6 Stamp of Approval

The U.S. Postal Service is giving collectors something to cheer about with the expansion of its FirstClass PhoneCard program and the introduction of Liberty Cash, Art Becker reports.

ON THE MONEY

The phonecard industry sometimes reminds us of the fable about the Little Red Hen. For those who are a tad foggy on their childhood tales, the Little Red Hen decided to bake some bread and asked her barnyard colleagues for help. One by one, they spurned the industrious fowl, who eventually was forced to do all the work – and reap all the benefits, though her indifferent companions begged for a share.

The hobby end of the telecard field seems to parallel the world of the fabled Little Red Hen. There are too few willing to volunteer a little time, and too many willing to slice up the phonecard feast made available by others' work. Look at "Readers Always Write," Page 5, for an interesting discussion on that topic from one of the top phonecard dealers and the executive director of the International Telecard Association.

It's clear that a few hours a month volunteered by several dealers and collectors would help the hobby grow. The more voices, the better. Call the ITA, (800) 958-7824, and ask Executive Director Howard Segermark how you can help.

We're not casting aspersions about phonecard dealer Stephen Schwartz – indeed, we are grateful that he helped raise the profile of this issue. Schwartz is one of the clear minds and strong voices in the hobby.

But clearly we need more Little Red Hens – a much better breed of phonecard fowl than the Chicken Littles out there who run around squawking that the sky is falling.

Some customers of Sprint must have thought the sky really was falling after the long-distance provider's December announcement that they had added a 15 cent-per-call surcharge on all payphone calls made with prepaid phonecards.

The move stands to put millions back in Sprint's coffers that the company says was lost due to new Federal Communications Commission rules for compensating payphone service providers. By instituting the Dec. 1 surcharge on prepaid card calls and some other types of calls, Sprint hopes to recoup what it told the FCC was "excessive compensation to payphone providers."

Sprint calculated the rules would mean an extra $2.5 million in costs per month, and decided on the surcharge as an "interim recovery rate" until the FCC rules, and presumably approves, retail tariff changes requested by Sprint.

We wonder why Sprint decided to include a surcharge on prepaid card calls as a way to get their money back. It certainly seems like a shortsighted decision that poses a peril to those who buy Sprint time for their cards. It may be especially onerous for switch owners under contract to buy certain quantities of time.

The decision to target prepaid card calls also unfairly burdens users of the cards, and could end up stifling what the prepaid industry needs most – more use, which begets more knowledge of prepaid cards, which begets more collectors. Sprint should rethink its surcharge, and make up its money elsewhere.

Last month in a column entitled Matter of Principle we related the details of the stored value card issuing principles announced by NationsBank and invited reader response. To date we haven't heard as much feedback as we had expected. So what do you really think about this issue? Is NationsBank on the right track? Are there any points that they omitted and need to include, or should they place more emphasis on certain points? Especially from collectors of chip cards, more feedback on this subject would be welcome.

ITA should clarify collector stance

Dear Howard,

Howard ... you may be doing a good job as far as "telco industry" standards go, but your organization is really doing a lousy job with dealer/collector public relations. I see ITA as an elitist group of people who care nothing about the dealer/collector. It is a telco-run organization, for the political, and ultimately financial, benefit of the telcos.

Don't get me wrong ... I really don't care whether ITA wants the dealer/collector as a member or not. Just stop pretending, and either revise your charter to reflect that dealers/collectors are NOT a consideration, or hire someone willing to handle this group properly. The ITA has no credibility in the dealer/collector arena.

Respectfully,
Steve Schwartz,
Sears Phonecard Department, Orlando, Fla.

ITA's existence is due to members

Dear Steve:

Several issues: First one: "your organization." Not mine, yours. You are a member. I'm staff. But it really is all the volunteers' organization. If, as you are doing, members speak up, they'll get their voices heard.

Second: the appearance is that "ITA is doing a lousy job with dealer/collector public relations." A couple of points: In response to its desire to help the collectibles community, the Board authorized a couple of things: a newsletter, and a regular program of providing free phonecards to collector-members. But the problem has been we have not been able to find collector or dealer leadership to help implement these projects.

"It is a telco-run organization ..."
A couple of thoughts: first of all, it is totally logical that the most highly capitalized and the firms with the most to gain or lose from bad public policy or bad public image of the industry are going to send in the biggest checks and expect the most services. Plus, when the major firms spend money through the Association to improve image of phonecards, or root out unscrupulous dealers or fight fraud, the collectible community is a beneficiary as well.

But, I have never witnessed an effort by the Board or Executive Committee that would impede a collector-oriented project or cause. The fact is that the Board of Directors has on it people from the collectibles community in considerably larger portion than their relative economic size.

No intelligent businessperson is going to brush-off the collectibles industry. Collectors may be the greatest prepaid phonecard salespeople the industry has. And, the collectible market provides important outlets for many cards.

I don't think that you would propose the ITA devote more expenditures to the collector and dealers projects than the community brings in from dues from those categories (though at this point, it does). The real question is how do you, dealers and collectors see to it that the resources the Association can devote to this community are focused correctly, and how does the Association provide services the community wants. Finally, how do the Association's collectors and dealers provide the volunteer leadership necessary to do that and expand the income needed to provide added services?

Many thanks for your comments, Steve, and if you have any other, please let me (or the Association's volunteer leadership) know.

My best,
Howard Segermark,
Executive Director;
International Telecard Association.

USPS and others expand moneycard activities

By Art Becker

This article started out as an update on United States Postal Service FirstClass PhoneCards and then changed in a major way. First we heard about the new USPS Liberty Cash prepaid debit cards. Canada Post issued some phonecards. Then, of course, there are the original USPS moneycards of 1992.

Speaking of post offices, Japan, Denmark and Switzerland have their own moneycards, too. So, like Topsy, the article just grew.

USPS PHONECARDS

It sure doesn't seem that it's been a year since the U.S. Postal Service began issuing phonecards (see Moneycard Collector, February 1996). What began as a trial in eight cities, and later was expanded to four more has now gone national. You can buy the USPS/American Express FirstClass PhoneCards at virtually every post office in the country. The images on the phonecards always have been, and always will be, the same as those on current U.S. postage stamps.

