ON THE MONEY

Happy Birthday to us, Happy Birthday to us ...

That might seem like boasting, but it's really just a celebration of Moneycard Collector's three wonderful years in an exciting new hobby.

Some who would dispute "new" might not see the changes that we see as a matter of course — new products and programs, new ways to use moneycards, new ways to take images and make them more vibrant and more interesting than ever before. Card issuers merge, new companies spring up, others fall. It is a ever-changing medley that gives collectors a freshness offered by few other hobbies.

Mergers of Regional Bell Operating Companies or the recent Smartalk Teleservices Inc. acquisition of GTI and merger with SmarTel Communications are examples of those changes. The purchase of GTI resulted in the destruction of thousands of that company's branded phonecards. Many retail branded cards were destroyed, as well as Budweiser and Sea World issues, but major James Bond sets and Star Wars-themed cards were preserved. GTI invited KARS Unlimited's Kathleen Shapiro to be on hand to ensure that collectibles were not destroyed.

Whether your collection is of phonecards or stored-value cash cards — or, we hope, both — we can offer one forecast with certainty: The next three years will be as invigorating as the past three years. Increased use of interactive features and new printing techniques will make cards more vibrant and even more interesting.

As we said in last year's anniversary issue, and still believe, the phonecard market will continue to mature and expand in North America. As knowledge of prepaid cards grows, so will the number of collectors. Early U.S. cards will continue to be the focus of attention for many collectors. Witness the $5,050 price tag on an AT&T Illicall TeleTicket a few months ago.

We believe change also will be evident with stored-value cards, as prepaid cards are used in more closed-loop applications at stadiums, festivals and other sporting events — in fact, at any event in which crowds gather. We make that prediction for the simple fact that the cost of producing and handling currency will continue to increase, not decrease.

Building upon the momentum of Visa Cash SVCs released at the Atlanta Olympics last year, a variety of companies such as Precis Card Systems, Technology @ Work and West Sports Marketing have produced cards for closed-loop systems that are both functional and collectible.

The future of collecting SVCs holds its own special challenges. As technology makes it possible to cram even more information on silicone chips, there is a danger that smart cards will become too smart for their own good as far as collectors are concerned.

"No question: We will lose more of our personal privacy as we move more into a smart-card society," Gerald Celente, author of "Trends 2000" said on CNN's "Saturday Morning" recently. We continue to advocate stored-value cards that do not contain personal information and thus can operate like they were meant to — as a new form of currency — no strings attached.

The introduction of the first Moneycard Collector Catalog in September aims to lay a foundation from which the hobby can grow. Since our illustration of an actual catalog page in the August edition (Page 42), we already have had feedback from readers. We welcome that. In a very real sense, the catalog and the magazine belong to the readers, and your feedback will help shape the future of both publications.

One of the architects of that catalog, Moneycard Collector Cataloger/Writer Victoria Stone, will be celebrating the book's launch from a few aisles away. She has been hired by Coin World, a sister publication at Amos Press Inc., as a staff writer. We wish her well in her new endeavor, as we applaud her intelligence and work on the catalog.

We hope Moneycard Collector readers will welcome Cataloguer Kathy Utz back to our ranks. Kathy worked in a part-time capacity at Moneycard Collector during 1995-96 and is no stranger to hobby publications, having been employed at Coin World from 1980-88. Look for some comments from her in this month's "Words on Numbers," Page 12.

READERS ALWAYS WRITE

Missing telephone numbers

In recent issues of Moneycard Collector, I have noticed that you no longer include telephone numbers with the information on new issues of telephone cards.

This was a real help to collectors and it would be really nice if you would reinstitute that practice.

Dr. Uriel P. Federbush, Israel

The decision to take telephone numbers out of the "New Issues" section, implemented in our May 1997 edition, was done for a variety of reasons. Accuracy of the published numbers was an ongoing concern, compounded by the fact that some issuers did not want to handle collector inquiries. Numbers that connected readers directly to issuers also did a disservice to dealers, cutting them out of the loop. As well, it was felt that publishing the numbers was being used by some issuers as a substitute for advertising, rather than the proper role of complementing an advertising program.

Danish collectors seek U.S. ties

We have had the pleasure to read a number of Moneycard Collector magazines and find it very interesting to read about the American way of collecting telecards and moneycards. The similar items in Denmark are telekort and danmøntkort/Visa Cash.

A lot of adults and children collect telecards and moneycards here, and the Danish Collectors Association has about 350 members, including me and my son, Nicolaj, 13. We organize monthly exchange meetings at the local library and annual Nordic Card Fairs.

The normal ways for the Danish collector to get cards are to pick up used ones left in phone booths; at swap meetings; by asking family members and friends who have been abroad for used cards; by buying telecards from the phone companies (which is expensive for younger collectors); and through free ads in "second-hand magazines."

We wish to contact collectors in the U.S. and Canada and exchange telecards. Our proposal is to swap 10-20 cards with collectors in the U.S., who would like to have 10-20 cards from us. We appreciate very much your help and cooperation to open the exchange of telecards "across the pond."

Danmønt; Birch Laminate Sunflowers; 10 Kroner, 2,238 in December 1995; 100 Kroner, 4,000 in April 1996. Of the 276 Danish residents who returned the wood laminate card with a description of their experiences - they received a free 20-Kroner card if they did so - 90 percent reacted positively. Consumer reactions were being sought through the cards' expiration of July 31, 1997. (See "With Danish, Please" July 1997 Moneycard Collector, for more on Danmønt cards.)

AT&T; Nabisco
Oreo die-cut;
10 units;

February 1997.

No Oreo dumping

(Editor's note: This was a reply sent by e-mail to "Corporate Corner" columnist Bruce Harmon following an inquiry he made concerning rumors that the AT&T Oreo diecut card ["New Issues," May 1997] would be dumped for $1 a card.)

Bruce,

The rumor is false. We will not be lowering the price ($5 plus $1 for shipping and handling) on our 85th OREO Anniversary phonecard. The usage expires on July 4, 1997 and we will cease selling them around that time. Until then, they can be purchased from our site.

Let us know if you know where this rumor came from and please inform people about its lack of validity.

phonecards@nabisco.com

We applaud Nabisco's reply. An issuer who sets a price and then gives into temptation and lowers that price to clear out remaining inventory reaps a few dollars while sowing the seeds of distrust among dealers and collectors.

A Few of Our Favorite Things

Uhat better way to mark Moneycard Collector's third anniversary than with a look at some of our favorite phonecards? We asked phonecard dealers to list for us their five favorite cards of 1997 (some fudged on this request, and included 1996 cards), as well as their five most favorite cards of all time.

Some of the dealers were so insightful that we hesitated to cut their comments to fit this space, so we will continue this look at favorites in the October issue, where we will hear from Frank Ataw of FA Marketing; Buz and Betty Houghtaling of B&B Fone Cards; Lenny Rapp of Phone Card Connection; Terry Windholz of TW Phonecards; and Paul Peeders of USACard.

Here's the first half of who responded, and what they had to say about their favorites.

STEVE EYER, Steve Eyer Inc., Mount Zion, Ill.

FAVORITES of 1997

1. AT&T; Snoopy Set of 3. Part of the 12-card Snoopy set; these lovable cards are as squeezable as Snoopy himself.

2. Cable & Wireless; Asia Direct Panda. This card sold out to those lucky enough to obtain it. Mintage of 725 ensures a key status with this Joint HK Telecom/C&W issue. Wish I had a hundred!

3. USACard; Pink Panther Easter Eggs. Issued in three colors, this issue caused a scramble amongst dealers putting three color sets together. It will not go to $100, but these cards will not be forgotten.

4. USACard; Cracker Jack Sailor Jack 20 Unit Jumbo. Cracker Jack is timeless, and I have selected the one that has the original character, and a booklet which goes with the card to explain the history of Cracker Jack.

