With increasing frequency, readers of Moneycard Collector are calling and writing to us asking if and when we plan to produce a "Moneycard Collector Catalog". We are happy and proud to announce that the answer is a definite "yes."

Earlier this year at the International Phonecard Expo in San Francisco, we had indicated these intentions to the dealers and issuers in attendance, but were unable to be more specific. Since that time, we've been quietly making progress and have now reached the point where we need to officially share some of this information with our readers and fellow collectors and to solicit some feedback.

Our first catalog will be a reality in early 1996. It will be based on our own proprietary numbering system which has already been designed and is now being tested by applying it to the programs of a number of major issuers. So far, we are happy with its functionality - especially its suitability to computer sorting. We will be announcing the details in an future issues, including the name of our new full-time cataloguer whom we are now seeking.

In creating a good catalog one of the most important tasks is defining key terms. In our case, especially with what we have seen in the American market to date, there are a handful of terms already being used. However, the definitions given to these terms are not always consistent among all issuers, dealers and collectors. Here then - and we invite the comments and involvement of all of our readers - are some of the terms and definitions we intend to use.

PROOF

SPECIMEN

Full final card design on front; fully printed back; no phone time; PIN information is blank, says "TEST", or is a fictitious number (e.g. all zeros).

ESSAY

A card bearing a design created by the issuer but either issued with noticeable changes or never issued at all (from the French word "essai" meaning "trial"). May or may not have information on the back; no PIN; no phone time.

SAMPLE

Full card design on front side, with advertising/promotional message on the other; no PIN; no phone time.

TEST

Any card, the sole or primary purpose of which is to permit the technical testing of phone equipment by telephone company employees (Example: 1991 NYNEX silver card used to test the computer monitoring system of Landis & Gyr phones).

SERVICE / MAINTENANCE CARD

Any card, the sole or primary use of which is to permit the technical servicing of phone equipment by telephone company employees. (Example: 1991 NYNEX Landis & Gyr blue card).

What do you, our readers, think of these definitions, and what are some of the other terms you would like to see defined? You can communicate your ideas to us by faxing us at (513)498-0879 or sending e-mail to any of our three electronic addresses: our Internet address, mchurch@erinet.com; our CompuServe address, 75757,3435, or our America-on-Line address, MurrayC466.

We want to hear from issuers, dealers and collectors alike. The more input we get, the more we can be confident of developing defined terms that will work well for everyone.

Finally, we at Moneycard Collector are at the same time sad and proud to announce the departure of two of our staff members. Laura Rush, our advertising account executive, has accepted a position in the pre-paid card division of Cable & Wireless, while one of our original staffers and our administrative assistant, Margie Bruns, has been promoted into the advertising department of another Amos Press division, the Sidney Daily News. Our congratulations and very best wishes to both of these excellent employees.

James Dean Sighted at HT Tech. New Series Announced

The James Dean collection

San Francisco

James Dean may have played a "rebel without a cause" but with the upcoming release of HT Technologies' James Dean series he won't be accused of being a rebel without a phone card. This series captures the mysterious aura that surrounded the actor with subtly colored and enhanced photographs of James Dean being himself. There are very few people who have, in such a brief span of time, captured the imagination of Americans as did James Dean. His meteoric rise in Hollywood, his iconoclastic and aloof persona, and the mystery surrounding his life and death have made James Dean a cult figure for generations of fans. And these images offer a unique opportunity to look into the man and to share the legend.

For the collector the combination of rarity, sensitive and artistic images, and a cult personality is irresistible. There is little doubt that HT's James Dean collection will be one of the most desirable sets of phone cards in history.

More Busacca

Adding to HT Technologies' successful phone card fine art series by Mark Busacca are more of the artist's popular floral designs..

The series now includes "Moveable Forms I & II" which are classic Busacca images.

Fishing for Fine Art in a Sea of Phone Cards

Fine art collectors and phone card collectors once again are finding a common ground with the release of the "Tropics of Conversation" set by HT Technologies. This three card set, depicting a dynamic and diverse community of reef-dwelling sea life, is marked by the lavish use of brilliant color and the beautiful and detailed rendering style that distinguishes the work of artist Larry Taugher. The set is an extension of the artist's much sought after nature series which is a "must-have" part of any complete collection.

The Larry Taugher series joins HT Technologies' well known collection of fine art cards by Alexander Chen, Mark Busacca and other established fine artists.

Gone But Not Forgotten! The Good News & The Bad News

The good news — HT Technologies is pleased to announce that the HT McDonald's Azalea Festival card was named as one of the "America's Most Wanted" cards by Money-Card Collector magazine.

The bad news — If you didn't already get one from HT, it's too late. The release is sold out!

This illustrates once again the importance for collectors to keep abreast of new offerings as the cards are being released rather than waiting. HT Technologies recommends that you call their Phone Card Information hotline (1-800-820-8980) to find out about coming opportunities. It's free, and it can keep you from missing out!

Dial M for Marilyn

Marilyn Monroe cards are a visual enchantment

By Nancy Blackburn

Marilyn Monroe, golden girl in an era of Hollywood's Camelot, reigned over a world of enchantment. But even though today the ladies and knights of the era are long gone, the fascination still remains and strands of memories weave a rich tapestry in our minds.

Marilyn was the glowing jewel of the mythical land, her beauty a golden thread that still shimmers and meanders through our fantasies. Her beauty was immortalized through a plethora of photographs. These talented artists produced thousands of images that perpetuate Marilyn's legend, and phone cards are proving to be the magical coach that can carry the epic forward into the reality of today's technological telecommunication.

Back in the winter of 1993, unbeknownst to each other, four companies quietly prepared to issue Marilyn cards — Laser Radio, WorldLink, GlobalCom 2000, and Univox — with each taking a different approach to securing licensed images.

Anticipating the first international Phone

Phair scheduled for March 1994 in San Francisco, John Guthrie of Laser Radio paid $100,000 to the estate of Andre de DiÈnes for the rights to 300 of his Marilyn photographs. Thus, the Marilyn Network was created.

WorldLink followed a different path, obtaining its rights and the trademarked signature of Marilyn from the starlet's estate. GlobalCom 2000 worked with Susan Bernard, daughter of photographer Bruno Bernard and author/ editor of the book "Bernard of Hollywood's MARILYN — Images by Hollywood's Great Glamour Photographer." Univox used the paintings of Michael Valdich.

According to Linda Chapman of WorldLink, "We got the impression that the majority of collectors were men...[and] that makes a beautiful woman on a card particularly appealing. Therefore, we chose the most beautiful, widely recognized woman we could think of...Marilyn Monroe.

"We kept the whole project very hush, hush and thought we had the corner on the idea. Our first clue that anyone else was doing a Marilyn card came three weeks before our cards were scheduled to be delivered, when we saw a magazine cover featuring another company's Marilyn."

As it turned out, Laser Radio's phone card images were the first to be admired by collectors. Erick Wand, of Graphics by Erick, used computer-generated graphics and layouts to produce an outstanding work (see May 1995 Moneycard Collector).

WorldLink, Marilyn Stamp Card, $10 denomination, 10,000 issued, June 1995.

ACMI, Marilyn "M"/"A" cards, $3/$7/$20/$50 denominations, 10,000 issued, August 1994/ December 1994 releases.

Laser Radio, (clockwise, from upper left) 12 Months of Marilyn, $8, 1,000 issued; Diamond Marilyn, 1,000 issued; Four Seasons, $50, 1,000 issued; What a Week, $10, 2,000 issued.

But Guthrie's quest for the "holy grail" had barely begun when he was abruptly sidelined in a skiing accident that left him fighting for his life. From his hospital bed, he learned that his Marilyn cards were still just images, and that many thousands of dollars would be necessary to complete the long-planned printing work in time for the phone card show.

And so, the widely acclaimed work of de DiÈnes was not in the hands of collectors until mid-April 1994. Instead, the acclaim went to WorldLink as Marilyn Set I Premiere Issue of March 1994 enthralled excited Phair-goers, and the $10 denomination sets were sold out before the weekend was over.

Only 500 sets of each denomination, featuring "Classic," "Gold V," and "Smile," with Marilyn's autograph and "Premiere Issue" gold foil-stamped were released, along with 1,500 of the regular issue. A special feature of the cards was the voice prompt by Marilyn impersonator Yvette Anthony of Paris, France. The cards have nearly tripled in value since their 1994 introduction.