And what fantastic images they are! The color and detail on the FirstClass PhoneCards are extraordinary. In fact, postal employees are thrilled to be able to demonstrate what works of art actually appear on many postage stamps. Since stamps are so small, there are practical limits to the level of detail that can be illustrated on them. The much larger area of the phonecards allows these details, which would otherwise be lost, to be shown in their full glory.

In speaking with postal employees and phonecard collectors, the hands-down favorite for the most beautiful design is the Midnight Angel from the original series. Best of all, the beautiful 32-cent stamp itself is still available at post offices, in the immensely popular self-adhesive format.

Just in time for the 1996 end-of-year holidays, the USPS issued three more phonecards. The first was a $20 denomination with the Family Fireside Scene shown on one of the 32c stamps from the Holiday Contemporary set of four. Next was a $20 denomination card featuring the Hanukkah design, showing a menorah with nine multi-colored candles, and which was also found on a 32-cent stamp. The third design was a $10 denomination phonecard, featuring a red cardinal sitting on a snowy tree branch. During the holidays, USPS customers buying $20 or more worth of FirstClass PhoneCards were given an additional $5 card free.

More phonecard designs are in the works. Better yet, the USPS will soon go to a lower, flat rate, for all phonecard denominations. At press time, this was thought to be about 40 cents per minute, which is a competitive rate. What makes the rate even better is that these phonecards are guaranteed against loss. If a card is lost or stolen, all a customer has to do is call a toll-free 24-hour number. The old PIN will be immediately deactivated, and a new one provided.

These phonecards are all rechargeable, have prompts available in six languages, have speed dial capability for frequently called numbers, and customers can have a card activity report sent via fax (the card must have at least three minutes of time remaining on it in order to use this feature).

One fly in the ointment is that the USPS no longer uses the term "First Class" to refer to mail. Standard Class is the new designation. So, whether the phonecards will remain as "FirstClass" is yet to be determined.

Quantities produced vary among denominations and designs. The $50 and $100 denomination cards were issued in quantities of 25,000 each. Between 100,000 and 200,000 each of the $5, $10, and $20 cards have been produced. According to the Postal Service, $10 is the most popular denomination, followed by the $20 value.

USPS LIBERTY CASH

Another moneycard issued by the USPS is the new Liberty Cash. This is a prepaid debit card, with a magnetic stripe on the reverse, used to purchase postage and other services. Trials are under way in six test markets: The USPS store at the Mall of America in Minneapolis; in Boulder, Colo.; and the California communities of Campbell, Inglewood, Santa Clara and Los Gatos. Denominations are $5, $10 and $20. Each card or set of cards, comes in a matching folder.

What's most interesting is that three of the Liberty Cash designs were also used for FirstClass PhoneCards, as well as for the underlying postage stamps. Thus, the Endeavour Space Shuttle design was used on a $10.75 stamp, a $20 Liberty Cash card and a $100 FirstClass PhoneCard. The Hanukkah design appeared on a 32-cent stamp, $10 Liberty Cash and $20 phonecard. Likewise, the Family Fireside Scene appears on the 32-cent stamp of the Holiday Contemporary stamps, a $5 Liberty Cash card, and also on a $20 phonecard.

USPS; Liberty Cash; Business Reloadable up to $300; quantity unavailable; September 1996.

USPS; Liberty Cash POW-MIA; $5 denomination; 15,000 issued; September 1996.

With other moneycard systems emerging in the U.S., including VISA Cash and Mondex, it remains to be seen if the USPS will continue its own proprietary card system. The same arguments can be made as to whether U S WEST chip payphones will ever accept, say, VISA Cash. The technology is already in place to do so. It's a matter of cost and accounting, more than technical details. Should a company have a proprietary system, and keep all the income, or should it have one that is interchangeable with cards used to purchase other goods and services? Keep reading to see what other countries are doing.

USPS POSTAL BUDDY

Liberty Cash cards are not the first plastic debit cards used by the USPS. The Postal Buddy Corporation, of San Diego, Calif., installed 185 self-service postal kiosks in 1992 and 1993. Found in post offices and shopping centers in San Diego and Northern Virginia, the kiosks sold postage stamps, postal cards (both custom printed and plain), address labels and processed change of address requests. The kiosks accepted cash or credit cards in payment. Change was given in the form of Postal Buddy debit cards, manufactured by Rand McNally.

Two distinct varieties of cards were produced; one in 1992 and the other in 1993. After only a few months, and with no advance notice, the USPS literally pulled the plug on Postal Buddy. As you might expect, this led to a multi-million dollar lawsuit, which was only settled early last year. Besides being the first USPS prepaid card, the Postal Buddy cards were among the first non-transit, prepaid magnetic cards used anywhere in the United States.

CANADA POST CARDS

Canada Post is also in the phonecard business, offering several different C$5 and C$10 editions. Topics include five different historical vehicles, five

Yukon Gold Discovery cards, and a Super Hero card, featuring "Captain Canuck."

Like the USPS phonecards, these Canada Post cards feature current postage stamp designs. Unlike the USPS all-over format, Canada Post phonecards show the perforations around the stamps, as well as margins on all four sides.

JAPAN PREPAID FUMI CARDS

Prepaid all-over magnetic-backed prepaid postage cards, called "fumi" cards, were issued in Japan as early as 1989. Seventeen national cards were issued, along with a blank (white) card which could be over-printed by advertisers. Eventually regional cards became available. Denominations are Y500, Y1,000 and Y3,000. The cards can be purchased and used either from vending machines, or over the counter. Hundreds of different designs have been issued. The card illustrated with this article is the first national fumi card issued. The word fumi means "letter," as in mail. "Fumi no hi" is Letter Writing Day, which is the 23rd of every month in Japan. Fumi is also a play on words, and can mean "two-three" as well as letter. July is Letter Writing Month in Japan, which is known as fumizuki. Now you know as much about the word "fumi" as I do.

