One thing that remains constant is the abundance of questions that we receive every day here at Moneycard Collector. And a question we often hear from collectors and issuers alike concerns how we determine which cards are included in our monthly Price Guide section. With space at a premium each month, inevitably some cards must be left out of the listings.

So how do we determine which ones get cut? A few critics have accused us of simply conducting a popularity contest... and they're right! Moneycard Collector's price listings are based on the retail selling prices of the most popular unused, mint condition cards.

When cards "mature" on the market and their demand begins to wane, the card's selling price generally levels off, or "plateaus." New cards, or those with rapidly escalating or falling prices, are the prime candidates for our Price Guide. In other words, if you don't see your card on the list, you can assume 1) the card is too new to make dealers' price lists, or 2) there has been no change in the card's value during the past few months.

If you are certain that a specific card is being sold by a phone card dealer and you don't yet see it in our listings, encourage that dealer to submit the price to us as quickly as possible. That's the only way a card can make it into the Price Guide.

We rely on pricing information each month from 40 of the nation's top phone card dealers. Pricing cards is an inexact science, at best, and once in a while collectors disagree with what we report. Again, however, we simply reflect the prices submitted by these dealers.

Prices are determined by "clustering" and not by simple arithmetic averaging. For example, a card listed in the Price Guide at $25 might be based on six dealers' prices - $20, $25, $25, $25, $40 and $45. By simply averaging the numbers, the price would be $30. However, four of the six dealers submitted prices below that figure, with $25 the most popular submission. The $25 price therefore covers the majority "cluster" of dealers.

Readers have consistently informed us that the "New Issues" and "America's Most Wanted" columns are the two most popular sections of our magazine each month. And our recent reader survey told us that you wanted more coverage of foreign cards. Accordingly, readers of this issue will notice that these two columns now include foreign-issued cards for the first time. Many of these cards have enjoyed increased popularity among U.S. collectors within the past few months, and our magazine will continue to reflect that interest in our editorial coverage.

We encourage foreign issuers - especially those with images popular with Americans - to submit a sample of each of their cards, along with important collector data such as denomination, mintage, issue date and a phone number or address to order the card. A brief explanation about the image is also helpful. The deadline for submission of these cards is the 15th of each month.

We've been informed by a handful of readers that one of the cards listed in our February New Issues column includes a phone number that has been disconnected.

The "Elvira, Mistress of the Dark" series was issued by Transtalk, but none of the phone numbers supplied with the news release are currently operable. At press time, we are still investigating the situation with the U.S. Telecard Association (USTA) and other industry contacts. We also want to hear from any of our readers with additional information about the cards or the issuer. Please contact us at (513)498-0879.

As always, if any reader experiences problems with a phone card, issuer or supplier, we would appreciate being informed, so that we can investigate and advise others.

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

Proper identification required

The December "Most Wanted" section contains our card at #10. ATCALL, the airtime provider, is credited for the production. Phone Cards Hawaii, however, is actually the producer of this card, as well as being an approved phone card vendor for McDonald's.

Larsen Luke, Phonecards Hawaii, Honolulu, Hawaii

Sorry that we inadvertently left Phonecards Hawaii off the credits for the McDonald's of Ala Moana card, though we correctly identified the card in the October 1995 issue. In the future, we would suggest placing the name of the issuer somewhere on the front of the card, since collectors often only see the image side. It would also greatly help us (Moneycard Collector) to properly credit the companies involved, if you could send us a sample card.

Willy a 'no show'

I read with more than a little interest Bruce Harmon's letter on page 5 ("Promotional Perils) in the December 1995 issue of Moneycard Collector. Regarding his experience with Arm & Hammer, in which he did not receive the expected card (Free Willy 2) when the ad clearly stated that no purchase is necessary to receive their free phone card.

Don't feel bad, Bruce - I sent for 200 of these cards and have gotten nothing. So I'm out $64 in postage and wasted a lot of time. I even wrote to their customer relations people twice and after getting no satisfaction, I wrote to the president, Dwight Minton. As of Nov. 4, I have heard nothing from him either, so apparently they feel no special need to correct their error.

Since this card was needed to enter a sweepstakes, that is why the "No Purchase Necessary" statement was made; the FTC requires that stipulation for non-skill sweepstakes. Unfortunately, no one at Arm & Hammer informed their clearinghouse in Mascoutah, Ill.

I figured this would be a relatively easy way to get a pile of phone cards for trade or investment. Boy, was I wrong!

For what good it might do, perhaps fellow readers could voice their experiences to: Dwight C. Minton - CEO, Arm & Hammer, Church & Dwight Co., 469 North Harrison, Princeton, N.J. 08543-5297; phone (609)683-5900. As the old adage goes, there is strength in numbers.

More New Issues

The "New Issue" section is the first section I turn to monthly when the postman delivers my issue of Moneycard Collector. I then begin writing down telephone numbers so that the following day I can begin contacting suppliers. Keep up the good work on the new issue section, as it helps both collector and dealer alike locate new cards on the market. The section just needs to be three or four pages larger.

Joe Koger, Miami Fla.

Yours was one of many letters that we've received requesting more New Issues in the magazine.

No fair!

Recently, I completed a federally funded program designed to help me start a small business selling and marketing phone cards. For the past five months I have been struggling to make ends meet, only to find out my biggest competitor will be a federally regulated industry - the United States Postal Service. To make matters worse, these telephone calling cards will be supplied and backed by American Express, who will not wholesale cards to small distributors like myself.

The whole idea raises a variety of important questions. Isn't this unfair competition for smaller phone card companies and the retailers who sell their cards? Isn't this a conflict of interest? Most of my material and cards are handled by the U.S. Postal Service. In theory, the competition will be controlling my mail.

Who approved this deal and is this person(s) receiving any compensation from American Express? Was it authorized by the U.S. Government? Why weren't taxpayers or other phone card companies informed before sales began? Who set the calling rates and how much are international rates? Was there any bidding for this contract, or was it just handed to American Express? If and when the State (of Rhode Island) decides to tax this service, will the Post Office become the only tax-free location to purchase telephone calling cards?

