6 A Few of Our Favorites II

In this second of a two-part series, phonecard dealers and distributors share their views with readers on favorite cards of 1997 and of all time.

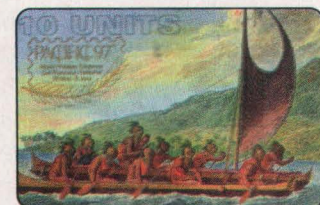

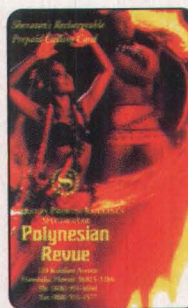

40 Banking On It

When pioneers were needed to help chip-based moneycards go from concept to reality in the U.S., Bank of America and First Union stepped forward.

46 Hawaiian Feast

There's more, much more, to the Hawaiian phonecard feast than GTE Hawaiian Tel. Here's a look at some of the island cards that have been issued.

CONTENTS

Catalog Card 9

Each buyer of the Moneycard Collector Catalog's first edition will receive a free, specially designed phonecard. Here's how it came about.

America's Most Wanted 10

Cards from the other side of the world join some familiar favorites among the most sought-after cards in the U.S.

Words on Numbers 12

Cataloger Kathy Utz points out some of the practices that spell the difference between confusion and comprehension in deciding who issued a phonecard.

Quik Takes 37

Destiny Telecomm International is on the move to Dallas, and Smartalk Teleservices has announced plans to buy ConQuest.

Catalog Update 38

Here's another peek at the Moneycard Collector Catalog, as we show readers the listings for Globalcom 2000.

Making History 44

The Landis & Gyr IntelExpo '85 is regarded as the first public U.S. phonecard, but a French company was testing cards here in the fall of 1984.

ON THE MONEY

Although it is still summer as I write this, the demands of deadlines and production time means that this column will appear in the October edition of Moneycard Collector. And if it's October, that means that the holiday shopping season is once again yapping at our heels. What better way to solve your gift-buying problems than picking up a copy of the Moneycard Collector Catalog for that special someone – or for yourself? It's big and purple and will warm the hearts of any prepaid card collector through the winter months and far beyond.

If you need another look at the catalog to help you make up your mind, please turn to Pages 37 and 38, where we have shown the listings for one of the early sought-after issuers, Globalcom 2000. If that leaves you undecided, please check out the story on Page 9 that details the Cable & Wireless phonecard that accompanies each of the first-edition catalogs. The prospect of a free card and a catalog with thousands of card images and listings should have visions of sugar plums and moneycards dancing in every collector's head this Yule season.

As the Moneycard staff sifts through mountains of card information for the catalog, it makes us even more sensitive to the fact that the hobby is still struggling with being card-heavy and collector-light. The downside is that such an atmosphere can create confusion over what cards are available and who produced them, a situation we hope the catalog will go a long way to remedy. The upside is that now, as perhaps no other time in the past or future, any moneycard collector should be able to find something he or she wants to collect. Hobby enthusiasts should remember that phonecards are not the only kind of collectible moneycards – some of the recent images on prepaid cash and gasoline cards are among the nicest we have seen. Be sure to look at this month's "New Issues" section for some examples.

In addition to the catalog information, readers will notice the second part of "A Few of Our Favorite Things" in this month's edition, as we continue to look at dealers' favorite cards of 1997 and of all time.

Also this month, Readers might notice the absence of the "Tapping the Networks" column. The column is on hiatus due to a lack of fresh news from network marketing companies and will resume as more news of those card issuers becomes available. That isn't to say, however, that we will ignore what news we get from such companies. The "New Issues" and "Quik Takes" sections are two places where network-marketing related items can be found. Information on ongoing changes at Destiny Telecomm International and some of the questions that surround the company are mentioned in this month's "Quik Takes."

Network marketing companies, by their sheer size and number of representatives, are big players in the prepaid phonecard industry, but they also tend to be volatile companies, suffering roller-coaster rides caused by factors such as legal scrutiny or the departure of top money-earners. While we would not seek to dismiss grave questions such as card operability or overdue commission checks – matters that Destiny claims are being resolved – we also urge collectors to remember that there are many MLM-issued telecards that are desirable. Whether a network marketing company survives its tough periods or blinks from existence, the cards remain, and many of them remain collectible.

The existence of companies like Destiny, Strategic Telecom Systems and AmeriVox not only has brought important prepaid collectibles to the U.S. market, but, through the exposure of tens of thousands of independent representatives to prepaid phonecards, has helped swell the ranks of collectors as well. We hope that such issuers, fueled by the creativity and enthusiasm of their members and constantly committed to dependable products, will continue to be a source of both exciting new cards and excited new collectors.

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

PowerTEL sets the record straight

The Board of Directors of PowerTEL Communications Inc. asked me to write Moneycard Collector regarding some concerns about August's "Oh Canada" column.

The article was full of mis-truths and misquoted information and was not reflective of the high quality work for which PowerTEL is known. The following information is correct:

1. PowerTEL did issue cards for Freedom Telecom Network simultaneously with Telesonic Communications Inc., and these cards were activated upon payment. PowerTEL was paid fully for all activated cards. Concerns from PowerTEL surround the issue of inactive cards being sold to FTN network marketing members. FTN cards are still active on the PowerTEL switch and expire in December 1997.

2. PowerTEL did not issue the Memorial Cup cards. The card clearly indicated that PowerTEL was the network provider. The issuer of the cards was an Eastern Canadian marketing company. The errors on the cards were minimal and the quantity was misquoted, as 10,000 cards were issued.

Keith Young, Vice President Sales & Marketing, PowerTEL

Columnist Rosemary Warren stated in her column that details were not available about the PowerTEL/FTN cards, and we appreciate having the complete information. In the case of the Memorial Cup cards, it is common practice for service providers to be listed as card issuers, especially if the client is not a telco – the cards in question are catalogued as private issues of PowerTEL. Again, thanks for setting the record straight.

Bridging the gap between hobbies

Enclosed are excerpts from a letter I sent to The Numismatist magazine:

'In the July issue, you listed a nice selection of numismatic speciality clubs. However, you seem to have omitted one of the newest segments of money-related collectibles; moneycard and phonecard collecting. These new forms of money are just as revolutionary as checks or credit cards were when they first came out.

Frankly, I hope our money system doesn't go completely electronic, but you can bet that this moneycard system will be around for awhile.

Most issuers design the cards with collectors in mind. The theme that I collect is cards with pictures of old coins or banknotes, and I have more than 100 different such cards. Some, like the first edition $3 Princess Indian gold coin card, issued by the ANA, was limited to 500, and demand was so great that a second edition of 1,500 was added. Imagine a collectible of only 500 available and you can see that demand easily can outpace supply. Most coin shows and/or collectible shows issue a phonecard just for that show, and they usually are limited to 500 to 1,500 cards.

For more information about this money-related segment of numismatics, check out the following: Moneycard Collector magazine on your newstands or call (800) 448-3611 or (937)498-0879; <<http://www.moneycard.com>>; CompuServe 75757,3435.'

NEWS UPDATE!

FINISH LINE FOLDS

In mid-July, Finish Line Racing filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy. Under Chapter 7 filings, companies are dissolved and no attempts are made to reorganize them.

The company had been purchased by Global Telemedia of Alpharetta, Ga., in January, but operations had continued under the management of the previous owner, West Sports Marketing of Ponte Vedra, Fla.

A GTMI spokesperson who asked not to be identified said the company was very disappointed with what had occurred but that, in light of market conditions, further investment in the subsidiary company did not appear advisable. "The major telco's like AT&T, MCI and Sprint have had an increasingly stronger presence in the pre-paid market and at the same time, they've been lowering their rates, and this is what forced the decision," the spokesperson said.

Despite the bankruptcy filing, unexpired Finish Line phonecards tested by Moneycard Collector still worked as of mid-August. There was no indication on how much longer this will continue.

A spokesperson for West Sports Marketing also expressed regret that GTMI had decided to fold the company, "but neither the revenues from sales nor further investment by GTMI were adequate to sustain the operation," he said.

West Sports Marketing has since severed its relationship with GTMI and continues operations that are focused on its Sports Cash chip-based stored-value cards. The company already has sold programs to major professional golf tournaments and further announcements regarding these activities are expected shortly.

A Few of Our Favorite Things

Dealers certainly have strongly held opinions on their favorite recent cards and their all-time favorite issues. We posed those questions to mark Moneycard Collector's third anniversary in September, asking moneycard dealers to list for us their five favorite cards of 1997 (some fudged on this request, and included 1996 cards, or squeezed in more than five), as well as their five favorite cards of all time.

Last month, we heard from dealers Steve Eyer, Bruce Harmon, Stephen L. Schwartz, Jack B. Ritchie Jr., and Gil Barry. This month, respondents include FA Marketing, B&B Fone Cards, Phone Card Connection, TW Phonecards and USACard.

