McDonald's Summer '98 Promotion Set

These are the first McDonald's cards ever issued in Brazil. They were issued by the McDonald's franchisee in the City of Uberlandia to promote McDonald's summer desserts: McMix, Passion Fruit Sundae and Coconut McShake (the fourth card with all three desserts, not shown). Each card contains 20 units. Mintage 10,000. Four Card Set available at $22/set

ON THE MONEY

With autumn in full swing across the United States, it's a good time to be planning your strategy to stay in shape as the winds start to blow and the rain and snow start to fall — stay in collecting shape, that is.

If you've been caught up in vacations and other summer activities, now is the time to jump back in to the moneycard hobby. The good news is that the hobby is still here, waiting with open arms. Cards that were desirable last spring still are, and the trend toward collecting newer promotional cards still seems to be going strong.

At the same time, there are still many older cards available that are milestones from the early years of the hobby in North America. Not surprising, when you stop to consider those early years are only four or five years in the past. What is more surprising is that dealers are making those older cards available at such affordable prices, especially since a lot of them are from defunct or merged companies. Once they are snapped up and put in private collections, they will be gone.

One good way to get back up to speed is, of course, by reading Moneycard Collector. If you have misplaced your summer issues — or most any issue, for that matter — you can always replace them by ordering back issues. Call (800) 448-3611.

Another good way to reacquaint yourself with the hobby is to visit dealers' web pages. Many of your favorite dealers have Internet sites devoted to the hobby, offering not only the hottest cards in the hobby, but many collectible older cards as well. If you are itching to get onto your computer and don't know the Internet addresses for some of the sites, check out our "Dealer Directory" section. Many of the dealers have listed their website addresses their for your convenience.

While you are out there, stop by and visit the Moneycard Collector site. You can reach it at www.moneycard.com. Before you roll your eyes and say, "Been there; done that," take another look. We recently have expanded and reorganized the images and information there and have begun archiving select articles and images. Expect more in the months to come, as we strive to make Moneycard Collector's on-line presentation timely and relevant to collectors.

As you firm up your own collecting plans, don't neglect to spread the word about collecting prepaid phonecards and stored-value cards.

If you have children, grandchildren, nieces and nephews, or maybe even kids of friends in school, consider taking your phonecard collection in for a classroom presentation, or lending them for a "show and tell" event. What better way to share the color and excitement of cards than to give some youngsters a hands-on experience?

Another way to share the hobby is to contact local Scout troops. As Scouts try to accumulate merit badges to achieve higher ranks, why not give their "collections" merit badge a boost by giving away some duplicates and samples?

And it's not just for kids, either.

Contact Tom Williams at (937) 498-0879, ext. 327; fax (937) 498-0876; or e-mail twilliams@amospress.com.

Many civic clubs and organizations always are on the lookout for interesting luncheon speakers. Speaking with passion about your collection and letting newcomers — especially a captive audience! — touch the cards is not only a pleasant way to spend part of an afternoon, but also a way to help the hobby grow.

Many collectors may already have heard the news announced below, or heard rumors linked to the news.

We appreciate the interest and concern shown by our loyal readers. As we have replied to all such queries, and worth repeating here, it is business as usual, with plans for the next edition and the next year in full swing.

Moneycard Collector's owner, Amos Press, to explore possible sale

The Board of Directors of Amos Press Inc. announced in early October that it is exploring the possible sale of the 122-year-old family-owned business. Moneycard Collector, in its fifth year and the only monthly magazine devoted to the prepaid card hobby, is published by Amos Press Inc. of Sidney, Ohio.

The board has retained the Jordan, Edmiston Group Inc., a New York City-based investment banking firm, to explore the possible sale. The decision comes after months of assessing the future of the Amos Press publishing business.

The key factors influencing the decision include a clear indication from the next generation of the Amos family that they have no interest in managing the company and the recognition that continued growth in today's publishing markets requires the resources of a large organization.

The publishing business of Amos Press operates in two major areas: newspaper publishing and hobby publishing.

Newspaper publishing includes The Sidney Daily News and Suburban Newspapers of Dayton, a chain of daily and weekly newspapers in the Dayton, Ohio area.

In addition to Moneycard Collector, Amos Press hobby publications include Coin World and Linn's Stamp News, both nationally circulated weekly publications for the coin and stamp hobbies; Scott Publishing, which creates catalogs and accessories for the stamp hobby and publishes Scott Stamp Monthly; Cars & Parts, a monthly magazine for classic car enthusiasts; and ANACS, a third-party grading service for collector coins.

Vision Mark, a manufacturing operation also based in Sidney, will be retained by the current owners as a separate business.

During the transition, all Amos Press operations will continue to operate as normal. The current Amos Press management is expected to play a significant role in managing the process and will be major participants in any final decision concerning the future direction of the company.

Lively hunt continues for tiny Card Critters!

Our monthly winner in the Moneycard Collector "Card Critter" contest is Marc Fox of Vallejo, Calif. Our congratulations go out to Mark and our thanks go out to the dozens of contestants who spotted the Card Critter on Page 19 of the September edition. The critter was found in the United America ad.

If you are new to the magazine or missed our announcements, let's take a few paragraphs to explain the Card Critter contest. Moneycard Collector and some of your favorite moneycard dealers have teamed up to give you a chance for free cards.

The "Card Critter" hunt is an ongoing contest. Readers seek a Card Critter hidden in a dealer's advertisement and send us a post card telling us on what page and in whose ad they found it. Please send those postcards to Card Critter Contest, care of Moneycard Collector, 911 Vandemark Road, Sidney OH 45365.

The Moneycard Collector Card Critters found in dealer's ads each month look exactly like the ones you see sprinkled around this story, only smaller.

As the latest winner, Marc Fox picks up a $25 certificate toward card purchases from United America. We'll pick an October edition winner in early November.

We hid another Critter in the November edition, and readers have until Dec. 5 to let us know where — remember, it might be tiny. Every month, we will have a drawing, and pick one lucky winner.

The deadline for entries in each month's contest will be the fifth day of the following month.

Again, the deadline for this month's contest will be Dec. 5.

GETTING STARTED

We begin this month's column on the topic of card grading. I use a four-word grading system covering both the condition of the card and its type. 1. MINT. 2. USED. 3. SPECIMEN. 4. PROOF. That pretty much covers all situations. Let's investigate them one by one.

Grading

MINT. This signifies a card as it left the printer. It hasn't been used; it hasn't been damaged. If there is later damage on the card, or a noticeable flaw from the printer, then I add something like: MINT, light scratch.

USED. This card has had all or some of the time used up. It no longer holds the original amount of time. If it has a scratch-off the scratch-off has been removed. Since more and more of our cards have no scratch-offs, it can be difficult to determine Mint from Used. The integrity of the seller come into play here. Deal with a supplier you can trust. If there are problems with the card, they should be mentioned after the grade.

SPECIMEN. A specimen is just like an issued card except it has no pin number or a dummy pin such as 000 000 000. It may also be missing an 800 number too. This may actually be a cost saving measure to keep holders from idly dialing the 800 number, costing the company money. Sample or test is also used on the card to replace the PIN, or personal identification number. (The PIN is the code that gives your specific card access to the phone time it represents.) Usual mintage is less than 200, and are used for VIP giveaways, and advertising purposes to a telecard company's potential customers.

PROOF. A proof has a white back. It is used by the printer to show to the customer to check the final colors and legend placement. The usual mintage is four to 10 pieces.

I have used a term above that some newer readers may not be familiar with: mintage. That means the number made or printed. The term comes from the numismatic side of the house where the above definitions are used daily to describe coins. We also use "obverse" to designate the front of the card, usually the picture side, and "reverse" to designate the back of the card which usually holds the PIN and the access number.

Some telephone companies throw about words that really don't mean much in the above context. Some put proof on a complete card; some use other words that tend to confuse. If you stick to the above four definitions everyone will understand you.

An important fact that some collectors and dealers overseas do not seem to grasp is the scratch-off. Since most telecards are for use in vending machines, or come in wrap-around carriers to protect the PIN before purchase, 95 to 98 percent of all telecards produced in the United States do not have scratch-offs. In my thinking, that does not affect their grade at all!

Counterfeits

One of the increasing problems is the counterfeit problem. We have run into cards imitating magnetic cards and recently I was sent a fake remote memory card.