The Post Office recently stopped selling t-shirts and mugs due to complaints from merchants of unfair competition. I believe the sale of prepaid phone cards by the U.S. Postal Service should also come to a halt, at least until some questions are answered. Phone cards will soon become big business in the U.S., and the Post Office should not be allowed to grant such a huge market advantage to any one company without disclosing who received what benefits in return for this deal and why bids were not publicly solicited before American Express was given this contract.

Read the stories

I think Moneycard Collector is doing a good job with "America's Most Wanted." If people would read and not only look at pages, they would understand how the column works and that this is the international standard.

I know that Moneycard Collector is not perfect, but it is excellent work. I started collecting at times when there was no information available. There was nothing but cards.

Chip-based debit cards poised to replace cash transactions

By Murray Church

The 1996 Atlanta Olympic Games promises to be an important international event in its own right. The games will mark the centennial of the modern Olympic movement. And just as the Atlanta games will be a celebration of the traditional and the new, so will they mark something traditional and new in the banking industry: a return to issuing monetary instruments — this time in the form of plastic chip-based cards known as Visa Cash.

Visa Cash is a new stored value, chip-based debit card. In the U.S., the product launch has been tied to the Atlanta area during the period leading up to and including the Olympic Games. The first cards are being issued by three banks, all of which are headquartered in the Southeast: NationsBank (Charlotte), which has been appointed by the U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) as the official bank of the games; First Union Corp. (Charlotte); and the Wachovia Corp. (Atlanta). A related story about the specific cards follows on page 10.

Though each of the banks will initially market only stand-alone, disposable cards, plans call for the later introduction of two additional formats — stand-alone rechargeable and enhanced ATM and VISA credit cards.

For collectors, interest will probably center on the two types of stand-alone cards, since neither will bear the name or numbers associated with a specific individual.

According to VISA's vice-president for Stored Value Cards, Mary Buckley, "We are targeting all cash transactions of $10 or less. We view Visa Cash as a direct replacement for cash — coins and banknotes — and that it will bring tremendous advantages for both merchants and consumers."

Consumer benefits include speed, convenience, accuracy and enhanced personal security. It takes a scant two seconds for a card reader to decrement a Visa Cash card. Use of the debit card eliminates the need for exact change, reduces clerical errors in making change, and reduces the potential for purse snatchings and other forms of cash theft.

For merchants, the cards should provide faster transaction processing, improved cashier productivity, reduced handling costs, better customer service, increased security, and because consumers usually spend more using cards than cash, increased sales.

VISA recently completed an international research project that indicated many consumers view Proposed designs for First Union's Visa Cash cards demonstrate creative flair.

First Union's first Visa Cash design graphically demonstrates that the card is an electronic replacement for cash.

debit cards as "good to excellent." In the U.S., for example, the overall approval rating was an impressive 73 percent.

At least half of all respondents mentioned they would like to use the cards at gas stations, grocery stores, fast food outlets, pay phones, convenience stores, movie theaters, cafeterias, video rentals, public transit, and so on.

Each of the three banks determined the denominations of their debit cards. The initial series of cards will range from $5 to $100.

In Atlanta, consumers will pay face value to purchase the cards and nothing in the way of card user fees. Merchants will pay a commission on each transaction of one percent of the retail transaction price plus two cents, and will have to purchase electronic card reader terminals, which are expected to cost $250 to $700, depending on the quantity purchased.

According to a study on financial innovations and activity in Atlanta published by Synergistics Research Corporation in December, Atlanta area merchants already signed up to the program by NationsBank include United Artists Theaters, CCI payphones, BellSouth payphones (200 instruments), Texaco/Star Enterprises stores (gas bars), Crown Central Petroleum stores, Domino's Pizza, Taco Bell, Baskin-Robbins, Blimpie, Chick-Fil-A and Pollo Tropical. First Union and Wachovia are also expected to announce significant merchant sign-ups.

There are three features common to the NationsBank and First Union cards: serial numbers, expiration dates and an admonition to treat the card as cash, for if lost it will not be replaced.

VISA has stated that expiration dates were used on the cards only because the technology and standards are moving so rapidly that there is a concern about consumers trying to use technically outmoded cards in more up-to-date electronic readers.

Increasing the chances for commercial success of the new product is the manner in which small transactions will be handled. For years many national mints believed that economics would prevent such a low value purchase from being displaced by a debit card. Electronic batching of transactions, however, now makes these purchases economically feasible.

Terminals will be able to decrement the correct amounts from cards off-line and store them. Later, at a pre-determined interval of up to 28 days, and using an internal memory of 640k, the terminal will dial up a VISA computer and send all of the stored transactions as a batch, thus reducing the cost of processing each transaction.

Though VISA is predicting broad acceptance within a five-year time frame, many bank officials believe that this may be a relatively conservative view. All noted that the economics of Visa Cash point to much more rapid acceptance because the product represents a win-win situation for merchants and consumers, and because the VISA name is known and trusted. Many bankers also believe total card costs should be less than merchants' cash handling, deposit and withdrawal costs.

In a pilot test in two Belgium cities, chip-based stored value PROTON cards displaced 30 percent of all coin and banknote transactions in less than one year.

As for collectibility, Buckley told Moneycard Collector that from the beginning VISA has believed the cards will be highly sought after by collectors. Bank card experts point to the likelihood that among the cards issued for the Olympics will be so-called "affinity" and "co-branded" Visa Cash cards — a suggestion that points to some fantastic design possibilities.

In the meantime, collectors will have the opportunity to acquire the first issues of stored value Visa Cash cards, first issues that also bear Olympic designs and logos.

The target market for the new cards on a global basis is enormous. According to research presented by VISA, 22 percent of all transactions are less than $10, and the total estimated value of such transactions in 29 countries that represent 80 percent of the world's economic output is $1.8 trillion dollars.

MC

In Belgium, card readers, ATM dispensers, vending machines and card-reading phones have contributed to strong acceptance in test markets.

