ON THE MONEY

It must be something in the air.

We have never seen a time when so many moneycard dealers are unhappy with one another. Sure, there always have been some personality clashes and plenty of healthy competition, but recent events have taken what we think are some unhealthy twists.

We know of at least four dealers who are not speaking to each other or to whom some other dealers are not speaking. It almost makes an outside observer want to grab a few unruly boys and girls by the ear and introduce their behinds to a wooden ruler.

What's it all about? Along with charges of dealers being pressured to sell certain cards at certain prices and reports of jealousy over some dealers expanding into areas former monopolized by others, a lot of the controversy stems from the issue of licensed versus unlicensed images.

At center stage are the Tell-One Beanie Cards we reported on in September's "New Issues."

Several dealers are selling them. Some others wouldn't touch them with a 10-foot pole, and have been very vocal in their opposition.

At least one dealer says, "Let the collector decide." That is so simplistic as to be dangerous, because it is a philosophy that soon could degenerate into a selling frenzy by anybody with a high-quality color copying machine and a laminating device. Collecting is based on belief, and the connections between issuer and dealer and collector are key areas of trust.

Another says it is OK to sell older unlicensed cards, but not these latest. Please! How does the age of a card forgive inappropriate behavior? Does the card somehow become more licensed as time goes on? If it wrong to sell cards made under such conditions today, it is just as wrong if the card is three or four years old.

Moneycard Collector even has taken some flak for reporting on those cards. Well, folks, we are a news magazine for collectors of prepaid cards. Whether these cards are appropriate or not from a legal sense, they reportedly are in demand by collectors, and deserve mention in our pages as a news item. To pretend they do not exist and are not making an impact is to lose credibility.

Do we like the fact that the cards, as the disclaimer on their observe states, are "not sponsored or endorsed by Ty Inc." (the maker of the Beanie Baby toys)? No, we don't like that at all. The fact is that concerns over the appropriateness of the cards will be decided in court, if Ty decides to pursue it.

At issue for our readers is whether the cards are collectible, and they appear to be. If Tell-One is told to stop making the cards, the ones already in hands of collectors will be more scarce, making them potentially more valuable.

And what will collectors be holding in their hands? Just what the cards say on the front — cards "not sponsored or endorsed" by the manufacturer of the product pictured. That fact offends many, but doesn't alter the fact that the cards are out there, and there is a market for them.

Last October we encouraged readers to get a jump on their Christmas shopping and consider buying a copy of the Moneycard Collector Catalog for that special someone. It is an offer worth repeating, even if that special someone is you.

There is still a limited supply of the big, purple book available. Whether for the new collector or as a replacement for your dog-eared copy, the catalog will warm the hearts of any prepaid card collector through the winter months and far beyond.

Entries continue to pour in for Card Critter hunt!

Our second monthly winner in the Moneycard Collector "Card Critter" contest is Dianna Moon of Lakewood, Calif. Congratulations, Dianna, for being one of dozens of contestants who picked out the Card Critter on Page 29 of the August edition. The little fellow was hidden in the B&C Marketing ad. If you are new to the magazine or missed our announcements the last couple of months, Moneycard Collector and some of your favorite moneycard dealers have teamed up to give you a chance for free cards.

The "Card Critter" hunt is an ongoing contest. Readers seek a Card Critter hidden in a dealer's advertisement and send us a post card telling us where they found it. The Moneycard Collector Card

CARD CRITTERS

Critters look exactly like the ones you see sprinkled around this story, only smaller.

Dianna Moon picks up a $25 certificate toward card purchases from B&C Marketing.

We hid another Critter in the October edition, and readers have until Nov. 5 to let us know where — remember, it might be tiny. When you find it, send us a post card telling us the page number and the name of the dealer. Every month, we will have a drawing, and pick one lucky winner.

The deadline for entries in each month's contest will be the fifth day of the following month.

Again, the deadline for this month's contest will be Nov. 5.

(Editor's Note: Tell-One's "Beanie Cards" have provoked a firestorm of controversy, much of it voiced in e-mail postings. Here, with names removed, are some of the comments. For related information, please see this month's "On The Money," Page 3.)

• I was wondering about the Beanie cards. Is there some sort of unauthorized problem with them? If so, can these cards be confiscated by Ty? What other problems could occur by having these cards?

• What has happened in the past with UNlicensed cards, is that the licensing company can: Issue a cease & desist order; compel the dealer who sold the cards to provide information on all; provide those collectors who purchased the cards; require the dealer who sold them to rebate all proceeds to the licensing company, and if there's complicity with the manufacturer, to pay a substantial fine; go to court to protect their license and go after the manufacturer's assets.

I'm sure there are other remedies, but I'm not a lawyer, and I don't know. In my opinion, it's unethical for a manufacturer to profit off someone else's images without properly licensing the product.

• Ty, the manufacturer of Beanie Babies currently does not care if and how many unlicensed related products are available to consumers, as long as no reproductions are made of their actual toys. The only thing they care about is that their actual products (aka Beanie Babies and other stuffed toys) are not duplicated by unauthorized manufacturers, sold by unauthorized dealers (unless it's on the second-hand market), or imported/exported in great quantities by tourists and others. All this may change in the future as they are entitled to collect royalties on anything produced.

Unless Ty can prove that it is an actual photo taken by one of their people, they cannot collect for the actual image. What they can collect on is the fact that the name Princess is being used and that the Bear on the card resembles one of theirs. The phonecard says Beanie Card not Beanie Babies Card so the card producer is safe on that. As far as the seller of these cards producing the names and addresses of all the buyers of the cards; that is really ridiculous!

There are currently other companies (such as Mattel, makers of the Barbie doll) that are fighting great lawsuits, sending out warning notices and generally trying to make sure that they are aware of and collecting royalties on every product that either resembles or bears the name of anything that they manufacture.

• Will you please be so kind as to give us the name and phone number of whoever you talked with in the legal department at Ty? Do you have anything in writing from Ty that will back up the claims you made? Your legal, and business, analysis leaves a lot to be desired, not to mention your spelling.

• Does it seem like "common sense" that TY "does not care" about unlicensed products? [Heck, why would TY want to give up its licensing rights? DUH?] I believe that UNlicensed cards will hurt the health of our hobby. I will not support UNlicensed cards, nor will I ever put out a "buy" or sell offer on them.

• I'm tired of this discussion, so I'm just going to answer from a personal point of view this time and that's it; finito!

I like my Beanie phonecards and I'm not giving them up. I'm going to continue to buy Beanie phonecards regardless of who makes them or who makes money off of them (there's no law against that); it's not like I'm going to smoke them or shoot someone with them.

Perhaps the ultra-rich creators of Beanie Babies are not making any money off of the cards, but they can always stop their production and recall all unsold cards from the manufacturer. But that's not my problem, unless I'm asked to be the company's legal advisor. My cards are in my personal collection in my moneycard book and they will stay there.

More Tough Choices

Dealers list their all-time moneycard favorites

Moneycard Collector is continuing its fourth-anniversary celebration by celebrating moneycard dealers' all-time favorite card. As we explained last month in part one (favorite cards of the past year), we made a tough choice harder by asking dealers to mention no more than five cards.

But first, reader Doug Blanchard of Sykesville, Md., has weighed in with his favorites. We like his thinking. Blanchard's all-time favorite cards include some classics — the AT&T 3-unit McDonald's Teleticket ("Not only a classic card," he notes, "But the first card I ever saved and the card that got me 'hooked'"); the first Sprint Gillette-NCAA cards ("My first big hunt for cards"); and the five-card Yoo Hoo Cartoon Network set, issued by GTS in August 1995, which are, in a word, "cute."

Blanchard's favorite newer cards (See September 1998 issue for more on the favorites of the past year) include the AT&T Nestlé five-card set promoting the animated movie "Mulan" ("Cute, colorful and destined to be classics," he says and the free Coke "accordion" cards issued regionally and, he notes "probably not saved by many and probably impossible to get one of each."

Here, then, are the all-time favorite moneycards of participating dealers:

Kathleen and Scott Shapiro, KARS Unlimited, Ormond Beach, Fla.

1. KEANE EYES CHILDREN'S SET. Still our favorite set of cards. A beautiful theme, a beautiful picture and a beautiful job of cooperation by six different companies to jointly issue a set of cards for one of the earliest U.S. phonecard shows. It's our idea of what the hobby is all about.

2. HONG KONG TELECOM, AGELESS CHARM OF MICKEY. This still makes our top five list. An elegant packaging job and an elegant choice of images to grace the first Disney release from Hong Kong.

3. VISA CASH CANCUN CARD. New to our list, the first Visa Cash Card. You can tell we like the "firsts." This card represents the beginning of something we feel will be an important concept throughout the entire world.

4. AT&T McDONALD'S BIG MAC. New to our list. One of the first big giveaways that slipped by most people. A must-have for any collection.

5. BELL CANADA HELLO! CAMP OOOCHIGEAS. New to our list. We've come to like this card more and more. The holder is shaped like a baseball glove and when you open the "glove," the baseball-shaped phonecard is "caught." A nicely executed concept for a good cause.

