Frequently, collectors ask us what we would buy for our personal collections. Personally, I always try to make sure that such conversations focus on what the collector really likes, because that is the basis of a truly enjoyable collection. But right now there is a good tip I'd like to share with all of our readers. Start looking more closely at some of the older cards. And do it soon. The opportunity to buy these cards may never be better than right now.

Over the past year, there have been some very powerful and attractive new cards issued, especially related to three thematic areas: McDonald's, Coca-Cola and Disney. Nearly all of these issues have been feverishly sought after by our readers, which has diverted money and attention away from these significant older issues. A good example is the NYNEX $1 Democratic Convention card. We know that $1,700 was paid for one of these cards little more than a year ago. This month's Price Guide lists it (without envelope) at about $550. In my opinion, this card will assuredly be a classic in years to come. Is this not a great card for your collection? And these same comments apply to most of the early NYNEX cards, as well.

Other cards that represent excellent buying opportunities right now are the AT&T TeleTickets and Michigan Bell cards. The AT&T cards are especially interesting because much of what is known about them is difficult to confirm. In many cases, these cards were actually custom printed, nine to a sheet with different backs for different languages, yet printed all on one sheet. Little wonder that quantities are so difficult to determine. No surprise either is that many dealers are quietly working to strengthen their inventory positions in early AT&T material. An obvious buy in this group is the AT&T McDonald's card, simply because it was the first to celebrate the Golden Arches. The card catalogs for $125, with the folder.

Don't say we didn't warn you! More collectors are entering the hobby every day, and the supply of the early material is fixed. Inevitably, more collectors will be chasing small numbers of early cards. Call or visit your phone card dealer now and pick up some of these cards. There may not be a better time.

A recent survey in a phone industry publication polled 217 persons nationally by phone, and in person in Phoenix, Denver, Dallas and Los Angeles about prepaid phone cards. The Phone+ survey asked the questions: "Do you know what a prepaid calling card is? If so, have you used one?" Though admittedly "not a scientific endeavor," the results suggest growing public awareness of prepaid cards in the U.S. Twenty-one per cent of those surveyed answered yes and had used one; 55 percent said they had heard of prepaids but had never used one; 19 percent responded that they had never heard of prepaids.

As the leading phone and moneycard collecting publication, we recently took another step towards the future with the launch of our second site on the world wide web (www) of the Internet. Moneycard Collector and each of our sister divisions at Amos Press (Coin World, Scott Stamp, Cars & Parts and Linn's Stamp News) have all committed to establishing sites at a location called the "Collectors Super Mall." This large site is managed and developed by Landmark Communications, which owns the Weather Channel and the Auto Trader publications, among others. Early birds can drop in and view the first results of our partnership with Landmark by visiting <<http://www.csmonline.com/moneycard>>.

Our initial web site, <<http://hmt.com/moneycard/index.html>>, remains very active and we have recently made major modifications to it. Readers without access to the net need not worry. Our purpose on the web is to educate and attract new collectors, and we will use only information that has previously appeared within the pages of the magazine. We'll have a full report in an up-coming issue.

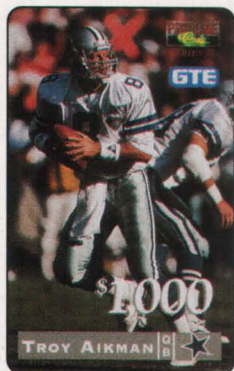

Murray Church, Publisher

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

Take some pride...

When I subscribed to your magazine I assumed I would get timely price guide information on the state of the phone card industry. Yet you and your staff seem completely unaware of most of the major phone card issues and their place in the market. Examples as follows:

- Coca-Cola, issued by Score Board/Classic last December has yet to appear in your guide.
- Proline II, also issued by Scoreboard/Classic last October. This was the first high-profile, major phone card release, yet Moneycard Collector missed the ball entirely.
- Assets I and II, a good percentage of the cards are not even listed!!
- Assets '96, again no price guide information.
- Assets Racing, again many of the cards are not listed.

I find it astonishing your complete ignorance of the major phone card releases that most collectors are interested in. I do not understand how Beckett Publications, which does not even cater to the phone card industry, is light years ahead of you with their timely info. I would think you would be embarrassed to even sell your magazine. You seem to be more interested in listing only the phone cards that your advertisers issue.

Unless I see a major overhaul in your publication, I am afraid I will cancel my subscription. You had an opportunity to set an example for this industry and you are blowing it. Start taking some pride in the magazine published.

David Neal, Card Attack, Camarillo, Calif.

Yes, we certainly have a great deal of pride in our magazine, which subscribers have made the highest paid circulation publication in the phone card industry today. And we are not ignorant concerning the popular phone card releases. More than 20 percent of our paid subscribers responded to our survey concerning their interests, and we are constantly adjusting our coverage to meet their expectations.

Given that you are a distributor who obviously sells Score Board/Classic cards, we can understand how you would like for these cards to be listed in Moneycard Collector's Monthly Price Guide. There have been some problems obtaining prices on these cards, however. Sports card dealers rarely report sales prices to us, despite our attempts to obtain them. Only a very few phone card dealers currently handle the sports-related phone cards that you refer to, and only limited information is often available from the phone card issuers about these cards.

We can not speak for other publications, but our policy is to report actual sales prices. Therefore, we must wait until these prices are reported by dealers. It is a dangerous precedent for a publication to establish selling prices. That is the function of the dealer and collector. If it takes a few extra weeks to report an accurate price, then we believe that the collector is still better served.

Although we currently have numerous dealers submitting price lists each month, we can never have enough sports card prices. Please help us cover these cards by submitting your prices for consideration in our Price Guide and we welcome prices from other established dealers willing to contribute to the hobby.

A big hit

Your magazine "Moneycard" is a big hit here in Europe. I do telephone card shows in Germany, Switzerland, Italy and Austria. Your "Price Guide" is a bible for trading American cards. We get a lot of good information from your magazine. Keep up the good work.

Eli Ressler, Vols, Austria

How 'bout a club?

I am writing you to tell you how much I enjoy reading Moneycard Collector. I've become quite a serious collector. I often have wondered if there are any collectors in my home town who are as enthusiastic as I am. Is there a way I can find them? Like other collection hobbies, they usually have clubs or gatherings. I'd like to see one here. How can it be established? And what would be a good agenda for the meeting? I look forward to receiving the information of what you can help with. Keep up the good work and good luck with your endeavors.

C. Golembiewski, San Diego, Calif.

How about it, readers, any interest?

No sympathy

While reading the March issue, I noticed the "Willy a no show" letter in the "Readers Always Write" column on page 5. I guess the writer was attempting to get sympathy for having not received 200 Free Willy 2 cards he sent for. From the article I gather he had not purchased any product and sent for two hundred (yes, 200) of the Free Willy 2 cards. Personally I think he is greedy and am pleased that Arm and Hammer had the sense enough to send the cards to two hundred people that probably did purchase their product. It is also possible that some of those 200 cards went to children who would enjoy them instead of one individual who sounds like he only had profit in mind. My hat's off to Arm and Hammer!

The Real Thing

The fizz on officially licensed Coca-Cola products

By Nancy Blackburn

There is no argument from Coke collectors that the 100-year-old tonic once mixed with cocaine is just as exhilarating as ever, especially if its logo is emblazoned on anything!

During the past few years, as prepaid phone cards descended upon North America, the world's favorite tried-and-true tonic has also made its presence known on one of our favorite collectibles — and caused a frenzy among collectors.

Coca-Cola History 101

More than 100 years ago, Coca-Cola was patented as a cocaine-based, caffeine-rich tonic syrup for good health. What an exhilarating combination that proved to be! When mixed with carbonated water at drug store soda fountains, the sweet new drink became an overnight sensation.

