[^0]It's spring in Ohio as I write this, and it is a good time to remind ourselves that, although there are storms and mud puddles, spring also means sunshine and blossoms. The same is true of moneycards - despite obstacles and reverses, there is always something refreshing about a hobby that by its very nature seems to be driven to be innovative.
Collectors should embrace the drive toward re-invention and creativity, but recognize that it poses special challenges, too. While such regular Moneycard Collector features as "America's Most Wanted" and "New Issues" are enormously popular, there is more to the hobby. The historical cards and thematic cards that we regularly chronicle or cards from Europe or Asia might be the ones that spark a new reader to begin collecting, or provide a clue or insight to round out a particular section of an existing collection.

As collectors sow the seeds of their collections, they should remember that yesterday's crop might grow into tomorrow's most demanded cards. Collectors should cultivate their collections with care, recognizing that a deep collection on a lesser number of themes probably will be more satisfying than a shallow collection on a wide variety of topics. As the hobby continues to grow in the U.S. and Canada, Moneycard Collector will be here to help you to weed your collecting garden.

We have been watching with interest weeding of another kind, as state legislatures and public utilities panels ponder regulations for the prepaid phonecard industry. The rhetoric that some politicians and bureaucrats put

To find

A California legislator was quoted as saying that regulations being considered are not for the " 98 percent of the people who are doing a good job." If the success rate is so high, one might ask, then why introduce burdensome legislation to "correct" it?

In California, proposed regulations would require each card to carry the per-minute or per-second rates charged for calls, the incremental charges for calls in minutes or seconds and the process of redeeming any time left on the cards. Those kinds of rules raise practical concerns about how much information can be printed on a card and how much it would cost a company to write a check to reimburse, for instance, 50 cents' worth of remaining time on a card.

In Louisiana, proposed regulations would demand a $$ 50,000$ bond for issuers who don't have facilities based in that state, would prohibit the sale of cards exceeding $$ 20$ in value, require that all type be 8 -point or larger - issuers are being told that this 7-point type is too small for card information - and ban cards marketed in conjunction with other products.

How do such proposals affect collectors? More rules mean less competition. Smaller companies might not be able to jump through all the regulatory hoops, vanishing along with their interesting and promising card programs - big issuers do not have the corner on creativity. Too much regulation, no matter how well-intentioned could dilute the rich offerings that often bring great enjoyment to collectors.

We mentioned in March's "On The Money," that Sprint was tacking a surcharge onto various kinds of calls originating from payphones, including calls using prepaid cards, to recoup costs anticipated under new federal regulations on payphone compensation. Sprint and AT&T are among those who think that their assigned compensation levels are excessive and have filed court appeals. In contrast to Sprint's surcharge, AT&T decided to increase prices for interstate toll-free services by 7 percent and for business international and interstate outbound services by 2 percent.

As of early May, the International Telecard Association was poised to oppose Sprint's plan with a formal complaint to the Federal Communications Commission, citing three arguments: that the per-call surcharge is inappropriate because Sprint is required to pay payphone owners a flat monthly fee; that FCC regulations allow compensation only for completed calls; and that the Sprint has not justified sufficiently the cost to support the surcharge.

The ITA reports that Sprint, apparently due to complaints from wholesale customers, is reconsidering. We join the ITA in hoping that the teleco rethinks a surcharge on prepaid cards.

"Speculators" article skirts fundamental problem

It is so unfortunate that Mr. Becker (a very respected figure in our hobby) decided to write an article on "speculators" for your May 1997 issue, without getting all the facts in place. This article totally sqkirts the fundamental problem of the issue at hand. I am afraid that this article will actually serve NYNEX as a defense of their hard-nosed position, which left many collectors, dealers and investors holding the bag.

It is also unfortunate that as being in charge of the Bell Atlantic Collectors Club, he will no longer be in a perfect neutral position, as his loyalties will have to go to his employer.

We at Powell had hoped that NYNEX would honor their contractual agreement with us and other dealers, but just a few day ago, we also received the return of our NYNEX package.

We are looking now at a very serious situation, and I feel that if our industry allows a NYNEX to pull the plug on their cards without fair warning, a very serious precedent will have been established that will leave our hobby with an irreparable damage to ourcredibility.

The fact remains that All NYNEX Change Cards had been sold by them as a replacement for coins (we are talking about legal tender - United States currency). These cards were intended to perform a service to the public, and that service was promised by NYNEX. This service is now no longer available from NYNEX, and therefore these cards have to be refunded.

If NYNEX would have indicated that these cards are just pieces of Landis & Gyr plastic and that the $$ 5.25$ value printed on them is just a cute joke, then I can understand why these items can no longer be taken back.

My first question is: Would you or anybody else have purchased these neat cards and sets from NYNEX if the $$ 5.25$ value printed on them was just there for decorative purposes?

Mr. Becker, who is in my book the highest authority in Visa Cash cards, knows quite well how values change when unused cards become expired.

He also knows that all Cash Cards have expiration dates printed on them, which is a fair warning to the card holder. NYNEX never did that, and I have yet to see a document from them giving the public and the consumers this very same fair warning about their prepaid optical and magnetic telephone cards.

I have a great deal of respect for Mr. Art Becker, but I firmly believe that on this issue of NYNEX Change Cards, he is absolutely wrong. If he truly believes that fair treatment must be given to the public and the consumers, he will change his mind.

Luis Vigdor, Powell Associates, New York, N.Y.

Abstract

As we noted in the "Readers Always Write" last month, we agree with the philosophy of "enjoyment not speculation." However, those who bought NYNEX stored value cards did so with the understanding that they could use those cards - whether it was their intention to do so is irrelevant. In our view, if NYNEX is not prepared to refund the purchase price of these cards, then at the very least it should offer to replace them with remote memory cards of the same value. In light of the continuing debate on this topic, we invite NYNEX to weigh in with a response.

In defense of independent, neutral opinion
Luis - thanks for the copy of your letter about NYNEX and the speculator article in the May 1997 issue of Moneycard Collector.

Had you come to me first, instead of publishing your letter in public on Compuserve, I could have saved you the embarrassment of becoming a belated April Fool. I had no part in Del Deligianis' joke on April lst in the phonecard section of CompuServe's collectibles forum, other than being its topic. Bell Atlantic doesn't have a phonecard club, and I certainly wouldn't be an officer, if it did. Bell Atlantic hasn't issued phonecards since 1995.