GlobalCom 2000 threw an early gauntlet into the arena, but then quickly fell into its death throes. Their cards portrayed three works of Bruno Bernard, the Rembrandt of photography, but their grandiose plans quickly faded into oblivion. However, early collectors have found a resurgence of interest in the cards because of the universal appeal of Marilyn, and the $30 "Marilyn in Red" now sells for up to $70.

Though Univox issued just two Marilyn cards, they were memoorable. The simple black-and-white Marilyn with colored lipstick was enough to raise the pulse of most male collectors. Just 1,500 were produced and all were quickly sold. The companion card shows a torso shot of the blonde bombshell with a colorized pink background. Even more exclusive at 500 mintage, these cards are real "finds" on the secondary market.

In September 1994, GEM International championed a new entry into the phone card kingdom. Photographer/author George Barris had taken these last pictures, ("A Touch of Marilyn Monroe Whimsy," The New York Sunday News) on a California beach just a few days before her tragic death. GEM's first edition release contrasted a sensuous towel-draped Hollywood star with a vulnerable wind-tousled maiden. There were 5,500 sets of the four $10 cards issued.

As Laser Radio's Guthrie struggled to regain his strength, he found himself besieged by foes of a legal nature. Threats were made from several sides and in the spring of 1995, he battled questions of licensing rights in a federal court in California, where he temporarily prevailed.

In the midst of the conflict and in an all-out effort to protect his investment, Guthrie approached ACMI and entered into a distribution agreement. Galloping to the rescue, ACMI provided phone time, printing and distribution for the 14-card M-A-R-I-L-Y-N M-O-N-R-O-E set. Issued as a private label for Laser Radio, the cards carry the ACMI logo.

To make Lady Marilyn available to more collectors, the cards were then sold outright to ACMI. Kevin Pirolo, president of ACMI, made the observation that between ACMI and Laser Radio, a substantial amount of money went to the United Way from each card sold and that he believes that more money has gone to charity from the Marilyn set than from any other cards issued.

American National Phone Card, Marilyn Top Hat, jumbo card, 20 units, 1,000 issued, July 1995.

Globalcom 2000, Marilyn Red Gown, $10 denomination, 7,500 issued, December 1993.

WorldLink issued Set 2 in September 1994, and Sets 3 and 4 in April 1995. A special three-card jumbo set was released in May 1995, and June brought the release of 10,000 commemorative Marilyn Stamp phone cards, with joint licensing with the U.S. Postal Service, the estate of Marilyn Monroe, and WorldLink. One-thousand of the cards were issued with first day covers, postmarked from Monroe, Ga.

Switching back to Laser Radio, the first four cards of the company's "20th Century Edition" series became the lead cards of four subsets – 1,000 sets "that document the black-and-white photos of the '40s, hand-tinted color photos of the '50s, color of the '60s, right up to the mind-blowing computer graphics of the '90s."

Guthrie explains: "In 50 years, people will be fascinated by the 20th Century...its transforming effect on individual freedoms...as [one] steps into a synthetic, digital future: the girl Norma Jeane thus becomes the woman Marilyn Monroe."

"A Day in the Life," including a ninth chase card, depicts the different moods of Marilyn – from playful to pensive – that documents an inside perspective of Marilyn's life. "What a Week!" shows a different aspect of her life, from work to play. "12 Months" chronicles her ever-changing beauty," while the "Four Seasons" portrays Marilyn from steamy to stormy.

The final chase card is "Diamond Marilyn," which features her famous image pressed onto the B2 (Stealth) Bomber carbon fiber card at 2000 psi and over 400 degrees, and then sprinkled with actual diamond dust.

GEM International offers what may be some of the rarest photographs ever taken of Marilyn. Denny Kanakaris, chief executive officer at GEM, described George Barris as Marilyn's "most personal photographer and close friend."

For weeks she had talked freely and frankly to Barris as they began collaborating on the story of her life, eventually published as "Marilyn: Norma Jean," in 1987. Just days before her death, she posed for him, ending the session with her final picture – a wind-thrown kiss and the line, "Okay, George, and it's just for you."

Other GEM cards in Set 2, which was issued September 1994, include Barris' black-and-white photo which was featured in the October 1, 1994, New York Post, along with a scene from the movie set of the "Seven Year Itch."

Also issued was the $1,000 Marilyn card that has been described by Dr. Steve Hiscocks as "the best Marilyn card yet, in my view."

Set 3 was unveiled during December 1994, as three greeting phone cards designed for the holidays. A special Birthday/Anniversary card was issued in three denominations on June 29th, 1995, to commemorate what would have been her 70th celebration on June 1, 1996.

A "Fourth of July 1995" card was released July 2, 1995, featuring Marilyn holding what was originally a beach towel. For the phone card, a U.S. flag was graphically superimposed without altering the photo.

WorldLink is in the process of issuing 240,000 promotional cards for K-Mart and W.E. Stevens Company that will feature the stamp design, plus three other images of Marilyn. Targeted for October, the three-minute cards will be attached to certain jeans and wrapped with Marilyn T-shirts to be sold in all K-Mart stores. GEM International has fall plans to release the "Last Photo," of Marilyn, taken by Barris just two days before her death.

And lest you think the Marilyn attraction is beginning to wear out its welcome, consider American National Phone Card's recent introduction of a new product line — you guessed it, Official Marilyn Monroe Phone Cards. Emphasizing that its cards are officially licensed by the estate of Marilyn Monroe, the Tarzana, Calif. issuer has announced that the first offering will be a very limited-edition jumbo card.

It is doubtful that there will ever be another Marilyn Monroe, but many years from now, the phone cards in our albums will continue to bring us delight as they bring back images of the enchanted era of Lady Marilyn.

LET'S TALK LICENSING

"Licensing is both a legal activity and a business activity," according to Jack Revoyr, author of the Primer on Licensing and one of the founders of the Association of Collegiate Licensing Administrators.

In a broad sense, literary and artistic works include books, dramas, musical compositions, and works of art, as well as photographs. A study of the chart of Marilyn cards indicates that each issuer represented a different photographer or entity: George Barris, the estate of Marilyn Monroe, the estate of Andre de DiEne, the Laszlo Willinger Estate, and Bruno Bernard of Hollywood. In fact, fees were often paid for the rights to certain images. For this reason, it is no wonder that several companies call themselves the "official" this or that. Note, however, that none of the issuers claim the same license.

Perhaps Linda Chapman, director of marketing for WorldLink, put it best: "We have made every attempt to properly issue Marilyn Monroe tele-cards...it is not up to us to say whether or not other companies have issued their Marilyn cards properly or improperly...that is a matter for the lawyers of the Estate and other parties involved. We do not get involved in litigation or in slanderous talk. It is our position that the future of the industry as a whole is more important than any particular sales we make as a company."

Well said.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

The word is "Sprint, Sprint, Sprint." Our top three – er, make that four positions – are occupied by one group, which has been able to sign the hottest licensing properties around – McDonald's and Coca-Cola. Other cards ran at a distance.

The only problem with the listing this month is that each and every one of the top sellers is a low mintage controlled issue, not available in quantity to the collecting public at issue price. The same thing happened last year with the Vista-United cards. Hopefully, some of that problem has been solved with the issuance of a V-U large mintage card that everyone can own and enjoy.

If you are a collector, I suggest you re-evaluate your priorities: do you want to follow and enrich the speculators, or do you want to collect reasonably priced cards?

I like collecting lots of moderately priced cards so I can really enjoy them. The most fun in the hobby this year was collecting the Gillette Final Four cards, where a high price was maybe $8. There are hundreds and hundreds of cards that sell for less than $10, many of them with images far superior to the current fad cards. Some of them are truly scarce, too! I feel better now! Lets go to "America's Most Wanted," which for the first time contains no RBOC cards.

1 SPRINT 40TH ANNIVERSARY MCDONALD'S

SET This is the only set in our respondents' list with significant time – 50 domestic and 50 international minutes on each card. The problem is the low mintage of 1,000. What a way to hide your anniversary from the public!

2 SPRINT/SCORE BOARD COCA-COLA "RED HOT SUMMER"

Number two from the series, this 10-minute card has a very low mintage of 5,000 and a bright, vivid design.