Cards picked last month ranged from historical AT&T, Ameritech and Landis & Gyr images to promotional cards such as the 1995 Sprint Gillette NCAA series and some of the freshest collectibles of 1997. McDonald's, Disney and Coca-Cola were well represented last month, as were other animated characters such as the Pink Panther and Loony Toons. Those kinds of images get the nod again this month, plus much more. When all the responses were counted USACard led the way — the Colorado-based company's cards were picked 22 times for either the "Favorites of 1997" or the "All-time Favorites" list, with the raves split between the Pink Panther Easter Egg diecuts and the Cracker Jack cards.

Since the responses were so well thought out, we didn't want to squeeze them into one edition. Here, then, is another round of dealers' favorite cards and their comments.

BUZ & BETTY HOUGHTALING, B&B Fone Cards, Alta Loma, Calif.

FAVORITES of 1997

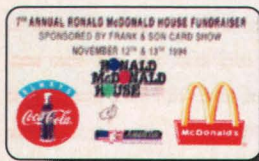

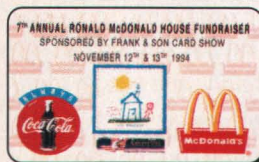

1. USACard; Pink Panther Easter Eggs. The regular and jumbo series from USACard are a great concept and another winner from Klaus Degler and the USACard team.

2. USACard; Cracker Jack Butter Toffee. Another regular and jumbo also from USACard. Other issuers need to become more imaginative in their concepts and editions as well and produce cards with no expiration dates.

3. Event Masters/New Zealand Telecom; Mickey & Donald "Stars of the Silver Screen, Part 1." There were 1,000 issued, with folders. They sold out in one day at the issue price and already have doubled in price in two months. This is one of the most-wanted Event Masters sets in the world. With Event Masters returning to 1,000-card mintages, we predict each new edition will sell out.

4. USACard; Marilyn/Long Beach Show. Another great presentation from USACard. No, we don't work for them, but we do like their marketing plans, concepts and ideas that make their phonecards true collectible items.

5. First Plus; Super Bowl XXXI Alumni Dinner Card. The majority of these cards (1,500 issued, only 100 for retail sale) were given out to attendees who paid $1,000 a plate to attend the dinner. Not much press on this issue, as most cards simply were put into their "goodie bags," but it is assured to become a sought-after card.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. Event Masters/New Zealand Telecom; Mickey

Part I. "The Early Years" edition of 1,000 depicts Mickey's first cartoons and will always be one of our favorites. We introduced this series to preferred customers at $150 a set in 1994, predicting that due to its rarity and worldwide appeal it would be a tremendous investment. Today it is priced at $700 or more.

2. Coca-Cola/McDonald's 17th National Sports Collectors series. We did this set in conjunction with The Score Board in 1996. The images on the $2 series and the $25 series are among the most sought-after in the world. Done in silver and gold, it is the rarest of the three series done to date. Retail prices have continued to climb and we believe this series has become the Coca-Cola/McDonald's set that will set the trend for future editions.

3. Frank & Sons Ronald McDonald House Series I. We were the first dealer selling this set of four, 500 sets issued. We put the set on our preferred price list, introduced it to Europe and Asia, and probably sold more than 60 percent of the distribution. Initially it was $60; now it sells for more than $400.

4. Early issues. (AT&T - Illicall, Statue of Liberty, '92 Convention; AmeriVox - Wind Beneath Your Wings, Eagle, Hologram; Brilliant - Telecard Man, Lucy Dinner Card; GTE Hawaii - Ilikai, Hawaiian Open.) All early issues have their own special place in the hearts of dealers who have seen the industry grow.

5. Pacific Bell; 1994 Holiday Series. The first issue series of 12 cards in $5, $10 and $20 denominations probably are the rarest of any Bell sets issued in the United States. We doubt that more than 50 total sets exist, as few $20 cards were issued. We still feel the series is underpriced and offers investment growth.

FRANK ATAW, FA Marketing, Toronto, Ontario

FAVORITES of 1997

- 1. AT&T Nabisco Oreo Die-cut. This is a delicious night-time snack with milk.
- 2. Bell Canada Hong Kong two-card set. This set commemorates Hong Kong's return to China.
- 3. AT&T Canada/E Force; World's Fastest Man. This set shows the dynamic intensity of the competitors, and the carriers feature quotations from runners Donovan Bailey and Michael Johnson.
- 4. TotalTel; The Gretzkys-Cigar Aficianado. I like this one because I am a fan of Wayne Gretzky, The Great One.
- 5. USACard; Pink Panther Easter Eggs. The Panther bunny-hopping in a basket. It's so funny!

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

- 1. AT&T (Telenova); Dennis the Menace Dairy Queen. "Menace"-ing laughter, flavored with ice cream, evokes cherished childhood memories.

- 2. AT&T; Disney's 101 Dalmatians five-card set. Who could resist those adorable pups?
- 3. AT&T (Winston-Taylor); Peanuts 45th Anniversary Jumbo. The whole gang is featured in jubilant brilliant colors - my favorite cartoons.
- 4. Bell Canada; CardEx '95. I like the red tulips and two loveable, huggable polar bears in a romantic embrace.
- 5. Sprint; Hallmark Barbie. She's a perennial, gorgeous sweetheart of a doll, and so is the card.

LENNY RAPP, Phone Card Connection, Lauderdale, Fla.

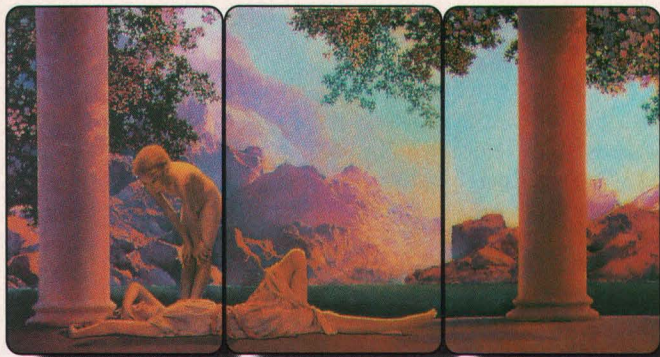

When selecting favorite cards, a certain amount of emotion comes into play, and the choices are sometimes going to be based on intangibles other than the overall popularity of the card. Topic, picture, carrier, etc. all come into play, but the following represents the cards that caused a certain amount of excitement within me or my customers. Also, with so many to choose from, second guessing always will be there and the possibility of forgetting about certain cards is a given.

FAVORITES of 1997

The Pink Panther cards probably were the most collected and traded cards of the year, as dealers and collectors were swapping furiously with each other trying to get all three colors. The others represent a variety of themes and attractive artwork.

- 1. USACard; 3 Card Pink Panther Eggs. There was a lot of excitement involved in chasing these cards down and getting all three colors. Collectors and dealers were excited, and that's what the hobby is supposed to be all about.
- 2. Caulistics - Lenticular Card. This is a beautiful example of art and technology, and was showcased at a recent phone card show.
- 3. Tell-One - Bugs Bunny Stamp Card. A cross-over collectible, this card was popular among phonecard and stamp collectors as well as post office personnel.

4. Grapevine - Max Parrish Set. A stunning set of Max Parrish artwork, this is one of the best examples of card reproduction and packaging.

5. C&W - Hong Kong Telecom (Telenova) Panda. An extremely low mintage with the Cable & Wireless and Hong Kong Telecom logos, this card was highly sought after by both domestic and foreign collectors.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

These offered different topics and also crossed the line of phone card collectors in that the Betty Boop and Apollo cards were collected by non-phonocard people. I also very much liked the Apollo 13 card as I was enamored with the movie.

1. AT&T: Race for the Presidency. The Presidency holds a fascination among many, and these cards offered the ability to call key politicians, an early use of multi-function phonecards.

2. B&J - Transparent 1995 NY Show card. This is one of my most popular cards, a transparent view of a NY scene. There have been other see through cards since then, but this one still gets the most comments.

3. Deltacom; Icebreakers. With a prism effect on both sides, this was an exciting card to show people, who liked it for its originality and appearance.

4. American National Phone Card; Betty Boop Cities Tour. An exciting series of five different jumbo cards starring Betty Boop, this series took about a year to complete, and collectors looked forward to each new card.

5. Cable & Wireless; Apollo 13. Space related cards are one of the most popular areas of phonocard collecting, and this card with the "Houston, we have a problem" comment led the way.

TERRY F. WINDHOLZ,
TW Phonocards, Augusta, Kansas

To pick five favorite cards of 1997, let alone of all time, is not an easy task. The reason for my choices is simple: Because I find these phonecards aesthetically appealing. There is no wrong way to collect in this wonderful hobby. I follow my own advice – collect what you like.

FAVORITES of 1997

1. AT&T; Disney's 101 Dalmatians 35th anniversary.
2. AT&T; Disney 's 101 Dalmatians' 5-card set.
3. USACard; Pink Panther Easter diecuts.
4. USACard; Cracker Jack Collectors Association at Columbus 1997.
5. TotalTel; Cigar Aficionado-The Gretzkys.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. ACMI/JAG; Christmas Wooden Jigsaw Puzzle.
2. Bell America; Mickey Mouse.
3. Cable & Wireless; Disney Aristocats.
4. CDG; Crayola Crayon.
5. DeltaCom; Icebreakers Gum.