By the turn of the century, a unique distribution system had been implemented. The Coca-Cola Company produced only the syrup, and then signed licensing agreements with independent bottlers who purchased the syrup and then prepared, bottled and distributed the beverage. This forged a close relationship, and Coca-Cola has developed a policy that encourages bottlers to produce promotional premiums and support events that promote the industry.

NAT Christmas prototype

May We See Your License?

Marc Grauer, director of The World of Coca-Cola Pavilion in Atlanta, explains that bottlers must obtain the corporate approval from Coca-Cola before the Coke logo can be slapped on promotional items — whether T-shirts, coffee cups, posters or prepaid calling cards. Bottlers' sponsorship of worthwhile events must also be approved before Coke emblems can be applied.

Grauer further states that promotional items are specifically identified as merchandise that is not to be sold, but given away. The Smith's, Dillon's and United "Phone Home Free" phone card promotion met this criterion because it was done through Coca-Cola USA, the marketing arm for North America, to benefit major supermarket customers.

Coke considers a licensed product to be one for which an agreement has been made and royalties are paid to use the logos before the product is then made available to the consumer. Technically, the World of Coke cards are considered a licensed product without a royalty having been paid, because there was a legal contract with the parent corporation to produce the tele-cards, which were then sold for a profit at the pavilion. The very first Coca-Cola phone card in the U.S. was a prototype Christmas card produced for Coke by

North American Telephone (NAT). The contract was ultimately awarded to Collect-A-Card, who produced the first U.S.-licensed telecards and included them in packs as chaser cards in licensed Coke trading cards (Moneycard Collector, February 1996). The question was raised whether random insertion meant retail sales, but since the packs were sold on the retail market, they were available to consumers, even if they had to buy 60 packs to get one phone card.

Score Board is a Coca-Cola-approved phone card licensee in the U.S., which means they have entered a legal contract and, in return for certain royalties, they may produce and sell specific cards at retail prices.

"Coke Around the World," the first three cards of an ongoing series, was designated as the first Score Board licensed card; the five-card Santa Claus was the second licensed issue.

There are even instances where The Coca-Cola Company is the "official sponsor" or even a co-sponsor of a particular event, such as the upcoming 1996 Olympics in Atlanta.

Coke and McDonald's cooperation to support the Ronald McDonald House resulted in the World of Coke #6 two-card set, as well as the popular three releases by Frank and Son.

You Say Potato...

When phone cards are collected thematically, there is often a wide range of what constitutes a bona fide collectible. For example, some collectors want only officially licensed products, while others want everything Coke-related they can get their hands on.

It is important to note that cards promoting events such as festivals and fairs are not licensed by Coke, since no money is paid to use the actual logo. With event cards, the independent bottler who supports the event has received blanket approval from Coca-Cola to use the logos, since the event will promote Coke.

Frequently, the Coke logo appears on phone cards without the express written consent of Coke, but falls under the legal umbrella of "event approval." Again, though not officially "licensed," these cards often combine the logo of a well-known event or co-sponsor with the Coke logo.

Some of these approved event Coke cards are quite reasonably priced, often less than $10. HT Technologies Fleet Week featured 10 different sponsors' logos; the Las Vegas Invitational features the PGA Tour icon; and the Stuart (Fla.) Centennial Festival and '95 Thunderbird Balloon Classic both carry the Budweiser symbol.

Coke may also sponsor or approve stadium events as part of its promotional presence. Sometimes it becomes more complicated.

For instance, Charlotte Motor Speedway and a bottling company have a contract. The local bottling company has Coke's approval to sponsor the Speedway as "Home of the Coca-Cola 600."

This arrangement has produced an especially interesting set of five jumbo cards featuring the distinctive Coca-Cola 600 red and white script logo on the card fronts. During the past two years, Mercury Marketing has issued several Charlotte Motor Speedway-NASCAR-Coca-Cola 600 phone cards.

Coke in sheep's clothing

Avid collectors might also keep an eye out for individual phone cards in which the reference to Coke is secondary or covert. For instance, Coke's Times Square advertisement is prominently displayed in a three-card puzzle set of Alexander Chen's artwork from HT Technologies.

Another example is a phone card photograph by Roy Schatt of James Dean sitting on a red Coca-Cola box. No doubt there are others to be found.

Collectors have been heard moaning that there is "just too much Coke stuff," particularly when Score Board released several large sets: Cel Set #1 and the 50-card "Always Collectible" set last December, as well as several stand-alone cards, followed with Cel Set #2 in March.

Considering the $1 per minute phone time on $2 cards, and the sheer number of available cards, phone card collectors seem to be pacing their purchasing. However, dealers on both the West and East coasts have observed that the cel sets are becoming extremely popular at trading card shows.

Gotta Have It?

Which Coke cards are "must haves" for the collector? Based on the rapid appreciation of licensed cards, such as Collect-A-Card and The World of Coke cards, it goes without saying that licensed phone cards are highly desirable, especially if one is fortunate enough to have picked up the WOC at the Pavilion itself.

True promotions such as Smith's, Dillon's and United Supermarkets have also proven extremely desirable. Score Board cards may be expensive initially, but they have potential to appreciate since they are licensed.

Collectors looking for good buys can still purchase many Coke-approved bottler promotion cards, event cards and sponsor cards for bargain basement prices. These cards are also be fun to buy because they often have a second sponsor's trademark or logo.

And be sure to check out the latest Coke cards recently issued by Sprint/Score Board and Premier Telecom in the "New Issues" section this month, as well as the special show card created by Score Board for the Kit Young Show (page 53).

Yes, Coke may be "the real thing" in the "national pastime" of collecting, but whether Coke prepaids "add life" to your collection or not depends on smart investing and as always, buying what you like.

Ultimately, it is up to the collector to decide if "Coke is it!"

PHONE CARDS DOMINATE SINGAPORE COIN SHOW Although the Singapore International Coin Show (SICS) is one of the most successful and prestigious annual coin shows in the world, the presence of phone cards has driven crowds to a near frenzy in recent years.

Collectors lined up five hours before the gates opened for the show. Most hoped to purchase one of the limited-edition (1,000) official show phone card sets. The unique two-card set, produced as a joint venture between Singapore Telecom and USACard Corp., featured a card with Singapore PINs and the other card with U.S. numbers. Singapore Telecom is the national phone company. A gold-plated ingot honoring 1996 as the Year of the Rat was imbedded on each of the numerically matched cards.

Although limited to one set per person, the card sold out as fast as the show's organizers could process the sales. Initially priced at S$55 (US $39), sets traded for as much as S$100 by the end of the show.

"There were several reasons for the excitement," said SICS Chairman B.H. Lim. "The cards were the first from Singapore to include an ingot. And they were the lowest mintage Singapore Telecom cards ever issued. Prior to this release, the smallest run had been 4,100. Most of our cards have mintages of at least 10,000."

Local telecard dealers, as well as dealers from the U.S., Germany, Australia, England, and Japan took booths this year. According to Singaporean dealer Joseph Poh: "Our collectors view phone cards as a form of money. The same customer who buys phone cards in our shop also buys coins and paper money. In Singapore, metal, paper or plastic are all the same hobby."

According to USACard sales manager Paul Peeders, "Exhibitors kept trying to close down and pack Sunday evening but the crowds wouldn't leave, even though the show was closed. Show management made several requests for people to leave for more than an hour, and then had to send a security team just to get the people out."

Among the U.S. issuers and dealers at the show were ACMI, AmeriVox, B&B Collectibles, Steve Eyer Inc., Gem International, KARS Unlimited, Promotional Phonecards, PATCO, Powell Associates, Univox and USACard.

In addition to the official commemorative show card, were cards were also issued by Cable & Wireless, AmeriVox, ACMI and Gem International.

CORPORATE CORNER

This month's journey into the Corporate Corner starts off at a couple of hotels. ITS recently produced 2,100 five-minute phone cards for the Courtyard by Marriott hotels. The classy looking card was created to promote the hotel chain's service and to generate good will.