OLYMPIC HOPEFULS

NATIONS BANK, FIRST UNION, WACHOVIA – WHO WILL COME OUT ON TOP WITH COLLECTORS? Although unanimous in the belief that the collector market will be a good one for their cards, each of the three first-issuer banks is taking its own approach to marketing Visa Cash.

NationsBank and First Union are viewing their involvement as a product launch, with the clear intent of building their markets after the games.

Wachovia, while highly confident about their program, considers it a pilot. They intend to learn from the situation, and based on the results, decide whether or how to continue.

NationsBank; Visa Cash; 1996 Olympic Sponsor; $20 denomination; October 1995.

First Union; Visa Cash; bronze, silver and gold coins; $10 (40,000 issued), $20 (40,000), $50 (20,000); October 1995.

Wachovia; Visa Cash; Salute to Atlanta; $50 denomination (swimming); December 1995.

Wachovia; Visa Cash; Salute to Atlanta; $20 denomination (track); December 1995.

NationsBank has launched its first product, a $20 disposable card. Unlike the First Union and Wachovia cards, the Visa Cash logo is on the reverse of the card, the Olympic graphic is that of the United States Olympic Committee rather than the Atlanta Games torch logo, and the obverse of the card bears the phrase "Official Sponsor 1996 U.S. Olympic Team."

NationsBank expects its Olympic cards to number close to one million pieces. The final number of designs and denominations has yet to be decided.

First Union issued its first series of Visa Cash cards to the general public in $10, $20 and $50 denominations during October. The cards feature images of bronze, silver and gold coins.

In comparison with future Visa Cash issues, the first three-card edition has a smaller Visa Cash logo without a blue background, and the logo is positioned in the lower left rather than the lower right corner of the design. The position differs because this is one of the design details that had not been finalized by the time First Union had to print the cards.

The reverse of the First Union cards bears a BellSouth logo, as well as an internal number that will be a boon to collectors. For example, the code "110/40MEDB" would translate to: First issue of $10 / 40 thousand pieces / and EDB, the initials of the product manager responsible for the card issue.

Between now and the end of the Atlanta Games, First Union expects to issue 700,000 cards of varying designs and denominations. As with NationsBank, First Union has not yet announced how it will serve the collector market, but is expected to do so shortly.

Of the three banks, Wachovia will probably issue the fewest Visa Cash cards during the next 18 months. Wachovia is planning a total of five designs, with a total production of 100,000 cards.

The first two of five different cards, highly attractive $20 and $50 denominations celebrating track and swimming, were unveiled December 4 in Atlanta. Printed by Gemplus on 30 mil PVC, the cards incorporate a Siemens chip. The designs of the other three cards will illustrate cycling, gymnastics and soccer, but the denominations have not been announced.

Like the First Union cards, Wachovia features the Atlanta 1996 Olympic flame logo. All Wachovia cards incorporate the letters "US" to indicate that they are denominated in U.S. dollars.

Both of Wachovia's first designs also illustrate the bank's major physical presence in Atlanta. The Wachovia Bank building is the tallest in the scene, positioned immediately next to the hurdler's right knee.

Though all three banks will be serving the collector market, Wachovia is the first to announce its distribution plans. Three distributors have been appointed: the Sammler (collector) service of DANMONT in Copenhagen, Denmark (45 44 97 92 00); and two U.S. distributors – B&B Collectibles of Alta Loma, Calif., (909)466-1666 and KARS Unlimited of Ormond Beach, Fla., (800)750-3506.

It is likely that all of the first issues from all three banks will be highly collectible. They are first issues, each is a stored value card, and Olympic in theme. In years to come, they probably will be viewed as historically significant events in the evolution of money and moneycards. Whether they will be rare and appreciate in value will not be known until some time after the games are over and there is a general idea about how many cards were used and discarded and how many were kept as collectibles.

Many of the cards purchased on site in Atlanta will likely go home with foreign visitors. If the available supply of these cards (especially mint unused) turns out to be small and the distribution very wide, the cards could end up becoming the jewels of many moneycard collections.

As each of these banks make more of their plans public, Moneycard Collector will report them to our readers.

PHONE CARDS AND ALL THAT JAZZ
Painters often feel a special kinship with musicians. Perhaps it's because they realize that music-makers are, like themselves, passionately devoted to their craft. Maybe it's because they recognize that musicians share their own goal of self-expression and communication, or possibly it's because they understand the similarity of the creative processes that bring music and painting into being.

Over the years, many artists have used music and music composition as the subject of their paintings, often using it as a pretext to contemplate more fully the nature of their own art.

In the nineteenth century, for example, James McNeill Whistler based his theory of painting on its parallels with music, and some of the most striking portraits by the American painter Thomas Eakins are studies of musicians (usually members of his family or friends) in intimate, homey settings, shown completely absorbed in the beauty of the music they are performing.

Artist Ken Touzet is another, more contemporary example of one who has produced a series of water colors of New Orleans Jazz musicians that adorn a set of phone cards distributed by TCM Associates, Inc. His images of a jazz drummer, saxophonist, pianist and bass player are as fluid, spontaneous and improvisational as the music they represent.

The basic design of these cards is simple, almost stark. The images appear on plain white backgrounds with no borders, and the print, using a very simple typeface, is kept to a minimum at the top and bottom edges of the cards.

The visual effect, in other words, relies exclusively on the artist's treatment of his medium — in his choice of colors, brushworks, and composition — for its success.

Touzet's images call attention to the very physical nature of jazz performance by capturing the vigorous poses and gestures of the players, who bend, sway, arch, and tap in time with their music.

The artist seems to understand that a great deal of information can be conveyed through the position of the body — the twist of a torso, the tilt of a head, the shrug of a shoulder.

Here, Touzet shows us how jazz musicians become totally caught up in their music, moving in concert with their instruments. Their music-making is truly a performance in the fullest sense of the word — something to be watched as much as heard.