How do you recognize one? First of all, deal with reputable dealers and traders. Second, look at unusual cards with suspicion. I like to use the analogy: If you have seen 1,000 of one kind, and number 1,001 is different, watch out! I know that is not easy for everyone to have that much experience. Study will help.

Spend $20 on an excellent book: Telephone Cards: A Collector's Handbook, by Dr S.E.R. Hiscocks, P.O. Box 77, Woking, Surrey, England, GU22 0ER. A VISA/MC will be just fine. It is 128 pages of great information.

Some of the controversial

Malawi and Zambia issues have been counterfeited. Some designs never issued have appeared. These are easy to tell because the design is fuzzy, and the magnetic strip is nothing more than printer's ink! Magnetic strips tend to be brownish-black, but the printer's ink is jet black.

A remote card series in the possession of one U.S. dealer so far is a line of Tele 2000 cards. I have seen one, and the 800 number is unlike any I have ever seen. The numbers do not work, and the only thing legitimate on the card is the name of the street! This one was first spotted in Belgium and was probably the product of unscrupulous operators there.

Again the design is very fuzzy, and masks the trademark of the card I hold, which is an X-Files card. Rest assured that the counterfeits will not portray your Aunt Nelly, but rather will have famous brand names like Coca-Cola on them or will depict famous people or entertainment themes. So look to the most popular topics for possible counterfeits.

Another practice that I frown on is the issuing of unactivated cards. Several remote telecard companies in Britain use this trick and are selling them for 75 cents each. Be sure to question the seller to see if he is really selling you a legitimate telecard or just something that looks like one. Again, it is the popular topics, logos, and themes that are appearing. I suspect (but can't prove) that many of the Princess Di cards were never active telecards. Especially those coming from Australia, or Hong Kong. Those, by the way, allegedly had Australian time on them, although the front was denominated in HK$ and the cards appeared at the Hong Kong show, carried there by the Australian dealers. Be sure what you are purchasing. If you wish for something, and it magically appears, stand back and think.

Don't be an easy mark.

And just a last word on the topic: every good collection has had some counterfeits in it at one time. Just weed them out and continue along. They'll undoubtedly be a very small portion of your holdings and not earth shattering.

Postal patience

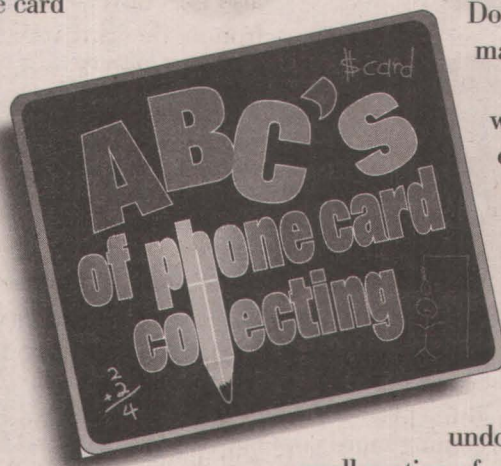

As a dealer, postal losses are a pet peeve. Ugh! We dread it but it happens. In a perfect world, the postal service would not have to charge anything for insurance, because everything would end up where it is supposed to go. But Dear Collector, please do not blame the sender, be he a dealer or a trader, for the postal loss! Be civil when you inquire about your package, and be understanding if the sender asks you to wait six weeks before replacing it.

He cannot claim his insurance money until then and an overseas shipment may take up to a year to recover.

It is hard to predict where the loss will occur, but with the nature of bulk that phonecards present, many packages look rather tempting to the dishonest. It is part of any mail order business, and it will occur no matter what you are ordering. Have heart; you're not alone. It happens to everyone sooner or later.

A Cut Above the Rest

Die-cut phonecards make eye-catching collectibles

by Robert J. Sodaro

When is a phonecard more than "just another" phonecard? When it begins to shape up into something more...

If you are one of those people who feel that the collectible phonecard marketplace is mostly comprised of "been there, done that" phonecards, then you probably have yet to be introduced to the growing field of die-cut phonecards. These little beauties are exactly what they sound like: cards that are die-cut into specific shapes.

Instead of looking like your standard, wallet-sized, credit card-looking bits of rectangular plastic, they come in shapes and sizes as widely variant as you can possibly imagine. Still, according to Rick Goldfinger, general manager of Tell-One Inc., as popular as die-cuts have become over the past couple of years it is still a niche operation. "[There's] more of it being done than used to be, but it will never be in the mainstream."

Carving Out a Niche

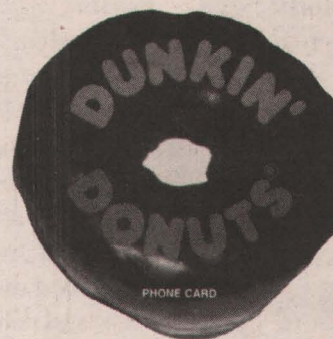

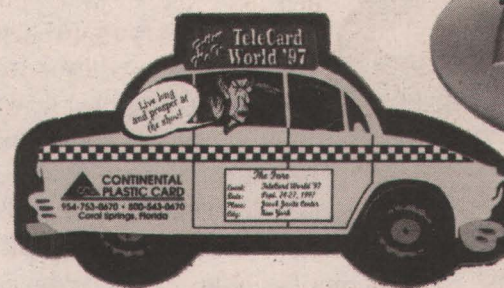

Part of the reason for this, according to Goldfinger, is that most die-cuts just won't fit into your wallet. "Die-cuts are specialty phonecards and should be [considered] collectibles." Goldfinger felt that due to the slightly-higher cost of producing die-cuts, they would always be perceived as strictly secondary market items.

Bruce Harmon of Acme Telecards agrees that die-cuts are niche collectibles that attract only certain types of collectors because of shape and strangeness of them. "People who collect them do so because they love them or [the cards] fits into a theme they collect." He believes that — because of their shape — die-cuts will always going to be considered to be niche items. "I personally love die-cuts; more are being produced and some companies do push them, [but] they do cost more than regular cards."

The additional costs, naturally, have to do with the production costs associated with designing a specific die for the card (one reason that many die-cuts still take on traditional shapes, including circles, hearts, squares, etc.). Needless to say, the more complex the die (and the lower the print run of the cards), the higher the per-card cost will be — not only to produce, but for the consumer as well. Still, Goldfinger indicated that — generally speaking — it was not the shape of the card itself, but what's on the card, who issues it, and how many are issued that ultimately have to do with the end-value of the card. "Distribution is key," said Gordon Kramer, president and CEO of Continental Plastic. "The card has to work and you have to get into the hands of the consumer."

Kramer points out that the world's greatest die-cut card is worthless without the proper marketing and distribution. Many of Continental Plastic's die-cut cards are done as show cards (see "Show Stoppers," Page 35).

Shape of Things to Come

Kramer feels that key-tag phone and debit cards are becoming more popular. He indicated that Continental plastic has the ability to produce cards in virtually any shape and/or size. Apparently a growing segment of the die-cut market are key-tag cards. That is to say, cards that — in addition to their odd shape — also come pre-punched and with a ring on them so they can be easily attached to an individual's key ring. In this fashion, the card is always there, and readily accessible. Many companies (including Surge, Iomega, Target, Symbol, Quaker State, and Merk, among others), have issued such cards. On other fronts, some retail outlets, such as video rental stores, are producing key-tag cards that have no pre-paid value, and are simply used to identify the shopper as a club member or preferred customer, and entitles the holder to in-store discounts, and specials.

Kramer says that he discovered that more companies were willing to issue die-cuts to better distinguish their card in the market place. Continental has produced pill bottles for pharmacies, little phones for pet tags (in case your pet gets lost, whoever finds it can use the card to call you), in the shape of milkshake containers for a drive-in, wine bottles, garbage cans for a recycling company, eyeglasses for ophthalmologists, teeth for dentists, and houses for Real Estate companies, just to name a few. Kramer also mentioned that the pharmaceutical company Pfizer has issued a blue pill-shaped card to help promote its new "wonder drug" Viagra.