5. The Scoreboard; McDonald's set of 50, $2 cards. Fairly common, and readily available at face value, this set gives the collector lots of McD cards at little outlay per card, and you get a sense of the McDonald's history, too. A good foundation for any beginner.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. ATT TeleTicket; McDonald's/Coca Cola, 3 Minutes, 4/93. Although 4.5 million were supposedly made, all were either given away, used, and then discarded; or else were officially destroyed by the McDonald's Corp. They have steadily climbed to about the $100 level and should go up. Try to get one with the leaflet that was first given away with each card.

2. USACard; various Pink Panther cards. The Pink Panther cards have become a series, and since there are many followers of Clouseau and his hilarious movies, the Pink Panther series will be ever-popular.

3. Amerivox; private cards, generally five-minute, low mintage cards, 1992-96. My favorites are the series of six cards from the Helicopter Association of Hawaii. There are hundreds of low-mintage AmeriVox private issues — quantities as high as 1,000, but more likely, 250, or 100 or less. A mintage of 100 will seem like nothing in a few years. These are tomorrow's rarities, available for $20 or so now.

4. Ameritech; Michigan

Bell Series, 40 cents to $20, 1987. This series embodies all that an early series of cards has come to mean. It is really 10 cards, some common, some rare. The minimum value of any is about $65 today. All but the most expensive are readily available, and make up a big chunk of early U.S. telecard history.

5. Frontier Communications; Piggly Wiggly; $10. Now to finish my five selections, I'll contradict myself. I've chosen this fairly large quantity card, because of the timelessly popularity of the name of the supermarket, and also because when I was just a toddler, that's where I spent some time each week helping my mother shop.

BRUCE HARMON, Acme Telecards, Sunrise, Fla.

FAVORITES of 1997

Here's a rundown of my favorite cards of the past year, not necessarily in the order listed.

1. USA Card; Pink Panther Easter Egg set.

There has been no other card or set to date that has generated the enthusiasm and excitement that this set generated. It was issued as a three-card set, but dealers had no idea how many of each color they were going to receive. Once the cards arrived, the phone stared jumping as dealers tried to put together as many sets as possible. This set has to be my favorite of 1997!

2. USACard; Cracker Jack No. 1. This card did more than any other card previously issued with regard to stirring up collector interest. The second scratch off which revealed one of three denominations is what created the excitement.

3. Image Telecards; Tootsie Roll 3-card Anniversary set. One of the best looking sets in my opinion of all time. The reproduction and coloring of these three cards is unmatched in my opinion. The Dots and Junior Mint candy cards look good enough to eat!

4. Karis Communications; Dino-Motion set. Another one of my favorites from this year. This is a lenticular set of cards featuring Dinosaurs which was issued for Associated Foods. The process is sharp and collectors are really impressed with this process.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. Sprint; Gillette I Final Four set (1995). Without a doubt, this is the granddaddy of all phonecard sets and certainly the largest if you count all the variations. For months collectors and dealers alike were swapping these like candy trying to put sets together and it was FUN!!! More of this would be great for the hobby.

2. USACard; The Pink Panther Easter set. Released this year, it picks up where the original Gillette set left off. The trading frenzy started up again even though there were only three cards in this set. A very popular image, plus it was limited.

3. AmeriVox; Frank and Sons No. 1 set. A limited run, with only 500 sets issued when phonecard collectors were just starting to realize how popular McDonald's cards would eventually become. Collectors were buying these for maybe $50 or $60 initially and now this set books at roughly $500 to $600!

4. Vista United; Premiere Cast Member set. Granted, Vista United cards don't have Disney characters on them but they are the official card of Disney World, sort of, and really the first true Disney issue in the U.S. that was pretty much readily available to collectors.

JACK B. RITCHIE, JR's Telecards, Aiken, S.C.

FAVORITES of 1997

1. Cable and Wireless; 6-card Alaskan Wildlife Series. This set fits into my theme of wildlife, the C&W logo, and is just an all-around must for the serious collector. I love it.

2. TresCom International; Die-cut Coke, Coke Carnaval Miami. I am a diehard Coke collector of all kinds of Coke memorabilia and this card certainly fits that category. One of the best Coke cards I have ever seen.

3. USA Card; Cracker Jack Story Jumbo. This cards brings back memories: Cracker Jack has been a part of my life and it is a well-known brandname. A piece of Americana. So sorry they only printed 125, as I would like to share this card with all collectors.

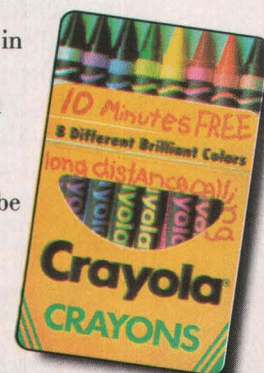

4. Sprint; Sprint's 100,000,000. A prepaid calling card in 24 karat gold with a mintage of 3,000. I was fortunate enough to buy this card from Sprint's Prepaid Foncard website. This card proves that the phonecard industry is going to survive and it is a great milestone in this industry. I will always treasure mine.

5. AT&T; Nabisco Oreo die-cut. Something every collector can afford and identify with. It looks good enough to eat.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. AT&T 1992 Democratic National Convention Card. Only 500 issued. This represents almost the start of the phonecard industry in this country. I feel that this and all other AT&T Teletickets will be to the phonecard industry as the 1913 V Liberty nickel is to coin collecting. As this industry continues this card and other AT&T Teletickets will be priceless and a piece of the phonecard industry history.

2. Trescom International; Coke Carnaval Miami, die-cut card.
See above.

3. USA Card; Cracker Jack Card.

The original. Its looks like the actual box, I want to open it up and try another taste of Cracker Jacks.

4. CDG; Original Crayola Crayon Card. My gosh, I grew up with these crayons, colored with them, made marks on the wall, floor, etc., and the card looks just like a box of crayons. A timeless trademark.

5. Grapevine Telecards; Passport '96. A surprise set. I love this set as it has a replica of the first phonecard made. If I can't own the first, then I want the replica. A must for any serious collector and very affordable.

GIL BARRY, Buffalo Bill Telecard Gallery, Santa Barbara, Calif.

FAVORITES of 1997

1. Sprint; McDonald's Set of 3 Die-cut Burger, Fries and Shake.

This is the cutest set of cards ever produced. A must for McDonald's collectors and nice cards for any collector.

2. LDDS Worldcom; Warner's first corporate set of 2, Bugs and Daffy.

This set, with time by LDDS Worldcom, is the very first U.S. Bugs and Daffy, and is hard to find.

3. TotalTel; Demi Moore - Cigar Aficianado. This card is almost impossible to find. It is tops for 1997 in terms of price appreciation, and is still going up.

4. Sprint; McDonald's McKids. A very attractive McDonald's card, this is the second corporate McDonald's card and was a fund-raiser, not a collectors' issue.

5. AT&T; World of Coke No. 6 McDonald's and Coke Set of 2. This set of 2,500 is very underrated and a real sleeper. It has everything going for it.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. Sprint; 50-unit McDonald's Corporate Anniversary Set of 2. This is the first corporate McDonald's U.S. set. It is low mintage and scarce, and is a must for all McDonald's Collectors.

2. Premier Telecom; Frank & Son McDonald & Coke Series II, 1,000 issued. The Frank & Son McDonald's-Coke sets have a lot going for them — low mintage, popular theme, attractive and hard to find.

3. Alaska Telecom; First Issue Flag chip cards, Set of 2. This is one of the first U.S. chip cards. It is attractive and rare and has a lot of appreciate potential, as well as being the first issue of this telephone company.

4. SNET; Ronald McDonald House. This nice card is one of the first authorized McDonald's fund-raisers and was hard to get. It was not issued to sell to collectors, which makes a card more collectable, and is one of the few McDonald's cards issued by a major telco.

5. 1989 Manning Prison Optical Set of Three.