3 SPRINT/SCORE BOARD COCA-COLA "SODA JERK"

Here is issue number three at a mintage of 2,500. Not even all of the Soda Jerks convention delegates got one of these.

4 CDG $10 AT&T ENTERPRISE MESSAGING CARD

Back for a second month is the fairly plain card with the strong AT&T appeal. This hardware software group handed out 2,500 at a trade show, leaving just 500 for the collector market.

6 PHONECARDS HAWAII MCDONALD'S OF ALA-MOANA

Sold out in just two hours, this 1,000 mintage card was issued without fanfare and quickly advanced in price. It is currently priced like the NAT and Sprint McDonald's from the sports card and collectibles show earlier this year.

7 TELEWORLD $5 KIDZ KARD

This is our entry this month for the Florida tourist/user market. It's a cute card and collectible in its own right.

8 COLLECTOR'S ADVANTAGE/ SPEED CALL $6 RED DOG 300

It's not the Red Dog that brings this entry to the Most Wanted list this month, it's the Coca-Cola logo that does it. There are quite a few Red Dog cards on the market, but this one garners almost 70 percent of the attention. The others are for small local pubs in the Northeast.

9 LDDS NIKE HONOLULU MARATHON

Probably the first Nike card, and it is hard to find. A strange design, but so are their commercials.

10 There's a big bunch-up at the number 10 spot; I'll list a couple of the more interesting ones.

OMNITEL SHIPYARD BEER

KEY CHAIN PHONE CARD

In the form of a handy key chain, there were four thousand of these cards made. They're reasonably priced and you'll never be without a phone card.

MCI ROLLING STONES SET

The first American set from this immensely popular rock group is also reasonably priced. There are four 10-unit cards in the set.

"America's Most Wanted" is compiled each month by dealer Steve Eyer, Mt. Zion, Ill. The opinions expressed are those of the writer. HAWAII CALLING

Hawaii continues to be the most favored U.S. destination for Japanese tourists who are the principal buyers and users of GTE Hawaiian Tel cards. In their estimation, Hawaii is "cheap and romantic," thanks to the beleaguered dollar.

The Hawaii collector market is active nationally, as well as internationally. Collectors and dealers are re-evaluating their stock as additional facts about varieties, usage and availability become known. Many cards have undergone significant price increases, often unrelated to stock on hand.

Perhaps the best example is the GTE Hawaiian Tel Sumo Connection – the now famous "3-unit error card." Trading has been intense with everything from airline tickets to GTE Hawaiian Tel Inaugural Cards changing hands. Some of the original holders have even repurchased their cards.

There are persistent unconfirmed rumors about a holding of 45 cards – probably a combination of speculation and wishful thinking.

The exact number will never be determined because an unknown quantity was sold locally before the purchasers become aware of the error. There is also the possibility that buyers over- or under-estimated the quantity received – a genuine phone card mystery!

Collectors may recall the private April 1992 issue of 500 cards made for Tokai University, a small Japanese institution in Honolulu. This is one of the least attractive Hawaiian cards, but it is missing from many collections. The students for whom it was issued considered the original price too expensive. As a result, very few cards were purchased or used by the students.

It was thought that all remaining cards had been absorbed by the dealer/collector market, with the largest holding of 130 cards being sold to a Singapore investor.

Recently, however, 67 unsold cards were discovered at the university. A local dealer, on a routine service call, had the good fortune to purchase 40 at the new issue price. According to a Tokai spokesperson, the remaining 27 cards will be used for "promotional purposes" and will not be sold.

The Ilikai Hotel (10 units, 1,000 issued May 1995) is a private-issue, vertical-format

GTE Hawaiian Tel., SUMO Connection, 3-unit error card (10-unit example shown), quantity unknown, September 1994.

GTE Hawaiian Tel., Ilikai Hotel, 10 units, 1,000 issued, May 1995.

card. It is the seventh Ilikai phone card, with the previous six having been released by Teleconcepts, the former distributor. The other six had limited editions of 500 cards, but GTE-Hawaii requires a minimum of 1,000 cards for private runs. Card number seven is similar to number six, except for a larger "Ilikai" logo, white numerals and a different location for the GTE Hawaiian Tel logo. The card certainly deserves a separate listing in future catalogs.

Collectors can order cards from the Ilikai Hotel in Honolulu at their retail price (while supplies last), or through various dealers in the secondary market. Private cards are not available from GTE Hawaiian Tel, as the entire supply of each issue is turned over to the purchaser. These cards are sold to hotel guests, as well as to collectors.

SCORE BOARD INKS COCA-COLA The Score Board Inc. announced an agreement with the Coca-Cola Co. to produce and market collectible phone cards. The cards will feature images spanning Coke's 109-year history, including current ads and promotions.

Score Board will produce the cards for both the collector and utility markets, with distribution handled directly through the company's network of hobby dealers, major U.S. and Canadian retailers, and through television shopping channels.

"It's a significant opportunity for our company to develop prepaid telephone debit cards based on images from the 109-year history of Coke," said Chairman & CEO Ken Goldin. "We envision these products generating significant demand from consumers and collectors of Coca-Cola memorabilia and phone cards."

There will be a number of different phone card products from Classic. "We'll be doing five-card stand-alone sets for starters," says James Robinson, phone card manager. "All the cards in the set will add up to 120 minutes of phone time. We expect it to be one of the hottest items we've ever had as a licensed property. We'll only create enough product to keep the very strong following of Coke-ites out there happy and scrambling for more."

"The beauty of phone cards is that you can issue 5,000 cards and still hit your margin requirements, as well as keep it in very limited supply. Five thousand sets is nothing compared to the number of trading card sets."

According to Robinson, the cards in the stand-alone set will include a 60-80 cents-a-minute tariff. Don't be surprised if Score Board issues a new set every month.

And there's more. "We'll be issuing a Coke Assets product," Robinson stated. "We anticipate that it will be a huge success."

Like the other Assets series, there will be a phone card in every pack. The trading cards will be on acetate instead of a card stock, however. The cards will be die-cut in the shapes of bottles, cartons and other Coke-related products. The product should be ready around September or October."

PHONE CARD GROUP ON INTERNET Alan Cohen, an avid participant in the CompuServe Telecards Forum, recently completed the work necessary to establish a phone card group on the Internet. The creation of the group passed a "usenet" vote by a margin of 213-45. If you have access to usenet newsgroups on the Internet, the proper name of the group is rec.collecting.phonecards

If you do not have access to the usenet, a local Internet provider or major on-line service will provide access. If you have any questions about the group, or wish a copy of the faq (frequently asked questions) e-mailed to you, contact Alan Cohen at ahc3@cornell.edu

SMART CARDS 'ENROLL' IN COLLEGE First of America Bank has selected Schlumberger-DANLY as the supplier of smart cards and terminals for the first bank-issued campus card program to use true smart card technology.

First of America issued 60,000 cards and installed multi-application systems for these chip cards at the University of Michigan, Western Michigan, and area merchants during August. Students, faculty and staff will use the chip cards for identification, dormitory security, dining services, banking, stored value, and other applications. The smart card, which includes a micro-processor and memory, is sometimes called an Electronic Purse or stored value card.

With the First of America program, students will be able to use their card off campus to purchase goods from local merchants, fast food restaurants, and other outlets using special smart merchant terminals. On campus, the cards can be used for photocopies, snack and beverage vending, and laundry services, as well as for university fees and services.

Students will be able to add value (load) to their card at conveniently located CashChip Stations, using cash or by transferring funds from a checking account. Students also have the option of linking a checking account to the card, providing them with access to ATMs throughout the country.

OH CANADA!

YES, WE HAVE PHONE CARDS IN THE LAND OF THE MAPLE LEAF! This month Moneycard Collector introduces a new column about Canadian prepaids written by Canadian collector Rosemary Warren. Her first effort provides collectors with an overview of the Canadian phone card issuing environment and the 1993 Bell Canada phone card trial.

Like the U.S., Canada is fortunate to have excellent national and international telecommunications service. Also like the U.S., Canada offers some very interesting phone cards to collectors, but within an environment that, for the time being at least, is not as de-regulated as south of the border. For example, residential long-distance competition has been permitted only since 1994.

Made of up 10 provinces and two territories, Canada has had a national phone network since 1932, when the Trans-Canada Telephone System was established. However, to this day, the services are largely government-owned by the provinces themselves, while an umbrella organization known as "Stentor" provides national coordination.