DENMARK'S DANMONT CARDS

These are prepaid chip cards, first issued in Denmark in 1992. They are referred to as multi-service cards, and can be used to make phone calls or buy postage stamps, among many other uses. Post Danmark recently opened a high-tech post office in Copenhagen where a Danmont card can be used to pay for all services offered, including making copies and sending a fax. There is even a tennis club in Denmark with a jukebox that accepts Danmont cards. More than 100 different designs have been produced, including many topics, such as Coca-Cola, and IBM. One card was issued for the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, Ga., and commemorated the Danish Olympic Team. Danmont technology is actually the basis for the worldwide VISA Cash cards.

SWITZERLAND PTT'S POSTCARD

While the Swiss call their product a POSTCARD, this chip card is more properly referred to as a debit card. As an aside, a postcard has a picture on one side, and you have to put a postage stamp on the address side in order to mail it. A postal card, on the other hand, is a prepaid postcard sold by the post office. The problem with correct definitions and terms is that even those who should know better often misuse them. In order to get a Swiss PTT (Post, Telephone & Telegraph) POSTCARD, you need to have a PTT giro (postal savings) account. In many foreign countries, the post office also functions as a savings bank. In Japan, it also sells insurance. Frequently, in Japanese post offices, more customers and windows in a post office are conducting insurance business than buying or selling stamps. Some giro accounts allow customers to write checks against them. Getting back to the Swiss POSTCARD, it can be used to get cash from an ATM or over the counter, and also for cashless purchases at supermarkets, service stations, payphones, and so on.

Phonecards are all over the place, and various post offices worldwide are getting into the act. In fact, many of them used to be the act when they were a government-owned monopoly (like our old Post Office Department used to be).

Many foreign post offices are, or were, PTTs, meaning telephones are, or were, part of their domain. But, nothing stays the same, and even government monopolies get privatized. Technology changes, too. Thus, we have many post offices that offer their customers the convenience of prepaid cards, cards that might do a lot more than pay for phone calls. And, the best part for the hobby is that the cards are all eminently collectible.

SHOW STOPPERS I

Cardex '96

Participants came from around the world to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the phonecard at the Cardex '96 show, held for the third consecutive year in Maastricht, Netherlands from Oct. 10-13, 1996.

The theme of the conference was that the hobby of collecting phonecards has come of age: it is not longer a fad or the interest of a few, but a world movement that is alive and growing.

Telecoms from much of the Pacific Rim and throughout Europe – including Estonia, Gibraltar and Russia – were well represented with elegant booths and officially licensed Cardex phonecards sporting the Cardex '96 logo.

American collectors would be particularly impressed with the incredible packaging that is common overseas. PTT Telecom, the Netherlands phone company, showed award-winning packages that included a Monopoly-like board game!

More than 40 official show cards were issued. Grapevine Telecards of Sausalito, Calif., offered a 1,000-mintage two-card set, each card with 10 units, commemorating the first phonecard produced in 1976 by SIP in Italy. We also found a card from Belgacom that pictured a Belgian card also reputed to be the first phonecard ever made!

Other official U.S. entries included a 3-unit card from Bravetel, and a 5-unit card from Cable & Wireless – mintage of each was 1,000.

The largest edition: Telecom Italia, with 130,000 cards issued for retail sale in Italy. Many issuers, including Telecom Italia, create thousands of cards, but only a small number are placed in beautifully designed packages for collectors.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

America's Most Wanted is a very balanced listing this time. No Coca-Cola or McDonald's phonecards this time, but keeping up the pace are corporate logo cards, perhaps because they are so graphic or maybe because they are relatively inexpensive. The media stars are well represented, too, including a jumbo Michael Jordan — always bigger than life.

Three of the top selections this month were on the cover of January's Moneycard Collector. Does this mean that you agree with us? Here are this month's selections:

GARFIELD CHRISTMAS.

ACMI; 5 units; 500 issued; November 1996. Just thinking what our family cat has done to the Christmas tree in the past makes me wonder what havoc America's favorite feline could do!

TOOTSIE ROLLS, DOTS AND JUNIOR MINTS.

Image Telecards; 3, 5 and 10 minutes; November 1996. The 100th anniversary of Tootsie Rolls, the 50th anniversary of Dots and a card for Junior Mints exhibit — very pleasant designs for collectors with a corporate sweet tooth.

SNOWMAN CHRISTMAS ORNAMENT.

Telenova; 6 minutes; 750 made; December

1996. A die-cut phonecard, with Cable & Wireless time, for your tree. Not a bad idea, if you remembered not to pack it away with all the other decorations after the holiday.

CHRISTMAS CRACKER JACK.

USACard; variable denomination; 2,500 issued; November 1996. Second in the Cracker Jack series, this design is from an old advertising poster, and shows an old-time Cracker Jack box. The cards have variable denominations, hidden behind a scratch-off — 10, 12, or if you are lucky, 15 units.

DAIRY QUEEN CAKE CLUB.

Mountain America

Technologies;

5 minutes; October 1996. Surrounding the central design are 12 little cakes to be marked or punched to indicate the $2 savings. Meanwhile, it is a telecard reminding the user of Dairy Queen as he uses it. Those who forgo the savings will have a pristine collectible.

DEMI MOORE CIGAR AFICIONADO.

TotalTel; 5 units; 1,000 issued; August 1996. The cards benefited the Make-A-Wish Foundation and almost all were distributed at the benefit.

101 DALMATIANS, SET OF 5. AT&T; 5 units each; 5,000 sets; November 1996.

This thoroughly delightful movie captured hearts everywhere, and the telecards captured collectors, even before the movie's release. Disney Catalog order-takers were saying in December that the cards, available only with purchase of a sweatshirt, were back-ordered until January.

This set will be one of the most sought-after movie cards.

MICHAEL JORDAN SPACE JAM JUMBO.

LDOS Worldcom; 50 units; December 1996. This gigantic telecard, commemorating the movie released during the holiday season, joins the growing number of phonecards picturing "His Airness."

America's Most Wanted is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mount Zion, Ill. All dealers are encouraged to fax a list of their company's top 10 best-selling cards before the 20th of each month.

WORDS ON NUMBERS

By the time you read these words, the staff of Moneycard Collector will be wrapping up work on our first catalog. We've been feverishly working to finish up the volume - a project spanning more than a year.

The catalog's development has seen countless hours of phone-ringing and hand-wringing, with many requests for information dismissed by potential sources as not a high priority.