PAUL PEEDERS, USACard Corp., Denver, Colo.

(For USACard, we probably should have ruled out their own issues! - Ed.)

FAVORITES of 1997

1. USACard; Pink Panther Easter Egg Set of 3.
2. TotalTel; Demi Moore Cigar Aficionado.
3. USACard; Butter Toffee Cracker Jack.
4. USACard; June '97 Long Beach Expo.
5. USACard; Cracker Jack Jumbo Card.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. USACard; Cracker Jack No. 1.
2. USACard; Pink Panther Easter Egg.
3. Ameritech; Snowflake CoinSaver Set.
4. AT&T; ET TeleTicket.
5. NYNEX; Democratic National Convention $1 and $5.25 cards.

CATALOG CARD

The prepaid phonecard which will accompany each of the new Moneycard Collector catalogs bears the phrase "Where all the pieces come together ..." Not only was this our broad objective in creating the catalog, but it was also the objective in creating this very special phonecard.

Credit for the design goes to Moneycard Collector Art Director Teresa Wenrick. For Teresa, designing a phonecard is a task she really enjoys.

"I first got a taste for designing cards when we launched Moneycard Collector and we had a '57 Chevy against the Detroit skyline. Ever since then I've been hooked," she says. "When you set out to do a design you need to keep in mind what message you want to get across and at the same time make the design really eye-catching. When it came to this card I did several rough concepts for the entire Moneycard staff to look at and we narrowed it down to the one we chose. I think it gets across the right message in a very clear manner."

Putting the pieces together was very much the thought behind the second important aspect of this card, the Interactive Voice Response (IVR) survey. The card will ask respondents to answer four questions and afterward reward the caller with 10 minutes of free domestic long distance phone time provided by Cable & Wireless. Due to technical constraints, only our readers in the U.S. will be able to take part in this telephone-based survey.

The questions are:

- 1) Describe your overall level of satisfaction with catalog.
- 2) Were most of the cards in your collection represented in the catalog?
- 3) Do you find the catalog easy to use?
- 4) What is the most important criteria in choosing a card for your collection?

Officials at Cable & Wireless believe that the Moneycard survey is an ideal application of the technology. In C&W's opinion, IVR surveys are ideal tools for getting a quick and accurate read on a given subject. This is especially true whenever the client takes the extra step of rewarding the respondent with phone time; results, they say, are just that much better. Furthermore, the greater the number of minutes you can offer the respondents the higher response rate you can generate.

However, there are many other variables in this sort of activity. Response rates are also affected by the subject matter, how many cards are distributed and the manner in which they are distributed. C&W says, for example, that its clients can do especially well in situations where there is a captive audience such as a trade show or conference. In this kind of venue respondents can win a prize by participating in a survey before they return home.

C&W notes that an IVR survey compares well with other, more conventional methods such as direct mail. Overall response rates of about 60 percent can be achieved, the process is much faster and it costs much less to tabulate results.

Good IVR surveys typically have a limited number of questions. Very often the longer the survey, the less participation there might be or the less accurate the results might be. C&W also points out that because people will be using just their telephone keypad to express their answer the questions need to be simple, short and offer very clear choices.

So, when you get delivery of your catalog, take a few minutes to use the phonecard and take part in the survey. You'll be using some nifty technology, letting us know what you think and getting some free long distance - a good deal for all the parties involved.

Cable & Wireless; Moneycard Collector Catalog; 10 minutes; 3,000 issued; September 1997.

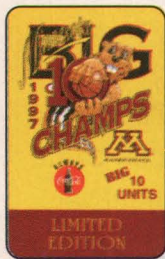

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

Who's gone missing? Familiar and fast-food thematics — McDonald's, KFC and Burger King — are not present in this month's "America's Most Wanted." That gives us room this month to describe some other delightful cards.

It is also interesting that very few of the cards that are offered solely as give-aways with products are represented. That might be because cards that were 100 percent distributed to the public are too hard to gather to be commercially viable for a dealer.

MICKEY AND DONALD. New Zealand Telecom/Event Masters; 10NZ$; 1,800 issued. Disney collectors can choose to save money or splurge and get the spectacular folder that this set comes in. The cards are identical in either case. The advantage of the folder version is a limited number of sets and a guaranteed buy-back. The downside: About $60 difference in the price — $82 versus $22.

MINNESOTA GOLDEN GOPHERS, BIG TEN BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS. Frontier Communications/MSD Collectibles; 5 Units, 5,000 issued, April 1997. These were a great hit in Minnesota, but in Illinois and elsewhere in the Big Ten, many might have been damaged in dartboard games. Is a card still mint with 20 small holes through it, and "Wait 'Til Next Year" scrawled on the face?

INTERNATIONAL TELECARD ASSOCIATION BANQUET SET. Ten cards (out of 12) from the Chicago dinner. Congratulations to the ITA telecard coordinator for bringing together 10 diverse companies to produce this set for the Dinner. Seven of the cards have the letters spelling "Chicago" on them and the others are just as spectacular. See Page 8, July's Moneycard Collector for a feature on these cards including the companies which participated.

CRACKER JACK BUTTER TOFFEE AND SAILOR JACK. USACard; 10 units; 1,893 issued, June 1997. Cracker Jack is well represented here. The little sailor boy graces this card which has an extra scratch-off on it for a chance at 12, or 15 units, both very scarce cards. Nicely done. The Cracker Jack Story 20 units 126 issued, also June 1997. A mini Jumbo which comes with a booklet about the company's history. An entirely different design although the release dates were the same. This one shows Sailor Jack and his dog Bingo. A low mintage, and sure to be very popular.

MILKY WAY LITE. Creative Communications; 15 Minutes, 8,000 issued. A featured card in Corporate Corner of July's Moneycard Collector. The Milky Way bar leaps out of the card. If you feel you can almost touch and taste it, the design must be good. These were handed out to distributors and store owners to promote the new bar.

FRIENDS OF MICKEY (PLUTO) SET OF 5. New Zealand Telecom/Event Masters. 5 x 5NZ$, 2,800 issued. Five views of Pluto, called Friends of Mickey, Set 2. Like, the Mickey and Donald set, the cards in their folder command much steeper prices. Loose cards were available at $27.50. Those same cards in the spectacular folder cost $134. The face is $17. Even at those prices, the previous sets have gone up in value! And I thought we were collecting telephone cards, not folders!

MARILYN LONG BEACH EXPO JUMBO USACard; $5 denomination; 1,000 issued, June 1997. The second "Marilyn" issue for the Long Beach Coin and Collectibles Convention. This one shows the traditional coin (thank goodness!), and a Marilyn lounging on the beach. Nice design which will take its place in most Marilyn collections.

In September's AMW, readers got another look at Tell-One's Burger King Toy Story card, which appeared in April's and May's column. What they should have seen was Tell-One's Burger King Lost World card which appears in this month's "Hot Cards" section, Page 17.

America's Most Wanted is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion, Ill. All dealers are encouraged to participate by faxing a list of their company's top sellers to (937) 498-0876 by the 16th of each month.

This month's America's Most Wanted is courtesy of: B&B Fone Cards & Promotions; Club International Marketing; F.A. Marketing; Global Telecard Company; Phone Card Connection; Phone Cards Plus; Powell Associates; TW Phonocards; United America; and USACard Corporation.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Price listings in the Moneycard Collector Price Guide are provided only as a guide and are based on price lists supplied by several dealers around the world and on other market information. Listings without prices will be completed as suitable market information becomes available.

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that - a guide.

WORDS ON NUMBERS

Who is the Issuer?

During the time I have been in Moneycard Collector that question is probably one of the most asked — usually by me. There were many discussions regarding issuer identification during the planning and creating of the catalog.

Sometime it's easy to determine the issuer of a card and sometimes it is, well, let's just say, less than easy. Let me tell you about a few cards that have come across my desk recently that raised questions about the issuer.

Sagebrush Classic. This is a five-minute card issued for a golf tournament. There are several sponsors' logos on the obverse. On the reverse, the card states network services are provided by TeleDebit. It also reads "Promotional phonecards by MB Telecom;" that company's logo is also included. If you came across this card who would you say was the issuer? Answer: None of the above. Grapevine Telecards issued this card in July 1997. In this case we were fortunate that Grapevine sent this card to us with a press release to inform us of its new issue. However, the collector who buys or trades for cards will not receive a press release with their card.

Another card was the 33rd Annual Bay State Coin Show card. The show name and location are on the obverse. On the reverse, the network services are provided by TeleDebit. At the bottom it states for promotional calling cards call Tell-One. Again, a bit of a surprise to the casual collector — the cards was issued by Carson City King. Like the last example, Carson City King submitted its new issue with press release information.

Here's one more example: The Red Hot Talk Time card. On the reverse it has the Cable & Wireless logo and name, but also reads Caliente Designs with its logo. This card was sent to us by Cable & Wireless, the time carrier. However, I noticed that I recently had received several cards with Caliente Designs logo on the obverse. Thus, we decided to establish Caliente Designs as a new issuer because they had an established body of work.