The 3-unit AT&T McDonald's Teleticket was nominated by several participants

Albert J. Chiaravelle, Global Telecard, White Plains, N.Y.

1. GLOBAL TELECARD BUSINESS CARD SET, NYNEX AND U S WEST. They represent the first private cards by either company and have extremely low mintages due to production problems — NYNEX, 30, and U S WEST, 147, making them key for either issue.

2. AMERIVOX FIRST CREDIT CARD AND TELECARD CONVENTION. Issued in Richmond, Va., this card is special because it marks the beginning of the hobby in the United States.

3. AT&T OLYMPICS THREE-CARD SET. These internally distributed cards with Picasso-type images are hard to find, and the key to any AT&T or Olympic collections.

4. SCA FOLEY DEPARTMENT STORE FRAGRANCE SERIES. This was a lot harder to get than Gillette and a lot prettier.

USACard's Pink Panther cards, especially the set of three Easter Egg die-cuts, were named by several dealers.

These images were taken from all the top designer perfume advertisements.

5. AMERIVOX McDONALD'S COKE FRANK & SONS 4-CARD SET. This was the start of the McDonald's-Coke craze. Another first.

Terry Windholz, TW Phonecards, Augusta, Kan.:

1. JAG WORLDWIDE, PCM REPORT HAPPY HOLIDAYS 1996. Tough to find as these were sent out as holiday gifts, but well worth the effort as this card depicts a beautiful Arctic illustration of wildlife in the sea and on the land.

2. THE SCOREBOARD INC., McDONALD'S $2 SET OF 50. An attractive set and currently available to collectors at such a modest price that it should be in every collection.

3. TEKTEL, COCA-COLA 1994 PHONE HOME PROMO. Three-, 10- and 60-minute cards that are a must for any Coke or promotional theme collection as they are not only attractive, but historical as well.

4. USACARD, PINK PANTHER EASTER DIE-CUTS. Including the jumbo, these very colorful and attractive die-cut phonecards are sure to remain popular with Pink Panther fans and collectors in general.

5. WORLDCOM, SPACE JAM MICHAEL JORDAN. The Looney Tune characters make this a colorful and attractive 10-unit card.

Steve Eyer, Steve Eyer Inc., Mount Zion, Ill.:

1. AT&T MCDONALD'S/COCA-COLA. 3 MINUTES, APRIL 1993. Although 4.5 million were supposedly made, all were either given away, used and then discarded; or else were officially destroyed by the McDonald's Corp. When they first came out, I found a source at one McDonald's and bought all of them she had. We even recovered some from her boyfriend in Arizona, who was using the cards to call her in the evenings. I thought they'd be common, so I gave them away with orders for a while! I know the collectors who harvested them from my free giveaway are smiling! They continue to be very scarce and should go on up.

2. USACARD'S VARIOUS PINK PANTHER CARDS. The

Pink Panther cards have become a small series of cards, and, since there are many followers of Clouseau and his hilarious movies, the Pink Panther series will be ever popular. The cards are issued for a few dollars each and have begun to move up slowly but steadily. I'd try to catch up and keep up on all these issues.

3. AMERIVOX'S SERIES OF PRIVATE CARDS, GENERALLY FIVE-MINUTE, LOW-MINTAGE CARDS, 1992-96. There are hundreds of extremely low-mintage cards to choose from. The subjects vary from lawyers' and doctors' promotional cards to cards requesting help for children with serious disease. My real favorites are the series of six cards from the Helicopter Association of Hawaii. The best one shows a helicopter flying over the active volcano Mauna Kea. Others show spectacular scenes, such as Kauai's waterfalls. The mintages may be as high as 1,000, but more likely, 250, 100 or less, with most if not all handed out to the AmeriVox representative's clients. A mintage of 100 will seem like nothing in a few years. These are tomorrow's rarities, available for $20 or so now. What a varied and fascinating series.

4. AMERITECH, MICHIGAN BELL SERIES. 40-CENT TO $20 DENOMINATIONS, 1987. This series, which embodies all that an early series of cards has come to mean, is really a series of 10 cards. Some are common and some are rare. The U of M cards met with a mixed response from the students, and was soon discontinued. This ensured the rarity of the series, and the minimum value of any card is about $65 today. All but the most expensive are readily available, and constitute a big chunk of early American telecard history. We could add to this group the 1985 promotional cards companies brought to the Expos in the USA to demonstrate the technology, and the later cards that constitute the "forerunners": Manning Prison, Military Communications Center, Belmont University, and Iowa State.

5. DISNEYLAND'S FIRST TELECARDS: SET OF FOUR, $3 TELECARDS BY IDC COMMUNICATIONS CELEBRATING THE 40TH ANNIVERSARY OF DISNEYLAND. To finish my five selections, I'll add one for 1998. These were produced on order of Disneyland and picture Mickey Mouse, Tinker Bell, the Castle and the 40th Anniversary logo with Mickey Mouse sitting in the logo. Two thousand sets were produced, but were unknown in collector circles until 167 sets were discovered in 1998. For topical collectors this will be a most important set, the logical place to start their U.S. Disney collection.

Stephen L. Schwartz, Sears Phone Card Department, Orlando, Fla.

[Editor's Note: This dealer noted that his five all-time favorites had not changed since last year (Moneycard Collector, September 1997), but did include two "up and coming" favorites:

1. PTI DUCK HUNTING CONSERVATION DESIGNS, 62 CARDS. These are extremely beautiful national competition designs and are now available used at a bargain price. They also picture postage stamps — linking to another collectible.

2. DESTINY NATIONAL PARKS 11-CARD SET, INCLUDING JUMBO. The cards, printed with a "chronium" process, feature the parks as pictured on 1930s postage stamps. They are sequentially numbered and available at a reasonable price.

For the record, his all-time favorites were:

1. USACARD, PINK PANTHER EASTER EGG SET

While there are only five basic designs in the Sprint Gillette NCAA Final Four series from March 1995, different color combinations and bar code and 800-number mean that there are dozens of varieties.

2. AT&T, SNOOPY CARD-OF-THE-MONTH.
3. AT&T, NABISCO OREO DIE-CUT
4. ACMI, GARFIELD'S VALENTINE DAY
5. USPS LIBERTY CASH.

Bruce Harmon, Acme Telecards, Sunrise, Fla.

1. SPRINT GILLETTE FINAL FOUR SET. Just like last year, this is still my favorite of all time.

The largest of all phonecard sets (if you count all of the variations), this set kept collectors and dealers trading for many months. Something that we could use a lot more of!

2. HT TECHNOLOGIES TROPICS OF CONVERSATION PUZZLE SET. It may not be worth a lot of money but it's truly one of the most beautiful-looking sets ever issued. Pictures just don't do this set justice. This set proves that an issue doesn't have to be expensive to be appreciated!

3. USACARD PINK PANTHER EASTER SET. A very cute and colorful diecut set that was limited and created a lot of trading similar to the Gillette Final Four set.

4. VARIOUS OLDER ISSUES OF IMPORTANCE FROM NYNEX, VISTA UNITED, AND OTHER MAJOR ISSUERS. Some examples would be the early Landis & Gyr cards from NYNEX such as the $1 DNC card. Early Disney cards from Vista United and more. It's a good time to be a phonecard collector as a lot of the early more historical cards like these can be obtained for very good prices now. Collectors should pay attention to the older cards as they won't always be available for the prices that some of them are right now.

Buz and Betty Houghtaling, B.A.B. Kollektibles, Alta Loma, Calif.

1. EVENT MASTERS/NEW ZEALAND TELECOM MICKEY PART I, 1994. We have seen this set grow to the No. 1 wanted Disney set in the world. It was the first prepaid item that we sold in 1994.

2. McDONALD'S FRANK & SONS BY AMERIVOX. There were 500 issued of this very successful first set, but high production on sets two and three was a major problem for the success not continuing.

3. AT&T 1995 SNOOPY BOWL-STEVE YOUNG. The signed edition (about 700 of 999 issued) of the 49-minute card has commanded high prices.

4. USA CARD PINK PANTHER EASTER SET. Great thought and concept. Everyone was trying to put matching numbered sets together.

5. 17TH NATIONAL COCA-COLA SET. Made for BAB by Score Board, with time by Sprint. Although we had several problems regarding this set, it has increased in demand. Because of card flaws, the production numbers of the set are lower than announced.

Ernie O. Rose Jr., United America Cards Etc., Menomonee Falls, Wis.

1. UNIDENTIFIED EARLY McDONALD'S CARD BY GLOBAL. This card was given to me by an employee three years ago. He stated that he had it for about two to four years, but does not remember where he got it. Although it states "dial Global Access Number" on the reverse, all efforts to identify this card have failed.

2. CRACKER JACK NO. 1. Excellent image of a truly fine confection from earlier years. This card (issued by USACard) adds a bit of nostalgia.

3. LOVING LUCY. Who can't remember the family watching the lovable and naive character of Lucille Ball on television.

4. JULIE ANDREWS. What a voice! Every time I look at the card I can hear her voice floating through the fields of flowers.