From West to East the companies are: BC Tel (British Columbia & Yukon), AGT (Alberta Government Telephone; also services the Northwest Territories), SaskTel (Saskatchewan Telephone), MTS (Manitoba Telephone System), Bell Canada (a publicly listed company and by far the largest of the group, serving Ontario, Western Quebec and Quebec City), Quebec-Tel (rest of Quebec), NBTel (New Brunswick Telephone), MT&T (Maritime Telephone &

Bell, Hello Phone Pass, trial card, Toronto Skyline, $20 denomination, 37,550 issued, September 1993.

Telegraph serving Nova Scotia), Island Tel (Prince Edward Island) and Newtel Enterprises (serving Newfoundland and Labrador).

All of the cards issued to date by these companies bear the slogan "HELLO! Phone Pass," or in French "La télécarte ALLO!". Since 1994, approximately a dozen privately held companies that issue cards also have entered the market (e.g. Card Caller Canada, Channel Telecom), but more about them later.

For the most part, all cards issued by the provincials are of the remote memory type. An exception to this is Bell Canada in Quebec, specifically in its Montreal and Quebec City operations, where chip-based cards have been launched as a test.

All of their issues are relatively new, the first of them appearing in September 1993, when a trial was launched in the country's three largest cities — Toronto, Vancouver and Montreal — and at a Canadian Armed Forces base located in Suffield, Alberta.

The trial lasted until March 31, 1994, and a nationwide rollout began in May 1994. Specifications and current market value of the $20 trial cards (none are available any longer at issue price) appear at bottom left.

Note that in addition to cards in Canada's two official languages of English and French, there are Japanese and Chinese (Cantonese) cards for these large ethnic groups residing in the country.

Next month we'll take a closer look at the first issue cards. Meanwhile, collectors wishing to obtain a copy of Bell's beautiful four-color product catalog are encouraged to write to: Stentor Resource Center, Inc., 4535 Cananda Way, 2nd floor, Burnaby, B.C., Canada V5G 1J9, Attention: d'Arcy Dagg, National Coordinator.

The only full-time Canadian phone card dealers that we are aware of are J & M Coin & Jewelry, 106 W. Broadway, Vancouver, BC (Phone: (604) 876-7181; Fax: (604) 876-1518) and Telepass Phone Cards, 5-151 Carlingview Dr., Rexdale, Ont. (Phone (416) 213-8436; Fax: (416) 213-8435).

BABY BELL NOTES

AMERITECH

Last month we reported about

Ameritech's plans to include phone cards with their billing statements in eight selected trial areas. The cards will be "cold," and must be activated via a credit card to be good for use.

This month's news is that Ameritech created 500 of these cards for collectors who are members of the Telecards section of the Collectibles forum on CompuServe (GO COLLECT). Unfortunately, those members who live in the states where the trials are being conducted were ineligible.

New Ameritech cards include 4,000 20-unit cards commemorating the Art Institute of Chicago's Claude Monet exhibition in July. Cards were sold in the gift shop at the museum at 200 S. Michigan Avenue. Brilliant printed the plastic 30-mil cards, which featured Monet's works.

Another baseball card was given out at a Chicago White Sox game. WMAQ-AM sponsored the 22,000 7-unit cards for a game held on August 20th. These are also 30-mil cards, but are printed by Moore Business Forms, a major printer of credit cards and supplier of office and computer materials.

The card features a view of the field, and the logos of the White Sox, WMAQ-AM, Jewel Foods, and Best Kosher. What makes this card unique is that it is the only existing or planned Ameritech card to display the Ameritech logo on the reverse only.

BELL ATLANTIC

On July 24th, Bell Atlantic issued a press release stating that having completed its field trial in the Washington D.C. metropolitan area, it had decided "not to stay in the phone card market at this time" (Emphasis Moneycard Collector). Two reasons were cited: 1) from a consumer standpoint, while they liked the cards, the savings and convenience, restricted use of the cards within six states and Washington D.C. meant that the cards "could not meet their needs," and 2) the costs of marketing the product "could not be sustained" by the amount of business that was being generated within the limited geographic area where the cards could function.

Bell Atlantic also announced that the cards now on the market must be used before September 30, 1995, after which time they will cease to function.

A third reason for the termination, though unstated, was a tactical one. The announcement came just as the House of Representatives was accelerating debate over the new telecommunications act, which when adopted, will likely remove the long distance restrictions for the Regional Bells. The statement concluded: "Like so many people who want fair and open competition in the telecommunications market place, we are hopeful for passage of appropriate legislation offering deregulation of our customer requirements in the exciting phone card market.

Up to a maximum of 7,500 cards of each issue will be sold to collectors through National Communications Consultants (800)555-5865, but all such cards will be inactive and cannot be used to make calls. All remaining cards in excess of 7,500 which have been allocated for collectors, have or will be destroyed.

Not all of these remaining cards will be sold in the traditional manner. Two of them – the $3 test card (500 issued in 1994, with 100 left) and the autographed James Earl Jones card (100 issued with 50 left) – will be sold by auction, with bids submitted by fax. The reserve bid on each test card is $100, and $125 on each of the Jones cards. Successful bidders will also be entitled to a charitable donations tax deduction of 35 percent.

BELLSOUTH

There are two separate business units selling two types of prepaid phone cards. The stored memory cards sold by one unit were valid for use in phones at the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB) and in Miami. The remote memory cards are being sold in Atlanta.

Trials of the UAB stored memory cards continue, with a new set of three cards. The 12,000 $1, $5, and $10 cards were printed last May, but their distribution was delayed due to the illness of a key employee, who is now back on the job.

The UAB cards feature the Blazer logo, while individual themes include education, sports, and medicine. Currently, cards can be obtained through vending machines at UAB, or by calling (800)349-7481.

Distribution problems and key personnel changes seem to be behind the remote memory business unit. Atlanta cards can be purchased at a number of locations, including convenience stores and vending machines, or by calling the above 800-number.

NYNEX

Like BellSouth, there are two separate business units selling phone cards at NYNEX. The stored memory cards are automatically available to members of the NYNEX Collector's Club (800-70-NYNEX). The remote memory cards have just started selling in Vermont.

Heading the NYNEX news are their first publicly available remote memory trial cards, valid for use only in Vermont. There are eight different cards - four each of $5 and $10 cards.

Collector response to the colorful designs has been very enthusiastic. Cards may be purchased in quantity by calling 800-NYNEX90.

Keep In Touch

The Gift of Giving

Fifty-thousand of the "Series 1" cards have been printed. This comes to 6,250 of each design and denomination. If these cards sell well, an additional 150,000 cards will be printed, and will say "Series 1A" on the reverse.

No decision has yet been made on whether the NYNEX Collector's Club will distribute remote cards, as the club's agreement is only with the stored memory business unit.

Pre-public internal remote memory trial cards exist. A $10 English language and a $10 Spanish language card was printed in quantities of 500 each, along with 1,787 $16 gold coin test cards.

A set of these three cards sold for over $3,000 at the USTA auction held at the San Francisco phone card show in April. Unfortunately, these cards are not for sale to the public by NYNEX.

New stored memory magnetic cards to be issued include a $5 and $10 U.S. Tennis Championship set, and a $10 Jacob K. Javits Convention Center card. The latter, along with the yellow payphones that accept them, will be issued and installed in time for the Telecard World '95 East phone card show scheduled for September. Previously announced $5 and $10 New York University cards, in quantities of 10,000 each, will feature the NYU Bobcat.

These cards will automatically be sent to NYNEX Collector's Club members. The club's newsletter was sent to all members in July, and featured a photo of the fabulous members-only card, which all 1995 members will receive.

PACIFIC BELL

With the completion of the initial trial, which was limited to the Los Angeles area, remote memory cards are now being sold statewide in California. Cards should be available at all 44 PacBell payment offices, along with other retail locations, including selected Chevron gas stations. In August, an 800 sales number is scheduled to begin operation, through which all cards will be available for purchase.

The Numbers set now being sold has the same design as the first-edition cards, though without the first-edition markings. The LA scenes set is out of production. Olvera Street cards are still being sold, though rumors persist that this set will be replaced by a new ethnic card set shortly.

The new California card series is out, in the usual denominations of $5, $10, and $20, but with the addition of a $50 card. Be on the lookout for a limited-edition 10,000 quantity issue of a $50 Alexander Graham Bell card, to be issued in late July.