ITS also produced a 10-minute card for the Sheraton Gateway Hotel in Los Angeles.

The card was given out to guests to help generate repeat reservations. The issue quantity was not available from ITS.

A third card from the Miami-based issuer has drawn a considerable amount of interest recently. The very rare McDonald's University card was produced for students attending the corporate school to help lower the cost of calling home. Though production figures have yet to be released for this 30-minute card, it has been tough to find.

There have been rumors that this card is an error, due to the location of the trademark next to the arches. ITS states that the artwork was provided by McDonald's and that no additional cards have been produced with corrections.

CDG issued a card for Carol Wright, the leading coupon mailing company in the U.S. Fifteen hundred of the five-minute cards were produced as a new customer incentive. What makes this card so unique is that the front pictures one of the most popular promotional cards of last year — the Crayola Crayons card.

SmarTel produced an attractive 10-minute prepaid for Motorola. The card was given to distributors to help promote the company's new top-of-the-line pager, dubbed the "Flex."

BlockBuster Golf and Games has issued a unique kind of moneycard. The Florida-based entertainment company uses "Stored Cash" cards in place of coins and game tokens in all of their arcade machines.

Instead of popping coins or tokens into the machine, customers insert one of the $1, $5, $10 or $20 cards, and the cost of playing a game is automatically deducted.

More and more phone card collectors are seeking these types of debit cards, especially with VISA's new stored cash cards created for the 1996 Atlanta Olympics.

And finally, we have one of the most eye-catching cards ever to cross our desks. DeltaCom produced 2,000 of the 15-minute cards for Nabisco's new Ice Breakers breath gum.

The unique nature of this prepaid is the three-dimensional look that has been designed into the card. The holographic card is a replica of the product packaging and emphasizes the cool, fresh taste of gum. When held to the light, multi-colored sparkles appear on both sides of the card.

The Ice Breakers prepaids will be used at trade shows and to help sell in-store displays and gain distribution of new items. The cards include such enhanced services as voice and fax mailboxes.

That's all until next month. Be sure to send in your corporate or promotional cards to Moneycard Collector. We'll try to share the best of these with the rest of our readers.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

This month's list of best-sellers is headlined by an innovative private label card, utilizing the best of the past and the present. The Singapore Marilyn Monroe card was produced by GEM International for KARS Unlimited of Florida.

The card utilizes a George Barris photo from the archives, modified by design magic of the computers. What was originally an American flag held aloft by Marilyn has now, by deft strokes of the computer pen, become a Singaporean flag.

Why Singapore? The card was released at the recently held Singapore International Coin Convention, and was a smashing success there!

Another first on our best-seller list is a smart card set. A milestone for the hobby, it paves the way for applications beyond simple long-distance phone time. I'm sure we'll see more multi-use "smart cards" in the future.

Of note this month is fewer McDonald's and Coca-Cola cards on the list: only one of each of these popular thematics.

1 GEM INT'L/ KARS MARILYN MONROE SALUTES SINGAPORE

Originally designed for the Singapore International Coin Convention, the 10-unit, 1,200-mintage card is a sure winner. The majority of the cards were purchased by Singaporean collectors, with the remainder grabbed by the large hordes of Marilyn Monroe collectors.

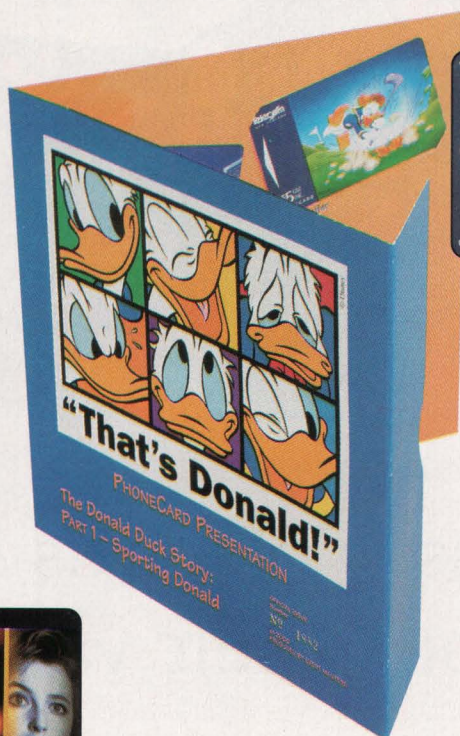

2 FRONTIER X-FILES

A popular seller with the rapidly growing cult of X-Files aficionados, this is the first of many X-Files cards to appear in telecard listings around the world. Look for as many X-Files cards as there are Marilyn cards (most from overseas where licensing is easier). For the most part, this particular card is being distributed outside the collector fraternity, so it may become hard to find.

3 WACHOVIA VISA CASH CARDS

Set of five, in custom folder; total face value $152. Some of the first general issue "Smart Cards" in the U.S. present a unique (but expensive) opportunity for collectors. To own some of these Olympic-related smart cards is tempting; but remember that they are not remote memory (800) cards. You must use the special card-phones located around the Atlanta area or buy merchandise/services from Atlanta Visa Cash merchants to redeem the card value. With their international appeal and smart card features, however, these cards are a cinch to become a collector's item.

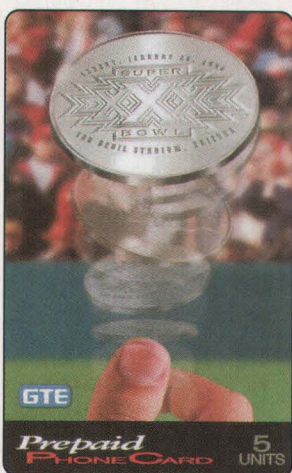

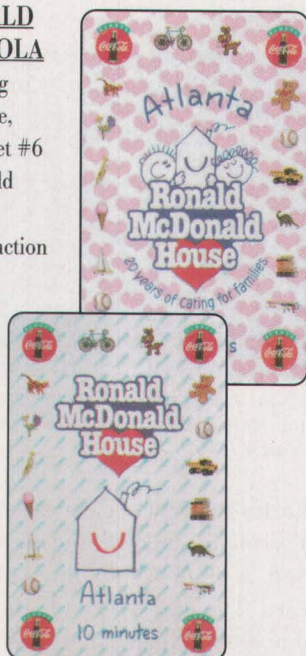

4 NEW ZEALAND TELECOM DONALD DUCK STORY: PART 1

The Disney license is much cheaper and easier to obtain overseas than in the U.S., and the images have been enthusiastically used for phone card issues during the past two years. The collector pack, refined by Australian phone card issuers, allows a premium to be charged for the set, and passed on in the form of a beautiful folder to the collector. The Donald Duck set is an example of a superb folder with three $5 NZ cards retailing at $175 US. Face value is about $10 US.

5 AT&T WORLD OF COCA-COLA

SET #6 Using

AT&T for the first time, World of Coca-Cola Set #6 benefits the two Ronald McDonald Houses in Atlanta. A repeat attraction from last month (#1), it is unusual to see cards make a return engagement as newer and better cards take their place. Cards come mounted in an attractive folder (see May '96 "Most Wanted") which helps sell the issue.

6 GTE SUPER BOWL COIN TOSS

Issued inside the complimentary cushion at the 1996 Super Bowl. Most fans weren't even aware that there was a phone card in the cushion. The phone card promo literature stated, "Heads or tails, you're the winner!" You'll be able to find some dealers with only the card, and some with the cushion and card combo.

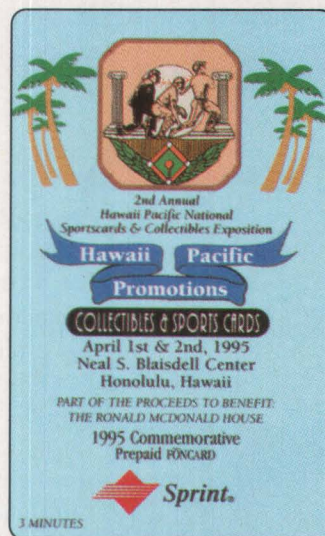

7 SPRINT MONSTERS OF THE GRIDIRON

The hoard has broken and dealers are having fun distributing (again) one of the first Coca-Cola cards in the U.S. And collectors are finally getting the chance to add this important card to their collection. Ultimately the demand will overtake the supply again and the price will return to higher levels. Enjoy these low prices!

