ON THE MONEY

Meetings of the U.S. Telecard Association (USTA) in Atlanta during late May will likely see the formal adoption of performance and design standards for phone cards. And for that, all collectors should applaud. The meetings will also register a major event in the brief history of the USTA, as the Chairmanship is passed from Larry Brilliant of Winston Taylor to Joe Miller of Ameritech.

We want to add our voice to those who will laud the accomplishments of the USTA's first chairman. In early 1994, spurred by concerns over morals and ethics in the industry, Larry single-handedly rejuvenated the trade association that had been formed a year earlier at a Richmond phone card show. One of its early founders, Luis Vigdor, quickly joined Larry's executive committee, as did Moneycard Collector Publisher, Murray Church. An experienced executive director, Howard Segermark, was brought on board. Within 18 months, the USTA, under Larry's leadership, has drafted standards and has become an increasingly effective body with a strong sense of purpose — protecting the interests of the phone card user. More recently, Larry led the effort to improve the manner in which the USTA is governed and to replace departing members of the executive committee.

By training, Dr. Larry Brilliant has been a physician, trained and accomplished in epidemiology, the control and eradication of epidemics. But today, and by choice, he's a phone card guy. To Larry, we say a heart-felt "thank you" for all of the good work he has accomplished. And to Joe Miller and his new team, we extend our best wishes for an equally successful tenure. They and all USTA members can be assured of our continued support for the work and for the good of the association.

Again this month, we cover a chip-based moneycard issued by a major U.S. bank ("Collectors pounce on NFL Jaguar debit cards"). In developing the story, we discovered two new terms related to stored value cards: "activated" and "non-activated." For this program, all of the cards produced were loaded with the actual face value, but the cards could not be used until they were physically passed through an activation device. Thus, the appearance of a chip on an activated card is visibly different from a non-activated card. A chip card reader can only read an activated card; non-activated cards cannot be read.

As a result, we have concluded that we will need to report on chip card terminology. As always, we would like your ideas about what to cover in such a story. Write, fax or e-mail us if you have any special questions or issues you'd like us to cover.

Recently, we have witnessed an outbreak of "whinitis" in our hobby. Whinitis, of course, is the technical term for the disease that is characterized by intense whining and complaining about every little detail that doesn't suit you. And within the past few months, our mail boxes, telephone lines and online network services have been jammed with protests and criticisms about issuers, dealers, service providers, cards and pricing.

Don't misinterpret this: we want to hear about real problems out there, and we will continue to function as a sounding board to help identify and resolve them. But all collectors need to remember that issuers and dealers are free to price their product as they wish. No one is holding a gun to our heads to buy any card, regardless of how it is priced. The free market economy should take care of those who consistently overprice their products or services. As for unscrupulous practices, we will report only those incidents that affect the collector or the hobby. Otherwise, we will become nothing more than an unofficial court record.

Enough already! Let's get back to work building the hobby by correcting what is wrong and applauding what is right with it.

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

It's from ITS

Thank you for your continuing coverage of Interactive Telecard Services, Inc. (ITS). In the March issue of your publication, there is an excellent article "McGolden: McDonald's + phone cards = an irresistible treat," by Nancy Blackburn. However, the McDonald's Hawaiian Warrior/Hula Dancer card was credited to MCI. This card is a Limited Edition Supercard issue from ITS, with MCI providing the network services.

This card was produced for McDonald's Hawaii, which was offered to customers as a purchase with purchase. We have had great success with this program as well as many interested collectors inquiring about the card. The card was rated number three in the "America's Most Wanted" section of Moneycard Collector in February 1996.

ITS has also issued the McDonald's Hamburger University card, which McDonald's gave to their employees who wished to attend HU in order to reduce the cost of the students to call home.

In addition to McDonald's, ITS has issued other fast food related cards. Burger King utilized the ITS Supercard when they wanted to increase traffic in their restaurants and increase sales of the WHOPPER®. The card was distributed to consumers via radio disk jockeys.

Thank you for turning your attention to this correction.

Ilene Kaminsky, Interactive Telecard Services, Miami, Fla.

Sorry about the omission in the April story. The caption and chart should have listed "ITS/MCI" as the issuer. The March issue of "America's Most Wanted" had identified it correctly.

Stop criticizing

I have bought, sold, traded and collected phone cards since late 1993. Now, more than ever, this hobby needs direction. Even though I have only been a subscriber to Moneycard Collector for the past six months, it is obvious that as the hobby's leading magazine (in my opinion), you are in a leading edge role in determining the direction this hobby and industry takes. Just as sportscard collectors rely on the dependability of Beckett's, phone card collectors very much are looking to Moneycard Collector to play the same role in their hobby.

What this hobby doesn't need is unnecessary criticism from within. One example is the constant criticism of Classic. I admit that I have shaken my head at some of their marketing strategies. However, at the same time, I think their positive contributions to this hobby are often overlooked because many dealers bring with them negative bag-

Real postal service

Your article about the new Postal Service/American Express phone cards (Special Delivery, February 1996) really caught my interest. I like the idea of phone card collecting mingling with stamp collecting since, when you think about it, the two hobbies really have a lot in common.

Phone card collecting could be considered the stamp collecting of the coming century. Since I don't live near any of the test market areas for the Postal Service phone cards, I called the 800 number you provided and ordered the three Christmas theme cards and the three carousel horse cards.

First of all, I was impressed with how nice the order taker was and how quickly they delivered my order (within a week, with a federal holiday in between). The cards themselves are even more impressive. The pictures are bright and colorful, and since the cards are individually wrapped, they arrive scratch-free. Also, each denomination of the carousel horse cards features a different horse; they aren't just the same horse on three different denominations.

Thanks for your informative article. As quality, informative cards, I think they will be a huge success.

Alice Bengel, Norcross, Ga.

We must return the compliment. We constantly learn from collectors and this was the case with your letter. Since we wrote the USPS story in December, before all the actual cards were available, we were forced to rely on early information provided by the Postal Service. Therefore, we weren't fully aware of all the different images on the cards. Thanks for letting us know.

gage from their previous dealings on the trading card level.

In my opinion, they have and hopefully will continue to play a pivotal role as an issuer of prepaid "COLLECTIBLE" cards. I can't begin to estimate how many collectors that I have met who never would have stopped to even look at a phone card if it hadn't had a licensed sports figure who sparked their interest. They would not give the time of day to many of the corporate/advertising giveaway type phone cards that some dealers in this hobby seem to treasure above all else.

I hope that dealers understand that there is room for both types of collectors. New collectors should not be bombarded by the personal preferences of a dealer, but instead be educated about the hobby in general and then left to decide what is best for them. Publications such as Moneycard Collector must provide the neutral coverage so that each hobbyist feels comfortable in learning what appeals to them most about this exciting hobby. Having read your publication the past few months I am convinced of your sincerity in promoting this hobby. I hope that the influence of any one contributor to your magazine never compromises the neutrality that I have seen so far.

Collecting for Peanuts

Schulz cards offer some good collecting opportunities

By Nancy Blackburn

GOOD GRIEF! Can you imagine the Sunday morning funnies without Snoopy, Woodstock and the gang? Of course not. Charlie Brown and the gang have become a revered part of Americana.

With all that popularity, phone card collectors may be surprised to learn that not all of the Peanuts cards have skyrocketed to the top of the price guides. Though a couple of the issues have enjoyed the spoils of "investment fever," there still seems to be some pretty good deals out there for the serious Peanuts aficionados.

Charles M. Schulz fashioned his first comic strip on October 2, 1950. At the time, it graced the pages of a grand total of seven newspapers. Nearly 46 years later, the comic strip is one of the world's most widely syndicated, appearing in 2,500 newspapers daily and reaching more than 200 million readers in 69 countries.