These Landis & Gyr optical cards are some of the first cards issued for actual use in the U.S., in the South Carolina Department of Corrections. It is a real classic and surprisingly affordable. It belongs in every collection.

STEPHEN L. SCHWARTZ, Sears Phone Card Department, Orlando, Fla.

FAVORITES of 1997

1. USACard; Pink Panther Easter Egg Set of 3.

An excellent idea and promotion.

2. AT&T; Snoopy Card-A-Month final issues.

Cute images, AT&T, and the 12 cards make you smile when you see them.

3. AT&T; Nabisco Oreo die-cut. Excellent creativity and image. It sort of makes you want to go buy a package of Oreos and eat some.

4. ACMI; Garfield's Valentine's Day. Cute image of Garfield looking like the combination of James Dean and The Fonz.

5. USPS Liberty Cash.

The first cards of a new program that probably will roll out nationwide and will have a collector following over the years.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

1. Ameritech Coin$aver Jumbos. These are internal cards from a Regional Bell Operating Company with low mintages. They are great rarities — only 10 complete sets exist.

2. Japan; Disney Fantillusion II "The Magic of Light." Arguably the world's most beautiful card. The colorful foil specks make this spectacular card seem like it was sprinkled with pixie dust from Tinkerbell.

3. AT&T TeleTickets. Any and all of them. Not because of their images, but because they represent the early cards from the U.S. These first AT&T issues are scarcer than current prices reflect.

4. Landis & Gyr IntelExpo. Issued in 1985, this is considered to be the very first U.S. telecard. Again, a favorite of mine because of the historical significance.

5. Vista-United Telecommunications. Any and all cards from this Disney-owned company. I have to admit I collect the Vista-United cards for pure enjoyment. There is something about the Disney logo that represents fun and happiness and childhood.

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED

There might be a lot of junk-food images in this month's column, but the cards are anything but junky. Yum, yum! We've got Milky Way, Tootsie Roll, KFC, Burger King, Coca-Cola, and Cracker Jack. Bugs Bunny is here too, as well as a Golden Gopher. What's up, Doc? These cards are!

MILKY WAY LITE. Creative Communications; 15 minutes, 8,000 issued; April 1997. Just a little fat? Gotta eat twice as many to feel right! This pleasant card is covered in July's Moneycard Collector, Page 43.

GOLDEN GOPHERS. BIG TEN BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS. Frontier Communications; 10 units, 5,000 issued; April 1997. The Coca-Cola logo makes this another reasonably priced addition to your Coke collection, and the card features "Big 10 units."

BUGS BUNNY. Tell One; 10 minutes; 450 issued; June 1997. This is not the first time they have used a stamp to create a phonecard. Others have included Marilyn Monroe, James Dean, and now Bugs himself! A jumbo also was issued (no, they did not enlarge the stamp!) 50 were made.

TOOTSIE ROLL: CAPTAIN TOOTSIE; LIFE OF THE PARTY. Image Telecard; Captain Tootsie; 5 minutes, 1,750 issued; May 1997; Life of the Party; 5 minutes; 1,500 issued; April 1997. Image Telecard's dynamic duo makes a nice corporate entry to the candy collection. For more details, see July's Moneycard Collector, Page 43.

BURGER KING/LOST WORLD. Tell One; 10 minutes; 1,000 issued; January 1997. One of the best designs from Tell One, this one is the centerpiece for loyal Burger King collectors, and it compares favorably with any fast-food card design. Nice! For additional details see July's Moneycard Collector, Page 45.

COKE BOTTLE DIE CUT. TresCom International, 10 minute; 1,200 issued, March 1997. The card, complemented by an eye-catching folder, was released at Miami's Calle Ocho Festival to VIPs. Some entered the collectors market, but most are "lost" to the VIPs. This will be a key card in Coke collections.

KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN. Cable & Wireless/Telenova; 5 minutes; 750 issued, May 1996, for a New York franchise. The good Colonel is a finger-licking addition to your corporate and fast-food collections. Details appear in June's Moneycard Collector, Page 43.

CRACKER JACK BUTTER TOFFEE AND SAILOR JACK. USA Card; 10 units; 1,893 mintage, June 1997. The regular sized card has a variable unit scratch-off. Lucky collectors will receive 12 or 15 units. But not too many will: the breakdown is the same as the original Cracker Jack card — 1,500 with 10 units, 300 with 12 units and 93 with 15 units. A jumbo was released, too. It shows Sailor Jack and his dog Bingo. Also included is a book outlining the story of Cracker Jack since its founding in 1893. I especially like the jumbo, mintage 125.

America's Most Wanted is compiled monthly by Moneycard Collector and written by dealer Steve Eyer of Mt. Zion, Ill. All dealers are encouraged to participate by faxing a list of their company's top sellers to (937) 498-0876 by the 20th of each month.

This month's America's Most Wanted is courtesy of: ACME Telecards; B&B Fone Cards & Promotions; FA Marketing; Global Telecard Company; JR's Telecards; Phonecard Connection; Powell Associates; Rick's Phone Cards & Racing Collectibles; TW Phonecards; United America Cards; and USA Card.

How to Use The Moneycard Collector Price Guide

Price listings in the Moneycard Collector Price Guide are provided only as a guide and are based on price lists supplied by several dealers around the world and on other market information. Listings without prices will be completed as suitable market information becomes available.

Of course, actual card values must be determined by the buyer and seller, and the Moneycard Collector Price Guide is just that - a guide.

WORDS ON NUMBERS

Price Guide Changes?

As we mentioned in "On The Money," Victoria Stone is no longer with Moneycard Collector. She has taken a position with Coin World, a sister publication here at Amos Press Inc. The dedication and energy she gave to the magazine and catalog will be missed.

If you're like me, and start at the end of a magazine and work your way forward, then you haven't read On The Money yet so let me introduce myself. My name is Kathy Utz, and I am glad to be returning to Moneycard Collector. I will be assuming Victoria's duties, which include, "America's Most Wanted," "Hot Cards," "Words on Numbers" and the Price Guide.

The Price Guide is my subject for this month. In this issue, we integrated the jumbos with the regular cards under their respective issuers. The Moneycard Numbering system makes them easy to spot — they have a capital "J" following their number. We started to do the same thing with the sports section of the Price Guide, then stopped and wondered if this was a good idea.

Have you ever gone into the grocery store only to find out that they decided to move everything around (to make things more convenient of course) and now, you can't find anything? If you are like us, that's when you probably say to yourself, "Well, no one asked me about this change." So, before we make any additional changes in the Price Guide, we want to ask you. After all, it's your Price Guide, and we want you to be comfortable with it.

Here are some questions to ponder, and respond to, if you wish:

Do you like the jumbos integrated with the other cards?

With our catalog numbering system, sports-related cards are labeled with an "S" before the number making them easy to identify, however, should we still keep them in their own Price Guide section or integrate them?

If you would like to share your thoughts and suggestions on these issues as well anything else regarding the Price Guide, our fax number is (937) 498-0876, or e-mail me at kutz@amospress.com. I would appreciate hearing from you!

Kathy Utz, Cataloguer

EYER'S WORLD FIRST BID OR BUY SALE

AN EXCITING WAY TO BUY EXCITING TELECARDS

A Bid or Buy Sale is perhaps new to you. It is well established in numismatics and other collectible fields. If you would like to put items into your collection immediately, give us a "Buy" and those lots will be immediately sent to you. Or, if you believe our price is not tempting enough, you may give us a "Bid" on that lot for a lesser amount. At the closing date of the sale, those lots that you are a successful bidder on will be invoiced to you.

Please bid by lot number, in even dollars only, and note that we will add $2.50 postage/handling to all shipments. Check your order carefully. We are available by phone, fax, e-mail, or mail to serve you. We do not compromise our customers by divulging top bids. You may pay by VISA, MasterCard, or check. Submit check with order for "Buy" orders, and be sure to separate "Buy" orders from "Bid" Orders. Invoices will be issued August 30 for successful bidders.