As I said above, some cards are easy to decide who's the issuer. That's because the issuer provides clear complete information. Good examples of this are USACard and U S WEST issues. If all issuers adopted similar practices for supplying on-card information, collectors would be less confused and more importantly for issuers, collectors would give credit where credit is due.

COLLECTIBLES and the PHONECARD INDUSTRY –

A dialogue on the trade association and issues affecting the collector

Q: Why should the industry's trade association, the International Telecard Association, which is supported by dues from issuers, carriers, suppliers and others, be interested in the collector community?

A: First of all, it is also supported by dues from collectibles dealers and collectors. But, in addition, businesspeople are not dummies:

1. Collectible phonecards are a real and significant part of overall demand for this product.
2. The hobby of collecting phonecards is in its infancy in North America.
3. Seeing all aspects of the phonecard industry prosper is good for everyone associated with phonecards.
4. Just as it hurts all associated with phonecards when consumers don't get the telecom services they paid for, collectible phonecards involved in scams hurt not only the victimized collector, but damage the reputation of collecting phonecards and thus may reduce overall demand for collectible cards. If ITA can promote good practices in the collector community, that helps everyone.

Q: Where are collectibles in the hierarchy of ITA's priorities?

A: There are four members of the Board of Directors whose responsibilities are to oversee collector-oriented programs and recommend others to the Board. The ITA Board's policy has been to devote more resources to these efforts than have been generated by dues from the collectibles segment of the Association membership.

Q: What have you done for collectors lately?

A: The ITA has a Consumer Hotline (800-333-3513) which handles problems with phonecards and questions about them. Our staff has distributed hundreds of our basic brochure on how to collect phone cards. In addition, ITA has a manual on how to start a collectors' club, and a brochure alerting collectors about possible problems in buying rare phonecards for economic return.

Q: What can I do if I join ITA as a collector?

A: Volunteer organizations need volunteers. Kathy Shapiro, Chair of the ITA Dealers and Collectors Committee, is always looking for help and leaders. Contact her (904-441-6910) or the ITA staff (800-958-7824) to volunteer to serve on the Committee.

Q: Where do I get more information?

A: Call ITA or visit our website: www.telecard.org

HOT CARDS

Welcome to Hot Cards. This list represents the most heavily sold and traded cards within the last month. Due to the size of the Price Guide, it is often very time-consuming for readers to make their way through the listings in a short amount of time. We created HOT CARDS to provide you trends information quickly, accurately and concisely.

THE STORED VALUE CARD STORY

A Long, Long Time Ago in a chip factory far away...the Stored Value Card (SVC) was invented. And so was delivered unto Mankind the ability to purchase items without using CASH! And, it grew into a multi-million dollar industry backed by the likes of Visa, MasterCard/Mondex, American Express, Danmont, etc. Even the Evil Lord Darth Vader couldn't stop its growth.

SVCs are chip based cards, loaded with actual cash value! Examples of everyday SVCs are transportation cards (subway and bus passes), laundromat cards (instead of carrying quarters), College IDs (purchase items in the bookstore, make phone calls, pay parking meters, buy food) and almost anything else you can think of. Visa Cash Cards are on trial around the World (USA, Canada, Europe, Asia, Australia and South America). They have the potential of replacing cash in small transactions.

Imagine being able to buy the first coin minted or the first stamp printed. This is what is available today in Stored Value Cards. The Cancun Conference Card is the first Visa Cash Card, the DANYL Purse card is the first commercial SVC available to the General Public in the US, the Jacksonville Jaguars Inaugural Cat Face Card is the first Professional Sports (NFL) SVC available to the General Public. These cards are still available and destined to increase in value over the years.

Start your collection today with an Introductory set of 10 different Worldwide SVCs for $39.95! Order Today!

3 Could Be Your LUCKY Number!

Moneycard Collector is celebrating its third anniversary by giving away three prizes, and all you have to do is answer three questions.

Easy as 1-2-3, right?

Here's what you might win.

Fax entries to (937) 498-0876; mail them to Tom Williams, Editor, Moneycard Collector, 911 Vandemark Road, Sidney, OH 45365; or e-mail them to tomw@amospress.com

Employees of Moneycard Collector, Amos Press Inc., their affiliates, subsidiaries, advertisers, printers and other coordinating agencies involved in this promotion and their immediate families are not eligible to participate.

Just answer these three questions about collecting foreign cards.

1. Where and how do you acquire foreign moneycards?

2. What countries' cards are you most interested in collecting?

3. How many foreign cards are in your collection?

Deadline for entries is Sept. 15, 1997. Only one entry per person, please.

DESTINY MOVES RAISE QUESTIONS. Destiny Telecomm International has moved most of its operations from Oakland, Calif., to Dallas and left a lot of questions in its wake. According to the Oakland Tribune, Destiny began reducing the number of Oakland employees after paying $1.6 million to settle a lawsuit in March (Moneycard Collector, May 1996). The newspaper reported that Destiny will partner with a nutrition products company in Dallas. In related news, Destiny apparently is no longer authorized to do business in North Carolina. A spokeswoman for the North Carolina Attorney General's Office said a U.S. District Court consent order was filed July 23, barring Destiny from conducting business there. No other details were available by press time.

Destiny representatives have complained that they have not received commission checks since April and the PINs on Destiny cards did not work. A spot check on Destiny cards in Moneycard Collector's possession showed that Destiny cards on other carriers' switches worked, while cards identified as being on Destiny switches continually rang busy.

In recorded conference calls accessible by dialing an Oakland number, Destiny's Randy Jeffers and Mark McKnight, identified as being in Dallas, say that problems with commission checks have been corrected and they are "fully confident" that Destiny is on track to mail commission checks on Aug. 15. Those recorded calls allude to arrests being made in Oakland and mention upcoming training sessions in Syracuse and Portland and a custom card training seminar in Louisiana. Jeffers and McKnight also mentioned using third-party companies for accounting and order processing, and stated "the whole attitude is so different in Dallas than in Oakland."

Moneycard Collector's requests for details on changes at Destiny had not been answered by press time.

GETTING A BOX SEAT. Mike Dingwell has purchased Box Seat Collectibles in Phoenix, Ariz., and is specializing in collectible prepaid phonecards as well as other sports cards and memorabilia. Dingwell mentioned AT&T, U S WEST, Sprint and NYNEX issues and says he is dealing with very rare cards. Dingwell notes that he has participated in shows around the world and sold more than $500,000 in telecards last year.

SMARTALK RINGS UP ANOTHER PURCHASE. The Los Angeles-based company announced recently it has signed a definitive agreement to acquire ConQuest Telecommunication Services Corp., the Dublin, Ohio-based developer and marketer of prepaid calling cards and other enhanced telecommunications services, including domestic and international calling services for the tour and travel industry.

The move will add more than 6,000 storefronts to its distribution channel, including Winn-Dixie, Marathon Oil, SuperAmerica and Emro Marketing, which includes convenience stores and service stations such as Speedway, Starvin' Marvin, United, Bonded, Gastown, Cheker and Wake Up. The combined company will have a retail telecommunications distribution channel with access to approximately 35,000 locations under existing distribution agreements.

The announcement comes on the heels of Smartalk's purchase of GTI Telecom of Florida and its merger with Boston-based SmarTel Communications.

PREPAID PROJECTIONS GROWING. Sales of prepaid calling cards surpassed the $1 billion mark in 1996 and should hit $4.3 billion in 2001, according to Atlantic-ACM, a Boston-based consulting and marketing research company. The 1996 figure nearly doubled 1995 figures, Atlantic-ACM says. The revenue estimate for 1997 is $2.15 billion. Despite losing market share to the retail channel, all other segments of the prepaid market – collectible, fund-raising and promotional – will continue to grow, too, the consulting firm predicts. An Atlantic-ACM report, "1997-98 Calling and Prepaid Card Products: Trends & Opportunities," examines the role of debit, credit and smart cards in the telecommunications industry.

"Last year, we predicted sales of prepaid cards in the United States to reach only $2.5 billion by the millenium," says Judy Reed Smith, Atlantic-ACM's chief executive officer. "Unanticipated sales growth among cards issued by the Big Four long-distance companies has improved that revenue forecast by more than 50 percent."

FINN-ISHING CURRENCY. Finland is a leader in use of electronic money and expects to have no paper money in circulation by the end of the century, according to a recent story in Canadian Coin News. Under the leadership of the state-owned Postipankki Bank, a group of Finnish bankers intends to issue more than 3 million smart cards to Finland's 5 million residents. The smart card is designed for transactions between 10 and 2,000 marks, or roughly ($1.90 to $375). All Finnish salaries have been directly deposited to bank accounts since the 1960s.

BYE BYE, SHELL DISCOUNT. A recent visit to one of our local Shell gas stations here in Sidney, Ohio, revealed that it is no longer selling the $50 and $100 denominations of the Shell Prepaid Card, the company's magnetic-stripe moneycard. The $50 cards had been selling for $48 and the $100 for $94.

Don Caivano of Shell's Credit Card Marketing Department in Houston, Texas explained that up until June of this year the prepaid gas card had been in its launch phase and Shell had been giving consumers a discount to help accelerate consumer acceptance. "Now that the product has been successfully launched," he said, "the discounts on the $50 and $100 have been discontinued." Local decisions will determine which card denominations are stocked in the future, he added.