I personally am independent of all phonecard organizations (including the ITA and IPC) and all phonecard issuing companies (except for my standing order of two phonecards each from the NYNEX Collector Club), and I haven't even had an employer since last September. Interestingly, several Baby Bells have asked me in the past if I wanted to run a collector club for them. I always turned down these requests in order to remain neutral.

I did contact you, via e-mail, about NYNEX and all Baby Bells, several months ago, asking for comments on Baby Bell card sales for my article appearing on page 46 of the May 1997 issue of Moneycard Collector magazine. You chose not to reply (it would have been a good time to also send me any information on problems you were having with NYNEX, since I assume you know I've been writing "Baby Bell Notes" in Moneycard Collector for several years). The other dealers quoted in this article responded to the identical message I sent you, some of whom provided additional information about the problems with NYNEX. I don't recall you participating in the CompuServe discussions, several months ago, about the problems with NYNEX.

At least one other dealer, who also chose not to respond to my request, or join in the discussions on CompuServe, criticized me in public. All I can say is that it is easy being a "Monday morning quarterback," as opposed to actually playing the game itself. Keeping information secret from a writer - and then later criticizing the writer for not having the information - is unfair.

As with any controversy, those who agree with me like what I write, and those who disagree think I am being totally unfair.

Danmont moneycards, predecessors to Visa Cash, going strong

By Ulf Helmke

Visa Cash cards introduced at the 1996 Atlanta Olympics have gained a lot of attention with collectors, but what is the history behind these highly collectible cards? The Danish "Danmont" moneycard system can be considered the "mother of all VISA Cash cards."

In January 1989, a Danish work group representing banks, financial institutions and telephone companies was formed to examine possible ways to introduce a national prepaid moneycard. The companies backing the venture saw the need for a stored value card (SVC) that could not only be used at payphones but also in vending machines, parking meters and for purchase of bus tickets. The first seminar on "The Danish

Danment;
Sommeraften, 100 kroner; 2,000 issued; September 1994. The cards, 1,500 of which were in folders, show a painting by artist P.S. Kroyer. The painting is continued on the card reverse.

Danment; Royal Wedding, 100 kroner; 4,983 issued; November 1995. The card front celebrates the wedding between Prince Joachim and Alexandra Manley.

The workgroup presented a new report in June 1990 that suggested a step-by-step introduction of SVCs in Denmark. For a seminar in September 1990, seven test cards without chips were produced illustrating the different uses of Danment cards. The cards were issued with a mintage of only 250 , yet one card featuring the McDonald's logo turned out to be even rarer. Approximately half of the cards had to be destroyed as McDonald's did not approve of the use of its logo. An estimated 125 to 150 of the McDonald's cards remain which makes it the most expensive card in the set with a value of kr . 3000 ( $$ 510$ ). The other cards are valued at kr .2000 ( $$ 340$ ) each, although these cards are almost impossible to get at even higher prices.
"Danmønt A/S" was formed in June 1991, uniting all parties involved in the moneycard system and allowing easier development of standards, which were presented at an international seminar in September of that year. The next step was a moneycard trial, launched in the town of Nëstved in September 1992. Danmønt and the banks involved in the trial issued 21 different cards, 14 of which generally were available. The remaining seven cards were issued for promotions or other special occasions. The public cards were issued in denominations of kr. 100 ($17), kr. 250 ($42.50) or kr. 300 ($51).

Among the cards were several kr. 10 cards given out to the public by "street-walkers" explaining the system. Those workers are still used in parts of Denmark today, intercepting people who use cash in a vending machine and explaining the advantages of SVCs. They also answer questions or help consumers use Danmont cards.

With one of the trial-cards, Nëstveds mayor

Henning Jensen made the first-ever Danmont transaction at Nëstved "Gymnasium" (high school). Another 900 promotional cards were issued to students at this school, but most cards were discarded. Those free cards are now valued at kr. 500 ($85) in unused and kr. 250 ($42.50) in used condition!

Another interesting card was issued by "Den Danske Bank" for Berlingske Tidende, one of the nation's leading newspapers. The card has the lowest-ever denomination of a Danment card - kr. 7 ($1.20) - which at that time was the price for the newspaper. The card promoted the use of special "NyhedsBox" newspaper vendingmachines using the Danmont system.

The trial ended on Feb. 28, 1993, and was deemed successful both technically and commercially, paving the way for a national launch. All Danmønt cards are prepaid SVCs that use the integrated circuit-technology, which means that a small memory-chip is embedded in the card to store information. More advanced chips allow the cards to be reloaded. Danmont, unlike many of today's closed-system cards, provides an open system - there can be independent card issuers and service providers and cards can be used interchangeably.

Danmont A/S functions as system-operator but also issues a portion of the cards, other card issuers include banks and even TeleDanmark, the national telephone company. Yet Danment cards are not to be confused with regular Danish phonecards! While Danment cards can be used at special payphones, you cannot use a phonecard in the Danmont system. By the end of 1997, TeleDenmark will have replaced current payphones accepting only magnetic-stripe phonecards with new phones that will accept both the new TeleDanmark chipphonecards and Danmont SVCs.

Danmønt is being spread out all over the country as more and more locations start accepting the cards. While the number of transactions was 145,496 in the first quarter of 1994 it rose to more than 1.1 million transactions in the fourth quarter of 1996. This means an average of more than 11,900 transactions per day!

Danmønt cards can be used in a variety of places, mainly in the Copenhagen area, and the future will bring more places where Danmønt cards can be used and it will be interesting to see how this will affect new card issues and designs. Since stores are slow to install Danmont terminals, Danment sees self-service devices like vending-machines as a dominant area of growth.

Many Danish phonecard collectors also collect Danmønt cards, a decision made easy by the fact that the cards are the same size, they are prepaid and some even are issued by TeleDanmark.

There are many different cards with many interesting topics. Three Coca-Cola cards have been issued and Pepsi has released a puzzle of three cards forming a Pepsi vending-machine displaying ice-cold Pepsi.

Elvis fans might go mad for the "Elvis 56 " cards - only 1,500 sets issued for a CD promotion. Shortly after their issue, these cards were already traded for $$ 50$ and more! Other card issues include Shell, Avis rent-a-car, Siemens, IBM and many Danish companies.

Among the many firsts, Danment also issued the world's first chip card made of wood confirming to all ISO chipcard-standards! These cards made of laminated birch wood could be returned to Danmont with comments on their experiences with the new card. Customers were then given a complimentary kr. 20 card.

As with all stored value cards, some collectors specialize in card varieties that can also be found among Danmont cards. Some cards can be found with different chips and others appear in different color varieties.