An Extraordinary Historical Industry Set

One of the most important Telecard issues we have seen in the market occurred during the American Tele-Card Spring Expo '97 in Chicago. The International Telecard Association (ITA) managed to put together a commemorative "ITA Dinner" Eight Piece Telecard Set in a coordinated design, showing the Skyline of Chicago, all issued by separate Telephone Companies:

- 1) Cable & Wireless - 5 minutes, 500 pieces issued
- 2) ConQuest - 5 minutes, 500 pieces issued
- 3) Frontier - 5 minutes, 500 pieces issued
- 4) GTE - 5 minutes, 500 pieces issued
- 5) GTS - 5 minutes, 500 pieces issued
- 6) MCI - 5 minutes, 500 pieces issued
- 7) WorldCom - 5 minutes, 500 pieces issued
- 8) Innovative Telecom Corp. - 5 minute Jumbo, 500 pieces issued

In addition, ITA also included two bonus cards from the same event:

- 9) ACMI - 5 units, Eagle over Planet Earth, 500 pieces issued
- 10) American Express Telecom, 10 units, 500 pieces issued

The first 7 cards are included in a very attractive folder. All 10 cards in this set have the same coordinated and matched serial number.

The set is available from Powell Associates for

plus $7.00 S&H via Fed Ex

DIAL-AROUND COMPENSATION BOUNCED. An order issued by the Washington, D.C., U.S. District Court of Appeals in early July has scrapped much of the Federal Communications Commission's dial-around compensation rules. According to the International Telecard Association, it seems that, as a result, charges imposed on major carriers by those orders will not be incurred and thus subscribers to 800-number services likely will not have those charges passed through to them.

The appeals court ruled that the FCC acted "arbitrarily and capriciously" in choosing its 35-cent dial-around compensation rate and applying it in the first year only to large interexchange carriers, as well as failing to provide interim compensation for payphone operators for "0+" calls and calls from inmate payphones.

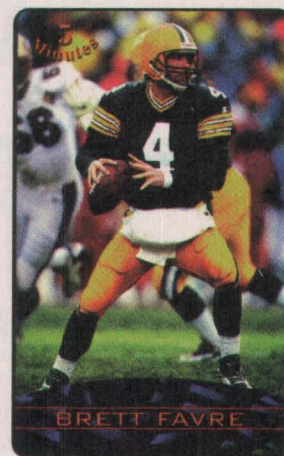

Mountain America Technologies; Taco Bell; 5 units; 5,500 cards issued; February 1996.

DESIGN GOOD ENOUGH TO BITE. Mountain America Technologies Inc. of Colorado Springs earned a "Best Packaging" honors in this year's IntelCard News Phone Card Excellence Awards for its taco-shaped carrier that held a Taco Bell "The Border Calls" phonecard. The cards were given away to customers at new Taco Bell franchises in Colorado Springs in early 1996.

SCA TELECARD SHOOTS FOR THE STARS. SCA Promotions and Future Call have signed an agreement for SCA Telecard Services to design, produce and implement Star Trek phonecard promotions. "We are excited about creating some major national programs with SCA's contacts at advertising and sales promotional agencies," says Stephen Curtis, Future Call's vice president of marketing.

FAVRE FEATURED ON SCORE BOARD FREEBIE. Respondents who filled out a survey in the June 1997 Moneycard Collector are getting free phonecards featuring Super Bowl champion Green Bay Packers quarterback Brett Favre. According to Score Board, which provided the cards for the survey giveaway, the intended Coca-Cola card program was delayed and could not be launched for at least two to three months. Moneycard Collector apologizes for any confusion caused by the switch and hopes that survey participants enjoy their free cards.

Score Board Inc.; Brett Favre; 5 minutes; quantity unavailable; June 1997.

VIGDOR JOINS A-MARK BOARD. Luis Vigdor, founder of Powell Associates, the New York-based firm that specializes in precious metal and phonecard collectibles, has joined the board of directors of A-Mark Corp. The California-based company is the parent firm of A-Mark Precious Metals Inc., Superior Stamp and Coin, Goldline International Inc., Precious Metals Finance Corp. and A-M Handling Co.

"We are very pleased to have Luis join our Board," says A-Mark Chairman Steven C. Markoff. "His decades of management and marketing experience in the precious metals and rare coin markets will be a powerful asset."

Vigdor foresees a renewed trend of growing demand for precious metals and rare coins, especially with the rapidly growing use of electronic money substitutes like cash cards and smart cards. "An old U.S. gold or silver coin is an irreplaceable part of real American history," he says.

BELL ATLANTIC, MCI CONNECT. Bell Atlantic-Virginia and the local service affiliate of long distance giant MCI have announced they will connect their networks in the state. It marks the first comprehensive interconnection and resale agreement between one of the Bell Atlantic companies and a major long distance company under Section 251 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996. The seven Bell Atlantic operating companies have now reached 58 comprehensive interconnection agreements with 18 competing local exchange companies.

"This is the largest carrier to date that we have signed an interconnection agreement with," says Hugh Stallard, president and CEO of Bell Atlantic-Virginia. "We now look forward to the day when we can compete with MCI on all fronts, including long distance."

Bell Atlantic cannot offer long distance in its service area until it complies with a 14-point checklist prescribed by the Telecommunications Act. Stallard applauded the agreement with MCI as being a major milestone in meeting the spirit and intent of the act.

MCI LETS KIDS PICK STARS. MCI, which sponsored the "All-Star Workout Day" during July's All-Star Game, linked its phonecards to part of the activities. Part of the day's proceedings was an All-Star Celebrity Softball game, featuring such celebrities as John Grisham, Bernie Kosar, LeAnn Rimes, Joe Walsh, Jeff Foxworthy, Richard Roundtree and Nicole Sullivan. One hundred Boys and Girls Club winners of MCI's "Design your own PrePaid Card" contest were asked to select the most valuable player from the celebrity softball game.

TAPPING THE NETWORKS

A handful of websites already had sprung up by early July, heralding a new network marketing company. Former top money-earners at DESTINY TELECOMM INTERNATIONAL left that company to form UNIFIED INTERNATIONAL CORP. The new company's products reportedly will include prepaid phonecards, including sports-themed collectibles featuring Michael Jordan and Dan Marino, direct-dial long-distance using Sprint as the carrier and nutrition products. Other gift and electronic products also are planned.

"Unified International is the only company to blend the talents of independent network marketers with the management skills of well respected corporate executives," proclaims one of the websites visited. The management team includes Richard W. Pryor, former president of ITT World Communications; Dennis R. Casey, former vice president of marketing GTE Telecom Group; H. David Friedman, former vice president of sales for U S Telephone; and R. Stephen Jennings, M.D. FAAFP, former medical director and formulator for Bodywise Inc. A rotating team of independent representatives serve on the board of directors and Product Review Committees.

STRATEGIC TELECOM SYSTEMS has agreed to pay $23,630 in civil forfeitures to the Wisconsin Consumer Protection Division. The payment will cover the cost of the consumer agency's investigation into complaints against the Knoxville, Tenn.-based company.

While more than 7,000 Wisconsin residents reportedly signed up with STS, there were only 41 complaints in more than two-and-a-half years of business, says STS spokesman Ken Renner. STS has not admitted any wrongdoing, he notes, and Wisconsin authorities have not required the company to change any marketing, materials or practices.

"We were dumbfounded," Renner says of a Consumer Protection Division press conference which labeled the STS operation a pyramid scheme. He says STS is considering possible actions as a result of that press conference. STS feels the complaints stemmed from extravagant claims made by "renegade representatives."