But Touzet is also attempting to tell us something about jazz itself. And here we can begin to appreciate the challenge of representing music visually — that is, the artist must suggest sounds that cannot actually be heard. He must effect a transfer from one sensory mode to another, finding suitable visual forms that, when seen, will cause us to hear something in the mind's ear, so to speak.

Touzet accomplishes this first with the use of watercolor washes, applying the paint in broad strokes and patches that vary from opaque to translucent. There are no clean-cut edges. Instead, the shapes are rough and simple, with the colors sometimes bleeding into one another.

Although there is some detail of a sketchy nature — a few black lines suggesting strings, frets, or keys, for example — it is used as a counterpoint to the few basic fluid shapes that dominate each image. The spontaneity and improvisational nature of this technique are, of course, exactly those qualities we associate most often with jazz.

Likewise, the series of "S" and "Z" shapes which describe that figure and suggest not only the movements of the performers, but also the syncopated rhythms of the music itself.

It is tempting to compare these cards to the "musical" compositions by Leonard Nierman reviewed earlier in this column (April 1995 issue). Nierman's lush palette and elegant oil compositions suggest the orchestral world of classic music; Touzet's water colors represent the very different world of jazz. Both demonstrate how the breadth of expressive possibilities available in both music and painting can be illustrated — even on a phone card.

WHERE TO FIND 'EM

One of the most frequently heard questions from new collectors in the hobby concerns locating phone cards — both for use and collecting. Like most other collectibles, the “search” or “chase” is often the most enjoyable part of the hobby.

Though still not a household word, phone cards are showing up in more places every day. Just to help jump-start the rookies, we’ve taken an informal poll of some places our readers can pick up new telecards. Readers should also refer to our monthly listing of phone card dealers on page 38, as they will usually offer the greatest variety and supply.

If you happen to live near one of these areas or plan to travel there soon, stop in and see what they have to offer. Readers might want to add to this list or even start one of their own. Happy hunting!

SPACED OUT

NASA phone cards chronicle space milestones

By Nancy Blackburn

The United States was settled by adventurous men and women with the courage to brave the hardships of an unexplored land. Land has been replaced by outer space as the modern day frontier, but the same spirit of adventure and courage has typified the activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in its space programs, many of which have been the subject of phone card issues.

Several extraordinary space cards have been released and distributed in Florida. According to Don Simpson, the force behind several of the cards, they are designed as "little pieces of history that enable us to follow specific meaningful events."

North American Telephone (NAT) is generally acknowledged as the first issuer of a NASA commemorative phone card. The February 1993 issue portrayed the blast-off of the OV-105 (christened the Endeavour) flight during May 1992. "OV" is the acronym for "orbiting vehicle," and 105 refers to the number assigned to the shuttle.

Also identified as STS-49, the flight was a vital part of the Shuttle Transport System (STS) program. There were 500 of the $3 cards issued.

One year later, NAT produced a pair of $4 prepaids celebrating two other shuttle flights — the Japanese SpaceLab J and the German Deutsch Lab D-2. With a limited production of just 1,000, the set is now valued at approximately $20.

In March 1993, GTI Telecom selected a dramatic NASA photograph of a space shuttle launch as its inaugural phone card. The 20-unit cards, with a face value of $10, were released in English (500,000), Spanish (100,000), and Portuguese (50,000).

Early 1994 brought several issues commemorating the July 20, 1994, Silver Anniversary of the Eagle Lunar Landing Module touch down on the moon. Prepaid Telecommunications International (PTi) launched a series of cards in February 1994 featuring 16 official NASA photographs. The set included denominations of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100, with a mintage of 8,500 each.

Of special note to collectors is a $50 autographed telecard of U.S. astronaut Gordon Cooper, which was issued during March 1994. Limited to just 500 cards, they are now valued at $125 each.

ACMI issued a special two-card set for the 25th anniversary celebration. "A Giant Leap for Mankind" is a photo of Buzz Aldrin standing on the moon with the U.S. flag; "Another Giant Leap for Mankind" shows a launch and landing of the space module "Eagle." The 5,000 cards were available in $3 (2,500), $7 (1,500), $20 (700) and $50 (300) denominations.

GTE also joined in the celebration and issued a three-card series called "Man on the Moon." The three 20-unit cards are entitled "Lunar Visions," "Aldrin's Autograph," and "One Small Step." A total of 10,000 cards was issued.

Collect-A-Card Corp. introduced the first solid silver NASA phone cards to commemorate the Apollo 11 moon landing. The numbers-matching cards featured the launch of the Apollo 11, Aldrin exiting the Eagle while on the moon, and a human footprint on the lunar surface.

Five thousand standard plastic cards were issued, with 1,969 of them packaged together with the matching silver phone card. Telecommunications service for the cards was supplied by Sprint.

Sprint also issued 500 special $8 NASA cards on July 8, 1994, in honor of the launch of the International Microgravity Laboratory, which carried a multinational crew of payload specialists, including the first Japanese female on board. Limited to 500 cards, the issue has been difficult to obtain because it is very popular with Japanese collectors.

This past year brought several special events to NASA, including a rendezvous with Russian and German astronauts on the Russian space station "MIR." Sprint's awe-inspiring set called "Rendezvous" is actually comprised of four separate cards. First, there is a unique two-card puzzle packaged in a presentation folder. The names of the American and Russian astronauts/cosmonauts encircle an intertwined drawing of the space shuttle "Atlantis" and Russian space station "MIR."

Inside the folder, a $3 domestic card shows the Atlantis with its bay door open, while a five-minute international card depicts MIR. When the cards are placed together, the flag colors of both countries join forming an arch.

According to text on the back of the card, "At 3:32 P.M. EST on July 17, 1995, the space shuttle Atlantis reached skyward for an historic rendezvous with the Russian space station MIR. This was the first link-up of two space craft from different nations since Apollo-Soyuz 20 years ago. This is also the 100th manned flight in America's Space Program."

There were also 500 regular-size cards produced of the rendezvous showing the shuttle linked to the MIR. These cards were distributed and virtually disappeared the day of the launch. Even more rare are the 250 jumbo cards of the same shot. Both of the $3 cards were issued by Sprint.