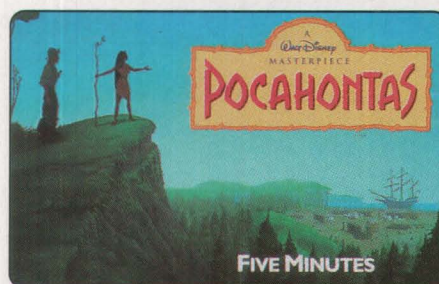

8 SPRINT HAWAIIAN PACIFIC NATIONAL

Although issued a year ago (April 1995), this Ronald McDonald House card has popped up once again. This three-minute card played second fiddle to its more popular NAT sister, only because the NAT card sported the trendy McDonald's logo. This card and the "Monsters of the Gridiron" card just prove that "every card shall have its day in the sun ... some later than others."

9 AT&T DISNEY POCAHONTAS

Designed to promote sales of the Walt Disney home video, "Pocahontas," the telecard carries the all-important AT&T logo and Walt Disney name. Although 100,000 cards were produced, it is a good catch and should be sought-after by collectors worldwide. The card is just now making its presence felt, so it must not have gained wide distribution in 1995, when it was issued.

10 TELEDEBIT/TELL-ONE MICROSOFT

WINDOWS '95 With a mintage of 1,995, this one shouldn't last long. Nor will Windows '95 if they don't get the bugs out of it. First shown in Moneycard Collector, April 1996.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion, Ill. Rankings are based on actual sales figures supplied to Moneycard Collector by U.S. phone card dealers. All dealers are welcome to participate by faxing their Top 10 best sellers for the month, along with the actual number of cards sold to retail customers. All sales figures will be held in strict confidence by Moneycard Collector. Dealers need to fax their data by the middle of each month for it to be included in the rankings.

CHEESEBURGERS IN PARADISE

NEW HAWAIIAN MCDONALD'S CARDS INCORPORATE ENVIRONMENTAL ART FROM APOLLO. Fast food sells well in the Hawaiian Islands, and phone cards promoting fast foods have become almost as prolific as the ever-popular cheeseburger in this tropical paradise.

To date, four different McDonald's restaurants have run promotions featuring phone cards. Just as the McDonald's theme is big elsewhere, Island collectors chase after the latest toys, pins — you name it — including phone cards. Many such Hawaii-related promotional items have gone on to much greater fame and resale value in collector circles worldwide.

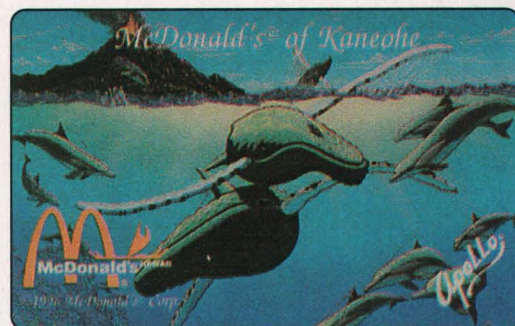

The latest (and arguably the most attractive) licensed McDonald's promotional card was released recently at the Stadium Marketplace, just south of Aloha Stadium. On March 12, this clean, modern McDonald's store released the first in a series of four artistic and very collectible phone cards.

Phonecards Hawaii produced the unique series that features images from exquisite oil paintings by the renowned artist, Apollo. This is the fourth PCHI telecard that incorporates Apollo's artwork, which is "donated" for the projects.

Each of the cards in the new series includes three units of phone time provided by ATCALL. The promotion involves four different McDonald's stores.

The first in the series is called "Aloha Ke Akua" (or "Love is God" in Hawaiian) and depicts the Hawaiian islands within the planet

Phone Cards Hawaii; Apollo/"Mystic Rhythm"; 3 minutes; 1,500 standard/ 250 employee edition; March 1996.

Earth, the crystal clear ocean with an Hawaiian canoe gliding above the surface, and, of course, a dolphin at the center of the card. The entire series highlights the ocean and sealife theme, and the envelope includes the quote: "Together to show the children of Hawaii the beauty of our delicate world when we consider and control our actions of today!"

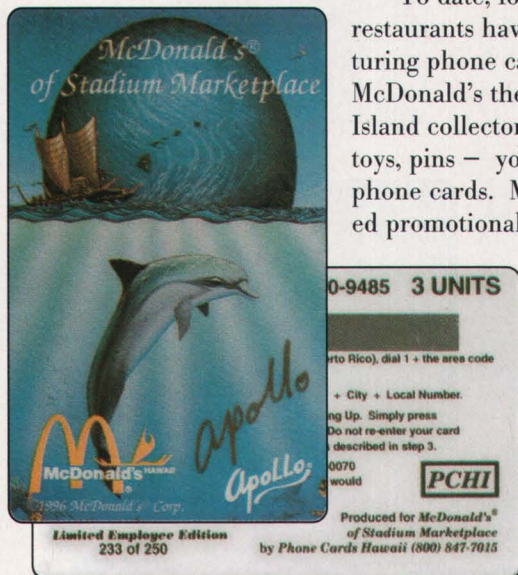

Apollo's commitment is not only to the planet but also to kids, and he related that he has "done a lot of clown work" and has even worked with Ronald McDonald himself. So it was only fitting for the cause-oriented Apollo to donate proceeds from the autograph session to the Hawaii Ronald McDonald House. As an option, collectors could have the artist's gold signature on the card for an additional $2 fee.

The donation box filled quickly as 200 cards were signed during the hours the artist was available. This subset of autographed cards, along with the 250 "Employee cards" printed for workers at the McDonald's store, VIPs and others connected to the program, will prove to be even more rare, and a nice complement to the 1,500 general issue cards.

The personable Apollo has had many one-man shows, frequently exhibiting in major galleries. His calling is his art, which he views as his "soapbox... a way of speaking out about the environment and all this beauty that needs saving.

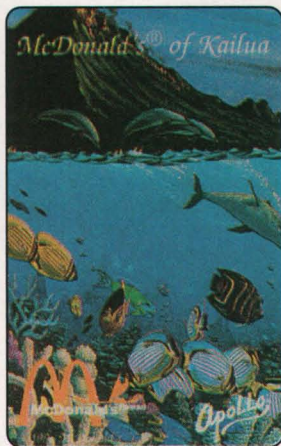

"What I can do," he says, "is help with my art. If there is anyone who needs my services for their cause, they can contact me through the Art Connection (808)235-4553."

Apollo first lent his art to a phone card program in support of the Honolulu Zoo in 1995. He feels phone cards can "serve as both an awareness-builder (of a cause) and a functional piece." He is very pleased with the current McDonald's series, and plans to sign autographs at each of the successive releases at the McDonald's stores.

Phone Cards Hawaii; Apollo/"Aloha Ke Akua"; 3 minutes; 1,500 standard/ 250 employee edition; March 1996.

The three remaining cards in the series were issued at the Kailua McDonald's on March 22; the Kaneohe McDonald's on March 30; and the Kaneohe Marine Corps McDonald's (in conjunction with Beach Week) during mid-April.

McDonald's officials have been pleased with the results of the telecard project. Phones jingled throughout the islands for weeks before the release, as word spread about the cards.

Having stood in disorganized, massive lines at other McDonald's promotions, collectors strategized and planned for their opening day lunch break. Not knowing the actual rules of the promotion, they checked their freezer stock of burgers and sandwiches from the last phone card offering.