Since Visa bought the license to use the Danmønt system worldwide, Visa Cash moneycards are now available or being tested in several countries around the globe including Australia, New Zealand and Spain. There's one major difference between Danmønt and U.S. Visa Cash cards: While in the U.S., the SVCs have to be issued through a bank, Danish cards are issued by different institutions including, but not limited to, banks.

Next time you look at your collection of Visa Cash cards, don't forget that they basically are "foreign" Danmont cards and that any collection of Visa Cash cards should include some Danmont cards to show the origin of these wonderful SVCs.

[HICAGO The first major phonecard show ever held in Chicago, Spring Expo '97, was held at the Hyatt Regency hotel from April 2-4. Organized by Intele-Card News magazine and endorsed by the International Telecard Association, the show featured more than 120 exhibitors.

Though organized as a trade show, the event did attract several dealers who generally described sales as "good." No attendance figures were announced.

The ITA held another of its banquet auctions, which succeeded in raising about $$ 13,000$ for the association. Highlights of the sale included two NYNEX payphones: one a Landis & Gyr set together with a double striped 1988 Michigan Bell phone card that sold for $$ 1700$ and the other, a brand new Tamura set, that sold for $$ 550$.

Some of the phonecards sold were very rare and were acquired by dealers. Steve Schwartz of Sears Phonecard Dept.
bought a $$ 100$ jumbo Coinsaver Ameritech snowflake (No. 5 of 10 issued) for his personal collection, while Buz Houghtaling of B&B Fone Cards was the successful bidder on an AT&T Teleticket. The "Illicall" card is very rare - only 250 made - and when next resold may set a new high price for AT&T material. We'll keep you posted.

Prior to the auction Intelecard News announced winners in its annual phonecard awards competition.

Top winners included: Most Original Design, "Expressions of Time," Continental Plastic; Most Innovative Use, "Wedding RSVP," Communications Design Group; Best Use of Interactive Features, "Free Minutes, Free Stuff," SmarTel; and Best Series, a tie between Marc Chagall's Windows, by Bezeq, the Israeli telecom, and Grapevine Telecard's Maxfield Parrish Series.

MCI's Independence Day Series won the Image Award, while Creative Communications took the top Stored-Value Application honor for its Bubbles Gift Certificate. The Global Card Series of U S WEST, PTT Telecom, GTE and Bell Canada was judged the Best Int'l program.

Network marketing companies won for Best Use of Color, Destiny Telecomm's Farm Aid; Best Collectible Card by a Network Marketing Company, Amerivox's Windows of the Soul; and Best Card Display, Strategic Telecom System's Hologram Series.

The show's "People's Choice Award," voted on exhibition attendees, ended in a tie between Brillant Color Card's "Greetings From Chicago" jumbo and SNET/Jericho Printing's "Mrs. O'Leary's Cow."

There were a host of cards created for the show, but the one that stole the spotlight was the new Ray Charles braille issue from Destiny Telecomm (See Tapping the Networks for more information.). In addition to the issues produced by the exhibitors, there was a matched numbered set of cards given to each person attending the ITA banquet. This event was a sellout, with 195 people in attendance. However, a total of 500 sets were actually produced, leaving 300 or so sets available for the collector market. Dealer Luis Vigdor of Powell Associates is enthusiastic about these cards, particularly the puzzle set. "This could be the one and only time we will ever see so many issuers of high standing collaborate on such a set. "It's very collectible," he said.

Show organizers were pleased with the success of the show and plan to return to Chicago next year. Meantime, they are turning their attention to planning their next show in Miami at the Fontainebleau Hotel from Nov. 10-12.

AMERTCA'S MOST WANIED

This month's "America's Most Wanted" contains a card set from Canada, which is exciting to see. Collectors are following a natural progression toward collecting foreign cards - a growth that was predicted years ago. This is the second visit by Canadian cards during the last few months, which is no surprise - the cards are emblazoned with great Coke images! Once collectors begin to realize that the rest of the world not only produces prepaid cards, but produces highly collectible prepaid cards, the U.S. version of our hobby will expand dramatically.

MAC'S
HOLIDAY COKE SET OF THREE. Cardinal Canada; 45 minutes; 4,250 issued; February 1997. Canadian Coke cards are definitely "it." In May, we featured the "Summer Coke" Series and this month, we introduce the "Holiday Coke" series. These sets were gleaned from cases of Coke in Western Ontario and the Prairie Provinces, where collectors made sets from the cards they found inside the boxes. Mac's is a large convenience store chain.

ALASKAN WILDLIFE SERIES SET OF SIX.

Cable \& Wireless; 30 minutes; 500 issued; February 1997. Proving once again that prepaid cards featuring animals are popular, $\mathrm{C} \& \mathrm{~W}$ brings its first set of cards to AMW since last summer when we saw the STS-commissioned Cities of the World set. Perhaps STS representatives may increase demand for this set as well.

PINK PANTHER GOLD EASTER EGG JUMBO.

 USACard; 250 issued; 25 units; February 1997. Round two for the Pink Panther, who pulled out the big card! The card instantly became popular and is a great addition to any collection.
PINK PANTHER EASTER

 EGGS. USACard; 500 issued of each color; $$ 10$ denomination; February 1997. These purple, pink and blue die-cuts have caused quite a commotion;
NABISCO'S

 OREO COOKIE DIECUT. AT&T; 10 units; 10,000 issued; February 1997. Available through dealers and from Nabisco's web site for $$ 5$ plus $$ 1$ shipping, this luscious die-cut is destined to be popular for a long time.
PEPSI TIME IN SPACE. Karis

 Communications/ Vertical Partners; 500 and 1,500 issued respectively; 5 minutes; January 1997. A repeat visitor, the card is not only attractive but clever. The PIN is concealed on the front of the card under a long sticker - the pull-tab. dealers are trying to match sets and collectors are scrambling to buy them. These are some of the best cards of 1997.

STAR WARS TRILOGY SET OF 30. GTI; $$ 5, $ 10$ and $$ 20$ denominations; quantity unavailable; March 1997. This attractive series, one of many movie series phonecards from GTI, coincided with the re-release of George Lucas' Oscar-winning movies. GTI places cards in envelopes, but does not cover PINs - a boon for collectors who like to use their cards.

ONE THOUSAND DOLLAR BILL.

USACard; 1,500 issued; 10 units; February 1997. Another good idea from USACard that's popular in Asian countries where money and cards with many zeros are used as gifts and "funeral money."

Selling Your Treasures

As with any hobby, people usually make purchases in order to build something they are proud of, whether it be for their own pleasure, posterity's sake or strictly for investment. In any cycle of collecting, the time comes to sell.