Cable & Wireless also commemorated the 100th Manned Spaceflight with a pair of limited-edition cards. Both the jumbo and standard cards are $3 denominations, with mintages of 300 each. Featured on the cards are logos from Alan Shepard's first manned flight, the NASA "Meatball," and the STS-7 space shuttle. The attractive presentation folder includes a reproduc-the 100th flight when a family of woodpeckers took possession and drilled 205 holes in the fuel tank – a multimillion dollar space shuttle grounded by a flock of birds. Released in May 1995, each of the 500 cards has five minutes of domestic or five units of international time by Cable & Wireless.

As movie-goers flocked to see the film "Apollo 13," phone card collectors welcomed the release of Cable & Wireless' 25th Anniversary of the Apollo XIII Collectors Set, entitled "Perilous Voyage."

With a picture of the original Apollo logo centered on a white field, flanked by the Odyssey command module and the Aquarius lunar module, the card includes the well-known transmission: "Houston, we have a problem." The card is inserted in a plastic holder on the front of a presentation card, with a replica of the original crew patch affixed to the back. One thousand of these five-unit cards were released in August 1995.

The above examples are just some of the space-related cards produced by U.S. phone card issuers during the past three years. The space adventure that began more than 25 years ago still fascinates and captivates Americans today, and provides a colorful and historically significant basis for building a great thematic collection.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

I'm happy to see the list this month containing some nicely designed user cards — ones that sell for $5-$10. That's what our hobby should be about — inexpensive, nicely designed cards that can be used, and are used, by the majority of buyers.

1 USACARD 10-UNIT PINK

PANTHER CHRISTMAS

A delightful design of the naughty troublemaker, and the second card of a holiday-related series. An affordable specialized topic from a good user-card company. Other issuers should make a note of this success: it's just as easy to make a truly interesting user card as it is to make a dull one. Use your art departments for art, not just drafting.

2 USACARD 5-MINUTE MERRY CHRISTMAS/HAPPY NEW YEAR SET

Last year's successful Olde Tyme Santa card prompted the circa 1900s Santa on this set of nearly identical cards. The image is the same, but two different greetings grace the two five-minute cards. The sets introduced first-time buyers to phone cards in stores, where many were used as Christmas gifts for friends and employees. Sure beats another Christmas ham.

3 ITS 3-MINUTE. MCDONALD'S WARRIOR/HULA

DANCER SET The two-card set was issued in a standard size format, as well as limited-edition jumbos. Interestingly, the only reference to McDonald's on the three-minute cards is a logo in the upper left corner.

4 GTN EAGLE Every month seems to bring in at least one generic design card as one of the top sellers. Most often, the "use" cards are purchased from dealers in southern areas of the country. Making its second consecutive appearance on our Most Wanted list is GTN's 40-unit Eagle card. The card has a nice patriotic design and a low per-minute rate, which makes it very popular with tourists.

5 HT TECHNOLOGIES 10-UNIT SOUTH CAROLINA STATE FAIR

A pleasant design with one of the largest centrifuges I've ever seen. The card includes the obligatory Coca-Cola "bulls eye" logo that has gained HT so many sales, but it also comes with a twist — a Marlboro logo. The card is both affordable and collectible. A collection of 5-10 cards from HT, LDDS, Celebrity and others could be started with the Coke "bulls eye" logo as the theme. Most of the cards are colorful, varied and interesting.

2 USACARD 5-MINUTE MERRY CHRISTMAS/HAPPY NEW YEAR SET

Last year's successful Olde Tyme Santa card prompted the circa 1900s Santa on this set of nearly identical cards. The image is the same, but two different greetings grace the two five-minute cards. The sets introduced first-time buyers to phone cards in stores, where many were used as Christmas gifts for friends and employees. Sure beats another Christmas ham.

6 CABLE & WIRELESS 5-MINUTE. GROUNDED BY WOODPECKERS

NASA's resident birds, which scuttled Flight STS 70 with a fuel tank attack, inspired a low-mintage telecard showing the Mission arm patch with a larger-than-life woodpecker. Designed by one of the shuttle crew members, the five-minute card would be an interesting addition to any phone card collection.

7 CABLE & WIRELESS $3 NASA 100TH MANNED FLIGHT An historically significant card, this $3 prepaid was issued in both standard and jumbo size. It's a pity that only 300 cards were created — most of them going to NASA personnel. A must for space theme collectors.

8 SPRINT $3 NASA 100TH MANNED FLIGHT This isn't a typo or an echo, it's another phone card commemorating this truly monumental achievement. Though this issue adds another 1,000 cards for collectors to enjoy, it is still not enough for the demand. Where are you, Western Union?

9 LDDS 10-MINUTE NIKE HONOLULU MARATHON This June 1994 issue of 1,000 is a very striking design and has appeared before on the best-seller listings of our dealer respondents. It never has gotten to the finish line as a complete sell-out, but maybe this spurt will finally put it into collectors' hands.

10 TELECOM NEW ZEALAND $5 POCAHONTAS The first foreign-issued card to grace our best-seller list is a privately commissioned card, and one that sells for well over face value. The limited-edition version is included in a custom folder with a special CD. Collectors need to judge whether the package is worth the premium price.

ASCOT 5-MINUTE DOMINO'S PIZZA/COCA-COLA Issued as a test market card for some Minnesota Domino's stores, there were 2,500 of these "deep dish delights" produced and distributed — some of them to collectors and dealers.

PHASE FOUR 15-MINUTE ROSA PARKS

Another historically significant card, this one noting a significant event in America's civil rights movement (see page 57 of January Moneycard Collector). Cards commemorating history-changing events should be valuable for years to come.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion, Ill. Rankings are based on actual sales figures supplied to Moneycard Collector by U.S. phone card dealers. All dealers are welcome to participate by faxing their Top 10 best sellers for the month, along with the actual number of cards sold to retail customers. All sales figures will be held in strict confidence by Moneycard Collector. Dealers need to fax their data by the middle of each month for it to be included in the rankings.