5. AMERITECH PENGUINS-HOLIDAYS. The penguins are so true to color and form that they almost seem alive and ready to jump into the freezing depths. I love animal life. MC and the phone time never expires!

OH CANADA

A combination of old and new material this month: "Old" in the sense that some cards may date back several months, but "new" in that they have not yet been presented in this column.

WesTel

This Vancouver-based company continues to produce stunning images on phonecards. Released in June was a wildlife series including grizzly and polar bears, elk and mountain lions. A totem pole motif used on a card illustrating native dancers (issued August 1997) this year became the focus of its own card. The historic Banff Springs Hotel in Alberta is also photographed by night, which appears to be a first for a phonecard.

WesTel images from this past summer include many scenes from nature and outdoor scenes of Canada, like canoes on a Rocky Mountain lake, above, and an elk calf, below.

Varieties abound on WesTel cards. On card fronts, notice the placement and size of the Westel logo: some recent sample cards have large logos beside the denomination, while WesTel promotional literature shows these same cards with small logos above or below the denomination. Card backs have become more standardized: some designs have two toll-free numbers, one for British Columbia and one for the rest of North America; others have only the North America access number.

For more WesTel images, please see this month's "New Issues" section, starting on Page 23.

Mackay Meters

Prepaid parking meter cards, already familiar to drivers in Europe, Asia, and South America, have been quietly undergoing trials in various parts of North America. Mackay Meters, headquartered in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia and active in 60 countries, is the sole Canadian manufacturer of parking meters and one of three major North American players.

Newer meters from this company have been retrofitted to accept credit and debit cards. Virtually all cards are non-reloadable and cards can only be purchased in person in the particular community. A limited number of model cards are also produced for each community, whose design may not necessarily match the final retail design.

About half a dozen Canadian cities have been considering implementing parking meter cards, but as none of them have actually made these cards available to the public the names of these cities, and their chosen designs, cannot be revealed yet. (One community started its trial three years ago.) Depending on the memory capacity of the chip model, future enhancements to the parking card can combine parking access with museum admission or access to municipal sports facilities.

Alliance Telecard

Alliance was founded in 1996 in Montreal, and is associated with Globetel Communications of Vancouver. Early cards used ACC Long Distance as the sole carrier; now the time is provided by the carrier that provides the best price to a particular location. This company has a strong focus on the retail market, preferring to carefully build long-term relationships with retail clients through direct sales rather than chase the promotional market. Alliance was also the first non-Stentor organization to offer swipe access at large — all cards issued after February 1998, beginning with the Benjamin News card, offer magnetic stripes as well as remote access. Majestic scenery and wildlife grace many of the retail cards — I am particularly fond of a $10 card featuring a river.

Cards in our Private category would include a business card for the Sports Card Coliseum in Montreal, illustrating the comic hero Wolverine; a Toronto grocery chain co-branded with Kellogg's; a fund-raiser for the Mira seeing-eye-dog training organization; and a strip club in Mississauga.

Copy Cards / ITC Systems

In a recent Moneycard Collector "Quik Take," there was a brief mention of a prepaid charge card used for university photocopy machines. Until I read that, I hadn't thought about something I use very frequently as a collectible card. Concordia University in Montreal has used a similar reloadable card for many years — the cards can also be used to print microfilms at the library, pay library files, or laser-print those special documents in the computer rooms.

Alliance Telecard, founded in 1996, has issued many interesting promotional cards, including Kellogg's Raisin Bran, and the Marvel Comics' superhero Wolverine. The issuer's retail cards include majestic scenery and wildlife.

I have noticed a few varieties during more than five years of study at Concordia: gray with serial numbers, white with numbers, white without numbers, and one reading ITC Systems, the manufacturer of the card readers.

Bell Canada / LaPuce

Bell Canada LaPuce; Journal de Montreal; 50 cents; 50,000 issued; August 1998.

Purchasers of the Journal de Montreal newspaper at Boni-Soir convenience stores in Quebec received a free 50-cent card during four Saturdays in August and September. This really cute card illustrates two quarters, used as the eyes in a happy face.

Treasures

I am in the process of acquiring the collection of someone who is leaving the hobby. This person's specialty was sample, proof, error, and just plain unusual Canadian error version, with the front and back text printed on the same side.

More previously unknown cards and varieties were also in the collection. A French version of GTS Canada's Mumm's Champagne [GTC Pr16] is now known as are French varieties of ITS Canada's TeleScotia cards [ICA Pr5, Pr6]. The GTS Canada National Hockey League set, originally catalogued as 10 cards [GTC SPr 43/SPr 53] should now be known as a 12-card set, with St. Louis and San Jose joining the team list. The Bay and Zellers department stores have apparently produced a larger number of cards than previously catalogued, with both ACC Long Distance and ITS.

More on these in a future column.

Remember the chipless Bell Canada QuickChange Toronto Raptors from the review of the Greater Toronto Phonecard Club show? This collection, which contains almost no chip cards, included a chipless version of the Toronto International Film Festival InfoLine card [QCH Pr9] punched VOID by the printer. My contact at Bell Canada did not return my inquiry about statistics for such a card, or confirm whether more designs exist like this.

While I am still sifting through the first of four large boxes, a registered envelope, and two mailing tubes, I have not found duplicates of any of the above-mentioned cards.

Next month, look for a review of IIR's smart card symposium held in Montreal, and a special focus on the American side of this collection — and the collector who sold it.

PROMOS & OFFERS

Promotional offers stretch from coast to coast and span the globe on the Internet. Let's start this month's hunt at McDonald's restaurants in Philadelphia. There are four different cards, limited to one per meal.

Here's one that isn't a phonecard. Remember the November 1997 "Quik Take" about Kmart cash cards? Purchase four of Hanes, Hanes Her Way, Just My Size, L'eggs or Playtex products, send in the UPCs with the dated Kmart cash register tape with the required form and receive a $5 Kmart cash card. The offer expires Dec. 31.

Other offers include:

- Free "San Francisco" 5-minute phonecard with the purchase of one Colavita 16.9-ounce bottle of balsamic vinegar and one bottle of Colavita Extra Virgin Olive Oil. The offer requires mailing in a cash register receipt as proof of purchase.

- Get a free 5-minute phonecard with the purchase of The Firm exercise video. It states "Phone a friend about The Firm."

- Purchase Sofsource software. Send in the UPC, a dated OfficeMax cash register tape and the required form to receive a 20-minute phonecard. The offer expires Oct. 15.

- Purchase one case of Kendall Superb 100 or GT-1 motor oil or six one-quart bottles of Kendall Elite Full or Partial Synthetic motor oil. Send in the UPC, dated store-identified cash register tape, and the required form to receive one of four phonecards. The different cards are of race car drivers Chuck Etchells, Hut Stricklin, Frank Manzo and Robert Pressley. The offer expires Oct. 30.

- Call 1(800) 410-8989 to receive a free 10-minute phonecard from the Sears "Take Your Best Shot" Siding contest. You will be asked if you are a homeowner and if you'd like a siding estimate. Even if you say no to the siding estimate, you will receive the phonecard.

- Inside specially marked packages of Topol toothpaste is 10-minute rectangle shaped phonecard. Found in Winn Dixie. The SCA Telecard issue was pictured in Moneycard Collector's August "New Issues."

- For a free 5-minute phonecard, send the UPC, dated cash register tape, and specially marked form from a case of 24 Campbell's Ramen noodles. This offer expires Oct. 31.

- Specially marked 2-packs of Polaroid 600 have a 10-minute phonecard.

- Specially marked boxes of Fiddle Faddle have 10-minute phonecards.

- Call GTE at 1(888) 324-7904 and inquire about their unlimited service package and receive a $25 phonecard. This offer may only be good in California.

- From Best Buy — free 120-minute phone card with the purchase of any Samsung TV/VCR combo. Ad is good for this week only, but it doesn't say how long the phone card promotion is on.

- At the Chicago Jazz Fest in early September, Ameritech had a booth where they gave away phonecards. The front of the folder they came in says, "You deserve a few minutes of our time". Glued inside was the exposed-pin card, under which it said, "Your Five Minute pre-paid phone card is our way of saying thank you for being a great customer. Stick with what works — Ameritech."

The other half of the folder consists of a BusinessReply-Mail questionnaire card, which asks what services you want more information about — none of which mentions prepaid phonecards. The card itself has the company name at the top, followed by its ad motto "stick with what works" inside a red stripe.

While cards are individually numbered on the back, nothing indicates how many were done. Long distance service is provided by Quest, with time expiring March 31, 1999.

- In a Sept. 6, Sunday Supplement, Walgreens offered one of its standard 15-minute phonecards (picturing the night skyline of Chicago, including the John Hancock Building), to anyone purchasing a Lisa Frank "Sidekicks" Value Bag of school implements for $7.99. The card is valued at $ 5.99 (or, about 40 cents per minute for a domestic U.S. call).