Creating a Buzz

David Redlich, director of marketing and co-founder of PhoneCard Express feels that there's more to creating a die-cut card than simply picking a cool shape. He observed that it is just as important to "Create the 'Wow!'" Redlich tries to not just produce cards, but to get people excited about collecting them. To this end, PhoneCard Express doesn't just produce cards (a bubble-gum machine for Mervyns California; a bottle for Vaseline; a soft-drink can for Hawaiian Punch, or a container of motor oil for Quaker State), but actually puts some marketing muscle behind the cards.

It is therefore no wonder that not only were PCE's Hawaiian Punch and Surge cards were so well received, but their Quaker State card received A "Best Phone Card" award for 1997. Redlich's goal in creating cards is to go beyond free time, and create "...a tremendous synergy..." with his products.

Tell-
One's

One way to do this is to develop a die-cut card and then deliver it affixed to a promotional backing that not only places the product in an identifying setting (with the rest of the product line, or promotional copy), but also gives it a 3-D feel to the card. He did this with a pair of cards for Galderma (a bottle-shaped container of Cetaphil moisturizer and a stoplight for Differin acne cream); as well as an elongated (7" x 2") card for the movie "Dead Even."

Still, perhaps one of the most unique die-cut cards produced in 1997 was one from American National Phone Card, which created a die-cut in the shape of the doomed luxury liner, Titanic. The card was mounted on 4 x 9 carrier. The ship — which was affixed to a replica of an oversized postcard from 1912 appeared to be out at sea. The background was of sky and water. The card included a list of facts about the Titanic on the back of the postcard. American National Phone Card sold 2,500 of the 12-minute cards. Company President Richard Nelson feels that had the card not been die-cut and presented in such a fashion, it wouldn't have done as well as it did.

He says that while there was certainly a heightened awareness of the Titanic due in part to James Cameron's blockbuster movie, the Titanic has long since taken on a life of its own, and (given its presentation), would probably had done just as well even with all of the hype the movie generated.

What is it Worth?

Everyone queried on the subject felt that — in spite of the fact that die-cuts generally are not as sought-after in the secondary market as standard cards — the better die-cuts certainly hold their value as well as better standard cards (even if the tend not to command as high a resale value). Lenny Rapp, president of Phone Card Connection enjoys the creativity available in die-cuts, but feels that they are a novelty item, and will never become mainstream. Part of this is because the cards tend to go against the utilitarian requirements of phonecards. However, he believes that they will continue to be issued because they do attract collectors.

Interestingly enough, he felt that people who collect die-cuts tend to come from two different camps. Those who seek them out due their subject matter, and a second group who want them simply because they are die-cut. That is to say, Bettie Boop fans will probably buy a die-cut Betty Boop card because it has the animated sweetheart on it, not necessarily because it of it's unique shape. While the second group would pick up a card cut in the shape of a heart, or Texas simply because it is die-cut, and looked cool.

On the down side, the very (odd), shapes of die-cuts will continue to restrict their own market because consumers, retailers distributors, and manufacturers will probably continue to shy away from them because they are difficult to 1) store in standard fashions (according to consumers); 2) ship and display in standard fashions (distributors and retailers), and cost (slightly), more to produce (manufacturers).

However, on the up side, it is due to these same reasons, that there will always be companies that will make them and collectors who will seek out these clever cards that are often a cut above the rest.

PROMOS & OFFERS

Dueling discounters could be the theme of recent newspaper supplements.

The Sunday, Sept. 27 fliers showed contests between various discounters for consumer phonecard dollars. Kmart had two sale ads, offering Sprint's "Spree" 31-minute $10 card for $ 7.99, and the 63-minute $20 card for $ 15.79. OfficeMax had an ad for its own 120-minute phonecard. After the first minute, the card gives six-second rounding for the time of calls. If you buy the card by Oct. 17, you get an automatic extra 30 minutes on it. A Target store ad features the company's own "Hotline" card.

If you bought the 75-minute version for $16, you got a free 15 minutes (thus, domestic time at 18 cents per minute); their 200-minute card gives 40 free minutes for the $38 (thus costing just 16 cents per minute).

Big minutes abound from Best Buy offers: A free 120-minute phonecard is offered with the purchase of any Samsung TV/VCR combo. The ad was spotted in September, but it didn't state when the phonecard promotion expires. Also, receive a free 150-minute AT&T phonecard with the purchase of a Quantum Hard Drive. This offer requires mail-in form.

Also from Best Buy, a promotional cards was offered in September, this one being a 10-minute version of the cover of Jerry Seinfeld's CD "I'm Telling You For the Last Time."

There were a maximum of 30 cards available per store.

Here are some other offers:

- Seen at the Albany, N.Y., Red Roof Inn. To promote AT&T as the long-distance provider for the motel chain, free AT&T 3-minute cards were provided to every customer who checked into a Red Roof Inn.

- If you bought a Philips Isis cellular phone at Kmart, you got a "free $15 usage card."

- For a 15-minute phonecard, mail the form, dated cash register tapes, and the UPCs from EZ Foil SupeRoaster or SupeRoaster Jr and any 2 other non-roaster EZ Foil items. The offer expires Dec. 31, 1999.

- Seen at Sam's Club: 15-minute phonecards included in select "Expert" computer software.

- Receive a 30-minute phonecard when you mail in the proofs of purchase from two Novartis products (except trial size), your dated cash register receipt with purchase price circled and required form by March 31, 1999. Limit one phonecard per address. The form was found at the prescription counter at SuperK stores. Novartis products include: Maalox, Gas-X, Ex-Lax, Dulcolax, Perdiem, Tavist, TheraFlu, Triaminic, Otrivin, Desenex, Cruex, Foot & Sneaker, Prescription Strength Desenex, Prescription Strength Cruex, Doan's, Ascriptin, Myoflex, Slow FE, Sunkist Children's Vitamins, Sunkist Vitamin C and Nupercainal.

- The Duracell/Kroger Free Phonecard form expired Oct 3. Customers could buy two packs of AA, AAA, C, D, or 9V batteries and send UPCs, form and cash register tape for a 10-minute phonecard. Those buying four packs could get two 10-minute phonecards, buying six packs qualified the buyer for three 10-minute phonecards.

- Walgreen's still has the same 15-minute teddy bear phonecard offer if you buy $15 worth of Hallmark products and send in with the rebate booklet.

- In a Sept. 20 weekend sales flier in the Chicago area, Osco Drugs had an ad for its Smarttalk cards. The logo now reads "Sav-on/Osco" in the upper left-hand corner of each version.

- Walgreens (in a Sunday ad appearing Sept. 20) touts its "Phonecard-Plus" card has a "New low price!" They're offering 120 minutes for $29.99. If you recharge the cards in-store, you get an additional 10 minutes free time.

- Have four rolls of film developed in one hour at Meijer, and receive a 10-minute phonecard.

- Purchase Intelli Sense Blood Pressure Monitor for wrists and receive a free 20-minute phonecard.

This product is made by Omron Healthcare Inc. Seen in Modern Maturity magazine. The phonecard is inside the package and features a picture of an adult daughter with her mother.

- This is an offer for students only, as certain information, such as school name, professor's name, student ID, graduation month and year, etc., is needed. Call 1-800-975-6232 or mail the postage free card to subscribe. With a paid subscription to the Wall Street Journal (1 year - $93) you receive a 15-minute calling card featuring a collage of Wall Street and patriotic images.

- In the Kroger Thanks-Giveaway promotion, you can receive free $5 phonecard. There is no limit. Until Nov. 27, purchase $30 worth of groceries and receive one Thank You point. Earn five points and you can get the free $5 phonecard. The cards are generic in appearance.

On the Web:

- <http://www.freeprizes.com/>

features five contests where you can win cameras and phonecards.

- Visit <http://members.aol.com/LeMark3/guestbk.html> to sign up for a free 5-minute phonecard.

Here's an offer that doesn't get you a card: Inside the "Scooby Doo" movie is a 1-800 Collect flier. It says send name and address to: 1-800 Collect, Scooby Doo Offer, P O Box 916, Paramus, NJ 07653-9943 to receive $9 in 1-800 Collect certificates. Limit one per address.

Oops! Here's one that got away. Reader Scott Connor reports that the Campbell's Ramen noodles card offer listed in October's edition did expire Oct. 31 - but in 1997, not this year. Our apologies.