Independent representatives of Destiny and STS have been busy issuing phonecards. Recent notable cards include:

Comet card aids transplant effort

Cards by Tom and Kathy Dobbels of St. Johns, Mich., could be purchased for a minimum $10 donation; with proceeds going toward kidney transplant expenses for Kathy Dobbels' father, John A. Kirby. The image, from a photo of the Hale-Bopp comet appearing over a chapel near Kingsville, Mo. was donated by Kansas photographer Vic Winter.

Collector cards capture historic images

The artwork of Richard W. DeRosset is highlighted on cards by Anita Barber of Spring Valley, Calif. In addition to the card marking the dedication of the Statue of Liberty in 1886 and the attack on Pearl Harbor, DeRosset's lithographs are the subject of another Pearl Harbor card showing the U.S.S. Nevada, as well of a two-card "Star of India" set.

Cards to give you the 'Warmzzies'

The cards, by Brenda Passe of West Palm Beach, Fla., feature the "Warmzzies" created by the graphic artist Valdez. Their motivational messages include "Go For It!" "Attitude is Everything" and "Visualize & Believe."

CORPORATE CORNER

What do undergarments and phonecards have in common? Simple: Purchase a Wonderbra at participating stores and you'll receive a free 10-minute phonecard issued by PromoTel. The card is of the cardboard punch-out type. Even though it's a cardboard card, it's nice to be able to buy something and receive the phonecard at the same time as opposed to having send in some UPCs, etc. There's also no scratch-off over the pin.

Here's one for all of you cigar smokers. SmarTel recently issued a four-card set for General Cigar Co. to promote sales of the popular Garcia y Vega line of cigars. Each card has 15 minutes of time with no scratch-off and features one of the following celebrity cigar smokers: former NFL head coach Mike Ditka, former Major League pitcher Rollie Fingers, former NBA coach Red Auerbach and NFL Hall of Fame Quarterback Terry Bradshaw. One card was packaged inside specially marked boxes of Garcia y Vega cigars in time for Father's Day. A total of 150,000 cards were issued but very few hit the collectors market, making this a neat set to try to find.

If you're a car enthusiast, you'll love one of the latest issues from Grapevine Telecards. Grapevine issued 1,300 10-minute cards featuring a shiny red Porsche for Automotion. The cards were given away at that catalog company's annual swap meet in San Jose in June. Some of the cards also were offered to dealers. One warning — collectors will not see the Grapevine name anywhere on this card. Issuers who don't make a card's lineage obvious run the risk of confusing the casual or beginning collector.

McDonald's cards continue to be popular and one of the more interesting McDonald's issues comes from Caymen Resources — 500 matched and numbered two-card sets were issued to promote a marketing relationship between McDonald's and Cross Air. The cards were distributed by Cross Air to First Class passengers flying during the promotion as well as passengers who experienced flight delays. Each card has five minutes of time with both sides of the card in full color. You may also be able to find a set from your favorite dealer.

In Canada CTN (Canada Telecom Network) recently produced a card for the Canadian Red Cross. There were 2,000 five-minute cards distributed through a special mailing. An interactive card, recipients had to answer a brief survey in order to receive the 5 minutes of phonetime.

Other offers I just recently came across include an offer from Pillsbury for a 20-minute card. Two UPCs and the original form which could have been found in your Sunday coupon section recently had to be sent in. The offer expires Aug. 31, 1997.

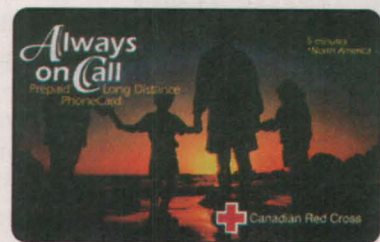

I also discovered two different cards available recently at Best Buy. Both were music related and were available at the time of purchase for the latest solo CD by Bon Jovi and the latest CD by the Lost Boys. According to the Best Buy circular it indicated that there were only 30 of each card available at each participating store so they could turn out to be extremely difficult to find.

Grapevine Telecards; Automotion Porsche; 10 minutes; 1,300 issued; June 1997.

BILLION & BABIES

There are those of us who start reading the daily newspaper with what's on the sports page. The traditional sports fan could be rooting for his favorite team to make it to the finals. Then again, he or she could be sitting there in disbelief over the new salary one of those athletes is hauling in.

The truth is that a sports league makes about one third of its total revenue through having its name attached to lines of products. In the case of athletes, product licenses and endorsements could exceed their salaries. Welcome to the world of sports licensing.

According to the Dec. 12, 1996 edition of Forbes, Mike Tyson made $75 million last year, making him the top money-earning athlete in the world. He probably could have topped the $100 million mark through licensing if his reputation wasn't so unsavory. As it was, his licensing revenue was a flat zero, and with the June 28 ear-biting debacle, it is likely to remain at zero.

And then there's the 1996 earnings of NBA superstar Michael Jordan. He earned $12.6 million in salary ($2.6 for the 1995-6 season and a flat $10 million for the most recent NBA season). On the other hand, Jordan also earned a whopping $40 million dollars through licensing.

So what does this have to do with phonecards? Plenty. Try to tell LDDS Worldcom if it would sell as many of its phonecards if it didn't have rights to Jordan's image. Score Board Inc. has trumpeted its exclusive licensing contracts with Shaquille O'Neal and Troy Aikman. 7-Eleven stores also boast of having Cal Ripken Jr. not only on its phonecards, but cutting television commercials about them as well. It's big business.

There doesn't seem to be a direct correlation between how much an athlete gets paid and whether a phonecard of that star — if any — is attractive to collectors, although trying to collar all the top-paid athletes on phonecards could be an interesting subgroup to anyone's sports card collection. Collectors and fans are much more interested in the athletes and sports that they like than how much is in those athletes' wallets. We took a look at the top-salaried athletes and then went pouring through our collections.

BASEBALL

According to that issue of Forbes, the top money-grossing baseball player of 1996 was Cal Ripken Jr. Of course, the issue didn't take the 1997 season into consideration. Albert Belle,

Gary Sheffield and Tom Glavine just might have upset the new Iron Man as far as salary is concerned. Both Belle and Sheffield are now making over $10 million a year. Glavine just signed a deal with the Braves for $8.5 million a year for the next five years.

#1 Cal Ripken Jr. — Baltimore Orioles

$6 million salary/$6 million licensing/$12 million total

No shortage of Ripken cards out there, particularly after he topped Lou Gehrig's consecutive-games-played mark. As it stands, Score Board has a fist full of them. The first three were part of Score Board's Major League baseball set of 1995 (all $10 cards). There's also a 1996 $100 Assets issue. Ripken — and Gehrig — also appear on cards done for Teletrading Cards Inc. by Mercury Marketing.

#2 Ken Griffey Jr. — Seattle Mariners

$8 million salary/$2.8 million licensing/$10.8 million total

Junior was one of the first athletes to hop on the phonecard bandwagon. His first one was a 1994 $10 issue through AmeriVox. He next appeared on a 24-unit telecard by World Tel-Link in 1995. Since then, he's appeared on a number of Score Board/7-Eleven issues.

#3-4 Albert Belle & Gary Sheffield/ Chicago White Sox & Florida Marlins

$10 million salary each/Unknown licensing

This pair replaced Frank Thomas, Barry Bonds and Cecil Fielder just on salary alone. Thomas first appeared on a phonecard in a 1995 GTS issue, the same one that had Griffey. Tom Glavine, who trails Belle and Sheffield in salary, had his first phonecards issued in conjunction with his fan club in 1995. There are two two-card sets of Glavine cards, one autographed, the other not. InterNet provided the phone time. Maybe some of Belle's on- and off-field antics have hurt his phonecard history — there's only a 1995 Score Board card of him.

BASKETBALL

#1 Michael Jordan — Chicago Bulls

$12.6 million salary/$40 million licensing/$52.6 million total

His Airness has a ton of cards through LDDS Worldcom (over a dozen of them). He's also exclusive to them. You see, NBA players can pick or choose their own phonecard deals, something no other professional team sport athlete can do.