Caivano said that Shell is satisfied with card sales and does not believe eliminating discounts will be a major detriment to sales. "We're targeting the cash customer here," he said, "and we believe that the added convenience and speed of paying at the pump assures a strong future for the product."

Recently Shell has given field managers authority to enter into custom card agreements with local companies. One example Caivano mentioned was a card produced this past spring in Chicago for the NBA Champion Chicago Bulls (Please see "New Issues," Page 49).

More than 8,000 of some 9,000 Shell stations in 39 U.S. states currently have the electronic capability of accepting the card.

CATALOG UPDATE

The Moneycard Collector Catalog will touch on issuers and cards both old and new, seeking to provide an in-depth look at the moneycard hobby.

That means including information on companies that no longer exist. One of those that has retained collector interest is Globalcom 2000, a subsidiary of Universal Telecom.

While Globalcom 2000's span as a phonecard issuer was relatively short (parts of 1993 and 1994), the Los Angeles-based company laid claim to several industry firsts among the telecards it issued — the first promotional card (7-Eleven), first AIDS card, first Marilyn Monroe cards, and the first round die-cut card. Many of the defunct network marketing company's cards are still pursued by collectors.

Here's a sneak peek at the Moneycard Collector Catalog's listings for Globalcom 2000:

Globalcom 2000 (GC2)

Founded in Los Angeles, Cal., in late 1993 by Bruce Perlowin and Don Steinberg, Globalcom 2000 was a subsidiary of Universal Telecom and was organized as a network marketing company. The company failed in early 1995 and shortly thereafter attempted unsuccessfully to re-organize as One World Communications (see listings for Global Communications Network). Globalcom 2000 is a notable issuer because it was the first significant failure of a prepaid card issuer in the U.S. and because the company laid several industry firsts: first promotional card (7-Eleven), first Marilyn Monroe cards, and the first round die-cut card. Special thanks are due to dealers Steve Eyer and Nelson and to notable collector Alex Rendon who supplied information used to prepare these listings.

Bank of America, First Union paved way for stored value cards

Uhen Electronic Payment Services (EPS) announced in October 1992 that it would introduce a prepaid (stored value) function on its MAC-branded ATM card, the financial community was shocked, astounded and excited. Here at last was a new financial instrument to augment credit and off-line debit cards. This was a chance to tackle the $1.8 trillion per year that was being spent on goods and services under $10, a market unavailable to the world of debit and credit cards. This was exciting news, especially since that new concept of "smart cards" was being introduced as the way to securely issue this prepaid electronic money. The shocking and astounding news was that this wasn't being introduced by Visa or MasterCard, but rather the MAC ATM network or EPS.

As with anything new, there were many skeptics, those who doubted that this concept would take hold. And then there were those pioneers who had the vision to boldly step forward and embrace this new concept. Visa and MasterCard didn't announce their intention to issue stored value cards until late in 1993, and didn't have any practical demonstrations of their technology until May 1994. After this, many banks and financial associations looked into this promising new financial instrument. The two earliest banks to stand up and be counted as proponents of the stored value cards were Bank of America and First Union Bank.

In November 1994, the Smart Card Management group at Bank of America issued 75 cards to attendees at the B of A Senior Management Council Technology Conference. B of A used the same card system and scheme that EPA was demonstrating. DANYL Corp. provided the equipment — a smart card-activated postage stamp dispenser, newspaper dispenser, telephone and vending machine. The smart cards that were used were reloadable memory cards.

An innovative marketing ploy used by the B of A smart card group was the issuance of "stamps" that contained images of senior executives attending the meeting. These stamp booklets were dispensed by the smart-card-enabled postage stamp vending machine. The demonstration was a success and the project got full executive support to move on to a pilot stage.

Because of the scarcity of this initial card (75 were issued officially, but there were a few overruns — less than 100 cards in total) it has been valued today at approximately $800. The face of the card contains the name of the conference, the date, and the Bank of America name and logo. The back of the card states "Courtesy of Smart Card Management — 75 cards produced — for demonstration purposes only."

Before going with a full-scale cafeteria pilot, Bank of America issued 1,000 cards to the employees of Bank of America to familiarize them with the concept of stored value cards. The face of these cards again had the B of A name and logo and the word "Smart Card." The back of the card was similar to the first card; however, this time, 1,000 cards were produced. The full scale pilot was initiated soon after. Thirty vending machines and all cash registers in the cafeteria, the coffee shop and convenience store were equipped with smart card controllers.

All employees at the corporate technology center were issued cards, and a initial value of $5 was placed on the card as an incentive to use it. ATM-like machines also were installed to allow the employees to reload their card with cash. The cards were the same reloadable memory cards used in the EPS system.

Collection software was included with the system that allowed the disbursement of the collected electronic money back to the merchants in the pilot. Approximately 5,000 cards were purchased by B of A for this pilot. The face of the card again had the B of A name and logo, the name "Smart Card" and a depiction of coins and bills, indicating that the card could be used as electronic money. The back of the card contained the five-digit sequential number of the card, along with the terms and conditions, including the card expiration date of June 1996. The pilot was quite successful and was terminated in 1996 when a conversion was made to a Visa Cash card system.

Bank of America also participated in the VISA Cash program by being the issuer of the Visa Cash corporate pilot card at the Visa headquarters and by issuing Visa Cash cards for the Olympics albeit in small quantities. To the collector, however, these cards are of extreme interest because of the limited nature of B of A's Olympic issue.

First Union was the other major bank willing to participate in early smart card programs. Although First Union looked at the EPS system and did use the same scheme for their early demonstrations, they took a different approach for their corporate pilot and went directly to the Visa Cash program. In fact, it was First Union that really is responsible for the involvement of Visa in the 1996 Olympics. Forward-thinking bankers saw the possibilities of stored-value cards and actively lobbied Visa to have the product ready for the Olympics. Once Visa agreed to proceed, NationsBank and Wachovia also agreed to participate, and, as they say, history was made. First Union's forward-thinking approach was behind the launching of the first major stored value card system in America.

But their pioneering cards were those produced by DANYL Corp. for their introduction at the Board of Directors meeting and two subsequent conferences. The approach that First Union used was similar to that of Bank of America. At the first quarter Board of Directors meeting in the spring of 1995, Danyl Corp. set up its entire suite of vending applications, as well as helped with the issuance of the cards. The cards were unique in that the face showed the Charlotte skyline; the reverse stated "First Union National Bank - First Quarter Board of Director Meeting - 1995. Only 200 or so cards were issued. When the cards were printed, following the instruction of a First Union marketing employee, the First Union building was partially obstructed by the smart card contacts, whereas the NationsBank building, one of First Union's main rivals, was in full view. When asked by one of the directors why this was so, the quick-thinking marketing employee stated that it done to show that the smart card was in the heart of First Union.

First Union followed with the issuance of 2,000 cards at the 16th annual Treasury Management Conference, held in Boston Nov. 5-8, 1995. The card was issued to preview First Union's Visa Cash cards, to be issued in Atlanta during 1996. The front of the card was similar in appearance to the initial first Union Visa Cash cards. The back of the card had the conference name and date and information about First Union's VISA Cash card introduction. Soon after, First Union produced a quality video to educate Atlanta-based merchants on the benefits of smart cards and to solicit their acceptance of the card at the upcoming Summer Olympics.

One other card was to be issued by First Union before the issuance of the Visa Cash cards. This was done for the Commercial Business Forum, May 10 and May 13, 1996. It also was issued as a $5 denomination card. The reverse of the card was unique in that it contained three magnetic stripes, one for use as an ATM stripe and two for use as stored value stripes. It also contained the name and dates of the conference, along with the message to look for First Union Visa Cash cards in Atlanta. There were 1,500 of the cards issued.

First Union's Commercial Business Forum card was unique in one other ways. It was the first microprocessor card used in any bank or financial institution pilots or demonstration. All previous cards issued by DANYL for the EPS, Visa, Bank of America and First Union pilots and demonstrations were based on the Gemplus reloadable memory card, the GPM486. However, since DANYL had been purchased by Schlumberger in March 1995, it was decided to move to a microprocessor card, the Schlumberger Payflex card, for this conference. This same card recently had been introduced at the University of Michigan for its campus stored value card program and was felt to offer greater security and capability than the reloadable memory card.

In July 1996, a new milestone was established in the banking and financial industry in America when Visa Cash cards were issued at the summer Olympics. The pioneering banks, First Union and Bank of America were ready for their involvement, having learned from their issuance and use of pre-Visa Cash cards. The scarcity of these cards make them a valuable asset to the collector as well as a piece of the history of the stored value card in America.

Making a splash in Canada this time around are a number of attractive cards with few hurdles for the collector.