This month's contributors are Ginger Gragg, George Tsoukatos and Jim Chudnow. Readers wishing to contribute should send information to Editor, Moneycard Collector, 911 Vandemark Road, Sidney, OH 45365, fax (937) 498-0876 or e-mail twilliams@amospress.com. Submissions should include pertinent details about the card offer as well as the card's issuer and/or service provider.

BRAND NEWS

A wide variety of promotional cards from popcorn to pharmaceuticals were available for review this month, so let's get right to it.

iTelsa issued a tasty card for ACT II Microwave popcorn recently. This 10-minute card was inserted into ACT II popcorn packages available exclusively through Sam's Club discount warehouses across the country. Mintage is unknown however I haven't seen many of them around.

Also from iTelsa this month is a Procter & Gamble Pharmaceutical card issued in August. The card was issued with 10 minutes of time and given to doctors who participated in a brief phone survey regarding various Procter & Gamble pharmaceuticals. The mintage is unavailable.

Deltacom checks in this month with a 5-minute Kenny Rogers Roasters card. The card was issued as a reward to customers who took the time to voice their comments and suggestions about Kenny Rogers Roasters. There were only a few hundred of these cards issued. Contact your favorite dealer for this one.

Phonecard Express just keeps cranking out great looking cards. One of its most unique issues is a 5-minute phonecard/keychain in the shape of Iomega's latest computer product, the Clik! Disc. Mintage is unknown but this unique phonecard/keychain was given to qualified job seekers who attended a recent job recruiting fair and stopped by the Iomega booth. A great addition to your collection if you can find one.

CDG (Communications Design Group) has a nice looking ABC Television card out there. The card was given to ABC affiliates as part of a promotion to hype the ABC fall lineup of shows. Only 600 of these 10-minute cards were issued. You may be able to obtain one from your neighborhood dealer.

A two-card set also was issued by CDG for Filene's department stores. There were 650 each of the two 5-minute cards. The cards were given to Filene's employees in the Northeast as an incentive during inventory time. The cards sport the CK Calvin Klein logo and Guess logo. Check with your dealer for this set.

That wraps it up for this month. Next month, we'll do our annual Year in Review column.

HOT CARDS

Welcome to Hot Cards. This list represents the most heavily sold and traded cards within the last month. Due to the size of the Price Guide, it is often very time-consuming for readers to make their way through the listings in a short amount of time. We created HOT CARDS to provide you trends information quickly, accurately and concisely. Prices reflected on this page are dealer asking/selling prices for only this month.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Price listings in the Moneycard Collector Price Guide are provided only as a guide and are based on price lists supplied by several dealers around the world and on other market information. Listings without prices will be completed as suitable market information becomes available.

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that - a guide.

NUMBERING SYSTEM

S (before #) = Sports

a card depicting an organized, competitive sports-related image (comes before numerals, e.g. S125)

Pr (before #) = Private card issued for a customer, distributed by the customer at his/her discretion

Post-numerical descriptor (falls after the numeral)

#2 = Second Printing

the second printing of a card; a three, four or greater number can follow to denote the actual print run; occurs often with Canadian cards or unlimited run cards

a-z = error/variety

a card whose identical front or back differs from the card with the primary listing; includes language variations, but not denominational variations

M = model/prototype

full-front printed card, may or may not be full-back printed, never issued

card with an error that caused its destruction or recall

J = jumbo

an oversized or jumbo card

P = proof

artwork on front, blank back

R = replacement

a card that replaced a defective or recalled card

S (after #) = specimen

artwork on front, complete back with false or no pin, or word "sample" or "test"

T = trial/test

live card used specifically for testing a stored value card system

*BellSouth states that a grand total of 80M cards were produced for the trial, but the exact number of each denomination is not know. All remaining unsold cards were withdrawn in May 1995 and destroyed in October 1995. Most dealers estimate that approximately 15,000 of each card were actually issued, but the actual number may even be lower than that.

Honoring grandparents

Hello World; Grandparents Day; $20 denomination; 200 issued; September 1998.

Hello World of Plano, Texas, in a joint promotion with Wal-Mart, Coca-Cola and Young Country FM, a popular radio station in the Dallas/Fort Worth area, issued this card to commemorate Grandparents Day on Sept. 20. Former President Jimmy Carter designated the day 20 years ago to honor the timeless role grandparents play in the stability of the family. Customers registered at participating Wal-Mart stores to win the $20 phonecards as well as other prizes offered. According to Hello World, the initial print order was 200. (972) 881-1800.

Cards from the Sixth Floor

Penbell Communications; JFK-Sixth Floor Museum; 60 minutes; 1,500 issued; June 1998.

This card is licensed and approved by the Sixth Floor Museum at Dealey Plaza in Dallas, the spot from which Lee Harvey Oswald allegedly shot President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963. The black-and-white card image is of the president and first lady arriving in Dallas on that fateful trip. Activated cards may only be purchased at the museum, cards purchased through a dealer cannot be activated. Call (888) 850-2273.

Punch-out card shown on carrier.

CommCard Inc.; General Mills Military Sales; 10 minutes; 12,000 cards issued; 1998.

General Mills, through its Military Division, is a manufacturer and distributor of food products to military commissaries that service the U.S. Armed Forces at home and overseas. These General Mills phonecards, with network services by CommCard Inc., are used to promote events / products and are distributed to U.S. military personnel. The cards were designed and developed by Infinity Direct Inc., a marketing agency in Minneapolis, Minn. Call (888) 522-8385.

Cards for the sweet tooth

SCA Promotions (SCA)

SCA Telecards is a division of SCA Promotions, the largest underwriter of promotional risk in the United States. Founded in 1981 and based in Dallas, Texas, SCA provides over redemption coverage for sports promotions such as when a person attending a basketball game may win $1 million by scoring a basket from the center of the court.

Since 1994, SCA's telecard division has successfully produced phonecard promotions for a wide variety of commercial clients in the U.S., Canada and Great Britain. It provides coverage to the carriers of phone time in a phonecard promotion. Such coverage indemnifies the telecommunications company in the event that the usage of phone time in a phonecard program exceeds agreed-upon levels. The effect of this unique over redemption product has been to reduce the overall cost of promotional promotions and make them more attractive to companies wishing to use prepaid cards as a means to promote the sale of their products.

Many of the issues in which SCA has played a pivotal role are not listed here, but rather under the carriers, e.g. the two Gillette Final Four promotions are listed under Sprint (SPR). Other SCA clients include: Coca-Cola, Ore-Ida, Johnson & Johnson, Teller, The and Camp USA.

Listed here are the programs in which SCA's name has figured most prominently.

THE SCOOP ON CHIPS

With the holiday season fast approaching, one can visualize a cornucopia full of collectible smart cards. There has been a plethora of new venues and applications — baseball, football, golf, the armed services, conferences and forums — to name but a few.

Since this is the year of the fantastic home run chase, let's start there. For the San Diego Padres it has also been the year of the fantastic pennant chase. Again this year, the Padres won the National League Western Division Championship. Glendale Federal Bank and the Diebold Corp. teamed up to quietly introduce smart cards to the fans at Qualcomm Stadium, home of the Padres. The cards were used to purchase merchandise, food and beverages at concession stands throughout the stadium and at the Padres store in Encinitas, Calif. Schlumberger produced the cards for Glendale Federal Bank.

Four different illustrations were used — Tony Gwynn, the winner of a record tying eight National League batting titles, hit .321 for the 1998 season; Trevor Hoffman — whose 53 saves makes him a contender for the Cy Young Award this season; Steve Finley; and the Padres team celebrating the National League Western Division championship. In total, 20,000 cards were issued. Two thousand each of $5 cards and $25 cards were issued with the Team Celebration illustration. The player cards were issued in $25 and $50 denominations.

Glendale Federal Bank's Linda Rexford, vice president of smart cards, was quite pleased with the introduction of smart cards at the stadium this year. As the official bank of the Padres, the introduction of smart cards linked the bank and the team even closer in the minds of the fans. Linda related humorous stories connected to their smart card experience at the stadium. One gentleman returned his card to the bank complaining that it stopped working. He still had money on the card and wanted to use the remaining balance. Upon placing the card in a reader it still would not work.