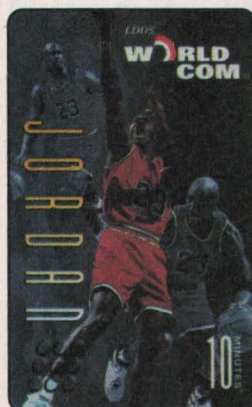

#2 Shaquille O'Neal — L.A. Lakers

$12 million salary/$17 million licensing/$29 million total

Shaq has an exclusive licensing deal with Score Board, so you can guess who has put out all his phonecards. With O'Neal now making a name for himself in movies, don't be surprised if you see him doing a "Steel" (his next feature movie) card in the near future.

#3 Juwon Howard — Washington Bullets

$12 million salary (approx.)/licensing unknown

The Miami Heat and the Bullets went to war over Juwon Howard? In the end Howard ended up the third best-paid athlete in the business. Unlike Jordan and O'Neal, Howard doesn't have an exclusive deal. That's why you can now find him in a series of Score Board cards as well as the recently released AT&T set (he's on a 15-unit card). Unless Howard decides to go exclusive, expect to see him on a lot more cards.

#1 Emmitt Smith — Dallas Cowboys

$13 million salary/$3.5 million licensing/$16.5 million total.

When you are one of the top running backs in the NFL, you also expect one of the top salaries. You also have a lot of phonecards. Along with Cowboy teammates Troy Aikman and Michael Irvin, Smith's appeared on more than his share of Score Board phonecards. They were also on one of the earliest card sets in the U.S., the 1993 IEM Telecom set (Smith and Aikman both had $10 cards, Irvin was on a $3 issue). In 1994, he was in on a card produced by AT&T for Reebok athletic shoes. He was also in the 1995 GTE NFL All-Star set. Since then, Smith has been in several Score Board issues.

#2 Dan Marino — Miami Dolphins

$9.2 million salary/$2.5 million licensing/$11.7 million total.

In 1995, Marino made his phonecard debut with a GTE 5-unit card. The future Hall of Famer can since be seen in the Destiny Telecom Hall of Fame series on a 10-unit card. Watch more appear in the future as the Hall of Fame beckons. In fact, GTS did a Hall of Fame issue of the Dolphins' legend as early as 1995.

#3-4 John Elway — Denver Broncos

$6.8 million salary/$2 million licensing/$8.8 million total.

Steve Young — San Francisco 49ers

$4.5 million salary/$4 million licensing/$8.5 million total.

Elway and Young also first appeared in the same Reebok/AT&T set as Smith. They are also on scads of Score Board phonecards. Individually, Elway — not Young — has appeared in the previously reported Destiny set with Marino. Then again, Young was on an ACMI phonecard set with Snoopy, so who's the coolest?

GOLF, HOCKEY & RACING

I've combined this group in part because, as a whole, their salaries aren't as awe inspiring as baseball, basketball and football.

#1 Michael Schumacher — Grand Prix/Formula One Racer

$25 million salary/$8 million licensing/$33 million total.

Does it shock you that the third best-paid athlete in the world is a racer? Is it even more shocking he isn't even part of the NASCAR circuit? This probably explains why there are no U.S. phonecards of this driver.

#2 Arnold Palmer — Golfer

$0.1 million salary/$15 million licensing/$15.1 million total.

Palmer is the mirror image of Mike Tyson. Tyson makes nothing through endorsements while Palmer makes almost nothing at his sport these days. He doesn't have to. Again, surprisingly, no phonecards. The same can be said for this year's golfing sensation, Tiger Woods. Then again, Woods is managed by the same team that handles Michael Jordan. Can a phonecard deal be in the works?

If you're looking for a golfer with a phonecard, the only top golfer to have any is the Golden Bear, Jack Nicklaus, who did a set of Quick Call phonecards for the Kroger grocery chain.

#3 Wayne Gretzky — New York Rangers

$6 million salary/$5.5 million licensing/$11.5 million total.

Gretzky made his mark in a 1994 set by IDB Worldcomm, and also is featured out-of-uniform on a popular Cigar Aficionado card by TotalTel.

#4 Dale Earnhardt — NASCAR Circuit

$2.5 million salary/$8 million licensing/$10.5 million total.

There are a variety of phonecards of this racing legend, ranging from one he did with Race Call in 1995 to promote his Chevrolet dealership to another five-card set he did for the same company. Earnhardt has also been on a $2, $5 and $25 for Finish Line/Sprint that was issued in 1995.

On a final note, don't be surprised if Gretzky's team captain, Mark Messier, makes the list by the end of this year. He's in contract negotiations with the Rangers right now, and the team is offering him an identical deal to that of his teammate. Messier can be seen as part of the NY Rangers Stanley Cup series — not phonecards, but a series of a prepaid transit system cards issued by the New York Metropolitan Transit Authority.

You won't be able to get a Moneycard Collector Catalog for another month, but here's another sneak peek at what it will contain. Here's the text of "What Makes a Card Collectible?" and "Protecting Your Cards" that appear in the foreword:

Most collectors will tell you that any card is collectible. And that's true — every card produced today is collectible. A better question to ask is "What makes a card valuable?" Based on a few criteria, you can easily separate valuable cards from ordinary ones.

Date of Issue: Older cards are more valuable for several reasons. First, many were produced in small quantities. Because they were produced in such small quantities, they were usually used — either for testing purposes or more likely, by people who did not realize that keeping the card in mint condition would be very desirable. Lack of knowledge caused much usage and discarding, making mint condition cards rare. Additionally, older cards were the first cards — who was around to collect the first stamps or coins in mint condition? And, because they were first, they often weren't perfect. Extremely valuable errors, varieties and recalled cards abounded in the early days of production.

Quantity Issued: Cards with "open" printings generally will not be as valuable as those in limited editions. When printers state the number of cards printed of any issue, you at least have an idea of the available quantity, meaning those cards may be more likely to appreciate in value than those with "open" quantities. If there is no quantity given, then the possibility exists that additional cards will be printed when needed, often diminishing the value of existing cards. It is also important to know the reputation of the card-issuing firm with which you are dealing, and its past policies regarding quantities.

Always keep the law of supply and demand in mind: 300 cards of an unappealing type may be far less valuable than a 10,000-card edition that appeals to people from all walks of life.

You also may wish to watch for cards issued primarily for functionality, rather than collectibility. Some companies are producing collector cards in limited editions of 1,000-5,000. This may not be very many, but if the retention rate is 90 percent by collectors, the available supply may outweigh demand. On the other hand, some companies have released cards in open-ended quantities (often 15,000 or more) that are primarily intended for use by the general public. Most non-collectors will use these cards and throw them away. A 5-percent retention rate of 15,000 (750) results in far fewer cards than a 90-percent retention of a 3,000-card collector edition (2,700).

Protecting your cards

If you have taken the time and patience to accumulate a moneycard collection, you should give some thought to taking care of it. Here are some do's and don'ts:

Before putting them into any other type of storage container, put each each card in a see-through plastic sleeve.

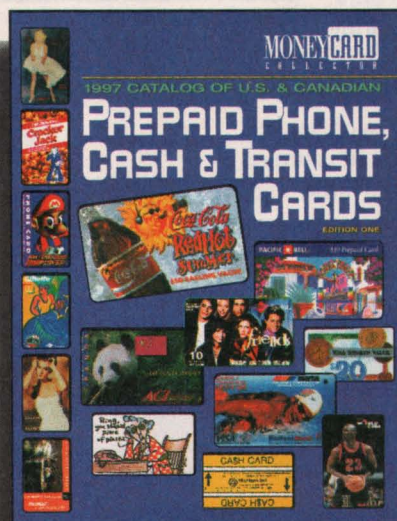

We recommend against putting your collection in a shoebox or any other container that permits them to move around. This can scratch and damage your moneycards, greatly decreasing their collector value. Do not expose moneycards to direct sunlight, since the sun's rays can fade colors or cause damage to the magnetic or optical markings.