To us collectors, it seems to make sense that a comprehensive guide to the prepaid cards created in the U.S. and Canada is not just a good idea, but a priority. These cards are the money of the future. Keeping accurate, extensive data about the cards is an exciting job, when one considers that none of us was available to create such records at the birth of physical money. To do so now is to be in the forefront of information needed for the future of this industry and in turn, this hobby.

One of the most important applications for the catalog and the data we've collected for the product will be seen here within the pages of the Moneycard Collector Price Guide. As you know, we use dealer price lists, market data and even the grapevine to price our cards. The grapevine includes tips from readers and industry leaders, chatting with dealers and even news groups and forum discussions. Building the catalog has given everyone here at the magazine a base of knowledge that we can apply to the publication and specifically to the Price Guide - historical perspective.

Here's an example: Let's say an issuer produces 1,000 cards to market to collectors. The issuer markets his cards, then wholesales them to dealers. Perhaps, though, he only sells 500 of the cards. The cards, if they have an expiration date, have a collectible shelf life, if you will. If the issuer is unable to sell all of the cards before their expiration date, the unsold balance is worth much less. He may choose to destroy the cards or just give them away. Either way, the issuer loses money he invested in the project. He may choose to dump the cards, and if you've been following the column for the last few issues, you know how we feel about issuers and cards that have been dumped. Regardless of how we come to receive information of this kind, we check it out. If a tip can be substantiated, it can affect card prices.

Creating a catalog from all the research certainly was our first goal. From gathering all the information we needed, as the months have gone by, we've adjusted prices in the price guide every month to reflect any new and enlightening knowledge that we have gathered about the cards you collect.

It's all part of our job, and believe us, we're happy to serve you.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Price listings in the Moneycard Collector Price Guide are provided only as a guide and are based on price lists supplied by several dealers around the world and on other market information. Listings without prices will be completed as suitable market information becomes available.

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that - a guide.

NUMBERING SYSTEM

a card depicting an organized, competitive sports-related image (comes before numerals, e.g. S125)

Post-numerical descriptor (falls after the numeral)

#-2 = Second Printing

the second printing of a card; a three, four or greater number can follow to denote the actual print run; occurs often with Canadian cards or unlimited run cards

a-z = error/variety

a card whose identical front or back differs from the card with the primary listing; includes language variations, but not denominational variations

M = model/prototype

full-front printed card, may or may not be full-back printed, never issued

card with an error that caused its destruction or recall

J = jumbo

an oversized or jumbo card

P = proof

artwork on front, blank back

R = replacement

a card that replaced a defective or recalled card

S (after #) = specimen

artwork on front, complete back with false or no pin, or word "sample" or "test"

T = trial/test

live card used specifically for testing a stored value card system

HAVE YOU SEEN THESE CARDS?

Look again! It's not the set issued by Pacific Bell to mark the 1996 holiday season.

This set of three ($5, $10 and $20 denomination) Nevada Bell prototype Christmas cards never has been issued to the public. Moneycard Collector received the set, one of only 30 made, from Pacific Bell, with their wishes that we give it away to some deserving collector.

Are you interested?

Here's how we'll give it away:

Moneycard Collector has asked several top U.S. phonecard dealers what they think this set is worth. We will throw out the highest and lowest price and average the other estimates together to come up with a price.

The collector who guesses closest to that average price wins. Simple!

Here are the card particulars:

Card: Three-card holiday series (Surfing Santa, Mountain Pine, Holiday Ornaments).
Issuer: Pacific Bell
Issue date: Prototypes, never released.
Denominations: $5, $10 and $20.
Mintage: 30 three-card sets.

Here's how to enter:

- Submit your guess to Tom Williams, Editor, Moneycard Collector, P.O. Box 783, Sidney, Ohio 45365, via fax to (513) 498-0876 or via e-mail to tomw@amospress.com.
- All entries must be received by Feb. 20, 1997.
- Only one entry per person, please.
- No phone calls will be accepted.
- In case of a tie, winner will be determined by random drawing.
- Employees of Moneycard Collector, Amos Press Inc., their affiliates, subsidiaries, advertisers, printers and other coordinating agencies involved in this promotion and their immediate families are not eligible to participate.

Put your thinking caps on and send us your best guess!

Powell Associates was fortunate in securing the last 500 sets from a major European Mail Order House. These cards are part of a 1995 sales campaign exclusively for European Disney Collectors.

This set of five cards was produced by Sprint International (Sprint Communications Group L.P.). All five cards are live and are usable in the major countries of the world, including the United States. Each card contains 10 units.

This set of 5 pieces is available at $20.00 per set plus S&H. We strongly feel that real Phoncard collectors will appreciate this extraordinary find and more so this extraordinary price.

CORPORATE CORNER

A potpourri of themes are on tap this month, ranging from wine and food to deer hunting and safe driving.

Frontier Communications supplied the services for a 10-minute Paul Masson

Wine card that was available to consumers who called a toll-free number and took part in a wine survey. Originally set to expire Dec. 31, 1996, the expiration date was extended until March 31. This same card was used earlier in '96 for another promotion by Paul Masson and made available again at the end of 1996 for the wine survey. The mintage is unavailable but my guess is that there were quite a few issued.

Frontier; Paul Masson; 10 minutes; quantity unavailable; 1996.

CommCard; Moen Faucets; 30 minutes; 30,000 issued; November 1996.

Another card that included a survey was a 20-minute card, 18,000 mintage, for Watkins skin-care products, issued in November 1996 by CommCard Inc. of Burnsville, Minn.

CommCard also issued 30,000 telecards for MOEN, the faucet makers. The 30-minute cards were given to Moen associates as a thank-you to mark three consecutive years of being the top selling faucet brand in North America. The card also was issued in November.

Two different kinds of Burger King cards weigh in. ITS Network issued a Burger King logo card in December with 5 minutes of time. The fast-food chain's corporate office used the cards to encourage employees to participate in United Way fund-raising efforts. Employees who turned in their pledge cards received the phonecard, which included a custom message, as a thank-you. The mintage is unavailable.

Tell-One Inc.'s 10-minute Burger King card was issued for a Burger King franchise in the Northeast. There were 1,000 individually numbered cards issued in January. Some were made available to collectors.