TOPOL[®] PLUS 10 MINUTES FREE

- Here's another gift card offer, found in a Sam's Club letter. During the month of August, the store chain offered unlimited secondary memberships that you may want to add to your membership. For each secondary that you add you will receive a $10 gift card that you can use at Sam's Club or Wal-Mart. You will also have an opportunity to register your name in the drawing for a Sam's Club $1,000 shopping spree. Your name will be entered for every secondary you add.

- Fuji disposable camera has a really nice PromoTel 10-minute phonecard. It has a picture of a "Fuji" Blimp. It is a real nice card, plastic, colorful, Fujifilm Blimp against a bright blue sky and clouds and expires three months from activation or June 30, 1999. This offer was seen at Long Drugs.

Available through the Internet:

- If you like to do surveys, you can get points to get phonecards and other items at <http://www.questions.net/>. Joining earns 300 points but it takes 375 for the phonecard.

- Get five free minutes via e-mail, but no card. To request your free phonecard service, send an e-mail request to: rha@nodelay.com with "free phonecard" in the subject line.

- For a free key tag phonecard loaded with 5 minutes, go to <http://www.trendmark.com/id/100136/cardform.htm>.

- There is a free 15-minute Sprint phonecard at Great Clips! The "back to school" promo started in mid August, according to newspaper fliers and information on the hair salon's website, <http://www.greatclip.com/sprint.htm>.

Some older offers:

- In a May issue of Sports Illustrated magazine, an ad for 360 Communications states "For a free 20-minute prepaid long distance calling card, bring in this ad and ask about Bundled Value Packs. One card per person. Some restrictions apply. See store for details."

- Walgreen's has the same teddy bear phonecard offer as in previous months. Purchase $15 worth of Hallmark items, receive the 15-minute card. A mail-in form from rebate booklet required, and requests had to be postmarked by Sept. 5.

- In Radio Shack sales flier, a free 30-minute phonecard was offered with purchase of any Sprint residential phone or answerer! The offer, seen in Houston, expired Aug. 28.

Last, but not least, is news about the 1998 Coke ATM cards — Once the money has been redeemed from the card, you can use the card as a discount card, just like the accordion folder cards. Seen on the Coke website at <http://www.coca-cola.com>.

Denise Finkel was inadvertently omitted as a contributor to the September "Promos & Offers" column. Ginger Gragg, Jim Chudnow and George Tsoukatos contributed to this month's column.

BRAND NEWS

We've got something a little different for this month's column in that due to the popularity of airline cards, we're going to take a look at the variations in the Alaska Airlines cards issued by Gazelle Telecard. Upon first glance, they all pretty much look alike however there are certain variations which have collectors searching all of them out.

The first Alaska Airlines card was issued in 1996 and used artwork provided by Alaska Airlines. It had a January 1998 expiration date.

The second card followed later in 1996 with one change on the front and a couple of other changes to the back. On the front, this card says: 5 minutes/Mexico and on the back there were access numbers for both the United States and Mexico. Time on this card was provided by Sprint instead of IdealDial.

Earlier this year another card was issued with Mexico in mind.

Gazelle issued two different Alaska Airlines cards using Sprint as the carrier.

The image on this one is the same as the 1996 cards however the airplane image being enlarged by 25 percent. The text position on the front have been reversed and a new Alaska Vacations logo was added. The five-color back including the Sprint logo in full color. This card was issued in batches, hence three different expiration dates: 2/28/99, 3/31/99 and 6/30/99.

A domestic card was also issued this year with 10 minutes of time. This card had the same image on the front as the above Mexico card. The text on the front was different in that this time it reads: 10 minutes/U.S. The carrier was changed to Cable & Wireless and their logo is in full color on the back. There were also two different expiration dates: 3/31/99 and 10/31/99.

Finally, there was a card issued that was similar to the above domestic card but was produced for the EM & M Forum, which is stated in the upper right corner on the back. A phone number for reservations is also in the upper right corner on the back.

If your phonecard collecting theme is airlines or airplanes, this is a real sharp set with enough variations to warrant seeking them out.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Price listings in the Moneycard Collector Price Guide are provided only as a guide and are based on price lists supplied by several dealers around the world and on other market information. Listings without prices will be completed as suitable market information becomes available.

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that – a guide.

NUMBERING SYSTEM

S (before #) = Sports

a card depicting an organized, competitive sports-related image (comes before numerals, e.g. S125)

Pr (before #) = Private card issued for a customer, distributed by the customer at his/her discretion

Post-numerical descriptor (falls after the numeral)

#-2 = Second Printing

the second printing of a card; a three, four or greater number can follow to denote the actual print run; occurs often with Canadian cards or unlimited run cards

a-z = error/variety

a card whose identical front or back differs from the card with the primary listing; includes language variations, but not denominational variations

M = model/prototype

full-front printed card, may or may not be full-back printed, never issued

card with an error that caused its destruction or recall

J = jumbo

an oversized or jumbo card

P = proof

artwork on front, blank back

R = replacement

a card that replaced a defective or recalled card

S (after #) = specimen

artwork on front, complete back with false or no pin, or word "sample" or "test"

T = trial/test

live card used specifically for testing a stored value card system

Moneycard Collector is committed to providing collectors with the most accurate and unbiased pricing information available in the phone and debit card hobby. Data used in compiling this month's guide was supplied by the following dealers whom we thank for their assistance:

BellSouth states that a grand total of 80M cards were produced for the trial, but the exact number of each denomination is not know. All remaining unsold cards were withdrawn in May 1995 and destroyed in October 1995. Most dealers estimate that approximately 15,000 of each card were actually issued, but the actual number may even be lower than that.*

NEW ISSUES

Cool kitty on telecard

Karis/Global Telecard; Heathcliff/Pepsi on Beach; 500 issued; August 1998.

This card features the popular cartoon cat and familiar soft drink logo on the obverse, while the reverse lists the parties involved in its production: Karis, Global Telecards, Vertical Partners (which has a license to put Pepsi images on phonecards) and the time provider, Electric Lightwave Inc. Call (619) 660-7999 or (914) 674-0408.

Twist and shout about cards

Continental Plastics; Telecard World '98 jumbo; 5 minutes; 500 issued; September 1998.

The jumbo card is actually a complement to three show cards die-cut in the shape of 45-rpm records, complete with the hole in the middle. There were 200 numbered sets of those cards and the jumbo cards make a four-card set. More information on the show and show cards will be covered in the November edition.

Bell Canada issues Titanic two-card set

This limited-edition set was launched at the Telecard World show in New York in September and reportedly was popular with show visitors. The historic black-and-white images are from actual photographs of the ill-fated passenger liner. Contact your favorite dealer or consult our "Dealer Directory" listings.

Bell Canada LaPuce & QuickChange; Titanic two-card set; $5 denomination each; 1,500 sets issued; September 1998.

Bruce Lee remembered

Companhia de Telecomunicações de Macau; Bruce Lee 25th anniversary; 50 patacas; 3,000 issued; August 1998.

The King of Kung Fu, as Bruce Lee is considered, died 25 years ago. To commemorate this legend, Companhia de Telecomunicações de Macau (CTM) has issued a special phonecard in a "Dragon Memoir" booklet telling the collector more about Lee's life. The card's obverse shows a collage of Bruce Lee in action. Macau is currently a Chinese territory under Portuguese administration, and will return to China's sovereignty on Dec. 20, 1999. Contact your favorite dealer or consult our "Dealer Directory" section.

NEW ISSUES

On the prowl for new Panthers cards

NationsBank/Precis; Carolina Panthers four-card set; $100 total denomination; 5,000 of each issued; August 1998.

NationsBank is using the Precis Smart Card Systems' PrecisCache system for this year's Carolina Panthers' FANCash cards. The four cards, one each of $10 and $50 denominations and two $20 cards, form a puzzle set showing the outline of a football and its laces. There also are a $25 card showing the Panther logo (7,000 issued) and a $100 card showing the Charlotte skyline (2,500 issued). For more information, see this month's "Quik Takes." Call (405) 752-5550.

A snapshot of Marilyn

Square, snapshot-sized phonecard comes in a reproduction of a photo album. Photographer George Barris reportedly snapped the original photo on the beach at Santa Monica, Calif., two days before the Hollywood icon's death on Aug. 5, 1962. Time is by Electric Lightwave Inc. and the card was manufactured by Continental Plastics. Call (619) 660-7999.

New moneycard spotted

First Union; Jacksonville Jaguars Spot Card; $50 denomination; quantity unavailable; August 1998.

This new card for the Jacksonville Jaguars professional football team is a lenticular motion card, featuring the Jaguars' logo. When you tilt the card, the First Union logo and slogan "Official Bank of the Jacksonville Jaguars" appears. Contact your favorite dealer or consult our "Dealer Directory."

Raising funds for veterans

ADI/Lightyears Services; VFW 100th anniversary; 5 minutes; ongoing mintage; August 1998.