Snoopy's owner, Charlie Brown, and his friends — Lucy, Schroeder, Peppermint Patty, Sally, Linus, Pig Pen and the gang — have appeared in more than 40 animated television specials, four feature films, and two Broadway plays. The Peanuts gang has been the subject of 1,400 books, which have sold a combined total of 300 million copies. Peanuts has garnered Emmy Awards, as well as a Peabody award for "distinguished and meritorious service."

Snoopy can be Joe Cool, jazz singer; World I Flying Ace battling the Red Baron; Beagle Scout Leader heading the troops, or author of "It Was a Dark and Stormy Night." He has participated in parades across the U.S. and joined the "Just Say No" anti-drug campaign.

Commenting on the universal appeal of Peanuts, Schulz observes: "As a youngster, I didn't realize how many Charlie Browns there were in the world. Now I realize that Charlie Brown's goofs are familiar to everybody — adults and children alike."

The cards should be an invincible combination. Millions adore Snoopy and the gang. AT&T and Sprint, two of the largest and most respected telecommunications companies in the world, have been the carriers for 12 different Schulz cards to date. And yet, unlike McDonald's and Coke cards, many of the Peanuts prepaids have yet to really "take off" in the market.

The Charles Schulz invasion into the telecard market actually began in November 1994. Though many believe the AT&T/Brilliant "Snoopy Santa" to be the first Schulz phone card, Hallmark's Snoopy greeting card/phone card product actually beat them to the market by a month.

character. The 10-minute AT&T phone card was limited to the 250 guests at the USTAI banquet and auction in San Francisco, which created an instant collectible. Some sold their cards on the spot for $100 and table talk had the card's value easily exceeding the cost of airfare to California. Within a few months, the card reached the $300 mark, and now holds steady at $400.

With the combined appeal of a great theme and time carried by respected telcos, along with the relatively low mintages, it seems like an easy formula for success. In reality, however, collectors have gravitated toward the low-mintage cards, effectively forsaking the standard issue cards. For instance, the two highest value Peanuts cards are the Snoopy Santa and USTAI Dinner cards, with ultra-low mintages of 1,000 and 250, respectively. On the opposite side of the value spectrum are the Snoopy Bowl set of three standard size cards (10,000 mintage) at $23, and the accompanying Steve Young Snoopy Bowl Jumbo card (10,000 mintage), which commands just $50.

One exception to that trend, and perhaps the "sleepier" on the market is the original Hallmark "Dog 'n Suds" card, which is priced at just $18 — when you can find it. In our view this card is definitely worth more.

To acknowledge that there is an added value to low-run cards, AT&T produced only

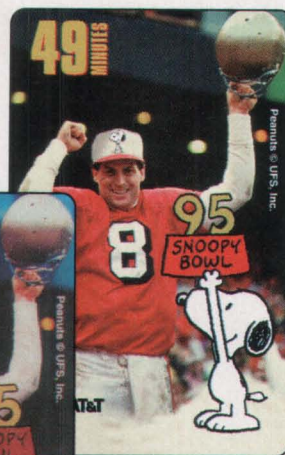

The Snoopy Hallmark card was designed as a replacement for the original greeting/ phone cards from Hallmark. Only 10,000 of the cards were produced, with approximately 20 percent of them actually distributed. The remaining inventory is still at Hallmark.

The popular Steve Young/Snoopy Bowl set followed those first two issues, and in April 1995 came one of the most sought-after cards of the year — the USTAI Dinner card featuring Schulz's "Lucy" character.

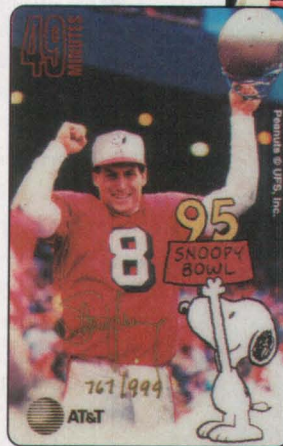

999 jumbos autographed by Steve Young. But those cards have held steady at $75-$85 for the past year.

Whether the newest Peanuts cards issued by Winston Taylor will become a star or not is yet to be seen. The "Card A Month" program offers a different Snoopy AT&T card to collectors 12 times a year. The limited edition (1,000 each) cards will be available through the Snoopy Club and selected phone card outlets.

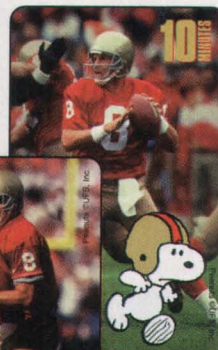

Regardless of how the cards may be valued, the lovable Peanuts gang is a great thematic with some fun cards...certainly nothing to "Good Grief!" about!

CORPORATE CORNER

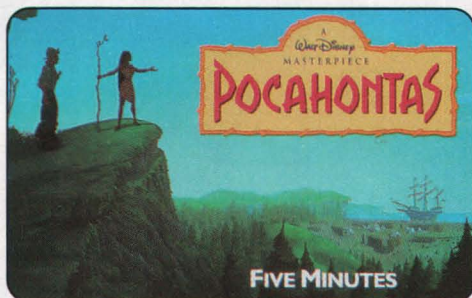

One of the most respected carriers in the industry – AT&T – has made its way into the promotional card arena in a big way this month with two new cards.

The first is a five-minute calling card that was created to promote the home video release of Disney's "Pocahontas." The promo has been running at select Incredible Universe, Record Town, Saturday Matinee and Coconuts stores around the nation. Not only was it issued by AT&T, but it features a licensed Disney character (Pocahontas) on the card. This one should prove to be quite collectible.

Also from AT&T is a cool Duracell/Putterman's card, the fifth and most elusive of a five-card promotional set. AT&T originally produced 2,500 of these cards for a mail-in promotion. Customers had to send in four proofs of purchase from Duracell batteries, along with the cash register receipt. Sources have indicated that less than 1,000 of the cards were sent out, with the remainder of the inventory apparently destroyed. The promotion was conducted through Best Buy stores.

Liberty/Quest also has been busy in the promotional card market. One of their best to date is a 25-minute card produced for the Finish Line retail stores. The card promotes Starter Athletic wear and features Dallas Cowboy Superstar Emmitt Smith wearing a Dallas Cowboy jacket and cap. Twelve thousand cards were produced as giveaways with the purchase of Starter athletic wear from a Finish Line store.

One of my personal favorites also comes from Liberty/Quest. The card features the Mr.

Peanut character, along with the logos of seven popular snacks. The card has a $4 face value and was used as a sales incentive for Nabisco employees.

Among other recent offerings from Liberty/Quest are two very "timely" cards produced for Seiko and Pulsar. Both the 15-minute Seiko (2,604 mintage) and the 10-minute Pulsar (1,524 mintage) cards were available at Macy's with the purchase of a watch.

Star Telecom produced a colorful card promoting the popular motion picture, "Ace Ventura, When Nature Calls." The card was available at select General Cinemas, with the purchase of a ticket to the movie and a large bucket of popcorn.

Phoncard Express appears once again this month – this time with a card created for Panasonic Business systems. Four thousand of the 15-minute cards were produced as a thank you to customers who filled out a direct mail survey in Illinois, New York, California, Atlanta and Ohio.

Coca-Cola-SPRINT PHONE CARDS/CELS '96

Phone Cards and Cels that follow "Coca-Cola" Through the Years

They're back! After a successful debut in 1995, "Coca-Cola" - Sprint Phone Cards/Cels '96* is better than ever. And there's still one Sprint prepaid FÖNCARDSM, with a minimum value of $2, GUARANTEED in every pack.