Tell-One; Burger King; 10 minutes, 1,000 issued; January 1997.

ITS; Burger King; 5 minutes; quantity unavailable; December 1996.

Another fence-straddler between true promotional cards and those with corporate themes aimed at collectors was the 5-

TreeJerk Promotions; Pittsville Deer; various denominations; 610 issued; November 1996.

Phonecard Express; AllState; 5 minutes; 1,000 issued; 1996.

ITS; Aamco-MADD; 5 minutes; quantity unavailable; November 1996.

OmniTel; Dunkin Donuts Bagels; 5 minutes; 5,000 issued; 1996.

minute phonecard issued by Treejerk Promotions and released in November 1996 to mark deer-hunting season in Wisconsin – Pittsville is the geographic center of the state. The time is carried by ITS, with five denominations produced for retail sales at a Upper Midwest farmers cooperative and truck stop chain called CENEX. There were 200 5-minute cards; 75 20-minute cards; 250 40-minute cards; 80 70-minute cards and 5 200-minute cards. Only the 5-minute cards were sequentially numbered, and those were not sold at the truck stops.

Another ITS card was a team-up between the telco, Aamco Transmissions and MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving). This 5-minute card, mintage unavailable, was part of a promotion that ran from Thanksgiving to New Year's Day at 350 participating Aamco franchises across the country.

Aamco used the cards as part of a giveaway intended to encourage party-goers to use a designated driver.

Phonecard Express recently issued 1,000 cards for AllState Insurance. These 5-minute cards were used as a test by the Long Island regional office of AllState for use in 15 to 20 offices as part of a direct mail effort to attract new customers.

OmniTel just added another Dunkin Donuts card to its family, only this time with a twist. Five thousand cards with 5 minutes of time were issued not to promote doughnuts but a new line of Dunkin Donuts bagels.

That's it for this month! Keep your eyes peeled for promotional phonecard offers.

AIDS-themed cards raise funds, awareness

by Nancy Blackburn

As we all know, the AIDS epidemic is a tragedy of global proportions. What might be news to many collectors is the fact that many phonecard programs have stepped forward to raise money for AIDS education, prevention and research.

As grim as the AIDS figures are — more than 1 million children worldwide are HIV positive, 1 million Americans have AIDS or are HIV positive, and 300,000 have died — the fact that phonecards are playing a positive role provides a glimmer of light, illuminating those who help the effort in myriad ways, from housekeeping, meal preparation and transportation to those who try to alleviate physical and emotional suffering.

A limited-edition phonecard recently was issued by American Express Telecom to commemorate the historic display of the AIDS Memorial Quilt in Washington, D.C. from Oct. 11-13, 1996. There were 3,000 $5-denomination cards issued. The card's support the work of the NAMES Project Foundation. The entire quilt — 40,000 individual panels, containing the names of 70,000 Americans lost to AIDS — was displayed on 26 acres of the National Mall, where it stretched from the steps of the Capitol to the base of the Washington Monument.

Founded in 1987, the NAMES Project Foundation sponsors and displays the AIDS Memorial Quilt to help bring an end to the AIDS epidemic. Through a network of 41 national NAMES Project chapters and 34 international affiliates, the AIDS Memorial Quilt is seen by more than 1 million people annually in nearly 2,000 displays. Money raised at Quilt displays is granted to organizations that provide direct service to people everywhere who are living with AIDS. To date, more than 8 million people have visited the AIDS Memorial Quilt.

Awareness! Project is an AmeriVox Fundraiser Series of phonecards that aims to assist non-profit organizations in raising money. The project was established in 1995 in Seattle, Wash., by Patrick Anderson. Its members donate their own money and time, and then asked friends and business associates to help fund two pilot programs, Rise 'N Shine and Chicken Soup Brigade. By covering all the expenses of producing the first run of Fundraiser cards, they hoped to prove that funds could be raised without risk or cost or non-profit groups, and at the same time, establish a foundation where future income could be generated by phonecard recharges and the support of corporate donors.

the Rise 'N Shine Foundation, which, according to their literature, "is dedicated to providing emotional support to children and teens affected by HIV/AIDS through peer support groups and summer camp." Only 100 cards were issued, each with a suggested donation of $50.

The second card in the series features the work of Art Wolfe, an internationally renowned photographer whose images have been featured on National Geographic magazine covers. The phonecard, which features his famous photograph of an American eagle in flight, benefits the Chicken Soup Brigade. This group provides much needed support for terminally ill people, which includes home delivery of meals and groceries, transportation, and help with chores. There have been 100 cards issued, with a suggested donation of $35.

AmeriVox also produced two generic cards, featuring the traditional red ribbon, to be used by any AIDS-related organization. "Awareness Makes a Difference" has a white background, with a $15 donation. "Grand Patron" has a gold background, and is $25.

Heather Anderson, Patrick's daughter, created a crayon drawing of a girl holding up the world, for a phonecard to benefit the Youth AIDS Prevention Project. This project works with street kids, offering peer counseling and education to prevent the spread of AIDS. The card is limited to an issue of 100, with a $15 suggested donation. All the cards come with five minutes of time, and are rechargeable at 29.9 cents a minute.

RedRibbon Telecard of San Diego comes under the auspices of the International Charitable Association for AIDS/HIV Relieve and Education (I-CARE), a California non-profit corporation. Nikki Byrns, president, describes the program as a "support organization that raises money for AIDS/HIV, using prepaid phonecards, each carrying a message of unity, hope and courage, as a token of donation. Presently we only offer phonecards as fund-raisers but 1-plus services are definitely planned for the future."

Their own phonecards are issued in a theme series format. Their rainbow-colored flag card, with red ribbons as stars, declares, "AIDS shows no prejudice ..." and is available for $25 for 60 minutes. A "Safe Sex" card shows rainbows on a black background, with stick figure people, is available for $10, and carries the slogan "Through Unity ... We will find a cure." Another card with that slogan shows a red ribbon over Earth's horizon. These interactive phonecards have time provided by ACMI and are rechargeable at 40 cents a minute, with 20 percent of the gross profits going to the designated charity. Cooperative or joint ventures may also choose to issue a private, exclusive issue of their own design.