Finally, there has been some official clarification about the 1994 holiday Jolly Cards. PacBell had previously supplied "approximate maximum" quantity information, while collectors were demanding exact figures. While the exact numbers still aren't known, the approximate maximum quantities are within 10 percent of the actual number. With that in mind, here is the approximate maximum quantities of the Jolly Cards, as supplied by PacBell.

Thus, less than 450 complete sets of 12 can exist. Since many collectors only bought the four $5 cards, less than 1,700 of these sets are possible. These quantities are extremely low – especially for a Baby Bell issue. If you want these cards, do not delay another minute.

SBC Corporation

The final holdout Baby Bell has issued its first phone card. And, what a card it is!

Featuring baseball Hall-of-Famer Stan “The Man” Musial, this $10 card is the last “first card” of all the Regional Bell Operating Companies (RBOC). The story behind this card issue, depicting Stan in his first spring training tryout with the St. Louis Cardinals, could fill an entire seventh inning stretch. So grab your popcorn, peanuts, & Crackerjack, and settle into your favorite chair.

Southwestern Bell received permission to issue phone cards in Missouri beginning August 1, 1995. That was the good news. The “bad” news was that the National Sports Collector Show (NSCS) was scheduled in St. Louis, from July 24th to the 30th. Gee, wouldn’t it be nice to be able to issue at least one card, just a few days early, in time for the NSCS?

With some hard work by Southwestern Bell officials, and common sense, sports-minded cooperation from the Missouri Public Service Commission, permission was granted for the cards to be sold at the show. Actually, how could anyone in the “Show Me” state say no to a Stan Musial phone card?

Five thousand of the cards were produced, which ranks it among the smallest issues of any Baby Bell. Combined with the introduction at the NSCS, it’s obvious that phone card collectors had better show the same hustle as Stan The Man, if they want to get a card for their collection.

The Stan Musial image takes on even more importance, as it is the first of a planned “The

St. Louis skyline

Stan Musial

Ballgame” series of Southwestern Bell “Stan The Man” cards. Additional cards were scheduled to go on sale in August.

Initially, definitive cards, with $10 and $20 denominations, will be offered to the public. Ten thousand of each denomination will be in the first printing. Southwestern Bell decided on limited quantities of first issues to appease collectors, while keeping in mind that the main purpose of the cards is to sell telephone service to customers.

Starting in August (conditional on regulatory approval), Southwestern Bell was set to roll out additional cards in three markets: St. Louis, Mo.; Little Rock, Ark.; and Houston, Texas. Cards featuring the skylines of each of these cities are being issued in $10 and $20 denominations. Quantities will be limited to 10,000 of each skyline, or 5,000 of each of the six different cards.

In order to train employees, a special internal employee test card will be produced. No additional information is available at this time, though the company is to be applauded for informing the media of the card’s existence.

Possibly the best news is that Southwestern Bell is offering all the cards for sale, in limited quantities, via the Prepaid Calling Card Bureau, at telephone number 800-600-BELL. The company is forming a collector’s club as well, so be sure to let them know of your interest via the 800 number.

Southwestern Bell has belted a grand slam home run with this first issue. Hopefully, like Stan the Man, this will be just the first of many hits.

U.S. West

Additional pay telephones accepting stored memory chip cards which are being installed in U.S. West’s 14-state region have resulted in new cards being issued, as well. As previously announced, when the new phones are installed in the selected cities, cards with themes of those cities will be issued.

Since the phones are now being installed in many new locations in the Seattle, Wash., area, two new Seattle theme sets, and one individual card, are now for sale.

A Skyline Triptych (three cards combined to form a single continuous image) is available, consisting of $5, $10, and $20 denominations, along with a folder for an additional $2. Included in the City Icons set are $5 Public Market, $10 Ferry, and $20 Hammering Man cards. As before, a folder can be purchased for an extra $2.

Finally, a stand-alone (no pun intended) $10 Space Needle card was also placed on sale. Call (800)739-3339 for information.

U.S. West has an Internet home page (as does MoneyCard Collector magazine), and other Baby Bells might have them by now as well. Just formed on the Internet is a new telephone card collecting area for you to check out: collect.phonecards.rec.

Event Masters/Disney - New Zealand - Mickey Mouse Part II, Early Years (Society Dog Show, Fantasia, Tugboat Mickey and A Gentlemen's Gentleman 1939-1941). Each card is a $5 denomination in the 4 card set and is in one of the most beautiful presentation folders ever made. Production worldwide is 1,500 with a limit to the US of 300. This set sold out at retail throughout the world in one week. Remember, we told you to purchase this set in our last ad, we offered guarantee re-purchases at full retail within the next year. Please call for current market price, whether you want to buy or sell. Have Mickey Mouse Part I Early Years available at $900 per set. Event Masters next issue is Pocahontas and will be available at $60.00 retail. Please call to reserve this issue.

Vista/United/Disney - Contact '96. Production of 5,000. This 19th Vista United card was distributed at the Sci Fi Convention in Anaheim California in April of 1995. We were the first dealer in the world to advertise this card and we know we made a lot of our preferred mail order customers happy. We have a very few left to sell and will buy all you have to sell. Please call for current market price.

Sprint/McDonald - We strongly urged you in May to purchase the McDonald/Sprint 40th Anniversary corporate cards. This two card set is 50 minutes US and 50 minutes International featuring the original McDonald restaurant and was our choice to be one of the top picks of 1995. We originally offered this set at $100. We have repurchased a few sets from the secondary market. Please call for current market price.

Tel Trust Communication/Hall of Fame Series USA - We are offering from the Dan Marino Hall of Fame series signed and numbered cards with a Certificate of Authenticity. Only 50 of the 2,000 cards were signed and numbered. The signed edition is already selling for $500 in many areas of the US and when Dan breaks Fran Tarkenton's record in the next year and becomes the All Time Leader in football history regarding quarterbacks, this card is sure to increase in value. We only have a few left and will offer them at $300.00 each. They come in a beautiful holder with a velvet pouch. This could become one of the best investment items you can purchase. Regular issue cards $25.00.

B&B "Best in the West"

Presents our best selections throughout the world...

First, before we go over the top selections of phone cards throughout the world, we want to thank each of you for your response to our anniversary ad last month. It was tremendous talking to each of you about this new and exciting collectible industry.

AT&T/Coke/McDonald - Second edition Frank & Sons 4-card set in a beautiful presentation folder that commemorates McDonald's 40th anniversary. This item was released June 14, 1995 at Frank's warehouse (1,000 edition) and sold out in two hours (limit of 2 per customer). It was trading at $150 per set before the show closed and by Saturday was over $200 per set and climbing. Please call for current market price.

Singapore Telecom/Disney Kodak - This beautiful Disney 5 card $2 per card set depicts Pinocchio, Cinderella, Sleeping Beauty, Alice in Wonderland and Snow White. Edition of 5,000 in presentation folder. This set in our opinion has been very overlooked by the collector. We are offering the set at $125 each while our supply lasts.

Australia Telecom/Coke Down Under 2 folder series - This second issue of 10,000 sets worldwide is a two card $5 denomination issue. Each card is in a beautiful presentation folder. Card 1 depicts Coke Always Cool and Card 2 depicts Red Hot Summer. We are offering the set at $60.00 per set. We also have a few first issue sets (Polar Bear and Santa) available at $50.00 per set.

Sprint/Assets - Emmitt Smith, $2,000 Hawaii X- Pin error card. Less than 500 issued, this card must NOT be confused with the $2,000 Smith sample card that was distributed in unlimited quantities. The Hawaii Pin error card was given to participants at the 2/95 Kit Young Hawaii Show. Inadvertently, the Sprint logo was left off the card, thereby making it both an error and a show card. Comes in acrylic holder with velvet pouch. Currently listed at $90; our price is $60 while supplies last.

Pac Bell Xmas 12 card specimen test set - less than 100 in distribution. Pac Bell Xmas 12 card regular issue, only 483 cards of any issue made, we doubt that there are 50 complete sets available as many customers purchased the $5 issue only or used the cards for the phone time. Set was available in December only. Please call for current market prices.