Looking at the card closely, it was noticed that there was a brown stain over the smart card chip. Repeated insertion of the card could not get it to read properly. As a matter of last resort, a fingernail was used to scratch the foreign material off of the chip. Persistence paid off. The shiny gold chip was once more exposed and the card worked perfectly. After feeling the substance it was realized that this "foreign" substance was chocolate that had been dropped onto the card and hardened.

This episode is now known at the bank as the case of the "chocolate chip" card. Another interesting sidelight — the chip on the Trevor Hoffman card is located right above the shoulder of his pitching arm. Fans are now wondering if Trevor has a chip on his shoulder. With those 53 saves this year, it is highly improbable.

Precis Smart Card Systems and the Chicago White Sox continued their use of smart cards at Comiskey Park. This year four new cards were planned. They are called the "Legends" series and feature past stars of the White Sox teams. 3,500 cards of Minnie Minosa ($20) were issued this summer.

First Union and Diebold began the smart card stadium craze with the introduction of the Jacksonville Jaguar cards for the 1995-96 NFL season. This year First Union has introduced another first — lenticular motion cards for the 1998-99 Jacksonville season. Three cards have been issued — Mark Brunell, Jaxon De Ville (mascot), and the Logo card. As you tilt the Mark Brunell card, you see his arm go forward to throw a pass. Jaxon De Ville jumps to celebrate a touchdown. These are truly innovative cards that were produced by Schlumberger Malco. The cards were issued in denominations of $25 and $50; 3,000 Mark Brunell ($50) cards and 3,000 Jaxon De Ville ($25) cards were issued; 3,000 logo cards ($50) were issued with serial numbers 1 through 3000, then another 4,500 of the same cards were issued with serial numbers 10,000 through 14,449.

These additional 4,500 cards are used to compensate members of the East Club. These patrons have season tickets on the east side of the stadium – the hotter, sunny side of the stadium. Their compensation is $100 in smart cards for use at the stadium. Officials at First Union Bank noted that the fan reaction to the cards was fantastic.

NationsBank and the Carolina Panthers have also issued cards for the 1998-1999 NFL season. Six cards have been issued, including a four-card puzzle set. (Moneycard Collector, October, 1998). The four-card puzzle set features Sean Gilbert ($50), Fred Lane ($20), Michael Barrow ($20), and Sir Pur ($10). The other two cards in the series include the Charlotte Skyline ($100) and Sir Pur ($25), the Panthers mascot. Precis Smart Card Systems teamed up with NationsBank to install the Ericsson stadium system. Schlumberger produced the cards. Fewer cards were issued this year than last year.

Precis moved from baseball to golf when they introduced their smart card to the golfers and gallery at the 80th Annual PGA Tournament this past August. The 1998 PGA Championship was held at the Sahalee Country Club, Redmond, Washington. They could buy refreshments and merchandise at sites spread throughout the course. American Microdevices Manufacturing, Inc. (AMMI) produced 7,000 cards for Precis. There were 400 $100 cards, 1,000 $50 cards and 5,600 $25 cards issued.

On Sept. 4, 1998 a historic smart card related event took place. The United States of America and the Government of Ireland issued a joint Communique on Electronic Commerce (E-Commerce). History was made when President Bill Clinton and Taoiseach (Prime Minister) Bertie Ahern digitally signed the communique document. The event marks the first time that digital signatures were used to sign an intergovernmental document.

The signing ceremony used a digital signature system provided by Baltimore Technologies, Dublin, Ireland. The digital certificates used in the signing were stored on smart cards. President Clinton and Taoiseach Ahern each had a unique certificate containing their public key. Their private key, used for the digital signature process, was also stored in the smart card. In addition to their individual unique cards, Baltimore Technologies also issued commemorative cards.

Not to be outdone by their commander-in-chief, the Armed Services have plunged headfirst into smart card technology. Fort Sill and Fort Knox are using cards issued by Mellon Bank to pay recruits for their basic training duty. Point of Sales (POS) terminals are spread throughout the base to allow the recruits to spend their pay at designated points. The payment system used on these bases is the Smart City system from Product

Technologies, Middletown, Conn. Fort Leonard Wood has installed a similar system from First Union. The payment system is based on the VISA Cash system.

Lackland Air Force Base has installed a VISA Cash system from NationsBank. On the USS Yorktown, part of the Smart Ship Project, at the USN Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Illinois, and at the Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., Smart City systems were also installed by PTI. At Hickam Air Force Base, the @ease card has been introduced. Touch Technologies, Inc. (TTI), Phoenix, Ariz., installed the system. To date, the Armed Services have been very pleased with the systems, which reduce cash handling problems. The recruits themselves, enjoy the convenience and safety that stored-value cards offer.

The Smart Card Forum was formed in 1993 to promote the widespread acceptance of multiple application smart card technology. Since 1994, the Smart Card Forum has issued a smart card at its annual conference. This year the theme of the conference was Electronic Commerce and Security on the Internet. Gemplus produced approximately 1,000 cards for distribution to attendees.

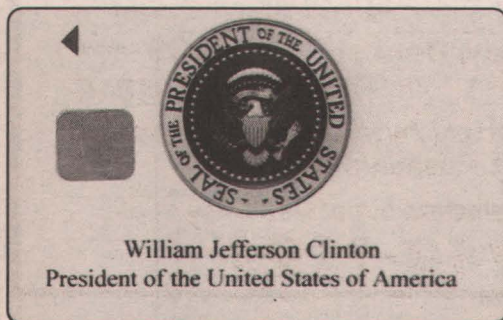

A digital certificate could be loaded onto the card at computers throughout the conference; these were all connected to the Internet. Secure communications and secure purchases were then possible. The use of smart cards to hold digital certificates is the fastest growing segment of the North American smart card marketplace.

Since the Smart Card Forum conference was held in San Francisco it was appropriate that the Golden Gate Bridge is featured.

The CardTech Government Conference this year was combined with the NACHA Cyber Payments Conference; "Defending Cyberspace" was the name of the combined conference. Program guidance was provided by the Federal Agencies United Against Fraud.

Although there was no official conference smart card, First Union issued 1,000 $5 VISA Cash cards at their booth. They used the same artwork as the Fort Leonard Wood card, except the United States flag were shown furling in the upper part of the card. The original card shows the blue sky in this space. The "Defending Cyberspace" logo is prominently displayed on the reverse side of the card. Attendees could use these cards to purchase sodas from vending machines in First Union's booth or anywhere else that VISA Cash is accepted. First Union also was giving away some VISA Cash readers.

SHOWSTOPPERS

The Telecom Business '98 Conference & Exposition, held at the Jacob Javitz Convention Center in New York City on Sept. 1-3, continued the trend toward shows that cover all aspects of the telecommunications market, rather than being a phonecard show.

There were more than 400 booths, with companies offering a wide variety of products, but there were no other phonecard dealers set up, although some were visitors.

Show cards continue to fascinate the collector market as most of the companies that produce these cards are trying to entice prospective clients. This competition produces some of the most unique cards in the collectors' market.

Telecard World magazine, which sponsors the show, gave its Editor's Choice awards to:

- CPDI. First Place Award. A three-card punch out cardboard set, this offering shows the many faces of the people that populate New York. Each card has five minutes with no mintage given.

- VO Call. Second Place Award. This is a two-card matched, numbered, puzzle set with a mintage of only 250 sets. There are five minutes of time on each card.

- Worldwide Digital. Third Place Award. A 5-minute mini-jumbo with a nice photo of the Statue of Liberty at dusk. The show information is around the border of the card and the mintage is 500.

Two show card efforts, both huge, color and visual dynamite, didn't place in the contest, but are likely to gain a following among collectors:

Showing their usual flair for show cards were the folks from Continental Plastics. A beautiful three-card set of die-cut phonecards shaped like records came in a colorful plastic folder. The set also includes a mini-jumbo card which was used as the invitation. The mintage on the single card is 500, with 200 matched up with the above sets. Each die-cut card has 15 minutes of time and the jumbo has five minutes.

Another dynamic entry was the $5 jumbo show card from SSI Custom Data. The card is part of an 8 1/2 by 11 piece of plastic that continues the picture of the card. The jumbo card is a collage of famous people and events of the 20th century. The mintage is 500.

