KARS-Unlimited Website Update

Due to Computer problems beyond our (limited) knowledge, our website has languished the past few months. But, it is a top priority this summer. Visit us again at:

... SVC & PHONECARD COLLECTOR SHOW INFORMATION CENTER ...

A Phonecard/SVC Section has been established at the 44th Annual Florida United Numismatists (FUN) Show, Jan '99

The FUN Organization has not only agreed to create a section, but to publicize it in their advertising. In addition, MoneyCard Collector will be there in force! They are planning displays, educational seminars and other surprises. As it is a 'local' show for us, KARS is volunteering to be the contact point for Dealers and Collectors. Most Dealers agree that the Trade Shows of the past did not work and setting up at an already established Collector's Show is a good way to establish our Hobby. Since Moneycards are already a branch of Numismatics, a Coin Show seems a natural place for us. The FUN Show is one of the best attended Coin Shows in the US, with over 10,000 attendees in 1998. We need a US Show for gathering and enjoying our hobby. Dealers - consider taking a Booth at the Show (Booths include two tables, chairs, Showcases with locks, electricity and the best Show security at night). Collectors - consider attending. Admission is FREE, the Conv. Center is a modern facility and Orlando is great for a Winter vacation with Disney, Universal Studios & Sea World minutes away.

ON THE MONEY

As the prepaid phonecard market continues to sort itself out with mergers, bankruptcy reorganizations and companies closing their doors, we have seen cards being sold for tiny fractions of the prices they once commanded.

While cards by defunct issuers such as OmniTel, Finish Line and HT Technologies or defunct multi-level marketing companies like Strategic Telecom Systems or Destiny Telecomm no longer have usable phone time, many of their cards offer exciting images and limited mintages still appeal to collectors. Add to that the fact that they are sometimes being sold at bargain-basement prices, and you have a win-win situation for collectors, right?

Well, maybe. When does a good deal become dumping? Is it even possible to "dump" cards from a defunct issuer?

Let's say for the moment that a good deal is a good deal is a good deal.

Those who offer rock-bottom prices for cards with live phone time might argue that they are helping put more cards in circulation, exposing more people to prepaid cards and potentially growing the hobby. Those who cheaply sell cards with unusable phone time could make a similar claim — they are offering collectors an inexpensive chance to expand collections and perhaps fuel new or young collectors' interests with some good buys.

Those are compelling arguments and reasons. We are talking about older cards, and that means that there are a finite number of cards which will never be produced again. Whether 500 were issued, or 1,000 or 5,000, only a certain number of cards will ever be available to collectors.

As the hobby grows and matures, many older cards, especially those with images, themes or logos that already make them desirable, will only increase in value. An HT card with a Coca-Cola logo in the corner might be valued less than it was a few years ago, but could be worth more a few years from now, in a more mature market.

As we have advised since the magazine's inception, collectors should choose a theme or topic that they like, not collect for investment. If you can find a bargain on such a card now, all the better. Don't expect it to skyrocket in value. Realistic expectations and a theme in which you are interested will leave you much more satisfied in the long run.

With that said, there are dangers when discount selling tapdances the fine line with dumping.

Any time that there are customers out there who have paid face value or more for a card, they are likely to feel taken advantage of if they see the same card later being sold for less. Thus sellers must always beware that they risk customers' loyalty as well as possibly damaging their own reputations, if they choose to sell cards at fire-sale prices.

We know dealers who destroy or control their inventory, deliberately passing up chances of releasing too many cards at too cheap a price. This not only protects faithful customers, but it also helps keep the hobby healthy — demand for the cards has a much better chance of exceeding the supply, and that limited attainability stimulates desirability.

No matter where you draw the line between discounting and dumping, such changes in card prices affect the Moneycard Collector Price Guide. Reducing the value of a card isn't a knee-jerk reaction, though. If one dealer drops the price on a card and 10 other dealers do not, then it is unlikely that the Price Guide listing will change by very much, or very quickly.

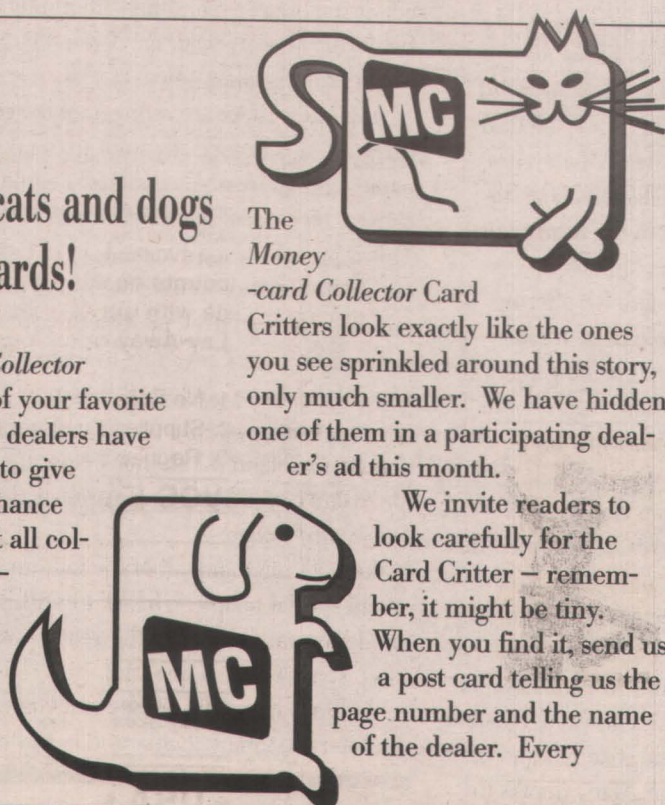

We applaud dealers who are finding innovative ways to get cards in the hands of collectors and help expand this great hobby.

We caution them to remember, though, what lurks in the shadows just beyond discount selling. It's dumping, and we don't want to go there.

It's raining cats and dogs and moneycards!

Moneycard Collector and some of your favorite moneycard dealers have teamed up to give readers a chance for something that all collectors hold dear — free stuff.

In this issue, we are launching our "Card Critter" hunt.

The Money-card Collector Card Critters look exactly like the ones you see sprinkled around this story, only much smaller. We have hidden one of them in a participating dealer's ad this month.

We invite readers to look carefully for the Card Critter — remember, it might be tiny. When you find it, send us a post card telling us the page number and the name of the dealer. Every month, we will have a drawing, and pick one lucky winner. We will present that collector with a $25 certificate, good toward any purchase from the dealer in whose ad the Card Critter appeared.

The deadline for entries in each month's contest will be the fifth day of the following month. For example, the deadline for this month's contest will be Aug. 5.

There are Card Critters in them thar advertisements! Let the hunt begin!

GUEST COMMENTARY

T rue collectors of any fashion always have been and always will have the final say in the evolution of any particular hobby. It is the collector with the love and passion of a particular field that endures all the growing pains that virtually every hobby encounters.

Such is true of the phonecard and moneycard collector. This still-young hobby has had its share of joy as well as tribulation and ultimately the ones still involved steadfastly are those who have an enduring love for the hobby.

It is with these collectors in mind that the formation of the Alpha PhoneCard Club came into being. The philosophy of the club is simple and incorporated into the member application form: All members agree to treat fellow members with respect and ethic in all matters and to enjoy the hobby of collecting phonecards.

One of the key components for success in a club is ethical members that truly enjoy the hobby. Notwithstanding the club does have its own duties to provide to collectors and we will discuss that in a moment. Any club must have involvement to survive and it is my wish that collectors will do the things necessary to make this "History in the Making" for not only the Alpha PhoneCard Club, but for the hobby as a whole. Working together we can accomplish much to the betterment of the hobby that many of us hold near and dear to our hearts.

The benefits of a charter membership include, but are not limited to:

1) A charter membership phonecard with paid individual or two membership phonecards with paid Family. (Phonecard depicts early phonecall stamp from the country of France era 1909, no expiration date, issued by USACard, and will be limited to a minimum of 100 cards issued for charter members only!)

- 2) The Alpha PhoneCard Club Newsletter;
- 3) Special discounts on phonecards and related material;
- 4) The opportunity to purchase phonecards which the club may issue to commemorate events or occasions; and
- 5) Other special benefits to members.

Those special benefits include, for charter members, a free collectible Santa phonecard in addition to the charter membership phonecard. There is also a free classified "trading post" on the Internet for members to trade phonecards at <http://members.aol.com/AlphaClub/trade.html>

Another added benefit for Alpha PhoneCard Club members is a discounted subscription to Moneycard Collector. Members of the club can subscribe to the publication for $17.95 a year for 12 issues, existing subscribers who are members of the club can renew or extend their subscription at the discounted rate as well. That's a savings of $2 off the normal annual subscription rate

It's simple to join. If you are on the Internet, you can stop by the home page at <http://members.aol.com/AlphaClub/main.html> and view the membership phonecard as well as information on the club and a link to the application information page. Any questions or comments can be directed to the club's e-mail address at AlphaClub@aol.com.