The Phone Cards in "Coca-Cola" - Sprint Phone Cards/Cels '96 range in value from $2-$25. There are $2 Gold Edition Phone Cards, while the $5 Phone Cards feature either "Coca-Cola" calendar girls on silver foil-stamped cards or historical "Coca-Cola" coupons on etched acetate. The $10 phone cards come in micro-lined or die-cut versions, with the latter printed on tin stock and featuring special "Coke" can or "Coke" tray designs. There are also beautiful $25 Four Season Phone Cards that go together to form a 5-part puzzle.

In addition to the phone card in every pack, "Coca-Cola" - Sprint Phone Cards/Cels '96 also features four "Coke" cels parallel to the $2 phone cards, in every pack. The front of each cel depicts a popular "Coke" advertisement "Through The Years" and the year of the ad, with the back containing three challenging "Coke" trivia questions that both inform and entertain. There are also Gold Edition cels and a subset of phone cards and cels featuring "Coca-Cola" athletes "Through the Years," including Cal Ripken Jr. and other exciting players.

STORED VALUE CARDS OPEN DOORS TO THE WORLD OF TRUE MONEYCARDS In the U.S. today, most moneycards are remote memory prepaid phone cards, which require the user to dial a 1-800 number to access a computer with account balance information. However, remote prepaids may soon be challenged by multi-application Stored Value Cards (SVCs), which seem to show us the possibilities and the future of moneycards.

SVCs have a memory chip on them, much like the memory chip found in computers. The SVC is loaded with a certain cash value, sold to a customer, and the customer then uses the card to pay for goods and services from various merchants (see "Visa Cash" story in March Moneycard Collector).

Convenience is the main reason to use an SVC. You never have to worry about having exact change. In fact, coins could nearly disappear with the wide use of SVCs in vending machines.

While using a credit card might seem like the same as using an SVC, it really isn't. Credit card transactions can take a minute or longer, as opposed to less than two seconds for an SVC. There is also no PIN to use or remember (just as you don't need a PIN to use a dollar bill, you won't need one for a disposable SVC).

The cash value of the transaction is transferred from the SVC to the merchant's computer, and the SVC value is reduced accordingly. At the end of the day, the merchant's computer transfers all transactions into the bank's computer.

Remember, the value is stored on the card itself. When the value of the SVC is used up, the card can be thrown away or collected (hence the name of the magazine you are reading). These early cards should be highly desirable as collectibles.

Eventually, rechargeable cards will be issued. These must be linked to banks because the cards have to be charged or recharged from a savings or checking account.

MONDEX is currently conducting such a trial in Swindon, England.

VISA International began a pilot program in April 1995 that has been conducted at the cafeteria in their headquarters in San Francisco. Each VISA employee was given a $5 card and allowed to purchase $20 cards. VISA has used this same approach regardless of the market — an employee-based test to discover and remedy any major problems, and then VISA International; demonstration card; loaded with $5; 10,000 issued; April 1995.

VISA International; stored value card prototype; no denomination; approximately 20 cards net mintage; March 1995.

The $5 cards are difficult to obtain, as most of the employees decided to keep their card as a souvenir. The 3,000 cards have a dark blue obverse, with a star, planets, and Roman numerals and include an April 1996 expiration date.

As many as 10,000 promotional (or demonstration) cards were issued. These cards do not carry a denomination on the obverse of the card, though typically they were charged with the equivalent of $5. The demo cards were designed to be used in vending machines at trade shows, and immediately expired after the show.

Because VISA is not a bank, and can not issue money, the pilot VISA Cash cards were issued by Bank of America. Several banks are now issuing VISA SVCs, mainly for use during the upcoming Summer Olympics in Atlanta.

There are two varieties of the $20 pilot program cards. They can be distinguished by the different chip types, along with the date code and serial number information on the reverse. It is estimated that about 20,000 of these cards were produced — two-thirds of one type, with the remaining one-third the other.

A prototype VISA SVC exists. It has no denomination on the obverse, and has no information in the lower left corner of the reverse. Probably less than two dozen were produced, and most of them have been destroyed.

Australian SVCs have been issued in the same format. There is a $5 employee card, along with a $20 card available for purchase. While the U.S. $20 denomination card is printed in blue, the Australian denomination is in red. Otherwise, the cards appear identical on the obverse.

The statement on the reverse of the Australian card reads: "The VISA Stored Value Card makes the VISA; Bank of America pilot program cards (two varieties); $20 denomination; 20,000 issued; April 1995.

First Union Bank; Treasury Management Conference demonstration card; $5 denomination; November 1995.

Gemplus. Expiration date: 30 November 1995."

Two Australian banks (one of which is National Australia) and a credit union have issued VISA SVCs. The other bank, ANZ, produced a plastic folder to accompany the $20 cafeteria card. An informational card is also inserted into the folder, stating the $20 card is only valid for use in the cafeteria.

Just as the Bank of America logo appears on the reverse of the U.S. pilot cards, the ANZ logo appears on the reverse of the Australian cafeteria cards. The front of the folder is marked, "ANZ Smart Card."

Cards issued on November 15, 1995, are now available to the general public in denominations of $5, $20 and $50. Two different souvenir or collector packs were produced. One has six different cards, while the other has only three.

Telstra, the telephone company formerly known as Australia Telecom, has modified some public pay-phones to accept an SVC. These are found in the Australian Gold Coast tourist resort area, and the designs are different from the pilot cards. Rechargeable cards should be available this year. In the U.S., BellSouth will install public payphones in Atlanta to accept VISA SVCs.

Australian SVCs were issued to commemorate the Asia Pacific Conference, held a few days after the public launch of the cards. Less than 2,000 cards were produced for the occasion.

First Union Bank in the U.S. issued a $5 commemorative demonstration card, valid for use only at the 16th Annual Treasury Management Conference held in Boston, November 5-8. Similar pilot programs were conducted by VISA in Australia, as well.

Other moneycards are beginning to pop up across the U.S. There are the familiar ones, such as multiple ride subway and bus tickets, and the less familiar ones, used to rent video tapes, purchase gasoline, etc.

Mobil Oil now offers a GO! card, and the CHEAPER! chain in California has issued three magnetic stripe cards. DANYL Corp. has issued a series of SVCs for use on the campus of Florida State University (see Moneycard Collector, March 1995).

In Japan, prepaid cards of all types have been in daily use for more than a decade, and most people now carry up to 10 different cards, including those used in McDonald's. Payphones in Japan no longer accept coins — only phone cards. Surely all these various most common purchases the most convenient. Fast, accurate, and easy to use, it's a lifestyle product that keeps pace with you."

Information in the lower left corner states: "Cards manu-

moneycards will eventually merge into a single SVC, such as the VISA Cash cards.

Two trade shows held in 1995, CardTech/SecurTech East (Washington, DC) and West (San Jose), featured smart and stored value cards. While little was there for collectors, it was evident that the industry could become quite large.

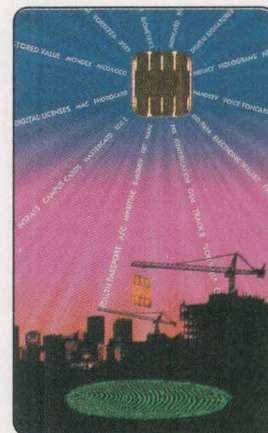

It is interesting to note that the next major U.S. phone card show — formerly known as TeleCard World — is now being billed as TeleCard World 96/Smart Card 96. Truly, it looks like SVCs have their chips on the table, and they're ready to play.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

My "Most Wanted" list is a pleasant mix of Coca-Cola, McDonald's, promotional, movie and sports cards. We even have a TeleCard World Expo giveaway card for the second month running. Most of the cards are inexpensive, and I'd recommend picking up a few of these if they appeal to you.