Do not use photo albums and other types of sleeves not specifically created for collectibles. Many photo albums and other types of similar office supplies contain plasticizers that will eventually damage your cards

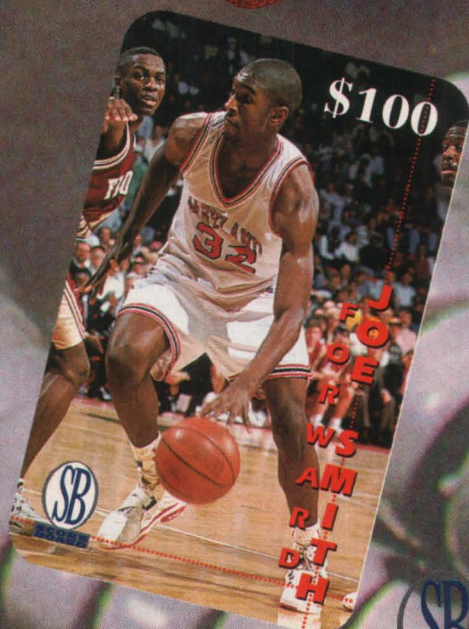

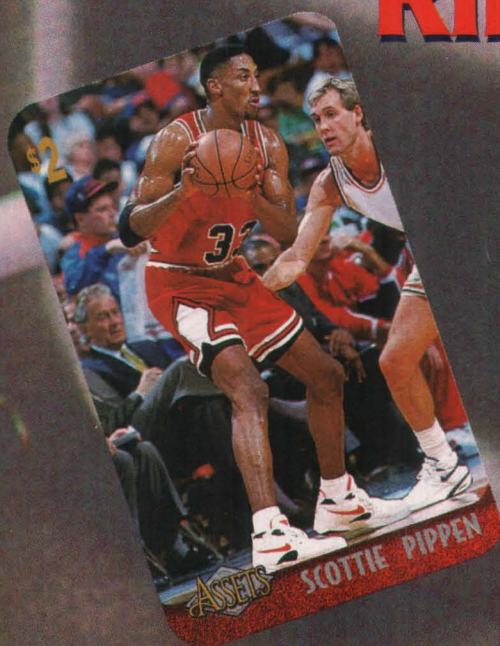

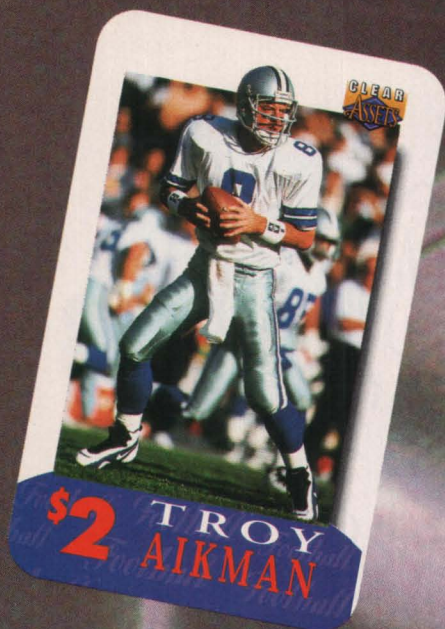

There are a variety of other ways to properly store moneycards to protect them against damage. Card holders are fully transparent plastic sleeves to hold individual cards. Moneycard albums contain clear plastic pages with a number of pockets, and are available in various sizes and different types of pockets. Moneycard pocket albums have a limited number of clear pages, making them easy to carry to clubs or shows.

It also is a good idea to keep a record of the serial numbers of your treasured cards. This should be done for two main reasons. You might want to look for different serial card numbers in your specialty series. The other reason is the possibility of theft — having those serial numbers could help recover your collection.

Errors, Freaks AND Oddities

From a collector's perspective, to err is divine

by Art Becker

While those of us with an unusual sense of humor might think that errors, freaks, and oddities refer to collectors, let me assure you that this article is about collectibles. Specifically, it is about collectibles that aren't normal, for some reason. The reason itself is usually a mistake, or an accident, and the resulting phonecard is not what the producer intended.

Let's take a broad overview first. Most collectors are perfectly happy collecting whatever it is they collect. But, human nature being what it is, the average collector is also fascinated by things out of the ordinary. This might also explain why people slow down to look at a traffic accident. As Jim Moran of Telequest, says, "Errors are always good for hobbies. They add suspense, interest and excitement to even the most mundane collectible. While not everyone is going to run across a profitable error, even the collector on a budget can usually afford to purchase a commonly occurring error. If he runs across it accidentally, even the better."

It's easiest to begin the EFO discussion in terms of stamp collecting. Postage stamps are cranked out by the billions. It follows that a certain percentage of these billions might have some defects. There are dealers who specialize in selling EFOs, and there are always several EFO ads in each issue of Linn's Stamp News, a sister publication of Moneycard Collector magazine at Amos Press.

There can also be big money involved. If you have an extra $100,000 to $200,000 you could probably buy one of the USA's most famous errors, the 24-cent Inverted Jenny airmail stamp of 1918. This is a two-color stamp. When the second color was printed, the sheet was placed into the press upside down. A mere 100 of this error are known to exist.

What if you work for a security printer, and some error stamps end up in the trash, where they are supposed to be destroyed? A man who recently retrieved and sold some of these was convicted in federal court of theft and interstate transportation. He faces 10 years in jail and a $250,000 fine for each of the two counts.

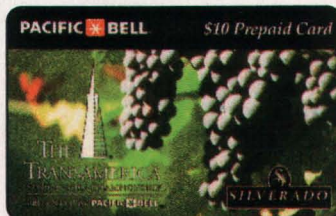

Time to back up a bit. The stamps stolen from the security printers were NOT EFOs. Why? Because they were detected by inspectors, and marked for destruction.

They were never issued or sold to the general public, like the Inverted Jennys were. So, an EFO has to be a mistake of some sort, and has to be sold to the public. Further, normal versions of the collectible must have been issued, and common sense says they should be the majority of an issue. If they were the minority, then the "normal" collectible would be the EFO, wouldn't it?

Another potential error occurs on the printing press if the color registration is off. It is the degree of shifting that determines whether a stamp is an EFO, or just a crummy stamp. The perforation process also has potential for errors.

Now let's apply all this to phonecard collecting. Isn't it on the order of apples and oranges? While stamps are printed only by the government or private security printers under contract, just about anyone can print a phonecard.

Proofs of postage stamps are tightly controlled. While some phonecard companies tightly control their proofs, and only make the limited number required to make a final inspection prior to production, other companies make large quantities of so-called proof cards, and then sell them to the public as a regular matter of course. While many collectors enjoy this type of material, others refer to it as printer's waste. Collect what you want, but keep in mind that such items tend to be expensive, and who will buy them if you ever decide to sell? Will you have to take a loss?

Phonecards, whether they are made of paper, cardboard, or plastic, are printed. Most are printed in sheets, and then cut apart. Since they are larger than postage stamps, there are fewer of them on a sheet. The designs, of course, are a lot larger than stamps, and only a very small amount of each card is printed, compared to millions of any of the popular designs of USA stamps. In many cases, the printing presses used to print phonecards are newer and more automated than those used to print stamps. This also means there are probably less opportunities for things to go wrong. If anything does go amiss, it's easier to detect, for the same reasons.

Phonecard errors

Quick! What's a famous phonecard error? Is it worth big bucks? How did the error occur? Several readers and phonecard dealers were asked these questions. Interestingly enough, each person came up with a different card.

Roger Streit of the International Phonecard Exchange in New Jersey, brought up the famous PacBell errors, where there were incorrect denomination codes on the reverse of some cards. Two denominations of the 1994 Holiday cards were legitimate error cards. A $5 card said $20 on the reverse, and a $10 card said $5 on the reverse.