For the promotion, rather than a "Meal Deal," customers could obtain the collectible for $5 after any $3 food purchase. "Mahalo" (thank you) to the patient collectors for ushering Moneycard Collector to the front of the line and allowing us to purchase the first card sold over the counter at 11 a.m. More than 400 cards were sold during the first day of the promotion.

According to store management, food sales were up a substantial 20 percent over average Tuesday levels. Only time will tell, but the event could be one of their most successful store promotions ever, according to the McDonald's manager.

So, as the cheeseburgers continue to fly over the counter of the Stadium McDonald's in "paradise," we'll keep you posted on phone cards throughout the Islands. This is definitely a series to watch and a cause to support.

S MARTEL CAPTURES SUPERMAN, BATMAN

Holy PVC! Look in the sky. It's a bird. It's a plane. No, it's Superhero phone cards!

In the world of comic books, no characters have had the impact or have become as cherished as Superman and Batman.

As most comic book aficionados know, the Man of Steel and the Dark Knight were the first costumed superheroes ever created. The Big Blue Boy Scout took his bow in Action Comics #1 more than 60 years ago. The Caped Crusader followed shortly thereafter in Detective Comics and his sidekick Robin made his appearance in 1940 in Batman #1.

The only "classic" comic characters with the same popularity and impact as Superman and Batman are Marvel's Spiderman and X-Men. These four sets of characters are still the only ones with their own television shows, as well as comics published every week.

So, why has it taken so long for U.S. phone cards of Batman and Superman to be created? According to their publisher, DC Comics has just been watching and waiting for the right moment. That moment appears to be now.

DC Comics recently provided SmarTel the rights to produce a trial set of three cards. Two of the cards will be given away as a premium, with the third as a stand-alone card.

First out is the pair of cards. One features Batman, Superman and DC's third major classic character, Wonder Woman. The second card includes Superboy, Green Lantern and the Flash. The cards can be picked up two different ways, both of them as premiums.

The cards are packaged individually in the comic packs and sold through the general retail and comic specialty markets, according to SmarTel's Hugh Greenglass. You can find them in Toys R Us, Caldor and Kmart.

"They also are included in a special package distributed to the comic specialty market," says Donna McAleer, DC's marketing product representative, who coordinates the phone card program. The packages include a DC binder, sheet protectors and recent DC comics.

Each of the first two cards includes five minutes of long distance time, with the mintage as yet undetermined.

The real test, according to DC, will be the performance of the third card — a stand-alone product featuring one of Batman's most provocative adversaries, Catwoman. The Catwoman card will determine whether DC will continue producing phone cards.

The Catwoman cards include 10 minutes of time, with mintage undetermined. The only method of obtaining the card will be through local comic book stores.

The Name Game

Sports Cards, Etc... needs your help in finding a new name. Although we sell Highland Mint Sports Cards & Medallions, we are also in the phone card and long distance telephone business. We need a new name that will either incorporate all 3 businesses or a new name that will encompass the phone card and long distance part of our business. Your efforts will not go unrewarded. We will offer the person that gives us our new name some phone cards, such as Michael Jordan, and even a boom box. If there is more than one winner, the one with the earliest post mark will get the grand prize while others will receive a phone card. No purchase is necessary.

I specialize in Michael Jordan both regular and jumbo cards, Marilyn Monroe including her recently released "Super Jumbo" card, Betty Boop, Pink Panther, Coke, Disney, McDonalds, corporate, some sports and non-sports and users cards.

How would you like to call nationally for 12 cents a minute 24 hours a day? Intrastate rates are 10¢/minute. We offer these services for both residential and businesses. Try our 800# rates. How about calling cards without a service charge. Use that same calling card from anywhere in the US and call internationally for the same rate as if you were at home. For example, the Philippines, Panama, Costa Rica, and Nicaragua for as low as 13 cents a minute. How about Australia for 24 cents, Korea 56 cents, Hong Kong 39 cents, Taiwan 45 cents, and Japan 32 cents. These are only a sample of our low international rates and most are less than $1.00 and all are less than $2.00.

SPORTS CARDS, ETC...

P.O. Box 878 • Mountain View, CA 94042 • Bus (415)917-1919 • Fax (415)917-8780

Price lists are available. Visa, Mastercard & American Express Accepted

Anyone signing up for our long distance telephone service will be automatically entered in a drawing to win a boom box and phone cards. There are no service charges for switching to our service.

B&B THE BEST IN THE WEST

Presents

The Southern California Collectors Expo

Disneyland Hotel Convention Center

Anaheim, California

August 23, 24, & 25, 1996

The phone card show every phone collector in the USA and throughout the world has been asking for!! The First Collectible Card Show in the USA, exclusively for the phone card collectible market. The show will feature the leading Phone Card Dealers not only in the USA but throughout the world offering collectible phone cards for Japan, Germany, England, Australia, New Zealand and the USA. Plus the leading Phone Card Collectible Manufacturers including Classic/Coke, Gem International, Marilyn Monroe, Australia Telecom, New Zealand Event Masters Disney, Japan Disney, Hawaii GTE, MoneyCard, PCM, Beckett, plus much, much more. Millions of dollars worth of collectible phone cards will be on display for sale at over 200 tables and booths plus Disney Collectibles Dealers, Sports Memorabilia Dealers, and Trading Card Dealers.

Added Attraction:

1000 free phone cards each day made especially for the Show including Marilyn Monroe, Disneyland and Coke. 20 major celebrities signing free autographs, including Phone card Artists, Disney Artists, and Sports Celebrities. Free $10.00 validated parking at Disneyland Hotel with purchase. Show admission $5.00 Adults, $3.00 Student, Children 9 and under free.

Other Special Attractions: Special admission rates to Disneyland -- special room rates at Disneyland Hotel (714) 596-6400 -- There are also 20 other hotels near Disneyland for your convenience, many within walking distance. Call Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, (714) 758-0222.

This will be the first of three yearly phone card collectibles shows that we will have with Disneyland. We also plan on having a future show at Disneyworld, Florida.

We encourage all of you to purchase Advance 3-day Show Admission Tickets to ensure that you receive the collectible show phone card for each day of the show, as they will be 1st edition cards and will be sure to trade for high dollar value at the show. Those who cannot attend can still get the show phone cards by sending in $15.00 plus $5.00 shipping & handling. We also advise everyone to book their hotel reservations immediately as we are expecting a large attendance at the show. For further information, call (909) 466-1666. To order tickets, call (800) 777-7610.

Note: Due to rapidly changing prices on all collectible phone cards a complete and current price list is not feasible at this time. Therefore, we recommend that you call us to be put on our preferred customers list to receive our monthly newsletter with hot items and monthly specials. Need Supplies? We have the largest selection in the World. Do not forget to purchase your Wachovia Visa Olympic Cash Cards -- we are almost sold out!

Call it a "Giant Phone Card".....
Or call it The World's First -
"Super Jumbo Phone Card".....

Reduced Photo - Actual Size 8" x 10" (WOW!)

But Whatever You Call it...
It's BIG.....It's BOLD.....And It's BEAUTIFUL!

The World's First Phone Card So Suitable For Framing - That It Comes Complete With the Frame! Movie Studio Photos are always 8" x 10". As a special tribute to the most renown female entertainer in history, we have produced a full color collectible phone card of the exact same size. Only 1000 of these exquisite cards will be produced, and each card is serial numbered. The price is $49.50 per card including a Desktop Frame (plus $3.00 shipping in the USA - Overseas shipping at cost).

Far less than 1000 cards will be available, as many of our clients, and our dealers' clients, already collect ANPC Marilyn Phone Cards by serial number. As the world's largest commercially produced phone card, and one of the most unique items ever of Marilyn Monroe memorabilia, if you want one of these rare phone cards prompt action is recommended.

NFL REPORT

SPORTSCALL ISSUES 400-PLAYER SET Just because the Cowboys won Super Bowl XXX, don't think that the National Football League is taking a vacation. Both the NFL and its Players Association gave themselves only one week off, and then it was back to business as usual. After all, there are free agents to sign, the draft to prepare, and the most important element for moneycard collectors — licenses to be sold.