Also found at the show:

- Bell Canada. The $5 Bell Canada Chip "Declaration of Friendship" Card is in a folder and it is signed! This chip card has an image of the American flag on it with the Canadian maple leaf superimposed over it. There were 2,400 issued. On the back of the folder there is a picture of Ken Taylor, Canadian ambassador to Iran. Taylor signed a limited number.

- Telecom Business '98. Five cards with different color combinations were made for the Telecom Business show and were distributed to visitors. The five-minute cards also were given to some seminar attendees. No mintage is given.

- Jericho. This orange background card shows a greyhound and the caption "Faster than a Greyhound." The mintage was 500, with five minutes of time.

- NKO. This is a 10-unit card with a black background on the right and multicolors on the left with a solar system diagram of the services that NKO provides.

Cards in Uniform

Military-related, -themed cards are out there in force

by Jim Chudnow

If military-themed moneycards make you want to stand up and salute, plan your collecting strategy carefully and ... charge!

Before you say, "Damn the torpedos, full speed ahead," though, realize that there are many different subcategories of military cards: air-related (piston and jet planes, helicopters), autos and trucks, battle-related, event-related (such as anniversaries of D-Day & V-Day, veterans groups), naval (boats and ships), military personnel and tanks armored vehicles.

And that's not even counting cards that commemorate the U.S. Revolutionary War or Civil War or cards issued to military personnel serving here and abroad. For more on some of those moneycards, see this month's "New Issues," Page 23; "Scoop on Chips," Page 33; and "Quik Takes," Page 39.

How popular are military-themed cards in the U.S.? Well, as usual, there are varying opinions — but it seems to be a situation that the parts are more popular than the whole: people (perhaps because of the often-tragic consequences of military actions) seem to prefer cards related to the separate subcategories, rather than thinking of collecting military-related items as an overall theme.

For example, Alan Cohen of The Card Mall, rated "military" as an overall theme lower than more specific categories such as military autos & trucks, airplanes or naval-related items.

Some dealers carry no specific "military" cards at all, while others are like KARS Unlimited, which reported "only an occasional" request for such items directly — although the "sub" categories tend to show increased interest.

Steve Schwartz of the Sears Phone Card Department says he carries comparatively few military-related cards, because of generally "very limited collector interest" in anything outside of certain airplane sets (Editor's Note: See the December issue for more on military aviation.)

As dealer Steve Eyer put it, the overall subject of specifically "military" cards appears to be "not too active in the USA" as far as his customers are concerned — although it seems to be a subject that holds more interest for foreign collectors.

Among the dozens of foreign cards issued on the theme, there were 2,500 of an advertising-related Dutch chip card issued in 1997 called "Liberty in Holland," picturing people at the end of World War II. In October 1990 and June 1991, Mercurycard in England issued photo-based cards honoring soldiers, the Royal Marines, the Royal Navy and an electronics technician.

Prior to 1994, there were some Mercurycards issued for use by U.K. military forces in the Persian Gulf region (where about 50 of their phones were installed, such as in Kuwait).

And, the government-related phone company of Gibraltar (between Spain and Morocco at the entrance to the Mediterranean) has issued a four-card set of naval warships.

Dealer Steve Eyer gave a indication of the relative interest his wide-ranging customers have in military sub-categories: Air-related is first among those who like military cards, autos and trucks are second, followed by naval vessels and then tanks and armored vehicles.

Let's seek and destroy the myth that there are no U.S. cards around for military-related interests! We're (at least partially) armed and ready!

Battle-related cards

GTS released 1,000 cards for the Intrepid Sea/Air/Space Museum in December of 1993. The museum is housed in a World War II aircraft carrier docked in New York, wherein tourists can see the planes which flew off the carrier — and, they can visit a little souvenir shop, which is where the cards were available for purchase. Are they still? Perhaps a collector from the New York area will tell us!

The 25-unit cards pictured the museum ship; but, although the card is mentioned in the Moneycard Collector Catalog as GTS Pr32, it was not pictured.

Those wanting to shoot off their mouths about their cannon-related collection, may be talking about a card from the Winchester weapons collection by ITS (now iTELSA): Pr453/457 from March, 1997; 2,200 done of each.

In June 1998, GTS issued a fund-raising 30-minute card for Viet Now, veterans of the Vietnam War. The 1,000 cards picture the logo of the group and a helicopter, with time handled by GTS.

There have been numerous films based on military themes. Some prime examples of these are Tom Cruise's "Top Gun" (about jet pilots) and "Born on the Fourth of July" (about a disabled Vietnam veteran); Bette Midler's "For the Boys" (about entertaining troops in WWII); Oliver Stone's "Heaven and Earth" with Tommy Lee Jones and helicopter battles; Sean Connery's submarine flick "The Hunt For Red October"; and Harrison Ford's "Patriot Games" concerning terrorists.

Events, Institutions

From 1986 thru 1990, Landis & Gyr supplied optical cards to various U.S. military bases for Military Communications Center. These cards (MCN 1-5c) basically just featured text describing the card and its value — normally $20 each), rather than using any graphics.

The U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, was honored on a three-card set (Pr909-911) released by SmarTel (now a part of SmarTalk) in August 1995. Denominations were 5, 10 and 25 minutes. The academy's gyrfalcon mascot was pictured on Mountain America Technology's Air Force Academy Athletic Association card, a 30-minute denomination issued in December 1996. There were 3,000 issued of MAT SP29.

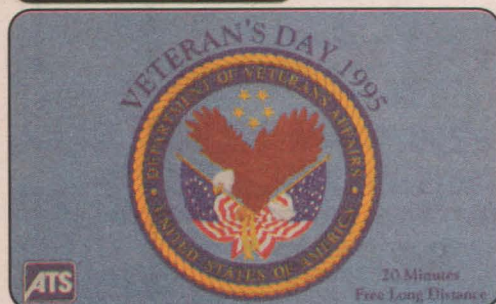

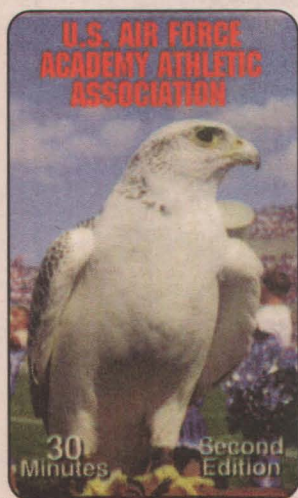

In November 1995, ATS issued a Veteran's Day card, featuring the seal of the Department of Veteran's Affairs. There were 1,000 made of this card, ATS Pr32.

LDDS issued a card for the U.S. Naval Academy in February 1996 (LDS Pr135).

In January and February of 1996, STS released some military-related cards as part of their "Americana" series. The Iwo Jima Memorial is dramatically shown in front of a photo of marching Marines, on STS 65 (10,000 30-minute versions) and STS 77 (5,000 10-minute ones).

STS issued this Iwo Jima card as part of its Americana Collector Series.

Military-related cards come with a variety of images: Top, the ATS Veterans Day 1995 card, and, above, Mountain America Technologies' Air Force Academy Athletic Association card.

Cannons are shown at the Virginia Military Institute (a historic training ground for soldiers) on STS 70 (also a 10-minute card, released in a quantity of 5,000).

Phonecards Hawaii released a sort of unusual "dual" collectible in May 1996: Entitled "New Beginning," it features an oceanic view of jumping dolphins by the artist Apollo, and the logo of McDonald's—since, as indicated at the top of the card, it was issued for the "McDonald's of Marine Corps Base, Hawaii."

There were two versions: a 3-unit (a denomination that usually was given away to restaurant employees in PCH cards) and a 10-unit, both of which used Atcall as the carrier (PCH 19 and 20 in the catalog).

Star Telecom released a three-card "Photoarts World War II" series in July 1997 (Pr91/Pr93). As indicated in a heading line at the tops of each card, they used actual photo images to dramatize the "aftermath" of the War—a Soviet flag flying (possibly over Berlin?), women (dead) on a beach, and a Jewish couple (forced to wear identifying stars on their clothes). Each $20 card was issued in a quantity of 3,500.

In June 1997, Karis Communications produced 250 copies of a "Guadalcanal Revisited" card for War Cards, Ltd. As illustrated in that month's "New Issues" section of Moneycard Collector, this card (KAR 43) features an August 1942 World War II black and white photo of a pilot in the cockpit of a plane, with people standing beside it.