Dealer Buy-Back Policies

Often collectors request a dealer buy back their cards. Product dissatisfaction, collection trade-up or simply selling a collection motivates this.

No dealer wants a dissatisfied customer. Many will accept your cards back if, upon inspection, you decide they weren't what you expected.

If you're selling to a dealer, realize that you may not get a high (or even retail) price for the cards. Dealers are accustomed to paying wholesale for cards and won't pay a retail price only to turn around and to sell at a retail price (thus, no profit for them). Dealers are more than just card brokers - a good one can help you build a collection and invest wisely. They have to take their overhead costs into account with each sale or purchase they make.

The Price is Wrong?

If you haven't done so already, make certain that you have a complete inventory of your cards to show a potential buyer. For your own records, note what you originally paid for the card - you'll want to monitor your margin of profit or loss, as well as understand the gains and losses your card experienced while you owned it.

Sometimes, when you get ready to sell your cards, you'll find that a card is not worth what you thought.

Say you sought several price guides and came up with what you thought was a fair price. No price guide is infallible - it is a sampling of a small portion of the entire industry: Dealers' sales as well as auctions and collector-to-collector buying, selling and trading comprises the collecting universe - and without a battalion of cataloguers, monitoring is an almost impossible job.

As we said earlier, you may find often that a buyer may not pay the retail price you're asking. For example, most price guides will value a card for at least face, however, a dealer may tell you that he or she can buy that card all day long at a considerably lower price.

Maybe they can buy cheaper, but that doesn't mean you have to sell at a lower price. You can either seek another buyer or wait. Just because a card is desirable doesn't mean that a dealer needs it - he or she may have an ample stock.

Always be selling

Betty Houghtaling of B&B
Phonecards in Alto Loma, Calif., states that many dealers will pay only cents on the dollar when purchasing cards that are not "hot." After all, the longer a card might remain in inventory, the lower the price a dealer is willing to pay for it .
"Many people don't understand that we do not have unlimited funds to purchase cards," Betty says. "We'll gladly buy back something that we sold, but we intend to get it at a competitive price."

Betty also explains that newly released cards have a way of falling out of collector favor in about six months. It's difficult to see an increase in value in that period of time, so speculators won't get much satisfaction with phonecards.
"To see solid, substantial growth in investments made today," Betty says, "I believe there is a five-year turnaround."

Moneycard Collector provides information and entertainment about the debit card collecting hobby. We encourage you to collect for enjoyment, not investment.

If you have an especially rare or highly desirable card, dealers may compete to pay top dollar; either they realize the potential of the card, or have a client who wants it.

Something for nothing

In your collection you may have cards that you've received for free.

Unless these are NYNEX DNC '92 cards, early Vista United or others of that caliber, you probably won't get much for the cards.
"If you have $$ 5$ or less in a card," says Kathy Shapiro of KARS Unlimited, "and you want to sell it to me for $$ 100$, I would have to mark the price up to $$ 1,000$ to realize the same amount of investment you did."

Betty Houghtaling agrees. "Many people have promo cards they mailed away for or got off of products," she explains, "and many are worth exactly what was paid for them."

When selling, consult several references and sources. But regardless of your process, remember - some collectibles increase more in value as time passes. This hobby doesn't offer instant investment return ... but it can offer you lots of enjoyment.

NationsBank Revisited

In last month's "Words on Numbers," we discussed the particulars of the expired, stripped Olympic VISA Cash cards from NationsBank. We explained that the lots of stripped cards varied greatly in condition, according to Richard F. Shaffner, senior vice president.

A few readers and dealers have requested that we bring up that some of these cards are in near mint condition, except of course, for the scratches on the chip and the indentation created by stripping. Perhaps, they suggest, we should create a new category called "Mint Stripped."

While this idea has merit, such a designation tends to be more of a grading debate and we believe, blurs the definition of "Used." There are thousands of used cards (cards minus their original value) that look practically mint, especially if they have no scratch off. As the hobby grows, grading will become more of an issue. Perhaps these cards will be a good place to start the discussion, and we hope to take it up in the future.

One of the most important Telecard issues we have seen in the market occurred during the American Tele-Card Spring Expo '97 in Chicago. The International Telecard Association (ITA) managed to put together a commemorative "ITA Dinner" Eight Piece Telecard Set in a coordinated design, showing the Skyline of Chicago, all issued by separate Telephone Companies:

TE, TEXACO LAUNCH MISSING KIDS PROGRAM. A new prepaid

- phonecard program by GTE and Texaco in partnership with Child Watch of North America, feature pictures of missing children.
The Texaco-Child Watch GTE prepaid phonecard is available in participating Texaco-branded stations across the country. The cards feature pictures of missing children as well as the place and date they were last seen.
Program organizers hope the "electronic milk carton" phonecards are more effective in recovery efforts than traditional approaches such as posters, billboards, postcards - or milk cartons. Because the cards are typically carried in wallets and used over and over again, it is more likely that the children's faces will become ingrained in people's memories and lead to a possible sighting and recovery.
"We are always looking for new ways to help find missing children, and this type of corporate involvement is a major boost for our efforts," says Don Wood, executive director of Child Watch of North America, an organization that provides investigative and financial assistance to parents searching for their missing children. "There's no question we'll find children with these cards."
Child Watch will receive five percent of the retail price of every card sold, providing a much-needed financial boost to the non-profit agency. GTE projects its contribution to Child Watch will top $$ 1.2$ million in 1997.
"We saw our prepaid phonecard as a perfect opportunity to assist in a worthwhile effort - finding missing children," said Gordon Allen, president of GTE Card Services Incorporated.

INNOVATIVE TELECOM PICKS EXECUTIVE. Maryann Walsh has joined Innovative Telecom Corp. of Nashua, N.H., as chief operating officer. She will oversee day-to-day operations at the company. Walsh was cofounder and president of Aurora Systems Inc., a provider of off-the-shelf com-puter-telephone integration products, and previously was vice president of engineering and product marketing at VoiceTek Corp., a voice processing equipment manufacturer.

Oki Advanced Products' new
Value-Checker PLUS lets users read cash balances on smart cards and is capable of linking to a personal computer to download values onto the card.

The new reader allows users to read cash balances on smart cards. It also is capable of linking with a personal computer to download values onto smart cards. PHONECARDS HELP FLOOD VICTIMS. Reacting quickly to the flooding in the greater Cincinnati, Ohio, area during early March, Sunoco Food Markets donated 1,000 fiveminute Sunoco phonecards to the local chapter of the American Red Cross. The cards were to be distributed to flood victims, who could use them to keep in touch with friends or relatives.