AT&T Canada

A relatively easy set to work towards is a set of four cards promoting the new "Batman & Robin" movie. The five-minute cards fit together to produce a complete Batman logo. Each card requires only three proofs of purchase from Crush, Mountain Dew, Dr. Pepper, Hires Root Beer, or Lipton Brisk iced tea, and no extra postage fee. And the proofs are on the labels, or the boxes of cans, so a die-hard collector can buy the soft drink, clip the tokens, and stash the suds in the basement for another day. Those who do send away for the cards this way will receive each card on its own display card; to encourage retailers to stock the soft drinks, the entire set was presented on a large folding card.

CallSelect

International shoe giant Bata handed out $50 CallSelect phonecards to visitors to Canada on a cross-country tour.

Another card by that issuer rewarded people who provided a referral or entertained a quotation from Air Treatment Heating and Cooling. Also newly released from CallSelect is Dial-A-Smile promoting various dentists. Like the recent AC Delco cards, dentists could personalize the cards with their own name and logo.

IDC Telecommunications

James Chudnow briefly mentioned in his airline thematic article (Moneycard Collector, June 1997) a series of Air Canada cards from IDC. IDC has actually produced two Air Canada series: a 12-card set in 1995 and a second 18-card set in 1997. Cards in both series were handed out to delayed passengers, as well as sold in vending machines at airports, and by mail order. The airplanes depicted on the cards were used at one time or another by Air Canada (originally named Trans Canada Airlines). Most of the 1997 artwork matches the 1995 set, but the second series is not considered a reprint or extension of that set.

AT&T Canada; Batman & Robin four-card set; quantity unknown; June 1997.

All of the 1995 cards were $10 cards. The 1997 cards were printed in $20, with the possibility of $10 overprint cards as desired by Air Canada. (So far there have been two overprints, the Canadair CL-65 for Rapidair service between Calgary and Edmonton, and one of the Airbus for IRROPS international service.) Of the actual cards observed, the 1995 reverses have English and French text separated into two columns, and the 1997 cards flow the bilingual text together in one block.

IDC has set up a website at <http://www.idc-tel.com> that is mainly marketing-oriented but allows collectors to purchase the Air Canada, Earth Day, and Canadian Football League cards individually or in sets.

Canada Telecom Network

Two new retail series have been launched by Canada Telecom Network. Canatel and International Global Phonecard have appeared in many Montreal locations where regular CTN cards used to be sold. An assortment of tourist-oriented designs is available in 10-, 20-, and 40-minute denominations.

CK Telecom

A new issuer has surfaced from Hubley, Nova Scotia. CK Telecom issues retail cards with a maritime theme, from the stately Green Gables in PEI to a kayaker, to a freshly-cooked lobster dinner, in values from $5 to $100. Two new series to be released later in the summer include photographs of Newfoundland and artwork from the Nova Scotia College of Arts and Design.

That's all for this month. Happy collecting, and look for the Canadian section in the upcoming Moneycard Collector Catalog!

BABY BELL NOTES

PACIFIC BELL

It turns out there was an internal variety of the Merger card discussed in the August "Baby Bell Notes." Approximately 250 $10 cards, and 25 $50 cards were overprinted "NEW COMPANY, NEW PLATFORM." These cards aren't for sale.

The Merger cards were well received by the public, and the higher denominations quickly sold out. The denominations and quantities were $5 (15,000); $10 (4,000); $20 (750) and $50 (250).

By the time you read this, a $10 San Francisco Giants phonecard should have been issued. The design will be an artist's concept of PacBell Ball Park, which is scheduled to open in the year 2000. The card also commemorates the 40th anniversary of the Giants' move from New York City to the Bay Area. You can obtain this card from dealers, or directly from PacBell.

U S WEST

Providing communications services for prison inmates in their 14-state region is one of U S WEST's specialties. To help promote their activities, 2,500 $1 Inmate Services complimentary phonecards were issued to clients, and given out at various trade fairs. That card is pictured in Moneycard Collector's September "New Issues" section. A similar $5 card promotes !NTERACT. As the card says, U S WEST provides a suite of Internet and intranet business solutions. The company produced 3,500 of these cards, to be given to clients or handed out at trade shows. An intranet is the equivalent of a private Internet, where employees use software browsers to access their internal web site. The site isn't accessible to anyone outside the company. Denver, Colo., was the venue, in June, for the Denver Summit of Eight, also known as the G-8 Summit. The meeting was attended by the Group of Seven Industrial Nations, plus Russia and was held to discuss various world problems. Besides Russia, attendees included the United States, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, and the United Kingdom. Each of these leading nations are also known for extensive use of phonecards within their borders. USACard, one of the company's two phonecard distributors, produced a $1 complimentary card for U S WEST. 1,250 were manufactured. Since USACard also produces its own line of phonecards, it's natural they would print up some private versions of these cards, too. Thus, 1,000 $5 USACard cards were made. The building on both cards is the Denver Public Library, where the Summit was held. The ninth flag displayed is that of the state of Colorado.

Four designs will comprise the Celebration Series of U S WEST phonecards. The Fourth of July is the first one to be issued. 1,500 of the $5 cards were produced. Other cards will be produced for Halloween, Thanksgiving, and another yet-to-be-named occasion. Other celebration cards are likely to follow.

U S WEST phonecards are available from dealers, and the company's exclusive distributors, USACard and KARS Unlimited.

MAKING HISTORY

It is generally believed that the Landis & Gyr IntelExpo '85 card demonstrated in Washington, D.C., on April 15, 1985, was the first telecard used in the United States. While that card might have been the first public phonecard, it seems like the French hold the honor of having the first card tested in the U.S.

In September 1984, the French company Crouzet launched experimental thermo-magnetic phonecards, called TTM, for "Thermo Tickets Magnetique." The prototype machines for the test were located in Paris, at the Crouzet factory in Valence, France, and in the U.S. It is not known where exactly in the U.S. the cards were tested, but rumors place those tests in New York City.

The thin cardboard TTM cards, 75 by 30 mm, were electrically charged and the usage of the units achieved through a high frequency signal. There were two different types issued in 1984, Types A and B, differentiated by the control numbers on the cards' reverses. The U.S. cards are pale brown and white and can be distinguished by the words "Do not fold" on the obverse to the right of the word "Publiphone."

To the best of my knowledge and investigation, some 15 sets (Series A and B cards) and nine single cards (either A or B) still exist in private collections, and thus are difficult to find on the collector market.

The total mintage for all TTM's, including the nine different ones produced for the French tests, is 4,400 cards. The lowest and highest control numbers known for the U.S. cards run from 001787 to 002066 for the A series and 001774 through 002068 for the B series — less than 300 cards known of each type. The French Yvert & Tellier phonecard catalog simply, and vaguely, states "less than 1,000" for each type. The fact that the cards tested in France were produced before the U.S. ones account for the latter's higher control numbers.

The TTM experiment in the U.S. and France ended with the introduction of plastic magnetic-stripe and chip-based cards. Cardboard cards were felt to be too fragile and the TTM system more costly than the other types. It was a similar fate which befell the Italian system. Its first public phonecard in 1976, regarded as the first in the world, was made of cardboard as well.

Crouzet today is part of Gemplus, another card technology supplier, but it is no longer directly involved in phonecard technology. Its current products are cardphones and phone-booths. Nobody at Crouzet can or would provide information about TTM cards. But there is no doubt that the cards were produced for and tested in the U.S., and they provide an intriguing collectible for hobbyists with a historical bent.

Bo de Vries

The author is a German phonecard collector and dealer.

Crouzet's TTM U.S. test cards can be distinguished by the words "Do not fold" beside "Publiphone" on the card obverse. Note the "A" and "B" control numbers on the reverses.

WHAT'S IT WORTH?

The value of a Crouzet U.S. test card might depend on where you are.

The French Yvert & Tellier catalog lists the value at 500 francs, or about $100. Another French catalog, Phonecotes Telecartes, pegs the price at 950 francs, still less than $200. The author of the accompanying article suggests that those prices might reflect the fact that French collectors can find the French versions of the TTM cards more easily and aren't swayed by the historical significance that the U.S. version might hold for an American collector.

Given the scarcity of the cards, de Vries says that a set of both the A & B versions might command a wholesale price of $2,000. Mike Dingwell of Box Seat Collectibles in Arizona suggests a retail price of $4,000.

The bottom line, as always, is that the value of a Crouzet TTM test card used in the U.S. is worth exactly what a collector is willing to pay for it.

CORPORATE CORNER

There's a lot to take a bite out of in this month's Corporate Corner.

The latest in the successful line of Cracker Jack cards was recently issued for the Third Annual Cracker Jack Collectors Association convention. Only 500 five-unit cards were issued with most being sold at the actual convention. There were only approximately 200 made available to collectors and dealers so if you're lucky enough to find one, you'll have the lowest minted Cracker Jack card issued to date.

TGI Fridays has a great looking five-minute card available promoting the "Jack Daniels Grill." All you need to obtain one is to sign up for a Frequent Fridays card at any participating TGI Fridays or their affiliated restaurants. Once you've signed up you'll receive 500 points and every time you order something to eat you'll get a certain number of points which can be redeemed for all sorts of neat gifts. You can receive the phonecard for every 500 points you accumulate. The Frontier Communications phonecard expires December of this year, so you better hurry.