If you do not have access to the Internet you can write to the Alpha PhoneCard Club, PO Box 551-Alpha, Augusta, KS, 67010 USA and an application along with club information will be mailed out to you. You can also request a membership application form be faxed directly to you by contacting us at (316) 775-3060. Membership dues are $20 for Individuals in the U.S. and $36 for family in the U.S. Foreign dues are $26 for individuals and $42 for family.

Club founder Terry Windholz is the owner of TW Phonecards in Augusta, Kan.

Update On JR's Telecards

Since I had a fire in September 1997, I have had many people call or e-mail asking what I planned to do now. Most everyone wants to know whether I will start selling again. The answer is no. I plan to keep collecting as I do love this hobby. My main themes are Coca-Cola and AT&T Teletickets. There was a great article in the March issue of Moneycard Collector by Art Becker on Teletickets. Collectors, take his advice on the Teletickets as I believe that in the future they will be part of the corner stone of this great hobby.

There are so many people I want to thank for offering assistance after the fire, but it is impossible to mention everyone. But at least I want to mention a few. Moneycard Collector for calling and offering any assistance they could provide. I was so happy when I got that call from Tom Williams and others at Moneycard who offered to help.

Some others I want to mention are Alan and Robyn Oxfeld from New Jersey for the many cards he sent me. Alan and Robyn were former buyers from me and I have to say that they are two of the most astute collectors in this hobby. We have become good friends. Alan and I much the same, we are both "packrats." Theresa of ValleyCards in Pennsylvania is a jewel and a great friend. Thanks to Lisa Maya of Trescom for the gift. Also KARS Unlimited for their great gift and the card from KARS that Ray Ellen Gillis sent. Many thanks to Ed Dunnivan, Grapevine Telecards for his generous offer to help. There are so many others I will have to contact as the editor might get tired of my "rambling on." Christina of California please e-mail me if you see this. My e-mail address is jackcard@groupz.net.

You know there are some great collectors out there and there are two I especially want to thank but I have lost their names and address. A wonderful couple from Pennsylvania or New Jersey sent me a four card set of Friends-Diet Coke. This is one of my most valued set of Coke cards. I took them out of the envelope immediately and put them in my collection and put the envelope with their name and address on my computer desk meaning to write a thank you but somehow the envelope got lost. If they read this please write me again as I have something special for them. I feel so thankful and yet unable to thank them. Now, these are wonderful people. Didn't even know me, just read about my fire in Moneycard Collector.

Last, let me thank all of the faithful customers I had. They are all special people, GREAT PEOPLE!! Also, all the collectors I have talked to over the years, it was a pleasure even it was just answering a question.

As I said I love this hobby and you might just catch me on the Internet. Many thanks and happy collecting to all.

Jack B. Ritchie, Aiken, SC

PROMOS & OFFERS

Here's an offer that strikes close to home! New subscribers can get a free 5-minute phonecard for subscribing to Moneycard Collector. The offer is repeated periodically in Coin World. There are 2,000 of the Ameritech 5-minute cards, issued in May 1996.

Sears is holding a contest called the "Sears Take Your Best Shot Window Contest." All entrants will receive a prepaid phonecard, but it appears that entrants must be homeowners. The winner of the contest will receive replacement windows for their home. To enter, call (800) 827-6611. The operator will ask for your telephone number, name, address and if you would like to have a home visit for an estimate. There is no obligation, other than the home ownership requirement. The ending date of promotion is unknown.

It seems a little inappropriate that you have to have purchase a whole house to get a free phonecard, one correspondent notes.

Here are some other offers that have been found on the web, in stores or in fliers:

- Fifteen-minute phonecards can be found in specially marked boxes of Expert Software at Sam's Clubs.

- On packages of Liz Claiborne socks three-packs, there's a phonecard attached. It's a 5-minute card with time by Frontier, is lime green, and has the Liz Claiborne logo on it.

- Seen in Advertising Age magazine: Rogaine is going to be packaging 50,000 phone cards with their products this summer. Already seen at Fedco is a free 10-minute Karl Malone phonecard inside package of Rogaine Extra Strength for men.

- Does NASCAR racing get your wheels spinning? Participants in a new Clickin survey called "Start Your Engines" will receive 10-minute phonecards for filling out a brief e-mail survey. You can find the site at <http://www.clickin.com/survey/survey86.cfm>.

- Inside of specially marked packages of Panasonic Plus Alkaline batteries is a 10-minute Sprint phonecard.

- Another ATM contest (similar to Coke's). This one is by Coor's Lite beer. On specially marked boxes of 12, you get an ATM game card. You have to call in to see if you win a real Coor's ATM card. The game piece looks like an ATM card, laminated paper plastic with a special number on it. Seen at Rite Aid.

- From the insert of a Bell Atlantic phone bill. "Order a limited-edition $15 Bell Atlantic Prepaid Calling Card and you'll receive $3 in Burger King gift certificates, while supplies last. Besides a Burger King meal, you'll get the convenience of calling from anywhere within the United States, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands to virtually anywhere in the world. Anytime. From any phone."

One correspondent found out that the cost per minute is 25 cents. The shipping charge for one card is $3.95. The shipping charge is a flat $4.95 for orders of 2 or more. That correspondent was offered a disposable 15-shot camera for her order of three cards. To place an order call (800) 696-3990. The card has photos of a young man, fries and whopper, and a young lady. It also has the Bell Atlantic logo.

- On specially marked boxes there is a mail-in-certificate that says: "Free Sprint calling card prepaid 10 minutes when you buy one box of Nature Valley Oats 'N Honey Granola Bars (28 count)." You need one UPC, a cash register receipt, and mail-in certificate. Offer expires Dec. 31, 1998, and is limited to one card per family per address. The offer was seen at Costco/Price Club.

- Go to <http://www.vw.com/brochure/>. Click on brochures at the bottom of the page and request info about the new VW Beetle for a 60-minute phonecard! A different web site address was given for this elsewhere, but one correspondent was unable to access that other site.

- Here's another Best Buy CD/Phonecard offer. Purchase a Hanson CD and receive a free 10-minute card. There are 30 per store.

Updates and additional information on other offers:

- The form for the new Ore-Ida phonecard is found inside packages of Ore-Ida and the offer doesn't start until July 1 (and expires Feb. 15, 1999).

Required for each 20-minute phonecard are three UPCs from mashed potatoes, twice-baked potatoes, french fries or hash browns. There is a limit of two cards per address and the original form is required.

- On Manhattan's Upper West Side, some of the same folks who are trying out stored-value cards were handing out phone time, too. You could go into a Citibank branch and get a 15-minute phonecard just for asking about their checking accounts. No forms to fill out - neat. The New York-only offer may have ended.

- There is an on-package offer on Marcal napkins, not toilet paper. The phonecard offer requires three telephone symbols, the cash register receipt and the form.

- Keep your eyes peeled, here's one that got away: Colgate-Palmolive had an in-store promotion for Mother's Day phonecards. Customers who purchased two of their products could receive a 20-minute calling card. Colgate says the promotion has expired and the company is unable to extend the offer.

GETTING STARTED

This month we continue our examination of different kinds of magnetic stripe cards in use around the world, and we'll also look at ways to use the Internet to more fully enjoy your moneycard collecting hobby.

Last month, we discussed remote memory cards — the most common kind of prepaid phonecard in the United States — as well as chip cards and some common magnetic stripe systems. As collectors venture out into the great big world of moneycard collecting (and it is a worldwide hobby!), it is good to know about some of the other types of cards out there.

This overview of stored value prepaid telecards shows the diversity of various companies' approaches to the challenge of storing value within a small, thin card. The solutions have been truly ingenious and will continue to be refined over time. Feel free to use all the words you have learn here to impress your friends.

More card types

A. Magstripe Cards by Bell Alcatel. One of the first, the Alcatel system is a low-cost system. The cards have a large magnetic stripe across the reverse like our credit cards. The main users are Hong Kong and South Korea. It was also used in Saudi Arabia for a while and in Lithuania. About 28 countries have used the Alcatel system. It is usually displaced by other more secure systems as a country progresses.

B. Turkish Magnetic System. These Bell Alcatel cards have stripes at both the top and bottom. One stripe is only a covering for a bar code. The other stripe is the location of the actual magnetic coding. When this low-security card reaches zero, the machine captures the card, and it is sent back to the telecom for reloading. Others have learned how to reload it too, so it will soon be replaced. Designs are very pictorial but not of high quality. Because the cards are captured, all cards are either "Mint" or have some units left on them. About 10 countries have used these cards at one time or another.