1 AT&T/WORLD OF COCA-COLA RONALD MCDONALD HOUSE/ATLANTA

Issued in January 1996, this two-card set of 10-unit cards benefit the Ronald McDonald Houses of Atlanta. It looks like all participants donated their time and material for this issue, from the designers and printers to the issuers. Even AT&T donated the telephone time. This is the first card set ever featured in "New Issues" that simultaneously took "America's Most Wanted" top spot.

2 OMNITEL CAREFREE GUM

Another very strong showing for the card that promotes the popular sugar-free gum. Issued in November, the five-minute card sports a pleasant design and an inexpensive price tag.

3 FRONTIER X-FILES

The first of what could be several cards featuring the popular Fox Network TV series was issued in November 1995. This $10 card is available at about face value. Although a fairly high mintage, many are being used in vending applications and most will never reach the collector market. I've seen at least one additional X-Files card from overseas. I'd recommend grabbing some of these for later trading; collectors will want them in the future.

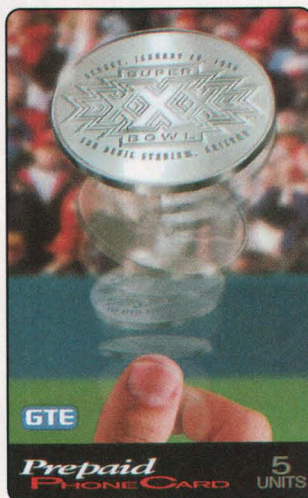

4 OMNITEL RED DOG POUR HOUSE

Five minutes; September 1995. Another popular Red Dog corporate example that continues the OmniTel mini-series of Red Dog cards. The "mixed breed" cards features both the Pour House and Red Dog hounds.

5 HOMISCO 1939 WORLD'S FAIR

Five minutes; September 1995. This lovely card was first used as a show giveaway (TeleCard World '95) in September, and the remaining inventory has just now come to the market. Always sporting a classy design, Homisco cards have been a sought-after regular at telecard expos.

6 GTE SUPER BOWL XXX

Five Units; January 1996. Almost all of these cards were given away to ticketholders at the 1996 Super Bowl game in Phoenix. Although a mintage of 80,000 is substantial, only a small percentage of those likely entered the collector market. That quantity should be sufficient enough to allow collectors to find them through phone card dealers, however (see "New Sports Issues," page 51).

7 CENTURY TELECOM SMITH'S SUPERMARKETS COKE SET

Created for the second Smith's Supermarkets Coca-Cola promotion late last year, these four-card sets are now available from telecard dealers. The mintage is 10,000 of each three-minute card, and the overage leads me to believe the investment potential should be minimal. From an investment perspective, I would be more inclined to buy the first set of Century cards because of their low mintage and high mortality rate. However, the second set is very attractive and available.

8 PREMIER TELECOM MCDONALD'S/BATMAN FOREVER

Three minutes; September 1995. A striking design on this mintage 2,000 McDonald's promotional card makes it an instant collectible. This is probably the best looking of all the Batman cards we've seen, and a good value at under $15.

9 QUEST/LIBERTY NABISCO MR. PEANUT

Here is a card for snack food junkies. It has no less than eight different Nabisco logos, including Mr. Peanut himself. With a $4 face value, I'd guess that this one would be a good investment if purchased for less than $20. Additional information appears in this month's "Corporate Corner" column on page 9.

10 U S WEST SUPER BOWL XXX

$1 comp card; January 1996. Another super design from the progressive RBOC. Given out to participants at the Super Bowl Host Committee meetings, the $1 comp card was restricted to the Host Committee logo due to licensing constraints. However, the prevailing price of $50 has already taken it out of the fun-to-collect category.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion, Ill. Rankings are based on actual sales figures supplied to Moneycard Collector by U.S. phone card dealers. All dealers are welcome to participate by faxing their Top 10 best sellers for the month, along with the actual number of cards sold to retail customers. All sales figures will be held in strict confidence by Moneycard Collector. Dealers need to fax their data by the middle of each month for it to be included in the rankings.

WHAT GOES ON THE REVERSE OF THE CARD? Most American collectors are so familiar with the front side of a card that they seldom turn it over to check out the reverse.

However, those who are accustomed to examining the entire product know exactly what information should be on the flip side.

So who decides what goes on the reverse of a phone card? If new proposed USTA standards are passed, those member issuers will have to comply with a list of compulsory requirements. Prior to opening the package, customers must be able to determine:

- 1) the carrier, either on the card front, back or on the packaging;
- 2) the domestic rate per minute;
- 3) whether or not the sales tax is included in the rate per minute;
- 4) whether or not the card has an expiration date.

In addition to these new compulsory standards, it is recommended that the issuer include the following on the reverse side:

- 1) operating instructions;
- 2) a toll-free, 24-hour per day customer service number;
- 3) the denomination and quantity of cards issued;
- 4) sequential numbering.

Cards may include scratch-off strips to hide their PIN codes, but it will not be required at this time by the USTA. One unique approach to this problem is the double scratch-off, which was introduced by Mercury Marketing. The strip covers both the 800-number and the PIN code, which discourages callers from dialing simply to listen to the card's voice prompts.

PATCO is one of the best at supplying necessary collector information on the reverse side of its phone cards. In the lower left are credits for the artwork, the expiration date, name of the card, the denomination and mintage, and the event for which it was issued. Below the customer service number at bottom right is the telecommunications service provider, and at the bottom center is the issuer's control number.

According to Kevin Pirolo, president of ACMI, approximately nine minutes of network time is burned up for every six minutes of revenue-generating phone time used. "Why should the user be able to burn up network time just to listen to the voice prompts," he offered. "That can prove to be very expensive to an issuer."

Other important information to look for on the back of the card is the issuer (if it differs from the carrier); the issue date; the printer; the originator of the artwork; licensing rights; and the name of the card, or how it will be referred to by collectors. Sometimes, issuers will even include tracking or control numbers for added security.

Many current U.S. cards now incorporate voice prompts in several different languages. Cards offering this service should indicate so on the back. Likewise, if the card platform offers informational or interactive services, there should be a menu of features or instructions how to use them.

So, the next time you pick up and admire a phone card, flip it over and examine the reverse, as well. You may find some value-added features that make the card an even better buy.

Randy Moser

NYNEX stored value magnetic cards include a helpful explanation of why the card was issued. The code at upper right translates: date (8/95); Public card (P); and quantity (25,000).

This Borz Moneycard Superstore card is sequentially numbered (lower right) and includes both a bar scan and control number.

Following the card instructions on this Frontier Communications card are instructions (#4) about how to access the card's entertainment and informational features.

ISSUERS GAMBLING ON NEW TELECHIP PRODUCT Collectors could find themselves in the chips when they rake in the latest phone card token from TeleCHIP, Inc. Fabricated from the same material as casino gambling chips, telechips can be stuck in a pocket or tossed in a drawer, and will not bend, wear out, or scratch as easily as plastic cards.

Cable & Wireless, first to use the telechip, issued 1,500 commemorative five-minute chips at the World Gaming Congress & Expo, held in Las Vegas, October 16-18, 1995.

The 1.5-inch diameter commemorative telechip is printed with a three-color design over a white background. The front side includes the International Wagering & Gaming Business logo, along with the location, date and number of minutes on the chip. The reverse side shows the C&W logo, 800-access number, PIN code, mintage and service bureau number.

Another series of telechips from Cable & Wireless has proven to be even more popular with collectors. The chips simply feature a replica of the Apollo XIII crew patch design on the front, with all of the necessary information included on the reverse. The rim, or edge of the coin, reads: "CWI and CHIPCO salute the crew of Apollo XIII." Only 1,000 of the attractive telechips were issued, with most of them quickly gobbled up by NASA and related officials.