This card, printed to raise donations for the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization, could result in hundreds or thousands of variations, since each might be printed with the name of the donor. When possible, the issuer will print contributors' names upon the cards. Time on the cards is carried by Teltrust. The rechargeable cards were tested in Northern Indiana and may only be obtained through donations to the VFW.

NEW ISSUES

Westel; Grizzly Cub; $10 denomination; quantity unavailable; June 1998.

Westel; Totem Poles $20 denomination; quantity unavailable; June 1998.

Westel; Snowboarder; $10 denomination; quantity unavailable; June 1998.

Westel gets back to nature

Releases earlier this summer from Canadian telco stress images from nature and native scenes. For more about Westel, see this month's "Oh Canada" column. For more information about the cards, contact your favorite dealer or consult our "Dealer Directory" section.

A DeltaCom sampler

The issuer, now ITC DeltaCom, has produced a variety of prepaid cards for promotional purposes. While the images are not as striking as some, these cards are generally low-mintage cards distributed to specific audiences for purposes including recruitment, incentives or thank-yous. One card, the Game Day Super Pass, allows callers to receive professional sports picks to games each week. Recordings are changed daily and the card deducts one minute per sport. Contact your favorite dealer or consult our "Dealer Directory" section.

DeltaCom; Game Day Super Pass; 80 minutes (80 calls); 100 issued; August 1998.

DeltaCom; Michigan State Medical Society; 10 minutes; 1,000 issued; June 1998.

DeltaCom; Mom's Back; 10 minutes; 1,000 issued; July 1998.

DeltaCom; Knology; $10 denomination (30 minutes); 500 issued; July 1998.

DeltaCom; Montgomery, Alabama; 5 minutes; 750 issued; July 1998.

DeltaCom; Jump In with ITC DeltaCom; 10 minutes; 2,500 issued; September 1998.

Telecom New Zealand; New Zealand Women's Rugby; NZ$5 denomination; 10,000 issued; July 1998.

Telecom New Zealand; Sean Fitzpatrick; $20 denomination; 1,000 issued; July 1998.

New Zealand's rousing rugby cards

The women's rugby card was issued to celebrate the New Zealand Women's Rugby team's outstanding victory at the 1998 Women's Rugby Cup in Haarlem, Holland. It was given to all standing-order customers who purchased the New Zealand All Blacks 1998 general issue collector pack. The remainder were sold through retail outlets. The commemorative Sean Patrick card features a montage of Sean Fitzpatrick, the recently retired captain of New Zealand's All Black rugby squad. The card comes in a protective folder and sleeve. Of the 1,000 produced, 510 were reserved for customers with standing orders, and the remainder went to phonecard dealers. Call 011 0900 508 805.

Have a good hair day

E Force Inc.; Clairol-Bristol-Myers Squibb; 50 minutes; 4,200 issued; June 1998.

This bilingual card, with time by the AT&T Network through StellarCom, also was produced in a variation labeled "professional," 300 cards. There also were 125 each of "limited edition" cards produced of both the "professional" and "Bristol-Meyers Squibb" cards. Call (416) 588-7755.

SHOWSTOPPERS

19th National Sports Collector's Show

Things are sure different in the phonecard industry. In early August, I attended the 19th National Sports Collector's Convention, held in Chicago for the fourth time. I'd gone to some of the previous Sports Nationals, and recognized a lot of changes have taken place.

Three summers ago, I visited the 16th National show in St. Louis — the first of those shows to have a special phonecard pavilion area. The crowds at the show were enthusiastic, and, with attendance by a number of card manufacturers (many of which created special interactive exhibits to draw crowds), there was an air of excitement to the show. The same held true at the 1997 17th National show in Anaheim.

Last year, I attended the 18th National show in Cleveland — and I found a number of differences. I was surprised to find many booths displaying Ty Inc.'s Beanie Babies dolls. What did they have to do with a "sports" show? — nothing, really: They were simply a way to try to generate revenue.

This year in Chicago, there were no phonecard producers exhibiting in the show — Score Board's having declared bankruptcy, and Frontier's having stopped issuing prepaid cards. Others apparently took the short-sighted view that the Sports Collectors venue was not a place to build up future business.

Cards in America have been widely promoted for three to four years, and there are many good-looking low-priced cards available, both as user and collectible items.

In Chicago, the "hottest" item (based on the long lines it had) was a limited-edition Beanie Baby bear, "Blackie," which you could get for $10 at the Chicago Bears booth.

When I looked around the Cleveland show a year ago, it took literally hours of searching to find any dealers who had phonecards at their booths. Those I found were mostly Score Board Coke and Finish Line racing versions. Of more concern to me at the show was the phonecard absence. There was no special pavilion as in the previous two years.

And this year in Chicago? Things were just about the same. I visited over hundreds of booths, and found only one that had some phonecards out for display. But, that was a "temporary" situation: it existed for only one of six days in space provided by another dealer for a person who'd had produced some phonecards. After that one day, like Brigadoon, the whole display had disappeared, with another person occupying the space.

In looking over some alphabetically-sorted sports trading cards, in the "O's", I chanced to find a $2 Score Board Clear Assets Shaq O'Neal card (SBI S816 from April 1996). That dealer said he had other such cards — but, had simply mixed them in with the regular basketball and other trading cards.

The same type of thing happened when I looked through some non-sports cards at another dealer's table: In with the routine trading cards, I found an RCI / Frontier Techno-Comix card called "Sensua" (FRO 24, from June 1996); but, while I saw a number of duplicates of that card, I saw no other such cards, and the dealer (from Georgia) made clear it was there by happenstance — they had no particular interest in phonecards.

There may have been other such random phonecard insertions in other dealers' booths. I didn't find any others, but it would be nice if phonecards were considered as compatible to the standard world of collectible trading cards, especially if the public opinion was that such cards represent a good way of collecting non-bending cards with relatively small production runs when compared to standard trading cards.

Here are other items of interest concerning the 1998 Chicago show:

People purchasing a multi-day "VIP" pass to this year's 19th show received all kinds of limited-edition items, such as specially-embossed trading cards, coins, etc. Most of these were made in a quantity of 5,000; but, seemingly partly due to inadequate promotion, only about 3,000 such passes appear to have been sold for the event (although, even at $79, the pass struck me as a bargain overall.)

One of the main reasons I got a VIP pass was because it promised a 60-minute Michael Jordan phonecard. But, rather than being anything new — much less anything specially created for the show — it was simply the old December 1995 "Black Jersey" LDDS card looking just like LDD S1118 in the Moneycard Collector Catalog.

I was told the card was not even contributed by the producer — the promoters had bought the cards (which were produced in a stated quantity of 33,155). A disappointing reality-check!

While some of the largest trading card companies (such as Fleer/Skybox) had corporate booths, a number of large ones (such as Topps, Upper Deck, and Pinnacle, which is in bankruptcy) did not have display areas. A Press Pass rep said they considered (going back into) having some phonecards issued in the future but there were no plans for any such thing at this time.

At the convention, I worked to add a dual collectibility feature to certain of my personal phonecards — by meeting people pictured or affiliated with the subject matter of such cards:

For example, I met Chicago White Sox pitcher Billy Pierce, introduced myself, and had him autograph the Ameritech card issued with his likeness on it (AMT S78, from 7/96). And, similarly, I got White Sox slugger Bill Melton's autograph on the card Ameritech issued for him on May 15, 1998; he kiddingly derided the general value of having his image on it, saying, "You'd better use that five minutes of time!"

I obtained Yankee pitcher Don Larsen's autograph on an envelope containing ACMI's black-and-white card picturing his perfect game (ACI SP124, from March 1995).

I had two Mickey Mantle phonecards with me: a sample version of the GTS / Upper Deck card S205 of his portrait, and CyberTract's "His Final Inning" card with a photo of the Mick (unlisted in the catalog, and released in July 1997 in a sequentially numbered quantity of 1,000). I got autographs added to the cards by Mantle's sons, David and Danny, plus signatures from people who played on teams with him — Clete Boyer and Hank Bauer.

What of the general public's perception of phonecards? To do my part in trying to encourage an increased collectability of such cards, I personally gave some kids a specimen "Promotional" version of Score Board's Derek Jeter Double Play card (SBI S1409). All took it, generally with some thanks.

But, when I gave one to a personable 10-year-old named Jeremy (who claimed he had some phonecards along with his regular trading cards), his first question was, "What's it WORTH?!" — and he wasn't talking about the phone time on it!

Later, some older teens talked about certain trading cards they'd gotten in the past, and how they'd gone up in price and then dropped, to their disappointment. That appears to be the overriding attitude towards all collectible cards nowadays, especially in young people: they've become ingrained with the idea that collectibles are mainly an investment, rather than something to just enjoy.

The 19th National was interesting, fun to attend and somewhat informative — but there were no phonecard bombshells. Maybe that'd change if we could get Ty Inc. to attach one to each Beanie Baby.

