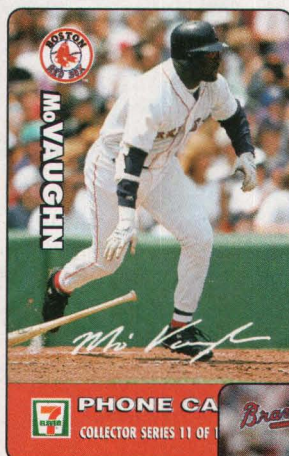

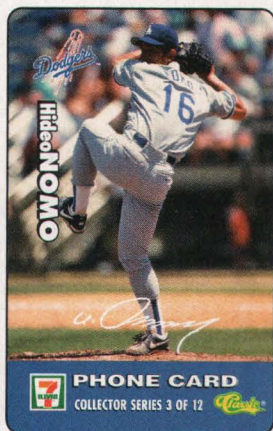

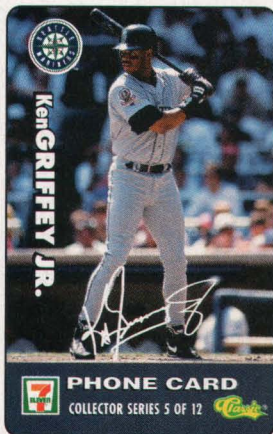

S CORE BOARD AND CLASSIC ANNOUNCE TWO SIGNIFICANT NEW CONTRACTS – MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL AND MCDONALD'S.

Score Board will produce licensed Major League Baseball prepaids for The Southland Corp., operator of 7-Eleven, the world's leading convenience store chain.

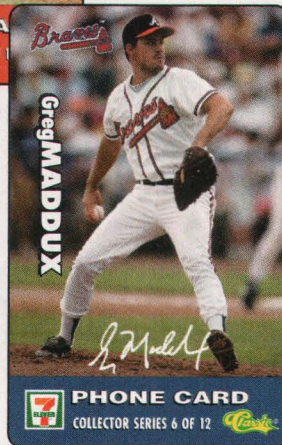

The phone cards will feature 12 of baseball's most popular players – Ken Griffey Jr., Barry Bonds, Greg Maddux, Hideo Nomo, Frank Thomas, Kirby Puckett, Jeff Conine, Wade Boggs, Mo Vaughn, Ivan

Rodriguez, Tony Gwynn and national program spokesman Cal Ripken.

Each card will include 15 minutes of phone time and will be priced at Sprint/Score Board; 7-Eleven/Major League Baseball; 12-card series; 15 minutes; quantity unavailable; June 1996.

Sprint/Classic; McDonald's Assets; 50-card series; $2/$5/$1,000 denominations; various quantities; summer 1996.

$5.99, or $.40 per minute, the same rate as the chain's private label phone cards. The MLB card program will be promoted by national and regional radio and print advertising, as well as point-of-sale (POS) and public relations campaigns.

Available nationally during early June, the cards will be packaged individually in clear cellophane wraps.

Last year, 7-Eleven sold more than three million prepaid long distance cards, making it the largest retailer of phone cards in the nation. "We are excited about the phone card program with Score Board because we know it's going to create interest for this tremendous growth opportunity product," said Michael Cutter, 7-Eleven vice president of merchandising.

With almost 15,400 stores worldwide, The Southland Corporation's operations include 5,100 7-Eleven and other convenience stores in the U.S. and Canada.

The premiere edition of Classic's McDonald Assets – the first-ever McDonald's collectible trading card/phone card series – is scheduled for early summer. The Assets phone cards will feature McDonald's scenes, ranging from the lovable McDonaldland characters to food items, memorabilia and historical advertising images.

Like previous Assets series, McDonald's Assets will guarantee one prepaid phone card (minimum $2 value) in every pack of cards. There are two sets of $5 prepaids: a 10-card set featuring the McDonald's Racing Team; and a 20-card set of McDonaldland characters and television ads. The series is highlighted by a special five-card $1,000 set of telecards, each with an orange foil stamp.

In addition to the phone cards, McDonald's Assets packs will include acetate Cel trading cards and special food redemption coupons. The complete set of McDonald's Assets consists of 50 different cards. MC

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU

A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE AND INNOVATION

With over 12 million customers in the midwest, Ameritech is recognized as one of the leading telecommunications companies in the world. In 1987, with the Michigan Bell CASH CARDSM, Ameritech became one of the first major U.S. telecommunications companies to offer prepaid phone cards. Now, Ameritech continues its role as a leading force in the telecard industry with the introduction of the new Ameritech PrePaid Card.

Collecting an Ameritech prepaid card is collecting a piece of tradition that dates back over a hundred years. A tradition that includes a commitment to quality and service, along with a keen focus on our customers. We hope you enjoy your Ameritech prepaid phone cards as much as we enjoy producing them.