Sunoco MidAmerica, headquartered in Toledo, sells $$ 5, $ 10$ and $$ 20$ phonecards at 25 food markets in Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky. Time on the cards is carried by Networks Around the World of New Jersey.

TAPPIIV THE NETOOKS

Iisitors attending the opening day of the Chicago Intele-Card Expo '97 enjoyed an unexpected bonus: a special appearance by legendary R&B performer Ray Charles, who was on hand to accept DESTINY TELECOMM INTERNATIONAL'S first braille card, which was introduced and presented by Destiny President Randy Jeffers. The card and Charles gained instant attention from Chicago-based media, including all of the major television networks which shot footage for local broadcasts and network feeds.

Charles hailed the new card as a real step forward for visually impaired people. "Up until now, to use one of these cards we had to memorize all of the numbers," he said. "Now there'll be fewer numbers to memorize and more people like me will use prepaid cards," said the entertainer.

Destiny officials plan to make the braille feature available on all of their cards and expect that the premium on most card runs will be about 40 cents per card.

Destiny's recent introduction of a brailleinscribed phonecard might be a first for that issuer, but a STRATEGIC TELECOM SYSTEMS independent representative has offered up a trio of braille cards that were issued in October 1996.

John Atkinson, whose busi-

Each STS card features the 800 number, PIN number and customer Service number in braille on the card's obverse.

The highlight of the combination training, new products and awards presentation event was the announcement of AT&T Canada as a service provider, joining Bell Canada in providing the time for TeleNet phonecards. AT&T Canada's Kent Deuters outlined his company's services for the 300 -plus visitors.

Hull, who is a TeleNet independent distributor, pulled phonecard dealer Frank Ataw of FA Marketing onto the stage for some impromptu remarks about the collectibility of phonecards. The hockey star's autographed phonecard, 1,018 issued, was featured in February's "Tapping the Networks" column (Other TeleNet cards were pictured in the June column.) Moneycard Collector Editor Tom Williams also addressed the crowd, urging the distributors to pay attention to the collectibility of cards, and subscribe to Moneycard Collector.

Cable & Wireless recently issued phonecards for two network marketing organizations. C&W produced 5,000 30-minute and 2,000 60-minute cards for CARDS OF AMERICA INC. The rechargeable cards, featuring artwork supplied by company, are intended to be sold as retail products.

Also issued by C&W in February was a lim-ited-edition collectors' series for TEAMWORK INTERNATIONAL INC. The six-card series, issued to commemorate the organizations first convention, features different images of eagles and 5,000 10 -minute cards were attached to a carrier with the slogan "Soaring Together Toward Financial Freedom."

Cable & Wireless also produced 60-minute cards (5,000 issued); 180minute cards $(3,000)$; and

It's an easy 30 minute drive north of Atlanta to the town of Alpharetta, Ga .. There the gently rolling hills are thickly wooded and have provided a scenic location for many firms to establish their headquarters. Among them is Global Telemedia Inc. and its wholly-owned network marketing division, VISION 21.

Although GTMI has been a publicly traded company since 1987, its involvement in telecommunications dates from 1991. Today the firm sells its telecom products through direct sales, independent sales agents and members of Vision 21.

The company's president is Rod McLain, an energetic, plain-talking executive. He sees a strong future for his company, especially in interactive voice recogni-

GTMI President Rod McLain tion products, but is mindful of the need to make sure that GTMI products live up to their claims. "You don't want to go around beating yourself on the chest until you've really got something to boast about." he said. "The marketplace has little patience. You need to move expeditiously to help the customer - make that your credo."

Speaking about his plans for IVR products McLain said, "Moving forward we see our advantage lying in our Workhorse product because it will be the premier enhanced service offering that above all will be reliable. And connected with that we see prepaid phonecards with IVR features as an area of big potential.

A member of McLain's executive team is Marketing vice president Michael Patey. He and operations vice president Jeff Pederson are responsible for Vision 21. Patey has been very pleased with the progress of Vision 21 to date.
"We're delighted with the growth of Vision 21 so far," he said. "We only started Vision 21 in November of last year and already we have about 3,500 representatives, and retail sales volumes are growing equally well."

Patey gets a lot of enjoyment from creating the cards. "I got a real kick out of the Mozart set we created. The cards are nice but it's the packaging that I think is so special." With that he opened Mozart card folder and a synthesized abridged version of "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" began to play. "We only made 2,000 of these and they sold out immediately. It was fun and it really demonstrated to us that the collectibility of phonecards is very real."

Additional testimony to GTMI's belief in the collector market was its recent acquisition of West Sports Marketing's Finish Line Collectibles division. "Art West and his team are very talented people," said McLain. "They're making a big contribution to the success of our company and raising our profile."

Gaining a higher profile and having Vision 21 cards more widely collected is a shared agenda item for both McLain and Patey. Both men promised that we'll be receiving a lot more news about phonecards in 1997. With a strong IVR capability and the proven track performance of Finish Line collectibles, the possibilities are exciting.

Hey! That's me! The owl that appears on this private issue phonecard (right) by Michael S. Hawke checks out his image during a visit to the STS Atlanta convention. The humanraised owl, and the cards - 10 units, 250 issued promote SERRC, the Southeastern Raptor Rehabilitation Center at Auburn University.

Easy Access, which has signed an agreement to merge with STS, offers phonecards coupled with a scratch-off sweepstakes promotion.

trategic Telecom Systems celebrated its second anniversary in a big way as an estimated 2,100 excited independent representatives gathered in Atlanta April 24-26. The gala was highlighted by some big announcements - a merger and the launch of a new service and a well-attended collectors' fair.

The big announcement was a merger agreement between STS and Easy Access International of Boca Raton, Fla. Easy Access is a publicly traded company listed on the NASDAQ exchange under the symbol EZZZ. Among its products is the "Great Rate" phonecard which comes attached to a scratchoff sweepstakes promotion that enables the buyer to win up to $$ 100,000$ instantly.
"We expect the cards to be collected because each is unique and many designs will not be repeated," says Jeff Weller, Easy Access vice president of operations.

Convention delegates also learned of the launch of a travel service as a new STS product. "If we can give you travel and prepaid communications, you've got a logical combination of products that people will buy," says STS Chief Executive Officer Rick Catinella. "If you travel, you'll use prepaid phonecards."