SURVEY SEZ

WE WANT MO'! As we examined all of the data generated by our reader survey conducted this past fall, one result stands out above all others: you absolutely love this hobby!

It's a love that has grown as rapidly as the industry itself. Some 80 percent of you have been collecting less than three years. Most of you maintain your interest in at least one other area of collecting.

When it comes to choosing cards for your collections, the factors you consider (in descending order of priority) are: 1) design or theme, 2) print quality, 3) potential for appreciation, 4) price and 5) reputation of the issuer. It is worth noting that price appreciation was not number one and that print quality was considered very important.

These are good signs that we have a group of real collectors out there. Many readers also mentioned the quantity of cards produced and expiration dates as factors considered.

Most of our respondents collect on a thematic basis. Fifty percent "agreed" or "strongly agreed" with the statement that in building a collection, they specialize by theme.

The 12 most popular issuers are: AmeriVox, Sprint, AT&T, NYNEX, GTE, Ameritech, ACMI, LDDS, MCI, Score Board/Classic, GTS and ConQuest. More than one issuer is represented in most collections, and only one-third said they specialize by issuer.

We are gratified and proud to announce that 93 percent of our respondents consider that Moneycard Collector is either "Good" or "Outstanding." The most heavily read parts of the magazine are the Price Guide, New Issues and New Issues-Sports. Still you want more — more prices, more new issues and more foreign card coverage. But no part of the magazine received a rating of less than 1.9 out of 3, which suggests that you think it is all of value to you.

Areas to improve? Two points came through loud and clear: readers want a larger magazine and they want to receive it faster and at the same time each month. In response, we will be making two major changes. We will add another eight pages to the magazine in the near future, and as advertiser support continues to grow, we will add even more pages.

To improve delivery times, we will apply to the U.S. Postal Service to reclassify Moneycard Collector from third to second class. To achieve this, it will take 6-12 months. In the meantime, our U.S. readers may wish to consider paying an extra $15 per year for first class mail delivery.

Again, on behalf of all of us at Moneycard Collector, we thank the survey participants. What you have said is absolute gold to us and will constitute the basis for improving our service to you in the future.

B&B THE BEST IN THE WEST

Is pleased to announce . . . the largest collectible phone card and sports card/memorabilia show ever held.

All details will be following in the next issue of Moneycard and all other leading phone card and sports trading card advertisements. This will be the first show held in Southern California exclusively for the phone card, sports trading card and memorabilia collectors and the first show held worldwide that will include manufactures of collectible phone cards, dealers of collectible Phone and trading cards and dealers of memorabilia. The show will be sponsored by B&B Collectibles and R&B Enterprises, a major promoter in the Southern California, and will feature free admission, free autographs, free phone cards, hourly prizes and much, much more. This is what you have all been asking for, mark it on your calendar when you receive your next Moneycard.

Our top selections for the first quarter of 1996:

New Zealand Telecom Event
Masters Disney Donald Duck
3 card set in folder only 175 for the U.S. Price is $175.00, we are buying at $150.00 per set, remember we urged you to purchase Mickey Part I last June at $250, it is now selling at $1,000. We pick Donald Duck to be another winner.

World of Coke Santa 5 card set in folder (call for market price) and Stand Around the World 3 card set in folder
(call for market price) - each has an edition of 2,500. We sold out Stand Around the World in one day, have repurchased additional sets, a must purchase.

For several months we told you to purchase the 49 minute Steve Young/Snoopy Bowl special jumbo edition of 999 personally signed by Steve, numbered in an attractive presentation folder at $75.00. Well, we have sold out and have repurchased sets which are now selling for $150.00. Remember, Steve Young's autograph costs $65.00 alone, with a limited edition collectible item, it is worth much, much more.

Our current show schedule
is as follows:

- Long Beach Coin & Collectible Expo, Long Beach, Calif., February 1-4
- Kit Young Show Hawaii, February 17-19

POWER PLAY

PARKHURST NAME STILL DRAWS HOCKEY FANS

Parkhurst brand trading cards occupy a very special place in the hearts of hockey card collectors. The first set of Parkhurst cards were issued in 1951 and over the years, the company produced the rookie cards of Gordie Howe, Bobby Orr, Bobby Hull and just about every Montreal Canadian to hoist the Stanley Cup.

After a long struggle, the company finally collapsed during the '70s, only to resurface when a surgeon by the name of Dr. Brian Price bought the rights to the name in 1990.

Though Price is still in the traditional trading card market, earlier this year he launched onto "fresh ice," with a new set of Parkhurst prepaid phone cards.

The first set, a series called "The Four-On-Four Challenge," was issued during hockey's labor dispute and featured nine players from a four-team tournament of NHL players from the U.S., Ontario, Quebec and Western Canada. A 10th card was also issued, featuring the winning team from Ontario, but was only available to customers ordering complete sets.

"Sales weren't great," Price recalls, "but we did have a major run on the Patrick Roy and the Eric Lindros cards. I have to admit that overall, we weren't overwhelmed by the response. Still, it didn't stop us, and we went on to do a second set."

The main problem with the first Parkhurst set, according to Price, was the price tag. Apparently, U.S. hockey fans didn't want to spring $20 for each of the cards. But Price also discovered another interesting trait about hockey fans in the process.

"Our customers turned out to be fans of individual players," he explained. "They'll go out and buy the card of Lindros or Roy and not be concerned about the rest of the set. I know that now because we sell more singles than sets."

The second and third sets were issued through a marketing firm called InCommNet and Canada's main Wal-Mart distributor, Treat Canada. The second set was a goalie series, Parkhurst, Hockey Masks; six-card set; $10 denominations; 5,000 cards issued; May 1995; (905) 707-1962..

Parkhurst; Four-on-Four Challenge; 10-card set; $20 denominations; 2,500 sets issued; 1994; (905) 707-1962.

while the third series spotlighted close-ups of their colorful masks. The price tags of those two five-card sets were reduced to $10 per card.

The fourth and most recent phone card series from Parkhurst features licensed images of NHL Players Association stars, complete in their team uniforms.