Players Inc., the licensing arm of the NFL Players Association, has given out one of the largest licenses ever in the phone card industry. SportsCall Ventures will soon issue a new 400-player set of football telecards.

"There are many players who are very popular in their local area," Players Inc. Assistant Vice President Clay Walker explained. "For instance, SportsCall will be issuing phone cards featuring a dozen different Green Bay Packers. These players may not be as popular as Reggie White or Brett Favre nationally, but they are extremely marketable in the Midwest. In fact, we're developing a marketing plan that will really exploit the fact that we have those players on a local level."

The payoff for SportsCall could be enormous, the licensing executive contends. "In fact, we believe this is going to turn the corner for the entire phone card industry. If this program works, I think we will see another half-dozen NFL phone card licenses within the next couple of years," he said

Initially, there will be two different versions of the SportsCall set — one for sports card hobby centers and the other for the general retail market.

The inaugural hobby version will be a limited-edition set sold in four-card sealed packs, just like trading cards. Among the stars in the set will be Emmitt Smith, Troy Aikman, Favre, White and many more.

Each phone card will come with two minutes of time, with recharging privileges at $.25 per minute. There will be 3,500 numbered cases of the product, which calculates to just 5,040 of each of the images. A sweepstakes will also be included with the card issue, with winners receiving tickets to the next three Super Bowls.

"One of the early problems with phone cards in the U.S. is that people are buying the cards without using the phone time," explained SportsCall's Mike Jacobson. "This sweepstakes program will give people an incentive to use the time."

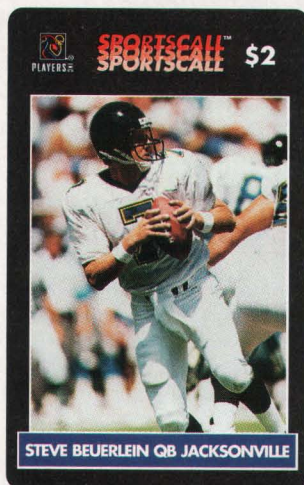

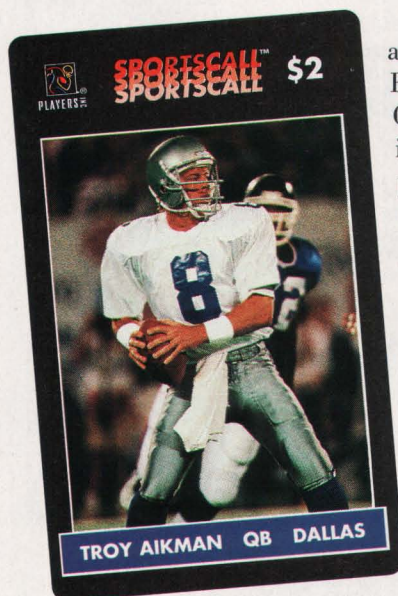

"We don't believe there has ever been a sweepstakes offering tickets to three consecutive Super Bowls. We've added something that will not only make the collector want the cards, but use them as well."

Contestants will call the 800-number on the card and register the PIN code. In addition to the three years of Super Bowl trips, there is a 1996 Mercedes sports car, a $10,000 shopping spree, as well as weekly and monthly awards of autographed memorabilia, phone time and even instant winners.

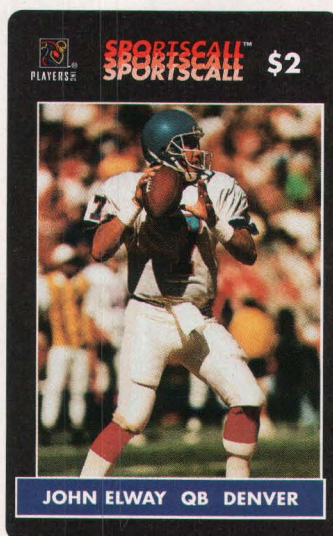

"Many collectors want all 400 players," said Players Inc.'s Walker. "Because of the extensive level of this license and the sweepstakes, I think it will be the thing that spurs this hobby to the next level."

"And none of these cards are throw-aways," adds SportsCall's Ed Potash. "Any one card could be a winner."

In the meantime, SportsCall is in the process of preparing the retail version of its set for the upcoming NFL season. While the retail set will use the same players as the hobby version, the phone cards will feature different images.

SportsCall; NFL Players Phone Cards; 400-card hobby set; $2 denominations; 5,040 of each player; April 1996.

SHOW STOPPER

PHONE CARDS INVADE KIT YOUNG SHOW For 11 years, Kit Young, one of the old generals of the sports trading card industry, has been bringing the industry together (at trade shows) in hopes of really bringing the industry together. It appears as if he may have done just that: collectors, dealers and manufacturers supported this year's annual Kit Young Hawaii (Hawaii XI). And of course, what kind of collectibles show would be without phone card collectors in the ranks?

Several phone card issuers offered great cards at the event, formally known as the Annual Kit Young Hawaii Conference and Collector's Show. Classic, in particular, handed out a special Hawaii XI Coca-Cola phone card with a $10 face value. This commemorative card sold quickly at the show for about $20.

Two other phone card-related items sold well at the annual charity auction, held this year to benefit the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation and the Alliance for Collectibles Education (ACE). Finish Line Racing donated a $50 Ernie Ivan card from their 1996 PhonePaks, along with an uncut sheet of the new NASCAR cards. The pair sold for $125.

LCI ACQUIRES ATS McLean, Virginia-based LCI, the nation's sixth largest long distance company, has signed a letter of intent to acquire ATS Network Communications, Inc.

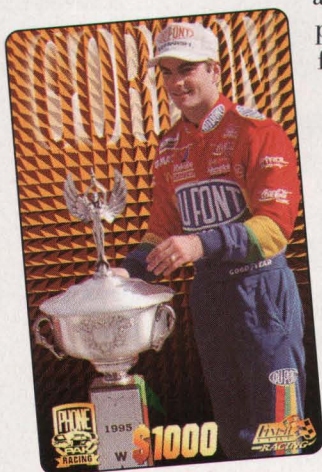

Founded in 1993, the Memphis-based ATS provides communication services to more than 2,000 business customers in the Mid-South. The long distance carrier has been selling prepaid phone cards for the past two years.

"As a regional center for LCI, along with the company's 35 other domestic locations, we will now have the ability and resources to become a major player in the prepaid market nationwide," said Tim Whitehorn, president of ATS.

Among ATS' calling card customers are The Chevrolet Motor Division, Jimmy Dean Sausage, Hammermill Papers and Cleo, Inc.

LUCKY COLLECTORS FIND $1,000 PHONEPAK CARDS Two lucky dealers uncovered $1,000 cards during the early days of distribution of PhonePaks prepaid phone cards. Jim Denton of The Bullpen & Dugout found a $1,000 Rusty Wallace card in the very first pack that he opened. Danny Eggemann and Elizabeth Sloane of Blue Ribbon Collecting unwrapped a $1,000 Bill Elliott phone card in their first case of cards.

In all, there are 100 of the $1,000 prepaids in the PhonePaks series, 25 of four different NASCAR drivers. A total of 800 cases of the Finish Line product has been produced.

SCORE BOARD, 7-ELEVEN TEAM UP FOR BASEBALL Score Board, Inc. and The Southland Corp. have signed an agreement to produce baseball-related phone cards for 7-Eleven convenience stores. The program is Score Board's most comprehensive licensed retail plan to date.

The prepaids will feature a dozen of baseball's most popular players, and will be available nationally in 5,100 of the 7-Eleven stores in June. Joining National Program Spokesman Cal Ripken Jr. on the cards are Ken Griffey Jr., Greg Maddux, Hideo Nomo, Frank Thomas, Wade Boggs, Mo Vaughn and five additional well-known stars. The 15-minute cards will be individually packaged in clear cellophane and carry a suggested retail price of $5.99 each ($.40 per minute).