The collector's fair, the highlight for many attendees, was held all day April 25, with about 40 tables selling STS cards and little else. Previous collector's fairs were normally held in the twohour lunch break between seminars, so spreading it out all day gave buyers more time to shop.

A very specific and strongly enforced rule is that only STS-issued or STS-endorsed cards were to be traded and sold, and company officials patrolled the show looking for unauthorized cards. This was a controversial subject for some dealers. Although STS has produced many popular cards, the policy hinders the opportunity for the tremendous number of independent STS representatives to help jumpstart the mainstream collectors' market.

Among the most exciting offerings were the first compact-dise phonecard and the appearance of a live owl to promote a card benefitting a bird sanctuary. Other cards included a new two-card set celebrating the STS 2nd Anniversary, a two-card SuperBowl set, and many pri-

The STS sales booth also offered some previously issued cards, such as the STS hologram set and the Dallas and Minneapolis convention cards. This upset dealers offering those cards, who were under the impression that these issues were unavailable from the corporation. The STS sales booth also was selling cards for lower than the original issued price. While STS knows how to stage large events, the company needs to address shortcomings in its collector activities.

fh ! The sweet life! New from Image Telecards come two Tootsie Roll phonecards in honor of Tootsie Rolls' 50th anniversary. The earlier three-card (Tootsie Rolls, Junior Mint and Dots) set appeared in "America's Most Wanted," and it wouldn't be surprising to see these two 5-minute cards do the same. A total of 1,500 "Life of the Party" cards and 1,750 "Captain Tootsie" cards were issued in April and May, respectively. Cable & Wireless is the service provider for both. Some cards went directly to Tootsie Roll; the rest are available through dealers. Also from the candy aisle, Creative Communications recently issued a 15minute card promoting the new Milky Way Lite candy bar. Major retailers and small-store owners were given the 8,000 cards as incentives. There's no scratch-off over the PIN, which gives the collector a little more of a bonus, too.

Disneyana collectors will want a terrificlooking phonecard marking Walt Disney World's 25 th anniversary. To the casual observer, it looks like SmarTalk joined forces with Walgreens stores nationwide to produce the cards, which are available free with the purchase of specially marked Kodak products. Although the cards - 1 million in three batches, with Kodak film, film processing, and cameras were issued by California-based Phone Debit Systems Inc., they read "Services provided by SmarTalk" due to Walgreens' insistence that a tariffed carrier be used. And while Kodak paid for the cards, that company's name or logo does not appear on them, though the voice greeting does mention Kodak.

The cards, which have a magnetic stripe on the back for store activation or recharge, also can be recharged via the telephone. While the front says " $30+$ " U.S. minutes, the card is only pre-charged with 10 minutes of time and can be recharged up to 36 minutes.

Also at participating Walgreens stores in Florida, collectors could find a card issued by TresCom International. The 5 minute cards, 100,000 issued, were a promotion for the Shell Air and Sea show, sponsored by Captain Morgan's Spiced Rum. They feature a peel-off backing that enabled the consumer to enter a sweepstakes.

A new die-cut card from Phonecard Express is a 10 minute phonecard/keychain for Quaker State Motor Oil. Now in its second year of using phonecards as a premium for customers, Quaker State has joined with Quick Lube stores nationwide to offer this "emergency phonecard" for stranded motorists. This unique phonecard/keychain is being offered to customers who bring in their cars to have the oil changed at participating Quick Lube stores.

Here's one for college basketball fans. All Sport Body Quencher teamed up with Phillips 66 for an in-store promotion. Phonecard Express issued 4,000 10-minute cards as prizes in a sweepstakes promoting the new Big 12 conference basketball season. Phillips 66 stations in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas ran the contest via entry forms. The cards were offered as the third place prize in the sweepstakes.

While beer logos on cards are nothing new, phonecard buffs at the Chicago InteleCard Expo '97 got a chance to drink it all in with a phonecard beer label by Innovative Telecom. Access numbers and PINs actually were printed on labels of "Innovative Telecom Prepaid Ale" and gave the drinker five minutes of phone time.

PART 1

By James M. Chudnow

There is no denying the allure of McDonald's phonecards for collectors, and McDonald's cards (April 1996, Moneycard Collector) remain firmly ensconced along with Disney and Coca-Cola as the top thematics for telecard hobbyists. But there is life, and collecting, beyond the Golden Arches. Recent examples that have graced "America's Most Wanted" are Burger King cards by Tell-One; TeleNova's Dairy Queen Misty Slush; Dairy Queen Dennis the Menace; and Little Caesar's and Mountain America Technologies' Dairy Queen Cake Club cards. They are all five-minute cards, and are a plus to any fast-food card collection. While the Cake Club cards can still be picked up for as little as $$ 6$, most of the others are in the $$ 12$ to $$ 17$ range and the Dennis the Mance cards, with their attention-getting and desirable AT&T logo on the obverse, command prices of about $$ 50$.

The treasure trove of fast-food card-collecting doesn't stop there. Name a fast-food chain in the U.S., and the odds are good that its logo has appeared on a phonecard. It is possible for collectors to amass a variety of fast-food themed cards paralleling the assortment of restaurants that have sprung up at any highway interchange.

Let's take a look at some of the key releases created for the fast-food theme. We'll begin with nationally known chains this month, and finish up next month with a review of pizza parlor cards and other interesting regional fast-food cards. Pull up to the drive-through ... May we take your order, please?

ARBY'S

Although I contacted Arby's headquarters, the roastbeef chain has not responded to questions about planned national use of phonecards. The Arby's logo does appear on a coupon on the unusual peel-off coupon phonecards issued by TAK Marketing Systems in California. Trademarked under the "Peelex" and "Peeler" names, the folding cards have phonetime by UCN, plus a series of peel-off coupons inside the fold (the access and PIN numbers are on the back) redeemable at local stores. There were 16,000 cards printed initially.

BURGER KING

The second-largest U.S. fast-food chain has used a variety of phonecards to increase traffic at its stores, and several have been greeted with enthusiasm by collectors. In January 1997, Tell-One issued a new black-background card showing a Burger King logo in the corner and featuring a picture of a burger, a soft drink cup with a Coca-Cola logo, and fries with an image from their "Toy Story" co-promotion with Disney, a combination of images powerful enough to earn the card a spot in "America's Most Wanted." The printing totaled 1,000 cards, with network services by TeleDebit. There also were around 24 cards imprinted "Sample."

In March 1995, ITS came up with a Burger King phonecard to be offered in radio promotions in the country's largest markets. The 60 -minute card highlights a "Whopper" sandwich that good enough to eat right off the card, along with the name of the chain and its "Get Your Burger's Worth" slogan. Quantities were not released. ITS came back with 600 five-minute cards in November 1996 featuring a huge Burger King logo on a plain white card. The cards were given to employees supporting the United Way fund-raising campaign in Florida.