C. Brazilian Inductive System. Wholly developed within Brazil, these not-so-flat cards have silvered backs and are of medium to low security. They are now fully deployed throughout the country, and, after a late start, are widely used. The designs are imaginative, there are several printers to collect, and there are a large number of collectors active within Brazil.

To date, no other country is using the system. There are catalogs and many active traders within the country.

D. Telkor. A South African payphone manufacturer made a system with a card with a narrow magnetic strip across the card. After sanctions were lifted Telkom South Africa selected another system. The cards are scarce.

E. De La Rue. The user was Denmark, and this was a very successful partnership. De La Rue supplied all four regional Telecoms and the TeleDanmark countrywide system. Many nice designs come from Denmark.

F. Minor systems. Belmont College in Nashville was the site of a Bell South test program using a reader made by Protel. The magnetic strip was very narrow. These cards have become very scarce.

Internet roadmap

The highway to the Internet is really simple. Because of extensive links, if you get on the "Telecard circuit" at any point you can follow links through the whole world of telecards and miss little. Sure there are locations not linked at all to most of the sites, but that's what the search engines are for.

To begin, go to <<http://www.card-mall.com>>. You will find a multifunction site ably run by Alan Cohen. There are hundreds of dealers available there. There is also a multitude of sites for collectors and traders. One of the newest features is a Want List site for those cards you've been looking for. While at Alan's site, sign up for Phoncards On-Line (POL), a weekly newsletter, and phonecardcentral, one of the three ListServes on phonecards. ListServes are great! The info comes to you; you don't have to go searching. And sign for some of the dealers' price lists too.

From there you can go to Collector-Link and use their powerful search engine to find just what you want. Collector-Link is a little hard to find from CardMall, so you may wish to go there direct <<http://www.collector-link>>.

After thoroughly investigating the search capabilities, type in Moneycard Collector. Collector-Link will find it for you in a few seconds, and you will be whisked to it in a flash. Or just go direct: <<http://www.money-card.com>>. There you will be able to flame the editor! Or even accomplish something like writing a letter to the editor! Or entering your complimentary Trading Post Ad! There is lots there, so don't fail to look.

Next go back to CardMall. (that's what your "back" button is used for!)

Visit some different sites until you find at the bottom a rectangle that invites you to visit the telecard ring. A good place to find the rectangle is on my site. Just find me on CardMall and go to the bottom of the page.

This is a giant ring or circle (literally!) that takes you from site to site all the way around the world visiting many collector's sites and also many dealers and traders. Feel free to take copious notes or you will not remember how to return to interesting sites. The ring will finally end up back at where you began!

There are two more ListServes to sign up for: One is a list originated by Ivan White, now operated by Thomas Hunt of SLSC. Just make an e-mail that says, "subscribe money-cards" and send it to majordomo@listserv.net.

Next there is an international ListServe based in Finland. Sign up for this one too. It is fascinating and you will meet some of the most advanced collectors. Just say "Subscribe Phonecard-Collectors" and send it to listserv@listserv.funet.fi This a computer and if it hiccups you will get an error message. Just keep trying and if you still can't please the machine, give me an e-mail and I will give you a human address for someone who will manually "install" you.

Next, consider joining a newsgroup: rec.collecting.phonecards. Your ISP will fix you up with this one. Give them a call. If you don't have an ISP then read up about newsgroups in your installation package. Be prepared for spam on the site though. You just have to wade through and read only the messages that you want.

I've covered most of the free internet services. In addition there is a very active group of phonecarders on AOL and Compuserve. Both of these services offer one month free service and both are between $10 and $20 a month thereafter. If you wish the address of the AOL sites, contact Gingerwho@aol.com. If you want information on CompuServe's Forum, contact Telequest@CompuServe.com. You will find the forum site on CompuServe one of the most advanced sites within CompuServe, with many state-of-the-art features; certainly it is the "grand old master" of the hobby on the Internet.

Be sure as you slip and slide through the Internet (I have a slow computer), that you read all the FAQ (Frequently Asked Questions) pages you find. That is an easy way to increase your knowledge of telecards. And please order Dr. Steve Hiscocks' collector handbook. It will become your desktop encyclopedia, referred to continuously. It's sign off time: I'm seyer@midwest.net

Alluring Arches

Like the restaurant chain, cards have enduring appeal

by Nancy Blackburn

When Mom goes from work to school, and Dad's trying to figure out a quick, inexpensive meal as the kids clamor for dinner, it's time to head straight to McDonald's for hamburgers. Collectors, though, are searching for more than "two all-beef patties special sauce lettuce cheese pickles onions on a sesame seed bun" — they want it with a McDonald's phonecard.

And right now collectors are getting the "break they deserve." Last year's market stabilization saw an end to skyrocketing prices and classics such as McDonald's are readily available to collectors at affordable prices. Coupled with this year's bankruptcy of Scoreboard, official producer of McDonald's phonecards, value meal feasting is on the table. Let's look over our menu selection and see what's available.

The Score Board Inc.; Happy Meal Guys three-card set; $25 denomination; 856 issued; May 1996.

Collectors can choose among a variety of phonecards: the now-bankrupt corporate-licensed Scoreboard cards; regional promotions offered locally, such as the renowned AT&T TeleTicket; Ronald McDonald Houses' benefits, such as the sets produced by Frank & Sons; foreign issues, such as the Premier Telecom's Homburg and Pirmasens' Germany (PRM Pr21,22) issue that features the golden-arched "M's"; the Strategic Telecom System's Hawaiian Telechips (STS 167-72); as well as miscellaneous cards where McDonald's just happens to be showing in the background.

The first U.S. McDonald's phonecard appeared April 1993 in 11 cities. Although it failed as a promotion, it remains a pure and simple classic for collectors. Market tested as give-aways in Value Meals, the 3-unit, AT&T TeleTickets (ATT Pr16) did increase sales, but caused so many other problems that nine of the 11 cities discontinued the promotion half way through the three-month project.

People asking questions about the cards held up food lines at McDonald's — a definite no, no! And when large numbers of teen-agers reportedly misused the AT&T "Help" line to make rude remarks, the promotion ended quickly.

TeleTicket figures uncertain

Although 4.5 million TeleTickets were scheduled to be released, final figures are uncertain as it is not known how many cards were destroyed. Dealers, however, agree their value has held steady at about $100 or more, if Mint, sealed. Dealer Betty Houghtaling explains that there were a lot given away, but supplies were meager in the United States as quite a few originally went to the German market. "These cards," according to her, "are classy, and I would never sell them for a low price."

In a hobby where value often depends on "official" or "authorized" releases, McDonald's cards are in a category of their own. Dealers have not seen a difference in value between "corporate McDonald" releases and regional or Ronald McDonald House phonecards.

First of all, while corporate McDonald's keeps legendary control over its franchisees to ensure a strict standard of operation that produces uniformly high-quality fast foods, local owners are given an unusually free hand to develop their own advertisements and promotions.

The Operators National Advertising Cooperative (OPNAD), formed by local operators in 1966 and supported by 1 percent of individual restaurant sales, allows advertising to be developed at the local level, while taking advantage of corporate clout for national promotional advertising. Not only can local operators reject corporate promotions, but local co-ops have developed promotions that get picked up by McDonald's Corp. for national production.

Dealer Ernie Rose feels: "True McDonald collectors see no differences between corporate, regional, or Ronald McDonald House. My collectors like them all, and I see no differences in collectibility or price." When Jim Chudnow of Chicago painstakingly researched McDonald's phonecard releases, he found that regional releases meant availability was limited to particular areas and that "collecting opportunities often depended on your own network."

From very early days, McDonald's targeted charitable and community involvement as projecting the right image. However, local operators became very personally involved in supporting community activities, and this grass-roots feeling was strongly encouraged by the corporation. As a result, the first Ronald McDonald House opened in 1974 in Philadelphia; now local franchisees sponsor more than 160 Houses in 12 countries.

Frank & Sons' cards

In November 1994, Frank Zamarripa, a McDonald's memorabilia collector in Southern California, issued a set of phonecards to raise money for nearby Ronald McDonald Houses. He later commented, "The first set did not even sell out ... but suddenly it took off and people were calling and offering me $500 a set." Now known as Frank & Son I (AVXPr397-400), this set started a trend and several charity sets were issued as prices spiraled. Jim Chudnow feels that Frank & Son I and II are extremely desirable sets "as not only are they numbered, but the small quantity makes them a rare find."