North American Telephone (NAT) took the telechip idea one step further by converting the discs into dog tags that were provided as a memento of the 1995 Animal Care Expo in Orlando. With a key ring inserted through a hole in the chip, delegates were able to take home a functional souvenir that also could be used for five minutes of phone time.

NAT also produced colorful five-minute chips with "COMPLIMENTARY PROTOTYPE" printed along the edge. These active chips display well-known logos of Trump Taj Mahal (Atlantic City), The Mirage (Las Vegas), and First American Gaming Corp. (Vero Beach, Fla.).

There is also an extremely rare Happy Holidays 1994 product issued by Sprint, which is identified on the back as a calling chip, phone chip and telechip. Portraying Santa Claus and several children framed by a wreath on the front, it was originally produced in an issue quantity of 500. However, problems with blurred printing necessitated destruction of most of the chips and less than 10 percent of the tokens actually survived.

Manufactured by CHIPCO, Int'l., all of these unique prepaids are made of a clay epoxy material that make a resounding clink! when dropped onto a hard surface. The chips are round, but they are not die-cut.

The manufacturer encountered the initial printing problems when the circular chips turned during production, which resulted in crooked printing. A technique was developed to keep the chips straight that also allowed printing around the edge.

Designed as a product well-suited to the hotel/hospitality industry, innovative application ideas are already in the making. Cruise ships have ordered telechips shaped like life preservers, and the products will be placed in hotel rooms in place of traditional peppermint candies. Higher denomination chips will be sold in gift shops. And coming soon will be a telechip configured like an automobile tire.

Collectors, gather in the chips when you find them — telechips may turn out to be the next great thematic and could really pay off.

SCENES OF MONTREAL With 1.7 million residents, Montreal is the largest city in Quebec and the second largest in Canada. Civilization on the island in the St. Lawrence River dates back several hundred years to the native community of Hochelaga. French explorers happened upon Hochelaga in 1535, with the first European settlers arriving in 1642.

Montreal has been depicted numerous times on Canadian phone cards. Both Bell Canada ($20, 2,000 mintage) and CardCaller Canada ($10/$20; 2,500 mintage each) chose scenes highlighting the proximity of water to the downtown hub. Montreal-based ITG selected an image at dusk of the office towers in the business core.

Many tourists begin their exploration of Montreal in the oldest parts of the city. Place Jacques Cartier is an especially popular street in the summer, close to Notre Dame Basilica, the Old Port, and other historical areas.

Old Montreal is a $10 Hello card that pictures a fine view of City Hall. The card sports a magnetic stripe on the back, so that it can be used in a card-reader payphone to eliminate some of the dialing. Caleches (old-fashioned horse-and-buggies) ferry tourists around Old Montreal, and Cardinal VoiceCard snapped one for its $20 Montreal card.

There are three different pictures of St. Joseph's Oratory, a Roman Catholic shrine built on the side of Mount Royal. Tesonic Communications Inc. (TCI), formerly known as DebiTel, and Card-Caller Canada have each captured the beautiful shrine on prepaid cards. CardCaller issued two versions of the landmark: the caption-less card is no longer available, being deemed "too ugly" (the words of CardCaller officials, not mine) and replaced with a different picture with the "St. Joseph's" identification.

Montreal sports are well reflected in phone cards. The beautiful Olympic Stadium is illustrated on a CardCaller card. Following the 1976 Summer Olympics, the stadium became the home field of the Montreal Expos baseball club.

A series of Bell Canada LaPuce chip cards feature manager Felipe Alou, mascot Youppi, and baseball equipment with the Expos logo.

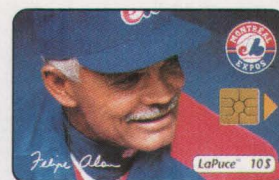

Cultural festivals never seem to end in Montreal. Bell sponsors the annual jazz and comedy festivals each July. The "Just for Laughs" Hello card was produced in 1994 and 1995, along with a LaPuce card for local calling.

The backs of the three LaPuce 1995 festival cards (Just for Laughs, Jazzfest, and the Francolies de Montreal) each include an information number for the event.

One last Montreal attraction is housed in the former French pavilion of the 1967 World's Fair. CardCaller Canada features the new casino, which is brilliantly lit up at night.

Each of these issuers also produces designs of non-Montreal scenes. Some offer a larger assortment than others, but all are attractive and collectible.

QUICK TAKES

ASSOCIATION RESCUES USA CALLING CUSTOMERS Ten USTelecard Association member companies have offered to replace non-working telecards issued by now-defunct USA Calling. The USTA had received numerous calls from consumers holding inoperative prepaid phone cards issued by USA Calling, which was not a member of the association. Most of the cards were purchased at K-Mart, Meijer, Service Star and Coast-To-Coast stores. Several thousand of the USA Calling cards are believed to be outstanding.

Participating telcos include ACMI, Ameritech, ConQuest, Global Link, IntelliCommunications Network, Mercury Marketing, PacBell, Quest Communications, Smartel and Talk 'n Toss. Although similar in name, the Atlanta-based USA Calling had no association with USACard, a well known issuer/distributor in Denver.

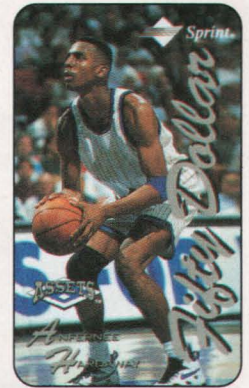

SCORE BOARD TO CHANGE DIRECTION Following an extensive management review of operations, The Score Board, Inc. has decided to focus its resources on consumer sports products, sub-licensing and premium opportunities, memorabilia products and phone cards.

"While trading cards will continue to be an important component of our product mix," explained Score Board Chairman and CEO Ken Goldin, "we see limited growth potential from our existing 'pure' trading card product lines."

Specifically in the area of phone cards, the company will develop products for corporate premium programs, as well as for the broad consumer market, both of which represent significantly larger markets than the collectible phone card market, where the company has already established a leadership position.

Leveraging their ability to produce authentic autographed trading cards, memorabilia and phone cards, Score Board will expand product lines featuring trading cards and either phone cards (Assets brand) or autographed cards and/or cards redeemable for autographed memorabilia. MC

Phone Cards, Etc...

Michael Jordan

LDOS World Com and Michael Jordan team-up for the Michael Jordan PhonePass™. The newly licensed phone card pictured here is the first in a series of this NBA great. Collect them all.

Marilyn Monroe

We all know that Marilyn is big, but have you ever seen her Jumbo Card? It is big; bigger than ever! CALL FOR HER MEASUREMENTS. First shown at both March Shows in Singapore and Seattle. Several other Marilyn cards are available too; such as, the new "Marilyn Mystique" Card. This attractive card of one of Hollywood's greats comes in a folder along with .999 silver coin. Call for details.

Betty Boop

Betty, Bimbo, and friends are on the go again. Their next stop is Seattle then on to Phoenix. Ms. Boop will be the official show card at Seattle, and the #5 "Betty Boop on Tour" Jumbo Phone Card will be issued at the Phoenix show in May.

We also have a nice array of Pink Panther, Coke, McDonalds, Disney, corporate, some sports and non-sport issues, and user cards. Please let us know your interests. We can also save you money on your long distance phone calls. Call or fax for details.

SPORTS CARDS, ETC...

Don't forget to buy your supplies from B&B. We carry a full line of phone card supplies at great prices, just call. Don't forget that the first phone card collector expo has been scheduled for August 23-25 at the Disneyland Hotel Convention Center. In attendance will be the top phone card dealers throughout the world and the leading phone card collectible manufacturers. Disneyland has set aside a block of rooms at the Disneyland Hotel and Disneyland Pan Pacific. Please call to confirm; ask for special rates. Plan to attend the greatest phone card show ever held in the USA. Just a teaser, each day we will give out free to the first 1000 paid admissions a special phonecard made for the Disneyland show by three different manufacturers.