"We wanted to test the phone card market," Price explained. "Even though we're not 100 percent sure phone cards are the right product for us, we plan on sticking it out."

It sounds like a safe bet that hockey fans will continue to see the Parkhurst name on phone cards in the future.

FAREWELL TO A LADY

Even those who met Linda Sobek only briefly, knew they were speaking with an intelligent, articulate woman who just happened to be a well-known California model and actress. All of us who came in contact with her extend our heartfelt sympathy to her family and friends.

Hundreds in the telecommunications industry enjoyed meeting with her when she appeared at the San Francisco International Phone Card Exposition during April 1995 as a spokesperson for GEM International.

According to Denny Kanakaris, GEM was delighted to have her represent the company, and that company officials were especially pleased with how quickly she had become familiar with the industry.

Those who worked closely with her while preparing for the release of the premier set of "All American Girls" phone cards had high praise for her dedication and professionalism. The three-card set was produced for the Mid-America Truckers Show in Louisville, in March 1995.

Even though there are still a few of the phone cards still available, GEM officials were a little uncomfortable about marketing the cards until arrangements were made to donate all proceeds to a special Linda Sobek Memorial Fund. At the request of the Sobek family, donations from the fund will be made to non-profit or charitable organizations to aid children, diabetes and cancer patients, and battered/abused women.

Farewell, Linda, "a beautiful person inside and out... my best friend" - Elaine Sobek (Linda's mother), December 1995.

DANMONT TESTS WOOD LAMINATE CARD DANMONT, the Danish National Mint, has produced a revolutionary, new chip-based phone card made from birch wood laminates. The new card is as flexible and strong as a traditional plastic card, according to Mint officials. Ten thousand of the cards were distributed to consumers for testing during late 1995.

On the front of the card is a reproduction of an oil painting entitled "Sunflowers" by Charlotte Thymark. The reverse side asks consumers to return the used card, along with a critique of their experience with the new product.

Consumers who evaluate the card will receive a complimentary DANMONT card for their efforts. The evaluations will play a large role in determining the future of wood laminates as a production material. DANMONT's collector service can be reached at 011 45 44 97 22 00.

IYNEX NO-NO Though he's not telling how it happened, dealer Al Chiaravalle was quite surprised this past fall when several of his business cards ended up with NYNEX Change Card backs.

According to Chiaravalle, the 30 cards with NYNEX backs are the first "private" issue Change Cards ever to reach the American market.

AMERIVOX SETS MINIMUM ORDER FOR CUSTOM CARDS AmeriVox, the first U.S. issuer to offer customized prepaid calling cards (March 1992), has instituted a minimum order of 1,000 of the cards. The policy took effect January 1, 1996.

The change from the previous minimum of 50 cards was made to combat rising set-up and administrative costs.

A total of 1,500 five-unit cards was produced for a recent Yellow Pages convention. The retail value of this card had already reached $60 by late December.

A 25-unit special-edition Ameritech card was issued for a collectibles show in Elk Grove Village, Ill., where attendees received a card as part of their $3.50 admission price. The cards were standard-issue prepaids from Ameritech.

BELL CANADA

Contrary to the word on the street, not all Bell Canada cards are sold at face value; $1 cards are priced at $5 and $2 cards are sold for $6. The sale of these cards is limited to one per customer. The limit is designed to ensure that as many collectors as possible are able to obtain the cards for their private collections. This policy also ensures that no one will be able to corner the market on low mintage issues.

Bell Canada recently published their second catalog, which is available exclusively to members of their Collectors' Club. Membership is free by calling (800)404-7823, or by writing: Bell Canada, 40 Chemin Rockland, Ville Mont-Royal (Quebec), Canada H3P 2V9. Many of their first chip cards are now sold out.

BELLSOUTH

The Alabama-based RBOC continues to evaluate its trial issues. Look for cards associated with the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta, as well as BellSouth pay-phones accepting the new VISA stored value cards issued by First Union Bank, NationsBank, and Wachovia Bank (see story on page 8).

REMOTE MEMORY

Two new sets have been announced. As mentioned in last month's column, the Brasher Doubloon set includes $5, $10, $16, $20 and $50 cards. The Brasher Doubloon was the first gold coin to be minted in the U.S. in 1787.

The second set is a New York series of remote memory cards, based on the designs of the earlier Vermont cards. The four-card set is comprised of $5, $10, $20 and $30 cards. The easiest way to obtain these cards is to join the NYNEX Collectors Club, which costs $15 a year. Call (800)70-NYNEX (69639), or write to Box 5064, Lake Wylie, SC 29710. Be sure to tell them Moneycard Collector magazine sent you.

NYNEX; Brasher Doubloon (remote memory); $5 denomination; 1,787 cards issued; October 1995.

NYNEX; New York series (remote memory); four-card set; $5/$10/$20/$30 denominations; December 1995.

STORED MEMORY

A special holiday card was issued by NYNEX, featuring the design winner from the children's art displayed at TeleCard World East '95 show during September. The card has been available through the NYNEX Collectors Club.

NYNEX; World Peace (Children's Holiday Art); stored memory; $5 denomination; 15,000 issued; December 1995.

PACIFIC BELL

PacBell is asking if readers want to form a collectors' club. Let them know by writing to Pacific Bell Collectors, Box 5020, San Ramon CA 94583.

SOUTHWESTERN BELL

Three holiday cards were issued by SWB in 1995, including a $10 Santa (15,000 issued), a $20 Happy Holidays (10,000), and a $25 Peace card (5,000). Call SWB at (800)600-2355 to join the free Collectors Club.

The reason for the variety of the $10 Stan Musial Major League Tryout card is that 1,500 of the first 5,000 cards did not meet Southwestern Bell's standards. The cards were destroyed and replacements printed, leaving 3,500 with the serial number printed like "nnnn/5000" and 1,500 with the serial number using spaces "nnnn / 5000" (extra spacing). There is also a difference in the cards' bar code numbers. With just 5,000 cards produced, collectors might consider trying to obtain both varieties.