Oftentimes collectors say they like Ronald McDonald phonecards because they are fun to look at. Besides Ronald's wild antics, there is Hamburglar, Fry Guys, Grimace and Birdie engaging in fun activities. Sprint's popular Pearl Ridge Puzzle (SPR Pr223-26) shows the crew sightseeing in Hawaii. Ronald's wild golf swing makes a hole-in-one on the 19th hole for the Ron Fraser/McDonald golf tournament fund-raiser (PMA Pr5, 6). Premier's 12th Annual For Good Times Golf & Tennis Tournament (PRM SPr33-36) shows the group whacking a hamburger over a golden arch net.

And for the "just plain cute" award, the Happy Meal die cuts of hamburger, fries and shakes, issued by Score Board in July 1996, win hands down. Even people who didn't like Score Board in general, smile at these $25 collector cards (SBI S1015-17). Although the set dipped from its high of $225, it is available for $150 to $175.

During 1995 and 1996, Hawaiian collectors saw a concentration of McDonald's releases. Phonecards Hawaii produced two phonecards for the McDonald's located in the Ala Moana Shopping Center (PCH 7, 9). Featuring the Ilima lei and Plumeria lei, they were released in July and December 1995.

The Ilima lei card sold out in less than an hour, and 1,000 of the Plumeria cards were sold the first day. Over the next year, nine cards were released (PCH 11-13,15-20); many of the still-popular cards featured the surrealistic undersea artwork of Apollo, with the famous golden arches in the card's corner.

Beside the already mentioned Sprint Pearl Ridge Puzzle, McDonald's cards were issued in Hawaii by North American Telephone (NAT), MCI and Vision Art. NAT produced 1,500 colorful cards for the Hawaii Pacific National Collectible and Sports Card Expo in April 1995 (NAT 52). A jumbo McDonald's Hawaii card, co-branded with Coke, was issued by World Telecom Inc/MCI (MCI Pr54J) in 1996, but only 18 jumbo cards were produced, along with 500 regular-sized cards. And Vision Art is believed to have only issued a few cards, one of which shows Hawaii's First McDonald's (VSA Pr1).

STS TeleChips

A unique collectible is Strategic Telecom System's six-piece TeleChip series, issued October 1996 (STS 167-72). Featuring Hamburglar, Birdie the Early Bird, Grimace and Ronald, they were created as a fund-raiser for Ronald McDonald House of Hawaii; only 1,500 sets were produced, along with 50 proof sets. Jim Chudnow explains the difference between the standard and proof sets is found on the chips' edges. The standard issue says, "Strategic AmeriVox; Frank & Son's I four-card set; 5 minutes; 500 issued; November 1994.

Telecom Systems Supports McDonald's Children's Charities," while the proof set reads, "Proof Ronald McDonald House 1996."

For a huge selection of McDonald images at rock-bottom prices, collectors need to look at the multitudinous variety of cards and sets that were produced by The Score Board Inc. There are 1950s and 1960s nostalgia photos, billboards, Golden Arches in gold foil, cels of McD characters, and a set of the racing team.

At the other end of the Score Board spectrum, according to Sears' Steve Schwartz, the one set to get is the 17th National Sports National set that was commissioned by B & B Collectibles (SBI S1202-11, S1212-21).

The $25 cards were available in gold or silver, but because they were single "redemption" cards, very few sets of matched numbers were put together - 100 sets of gold and 150 of silver; the whole set can run about $800.

What McDonald's phonecards treats can we expect to taste in the future? December 1997 saw "Did Somebody Say McDonald's for Breakfast?" produced by Cable and Wireless and available with a breakfast meal at some restaurants. However, according to Jim Chudnow, McDonald's told him, "We do not ever talk about our promotions until we are ready to roll them out. So, if we knew anything, we wouldn't tell you anyway."

Even more recently, the first Brazilian cards featuring McDonald's images was released - a four-card set promoting new McDonald's dessert treats. There were 10,000 each of the 20-unit cards issued in January 1998 ("New Issues," May 1998).

Collectors, ever on the lookout, are sure to find any new tasty phonecard morsels from McDonald's, and we'll all enjoy the treat - right along with our "two all-beef patties special sauce lettuce cheese pickles onions on a sesame seed bun" - and that will be with a phonecard, please!

BRAND NEWS

Enjoy a soda while you clean your carpet and listen to music! These are just three themes that popped up on promotional phonecards recently.

Just when you think you've seen it all from Phonecard Express (last month we showed you their die-cut soda can cards), they manage to top themselves this month with a gorgeous die-cut phonecard/keychain that looks like a bottle of Surge soda!

The card has 10 minutes of time with an exposed PIN. One-thousand were issued for Coca-Cola for use in "Man on the Street" promotions. They were given out in stores and grand openings in and around the Albany,

N.Y., area in May. As usual you won't find many, if any, dealers with this card or most other Phonecard Express cards.

If you're in the market for new carpet, you might be lucky enough to receive a 10-minute Dupont Stainmaster carpet card from your local carpet store.

iTELSA issued 2,500 of these to various retailers to help launch a new product.

Phonecard Express; Surge; 10 minutes; quantity unavailable; May 1998.

iTELSA; DuPont Stainmaster; 10 minutes; 2,500 issued; 1998.

Cable & Wireless; Microsoft-Computer City; 10 minutes; 10,000 issued; April 1998.

Customers who visited stores became eligible to receive a card.

If you're in the market for new computer software, you might have been lucky enough to get one of the 10,000 Cable & Wireless cards issued on behalf of ComputerCity. The 10-minute cards were handed out to customers to promote Microsoft Windows '98 sales. The front of the card features a picture of the software box, the launch date of June 25 and the ComputerCity name. The cards were issued in April 1998.

Also from iTELSA are two cards which were issued for Kohl's Department stores and were cobranded with Hallmark. The first one has 10 minutes of time and features roses on it. This card was issued for Valentine's Day. The second card has pansies on it and was issued for Mother's Day. The promotion ran in 187 stores and covered 14 states. Customers who purchased $10 worth of Hallmark cards received one of the phonecards for free. According to my sources, both holiday promotions have been a tremendous success.

If it's music you're into, then here's a four-card set promoting one of the hottest singing groups in the US. Boyz II Men is featured on a set of phonecards that was issued by US South. Quantity is unknown but most of the sets went directly to Motown Records. Each card has 10 minutes of time with exposed PINs. A very small quantity of sets was made available to dealers.

World's First Set of Beatles Phone Cards

The "Hard Days Night" Collection

These RARE "Never Before Published" photos of the Beatles are now the world's first set of phone cards bearing the images of the Fab 4.

The shots were taken in December of 1964, behind the Futurist Theater. The Limo Driver, Alf Bicknell, would position the "Lim," as he refers to it, between buildings to give the boys a chance to enter the building for their next performance without being mobbed by fans.

The "Hard Days Night" Collection comes with Fab 4 minutes on each card. Every set is numbered and there will only be 10,000 sets sold worldwide. These photos will never be used again on Phone Cards. A frameable story behind the images is included with each set.

Welcome to Hot Cards. This list represents the most heavily sold and traded cards within the last month. Due to the size of the Price Guide, it is often very time-consuming for readers to make their way through the listings in a short amount of time. We created HOT CARDS to provide you trends information quickly, accurately and concisely. Prices reflected on this page are dealer asking/selling prices for only this month.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that — a guide.

*BellSouth states that a grand total of 80M cards were produced for the trial, but the exact number of each denomination is not know. All remaining unsold cards were withdrawn in May 1995 and destroyed in October 1995. Most dealers estimate that approximately 15,000 of each card were actually issued, but the actual number may even be lower than that.

Precis unveils "Sox Legends"

Not only were the Minnie Minoso moneycards launched in May, the ballplayer was on hand at Chicago's Comiskey Park to autograph the first 100 cards purchased from a designated vending machine. The second card in the series, due in July, features legendary ChiSox second baseman Nellie Fox. A stored-value card featuring Bill Melton is due later this summer, and cards of Al Smith and Billy Pierce are planned for the 1999 season. Fans may use the cards for concessions and souvenirs. Call (405) 752-5550.

BDM International Collectibles/ Global Communications Network; Acme Packers four-card set; 145 minutes total; 10,000 sets issued; February 1998.

Two sets of cards help continue the legacy of the legendary Green Bay football franchise. The more recent cards chronicle key Green Bay games of the latest football season. The other set, issued last October, was a four-card set featuring the pre-NFL Acme Packers of 1919 in 5-, 20-, 40- and 80-minute denominations. The cards include a picture of Curly Lambeau, action shots and a team pose. Time on all the cards is carried by GCN. Call (920) 339-0060.

Another new chip from U S WEST is the Interoperability card. This sequentially numbered 2,500 minted chip was released to commemorate and promote the fact that these U S WEST cards are now accepted in GTE card phones and vice versa. The only difference between the cards is the wording on the front, "GTE and U S WEST" or "U S WEST and GTE," depending on the issuer, and the logos of both companies on the back of the cards, also flip-flopped depending on the issuer. Call (800) 739-3339.