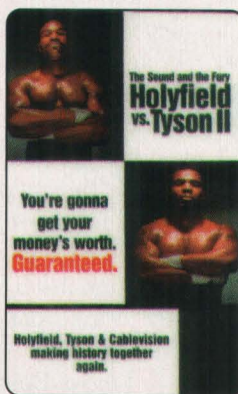

Another fun card to look for is one featuring Mike Tyson and his favorite snack, Evander Holyfield. Cable and Wireless produced 187,000 inactive cards to promote the June 28 heavyweight boxing debacle on Cablevision. Cablevision customers who signed up for the fight had their cards activated for 20 minutes – which was much longer than the fight itself lasted.

Karis Communications and Vertical Partners have teamed up once again for another nice card from the Pepsi family. Newly released is a 10-unit Mountain Dew card. Only 500 were issued with a portion set aside for collectors.

New from SmarTel is a 10-minute card issued for Details magazine. There were 50,000 inactive cards inserted into the magazine which readers could then redeem for active phonecards. Only 3,000 active cards were made available so readers had to respond quickly.

Symantec, makers of Computer software recently joined forces with CompUSA to offer a 35-minute card by Phonecard Express. 3,000 cards were issued and made available for six weeks which began April 1 of this year. The promotion ran nationwide in all CompUSA stores and customers had to purchase select Symantec software and then redeem the UPC's and cash register receipt to obtain the card. As is typical of all Phonecard Express cards, the only way to obtain these was to have actually purchased the product.

A 10-minute card was also issued by Canada Telecom Network for DuPont Comforel pillows. There were 15,000 10-minute and 2,000 20-minute cards were offered to customers who purchased a DuPont Comforel pillow in any Sears store in Canada.

Hawaiian Feast

There's more to island cards than GTE

By Ted Ashworth

Collectors ask me on a regular basis, "What is happening with GTE Hawaiian Tel cards?" The answer is that, in the last year, the company has issued four magnetic stripe cards with little or no publicity. But the fact that GTE Hawaiian Tel has been relatively quiet doesn't mean the Hawaiian phonecard scene also is dormant. The reverse is true, with a feast of new images from a variety of issuers available in the islands since we last reported on GTE Hawaiian Tel (Moneycard Collector, April 1995).

Two of the new GTE Hawaiian Tel issues feature images that collectors have seen before: The Diamond Head/Waikiki Beach card has an enlarged picture and the word "Aloha" added at the bottom. The Waikiki night scene card also has "Aloha" added.

Two new cards featuring Aloha Tower were issued, one showing a fireworks display on the left and the tower on the right, the other showing the tower itself.

The tower opened in 1926. The adjoining Aloha Tower Marketplace, now two years old, is a popular tourist attraction.

The parent GTE company distributed 1,500 $1 sample "chip" cards at the Ala Moana shopping center in 1996 to familiarize local residents with using the card in the Nortel Millennium telephones that are replacing the ordinary coin phones. The giveaway was a great success, a large percentage of takers were teen-agers who monopolized the phones to call their friends — they could make four calls with their freebie cards. At the same time, GTE Hawaiian Tel started selling the $5, $10 and $20 chip cards with Hawaiian scenes depicted. Availability is limited, but sales have been slow. The Nortel Millennium phones not only accept chip cards, but also credit and calling cards.

The GTE Hawaiian Tel set of three remote memory cards issued in the summer of 1995 is largely unsold because they were not competitively priced. A separate department and distributor was set up, but both have been disbanded. By the time the cards reached outlets in Waikiki with all the markups en route, the cost was very high. The magnetic cards, favored by Japanese tourists, are familiar as they are inserted into phone as are the Tamura phonecards in Japan.

A foreign-owned hotel on Kalakua Avenue, the main tourist thoroughfare in Waikiki, issued a private edition of 2,500 GTE Hawaiian Tel cards in 1995. They sold at the front desk for the inflated price of $25 for a 10-unit card.

Liberty House, a local upscale store, distributed a 5-unit GTE Hawaiian Tel remote-memory card in its tourist-oriented outlets in Waikiki and the Aloha Tower Marketplace — a gift with a large purchase. Quantity unknown.

North American Telephone; United Airlines Hawaiian Open; $5 denomination; January 1997.

Southland Corp.; 7-Eleven Surfer; 120 units; quantity unavailable; 1997.

The high cost of GTE Hawaiian Tel cards has led to a large decline in sales as many other companies now offer remote memory cards at half the price or less. Many Japanese visitors (a large percentage of users) are prepared to sacrifice ease of usage and familiarity for substantially lower cost.

On any given day, these are at least 30 or more varieties of cards for sale at gift shops, hotel convenience stores and tourist attractions throughout Honolulu. In addition, Japanese tourists may purchase Japanese cards (for use only in Japan) with various Hawaiian scenes – this is an ideal gift or “omiyage” to take home.

Among tourist attractions, the U.S.S. Bowfin Submarine Museum and Park at Pearl Harbor has a 30-minute phonecard depicting the World War II undersea craft. There were 1,500 cards issued and they are on sale in the gift shop.

North American Telephone has issued the Hawaiian Open 10-unit card in 1996 and 1997. The event no longer will be held at the Waialae Golf Course after 1998. GTE Hawaiian Tel, its distributors and United Airlines issued other cards, starting in 1990. North American Telephone also sells telecards depicting marine life at Sea Life Park.

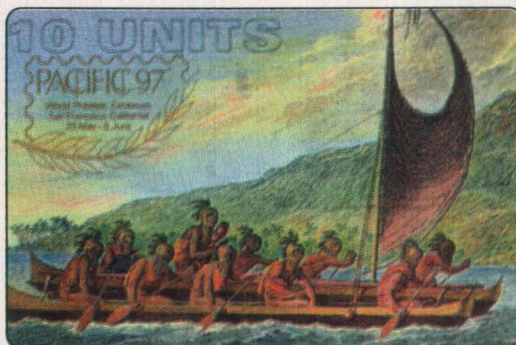

Even Hawaii's legislators have gotten into the act. Rep. Jerry Chang, from the big island of Hawaii, issued 1,000 cards to supporters and fellow legislators in November 1996. The cards show Ah Mai Store, now closed, a Hilo landmark.

Global Link, through a Waikiki discount chain, sells a set of five cards featuring landmarks which include Diamond Head and Waikiki Beach, Hanauma Bay, a humpback whale, Kalalau Valley on Kauai and lava flows from Kileuea volcano on Hawaii. These attractive and widely used remote-memory cards sell for $20 each.

Cominex, a new entry here, sells 50- and 100-unit cards. For $20, one can call Japan for 32 minutes, while $20 spent for a GTE Hawaiian Tel card gets eight to 11 minutes for the same destination. The 50-unit card shows Waikiki Beach and hotels. Other Cominex cards sold here have U.S. mainland scenes. Younger Japanese often purchase these cards after doing comparison shopping.

Perhaps the most attractive series of telephone cards issued in Hawaii is available from 7-Eleven stores. Its series sell rapidly and are widely used. Their designs feature Hawaiian themes such as endangered species, water sports, flowers and scenes. The first 7-Eleven series was generic, and included 15-, 30- and 60-unit cards, plus a five-minute employee card designed to familiarize store workers with the product. The employee card is the key collectible; only 1,000 were issued.

Subsequent sets go up to 240 units and are limited to 2,000 to 3,000 sets, made up of 30-, 60-, 120- and Telecards Hawaii; Canoe with Pacific '97 overprint; 10 minutes; 100 issued; May 1997.

Cominex; Beach & hotels; 50 units; quantity unavailable; 1997.

240-unit cards. Cheaper phone time is available on the 240-unit card – 25 cents a minute anywhere in the U.S. – and very few are discarded, as they can be renewed.

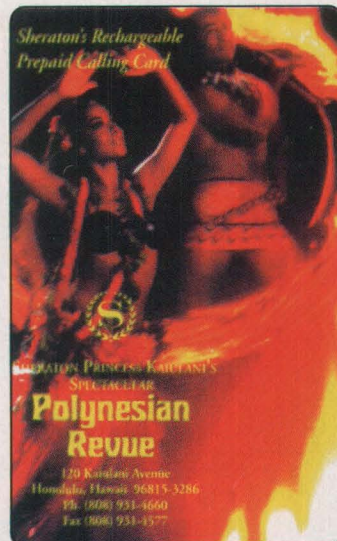

Monyx International, formerly a foreign exchange counter, now closed, issued two phonecards. Only 500 of each exist, both depicting marine life. Japanese tourists were the main buyers.

Among the many other issues to commemorate special events in Hawaii is a 10-unit card featuring the Maui Music Festival held in September 1996. GST Telecom Hawaii produced 1,500 of these cards. The author found these at a new products show in late 1996.

Sheraton Hotel's Princess Kaiulani has twice issued a “Polynesian Revue” card which is given only to purchasers of first-class seating at the performances. Only 500 of each card were issued.

Telecards Hawaii overprinted 100 of its Hawaiian Heritage No. 2 (Hawaiian canoe) cards with the “Pacific '97” logo for the giant philatelic event held in San Francisco from May 29 to June 8, 1997. Most were purchased by Asian philatelists who also bought the last Hong Kong stamps sold at the show. Time on the 10-minute cards is carried by Club International.