TLC SHUTS DOWN MASTER DISTRIBUTORS Unable to reconcile financial differences with independent distributors, The Long Distance Company (TLC) has voided the use of millions of TLC PhoneCards throughout the Caribbean. TLC and MCI, its major carrier, made numerous attempts to recover payment from the distributors, who had purchased the cards for resale and refused to pay for them.

The problem developed late last year when TLC's main distributors withheld payments and refused to comply with the terms of sale, while continuing to resell and distribute the phone cards. Carrier services were terminated by MCI to avoid further losses.

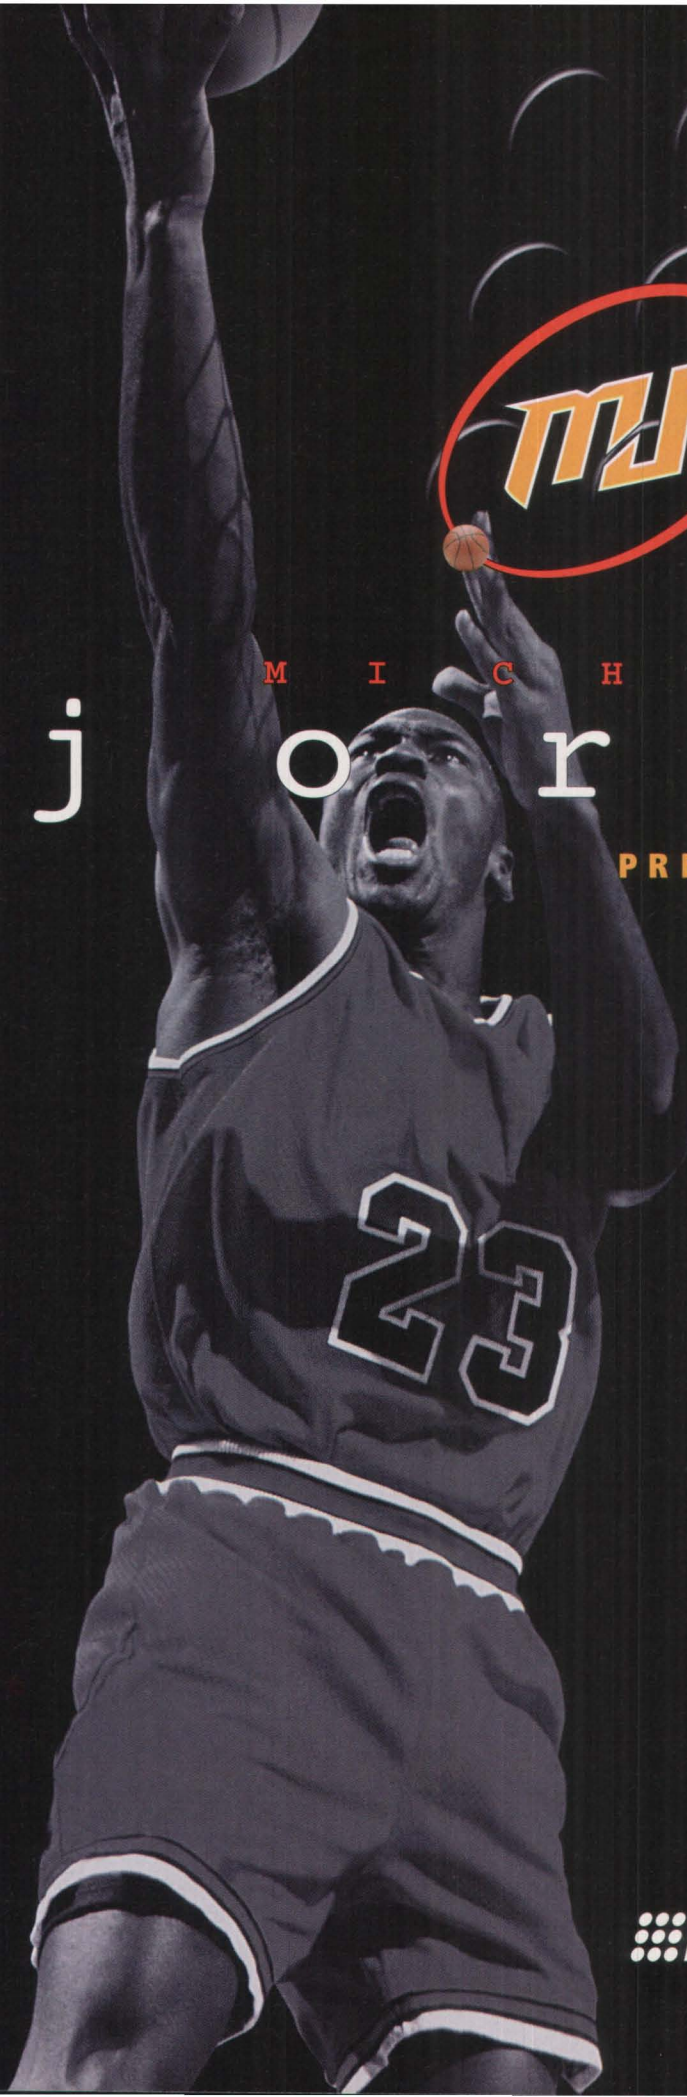

A distributor information line (313/202-2027) has been established for consumers seeking further information on the cards.

ASOCIATION ANNOUNCES NEW OFFICERS The USTelecard Association has a new slate of officers and board members. New officers are: Joe Miller, Chairman of the Board (Ameritech); Clara Thompson, Chair-Elect (LDDS WorldCom); Arthur Butt, Vice Chairman (ITC); Luis Vigdor, Treasurer (Powell Associates); and Kevin Pirolo, Secretary (ACMI). Added to the Board were Marianne Townsend of ConQuest Communications, Bob Sternberg of BLT Technologies, Sandy Bashover of PCM Report, and Sam Maropis of Brilliant Color Cards.

The USTelecard Association is currently investigating a possible name change to reflect the growing international market and diverse constituency of the group.

GTS, GLOBAL LINK SIGN MERGER AGREEMENT New-York-based Global Telecommunication Solutions (GTS) has completed a merger with Global Link Teleco Corp. The Philadelphia-based Global Link will operate as a wholly owned subsidiary of GTS.

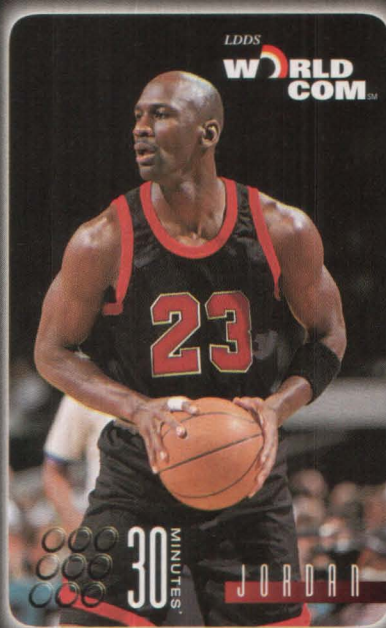

GTS is a major issuer of promotional, licensed and interactive phone cards, while Global Link's business is mainly in the retail and utility areas of the phone card market.

AMERITECH

During the first 11 weeks of 1996, Ameritech produced seven different telecard issues. Two of the most recent were promotional cards created for Ameritech's master distributors — USACard and Powell Associates. The prepaids are the first to carry the logos of both an RBOC and a private telecom. Each of the distributors received 1,100 custom-designed five-unit cards for use in promoting the sales of Ameritech cards. Other RBOCs, take note!

Motorola received 5,500 30-unit promotional cards to help promote their computer memory devices. The RAMPage cards were glued to the folder with a strong adhesive that may require mineral spirits to remove. The Motorola card is the first of a series of two.