Another notable issue, from Westel of Vancouver, British Columbia, are the "One World, One Hope" phonecards, C$10 denomination; issued for the July 1996 XI International Conference on AIDS.

Phonecard efforts assuredly will continue: Capital Communications Group's Ken Streetman envisions a million-mintage fund-raising phonecard campaign. As researchers and care-givers struggle with an enemy that does not respect age, culture, race, or gender, fund-raisers featuring phonecards will continue to find an appropriate role, helping support a fight that will be with us for years to come. Collectors who choose to add these cards to their collections will be supporting a worthy cause that in time may help to produce a cure for this illness.

FRONTIER, SCORE BOARD LINK UP. A five-year partnership between The Score Board Inc. and Frontier Corp. for the development and marketing of prepaid telephone cards is being hailed by both companies.

Frontier won the right to exclusively distribute phonecard products based on Score Board's licenses, including many agreements with athletes such as Cal Ripken Jr., NFL stars, top Winston Cup drivers, Coca-Cola and McDonald's. The agreement applies to both general retail outlets and the collectible industry.

The December announcement by Score Board and Frontier Communications also means that Frontier will replace Sprint as Score Board's long-distance carrier. Frontier estimates the partnership will generate in excess of $100 million.

"We will be taking a much more conservative approach to our phonecard program. That means we will not be producing as large a number of cards as before. On the other hand, we remain committed to growing the licensed phonecard program at the retail level. We've had a string of very strong successes with 7-Eleven. We intend to stay a leader in what we see as a still growing industry," according to James Robinson, Score Board's vice president of marketing and business development.

"The alliance of Score Board and Frontier will allow us to combine our respective areas of expertise. Frontier will provide Score Board with competitive pricing, state-of-the-art telecommunication services, technical support and additional marketing expertise to create a winning phonecard program," says Score Board CEO Ken Goldin.

Robinson, who was credited with being instrumental in the deal, feels that the strategy of Score Board landing major licenses while Frontier adds phone services will give Score Board a major point of differentiation in the marketplace. "For starters, it means we now have a full partner when we solicit new avenues of distribution on the retail level. The basis of this relationship is for the Score Board/Frontier team going out and winning market share for licensed phonecards together."

Score Board is working on a phonecard-only football product, three cards in each pack. There will be 95 cards to the set, with $3, $5, $10 and $25 denominations. Spicing up the program will be $1,000 cards featuring John Elway, Dan Marino, Brett Favre, No. 1 draft pick Keyshawn Johnson, and Troy Aikman. Score Board had not released the quantities of those nor the odds as of press time.

Robinson also will tell you that he's hard at work on fully exploiting Score Board's McDonald's and Coke licenses. "Given the marketing programs McDonald's and Coca-Cola have with our phonecards, I can't help but think that those two licenses are going to do more to help grow the market than any other."

He admits he's hard at work at getting the phonecards distributed at McDonald restaurants. He's also trying to convince Coca-Cola that phonecards would make great premiums with their products. "That's my personal holy grail," Robinson says.

MONEYCARD A MEDIA PARTNER AT CHICAGO SHOW.

Moneycard Collector has become a media partner with Intele-Card News to help promote Spring Expo '97 to be held April 2-4 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Chicago. The show has been sanctioned by the International Telecard Association. It is expected that a number of dealers will take part. It will be open to the general public, with ads appearing in Chicago area newspapers. For more information call (281) 298-1431.

ACMI HIRES TELECARD DIRECTOR.

ACMI of Memphis, Tenn., has hired Lewis Weiss as telecard director. According to a company news release, Weiss will be involved heavily with all aspects of telecards including sales, promotion and distribution.

After 22 years with Xerox Corp., Weiss was hired to start the telecard division of ATS Network, now part of LCI International Inc, in May 1994. His major deals at LCI included Hammermill Paper, Jimmy Dean Foods, Federal Employees Credit Union, Federal Express and a five-card set for the Chevrolet Motor Division. Weiss has been a guest speaker at several shows and won two national awards for LCI in telecard production, most recently at the 1996 American Telecard Expo in Miami.

PREPAID INTERNET CARDS

OFFERED. OptiCom Interlink of San Diego and ComTel Debit Technologies of Lyndhurst, N.J., have combined forces to jointly market Interphone prepaid Internet cards and Interfon platform services. As with prepaid telephone cards, Interfon prepaid Internet cards allow enterprises to issue custom-designed cards that enable users to access the Internet directly through the sponsoring enterprises' Web sites via a toll-free 800 number. Corporations might give the cards as a sales perk or consumer premium; universities could use them to encourage students to use the Internet, the companies said.

Comic, cartoon images make the leap onto phonecards

By Robert J. Sodaro

Faster than a T-1 line! More powerful than a constant busy signal! Able to allow you to communicate across the country with a string of simple numbers!

It's one of the growing trends in the phonecard industry — phonecards featuring comic and cartoon images. Whether it is Garfield the cartoon cat or your friendly neighborhood Spiderman, many collectors are attracted to the colorful, action-packed images.

According to Stephen Saunders of PATCO, the U.S. phonecard market can split into two groups: "There are those people who collect mainstream promo cards from McDonald's, Walt Disney, and Coca-Cola, and there's the non-sports market that is image-driven."

Falling into the latter is cartoon art, ranging from comic book and comic strip characters to Japanese anime to sci-fi and fantasy. In the early '90s, only the images of highly recognizable, mainstream superheroes were available for licenses. Today, the field has expanded to include their lesser-known, independent cousins; as well as comic strip, U.S. and foreign cartoon animation and others.

PATCO's Saunders has acquired the phonecard licenses for independent comic book characters such as Fem Five, Nira X and the intergalactic ninja Zen — all from Entity Comics; Cynder from Immortelle Studios; Barb Wire from Dark Horse (comic and movie images); and James O'Bar's The Crow (from Kitchen Sink — comic and movie images). He also has managed to line up characters such as Todd McFarlane's Spawn (Image) and Rama 1/2 (from Japan, courtesy of Viz Comics).

Saunders says smaller studios or companies are easier to work with and much more reasonably priced. "There are some companies out there that are charging $20 for a card with five units on it, and marketing it as a 'collectible.' I think they're doing the collector a disservice. I'd rather keep the price low, and give them a cheaper rate," Saunders says. PATCO's cards tend to have 10 units on them, and retail for around $10 — better, but still pricey for use-oriented collectors.