One thousand of the reprinted cards are available with the "The Ballgame" series of cards. The first 1,000 sets of this series include not only matched serial numbers on all cards, but also a genuine personal (not printed) Stan Musial autograph.

Southwestern Bell; Stan Musial Major League Tryout; $10 denomination; 5,000 cards issued; July 1995.

Look for some custom cards soon. One is planned for a Yellow Pages card. More than likely you will have to be a member of the Collectors Club to obtain one.

U S WEST

After having issued card sets for each of the five cities where they have installed their new card payphones, U S WEST took a well-deserved respite during December. One card not included in last month's column was U S WEST's first of a collector series featuring Seattle's famous landmark, the Space Needle. Ten thousand of the cards were issued in November.

U S WEST; Seattle Space Needle Collector Series; Card #1; $10 denomination; 10,000 issued; November 1995.

It's been another wild month for corporate promotional cards, so let's stop for a rest at the nearest Super 8 Motel. Provident Worldwide Communications issued 5,000 ten-minute cards for the motel chain. The cards were used to improve customer relations and also were sold by Super 8.

Provident also produced a five-minute Cover Girl card exclusively for Target stores. Seventy-five thousand cards were issued as part of an in-pack sampler package promotion for Cover Girl makeup, which was available exclusively at Target.

If you're looking for a keychain that's also a prepaid, Phonecard Express has a couple of solutions. Ford and Rolling Stone magazine toured college campuses this past fall, using 15-minute phone card/keychains as prizes in their "Rock and Roll Bowl" trivia contests. Every student who participated received one of the keychains.

Chrysler also commissioned Phonecard Express to produce 75,000 similar keychains, which they used as gifts for their employees.

GTI has been busy with the release of a couple hot, new promotional cards. In conjunction with Suncoast Motion Picture Co. stores, GTI is offering a five-minute James Bond card promoting the newest 007 flick, GoldenEye. Customers who purchase any James Bond related item in stock at a Suncoast store will receive one of the cards. END OF CARIBOU HUNT

QuickChange; Couple on payphone; $20 denomination; 10,000 issued; August 1995.

LaPuce; Montreal Jazz Festival; $10 denomination; 5,000 issued; June 1995.

LaPuce; Montreal Expos; $1 denomination; 14,000 issued; September 1995.

Four-card LaPuce set forms a large map of Quebec. Mintage is 100,000 for lower left piece, 10,000 of each of other three; August 1994 and December 1994 issue dates.

TWO CANADIAN PROVINCES – ONTARIO AND QUEBEC – USING CHIP-BASED PHONE CARDS. The technology is known as “LaPuce” in Quebec and “QuickChange” in Ontario – two names for the same product.

Regardless of the name, the cards are designed to eliminate the search for quarters to make calls from public payphones.

Bell Canada began researching the cards as early as 1988, at about the same time machine-readable phone cards were being introduced outside North America. The first Canadian public trial began in August 1994.

Four test sites were selected for their high payphone usage: McGill University, Montreal (approximately 220 converted phones); Montreal Convention Center (100); Laval University, Quebec City (125); and the Montreal Casino, built in the former French Pavilion of Expo '67 (40).

The payphones are the Millenium model from Nortel – the same model U S WEST chose for its smart card deployment in Seattle. The LaPuce/QuickChange cards are not functional in U S WEST territory phones, however. Converted phones are easy to spot with their card acceptor slots painted bright yellow. The retrofitted phones still accept coins, credit cards, and both Bell and AT&T Calling Cards.

Between August 1994 and May 1995, $10 trial LaPuce cards picturing a map of Quebec could only be purchased at these four sites, while other converted phones were slowly being installed elsewhere.

Mid-May 1995 marked the full rollout, as 13,000 payphones in Quebec had been converted and a distribution network had been set up. By the end of 1995, 50 percent of all payphones in Bell Quebec territory (approximately 20,000) were scheduled for LaPuce card readers.

Over at Bell Ontario, the introduction process was quite different. Thirty universities and colleges across the province were equipped with a total of 1,400 payphones for the September 1995 trial. As with the Quebec trial cards, QuickChange cards can only be purchased at a site offering QuickChange payphone service. In January 1996, the product will roll out across greater Toronto (area codes 416/905), and by the summer of 1996, it should be available across Ontario.

Bell chose Gemplus to produce the LaPuce/QuickChange cards for the supplier's experience and reliability. Gemplus is active in 65 countries with all types of chip cards.

LaPuce/QuickChange cards complement and compete with other long-distance cards, as they are functional for both local and toll calls. Card-based rates are the same as for coins – since 25 cents buys a local call of unlimited time. Thus, a $10 card can be used for 40 local calls.

As of October, there were (including duplicate designs with different values) 24 issues produced under the LaPuce name, five QuickChange issues, and two joint designs for CardEx '95 and TeleCard World '95.

Designs range from Bell-sponsored events to corporate promotions and more generic images of Canada. The only design sold out to date is the 20th anniversary of Bell-Northern Research, the R&D facility jointly owned by Bell Canada and Nortel.

A free collectors' service has been established offering both LaPuce and QuickChange cards. A percentage of each design is set aside for the collectors' service, which is included in the mintage written on each card. Write to LaPuce/QuickChange Collectors' Service, 40 Rockland Road, Town of Mount Royal, Quebec, H3P 2V9 Canada. Voice mail: (514)343-4214 or (800)404-7823; fax: (514)343-4133.

The chip cards can be purchased at virtually any newsstand, many souvenir shops, and all Teleboutiques. Signs at these Quebec locations and at payphones proclaim "The end of the caribou hunt" — a reference to the animal's image on the reverse side of the Canadian 25-cent piece. Payphones display reminders to use the cards in yellow-slotted phones only, but there is still a general lack of awareness among most Montreal residents.

I always carry two phone cards in my purse — a LaPuce card for local calling, and the latest long-distance card to catch my fancy. I find both types convenient, virtually never using cash in a payphone. As Bell Ontario's slogan puts it, I've truly "called it quits with quarters."