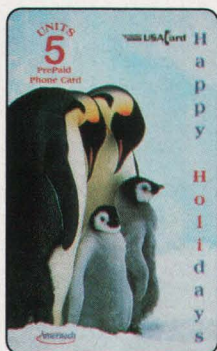

A Frank Thomas Big Hurt Special Fan Club Edition card was used as a premium for joining the baseball star's fan club (312/654-4878). Four thousand of the brightly colored 10-minute cards were issued.

One of the most sought-after Regional Bell Operating Company (RBOC) cards of 1995 was prepaid commemorating Ameritech and Bell Atlantic's joint acquisition of Telecom New Zealand. One thousand of the 10-minute cards were produced and given to the attendees of the annual Ameritech directors meeting, held in Chicago last October.

The card, featuring the logos of Ameritech, Telecom New Zealand and Bell Atlantic, is currently selling for hundreds of dollars in New Zealand, and is rapidly escalating in value in the U.S. Fifteen specimen copies were also produced.

Ameritech was one of two

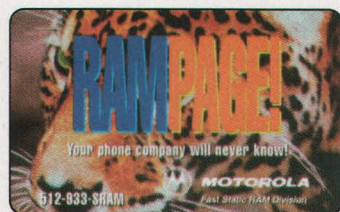

RBOCs to ride to the rescue of customers holding USA Calling cards (see "Quik Takes," May 1996). Congratulations for being a true knight in shining armor.

NEVADA BELL

Nevada Bell is in the process of installing 1,300 Nortel Millennium payphones throughout the Reno service area. There are now 4,000 standard payphones in use. While the Millennium phones accept credit cards and calling cards, they are expected to utilize the new VISA stored value cards (SVC), also known as Visa Cash cards. SVCs are prepaid debit cards designed to replace cash for small purchases. BellSouth recently installed 200 Millennium payphones in Atlanta that accept SVCs.

Unlike Bell South, Nevada Bell has plans to issue their own stored memory chip phone cards, as currently do U S WEST and Bell Canada, with their Millennium payphones. Plans to extend the phone card payphones to other areas of the state depend on the results of the initial installations.

In fact, the whole area of prepaid cards in Nevada offers exciting possibilities. International Gaming Technologies is believed to be producing prepaid cards for use in slot machines. The VISA SVC also seems like a natural. The most common denomination banknote in Las Vegas is the $100 bill, so the SVCs would be very convenient. For the collector, casinos could become a great source of used SVCs.

NYNEX

NYNEX collectors should lace up their jogging shoes and run out to pick up the new Back Bay, Boston card. Issued to commemorate the 100th running of the Boston Marathon, the $5 cards were available the day of the race (April 15), and are now available by calling (800)NYNEX 90.

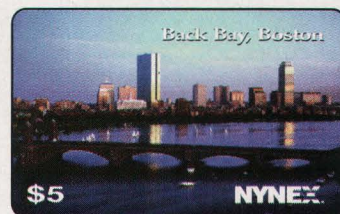

The Brasher Doubloon sets have been sent back to the printers twice, demonstrating the high quality that NYNEX demands.

Another remote memory series was issued in January utilizing the Vermont series images, but there's a new twist. These cards sport Chinese language on the back, in the caller's choice of either Mandarin or Cantonese dialect prompts. The cards are available from various retail outlets in New York.

PACIFIC BELL

The most recent issue from PacBell is a Mother's Day card. As a courtesy to customers, the minimum order was waived for this issue.

PacBell is the second RBOC participating in the USA Calling bail-out. As a member of the USTelecard Association, PacBell will provide some of the replacement cards furnished to holders of the inactive cards. This is an excellent good will gesture from PacBell.

SOUTHWESTERN BELL

Two denominations of the Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages (Swbyp's) cards were issued in December: 3,000 of the $10 cards and 2,000 of the $25 cards. The prepaids were used internally.

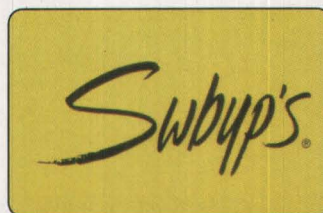

The National Issues Convention, held January 18-21 at the University of Texas at Austin, was commemorated by a $25 card. One thousand cards were printed and attached to folders, with 600 of them handed out to attendees at the convention.

Six new designs will be available soon from SWB: "Happy Birthday"; "Happy Mother's Day"; "Congratulations"; "Keep in Touch"; "It's a Boy!"; and "It's a Girl!"

U S WEST

The attractive 1996 Telecard Collector Catalog, which U S WEST sent out for free, cost the company several dollars apiece. This demonstrates U S WEST's commitment to collectors.

Two cards, each with a 2,000 mintage, were recently issued for trade shows held in Atlanta. The first was a $20 card, commemorating TeleCard World, and available with a minimum purchase of other U S WEST cards. The second was a $1 comp card commemorating CardTech/SecurTech. A U S WEST collectors' club newsletter is in preparation.

Box office hits hit phone cards

By Nancy Blackburn

Popcorn with extra butter, a Coke... and a phone card, please." This request could become common fare at movie theatres as posters, stars and scenes from box office hits are increasingly appearing on prepaid phone cards.

Interactive Telephone Co. is generally credited with issuing the first phone card to feature a film release. Only 700 cards featuring an independent Hollywood production were issued in October 1993.

Movie buffs and collectors alike give top billing to the 12-card set that features actual film clips from the 1939 film classic, "The Wizard of Oz." Licensed by TeleTrading Cards and released during March 1994, the first six cards of the set were inadvertently produced without the trademark symbol on the front. The last six cards, issued October 1995, included the symbol.

The first simultaneous release of a movie and telecard was done by ACMI and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (MGM), and featured the promotional poster picture of Jeff Bridges and Tommy Lee Jones from the "dynamite" movie, "Blown Away" (July 4, 1994). Ten thousand cards were issued in denominations of $3, $7 and $20.

Since that time, popular movies and ACMI telecards have gone together like Bogart and Bacall. Included in the ACMI "playbill" has been United Artists' "Tank Girl" (March 1995) and "Lord of Illusions" (September 1995); MGM's animated feature, "The Pebble and the Penguin"; and most recently another MGM animated feature, "All Dogs Go To Heaven 2."

GTI's recent flurry of Hollywood film features run the gamut of mass media appeal. Horror movie aficionados were drawn to Mike Hammer's 1930s "Chamber of Horrors" series that included cards picturing Dracula, Frankenstein and the Phantom of the Opera.

For the youngsters, GTI offered a colorful five-card "Flintstones" set and a six-card "Casper" series.

Adventure-seekers were thrilled with cards featuring super-spy James Bond, Agent 007, in "GoldenEye." The 007 cards were available through several retail grocery chains.

The sci-fi flick, "Johnny Mnemonic," was illustrated on four different phone cards, and Tom Hanks' exciting space adventure "Apollo 13" is depicted on a six-card set. GTI's most recent salute to Hollywood is devoted to Kevin Costner's blockbuster "Waterworld" movie.

enthralled with the idea of obtaining a mini poster with phone time. The card is available with the purchase of a home version copy of the exciting movie.

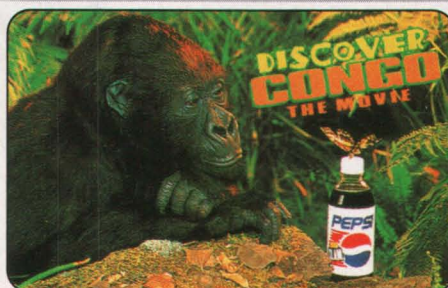

Whether a box office blockbuster or a dud, phone card issuers are beginning to hop on the Hollywood express. While issuers are hoping the lure of big-name stars and movies will help move the product, collectors are simply having fun recalling memorable characters and scenes from their favorite flicks.

Who knows what these phone cards might do to traditional movie-goers: "No, thank you... no popcorn, no candy... just a phone card, please."