Here's what most likely happened. There were three denominations of this design. These PacBell cards were printed several to a sheet. The obverse and reverse are printed, and later the security information is overprinted on the reverse (800 number, PIN, bar code, and, thus, the amount of phone time). With all the various denominations having the same color and looking similar on the obverse, and identical on the reverse, when it comes time to add the security information on the reverse, it's easy enough to mix up a $5 sheet with, say, a $20 sheet. Such an error is far less likely to occur with a card of a single denomination for a single design. Any error for a single design would likely affect the entire press run.

On the other hand, as Jim Silva says, this is exactly what happened to about 100 of the GTE Hawaiian Telephone Sumo Connection cards, also issued in 1994. Some 10 unit cards were printed on 3-unit reverses. With the PacBell cards, the wrong info was printed on the reverse, whereas with the Hawaiian Tel cards, the wrong info was printed on the obverse. These legitimate error cards are selling for considerable sums of money.

Brian Chanin suggested that the AmCall phonecards which had Emmitt Smith's name spelling wrong were errors. At first glance, you might agree, and Brian is certainly correct that something is wrong. The thing is, by definition, an error has to be in the minority, with the majority of the cards issued being normal. If all the cards are the same, as in this case, then there is only the normal card, no matter what mistake might be involved.

Brian also brought up the famous AmeriVox Billboard cards, with the missing R registration symbol. These are a bit tougher to fit into a category. The symbol wasn't included on two sets of promotional cards, was on the third set of promotional cards, and was on the actual production cards. Since every card in each batch was the same, again, these would not be error cards, but rather "varieties."

Another AmCall mistake is the 1994 card commemorating the Peace Corps, which was referred to as the Peace Corp. on the card. Again, a mistake, as there's a big difference between a corps and a corporation, but not an error according to our definition. It is easy to misidentify which cards qualify as GTE Hawaii; Sumo Connection. Some 10-unit obverses were printed on 3-unit reverses.

DeltaCom; Nabisco Icebreakers. A blurry version, sequentially numbered as is the rest of the card series, has been spotted.

“errors” and which should merely be thought of as mistakes.

Jim Silva brought up the famous Bell Canada La Puce chip card spelling error. On one of the early $10 card designs, 100,000 of them were produced with the word “located” spelled incorrectly on the reverse. Spelling mistakes are easy to make, especially in a country with bilingual residents. The error cards were withdrawn, and the design reprinted. However, Bell Canada was gracious enough to provide up to 10,000 of the errors for collectors to buy. That means that the error card is readily available, and probably sells for no more than the correct card.

Blurry images

Lenny Rapp has a DeltaCom Nabisco Icebreakers card which is blurry, as though somebody kicked the printing press. It's numbered in the regular card series, and all the other cards seen have been normal. Sounds like an error to me. Would anyone pay extra for it as an EFO? Al Chiaravalle of GTC in New York suggests that the DeltaCom Icebreaker card was double-printed, instead of blurry. He also mentioned other phonecards cards with wrong mintage numbers, and several that had cutoff edges. Roger Streit recalled the 1995 AmeriVox Strasburg Show card which was also difficult to read. These cards were recalled and reprinted. About 50 of the errors exist.

Steve Schwartz, of the Sears Phonecard Department in Florida, came up with the LDDS LeRoy Nieman Soccer Card. About 50 were printed without the denomination or carrier information on the obverse. This error sells for about $50, while the normal card goes for about $15. Likewise, Bruce Harmon, of ACME Telecards in Florida found a recent Milky Way Lite phonecard with missing wording across the bottom of the obverse. There was only one like this in the batch, so it's definitely an error.

Ulf Helmke in Germany brought up the Dr. Lubke German phonecards, which had a green banner as part of the design. On some of the cards, the banner was yellow. This is a missing color error, as the blue ink didn't print. Kris Nolen, of Kall Me Kards in Texas, has an Azalea Festival card where the WalMart logo on the reverse is pink, as opposed to the correct purple. Note that missing or different color shades on postage stamps are easily forged in some cases through the use of chemicals. This is a common scam with postage stamps.

Exposing a stamp to bleach or other chemicals can alter the color from a common shade to a rare shade. Expertising services exist to determine the genuineness of such stamps, and chemical alteration is easy to detect. Since phonecards are usually coated, it's more difficult to alter them to forge error cards.

Speaking of color varieties, while they are common enough in postage stamps, especially ones printed in the millions, they are a bit more unusual in phonecards, due to the modern computerized equipment and materials used, and the much smaller press runs. Still, they do exist. Jim Moran likes the various color varieties of the June 1995 expiration Coca-Cola 600 cards. The color of the large Coke logo ranges from the correct red to orange, the latter selling for two and a half times the price of the normal card.

Cards have been issued with the wrong 800 number on the back. Roger Streit mentioned a 1993 LDDS set, while more recently PacBell took a set of cards, the Transamerica Senior Golf Championship, off sale for a similar reason. There are two 800 numbers on PacBell cards; one for English and one for Spanish. One of these numbers was incorrect. Some cards were given as part of the tournament fee, some were sold, and some of the high denomination cards were repaired with the correct 800 number and sold. Most of the low denomination cards were never sold.

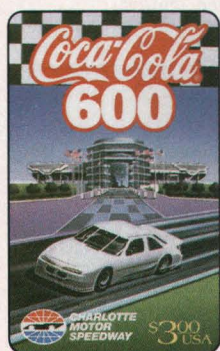

Barcode varieties

My favorite error card is the medium barcode variety of the small barcode variety of the 1995 Gillette Disposable Razor promotional phonecards (known as Gillette I), issued by Sprint. While it is safe to say that the small barcode cards are merely a variety, as 25 percent of the entire press run had small barcodes, only a few thousand have the medium variety of the small barcode. This variety appears to be unintentional, and thus would probably fall into the error category. It commonly sells for more than most of the other Gillette cards.

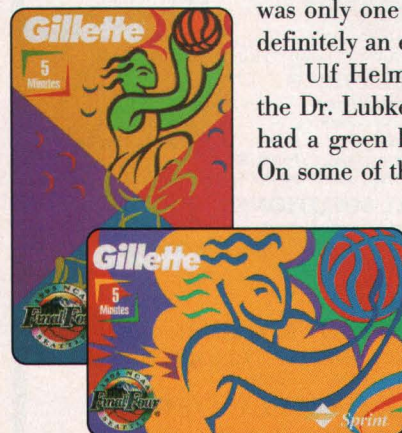

Mike Hersey came up with some cards. What do you think? Mistakes or errors? Two AT&T Weather Channel cards, one with a reversed logo. Two AmeriVox show cards featuring a $5 Gold coin where one card says the coin is in the possession of the owner and the other card says a picture of the coin is in the possession of the owner. An Omnitel phonecard that is numbered 1100 of 1000. Mistakes or errors?

Collecting EFOs can be fun. Whether they are worth a small, large or even any premium over the price of a normal card is up to you. As Jerry Seinfeld might ask, “If you can buy defective clothes and towels at a discount, why can't you get defective stamps and phonecards at a discount?”

The author is a Washington, D.C. attorney and phonecard collector.

MMC/Speed Call; Coca-Cola 600. Color varieties on the Coca-Cola logo range from red to orange.

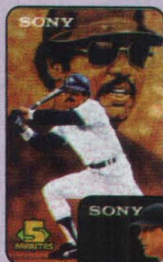

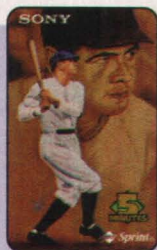

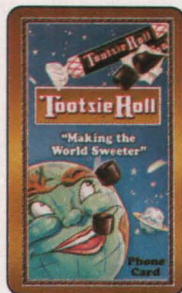

Sprint; Gillette I NCAA set. A few thousand cards of the small barcode variety have a medium barcode instead.