Sprint scores

Football cards are a touchdown for collectors

by Art Becker

Sprint has been issuing phonecards with sports designs since 1992. Sure, only a half-dozen years, but that's a long time ago in the history of U.S. phonecards. In fact, the company has issued more than 100 million phonecards since then. As you can see from the 18-plus pages of Sprint (SPR) phonecards listed in the Moneycard Collector Catalog, football designs are the most prevalent of the sports that Sprint supports. Not only is Sprint the official telecommunications provider to the National Football League, it is also the official Internet access provider to the NFL.

Sprint football design phonecards can be loosely categorized as Sprint-related, Sprint promotional, and Sprint phonecards generally referred to under a different company's name (e.g., The Score Board). Sprint-related phonecards are those issued by Sprint for the company's benefit. They were either for sale directly from Sprint, or could only be obtained as a premium for buying Sprint services, such as long distance. Sprint promotional cards are private cards issued for another company to use as premiums. Sprint phonecards listed in the catalog under a different company's name are put there as the more logical choice than under Sprint itself. These are among the most difficult decisions to be made when producing a catalog, but which make the most sense in the long run.

Die-cut helmets and footballs

Sprint started its Spree line of phonecards in 1995. Next year saw the introduction of NFL die-cut helmet (SPR S191 to S220), and die-cut football (S221 to S250) series of Spree phonecards. Also issued in 1996 was the "Score With Sprint" NFL phonecard (S264). In the fall of last year, another set of NFL Spree cards was produced by Sprint. This series featured the NFL Quarterback Club Superstars. Another Sprint promotion was for five 60-minute Denver Bronco cards. Customers would get them, one per month, for changing to Sprint long distance.

An exciting and historical set of NFL cards was produced by Sprint for use in January of this year. Anyone switching their long-distance service to Sprint received a set of 32 phonecards. Each of these 10-minute phonecards is a replica of a Super Bowl ticket. Customers were sent four different cardboard phonecard-tickets a month. This meant the customer was obligated to stay with Sprint for eight months, in order to get a complete set.

Officially, this promotion started on Jan. 1, and only lasted until Super Bowl Sunday, which was Jan. 25. However, Sprint was flexible about this requirement, and even some existing Sprint long-distance customers were able to sweet-talk their way into a set of the cards.

Interestingly, these ticket replicas were so authentic in appearance that an autographed set was displayed in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Players who autographed the set were Hall of Fame players Dick Butkus, Ray Nitschke, Larry Csonka and Deacon Jones. These four appeared in a whacky TV commercial for the promotional offer, along with Tom Arnold, Rob Schneider and the ubiquitous Sprint spokeswoman, Candice Bergen. This unique set of cards was later auctioned off at Super Bowl XXXII, with the proceeds being donated to charity.

Customers could also sign up for this Super Bowl Ticket promotion in person at Radio Shack stores. As an aside, there is a Sprint "store" inside every Radio Shack. Sprint Spree phonecards are sold there, and frequently there is a phonecard promotion. For example, a Jetsons phonecard was given away, to anyone who asked, during a specified period. Diehard collectors discovered that they could still get free phonecards, after the promotion had ended, simply by asking! Other Sprint phonecards are given away as a bonus for buying various Sprint telephones and answering machines. Thus, it is a good idea to ask about new Sprint phonecards or promotions every time you visit Radio Shack.

Sprint NFL pagers, too

This is as good of a place as any to mention that Sprint is offering NFL pagers, available with the logo of your favorite team. You can get simple numeric pagers, or alphanumeric pagers, which can receive, for example, game scores. Log on to the Sprint web site at www.sprint.com, or call (800) NFL-BEEP.

Sprint NFL promotional phonecards produced for other companies to use as premiums. They have included the famous, or infamous, Coca-Cola Monsters of the Gridiron card (SPR SPR36), Super Bowl XXIX (SPR214), and NFL Player of the Year (SPR336). In 1997, Sprint produced a 30-minute Dan Marino card for General Mills. Cards were inserted at random in marked boxes of Cheerios, Total, Hamburger Helper, Tuna Helper and Betty Crocker potatoes.

As mentioned before, some Sprint phonecards listed in the catalog under a different company's name. Examples of this category are Sprint; General Mills Dan Marino; 30 minutes; total of 113,000 of four quarterbacks (Bledsoe, Young and Favre); August 1997.

Sprint; Super Bowl Replica Tickets Set/32; 10 minutes each; quantity unavailable; January 1998.

In addition to phonecards, NFL branding has appeared on Visa Cash cards, below, as well as on Visa credit cards, above and at right.

cards produced by The Score Board Inc. (SBI), and 7-11. SBI, now bankrupt, issued several series of football phonecards, with phone time by Sprint. These included a number of different series of cards, shown throughout the 36-plus pages of SBI listings in the Moneycard

Bank of America Visa Cash; NFL Prefers Visa; $20 denomination; quantity unavailable; 1998.

Collector Catalog. Of particular note are the 1996 7-11 NFL series (SBI S1316 to 1327), which were available at 7-11 stores nationwide.

Besides Sprint, GTE has issued several NFL phonecards, including the helmet series (GTE S11 to S41), and the Super Bowl XXIX series (S51 to S53). Sportscall (SPC) issued an extensive line of NFL phonecards in 1996. In fact, almost nine pages in the Moneycard catalog give information about these cards.

The NFL on plastic

Finally, you can collect other types of plastic cards, with NFL themes. A $20 Visa Cash card was issued by Bank of America in late 1997 (see Moneycard Collector, July 1998, page 13). Since Visa is the "preferred card of the NFL," you can get an MBNA Visa credit card, with your choice of any NFL team logo on it. There are even "quarterback enhancements" you can get to go along with the card. MBNA's web site is www.mbnainternational.com, while Visa's web page is www.visa.com. You can get lots of NFL items from their store at www.nfl.com.

So, as you can see, a Sprint NFL phonecard collection can be quite extensive, and fun to collect. Since many of the cards could only be obtained by switching to Sprint long-distance service, dealers are not likely to have large quantities available. That makes these wonderful phonecards all the more challenging to collect.

Living Large

Size does matter to collectors of jumbo cards

by Robert J. Sodaro

Here in the United States we tend to not just do stuff, but do it in a big way. We have not just highways, but superhighways, not just stars, but superstars, not just heroes, but superheroes. So it should come as no surprise that when it comes to phonecards, we sometimes do that in a big way as well. Sure, sure, anyone can make a prepaid moneycard; all you need is a bit of plastic, backed by money or a promise of services, with a pretty picture on one side and a PIN code or magnetic stripe on the other that allows it to buy stuff ... big deal.

That's why there are jumbo cards, not only larger than standard, wallet-size cards — jumbo cards tend to be two to three times larger than standard cards. Some are even bigger. The definition gets a little vague as you consider jumbo cards that are die-cut as well, not only odd-sized cards, but odd shapes, too.

You end up with a lot of weird-shaped cards that are unique to the hobby and desirable to collectors. Many of the cards are issued as show cards by manufacturers who want to show their creativity and flexibility. One such is Continental Plastic's long, skinny card for the 1997 American Telecard Expo in Chicago. More recently, Continental issued a set of three oval die-cut cards, oversized enough to be considered jumbos, for the Intele-Card News show in Miami (Moneycard Collector, "Showstoppers," July 1998).

For the record, the first jumbo issued in the United States probably was Brilliant Color Cards' "Introducing Tele-Card Man." There were 100 of the seven-unit cards issued in September 1993.

Owing to their size and the reduced portability, these cards tend to appeal more to the collector market than to the casual buyer. According to Paul Peeders, general manager of USACard Corp., the cards are definitely a novelty item. Since they are done in very limited quantities, jumbos tend to generally hold a higher price and have higher value in secondary market, he notes.

Limited quantities

"Jumbo collectors are not a huge portion of market," he says, noting that jumbos usually are done in very limited quantities. In 1997, USACard issued a collectible Pink Panther card for Easter. The card — which was die-cut as an egg — was done for MGM/UA. Other jumbos produced by USACard include one for the snack food Cracker Jack that was an incentive that was given to dealers who purchased certain quantity of a standard-sized cards. The run on that issue was 125 cards (April 1997). The image on the jumbo card was different than the one on the standard-sized card.

Among the other USACard jumbos are 100 cards issued in June 1997 for the Long Beach Coin and Collectible Expo, a three-time yearly show in Long Beach, Calif. There were only about 100 of these cards and they bore the same image as regular-size card. A limited run of 125 jumbos was issued later in the summer for a numismatic convention in New York City, replicating the same design as the standard show card.

Peeders says there aren't any specific plans for new jumbos, but admits, "Ideas for jumbos could pop up in discussion or we could use jumbos as dealer incentive — for the purchase of smaller cards."

Another factor that keeps the resale value of jumbos up is that the casual collector is generally not interested in jumbos. They are more for serious collectors or collectors who specifically collect jumbo cards. According to Peeders another reason for this is that jumbos tend to "...carry higher price tag on them. A person sees a jumbo for 30 bucks and feels they can get three smaller cards for 10 bucks a piece."

John Boas, president of Bridge Telecom, not only agreed that jumbo cards appealed to a select group of collectors, but estimates that production of the cards themselves comprises only five to 10 percent of the overall marketplace. He says that segment is growing. Among the drawbacks to oversized cards are their higher price tag, as well as the portability issue.