Regarding the first issue PAC Bell Olvera Street, Numbers and LA Scene, the LA Scene all denominations has been discontinued effective July 1995. The Olvera Street $5 and $20 have been discontinued and Numbers $10 and $20 have been discontinued as of that date. Pac Bell will be issuing their new series, California Scene, in a $20 denomination only, plus will have a special collector $50 version of the California Scene. We will continue to sell sets only of Olvera Street, LA Scene and Numbers at current market prices until we exhaust our supply. We are offering the new California Scene $50 at $80 each. We also were able to purchase a few sets of the rare Olvera Street Spanish only. This set was offered for sale in a few Pac Bell locations as a test and was discontinued also. Please call for current market prices.

USA Card - Marilyn, 1,000 issued. Made for Long Beach Expo '95. In Presentation folder. Call for market price.

Sprint/Coke/Germany Jukebox 5 card set - New 2nd issue 5 card Coke sets in a beautiful presentation folder depicting a Juke Box. Only 2,000 sets were manufactured, of which 1400 sets were to be used in Germany for a contest, leaving 600 for sale at retail level. We only have a few of these sets available. Please call for current market prices.

First issue "Stories to be Told" is available at $350.00 L1.

Sprint/Coke "The World of Coke" USA - The strongest issues to be released this year "Springtime in Atlanta," "Red Hot Summer," "Alfa Romo," "Soda Jerk," and Coke set #5 & 6. Each set is in a beautiful presentation folder and is extremely hard to find. In demand by Coke collectors worldwide. We strongly recommend you make your purchase immediately, as prices are rising rapidly. Please call for current market prices.

B&B "THE BEST IN THE WEST"

Presents STEVE YOUNG "SIGNED PHONE CARDS"

We are proud to present the First Edition Steve Young 49-minute autographed and numbered 1995 Snoopy Bowl Jumbo Phone Card. Each card was personally signed by Steve Young (edition 999); manufactured by Brilliant Color Cards in conjunction with Winston Taylor, Inc. Phone time is provided by AT&T with rights from Peanuts/UFS, Inc. Each phone card comes with a Certificate of Authenticity and is displayed beautifully.

ISSUE PRICE: $89.95

In conjunction with this Steve Young autographed phone card offer, B&B will be having our first All Winners "Best in the West" contest, with all 999 prizes going to the customers who purchase this phone card from B&B or one of our authorized representatives. (Top prize winners to be determined by a random drawing to be held when all cards have been sold).

Contest Rules: Purchase of one Steve Young autographed card entitles each purchaser to be a winner.

1st Prize (one) - $2,000 Classic/Asset II Steve Young test card (less than 10 of these cards were printed)

2nd Prize (one) - $50.00 Classic/Asset II Steve Young phone card (only 216 printed)

3rd Prize (five) - $25.00 Classic/Asset II Steve Young bonus phone card.

4th Prize (300) - Official show phone cards 1995 International Expo Anaheim featuring Cal Ripken, Jr.

5th Prize (692) - 8 x 10 photo of Steve Young

NEW ISSUES-SPORTS

AMERIVOX SERVES UP STEFFI AmeriVox has recently released a beautiful new set of cards highlighting the illustrious career of tennis star Steffi Graf.

There are five cards included in the eight-panel, die-cut folder – $5 cards picturing Steffi at the French Open, Australian Open, U.S. Open, and Wimbledon, and a $21 card showing the net queen in a relaxed moment.

Five thousand sets have been issued, with each retailing at $50. Phone time is decremented at the typical AmeriVox rate of $.29 per minute.

Call AmeriVox at (415)694-4977 to order a set.

TELCARDS DISTRIBUTED AT NATIONAL VETERANS WHEELCHAIR GAMES ACMI has recently produced a new card at the 15th National Wheelchair Games, which were held during June in Atlanta.

The cards were distributed free to athletes, their coaches and members of the general public at the Disabled Sports, Recreation and Fitness Expo in Atlanta. Each card provides the recipient 10 minutes of free domestic telephone calling time. The cards are rechargeable at $.25 per minute, a portion of the proceeds will go toward supporting the Paralyzed Veterans Association (PVA). A total of 1,400 cards was issued.

The National Veterans Wheelchair Games is the largest wheelchair sporting event in the nation. Call ACMI at (901)363-2100 to purchase the card.

BABE STEPS UP AGAIN The final four cards in the Babe Ruth Show Collection have been released by TeleTrading Cards.

Designed for the International Sportscard Expo in Anaheim, the first two cards show the Babe during his early years as a pitcher for the Boston Red Sox. The second pair of cards commemorates the TeleCard World Expo East in New York, which is scheduled for late September. One card pictures George Herman Ruth in one of his most classic images, while the other shows the Sultan of Swat acknowledging the crowd after one of his mammoth home runs.

There are 1,000 of the three-minute complimentary sets and 5,000 20-minute cards. The complete show collection numbers 12 cards.

Telecommunications service for the cards is provided by North American Telephone. Collectors may call (703)239-1432 or fax (703)239-2435 to inquire about the cards. MC

POLITICAL CARTOONS

MONEYCARDS WITH TEETH Ouch! Look out! Humor with a bite is the genre of Michael Ramirez, nationally syndicated political cartoonist and winner of the 1994 Pulitzer Prize for editorial cartooning. The noted journalist's works recently have been incorporated into a series of phone cards released by ATS Network Communications, Memphis, Tenn.

The first card of the series, "Forrest Chump" satirizes Academy Award-winning "Forrest Gump" by portraying Bill Clinton and the dialogue, "My Mama always told me, my foreign policy was like a box of chocolates. . .you never know what you're gonna get." One thousand of these $10 cards have been issued.

Ramirez appears worldwide in 950 newspapers and magazines, including The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Los Angeles Times, and Time magazine. He is also a regular contributor to USA Today.

ATS, Forrest Chump cartoon, $10 face value, 1,000 issued, June 1995, artwork by Michael Ramirez.

As a minority journalist, Ramirez offers a unique perspective of the American cultural diversity. Born in Tokyo, raised in foreign countries, and educated at University of California-Irvine, he uses his sense of humor to convey a strong message about the state of affairs that entangle the United States at home and abroad.

Rather than using humor for comic entertainment, Ramirez prefers to use the "dynamics of visual editorials to explain the role of a political satirist in a kinder, gentler, new world." As he explains, "An editorial cartoonist is a hybrid - a cross between Edward R. Murrow, Ted Koppel, and the Son of Sam."

Future cards are already planned to target some American hot spots - Hillary Clinton's role as unofficial presidential advisor, defense spending, and lack of respect abroad.

Those who enjoy a good laugh when they open up the morning newspaper will appreciate the appeal of a chuckle every time they make a phone call using their Forrest Chump prepaid calling card. For more information, contact Louis Weiss or Suzanne Haynes at (800)968-1ATS.

Phone cards give stamp of approval

By Gary Felton

Although we are still getting our feet wet in the United States in the public use of phone cards, this techno-revolution of the late 20th Century actually began in Europe in the mid-70s.

The primary resource for obtaining phone cards was the telephone card companies themselves, but as card collecting grew internationally, they became available from private collectors and a few phone card dealers.

Many of the international collectors historically have been converted stamp and/or coin collectors. The anticipated courtship of stamps and phone cards was inevitable. There are many similarities between the two collectibles, and given this linking of telegery (collecting of phone cards) and philately (stamp collecting), it makes sense to ease the transition by showing how the two hobbies blend.

Even those turned off by the thought of collecting phone cards might be interested in seeing how stamps have suddenly appeared on the front-side canvases of the newest collectible.

Several countries have featured stamps on phone cards, but the leaders far and away are the U.S. and Germany. We'll concentrate on cards from these two countries, with a few additional examples thrown in from the Isle of Man, Singapore and Spain.

Among the most active American issuers of philatelic-related phone cards is GTS, which pulled off an early licensing agreement with the United States Postal Service (USPS).

One of the first and probably the best-known U.S. stamp card was GTS' Aids Awareness Stamp, which was issued in December 1993. Five thousand of the 17-unit cards were issued, along with an addition 5,000 cards with first-day covers.

Actually, the very first stamp phone card issued by GTS pictured the Chinese Year of the Dog 29-cent stamp, which was released during November 1993. Only 3,000 of these cards were produced.

Another set of USPS images from the New York-based GTS followed during early 1994, including 29-cent stamps of a Love Basket; Love Red Rose Heart; Buffalo Soldiers; Basketball Centennial; and four Smithsonian stamps.