PATCO, quick to realize the potential of the comic book market, issued a number of comic phonecards at the 1995 San Diego comic book convention (one of the biggest shows of the year). These cards included Faust, Nira X, Cynder. PATCO also produced a Spawn Card for the Phoenix II Comic Con (also in '95).

Working the same vein — from the other direction — Argo City has opted to issue cards reprinting covers of Golden Age — '40s and '50s — comic books from smaller publishers. These covers include Suspense Comics No. 8, The Mask No. 2 (both from L.B. Cole), Phantom Lady No. 17 (Matt Baker), and, most recently, Suspense Comics No. 3 (Alex Schomburg). Argo City allows collectors to acquire a piece of history – the comics themselves are priced beyond the means of many. Suspense No. 3 is considered to be the rarest Golden Age comic; less than 10 are known to exist.

Ken Barnes, owner of Argo City, says one of his goals is to reintroduce this timeless American art form to a new audience. "All four (of our cards), are classics, recognizable to the vintage collector." And, he adds, each bears an image considered controversial in its time.

A force behind Golden Age comics and a man who shaped the comic industry was the late Jack "King" Kirby, who began drawing in the early 1930s, working on animated Popeye cartoons before helping build the Marvel empire and DC's Fourth World. His artwork has come to phonecards not only via Marvel characters he helped create but through images by CDG, showing unseen Kirby art from the 1980s, such as Dragonspies, Deceptor, and Malaacar.

Logofon, in conjunction with Global Telecommunication Solutions, also issued a $20 denomination memorial phonecard, showing the artist sitting at his drawing board. GTS also was an early leader in the field of comic book-related telecards, issuing cards depicting Spider-Man, the X-Men and other Marvel characters. According to GTS' Sharon Holle, the company is no longer doing Marvel projects due to a lapsed contract.

While the two companies were working together, GTS, again through Logofon, issued two types of Marvel phonecards. The first was a traditional phonecard displaying either the covers of various comic books (Spider-Man, X-Men), or a holiday-themed sets. The other was an interactive game phonecard. These cards sported images of Spider-Man or the X-Men and came blister-packed with three "hero caps" (nee POGs), and a plastic-cased "mini comic."

Snoopy and other Peanuts images, done by Winston-Taylor with AT&T time, are among the most historically important and desirable comic-based telecards in the U.S. Other popular images that make repeated appearances in "America's Most Wanted" have comic strip or cartoon origins – ACMI's ever-popular and seemingly ever-growing line of Garfield phonecards; the humorous and constantly sought after Pink Panther cards by USACard, and the Cathy and Betty Boop themes from American National Phone Card. Their popularity shows that licensing possibilities for comic characters are limited only by the number of cartoon characters, a roster that is constantly growing.

Recently joining the fray was 1st Choice Telecom, a Florida-based network marketing company that issued a four-card Christmas set featuring classic comic strip characters on phonecards. The initial features images from The Born Loser, Rose is Rose, Nancy and Sluggo and Marmaduke. Future plans call for more than 30 cards planned with other United Features-syndicated characters, according to Ken Kirker of Universal Telecard, which arranged the deal between First Choice and United Features.

GTI Telecard also has jumped on the bandwagon, offering a number of animated favorites, including the Flintstones and Ren and Stimpy. There are several different versions of each group of characters.

To coincide with the release of the animated Disney hit, "Toy Story" on video, AGT/Telus and Blockbuster Video issued five different phonecards. These cards were specific to Canada, and their time was for in-Canada use only.

Dynamic Forces is another company that is seeking out comic book licenses. Dynamic has teamed up with Combo, a comic book, trading card and related collectible consumer magazine, to issue promotional phonecards that are packaged with the magazine. Harris Comics' Vampirella; Image Comics' Witchblade and The Darkness are among those offered.

THE BORN LOSER © by Art and Chip Sansom

Chip Sansom, the artist who pens the daily comic strip "The Born Loser," can't quite pin down what led him to use collectible phonecards as the gag line in his Nov. 15, 1996, strip (above). While his participation in a set of First Choice comic-strip phonecards (right) might have sparked his train of thought, it wasn't a conscious thing, he says. "I have known about phonecards for a while, because my daughter got me involved in them," says Sansom. He terms himself a "serious casual collector" who picks up phonecards that make a connection to his youth – not as investments.

Will the phonecard gag find its way into "The Born Loser" again? "I think it will," he says. "It is a good source of material."

TAPPING THE NETWORKS

It is not surprising that as network marketing companies selling prepaid cards continue to grow, so too does the scrutiny from state and federal regulators.

We have heard reports from sources across the United States that network marketing company "A" is being investigated by the Federal Trade Commission or network marketing company "B" is being probed by state regulators and attorneys general. Everybody seems to be keeping close tabs on what NMCs are doing or, equally important, what they say they are doing.

That attention could prove invaluable to the companies and beneficial to independent representatives and customers, as many of the complaints involving phonecard NMCs seem to center around exaggerated or inappropriate claims of compensation or income. In most cases, the agencies involved will not discuss the particulars of an ongoing investigation, as is the case with "investigative subpoenas" issued as part of the FTC's appropriately named "Operation Missed Fortune," launched in the summer of 1996.

Claims centering around getting rich quick attract immediate attention. That kind of scrutiny makes it imperative for legitimate companies not only to be sure their comments and promises are within regulatory guidelines, but also to try to ensure that their independent representatives express themselves properly.

The FTC, in an article titled "Profits in Pyramid Schemes? Don't Bank On It" makes the following distinction between pyramid schemes and legitimate multi-level marketing companies: Pyramid schemes focus on commissions a distributor can receive for recruiting new distributors. Multi-level marketing plans, legitimate ones, provide a way to sell goods or services and receive commissions for not only your sales, but also on the sales of others you recruit as distributors. The article can be found in its entirety on the FTC Web Site (www.ftc.gov).