Bell Canada's tour de force

A variety of designs issued over the last several months shows that the folks at Bell Canada know how to create appealing phonecards, whether the goal is retail, promotional or collectible. Even more recent releases (not pictured here) include the next two in the issuer's horoscope series, Cancer and Gemini, and many others. Look for more information about those cards and others in upcoming "Oh Canada" columns.

Bell Canada spokesman Ted Elias says that one sign of increased interest is that visitors to the company's website, <www.bell.ca/club> has increased by 32 percent from January and June.

Elias clarified information on card availability that was reported in June's "Oh Canada" column. He reports that only the "Zoom" card is actually sold out. Two other cards, the BA Custom card and the Phoenix Concert Theatre card, had experienced some distribution problems at the time the card flier was issued, but are available.

He also noted that Darnell Stamps & Coins, which has taken over operation of the Bell Collector Club, was incorrectly credited with Bell's Payphone Payday contest, which ended in June and encouraged customers to send in used cards for a chance to win a variety of prizes. Bell coordinated that program, and Elias says information that used cards will be turned into junior-collector kits is premature - no decision has been finalized as to the fate of those cards.

SHOWSTOPPERS

The Intele-Card News Expo '98, "The Global Future of Prepaid," held at the Fountainbleu Hotel in Miami Beach May 27-29 showcased vendors from what appears to be a very healthy industry. In what has become a trend, the show was not designed as a phonecard show, but more as a telecommunications show for the phonecard industry.

There were no phonecard dealers among the vendors set up at the show, although there some were there as visitors walking the show floor. The types of companies setting up were offering low-priced utility cards, high-volume minutes for issuers, plastics manufacturers, and phone card vending machine companies.

There were 10 different show cards to be voted upon for the best card of the show. One of the reasons why show cards are a great idea is that the companies that produce these cards are trying their best to showcase the kind of quality work they. These cards go to potential customers, and when it comes to marketing, we all try and put our best foot forward. In my opinion, over the years, show cards have been among the most unique telecards making up the collection.

Caulastics' two-card numbered set doubled as recipes for popular drinks.

tors market.

The Continental Plastics entry was a three-card, oval-shaped, matched serial-numbered set with folder. There were only 100 sets made and the cards have different flowers on them. The folders are green with green ink and are cut into leaves and the leaves fold over each other and hold the card in the folder.

Caulastics offered the most unusual set of the show. This is a two-card matched numbered die-cut set with only a mintage of 250. Both cards have the rounded die-cut shape of a glass at the bottom of the card, and the top has the rounded top of the glass and a half of the orange. Recipes of the two drinks, a Strawberry Daiquiri and a Zombie, appear on their respective cards.

Here are some of the other cards we found:

Worldwide Digital. This is a 5-minute jumbo card with a mintage of 500. Dolphins in the ocean grace the front with buildings behind them on the right side of the card, with the show information on the left.

Galaxy. This is the same artwork, other than the show information at the bottom of the card, used at the previous Miami show, and highlights the Galaxy man on the beach talking on the phone under an umbrella under a palm tree. Mintage is unknown.

Capital Communications Group. The issuer was the winner of last year's International Card of Year for its AIDS card. This year's 5-minute card has a picture of that card on it with the show info on a white background with a mintage of only 250.

iTELSA. A globe-, key pad-and-flags design is on the 5-minute card, 5,000 issued, by the Florida-based issuer.

Quest. This card shows a nighttime view of the art deco district with some palm trees with a mintage of 600. As it has a magnetic strip, the cards were activated when I purchased them at the show.

Jericho. This former first-place winning company has produced a colorful card that has a large green and orange monster conquering the hotel where the show took place. There were 500 5-minute cards issued.

U.S. South. A golfer in mid-swing with palm trees behind him and an orange sky with different Miami scenes highlights this card, which appears in a dark caricature format. Mintage is unknown.

Plastag. A colorful orange background with the words MIAMI in bright red letters highlight this 10-unit card, which also has a cartoon like swordfish jumping from the water. Mintage is unknown.

Lenny Rapp

The author is a phonecard dealer in Lauderhill, Fla.

Continental Plastics won the People's Choice award with this three-card set.

Worldwide Digital issued this jumbo featuring dolphins

Among the other show cards were, clockwise from bottom, Plastag's MIAMI card, Jericho's building-munching monster, Capital Communication's AIDS-related card and U.S. South's golfer.

THE SCOOP ON CHIPS

Cards, cards, everywhere! As I wandered the floor at the CardTech/SecurTech Conference in Washington, D.C., I was able to collect 40 different smart cards. I am sure even more were available.

Some that I picked up were only mechanical samples, that is, there wasn't a chip behind the contacts. How many of the cards were collectible strictly as show cards – that is, they had the name of the conference, the date the card was issued, and the number of cards that were issued printed on the card? Would you believe none?

Several had the name of the conference and the date, but none had the amount of cards that were issued anywhere on the card. In the European style of collecting, those last two items are important. I am not saying that these cards were not fun getting and that I won't save them; rather, I am issuing a plea to our smart card colleagues in North America to emulate the European issuers and always date the card and state the number of cards issued. Many of the bank cards and telephone cards issued in North America already are doing this; they recognize the importance of the collector.

CardTech is the world's premier smart card show. This year, more than 9,000 attendees could choose from 200 presentations and seminars and could see the wares of 310 smart card related companies in 828 exhibition booths. In the last issue of Moneycard Collector, Michael McGrath wrote an excellent overview of the conference ("Showstoppers," June). In this column, I will expand on my experiences as I both explored and worked on the exhibition floor.

I found six cards that specifically mentioned CardTech on the card. There may have been others. Two of the cards were illustrated in last month's issue (Moneycard Collector, June). These were the official conference card, a combination contact and contactless card produced by Giesecke and Devrient, and the Gemplus conference card. Additional cards were from Diebold, Mellon Bank, Smart Dynamics and Sempac.

The Diebold card featured a piano keyboard whimsically flowing on the card; it echoed the conference theme, a "Symphony of Solutions." The Smart Martini card from Smart Dynamics was one of the most creative cards at the conference. It featured a full-length bar and was demonstrating loyalty applications. The card produced jointly by SEMPAC SA, Switzerland, and Kaba Security AG, Switzerland, was a contactless card containing the Legic chip. It featured old time lunchboxes dominated by an old-time baseball scene. Six hundred were produced for the conference.

At least three truly collectible cards were available at the conference. Two of the cards were telephone chip cards promoting the Global Chipcard Alliance. The card produced by G&D (Moneycard Collector, June) for GTE was issued April 1998 in a quantity of 5,000 with a value of $1. To promote interoperability of chipcards between U S WEST and GTE chip phones, a complimentary $1 card was issued in April 1998 in a quantity of 2,500 cards by each company. The difference between the two cards is which company is mentioned first. The front of this card shows both companies' telephones and illustrates that the same card can be used in either phone.

The other collectible card that I was able to obtain was a Nations - Bank Visa Cash Card. By putting a $10 bill in a Schlumberger DANYL Card Dispensing Machine, I was able to purchase the "Hamilton Card," first issued in June 1997 in a quantity of 4,000 cards.

Schlumberger produced the card. From a collector's viewpoint, the most interesting booth that I visited was that of Technology @ Work, Jacksonville, Fla. Technology @ Work was demonstrating its "event" software and smart cards. I was able to obtain a card used at the Phoenix Open golf tournament, held in Scottsdale, Ariz., from Jan. 19 through Jan. 25, 1998. Steve Jones, the 1997 champion, is featured on the card, along with Bank of America, the sponsor of the tournament. Twenty thousand of these cards were produced.

What makes Technology @ Work so interesting is that they have produced 20 different collectible cards for 15 events since April 1997 – and more are coming. These major event cards have been issued in quantities from 1,600 cards to 43,000 cards. Look for more on these cards in my next column!

Precis Smart Card Systems, Oklahoma City, Okla., displayed the Chicago White Sox "legends" cards that were mentioned in the May issue of this column. Seeing them certainly made me want to add them to my personal collection. Smart Dynamics, Arlington, Va., featured the "Smart Martini" Card to illustrate its new loyalty program. The cards were sent out in advance. By bringing them to the booth, an interesting prize could be obtained.

Since this was CardTech, most of the smart card manufacturers were present. I collected 15 different cards from nine different smart card producers. Let me review them briefly, in alphabetical order.

American Microdevice Manufacturing Inc. (AMMI), San Jose, Calif., introduced its new card operating system, AMOS, on an ATMEL flash memory microprocessor chip. They also introduced a Mifare contactless card. As seen on the front of the illustrated card, contactless cards are ideal for building access, road tolls, banking and mass transportation.