Famous silent screen stars were featured on 10 uncanceled stamps from GTS in May 1994 – the Keystone Cops, Buster Keaton, Rudolph Valentino, Lon Chaney, Clara Bow, Charles Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Zasu Pitts, Theda Bara, and John Gilbert.

Among other American phone cards featuring philatelic themes were ACMI's unique series of PhilaTELECARDS, which included actual GTS, (above) Basketball Centennial, 16 units, 1,000 issued, February 1994; (right) Chinese Year of the Dog, 16 units, 3,000 issued, November 1993.

AmeriVox, historic telephone stamps, $5 denomination, 1,000 issued of each, March 1995.

Manx Telecom, Isle of Man: stamps, 10/20/10 units.

Bundespost, Germany: 200th anniversary of the Brandenburg Gate (above) and the 1992 Barcelona Olympics (below).

stamps embedded within the card; Prepaid's (PTI) popular Duck Stamp series; AmeriVox's historic telephone stamp cards and American Philatelic Society card; and American National Telephone's jumbo 60th Anniversary Duck Stamp card.

German stamps on PTT telecard canvases feature images acknowledging or celebrating such topics as the Berlin Wall, the Brandenburg Gate, the 1992 Barcelona Olympics, the 200th anniversary of the Brandenburg Gate, the 1,250th year anniversary of the city of Erfurt, the 10th International Young People's Stamp Exhibition, the 200th year anniversary of Koblenz, as well as others.

Three of the above samples show cancellation marks with the stamp. One additional card has as its front-side focus only – a postal cancellation mark.

Of the remaining seven cards, three Manx phone cards show uncanceled stamps from the Isle of Man – "A Way We Have In The Isle Of Man," "Douglas – Waiting For The Male Boat," and "The Isle Of Man Express Going Up A Gradient."

A card from Singapore shows three canceled and 14 uncanceled stamps from Malaysia and Singapore. There are three phone cards from Spain featuring a total of 12 stamps, ranging from the 1992 Barcelona Olympics to sovereign profiles, a butterfly, the World Cup, Picasso, and abstract art.

These, of course, are only a sampling of the interesting subjects philatelists can find on phone cards. The fact that stamps continue to be popular subjects of telecards, only supports the synergism between the two hobbies. How long will it take for philatelists to return the favor and recognize phone card collecting with the first phone card on a stamp?

UP ON CRIPPLE CREEK

BRASS ASS CASINO CARD A FIRST This is a story about a town with a rich history, a casino named after some of the area's first "workers," and a phone card commemorating all of the above.

The story begins in 1890, when gold was discovered in the granite canyons of Cripple Creek, Colo. More gold would be found in this mountain district than in the California and Alaskan rushes combined.

At its peak, there were 582 operating gold mines here. In the first year alone, the mines produced more than $2 million, when gold was selling at just $17 an ounce.

The little town expanded to 55,000 people in less than 10 years. There were 15 different newspapers, 72 lawyers, 90 doctors, 49 grocery stores, and 11 different dairies, and the town even had its own stock exchange.

To this day, Cripple Creek is known as "the world's greatest gold camp." The town came within two votes of becoming the Colorado state capitol.

Tragedy struck hard in the spring of 1896, however. A fire broke out in one of the red-light district's dance halls, and by dusk the town had been virtually leveled. Thirty new brick foundries quickly sprang up after the tragedy, and by the fall 1896, a new metropolis bustled in the shadow of Pikes Peak.

During this growth period, Cripple Creek recorded several firsts; the first street car, the first traffic light and the first fully lit business sign.

One of the new brick buildings was also a first. It housed the first May Co. store in America. This building, still located at 264-266 Bennett Avenue, boasted the first elevator west of Chicago. It was fully electrified, which, ironically, is another first in Cripple Creek's illustrious history — the first city to use electricity as its exclusive source of power.

The boom was curtailed with the advent of World War I. Most of the miners were called to the military. The concentration on the war effort left gold mining in the shadows. And because many of the soldiers found new interests in European cities, Cripple Creek never fully recovered after the war.

The May company followed suit, and in 1922 it closed its doors. The population of Cripple Creek dwindled to less than 500. The May building remained vacant for many years

In 1968, Denver entrepreneur George L. King bought the building and all of its contents for $3,000. During reconstruction, the contents of the building, which included many beautiful antiques, were sold for more than $100,000. A retail business was started in 1970 and flourished for a number of years.

The business changed its name to the "Brass Ass of Cripple Creek," in tribute to the donkey herds that still roam the streets of the city. Some believe that these animals are the direct descendants of the original beasts of burden that pulled the ore carts in and out of the 1,100 miles of tunnels that lie beneath the famous gold camp.

While painting the word "Ass" on the storefront sign, the chief of police arrived with a summons ordering the painter to stop. The owner was ordered to appear in court.

As his defense, King used the Bible, where, he pointed out, the word "ass" appears 23 times, while the word "donkey" does not appear once. The charges were dismissed and the "Brass Ass" now stands as one of the local landmarks.

When the gaming initiative to allow limited stake gambling was passed in October 1991 by Colorado voters, Cripple Creek was one of three towns selected to host casinos. The "Brass Ass Casino" was first to apply for the license, and was also one of the first to be issued one.

To commemorate Cripple Creek and the heritage there, USACard issued the "Brass Ass Casino" phone card during spring 1995. Limited to just 1,000 cards, the card bearing the famous "Brass Ass" logo is still another first for Cripple Creek — the first phone card issued to celebrate a Colorado casino. The card is available from the Brass Ass Casino in Cripple Creek, Colo., or from USACard: (303) 777-3034.

INDUSTRY STANDARDS

PCA LAUNCHES STANDARDS & LOGO During late June, the Prepaid Communications

Association, a group of telecommunications companies, unveiled its new seal of approval.

The PCA's focus is on the carrier/industry side of the business. The phone card seal will be the visible assurance to the card user that the issuer complies with the following criteria:

- Operator and customer service standards, including 7-day/24-hour customer service support.
- Disclosure to the consumer of rates prior to purchase, billing only for the actual talking time, and clearly stated expiry dates.
- Call capacity at least equal to 99 percent completion at busy hour.
- Redundant switching components.
- Two-hour maximum response time to system alarms; written and tested recovery plans.
- Compliance with all regulatory and tax requirements.

There has been no word yet as to which issuer will be the first to use the new logo and when.

USTA FOCUSES ON CONSUMER PROTECTION When "Moneycard Collector" was first published, it was a milestone in the prepaid phone card industry. This past spring, another industry milestone was reached when the USTelecard Association was formally incorporated, began to recruit members and to undertake an aggressive business agenda, including a standards program.

The primary goal of the proposed USTA standards program is achieving consumer protection by establishing industry-wide standards for prepaid phone cards. However, if standards keep someone out of the business, is that fair? There are, of course, laws against restrictions on competition, but such restrictions or limitations on firms in an industry are allowable when the interests of the consumer are protected.

The standards will likely include technical regulations for phone companies providing the basic service to consumers. The Standards Committee will also consider financial standards, which would help insure consumers against loss.

They will also consider consumer disclosure standards — how the customer is informed of the services provided: Is there an expiration date? Is the card's cost clear, be it in cents-per-minute, etc. Is the issuer's name clear and is other information provided which will minimize consumer confusion or misrepresentation?

One of the most effective ways of ensuring that the best possible standards will be adopted, as well as insuring USTA against criticism and future liability, is to make certain that all opinions are considered. USTA welcomes input from any interested person and will provide copies of all proposals to any interested person, and distribute his or her comments to all committee members.

The association will review the standards on a regular basis, in order to keep pace with changing products and technology.

USTelecard Association members are excited and optimistic about the prospects for this project. It is already clear that men and women in all facets of the prepaid phone card industry — collectors, dealers, issuers, carriers, printers, and others directly and materially affected — working together in the association, can help solve problems, prevent others, and lead the telecard industry into the next century.

Howard Segermark, Exec. Dir., USTA

Readers are invited to call USTA to obtain more information on the standards, the association and its programs. Call 202-544-4448 or write to USTA, 904 Massachusetts Ave., N.E., Washington, D.C. 20002.