"Knowledgeable network marketers take it as a given that state and federal regulators, as well as our competitors, send agents to attend our recruitment meetings," one veteran member of a large network marketing company recently told us. "It would be ill advised to make a false claim in front of such an audience." To that end, at least one of the major NMCs has incorporated training on what you can say and how you can say it in the instructions they give their trainers.

BRAVO COMMUNICATIONS INC., based in Dallas, Texas, a relatively new network marketing company, has unveiled a phonecard featuring singer-actress Cher. Frontier is the carrier for the card, and donations from card sales will go to the Children's Craniofacial Association, of which Cher is a celebrity spokeswoman. She autographed 450 of the 1,450 cards issued. See more about this special card in this month's "New Issues," Page 48.

Another new NMC kid on the block is AVALANCHE MARKETING GROUP INC., based in Burnsville, Minn., near Minneapolis. The network marketing company is offering an MCI PrePaid Calling Card as its first product and is an authorized reseller of MCI time. Avalanche has introduced a 5-minute, rechargeable MCI PrePaid called the "Avalanche Value Plus Card." That card features a picture of Mount Ranier and has the words "Value Plus" on the face. Another Avalanche Marketing card, with the Mount Ranier image but without the wording, is denominated at 75 units.

The company assigns the "Value Plus" cards' PIN numbers to the independent representatives who sell them, so that the representative can earn commissions when the card is recharged.

AMERIVOX PROFILE

The president of AmeriVox, Towru Ikeda, makes it a point to attend and speak at as many meetings as possible of current and prospective AmeriVox representatives. While he spends a good deal of time talking about the business opportunity that his company offers to its reps, he takes special delight in recounting how AmeriVox came into being. Says Ikeda, "Years ago David L. (Eastis) and I had pretty good jobs. He was at a major aerospace company and I was in real estate. But the airplane "bizz" was always going through ups and downs, and so was real estate," he chuckles. "So we decided to find ourselves new careers. Something exciting and dynamic, and something that if we worked really hard we could enjoy the rewards. And we wanted a business in which we could give a great opportunity to others."

AmeriVox; JFK the Icon; $5 denomination; 15,000 issued; November 1994

That dream began to come true when AmeriVox was launched in the spring of 1991. Today the company is an important issuer of prepaid cards. It uses a variety of carriers including Cable & Wireless and Sprint. Calls are handled by two advanced digital switches owned by AmeriVox, which handle more than 500,000 calls per day – in excess of 30 million minutes per month. Recently the company launched its Canadian operation, CanaVox, with carrier services provided by Sprint Canada.

Although not as large as some other network marketing organizations, AmeriVox has had as many as 40,000 members selling its prepaid phonecards, and more recently its 1-plus, voice messaging and other enhanced services.

Many family members work at AmeriVox headquarters, but two of the most prominent are the father & son team of David Lee and son David Michael Eastis. Eastis Sr. is about 6' 6" tall and with the frame of a professional football player. David Michael, or "DM", is not quite as tall but to collectors is probably even better known than his Dad. "When we think back on how far we and this industry have come, we find it just amazing," says the junior Eastis.

No card better exemplifies this than the famous AmeriVox Charter Member card. "We actually had to use nail clippers to put the rounded edges on those cards," notes David Michael. "And then just in a matter of a few months we were able to put together the Elvis and JFK programs. We're very proud of that."

As well as the JFK and Elvis programs, Eastis has a few other cards that are among his personal favorites. "I really like the card we did for Billboard magazine and the first McDonald's set we did. I think they'll be remembered for a long time."

Despite having issued many very collectible cards in the past, more recently AmeriVox has been less visible to collectors. Explains Eastis Sr., "In 1995 and into 1996 we went through some tough times. We had one of our switches do a "melt-down" on us just before its scheduled replacement, and this cost us dearly. But we've regrouped, installed a new very advanced switch and revamped our customer service operations."

Ever the marketer, Eastis Sr. is optimistic about the future. "We will undoubtedly surpass our own records of sales and volume and we've got some new initiatives that are in the works and are very exciting."

AmeriVox pioneered the prepaid card and has spent significant resources in meeting telecommunications regulatory requirements in all 50 states. In 1997, let's hope that AmeriVox will resume its role as a major newsmaker in the prepaid card industry.

Telecard World Toronto

The Telecard World conference and exhibition held in Toronto from Nov. 18 - 20, 1996, was the organization's first foray into Canada, and quite possibly Canada's first all-phonocard show.

Phonecards issued for the show incorporated scenes of Toronto and waved the Canadian flag. No dealers were among the 50 or so exhibitors; but some issuers, notably BC Tel and Destiny Telecom, were selling their regular cards.

One hot topic at the conference was illegal bypass - the practice of routing calls through the United States, instead of Canada, for calls from Canada to Canada or any country except the United States. Speakers cautioned that while it might save money in the short term, it could result in being shut down by the Canadian Radio and Telecommunications Commission.

There were reminders that all materials and services should be available in a minimum of English and French. A number of speakers predicted that multi-function cards offering services from fax-on-demand to sports scores to parking, in addition to telephone access, will surface as the cards of choice.

The discussions were not limited purely to phonecards. Two presenters gave updates of prepaid banking trials of Mondex (recently purchased by MasterCard International), VISA Cash, and the December launch of Exact (a reloadable chip card with its origins in Belgium) in Kingston, Ontario. Prepaid cellular was another hot topic with several speakers. Sample Bell Mobility cards, found at the NBTel Interactive booth, are valid for both local and long distance calls, and are used much like a regular remote card, but can only work from a Mobility cellular phone. So far the cards only work in Ontario and western Quebec, although Bell Mobility hopes for a national roll-out sometime in the second quarter of this year.

Some of the more interesting highlights did not take place directly at the conference. ITS, one of the show's main sponsors, offered a tour of their facilities in suburban Toronto. The newly formed Canadian Telecard Association held a meeting to raise awareness and support. The room was packed with enthusiastic movers and shakers from the top Canadian issuers. And the people who didn't care to spend a few late hours at a standing-room-only recruitment meeting for Telenet missed out on receiving an autographed phonecard featuring hockey great Bobby Hull, a representative of the Winnipeg-based company. (See "Tapping the Networks," Moneycard Collector, February 1997.)

The next Telecard World Toronto will take place in late November 1997. Already the show management promises a bigger and better show.