Collectors also receive a personally signed certificate of authenticity, as well as duplicate, chargeable phone cards to preserve the value of the sequentially numbered collector edition. Priced at $89.95 per set for Fan Club members, and $199.95 for all three sets.

Play Ball!!

Strike puts baseball telecard sales behind in the count

By Steve Fritz

The game may still be America's pastime, but in 1996 the future of baseball phone cards may be down to its last "strike."

In 1995, there was no joy in Mudville as far as baseball telecard manufacturers were concerned. The extended strike of 1994-1995 made sure of that.

"When the strike began, sales of licensed baseball products were down as much as 50 percent," notes Karen Raugust, editor of The Licensing Letter. "By the time the season ended, sales were still down 20 percent from 1993 levels, and the only reason that it wasn't more was because of the Cleveland Indians, who were fresh and new to the public. Even though the Atlanta Braves won the World Series, they were old news as far as collectors were concerned."

"Ask about any other sport," adds one major telecard dealer who requested anonymity, "basketball, football, what have you. Just don't ask me about baseball. No one wants it right now."

As the result, the number of phone card manufacturers producing baseball card images may decrease a bit in 1996.

"It was a tough year," Classic Marketing's James Robinson agreed. "We issued products right after the strike and we faced some challenges because of it. Even though we produced 60 different top-quality cards, the retail distribution left a bit to be desired because people still felt turned off by baseball at the time.

"On the other hand, Cal Ripken Jr. cards generated a great deal of interest," the marketing manager explained. "So we're riding that crest right now."

Raugust is cautiously optimistic about the 1996 baseball season. "It will take more players like Cal Ripken and the Indians to turn things around," she says. "There will still be people who aren't going to forgive and forget, but a good baseball season will change that."

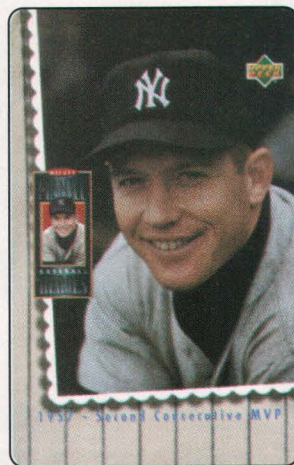

Classic is expecting to announce a major retail deal for baseball within the next few weeks, according to Robinson. "It will be the most comprehensive program ever," he claimed. "We're looking for a big return for baseball this year."

The GTS/Upper Deck 125th Anniversary card (1869 Cincinnati Red Stockings) is often cited as the first baseball telecard produced (September 1994) by a U.S. issuer. That honor actually goes to Sprint, which issued its "Baseball and Apple Pie" card nearly two years earlier in June 1992.

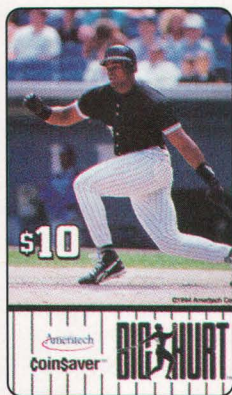

Since that time, more than 50 different issuers have produced baseball-related phone cards. Among World Tel-Link; Ken Griffey Jr.; various denom; 5,000; Jan. 1995.

GTS; Mickey Mantle set/5; 12 min.; 5,000 issued; Nov. 1994.

Ameritech; Frank Thomas set/3; $1 (40M), $5 (35M), $10 (25M); Dec. 1994.

GTS; 1969 NY Mets set/32; 5 units; 2,000 issued; Feb. 1994.

GTS/Upper Deck; MLB 125th Anniversary; 3 units; 2,000 issued; June 1994.

Score Board/Sprint; Assets I; Nolan Ryan set; 1 min/$2/$5/$25/$100/$1,000; var. quantities; Dec. 1994.

SPRINT/Baseball & Apple Pie/100 units

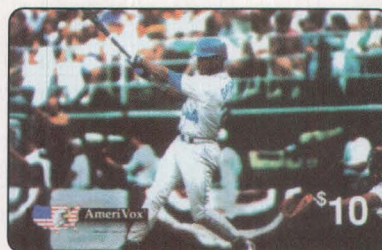

Take the first baseball-related phone card ever created by a U.S. issuer, slap a Sprint logo on it, limit the production to just 4,000, and you have an instant rarity. Most collectors are not even aware of this card.

GTS/'69 Mets Set/5 units each

Brought out as both a promotional giveaway and a stand-alone product, this 32-card set brought back fond memories of one of the most beloved baseball teams of all time. The five-minute set (2,000 mintage) is by far the most difficult to find, and thus commands a loftier price ($375/set). Both sets include future Cooperstown inductees Nolan Ryan and Tom Seaver, as well as colorful Mets manager Yogi Berra.

GTS/UPPER DECK/Cincinnati Reds 125th Anniversary/3 units

The only way you could get this card was to attend either the 1994 All-Star Fanfest, the '94 National Sports Card Convention or to know someone at Upper Deck. Another extremely small run (2,000) and a must-have for those who remember when...

AmeriVox; Ken Griffey Jr.; $10; 10,000 issued; June 1994.

AMERIVOX/Ken Griffey Jr./$10

Even though this card wasn't officially licensed by Major League Baseball (the photo doesn't show a single baseball logo), it features a star some call "the second coming of Willie Mays." This Griffey card should go a long way.

GTS/UPPER DECK/Mickey Mantle Set/10 units each

One of the fastest sellouts in the history of American telecards, the complete 5,000-card issue disappeared within two weeks of its October 1994 issue date. The recent passing of the "Mick" has made these cards even more desirable... if that's possible. The two five-card sets are very well done and will probably maintain their value over time.

Score Board; MLB set; Cal Ripken Jr.; $10 denom.; quantity unavailable; July 1995.

AMERITECH/Big Hurt Coin Saver/$1

One of the few athletes to date featured on an RBOC series of cards, Frank Thomas has mega-superstar appeal among collectors.

Even though there was a monstrous 40,000 of these cards made, the issue was the first to feature the "Big Hurt" — one of Chicago's most popular athletes.

SCORE BOARD/CLASSIC/Nolan Ryan Assets Set/various denominations

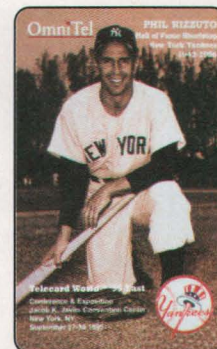

Without a doubt, Nolan Ryan was one of the greatest pitchers of all time. His memorabilia still has a very strong market appeal. Since Classic has him "wrapped up" for the time being, this may be the only way you can get your hands on a licensed card. And Classic has made it challenging and fun to put together a complete set of cards of the "Von Ryan Express."

SCORE BOARD/CLASSIC/Cal Ripken/$10

As one of Score Board's top sellers, these MLB series cards are a cinch to maintain their popularity. If you manage to get your hands on one of the autographed cards (currently listing for $150), you're really home free.

OMNITEL/Phil Rizzuto #1 (Autographed)/20 units

The "Scooter" was brought in to autograph these cards at the TeleCard World '95 convention in New York during September 1995. The line of people waiting for their chance to meet the former Yankee shortstop was the longest one of the entire convention.

OmniTel; Phil Rizzuto #1; 20 units; 1,500 issued; Sept. 1995.

MONEYCARDS

COLLECTORS POUNCE ON NFL JAGUAR DEBIT CARDS In today's professional sports leagues, the need for commercial success drives many decisions, with public awareness and fan loyalty being important related goals. For its 1995-96 season, the National Football League saw all of these needs come together in a series of chip-based First Union Bank moneycards sold at home games of the new Jacksonville Jaguars NFL franchise.