Contact, contactless

The difference between contact and contactless cards should be pointed out. Contact cards use up to eight contacts, usually gold plated, to connect the card to the card reading device (i.e., point-of-sale terminal, vending machine, ATM and so on). The contactless card has an antenna built into the card, in addition to the chip. The "connection" is made by transmitting a radio frequency (RF) signal from the reader to the card. This RF signal provides both the power required to energize the chip and the transmission link to communicate between the two devices. Because the card does not have to be physically inserted into a reader, the contactless cards are becoming very popular for mass transit and physical access control applications.

Bull, the French company that created the Proton purse card, introduced the CC20 electronic purse card. CardLogic, Irvine, Calif., displayed its smart card products and introduced its new smart developer's kit. Gemplus, France, had a wide variety of smart card "solutions" in its booth. Two that particularly caught my eye were the smart card activated gasoline pump and parking meters. They also featured both contact and contactless cards.

Giesecke and Devrient, in addition to the collectible GTE phonecard, also issued a demonstration smart card for its new balance reader, used in electronic purse applications.

IBM, Charlotte, N.C., had sample smart cards that stated "we're wise about smart cards." Oberthur Smart Cards, France, featured its OSCAR smart card.

ORGA, of Germany, featured a card celebrating the 25th birthday of its company. The card was dated Feb. 13, 1998. ORGA featured its GSM (mobile phone) cards, among other applications.

Schlumberger, France, highlighted its "Smart Village" concept, "bringing applications to life." Several companies that are part of the Schlumberger Associates program were displaying its smart card applications. Other companies were scattered around the show floor. By visiting these companies and having points added to the "Smart Village" smart card (Moneycard Collector, June), attendees could win one of several different prizes. Three thousand cards were sequentially numbered for this promotion.

It is the system integrators that I always find the most interesting. Touch Technology International, Phoenix, Ariz., was demonstrating the Cash Card system that they had installed at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii. The card, produced by Gemplus, is called "@ease." Like Chipper, the @ease card can also be used at various merchant sites and vending locations throughout the base. The @ease card features a picture of the sun setting over Diamondhead as waves break gently on the beach.

IC One, Salt Lake City, Utah, had an impressive display touting its loyalty programs, especially the IC Kids Card, a project aimed at helping schoolchildren. IBM has teamed up with IC One in this loyalty project under way in Utah. CyberMark, Tallahassee, Fla., highlighted its university campus card system. CyberMark already has smart cards on nine college campuses, with more on the way. Schlumberger DANYL, Moorestown, N.J., also displayed its university campus card technology. Schlumberger DANYL also has at least nine smart card campuses, with more on the way.

Java Card

The newest smart card featured throughout the show was the Java Card. JAVA is a programming language developed by SUN Microsystems. It is now being adapted for use with smart cards. Schlumberger was the first to make a subset of this language available for smart card use. Schlumberger's Java Card is called Cyberflex and features a lovely butterfly. Sun Microsystems, Palo Alto, Calif., handed out a Java Card (Moneycard Collector, February 1998) featuring its now ubiquitous coffee (java) mug logo. Giesecke & Devrient went upscale with its "JAVA powered" card and named it C@ppuccino.

The card (Moneycard Collector, June) featured a chameleon, indicating that its Java Card was good for all markets - payment, communications, transport and IT networks. One has to wonder if the chameleon's tongue, spouting Java comments, was not really aiming to catch Schlumberger's butterfly. Bull took a different approach to JAVA with its Odyssey card, "your passport to the Java world." Odyssey featured a Java-powered astronaut taking a space walk.

One of the most interesting cards on display was the "mifare pro" dual interface card produced by Philips, Netherlands. The computer chip embedded in the card can be activated by either the standard eight contacts or by the embedded antenna coil. This allows the best of two worlds to be combined; the contacts can be used in banking applications and the antenna can be used for transit and access control applications.

For every smart card there must be a smart card reader or terminal. SCM Microsystems, Los Gatos, Calif., had demonstrations showing both its PC Card Reader and the newly introduced RS-232 Serial Reader. SCM also was distributing the Open Card Democard (Moneycard Collector, June), produced by IBM.

Fischer International, Naples, Fla., has a unique reader. A smart card can be inserted into the diskette reader; the combination can then be placed in the 3.5-inch drive of a PC and read through the PC's drive. Saho Corp., Japan, displayed its smart cards and readers used for time attendance and access control applications.

Axiom, Ithaca, N.Y., through its American Magnetics division, introduced a new smart card loading station for electronic purse applications. In addition, they displayed its traditional RS-232 Serial Reader. The card that Axiom gave out at the conference was made by AMMI. The AMMI manufacturing process uses injection molding, rather than the laminated card technique. The cardbody material is ABS, a recyclable plastic that can withstand temperatures up to 85 degrees Celsius. The laminated PVC cards can only withstand a temperature of 50 degrees Celsius. The combination of injection molding and ABS plastic makes the final product more durable.

One of the most impressive displays was that of Chipper, the national cash card system currently deployed in the Netherlands. Billed as "the global standard for multi-application chipcard solutions," the Chipper demo card could be used at a variety of locations including telephones, vending machines, merchant point of sale (POS) terminals, and many other unique applications. A cardholder can add value to his card from his bank account using chipcard payphones, so every payphone becomes a chipcard ATM!

CardTech/SecurTech - what a blast! Now, if only all of this technology could come together to get major chipcard projects off the ground and running in North America. It is starting to happen and should provide a bountiful harvest to patient chipcard collectors in the next few years.

A drink that scores

World Cup frenzy means new international telecards

by Ulf Helmke

After the Nagano Olympic Games, the Soccer World Cup, held in France, will be the most important sport event this year. Records could be broken by the 704 players from the 32 participating national teams. While English player Robson scored the quickest goal at a World Cup after just 27 seconds in 1982, telephone companies have proven themselves just as quick this year, already scoring before kick-off. Several phonecards have been issued to commemorate this No. 1 sport all around the world.

France Telecom, the national telco of the host nation, is the official telecommunications provider for the World Cup. Two sets of four phonecards each were released in March to increase interest in what will be coming up. The first set of four introduces "Footix," the official mascot, performing different moves with the ball.

Footix is a French cockerel named after a tradition of Gallic "-ix" names well-known among Europeans through Asterix, a Gallic comic-hero fighting ancient Romans in the year 50 BC. All 50-unit cards are stored-value chip cards and show the France '98 and MasterCard logos on the reverse. MasterCard is the official credit card of the World Cup. A total of 400,000 sets were distributed nationwide to the French public.

The second set, also 50-unit chip cards, is a puzzle set forming a "98" when put together. The digits are composed of the national flags of the participating nations, creating a very colorful set. The teams of two groups of the preliminary competition are listed on one card.

While the Footix cards were produced by Solaic, Gemplus printed the 400,000 puzzle sets.

France Telecom also has issued an official "generic" World Cup card with a mintage of 2 million, showing artwork of a soccer stadium seen from above.

The stadiums of the World Cup are the topic of another France Telecom series of a 10-card series introducing the cities where the games will be played. The front of each card shows artwork typical to the individual city. The reverse lists the games being played at the local stadium. There were 400,000 cards printed of each design.

A 5-unit card for private distribution was issued to the French Ministry of Youth and Sports with a mintage of 11,000. The card's obverse shows a young goal-keeper at a streetball soccer scene. This card captures the feeling of children playing their favorite ball-game at any given place and time.

An interesting set of phonecards comes from CTM, Macau's national telco and a Cable & Wireless company. Thirty-three smart cards were produced for the World Cup. One card was produced for each nation plus a 33rd card showing the World Cup trophy was produced.

What makes this set most interesting is the way the cards are distributed: Although full sets are available, most cards will be sold in sealed packs of three cards that contain any three of the 32 team cards. A "One-on-One" set is also available that contains one team card and the trophy card. A special album has been produced so collectors can store their cards and fill their holes through trades with other collectors. But the album offers more than just card storage. Information on the 32 teams is given as well as game details and a review of past World Cups.

If you remember the first Gillette phonecard issue in the United States and the incredible trading activity that followed, just imagine what impact these soccer cards may have on fans. Only 1,000 complete sets are possible, according to CTM's collector service. With a price tag of $120 for the full set, these cards are for the serious collector.

A more conservative approach was taken by the world's oldest republic, San Marino, surrounded entirely by Italian soil.

A four-card set was issued May 11th with designs by artists Valerio Pradal and Mario Dotta. The cards show the flags of the participating nations, a foot kicking a ball, a ball in the goal and the World Cup trophy covered by the San Marino flag, all on a background of the grass that is so important for this sport. The small nation participated in the elimination rounds and shares the excitement with the teams which received a ticket to France.