The goal in issuing the card (which was the second Legion of Valor card highlighting U.S. aviation heroics in the Pacific theater) was to bring awareness to the War Heroes Collectors Club. Time on the 5-unit card doesn't expire until January 1999.

In October 1997, Karis produced a card series entitled, "United States Army — Warriors of the 90s," which was distributed to the U. S. Army's prime strategic force, the 82nd Airborne Division. This division, based in Fort Bragg, N.C., was assembled at the onset of World War II, and its paratroopers are trained to be the Army's first combat units, with a planned ability to be on its way to war within 18 hours of notification.

People in Uniform

If you want to get a good overall feeling of the look of the military during calm interludes in the midst of wartime, among the best such cards are the various Score Board ones done for Coca-Cola II and the 17th National Sports Collector's Convention (June 1996)—cards that are thus "dual" (or "triple") collectibles:

These sets display period Coke ads done in the 1940s — and I think they are great examples of period art:

In Coke II, card No.7 (SBI 725, from 1942) has two women in military uniforms near a sign saying "Pause... Go refreshed." A 1944 ad comprises card No. 8 (726), which is captioned "Have a Coca-Cola = You're my kind ... or allies enjoy a friendly pause." This features two women in military outfits sitting at a table, with one showing the other a picture of a guy.

Card No.9 (727, from 1943) shows three members of the Women's Army Corps in brown uniforms talking to each other. A co-ed scene is featured on a 1943 ad making up card No. 10 (728): a guy in a blue navy uniform talks to a girl wearing a USO armband; it's called "The pause that refreshes."

Card No.11 (729, from 1943) pictures a pilot wearing a leather cap and goggles as he lifts a bottle to his lips. A whole story is told by card No.12 (730, from 1944): at a drugstore soda fountain, an officer (seemingly a pilot) uses his hands to show two kids, their mother and a soda jerk how he accomplished a certain maneuver.

In card No.13 (731, from 1944), a bunch of guys in white navy caps commiserate with a soda jerk who also wears the same cap; but one guy is wearing headphones as if he's a radio operator or the like. With a guy walking up stairs holding a thin railing, it makes you wonder if they're on a large ship (like a battleship or aircraft carrier) in a special large mess hall area.

Card No.14 (732) from the same year, has a great scene of a soldiers preparing to play Santa Claus — in the middle of a desert, which can be seen through the flaps of a tent.

Another fine "story-in-itself" is card No.15 (733) from 1944: Set in a train station USO-type bar (with a red-cap porter seen in the middle), an MP watches over people ordering drinks (including a sailor hoisting a Coke) — as a young soldier naps while holding a sign asking someone to please wake him up at 11:30 p.m.

In the 17th National set, $2 denomination cards No.11 in both silver and gold sets (No.1142 & 1147) feature three women in uniforms, happily talking around a large cooler of Coke (in 1943). Cards No.16 in that set (No.1127 & 1152) both picture a guy in a navy dress uniform and cap, talking to a girl sitting next to some roller skates.

If you're into leather, you'll love cards No.24 (1135 & 1160 in the Moneycard Collector Catalog). These feature five guys (one with headphones on) wearing pilot uniforms, talking to a compatriot in a dress uniform who's bringing them their bottled beverage of choice.

There are many more where those came from. Stay focused on your moneycard radarscopes. Next month, Moneycard Collector's military maneuvers take to the land, sea and air!

SPRINT ENCOURAGES HEALTHY PRACTICES.

Free Sprint prepaid cards are being credited for the success of the StrongStarts maternal and child health care program offered by the HealthNet HMO. HealthNet says the program met or exceeded its annual enrollment goals six months after launch. By offering each woman who completes the course a 60-minute phonecard, the program met its 50 percent enrollment goal for Medicaid HMO members and exceeded its enrollment goal for commercial members. Of the Medicaid participants, 66 had completed the program and received a phonecard, while on the commercial side, that figure rose to 80 percent.

THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING!

Comstar, a Russian-British company, has released its first catalog of Russian phonecards. The 204-page perfect-bound book contains color pictures of both the obverses and reverses of more than 450 cards in 94 different categories, as well as listing the year the card was issued, mintages and denominations. The catalog comes with a Comstar Collectors' Club phonecard. For more information, e-mail Galina@post.comstar.ru or Gudnat@post.comstar.ru or fax 011 7 503 956 0361.

ITA PICKS DIAL-AROUND CLEARINGHOUSE. The International Telecard Association has picked Altantax Systems Inc. of Atlanta as the trade group's choice to provide dial-around compensation clearinghouse services for its members. The A/DACC service is ready to begin accepting client data feeds immediately and begin processing transactions before year's end. "We are confident that A/DACC will provide our membership an efficient and objective means of complying with the FCC's dial-around compensation directives," says ITA Executive Director Howard Segermark, noting the preferred rate negotiated for ITA members. The A/DACC system will process call records provided by prepaid calling card companies and match those against telephone numbers owned by payphone service providers. The system will calculate the total obligation of a participating telecard company monthly and report it to the company via the Internet. The telecard company will confirm the amount to A/DACC, which will then automatically transfer funds from the company into a clearing account.

CARD MARKETING CONFERENCE SET FOR NOV. 9-11.

"Capturing the Customer Through Brand Value" is the title of a Nov. 9-11 conference at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nev. Sponsored by Card Marketing magazine, the conference is designed for marketing executives for loyalty card programs, non-bank card issuers and card products, as well as direct mail, advertising and telemarketing specialists. Three dozen industry speakers are scheduled, with the keynote address by Don Peppers of marketing1to1/Peppers and Rogers Group, a consulting firm in Stamford, Conn.

FLORIDA STATE TO GET DUAL-FUNCTION CARD. First USA, a credit-card issuer, and smart-card innovator CyberMark has jointly issued the first publicly available credit card that also features smart-card technology. The Florida State University MasterCard, launched Sept. 19, makes it possible for school alumni, faculty and supporters to replace cash at FSU football stadium concession stands and at selected area merchants. William V. Nutting, First USA's executive vice president for partnership marketing, says the FSU launch will be followed by offering smart-card technology to other affinity, military and professional sports partners.

Card members will be able to load up to $100 on the smart-card chips through special machines inside FSU's Doak Campbell Stadium. The stored-value feature will use CyberMark's SmartWorld system. First USA's parent company, Bank One, and CyberMark are working to add Tallahassee area merchants to the SmartWorld network.

Florida State University has been an innovator in smart-card technology, being among the first in the country to issue smart cards to students, in early 1996.

SMART CARD FORUM GROWING. The Smart Card Forum, a multi-industry organization working to speed acceptance of smart-card technology worldwide, has welcomed four new members. Diversinet Corp., On Track Innovations Ltd., Perfect Plastic Printing and TeamPro Interactive have all joined the Smart Card Forum. SCF President William J. Barr says membership has grown by 400 percent in the past five years, with 36 new members joining in the last year. The organization has 200 members.

- Diversinet is a provider of Digital Certificate management tools and a developer of public-key infrastructure technology required for corporate networks, Intranets and the Internet for electronic commerce.

- On Track Innovations is a developer of battery-free, microprocessor-based contactless smart-card technology.

- Perfect Plastic Printing has been producing smart cards for a decade and plastic cards for more than 30 years.

- TeamPro Interactive is an eight-year-old company providing smart-card solutions and services.

AMERICAN NATIONAL SINKS ITS TEETH INTO IT. American National Phone Card will take its popular Titanic die-cut card ("New Issues," April 1998, and a frequent "America's Most Wanted" visitor since then) to dinner. On Oct. 24, the Los Angeles Culinary Institute will prepare the last dinner served in the Titanic's premier dining room. American National President Richard Nelson says 150 Titanic die-cuts have been saved back for the banquet; one will be presented to each guest, who each will pay $150 for a "boarding pass" to the event.

Nelson also is presenting one each of his other Titanic issues to be awarded in a drawing among those present. The nine-course meal - recreated from survivors' accounts - includes quail eggs in aspic with caviar, lobster thermidor with duchess potatoes, quails with cherries, and a "Macédoine of Fruit and Orange Surprise."