Other issuers, of course, have had it their way at Burger King. In Ormond Beach, Fla., when people donated $$ 15$ to the Tomoka Elementary School PTA, they received a gift of a 10 -minute AmeriVox phonecard released in August 1995. It featured the Burger King logo, plus those of Publix Supermarkets, Sun Bank, and Wal-Mart; only 500 cards were

Not to be forgotten are First Union Bank's stored-value Visa Cash two-card sets, released in June 1996. Both cards, 10,000 each of $$ 20$ and $$ 50$ denominations, were released in the Southeast and picture a Whopper, soft drink and fries. The set currently is valued at around $$ 58$.

DAIRY QUEEN  A national headquarters spokeswoman said no nationwide promotions are planned, but noted that the 5,000 local franchisees are free to use the logo in their own advertising and promotional efforts. The best known Dairy Queen cards are the Dennis the Menace and Misty Slush cards noted above, but there are others, too, including another example of a peel-off couponon a TAK Marketing Systems card distributed in California in various denominations.

In October 1995, local stores in Bryan and College Station, Texas sponsored a fund-raising dance marathon at Texas A&M University. All those participating in the dance and a related radio promotion got a five-minute card showing the University, the DQ logo, and the logo of the Children's Miracle Network, which was the beneficiary of the event.

Q Comm Telecard Advantage Interactive issued 500 cards, which also allowed year-long 10 percent discounts to students on food purchased at the local DQ stores. "I see a real future for retail fast-food phonecards, especially those with co-branding elements like this one," says Q-Comm's Bret Bottger.

DUNKIN' DONUTS

The advertising character of dough-nut-baking "Fred" has been seen on various phonecards done for Dunkin' Donuts by now-defunct OmniTel and some of those cards have been consistent visitors to "America's Most Wanted." It remains to be seen whether OmniTel's going out of business will have any significant impact on those card values. Some of the OmniTel Dunkin' Donuts issues are valued as high as $$ 30$.
"We're extremely happy with how the cards have performed for us. The customers like them very much, the fran-

In February 1995, the chain for the first time sponsored the "Beanpot" college hockey tournament - the last such event held at the old Boston Garden. Two cards, "Fred" with a telephone, and "Fred" waving goodbye, were issued by OmniTel ("America's Most Wanted," August and September 1995). Also in early 1995, an employee incentive phonecard was produced by OmniTel. The 15,000 cards show the company's orange and pink logo. Some of the cards also were given away at store grand openings in the Northeastern Region.

Another OmniTel Dunkin' Donuts phonecard was issued in February 1996 to the first 1,000 fans who attended the University of Massachusetts basketball game against Temple. The card shows "Fred" jumping over the U-Mass logo with a tray in his hand ("America's Most Wanted," July 1996). Another 500 of the cards run with that design were later used for corporate purposes. The most recent OmniTel Dunkin' Donuts five-minute card has been given out at more recent store openings. A total of 15,000 cards showing "Fred" holding a chocolatefrosted doughnut were produced.

Breaking away from the Northeast, a Dunkin' Donuts franchisee in Lauderhill, Fla., had Phone Card Management of America in conjunction with GAF Telecommunications, issue a die-cut phonecard in the shape of a chocolate-covered doughnut with time by Cable & Wireless. This rechargeable, sequentially numbered 10 -unit card, die-cut into the shape of a chocolatecovered doughnut, was produced in a quantity of 2,000 .

SUBWAY

Tell-One weighed in with an October 1996 telecard issued for a Northeast Subway franchisee's anniversary. The 1,00010 -minute cards picturing various sandwiches and the sand-

Promo magazine held an exhibition in Chicago in October 1996, gathering together companies offering promotional products and services. At a booth occupied by card printer Rand McNally, there was an advance sample of a "Talk With Your Mouth Full" $$ 5$ card from the SUBWAY chain. This item - which offers a discount at participating locations when purchasing a new card or turning in a used card - shows it was issued by Dynamic Telecom International, utilizing services by the InComm Division of U.S. South. The card expires six months after first use or July 1997.

TACO BELL

At the end of 1994, Taco Bell "crossed the border" into the world of telephone cards. The fast-food Mexican restaurant chain has purchased different cards from a variety of issuers, so collecting them all is a Grapevine Telecards; Taco Bell/FHP Health Care Golf Classic; 10 units; 2,000 issued; February 1996. challenge. GTS ran 250,000 cards for a four-state test-marketing venture for the chain, wherein, if you purchased a certain meal (at stores in Idaho, New Mexico, Oregon or Utah), you could get a paper card (in a special envelope) having five minutes calling time for just 99 cents. An attachment to the card explained what a phonecard was, how to use it, and how it could be recharged through a credit card. The cards were sold out within around two-three months, which would seem to indicate a very successful promotion.

Due to management changes and other factors, nothing further was done in expanding the program.

In February 1996,

ITS; Taco Bell; 15 minutes; 2,500 issued; December 1996. Grapevine Telecards issued a card having the Taco Bell logo: it was done for the FHP Health Care Golf Classic in southern California, an event on the Senior PGA Tour. A local Taco Bell store sponsored the event and helped foster the issuance of the card, which had the T.B. & FHB logos on it. Phone time (which expired February 1997) was supplied by Cable & Wireless. Only 2,000 were done of the 10 -unit card, which was given away to the attendees at the outing; it pictures an eagle (common in the Ojai area where the event was held) holding a golf club and balls.

In December 1996, ITS released a new Taco Bell card. The 15 -minute card was available to workers through an employee catalog - or individual stores could directly purchase them as gifts for workers. This purple- colored card, 2,500 minted, shows the main company logo in the upper right-hand corner, with a sort of new motto in an oval in the center: "Taco Bell / Talkin; about good eats."

A spokeswoman for Taco Bell headquarters stated to me that, while they are "always looking for interesting new promotions, there are no immediate plans to put out a company prepaid [national] telephone card at this time."

WENDY'S

Dave Thomas, the founder of Wendy's, can be seen investigating types of beef and chicken in his TV ads but he's apparently never looked into phonecards. Nobody returned calls from the No. 3 burger chain's Dublin, Ohio headquarters despite numerous requests about possible current or future use of cards.

STS; Wendy's logo; 10 minutes; 265 issued; October 1996.