The reverse sides of the cards show different wide-angle views of Mount Titano, San Marino's famous sight.

With face values of 2,000, 3,000, 5,000 and 10,000 lire, a Mint set can be obtained for an affordable U.S. $15 from the republic's collectors' service.

Urmet printed 38,000 each of the 2,000-lira and 3,000-lira cards, 33,000 of the 5,000-lira cards and 25,000 of the 10,000-lira cards. San Marino phonecards use the same technology that is used by Telecom Italia.

While the chances for Germany, No. 2 on the FIFA world table, to enter the final look good, collectors might not be able to add a World Cup '98 card from this soccer-nation to their collections after all. Deutsche Telekom, well-known for its sports sponsorship and sports phonecards, could not solve licensing problems with the national German soccer association Deutscher Fussballbund (DFB) in time to issue an official card. Now the only hopes lie with private issues of soccer-related phonecards.

An issuer who has offices in both California and Mexico is using prepaid cards with a World Cup theme to drum up more business in Mexico. Pacific Applications International Corp. has produced a series of retail-oriented phonecards featuring members of the Mexican World Cup team.

Those cards, targeting Hispanic audiences in the United States and Mexico under the "SportsCom" name – a licensing and marketing subsidiary of PAIC – include $10 and $20 denominations of all 22 team members. Final mintages might exceed 1 million cards for the retail series. After the World Cup ends, the company plans to promote a limited-edition collector's series.

Licensing is often a problem when it comes to sports images and there has even been a legal dispute over the phonecards issued by Sprint for the World Cup USA '94. Like France Telecom this year, Sprint was the official telecommunications provider for the World Cup four years ago.

Three series of different soccer phonecards were issued showing participating nations, the trophy or the stadiums across the United States. But shortly after the cards had been issued, MasterCard argued that Sprint could not distribute cards showing the World Cup logo since MasterCard held the rights to use the logo. Sprint withdrew that card set and subsequently issued another soccer-themed series without the World Cup logo.

This set of 48 cards was issued as "USA Soccer Series" and marketed instead of the original World Cup cards. These new cards show no reference to the World Cup and only carry Sprint's own logo. It did not come as a surprise that the nations depicted were those participating in the World Cup '94. (AT&T solved a similar kind of problem with the 1996 Olympic Games by issuing their "Prepaid Calls.")

You may wish to consult the Moneycard Collector Catalog for a full listing of Sprint World Cup cards.

Telenor, Norway's national telco, will issue one card for the World Cup depicting the Norwegian National soccer team. The card was to be issued in June.

Although we are not sure if the card is related to the World Cup '98, Fuji is offering a 10-minute soccer phonecard that is inserted with multi-packs of Fuji film in the United States.

When this article was prepared, the World Cup had not started but now that you hold this issue of Moneycard Collector in your hands, the teams will already be competing for a place in the July 12 final. More phonecards will have been released in the meantime and while the teams compete for the trophy, join the spirit of fair play and start a World Champion collection of your own.

NEW PHONECARD CLUB OFFERS CARD. Terry Windholz, a phonecard dealer from Augusta, Kan., has announced the launch of the Alpha PhoneCard Club. The club's website is up and can be viewed at <http://members.aol.com/AlphaClub/main.html>

Each charter member will receive a free membership phonecard. Mintage is slated for a minimum of 100 cards produced by USACard. The phone time does not expire and the phonecard depicts an early phone stamp from France, circa 1909, that was used for making phone calls nearly 90 years ago.

Individual membership dues are $20 a year in the United States and benefits include the Charter Membership phonecard, a club newsletter, special discounts on phonecards and related material, the opportunity to purchase special edition phonecards that the club may issue, and other special offers to members as deemed appropriate from time to time. All memberships received by June 30, 1998, receive a free collectible Santa phonecard as well.

"We anticipate that in the future we will also have a phonecard collector convention if the membership deems it suitable," Windholz says.

MERGER, ACQUISITION STUDIES TO BE MARKETED. Two consulting firms, Boston-based Atlantic-ACM and Group IV Inc. of Phoenix have agreed to jointly market their studies on mergers and acquisitions in the telecommunications industry. The report package offers a picture of telecommunications deal-making from trends to benchmarks and includes the second edition of Group IV's "The Telecom Service Provider: How Much is it Worth" plus a companion workbook, and Atlantic-ACM's new "Telecom Mergers and Acquisitions: Trends in a Consolidating Industry." SCORE BOARD TO SELL INVENTORY. The Score Board Inc., which had filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in March, has now decided to withdraw from the Nasdaq stock exchange and sell off its inventory of sports-related memorabilia. The Cherry Hill, N.J., company announced the actions in mid-May.

F. Duffield Meyercord, a principal of The Carl Marks Consulting Group, the crisis management firm that was retained by Score Board shortly after the Chapter 11 filing, said: "We have concluded ... that Score Board's franchise has been severely hurt by, among other things, many months of limited capital arising from declining sales and, unfortunately, the remaining resources are, in our estimation, insufficient to jump-start the business back to a going concern."

The inventory will be categorized by type and sold in entire lots. They are expected to include: baseball, football, basketball and hockey memorabilia signed by some of the country's most accomplished and respected athletes; signed and unsigned photos, plaques and lithographs for star athletes; entertainment memorabilia for Star Trek, Star Wars and Elvis Presley; and substantial quantities of sports equipment. No specific mention was made of phonecard lots, and Score Board officials were unavailable for comment, but said that information regarding distribution of bidding packages and arrangements for inspection of representative samples will be forthcoming.

While the sale procedures are being established by the Bankruptcy Court, Score Board will continue its sales on QVC, Shop at Home, and its direct marketing unit, Deal Direct.

PHONETIME INTERNATIONAL GETS AT&T MINUTES. Phonetime International of Mississauga, Ontario, announced in late May that AT&T Canada has moved about 10 million minutes of prepaid phonecard time to Phonetime's switching platform and call center. The contract will be worth $2-5 million in revenue over the next two years, according to Phonetime Vice President Wayne Silver. With the purchase of a new high-capacity switch and additional infrastructure investment, Phonetime will create a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week call center to provide customer service to both Phonetime and AT&T customers. When fully configured, Silver said, the Phonetime switch will handle more than 10 million minutes a month in long-distance traffic.

FACILICOM EXPANDS EUROPEAN ACTIVITY. FaciliCom International, based in Washington, D.C., has acquired Finnish public telephone operator TeleOne Ltd. and will rename the company FCI•Finland. FaciliCom also has announced the formation of FCI•France. The new affiliate and switching facility in France is part of an increasing expansion in Europe. Earlier this year, FaciliCom opened new switching hubs in Copenhagen, Denmark and Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

The company, which supplies wholesale capacity to carriers, also has announced plans to develop facilities in Belgium, Germany, Italy, Norway and Switzerland.

PHONECARD EXPRESS GETS A NEW BOSS. PhoneCard Express, the Hollywood, Fla.-based issuer of some of most desirable die-cut promotional phonecards in the United States, has been acquired by Magnet, LLC of Washington, Mo. Magnet is a designer and manufacturer of promotional magnets. Matt Kuttler and David Redlich, who founded PCE in 1993, will continue to run the company. Redlich noted that sales for PhoneCard Express cards have grown to $2.5 million over four years.

CARD FOR KIRBY TRANSPLANT FUND. Tell-One Inc. and PCI Communications have produced a heart-shaped phonecard for the John Kirby Transplant Fund. Many dealers and collectors alike have donated some very nice cards for the cause., according to Lee Grove of PCI, and he is donating his time and paying all postage for all cards sold.

Some of the cards can be viewed at <<http://www.cardmall.com/pci>>

The Tell-One card features a healthy John Kirby and his wife, Betty, holding each other on the dance floor at their daughter Kathy's wedding. Kathy Kirby Dobbels, who has been active as a multi-level marketing company representata-tive and a collector, has spearheaded efforts to raise kidney transplant funds for her father. Her fund-raising card showing the Hale-Bopp comet was pictured in "Tapping the Networks" in the September 1997 edition of Moneycard Collector.

The card was donated to the fund by Tell-One and comes in a clear plastic clamshell package attached to an informational insert donated by PCI. The insert card that the heart is attached to tells a little about John Kirby and the back tells of a fabulous organization, Coalition on Donation. The Coalition on Donation is not associated with The John Kirby Fund and does not endorse or support any individual transplant fund. The information is included to educate readers about organ and tissue donation. Grove says the card's goal is to ensure that every-one understands the need for organ and tissue donation.

"John Kirby needs the opportunity to be with his family and just one person, maybe some-one you know, could make a difference. This card is offered, for a donation, to help with the enormous costs associated with a surgi-cal procedure and dialysis that John must endure every week of his life."