DANMØNT GOES ON THE INTERNET. Danish chip-card issuer Danmønt now has its own website at www.danmoent.dk. The site includes information about Danmønt, such as where you can buy and use Danmønt cards and how to accept Danmønt as a means of payment. The company's newsletter and other announcements and background information also can be found on the site. The company also has announced a customer-friendly move to extend the amount of time a card is valid. The "valid-through" date on cards has been extended from 15 to 24 months and the refund period extended to 12 months, giving cardholders a chance to use the card for a longer period and get a refund on remaining amounts for a longer period. The changes started in the fourth quarter of 1998.

Merger Mania

What's up with Baby Bell phonecard programs

by Art Becker

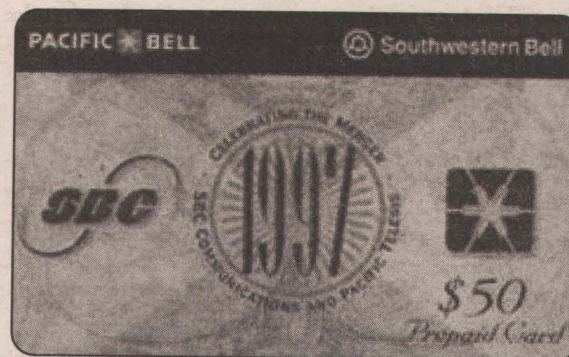

About a year and a half ago, SBC Communications, the phone company formerly known as Southwestern Bell, bought Pacific Telesis, owner of Pacific Bell and Nevada Bell. Their phonecards are listed in the Moneycard Collector Catalog under SBC and PAC, Nevada Bell having decided not to issue phonecards. From mid 1995 to early 1996, Southwestern Bell issued almost 50 different phonecards, but abruptly stopped almost completely.

Starting in late 1994, PacBell issued almost 100 different phonecards. The question on every collector's mind last year, after the merger, was how would this affect the phonecard issuing policies of these companies. While we are at it, we might as well take a look at the effect of the Bell Atlantic-NYNEX merger, and how it affected the phonecards of these companies.

For a while, SBC was going great guns promoting prepaid phonecards. They set up distributorships, and were represented at phonecard shows. After the sudden halt, SBC is now offering only two phonecards, with $10 and $20 denominations, and the same design (SBC 45). The biggest fear among collectors was that SBC, as the new parent corporation of Pacific Telesis, would curtail, or otherwise absorb, the PacBell phonecard program. The good news is that, so far, this has not happened. In fact, you can still order plenty of PacBell phonecards issued as far back as 1996. The bad news is that, except for some private Spanish issues, little new has come from PacBell, subsequent to the Merger phonecards (PAC 97).

As you know from the Moneycard Collector Catalog, Bell Atlantic

(BLA) issued almost two dozen different phonecards during a short period from the end of 1994 to the start of 1995. This program really never got off the ground before it was halted, in early 1995. Meanwhile, the most prolific Baby Bell phonecard issuing company at that time, NYNEX (NYN) issued about 90 different phonecards. The stored memory cards were in use from 1991 to early 1997, while the remote-memory phonecards were used from 1995 to around the time of the merger. In this case, however, the name NYNEX disappeared, and only Bell Atlantic remains. The good news for collectors is that Bell Atlantic is once again issuing prepaid phonecards. While only one series of cards is available, plans are to issue new designs each season. The current cards feature boys, girls, teen-agers, and older people on cards with denominations of $5, $10, $20 and $50.

Here's a question for you: Since phonecards from companies no longer issuing them tend to fall in popularity, what will happen to the early Bell Atlantic cards, now that new cards are available? Remember, these cards were only on sale for a very few months. As you can see from the Moneycard Collector Catalog, there were plenty of varieties.

A Burger King promotion resulted in a $15 Bell Atlantic phonecard, for which the customer also gets $3 in Burger King gift certificates. Incidentally, Burger King has been a leader in co-branded prepaid cards, having previously joined in Visa Cash (FUN Pr40) and Mondex cards (Moneycard Collector September 1998).

Speaking of merger mania, Bell Atlantic is set to merge with GTE, which has its own phonecard programs, including those of Hawaiian Telephone. GTE cards will be covered in next month's issue of Moneycard Collector.

Now let's have some fun and see how easy it is for collectors to get phonecard information from SBC, PacBell, and Bell Atlantic. Here's a hint — it isn't very easy at all. Let's assume you have a PC connected to the Internet. The good news is that the web pages of these companies can be guessed correctly right off the bat. They are www.sbc.com, www.pacbell.com, and www.bellatlantic.com (from which you will be automatically redirected to www.bell-atl.com).

Now you'd think that prepaid phonecards would be listed on the home page of these web sites. You'd also be wrong. In fact, the first thing you have to do is to ignore logic completely. You see, these companies only seem to think in terms of providing residential or business services. Which one do you think phonecards would be listed under? Well, you can use them at home, and that's residential. Or you can use them at work, and that would be business. Or you can use them while on a business trip, which is self-explanatory, or you could use them while on vacation to call home. Anyhow, these cards are listed under business services. Maybe. Often you really have to stumble around before you find the phonecard page.

One phonecard page on a Baby Bell site was only located by a surprising link in a press release. If you are lucky, there will be a search engine on the page. Try CARD first. Then various permutations. Don't give up too easily. Of these three sites, the PacBell page is the best, because it lists, and illustrates, many of the phonecards available for sale. The downside is that this page apparently hasn't been updated since the merger.

Your next problem is deciding what the company calls what you are looking for. Are they phonecards? Prepaid cards? Or calling cards? The answer is, it depends. PacBell calls them Prepaid Phone Cards. Bell Atlantic uses the term Prepaid Calling Card. Of the other two Baby Bells, Ameritech calls their cards PrePaid Phone Cards, while U S WEST uses the terms Telecards and PrePaid Calling Cards for their stored and remote-memory cards, respectively. Further, as

Bell Atlantic;
Definitive-Blue (above), Definitive-
Purple (top); $5 and $50 denominations, respectively;
quantity unavailable; December 1997.

you'll see next month, GTE has GTE Long Distance Calling Cards, GTE Hawaiian Tel International Debit Cards and GTE PrePaid Phonecards.

Assuming you have located the phonecard page on the web site, which frequently isn't easy, what will you find? SBC says they offer a $10-denomination card and a $20-denomination card, provide no illustrations, and refer you to (800) 530-0025. The Bell Atlantic phonecard page starts by providing an incorrect 800 number to call. As you'll see on subsequent pages, the correct number is (800) 696-3990. Again, no illustrations are provided.

What came as a pleasant surprise is that PacBell's original 800 number for ordering phonecards is still the same (800) 600-0094. When calling each of these numbers, expect to start off by being placed on hold. Do the companies really have this much phonecard business, or do they have to run out and find someone to answer the phone that hardly ever rings?

Once you get to talk to a live person, don't expect that person to have many details about their company's phonecards. You know, like how many different designs are available? This seems a bit odd, as how do they take your order? Are the employees really just used to taking orders by denomination, without regard for design? Do they expect that the customer will know exactly what he or she wants before calling?

Also, do not expect to receive correct information to any but the most incredibly basic questions. On the other hand, you can expect everyone to be polite, and helpful. They will check with someone else if they don't have the answers you need. There is no guarantee, however, that the other person will have the correct answers, either.

Is there any way that the Baby Bells can improve sales of cards to collectors? You bet. They can follow the lead of U S WEST. Not only is U S WEST phonecard information easy to locate on the world wide web, the company features up to date illustrations of every phonecard they have ever issued! In fact, it gets even better. Also shown are all the $1 complimentary cards produced, which were not even for sale.

Check out www.uswest.com to see the right way to set up a phone company web page, with information for phonecard collectors. Second place goes to www.gte.com and GTE Hawaiian Telephone for their pages, which show what phonecards are currently for sale. Finally, the Ameritech page at www.ameritech.com has some collector information that none of the other sites have — a link to the Moneycard Collector web site, plus the rec.collecting.phonecards Internet news group.

So, there you have it. Information on the SBC/PacBell and Bell Atlantic/NYNEX mergers. Again, the results are new Bell Atlantic issues, NYNEX gone forever, SBC with almost no cards to offer, and PacBell with little growth, but plenty of older issues still for sale. While we will all miss NYNEX, it's great to see Bell Atlantic back in the prepaid phonecard game.