The program was announced in April by First Union's Florida subsidiary, First Union National Bank of Florida. The program consists of 27 cards: eight-

First Union; Jacksonville Jaguars Inaugural Season; stand-alone card; $20 denomination; 37,500 cards issued; October 1995.

First Union; Jacksonville Jaguars Inaugural Season; 8-card series; $20 each; 2,500 sets issued; September 1995.

card puzzle sets in three denominations ($20, $50 and $100), and a stand-alone card in each of the same denominations.

There were 5000 of the eight-card sets minted: 2,500 of the $20 cards; 2,000 $50 cards; and 500 $100 cards. Stand-alone cards numbered 37,500 of the $20 denomination; 30,000 for the $50; and 7,500 for the $100 prepaids. All of the cards were printed by Schlumberger, while the on-site card readers were supplied by Diebold.

"What we wanted to do with this program," said First Union Vice President Gary Yamamura, "was to use this as a learning opportunity, to find out what consumers would and wouldn't do."

Cards were purchased at face value by fans eager to try the new technology and pick up a souvenir in the process. The cards expedited the purchase of food, drinks and souvenirs in the club's modern new stadium.

Preliminary claims that the cards would reduce transaction time from 30-45 seconds (for cash) to five seconds (with the cards) proved to be true. And hours were saved in counting physical cash receipts — not to mention a reduction in the potential for theft.

For First Union, the program enhanced its role as the club's official bank and was a precursor to its involvement with Visa Cash (see story in March 1996 Moneycard Collector). All of the 1995-96 season cards expired on December 24, 1995, following the Jag's final home game of the season.

Yamamura assessed the program as a real success. "We doubled our projected total percentage of sales with minimal promotion. Clearly, there was an underlying readiness by consumers to try this new technology."

Yamamura also commented on the collectibility of the cards. "During the season we had no hint that these cards would become collectible. But when we introduced the puzzle cards, word-of-mouth brought calls from all over the country. Amazing!"

If you are a moneycard collector equally amazed by these cards but not lucky enough to grab a set during the football season, don't despair. Negotiations are under way between First Union and its collector distributors to make available both "activated" and "never-activated" cards. Watch the dealer ads in Moneycard Collector for price and availability.

GILLETTE FINAL FOUR PROMO DESIGNED TO 'PUZZLE'

COLLECTORS Last year's Gillette disposable razor promotion was the most popular in American phone card history. Four million cards of 35 different designs were inserted into packages of Gillette Good News and Daisy disposable razors.

Collectors went wild collecting them. It was virtually impossible to amass a complete set without trading with other collectors. When bar code and 800 number varieties were discovered, the chase became even more exciting. The complete set totaled some 140 cards. Now Gillette has come out with a new promotion, already being referred to as "G-2."

The promotion is a bit less ambitious than last year's version, but again it will be a challenge for collectors. There are 16 different card designs and two background colors (blue and purple), for a total of 32 different cards. Each of the 16 with the same color background form a piece of a puzzle.

The phone cards are slightly smaller this year, since some of them will be inserted into packages of razor blades, rather than the entire razors like last year. Two million cards will be distributed in the promotion.

While the G-2 promotion was officially scheduled to begin on March 1st, collectors in the Northeast, Southeast and West found a few of the special packages on store shelves by mid-February.

The premature arrival caused some concern since the 800 number on the reverse of the cards was not yet in service. With nationwide distribution, however, it is easy to understand how some retail outlets might have jumped the gun and set the merchandise out for sale a few weeks early.

Interestingly, some of last year's cards can still be found on shelves, though the actual phone time expired on September 30, 1995. Customers who find the expired cards are being offered replacements with valid phone time on them by simply mailing any unused old cards to Gillette, Box 4000, Department 1-1325, Monticello MN 55565.

The only negative to last year's campaign was Gillette's inability to supply replacement cards for damaged products. Most replacement cards received by collectors were the more common $5 Sprint Spree cards – not the much anticipated Gillettes.

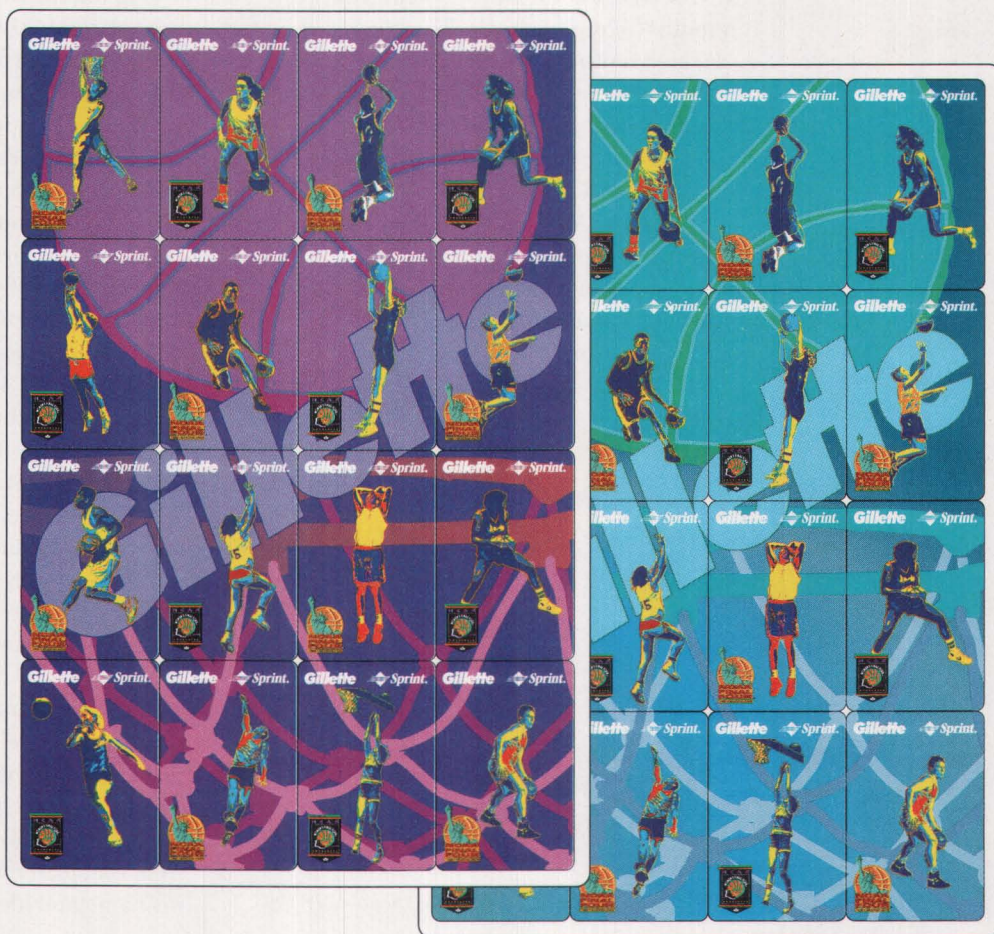

To be fair, however, Gillette has claimed from the beginning of the first Final Four promotion that the main audience for the promotion was their loyal product users – not collectors.

And so, the chase begins again.

RAOUL WALLENBERG

A MAN OF HONOR In the 220-year history of the U.S., only three Americans have been named Honorary Citizens. The first was the Marquis de Lafayette, our great ally during the American Revolution; the second was WWII hero Sir Winston Churchill, whose mother was American; and the third was Raoul Wallenberg, who has recently been honored on prepaid phone card.

In case you are not familiar with the story of Raoul Wallenberg, you are not alone. This true hero has been forgotten by much of the world, with the exception of his family and the thousands of men, women and children whom he rescued.