There are 50 sequentially numbered cards, each with five minutes of time. Contact Grove at PCI Communications Inc. at <lg7550@bellsouth.net>

MORE ABOUT MAGNETIC STRIPES ... DO YOU COPY?

Some collectors of prepaid cards have been attract-ed to magnetic-stripe cards used by colleges, libraries and other institutions as a way to pay for copy machine copies. A collector who sent us this example from the Santa Barbara City College, also reports that he has a copy card from the Library of Congress and hopes to get one soon from the National Archives. He reports that while the cards, pur-chased from a vending machine, may be recharged, he has been able to pick up used, discarded cards.

Santa Barbara City College card is one of a grow-ing number of magnetic-stripe prepaids used by various institutions for making copies.

LCI INTRODUCES NEW POINT-OF-SALE SYSTEM. LCI

International has unveiled what it calls the industry's first universal point-of-sale activation system. The SAFER - Secure Activation For Every Retailer - system enables retailers to activate phonecards at the time of purchase using their existing credit card authorization termi-nal and LCI's proprietary system.

Here's how it works: When LCI's magnetically encoded cards are swiped through the credit card authorization terminal, information (such as retailer identification and LCI routing information) is transmitted to LCI. LCI validates the activation request, activates the card and responds to the retailer. The pro-cess usually takes less than five seconds, according to LCI.

MILLENNIUM CARD UPDATE. Bruce Harmon of Acme Telecards is selling the 5-minute card. (800) 405-2263.

"A" is for Ameritech

Popular issuer might be acquired by Southwestern Bell

by Art Becker

There's good news and potentially bad news. The good news is that Ameritech has issued plenty of great collectible phonecards in 1998. The possible bad news is that Ameritech will likely be acquired by Southwestern Bell, which has a bare minimum phonecard program.

So, first a bit of history, then the good news. As many veteran collectors probably know, an Ameritech company was the first of the Baby Bells to issue stored-memory phonecards. These were the famous Michigan Bell cards of 1987. Look for them under Ameritech (AMT) in the Moneycard Collector Catalog of Prepaid Phone, Cash & Transit Cards. They were optical cards, produced by Landis & Gyr. This type of card was also used in the USA by Military Communications Center Inc. (MIL) in 1986, the South Carolina Department of Corrections, Manning Prison (SCD) in 1989, and NYNEX (NYN) in 1991. Of course, Landis & Gyr (LGC) issued a couple phonecards of its own in the United States, but these were strictly for demonstration purposes.

The most common Michigan Bell cards can be purchased for about $400-plus a set, and all the mentioned historic Landis & Gyr cards are readily available from dealers, as are most Ameritech cards.

Ameritech's first remote memory phonecards were the 1993 Holiday Edition trial cards (AMT 10T & 10TS) and wonderful Snowflake trial cards (AMT 11T to 15T). These were followed in 1994 by the CoinSaver series (AMT 17 to 20). You shouldn't have any trouble obtaining these cards, at reasonable prices, for your collection.

Ameritech has had an aggressive policy of selling prepaid phonecards to businesses for promotional purposes. There have also been some great specialty cards, issued for phonecard trade and collector shows, such as CardEx 94 (AMT 42 & 43), and the 1994 American Numismatic Association show in Detroit (AMT Pr1 & 2). The latter featured the launch of Moneycard Collector magazine.

The Democratic National Convention of 1996 resulted in a striking series of phonecards, including some for prepaid cellular service (AMT 80/86). Sports are regularly featured on Ameritech phonecards, including golf, soccer, tennis and baseball. Speaking of baseball, Ameritech has had a continual stream of cards featuring players from the Chicago White Sox baseball team, and Comiskey Park.

Two distributors of Ameritech phonecards to collectors are USACards and Powell Associates. Both have been recognized by the company with phonecards featuring their names (AMT Pr4 & Pr3, respectively). Moneycard Collector had another card issued for it in 1996 (AMT Pr8). Frequently Ameritech issues a small quantity of specimen cards, usually numbering from 50 to 100.

The good news is that, in 1998, the company has issued at least 10 new promotional phonecards, including one that got national exposure. You could get a 10-minute Ameritech phonecard for buying a Mother's Day Cake from "TCBY" Treats. The card offer was advertised in inserts of Sunday newspapers nationwide.

Other 1998 Ameritech phonecards include Motorola, which has had several previous cards produced by Ameritech, Ameritech Pioneers, the Chicago Sun-Times newspaper and a baseball 1998 All-Stars Series phonecard featuring Bill Melton of the White Sox. The company has also issued several cards featuring services that they provide, including security, enterprise solutions, and cable TV.

Now for the potential bad news. SBC Corp. (SBC), popularly known as Southwestern Bell, has announced it will acquire Ameritech. SBC recently acquired Pacific Telesis, which owns Pacific Bell (PAC) and Nevada Bell. At one time, 1995 to be exact, SBC had an aggressive phonecard issuing policy. Both generic and commemorative cards were issued, as well as some specialized cards. After issuing just short of 50 different designs, the program virtually ended. Key personnel were reassigned, and eventually their replacements were also reassigned.

Right now, you can get a $10 phonecard and a $20 phonecard from SBC, but they are not being heavily promoted. PacBell has issued about 100 great phonecards, including plenty of interesting varieties. But, since being acquired by SBC, the PacBell phonecard program has also come to a virtual halt. Nevada Bell was on the verge of issuing phonecards, when they were acquired by SBC.

So, the question is, given SBC's disinterest in prepaid phonecards, over the past few years, and the abrupt end of PacBell's phonecard growth, after being acquired by SBC, will the same thing happen to Ameritech? Of course, it is too soon to tell, and during the merger and acquisition process, companies traditionally don't say much of anything specific. Often nobody has the answers anyhow. These are confusing times, and people are always concerned for their jobs. Unfortunately, past experience has shown that the acquiring company sets the tone, so things don't look good for Ameritech phonecards.

What's even worse is the collector psychology, where cards from a company that has stopped issuing them suddenly become less popular. While there is no logical reason for this, experience has shown it to be the case.

Now, anyone who knows anything about business, knows that without growth, a company will die. In other words, a company can't merely stand still, and hope to survive for long, no matter how wonderful its product. Even Coca-Cola and McDonalds occasionally come out with new products. With phonecards, perhaps the most popular collectible phonecards in USA history are the NYNEX stored memory cards. NYNEX has subsequently been acquired by Bell Atlantic (BLA), Ameritech; TCBY Treats; 10 minutes; quantity unavailable; May 1998.

Ameritech; DNC Chicago Cellular; $60 denomination; 5,300 issued; August 1996.

which used to issue phonecards of its own. The NYNEX Collector Club was probably the most successful venture of its type in the country. Then, one day, early last year, NYNEX yanked the yellow payphones off the streets of Manhattan, and Change Cards were no more.

Collector interest took a nose dive as well. When was the last time you remember seeing a dealer ad for NYNEX phonecards? Or SBC phonecards? Or PacBell phonecards? Or Bell Atlantic Phonecards? Or Bell South phonecards?

Are these cards any less historically important? Have their designs suddenly become less attractive? The answers are, of course, no. The cards were all valid for use in making telephone calls, and were issued by top-notch companies, all of whom had been in the telephone business for many years. They are all great collectibles. So why are they now apparently less popular than they once were? Remember, you aren't collecting "growth," you are collecting history.

A matter of convenience

The answer to the question above is first a matter of convenience. It is far easier to buy current phonecards at face value, often directly from the company itself, than it is to go to the trouble of getting older cards at a markup from dealers.

The usual sequence is for collectors to buy the least expensive cards to start with, and then fill in the older blanks in their album pages later. The more interested they become in current cards from a company, the more they will likely be interested in acquiring the older cards, in order to make their collections complete. But once current cards are no longer available, interest in collecting the older cards seems to drop dramatically.

The thing is, this is when it is just about the best time to start collecting older phonecards from the "fallen" Baby Bell companies. With the demand falling, prices should fall, too. In fact, you can now get most older NYNEX phonecards for pretty close to face value. Hey, you might even be able to get some of them for less than face value. But does this make any sense? How have the cards themselves changed? Are they less attractive? Have they become less historically important? Are they somehow less collectible?

The answers, again, are no. If phonecards were once worth collecting, whatever the current situation with the company itself, the cards are still worth collecting. If you want to complete your collection of any or all of these Baby Bell phonecards, now is the time.

Only time will tell what will actually happen. Things change. Some Baby Bell companies claim they can't make money with prepaid phonecards. Others are expanding their programs. Perhaps the best way to look at it is from a historical perspective. Collect the history of phonecards, because that will never change.