One example of the change in the phonecard market in the last two years in Hawaii is the sale of McDonald's cards. Until early 1996, each card produced for McDonald's by Phone Cards Hawaii resulted in a feeding frenzy, as collectors and their representatives fought for the scarce cards. As each subsequent card was issued, not all by the same company, interest where a proliferation of world issues in recent years transformed general collectors into specialists.

A word to "trash bin" searchers — you won't find used cards discarded as they used to be. Tourists purchase cards, use them, often renew them and keep the attractive ones. Many hotels have removed trash bins near phones to discourage transients, a problem in hotels located near parks and beaches. And if you do find a used card, it is even more of a challenge to find one that is in good condition and hasn't been bent.

With many telecommunications resellers issuing new and interesting images at the same time as GTE's market share is declining, the Hawaiian phonecard scene remains extremely active. The island state continues to offer many good opportunities for collectors to add some excellent cards to their collections.

The author is a Hawaii resident and owner of Telecards Hawaii in Honolulu.

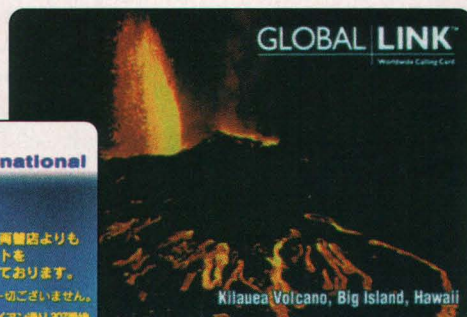

declined and outlets were happy to sell cards without the purchase of a meal.

It would be impossible to list all the Hawaiian cards that have been issued in recent years — probably 500 or more. The so-called "classic" early GTE Hawaiian Tel cards always will be scarce and expensive and in the hands of a small group of collectors. However, there has been a dramatic change in the direction of collector interest. The demand for used cards and the rise of the thematic collector has become obvious. Collectors are noticeably more interested in topic than telephone provider, a trend not necessarily confined to Hawaii.

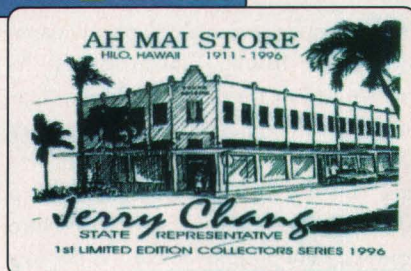

Some collectors want Hawaii as a theme, others request aircraft, ships, whales, racing cars, various sports, flowers, etc. In many ways, this is similar to the philatelic world,

NEW ISSUES

USACard's Marilyn Long Beach Expo Jumbo was listed in September's "New Issues" section, but the wrong image appeared with the information. For a look at the Marilyn card, please see "America's Most Wanted," Page 10.

More stuff from Pepsi

Canada Telecom Network; Pepsi; 15 minutes; 8,926 issued; June 1997.

Pepsi Stuff is back this summer, and offering phonecards on both sides of the border. Canadians have to be thirstier, though. It takes a whopping 150 points to earn a card, versus only 50 points for the American 20-minute version. The U.S. points can be used to earn a Canadian card, though.

All that glitters ...

Image Telecards; Tootsie Pops; 5 minutes; 1,997 issued; October 1997.

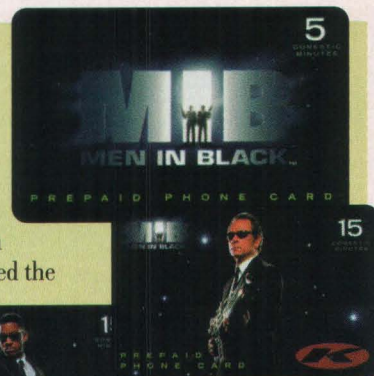

The newest sweet-tooth telecard will catch collectors' eyes in its silver-foil packaging; its predecessor, the Tootsie Rolls "Making the World Sweeter" card, issued in August — not June as stated in last month's "New Issues" — comes in gold-colored foil. Of the mintage, 250 went to the client, with 1,747 made available to collectors. There also are 150 numbered samples.

Universally appealing cards

Frontier; Men in Black; 5 minutes (logo), 15 minutes each (Tommy Lee Jones, Will Smith); 10,000 (logo), 5,000 each (Jones, Smith) issued; July 1997.

Frontier's latest retail cards feature actors Tommy Lee Jones and Will Smith from this summer's smash movie. Customers purchasing either 15-card received the five-minute "Men in Black" logo card for free. The cards went on sale in more than 70 Tops Friendly Markets in New York and Pennsylvania in July, and the mintages above reflect initial runs. Frontier says the quantity could change, depending on demand.

Shell sports new cards

Shell Oil; Chicago Bulls Championship Years; $25 denomination; quantity unavailable; May 1997. MCI; Shell Busch Series race car; 15 minutes; quantity unavailable; June 1997.

The Shell prepaid gasoline card (top), marking the 1997 NBA playoffs, was sold in Chicago and Northwest Indiana metro areas from May 5 through June 5. The MCI phonecard, also available in 30- and 60-minute versions, will be sold in up to 8,000 Shell locations under a two-year pact.

This moneycard's a real gas!

Mobil Oil; Mobil Gas Pump Tops; $25 denomination; quantity unavailable; June 1997.

Recent "Go Card" issue shows a variety of antique gas pump tops, which are collectibles in their own right. There also is a sample version of this prepaid gasoline card.

Crashing the Roswell Party

Caliente Designs/Cable & Wireless; Roswell Anniversary keychain; 10 minutes; 10,000 issued; July 1997.

Artwork on the round phonecard shows a UFO coming in for an abrupt landing in the New Mexican desert. Caliente Designs of Roswell also produced a "Roswell Incident" card through Strategic Telecom Systems in August 1996 (Moneycard Collector, February 1997, "New Issues.")

Mall of America issues card

Delta Affiliates/Cable & Wireless; Mall of America; 3 minutes; 5,000 issued; July 1997.

The Mall of America lays claim to being the most-visited tourist attraction in the world, topping Disney World and the Grand Canyon combined. Plans call for two more cards, 5,000 each, with 1,000 three-card sets eventually being offered to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the Mall of America. Every four first edition cards purchased entitles the buyer to one "option coupon" toward purchase of a set.

Creative, Olympic gymnast team up

Creative Communications; Dominique Moceanu; 30 minutes; 5,000 issued (500 in signed edition); May 1997.

Dominique Moceanu, part of the Olympic gold medal-winning U.S. gymnastics team in Atlanta, is the focus of a new card from Creative. The release coincides with the opening of Dimitry Moceanu's new gym, and 500 signed cards are available in a special carrier.

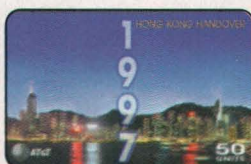

Collectors interested in obtaining these cards should contact their favorite dealer or consult Moneycard Collector's "Dealer Directory." Page 34.

Hand over those Hong Kong cards!

AT&T; Hong Kong Handover two-card set; 4,000 sets issued; June 1997.

The set, marking the return of Hong Kong to Chinese rule, includes a 50-unit card showing Hong Kong island and a 20-unit card of the Kowloon Peninsula. Since all AT&T cards offer third-country calling, the commemorative set can be used to call from Hong Kong or any of 41 other countries. It was sold at various Hong Kong retail outlets for HK$497, or about $64 in U.S. currency.

So cool that it's red hot

Caliente Designs/Cable & Wireless; Red Hot Talk Time; 30 minutes; 500 issued; June 1997.

Card front features red chili peppers and provides instructions in English and Spanish, as well as a host of other features.

Roll on with Michelin

Canada Telecom Network; Michelin Travel; 10 minutes; 4,000 (English) and 1,650 (bilingual) issued; June 1997.

The phonecards, featuring "Bibi," the Michelin mascot, were issued as a promotional tool. Purchasers of a Michelin Travel Guide in Canada or the U.S. were entitled to receive a card by mailing a proof of purchase to Michelin.

Thunder on the water

Destiny Telecomm; Hydroplanes & Raceboats four-card set; 5 units each; 250 of each issued; May 1997.

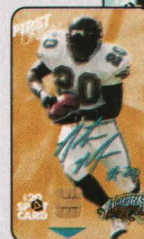

The non-profit Hydroplane & Raceboat Museum of Seattle, Wash., produced images of four speedy craft — Miss Bardahl, Pay 'N Pak, Miss Eagle Electric and Atlas Van Lines. Time is carried by Cable & Wireless.

Jaguars spotted on moneycards

First Union; Jaguars Signature Series; 1,000 of each issued; $20 denomination each; June 1997.

The bank and Jacksonville Jaguars NFL franchise have teamed up to offer "Spot Cards," hailed as easier and quicker to reload. Each of the 10 cards is a numbered, limited edition.

Ronald McDonald swings again

Zenex; Ronald McDonald House - NFL Players; $5 denomination; 500 issued; April 1997.

Card was issued for the Jim Thorpe NFL Players Association's Ronald McDonald House Golf Classic.