CORPORATE CORNER

TeleWorld International of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., has produced a card for Loctite, an adhesive or glue used to hold bolts in place permanently. Loctite Corp., famous for its Super Glue adhesive, is using the cards as an incentive to reward sales associates for superior performance. The cards are also being given to some of their more valued customers as well. Teleworld produced 100 cards with 60 minutes of time and 2,000 cards with 20 minutes of time.

The James River Corp., producers of Brawny paper towels and other paper goods, recently sponsored a promotion in the Sunday coupon section of the local newspaper. With the purchase of Northern bathroom tissue, Brawny paper towels and Dixie paper plates, customers could send for a very nice 10-minute phone card.

Recently, while shopping for groceries, my friend's nine-year old son went searching for some apple sauce. As we approached the appropriate shelf deciding which one to buy, when he suddenly shouted, "Look, here's one with a phone card."

Sure enough, Motts is offering a 10-minute Nickelodeon card. Here's the deal: send in four proofs of purchase and $.75, along with a completed form. The form is only available as part of a six-pack of the lunch-box size apple sauce, but you may substitute proofs of purchase from jars, if you prefer. No cash register receipt is required and the promotion runs through 1/31/96.

Kmart and Fuji Film are at it again. After a successful promotion earlier this year, the two organizations decided to team up again. This time the theme is the Fourth of July. Kmart's multi-packs of three rolls of Fuji film include one of three different four-minute phone cards inserted inside. Each of the three cards depict a Fourth of July fireworks theme with the time provided by GTI.

Due to an over-supply of film, the two companies decided to extend the promotion and create three additional cards — each with a back-to-school theme. All six of the Kmart/Fuji cards are individually shrink-wrapped.

The San Francisco Chronicle is offering a choice of three 10-minute phone cards, when an eight-week newspaper subscription is ordered. The three cards picture famous San Francisco landmarks — Lombard Street, Coit Tower, and a cable car. The $26 subscriptions can be ordered over the phone by calling (800)659-4555.

Finally, if you're hungry and in the mood to talk, you might want to visit a Denny's restaurant in Anaheim or Orange County, Calif. Two Denny's restaurants are offering the 10-minute LDDS calling cards. The cards are also good for a 10 percent discount off selected menu items.

Brawny Paper Towels, 10 minutes of phone time, quantity unavailable, April 1995.

TeleWorld, Loctite, 20 minutes/ 2,000 issued; 60 minutes/ 100 issued, April 1995.

GTI, Kmart/Fuji Film, July 4th fireworks, four minutes, June 1995.

GTI, Kmart/Fuji Film, Back-to-School, four minutes, June 1995.

LDDS, Denny's Restaurant, 10 minutes, May 1995.

THE INTERFACE OF CYBER ART WITH CELLULAR PHONES The focus of my column this month is a set of six phone cards issued by AmeriVox and bearing images by computer artist Rodney Chang. This series is quite unlike most other phone card sets in one very important respect. Instead of photographing artwork created in a traditional medium - like oil painting - and reproducing it on phone cards, the set is in effect treated as a limited edition of fine art prints.

The artist composed his images on the computer, but the "output" is printed on plastic, rather than paper. Chang also worked directly with the printer to ensure the quality and accuracy of the final images. Finally, he hand-signed and numbered each card.

The cards thus function as original art, and to emphasize this point, Chang has painted his images in oil on canvas after they were printed on the phone cards. As a result, the painting is actually a reproduction of the original phone card!

Each card in the set is numbered and titled, as follows: #1 - "Interface," #2 - "Oakridge," #3 - Festival," #4 - "Aurora," #5 - "Life Force," and #6 - "Pharaoh." The images are printed on a black background, with the AmeriVox logo above, and the artist's name and signature below. The titles are indicated on the backs of the cards.

Although it is difficult to tell by just looking at the images what kind of computer software was used to generate them, I would guess just by the variety of images that Chang may have used more than one program.

For example, the strong sense of volume and movement in some examples suggests to me that they were produced in a 3-D animation program such as Alias' Studio, from which single "frames" were captured for printing. But other examples suggest the effects achieved in color editing and graphic design programs such as Adobe Photoshop or Illustrator.

The series illustrates both the strengths and weaknesses of computer-generated imagery, especially when produced in a small format like phone cards. In some of the images, we see immediately an appealing fluidity of the shapes and colors; in others, there is an unfortunate confusion of form that results when details, which no doubt were visible on the computer screen, get lost in the transfer to a smaller format.

A case in point is "Festival," the third in the series. The kaleidoscope of shapes and colors appears somewhat messy in the phone card format. Yet when magnified, these same shapes and colors become comprehensible as the swirl of banners, masks, and costumes of a Chinese New-Year's celebration.

There is a definite progression of sophistication and success in the images coinciding with their number in the series, from "Interface" to "Pharaoh." The forms of "Interface," for example, are pixellated - that is, their edges are slightly ragged due to the fact that, in digital images, lines are formed by juxtaposing tiny pixels or squares, so that curves or diagonals are actually composed of hundreds of little "steps." The appearance is somewhat primitive, the effect of low resolution.

I would likewise characterize the colors of "Interface" as somewhat garish - chartreuse, hot pink, orange, and yellow. Although the image has, to be sure, a certain funky charm, it comes nowhere near to showing off the full potential of the computer art medium.

The last two of the series, "Life Force" and "Pharaoh," respectively, demonstrate far better the extraordinary richness and subtlety of computer imagery. In "Life Force," we seem to peer into the center of a vortex made of a thick liquid substance, which reflects a spectrum of colors.

The basic ovoid shape suggests an egg, the source of life; yet the textures, which remind me of molten glass before it has cooled and hardened, lend an elegance that one usually does not associate with the primordial state.

"Pharaoh" is by far the most successful of the series. Here the artist has managed to fully exploit the effects of three-dimensionality and animation that current software applications make possible.

The colors here are more subtle - the blues and yellow-browns of lapis and antique gold treasures found in the tombs of Egypt's ancient rulers. Swelling forms seem to move across the surface of the image like waves, creating the illusion of volume and movement.

I would love to see this piece printed on one of the advanced dye-sublimation color printers available today, which can output computer-generated images up to 36 inches wide! The results would be stunning.

In spite of the fact that the images lose something when presented in the small phone card format, there is something to be said for this attempt to make a new art form available on a utilitarian object. Since computer art already appears in non-traditional settings - notably in "virtual" exhibition and galleries on the World Wide Web - there is no reason why it can't take the form of "original" phone card art.

Computers are working a revolution in the arts, as in other areas of contemporary society, and the old paradigms of the art world - the segregation of high art from popular culture, or the schism between art and technology - no longer apply.

One outcome of this revolution is that we can now carry fine art in our wallets!

ARCHES GONE IN 55 MINUTES Phone Cards

Hawaii's premiere phone card edition for the McDonald's of Ala Moana went faster than hotcakes on a Saturday morning.

Without the benefit of a major advertising campaign, the limited edition phone cards were offered for sale on July 1 to customers purchasing Extra Value Meals at the restaurant. Collectors – many of them phone card and sports card dealers – were waiting at the restaurant as early as 4:30 a.m. for the sale of the 1,000 serial-numbered cards.

The sale began promptly at 10:30 a.m., and the last card went exactly 55 minutes later. The primary goal of the promotion was for the restaurant to increase sales of food products through the sale of a popular collectible.

During the same promotion, a special phone card was handed out to the staff of the Ala Moana restaurant and other corporate employees to thank them for their hard work and dedication. The employee phone card employs the same image as the regular issue, but with different text on the back side. Only 250 of the employee cards were issued.

Network services were provided by ATCALL, Inc. For more information, call (703)522-5252.

THE RED DOG REAPPEARS The popular Red Dog Beer cards from OmniTel now number four. The Charlie Horse card was given away earlier at a Boston bar, with the card intended to arrange for a safe ride home. A five-minute card, only 2,000 were produced.

The second card was the Red Dog Fun 107 card, which was handed out at the station's Birthday Bash IV. Never marketed as retail, only 1,800 were issued.

The Irish Embassy card was used as a season pass for the famous Cape Cod Pub. The five-minute cards were also issued in limited quantities of just 2,000.

The most recent of the family shows a bit of Europe in the beautiful Irish ocean cliffs. OmniTel has remained with the two thousand mintage quantity of the five-minute cards. They retail for a reasonable $3.50. Call (800)505-NOVA or (617)484-1837.