Boas notes that Bridge Telecom had only produced a couple of jumbo cards, both of them in 1997 (a German telecard and an AT&T Christmas card featuring Snoopy). The Snoopy card was from Beaglefest V in 1997. It was issued at an annual Expo held in Santa Rosa, Calif. The card has 10 minutes of time on it.

More room for artwork

One of the advantages of jumbo cards is the ability to put a larger, more-detailed image on them. "The artwork is generally better because you have more real estate on the card," he says.

Still, he maintains, the overall collectibility of jumbos, "just didn't stack up" to standard-size cards. On the down side, Boas said that jumbos are generally more than twice as expensive to produce than standard cards and have shorter runs.

Steve Eyer, a Mount Zion, Ill., dealer of phonecards, believes that there were simply far more people interested in collecting standard-sized cards than in jumbos.

There is no doubt that jumbo cards can add splash to any card program. Among the "super-jumbos" — cards that get as big as restaurant placemats or bigger — that have made a splash are Phone Time International's card of the Breeder's Cup champion race horse Cigar, 100 100-minute cards issued in October 1996, and a much more recent card by Productivity Partners Unlimited Inc. featuring boxing superstar Oscar De La Hoya (Moneycard Collector, May 1998). Both of those cards measure a whopping 11 by 17 inches. The PPU card, 5,000 issued, has 15 minutes of time.

Jumbos can accentuate events, and among the most recent examples are cards issued by American National Phone Card capitalizing on the Titanic furor spawned by the hit movie. ANPC issued not only a jumbo card that also was die-cut into the shape of the ill-starred ship, but followed it with a more traditional jumbo, then a calling coin, and most recently has come out with another jumbo linking the Titanic with Betty Boop and Popeye.

Brilliant Color Card's "Introducing Telecard Man" is regarded as the first U.S. jumbo phonecard.

In 1997, now-defunct multi-level marketing company Destiny Telecomm International issued an interactive jumbo card that allowed baseball fans the opportunity to listen to a live interview with baseball great Steve Carlton with the company's jumbo Steve Carlton phone card. Holders of the card were able to dial into the card's phonenet, and (an hour and a half prior to the 1997 All-Star Game), hear him interviewed for 90 minutes by Harry Kalas, the "Voice of the Phillies."

For the first 60 minutes of the historic interview, Kalas conducted an in-depth interview one-on-one with Carlton. Then, during the final 30 minutes of the interview, various card-holders were randomly beeped on their own phones. These lucky listeners were then offered the opportunity to ask Carlton a question of their very own (this was also done live – albeit with a time-delay).

According to Ron Tyler, then the product developer at Destiny, numerous other fans who were listening were randomly selected to receive special items that were personally autographed by Carlton. One very lucky fan actually won a trip to the 1998 All-Stars game, which he watched in the company of Carlton.

Virtually all of the dealers, collectors and manufacturers interviewed indicated that while there were some disadvantages associated with jumbos (size, price, print-runs, and availability), the pluses (sharper image, more "real estate" and a more unique product), outweighed the minuses, making the cards a viable addition to anyone's collection.

Further, with growing interest in the larger cards, more and more companies and/or shows were looking into developing and issuing jumbo cards. When it comes to phonecards, living large can be good, thus giving yet another meaning to the latest expression out of Madison Avenue's overused mantra of this past summer: Size does matter. MC

USACard's 25-unit jumbo Pink Panther Gold Easter Egg die-cut complemented the set of three regular-size egg-shaped diecuts issued in early 1997.

This is actually the reverse of a Continental Plastics die-cut done for the American TeleCard Expo in Chicago in April 1997. The obverse shows the same Chicago skyline with the buildings in their normal vertical positions. The card is a good example of how the jumbo format can be used to obtain spectacular results.

American National Phone Card's Titanic jumbo from this past spring is the second of a Titanic trilogy by the issuer. The first card was also a jumbo – as well as a die-cut – while the third was a metal "calling coin."

GETTING STARTED

What to collect? Shall I collect everything? What I like? Just Amerivox, just ACMI, just Denmark, what to collect? The sheer number of cards makes it very difficult to collect everything, unless you have unlimited time and the deep pockets to match. Very few that try continue on that track very long.

The volume of new issues just overwhelms most of the "everything that exists" collectors. While they may spend two days chasing a particularly elusive and challenging issue, 10 new cards may have been issued.

That is precisely what happens in Japan and why almost 100 percent of the seasoned Japanese collectors concentrate of one topic or another. And the Japanese have been at it as long as anyone. They have a 10-year head start on the United States. Their telecards appeared 10 years before U.S. cards. Let's assume they know what they are doing, since there are so many collectors, they've been at it so long, and there are so many telecard shops organized by topics for the urban collectors there.

Explore topics

OK, let's explore topics. First, a topic can be anything that you define it to be. You can, like many early collectors, pick a company, such as NY Telephone (NYNEX), AT&T, GTE Hawaii, AmeriVox, or ACMI. Many people did, and there are many fine collections of those companies around.

Other collectors may define their topic like the stamp collectors do: Lighthouses, Railroads, Airplanes, Cats, and so on. The stamp collectors even have their own society, The American Topical Association, devoted solely to reporting on topical collecting. The ATA list was the beginning of the lengthy list of possible topics we published in the March 1998 "Getting Started" column in Moneycard Collector.

Many other collectors, especially in Europe, where they have been collecting nearly as long as in Japan, collect only one type of card. For example, in Italy, where the phones are made by Urmet, there is a book just on all the Urmet cards in the world. And strong demand comes from Italy whenever a new country begins to issue cards for the Urmet system.

Chip cards

Bolivia began recently and the demand from the Urmet collectors in Italy quickened for Bolivian cards. Many people in France collect only chip cards, since in the past all cards there have been chip cards. And the Bell Canada/Quebec cards are chip cards too. And Bell Canada has introduced the French to Bell Canada cards. Topical collectors usually do not let national boundaries affect their collecting habits. If you collect hippopotamuses, and you have all those issued in this country, why let a national border stand in your way when a card shows up just on the other side, or in Botswana, even? Collect it sure!

Probably the most popular type of card for collectors worldwide is the chip card. Accompanying this article is a checklist published on the Internet by Andrea Lughi at www.geocities.com/TheTropics/8370. At his site, which may be the most advanced of all telecard dealers, are more listings of other types of cards (13 different types), and the countries and major areas that have used them.

card collecting. E-mail seyer@mid-west.net.

The countries and areas listed do not necessarily still use chip cards, nor are chip cards the only cards in use in many of the countries. So some of these cards will be a challenge as you look for some very old cards or obscure telecoms. Many areas such as the former Soviet Union or China can be subdivided yet further as your collection becomes more specialized and complete.

And one thing becomes clear: A prime lesson will be geography. Can anyone identify on a map of the world the location of all chip card using areas? Geography comes second nature to the seasoned topical collector. Let's get the map! Now what was that? Any collectors in Saba.....?

NATIONS BANK USING PRECIS SYSTEM. Precis Smart Card Systems Inc. of Oklahoma City, Okla., has announced that NationsBank will use its PreciCache smart-card system for the FANCash cards used for the Carolina Panthers professional football team. The new system will enable fans to purchase drinks, food and merchandise in expanded locations at the Panthers' Ericsson Stadium. Partnering with Precis and NationsBank to implement the system are Schlumberger Smart Cards & Terminals and VeriFone Inc.

"The PreciCache system enjoys a proven track record in the stadium/area market," says Jim Lout, president and CEO of Precis. First used at Oklahoma State University, PreciCache products are used by the Chicago White Sox baseball team and St. Louis Blues hockey team, among others.

FANCash cards are available by calling (800) 711-0728. The 1998 FANCash cards feature six designs, preloaded with $10, $20, $25, $50 and $100. Four cards make up a puzzle set, featuring players Sean Gilbert, Fred Lane, Michael Barrow and mascot Sir Purr. The other two 1998 season cards,

Two of the new NationsBank/PreciCache cards feature the Carolina Panthers team logo and the Charlotte, N.C., skyline. Four other cards form a puzzle set.

ITA TAKES STAND AGAINST FEDERAL EXCISE TAX.

The International Telecard Association Board of Directors has launched a grass-roots lobbying effort on behalf of a bill by Sen. John McCain (R-Arizona) to repeal the 3 percent federal excise tax on telecommunications. Meeting in New York in September, the board acknowledged that the immediate prospects for passing such a bill are not great, but wanted to be on record as being in support of the repeal.

The board also approved a recommendation by Kathleen Shapiro, chairwoman of the Collectors and Dealers Affairs Committee, to develop an Internet auction for collectible cards as a fund raiser for the ITA and its foundation.

In other action, the ITA board decided to enter into an agreement with the Atlanta Dial Around Compensation Clearinghouse to provide a clearinghouse service to association members for their dial-around compensation liability. That service could be provided as early as Dec. 1.