For generations, the Wallenbergs of Sweden have been considered one of the most prominent families in Scandinavia. Due to their varied activities and accomplishments, the family has been regarded much like the Rockefellers, Vanderbilts and Kennedys of the United States.

Raoul was born in Sweden on August 4, 1912. His father died from cancer just three months before his birth. He was raised by his devoted mother and his paternal grandfather, who had been the Swedish Ambassador to China, Japan and Turkey.

Fascinated by the U.S., Raoul came to America in the 1930s and attended the University of Michigan, where he studied architecture. He graduated in 1935, along with a man who would later become the President of the United States – Gerald R. Ford.

He returned to Sweden to join his family's bank, but he disliked the work and soon left to visit other countries. His travels took him to Palestine where he began to hear about the horrors of the Nazi "final solution" from young Jews who had escaped from Germany. These stories of deadly persecution made a strong impression upon the young man.

In 1944, President Roosevelt and the U.S. War Refugee Board learned that Hitler had ordered Adolf Eichmann to eliminate the Jewish population of Hungary, almost all of whom resided in Budapest. Someone from a neutral country was needed to help save this portion of the Hungarian community, and young Wallenberg's name was suggested.

After accepting the dangerous assignment, Wallenberg bought 30 "safe houses" to shelter the people he would save, flying the Swedish flag over every building and proclaiming them as Swedish territory.

Armed only with his strong Christian faith and belief in mankind, he ran after the Nazi death marches, pushing Swedish identity passes, which the Germans could not read, into the hands of thousands of doomed Jews and rushing them to safety. His astounding courage and strength allowed him to physically pull people off trains where they were packed like cattle for slaughter.

In all, the brave Scandinavian saved the lives of 100,000 innocent men, women, and children during World War II, with his only reward being imprisonment, horrible living conditions and probably death.

During these mercy missions, he was assisted by a Hungarian Jewish teenager named Tom Lantos, who is now Congressman Lantos of California. Lantos and his wife Annette, both of whom were personally saved by Wallenberg, were driving forces behind the bipartisan campaign that culminated in 1981, when President Reagan signed into law the bill that made Raoul Wallenberg the third Honorary Citizen of the United States.

Officially established in 1981, the Raoul Wallenberg Committee was charged to discover the truth regarding Wallenberg's ultimate fate.

When the Red Army entered Budapest in January 1945, Wallenberg was taken into "protective custody." From numerous former prisoners in the Soviet Gulag who were able to gain their freedom, apparently, Wallenberg was placed in cell 123 of Moscow's Lubianka prison during that year.

In order to hide him from discovery and release, the KGB kept moving Wallenberg from one prison to another. By taking away his name and identifying him by only a number, as was done with political prisoners, even the warden of the prison would not know who was incarcerated.

The most often-asked question is why Raoul Wallenberg was treated so horribly. There are two theories: the first is that Stalin could not believe a wealthy Christian living in a neutral country would risk his own life to save Jews.

The second explanation is that the Soviet government suspected that Raoul Wallenberg was an American spy, since President Roosevelt had asked him to undertake the mission and provided some of the funds for his work.

The last sighting of Wallenberg was in 1987, while he was confined to a Soviet psychiatric prison hospital near Manchuria. The search goes on, with the Raoul Wallenberg Committee committed to a campaign of leaving no stone unturned to find out the truth.

Today, the Raoul Wallenberg Committee sends dedicated speakers and videos to numerous educational and religious institutions throughout the U.S. Relating the story of Wallenberg, as well as demonstrating the difference between a celebrity and a hero, the aim is to make people in all walks of life realize that even one person, as an individual, can make a difference in our world.

A commemorative phone card, designed to resemble a postage stamp, has been issued by Amaris Ltd., Princeville, Hawaii. The image is illustrated like a stamp, in hopes that the U.S. Postal Service will someday produce an official commemorative, as Sweden and Israel have done.

Just 800 of the limited-edition, five-unit cards were issued for the occasion. On the reverse of the telecard is written: "Please use this card to call a friend or relative and tell them the story of Raoul Wallenberg." Telecommunications service was supplied by MCI.

The card is priced at $36 to honor the ancient Hebrew saying: "In order for the world to continue, there needs to be 36 just men at all times."

BABY BELL NOTES

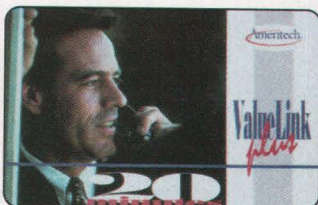

Ameritech; Michelin Tire; 12 units; 1,400 issued; January 1996.

Ameritech; Partners; 5 units; 25,000 issued; January 1996.

Ameritech; ValueLink Plus; 20 units; 3,000 issued; February 1996.

AMERITECH

The most active of the seven RBOCs this month was Ameritech, with three new promotional cards. Both the Michelin and Partners cards were affixed to attractive folders, which included answers to basic questions about prepaid phone cards. The Michelin cards (12 minutes; 1,400 mintage) were distributed to the media at the 1996 North American International Auto Show in Detroit. The Partners card was a complimentary (five minutes; 25,000 mintage) card provided as a promotional tool by Ameritech Pay Phone Services for the sales reps to give to prospects and customers.

A third prepaid, the ValueLink Plus card, was issued in February. The complimentary 20-unit card was created for an Ameritech business unit (Enhanced Business Services) as a promotional offering to its customers. All three of the cards are remote memory.

BELLSOUTH

It looks like BellSouth will not be issuing its own phone cards for use in the 200 new public pay phones that will accept VISA stored value cards (SVC) in Atlanta this summer. BellSouth feels there is no need for them to issue separate cards, which would probably be valid only for use in the special phones.

BellSouth has selected Northern Telecom to provide its payphones in Atlanta. The Nortel Millennium payphone is currently being used by U S West and Bell Canada. The phones will be installed by June 1996.

NYNEX

The NYNEX remote memory $16 Brasher Doubloon card turns out to be a jumbo. From the artwork supplied to Moneycard Collector, all cards looked to be the same size. Please, RBOCs, send us samples of your cards so we can report them more accurately.

PACIFIC BELL

Pacific Bell issued a private, promotional card for Raley's and BelAir grocery stores in northern California and Nevada. To get the $2 Holiday Greetings card, customers had to purchase $40 or more in groceries. The promotion ran from late November to mid-December 1995. Four hundred thousand of these special cards were produced.

A $2 Raley's Valentine's Day card was also issued during January. A $25 grocery purchase entitled a customer to the free card.

PacBell; Raley's Call Someone You Love; $2 denomination; quantity unavailable; January 1996.

PacBell; Raley's and BelAir Holiday Greetings; $2 denomination; 400,000 issued; November 1995.

U S WEST

U S WEST recently published a phone card catalog, featuring all the cards still available for purchase. The full-color publication includes a description, series, issue month, and the quantities produced. The ordering number for the free catalog is (800)739-3339. Cards are sold for face value, plus a shipping fee.

Speculation in U.S. West's $1 complimentary Super Bowl XXX Host Committee card has already raised the card's value to $50. Be careful about paying large amounts of money for a card that really isn't all that difficult to obtain. Prices can come down just as quickly as they go up.

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU

A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE AND INNOVATION

With over 12 million customers in the midwest, Ameritech is recognized as one of the leading telecommunications companies in the world. In 1987, with the Michigan Bell CASH CARDSM, Ameritech became one of the first major U.S. telecommunications companies to offer prepaid phone cards. Now, Ameritech continues its role as a leading force in the telecard industry with the introduction of the new Ameritech PrePaid Card.

Collecting an Ameritech prepaid card is collecting a piece of tradition that dates back over a hundred years. A tradition that includes a commitment to quality and service, along with a keen focus on our customers. We hope you enjoy your Ameritech prepaid phone cards as much as we enjoy producing them.