That doesn't mean that the logo is missing from phonecards, though. A plain-looking but very noticeable - bright yellow with red Wendy's logo - card by network marketing company Strategic Telecom Systems Inc., issued in October 1996. There were 265 of the pri-vate-issue cards made for a Raleigh, N.C. franchisee, each with 10 minutes of time by Zenex. The cards expire in February 1998.

The TAK "Peelex" cards weigh in again with a $10-\mathrm{min}$ ute card on which one of the coupon's features the Wendy's logo for stores at the Thousand Oaks and Newbury Park malls in California. As with all the Peelex cards, if you use the coupon, you lose that logo from the phonecard.

As any collector can see from the past examples, it might seem that the future will see "fast-food" cards coming out fast and furious, but, with easily recognizable logos, it a thematic that is easy to organize and should have enough depth to satisfy even the biggest phonecard appetite.

$\pi$ONEYCARD COLLECTOR'S NUMBERING SYSTEM. After more than two years of preparation, we are poised to bring you the definitive catalog of United States and Canadian moneycards. In a few short months, you will be holding the Moneycard Collector Catalog in your hands.

It's time, therefore, to brush up on the Moneycard Collector numbering system. Readers first read about the numbering system in the August 1996 edition.

What's the copyrighted numbering system all about? A Moneycard Collector Number (MCN) will accompany each new listing, providing instant, specific information about each card. We've studied other systems from around the world and from other hobbies. In fact, we've worked closely with Scott Stamp Publishing, the folks who are responsible for the Scott Stamp Catalog Series and numbering system, used by collectors around the world. Our consultants include stamp and coin cataloguers, the most knowledgeable collectors and dealers in the prepaid collectibles industry and of course, you.

Here's a review of the numbering system:
Cards will be grouped by issuer and each issuer assigned a three-letter abbreviation. Within each issuer's listing, cards will appear in order of release date, thus the first card released by an issuer is the first numbered card, or " 1 ." If a card was produced for another client, as opposed to being sold directly through the issuer or its agents, it will carry a "Pr," for "private issue." Thus, each issuer's listings can have two No. 1 cards - MCN 1 and MCN Prl. (Instead of "MCN," substitute the three-letter designator for the issuer, i.e., "ATT" for AT&T, etc.)

Turn to this month's Moneycard Collector Price Guide for examples. As we complete cataloging each issuer's cards, we add their MCNs to the Price Guide.

The implementation of this numbering system is important to collectors, because it will allow them to get more information about cards very quickly. All the numbers will eventually be used in stories and captions, and in advertisements, allowing our dealer/advertisers to serve you better by being able to convey more information in their ads about your next cards.

The numerical portion of an MCN alludes to its release date - lower numbers are earlier cards. Another letter or combination of letters may follow the numerals. When scanning the columns for a particular card, keep your eyes on the numerical portion of the MCN. Although the letters surrounding the MCN may be different, the numerals remain constant and will guide you quickly to the card you want.

If a card contains an image of an organized, competitive sport, the card will be denoted with a " $S$ " before its number. Certain sporting activities will be given the " S " designation, such as hunting, fishing, archery and other like pursuits. Cards depicting well-known sports figures also will be designated by the Prefix "S." A sportsrelated phonecard commissioned by golf tournament organizers, then, would carry both the " S " and "Pr" labels, i.e., "SPr" before the number.

What about proof, test and specimen cards? Some collectors value proof and specimen cards. If these cards exist, we will provide as much information about them as possible. Regardless of whether quantities are known, we will attempt to confirm the existence of these cards. Inevitably, the most heavily traded proofs and specimens will be valued. However, the lack of a listing for such cards does not confirm or deny their existence.

Cards with identical or nearly identical front images that have been reproduced with different text on either the front or reverse of the card are varieties. Varieties also include subtle color variations and image shifts. These will be denoted by lowercase letters, starting with " a ," which falls after the numerical descriptor (i.e. 123a; 123b; etc.) Card series with identical fronts yet different denominations will be significantly different and will warrant their own number.

Errors are often recalled or destroyed. Those cards will be documented to the best of our ability, and be designated with an " $E$ " after the numerals. We will attempt to note how many cards were made and how many still exist.

Earlier cards that we become aware of after the cataloging of an issuer is done will be placed at the end of the listing and receive an "R" prefix, signaling that the card was not placed in chronological order. This could avoid renumbering hundreds of cards, thus avoiding confusion to the collector.

The most important aspect of our new numbering system and the upcoming catalog remains its accuracy. Industry experts and issuers have been consulted during this process to minimize errors. Our catalog will be more than just a showease for collector cards - we aim to make it a definitive guide. The numbering system should make your collecting not only easier, but more fun.

New competition in the U.K.

London-based dealer Eric Elias reports that many new companies have entered the communications industry in Britain, offering inexpensive calls worldwide to business users. The tourist market has also been targeted by many of these companies. Shops in tourist areas are selling phonecards to tourists who can then phone home at rates much less expensive than those charged by hotels. Elias says that these kinds of cards have become much more prevalent in the last 12 months now that British Telecom is facing more competition.

Telecard's logo. AT&T Canada is the carrier.
A total of 100,000 retail cards $-25,000$ sets of four - were offered at outlets of three different store chains throughout Ontario: Becker's, Mac's and Mike's Mart. Cards sold at each store displayed that store's logo, creating 12 different phonecards. Time on the five-minute cards expires July 31, 1997. The cards could be purchased individually or in sets.

Another 10,000 sequentially numbered cards $-2,500$ sets of four - were made available to collectors after the race. Lucky collectors also could seek cards No. 150 of each sequentially numbered set (150/200 of the Mike's Market cards; 150/1,000 of the Mac's cards; and $150 / 1,300$ of the Becker's cards), which were seeded with the retail cards. The 150th cards could be swapped by May 30 for a solid-silver, autograph-inscribed phonecard. The 150th card of each image was chosen for the hunt because the "fastest man" race was 150 meters.

All the cards, two featuring both runners and one each of Bailey and Johnson, come in pop-up carriers.

A total of 150 silver cards and 15 goldplated cards, all numbered, also were produced, with the first of each being presented to the athletes following the race.

Bailey and Johnson also have signed the pop-up folders for 20 of each card design, for a total of 240 autographed cards.

Card buyers also could try to win $$ 1$ million in a random drawing by using the cards' 800 number to vote on a winner and predict the winning time.

The Bailey-Johnson match was part of a three-hour extravaganza featuring other Olympic-caliber matches. Organizers estimated that 500 to 700 million people in more than 50 countries would watch the event through the CBS and CBC television networks and links.