ALPHA 2001 GRANTED PATENT, WILL PURSUE ROYALTIES. For development work more than 10 years ago, Alpha 2001 Inc. has been granted a pioneer U.S. patent for its intellectual property used by the prepaid telephone industry. According to the company, up to 90 percent of the prepaid phonecard companies might be using the technology covered under the patent.

The official announcement on the grant of U.S. Patent No. 5,790,636 — also known as the "Marshall Patent" — after its creator Marvin E. Marshall, was made during a press conference at the 1998 Telecard World show in New York. The company also announced plans to pursue its newly acquired rights under the Marshall Patent, as well as highlighting the impact the patent will have on the existing prepaid phonecard industry.

Actively seek licensing

According to company spokesman Mario L. Herman, the company has established a wholly owned subsidiary known as Alpha 2010 LLC. This marketing and licensing arm of Alpha 2001 Inc. will actively seek out licensing opportunities for the patented telephone technology in the prepaid phonecard market. The company has retained the professional services of telecommunications industry specialists in a Big Five international accounting and consulting firm to assist the company in determining royalty rates for the patent that are reasonable and consistent for the industry.

Herman, who has been named vice president and general counsel of Alpha 2010 LLC, noted, "The tremendous impact of the 'Marshall Patent' technology on the industry has been undeniable in bringing down telephone costs. We recognize the implications that this announcement will have in the marketplace and we look forward to licensing of its users in the industry." Herman says research has shown that an estimated 85-90 percent of the prepaid phonecard companies are currently utilizing the telephone system of the Marshall patent. To aid in the collection of royalties from such telephone companies, the company has engaged intellectual property attorney Arland Stein of the law firm Reed Smith Shaw & McClay to handle patent licensing and infringement litigation.

Identify users

Stein, who was on hand for the announcement said plans call for Alpha to identify companies using the Marshall telephone and talk with them concerning an appropriate license. "We are optimistic that most companies will want to license, given the pioneer nature of the patented invention and the breadth of the patent claims. We have made extensive efforts to determine the proper license fees for the Marshall patent to avoid litigation, but if litigation is the alternative, infringers will be vigorously pursued and an injunction against use of the system plus higher royalties will be the result for those companies."

The work that resulted in the invention covered by the Marshall Patent was started in 1988 and completed in 1990. It is a unique telephone system for both debit and credit travel card users that enables service providers to program a telephone switch through computers and computer software so that the system completes, cuts off, re-routes or refuses to complete calls as predetermined by issuers and their customers.

Alpha 2001 Inc. is located at 5667 Stone Road, Suite 160, Centreville, Va. 20120. The company's website is www.alpha2010.com.

Another company, Aerotel USA Inc. announced earlier this year that it had reached a licensing agreement with AT&T on the "Kamil" patent, No. 4,706,275, so called after its inventor, Israeli scientist Zvi Kamil. That patent contains 23 claims covering a broad range of prepaid calling card products and services. Aerotel's Mitchell Knisbacher, the company's director of licensing, said at that time the company was pursuing licensing agreements with other large companies, but had not imposed any restrictions on eligibility.

ROY ROGERS TO RIDE AGAIN ON CARDS. Just In Time Inc. in conjunction with the Roy Rogers Museum and The Happy Trails Foundation have announced plans for the first edition of the Roy Rogers Collector Card Set.

The Roy Rogers Museum and The Happy Trails Foundation have granted licensing rights to Just In Time Inc. of Cape Coral, Fla., to produce the first-ever set chronicling Roy Rogers and his history. Just in Time owner William Miedel says future sets could depict such stars of Westerns as Gene Autry, Hopalong Cassidy and possibly John Wayne.

The Happy Trails Foundation/ Roy Rogers Museum sponsors the "Cooper Home" for abused children in Victorville, Calif.. Currently there are 40 children living at the home. Proceeds from the card sales will help generate the $185,000 needed for classrooms at the home.

The set will consist of 10 three-minute prepaid cards (time by North American Telephone) mounted in an 11x14 wood picture frame surrounding a letter of authenticity signed by Roy Rogers and Dale Evans. Each set will be numbered and limited to 5,000. Each card will depict Roy Rogers from various times in his life. From childhood to adult, these pictures have never before nor will never again be used with prepaid calling cards, Miedel says.

Just In Time Inc.'s owner William Miedel says these are among the images that will appear on the Roy Rogers Collector Card set, planned for release in October.

AMERITECH RELEASES NEW WHITE SOX CARD. Ameritech released the last of its three 1998 White Sox All Stars phonecards at an August baseball game. This card features home-run hitter Ron Kittle, who was the American League Rookie of the Year in 1983.

Like the others in the series, the five-minute card was printed in a quantity of 15,000 – and, the Sox staff ran out of cards for the customers, since more than 22,000 people showed up for that game versus the Seattle Mariners (both to see Ken Griffey Jr. chase Roger Maris' home run record, and because it was "Dog Day" and customers were allowed to bring their pooches to the park.)

Kittle was there in person, and a number of people were able to have him autograph the phonecard, creating a signed variation. Some recipients were seen discarding the glossy carrier that came with the card.

SMART CARDS COMING TO GERMAN McDONALD'S.

According to a published report in The Wall Street Journal, 870 McDonald's restaurants in Germany will get smart-card terminals through Hewlett-Packard's VeriFone subsidiary. The installation will allow consumers to load cards with cash at the restaurants as well as deduct it. Other deals with fast-food companies and other restaurants outside Germany also are being sought, according to Robin Abrams, VeriFone chief executive officer. No schedule was announced for the program.

MORE INFORMATION ABOUT SCORE BOARD CARDS. Writer Jim Chudnow's recent visit to the 19th National Sports Collectors Convention (see "Showstoppers," Page 33) turned up more information about certain Score Board phonecards.

Regarding the Coke I series (from November 1995), various cards were stamped "sample" – and only a small number (perhaps 10 to 25) of the cards were chosen to be specimens (including the acetate cels, such as SBI 506).

The same was generally true concerning Coke II – and, in fact, various cards (including the $25 Ice Skating card from the Four Seasons set, SBI 791) were specially hand-numbered to indicate that only 25 such specimens were done.

Chudnow also reported an interesting peculiarity: For the 17th National show held in June 1996, Score Board released a card with a photo of Cal Ripken Jr. batting in his record-setting 2131st consecutive game the previous year; you can see that card as SBI S1312 on page S-39 of the catalog. But, the same image was released on a card from them four months earlier!

The basic images of both cards are the same, with a few variations: Instead of saying $21.31 in calling time, the earlier card says "5 minutes." And, where the scoreboard is in the bottom left of the June card, an overlay says "The 37th National Winter Convention & Candy Exposition / Feb. 15-17, 1996."

A symbol on the back of the earlier card says "AWMA / Puzzles Into Profitability," and time was to expire Feb. 28, 1997 (although the Sprint toll-free number listed is still active). "From talking to people, I'd estimate that there were around 500-1,000 done for a confectionery-related convention, and extremely few ever made it into the collector marketplace," Chudnow says.

STORED-VALUE EXPERT MERKERT TO CHAT.

On Tuesday, Oct. 27 at 9 p.m., the America On Line phonecards chat room will be the site for a formal chat. The guest will be Robert J. Merkert Sr., columnist for Moneycard Collector magazine ("The Scoop on Chips") and president of RM Associates. Merkert has more than a decade of experience with stored-value cards. If you do not have AOL, a month-long trial version can be downloaded. Please contact Ginger Gragg at gingerwho@aol.com for more details.

NUMISMATICS CARD LISTINGS AVAILABLE. Lee Quast of World Paper & Numismatics in Plymouth, Minn., has released his eighth edition of his listing of collectible show cards commemorating U.S. numismatic shows. The quarterly publication is available for an annual subscription of $4, and a free copy is available to anyone who requests one. A total of 191 cards issued for numismatic shows are listed, along with the description of each card, the issuer and the quantity issued. Also included are the date the card was issued and the denomination. The telephone/fax number is (612) 533-6564.

SCA Promotions (SCA)

SCA Telecards is a division of SCA Promotions, the largest underwriter of promotional telecard in the United States. Founded in 1986 and based in Dallas, Texas, SCA provides over redemption coverage for sports promotions such as when a person attending a basketball game may win $1 million by scoring a basket from the center of the court.

Since 1994, SCA's telecard division has successfully produced promotional programs for a wide variety of commercial clients in the U.S., Canada and Great Britain. It provides coverage to the carriers of phone time in a promotional program. Such coverage includes the telecommunications company in the event that the usage of phone time in a promotional program exceeds agreed-upon levels. The effect of this unique over redemption product has been to reduce the overall cost of promotional programs and make them more attractive to companies wishing to use prepaid cards as a means to promote the sale of their products.

Many of the issues in which SCA has played a pivotal role are not listed here, but rather under the carriers, e.g. the new Cellular Final Four promotions are listed under Sprint (SPR). Other SCA clients include: Coca-Cola, One-80, Johnson & Johnson, Telly Time and Comp USA.

Listed here are the programs in which SCA's name has figured most prominently.
