More Disney Magic

While an agreement with AT&T means that no more Vista-United phonecards will be issued, collectors could be the winners as the AT&T logo combines with the magic of Disney images.

... FLORIDA UNITED NUMISMATISTS (FUN) 1999 SHOW INFO ...

Collectors, Dealers and even some Issuers have requested information about the 44th Annual FUN Show in Orlando

Info requests from Collectors across the country has been strong, indicating real interest in attending this Show, despite the travel costs. We have verbal commitments for Booths from six Dealers, so far. We even had requests from two phonecard Issuers and told them this is strictly a Collector oriented Show, not a Trade Show and they are welcome as long as they are interested in setting up to sell their cards to individual Collectors. More info in our ad, next month. Until then, we hope you will consider making plans to attend and be a part of the 'fun' in Orlando. Dealer Booth applications are now available from KARS.

ON THE MONEY

How to celebrate a fourth birthday? What does being four mean?

For a child, it might be the first birthday of which he is aware. The cake, the singing, the brightly colored packages take on real meaning. Awareness kicks in — this means something.

For Moneycard Collector, perhaps, the feeling is not so much different. The magazine has grown through four years of the industry's wonders (and, of course, our share of skinned knees). With turning four, we reach a new level of awareness. There is a hobby out there, alive and kicking, and we believe that it will continue to grow for a good, long time.

The same trends we spoke of at this time last year — mergers and acquisition of telcos, the increasingly strong interest in promotional cards — are still there and could very well be there for years to come. If nothing else, this promises that the hobby will continue to be what it has never lacked being — very interesting.

As we did a year ago, readers will find in this month's anniversary edition a story on some of moneycard dealers' favorite cards of the past year. Next month, we will report on their choices for favorite cards of all time. Readers also are invited to submit votes for their favorite cards as well.

Also this month, readers will see updates on phonecard plans both from Disney and U S WEST. Among the cards listed in "New Issues" for September are Beanie Baby images from Tell-One Inc. that are not endorsed or sponsored by Beanie Baby manufacturer Ty Inc., a fact that has created a stir among dealers. Interesting indeed.

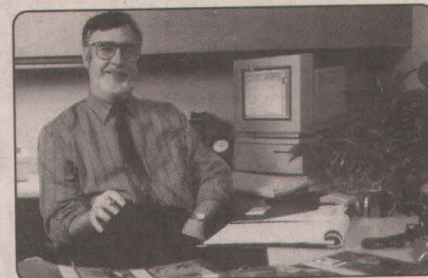

A British card dealer with whom I spoke recently decried the eagerness in which collectors have flocked to promotional cards, especially telecards with recognizable logos and strong brand recognition. "Where is the interest in historical cards?" he cried. A fair question, even without the pile of NYNEX cards in his desk drawer.

Let's take a brief side trip.

NYNEX, after its merger with Bell Atlantic last year decided to move into remote-memory cards, and conducted a refund program that was extended through early this year. Under the program, NYNEX/Bell Atlantic accepted both the magnetic-stripe "Tamura" cards and the earlier optical-stripe Landis & Gyr cards.

Company officials released card mintages for both style cards (Moneycard Collector, December 1997) and pledged that all returned cards eventually would be destroyed. Several months and unanswered telephone calls later, we still are waiting to hear those final numbers from the refund program, numbers that are bound to be of interest to collectors and dealers alike, and which will help define the future impact of NYNEX cards in the hobby.

Where is the interest in historical cards? It is out there, but in a young hobby, "historical" is a little harder to recognize. Abe Lincoln and George Washington are easy to recognize, Michigan Bell and Intelxop '85 are not so easy.

Contact Tom Williams at (937) 498-0879, ext. 327; fax (937) 498-0876; or e-mail <twilliams@amospress.com>.

Consider that cards of an historic event from an acquired issuer have a unique place in phonecard history. The NYNEX logo is not likely to ever appear on a phonecard again. No matter how many cards are in existence now, refund program aside, that means the NYNEX 1992 Democratic National Convention card and dozens of other cards from dozens of other issuers will never increase in number.

Four years is a mere eyeblink in many hobbies. For moneycard collecting, these are the times to build a deep and broad foundation for your personal collection. Like that little kid, it's time to be aware of what's out there. To twist an old cliché, people who don't collect history are bound to regret it.

First winner named in Card Critter hunt!

We have a winner in our first "Card Critter" contest! If you are new to the magazine or missed our announcements the last couple of months, Moneycard Collector and some of your favorite moneycard dealers have teamed up to give you a chance for free cards.

In the July issue, we launched our "Card Critter" hunt. Readers had until Aug. 5 to find a Card Critter hidden in a dealer's advertisement and send us a post card telling us where they found it. The Moneycard Collector Card Critters look exactly like the ones you see sprinkled around this story, only much smaller.

Picking up a $25 certificate toward card purchases from Fieldler & Associates is Eugene A. Slobodianuk of Kenosha, Wis. He was one of the dozens of readers who found the Critter in the Fieldler ad on Page 29 of the July issue.

We hid another Critter in the August edition, and readers have until Sept. 5 to let us know where. And we have hidden one of them in a participating dealer's ad again this month.

We again invite readers to look for the Card Critter — remember, it might be tiny. When you find it, send us a post card telling us the page number and the name of the dealer. Every month, we will have a drawing, and pick one lucky winner.

The deadline for entries in each month's contest will be the fifth day of the following month.

The deadline for this month's contest will be Oct. 5.

GUEST COMMENTARY

Is NSGA missing the boat? What a difference a year makes!

A year ago this July, I attended the private National Sporting Goods Association show. I just attended this year's show, and it helps to point up how the phonecard industry has changed in the past year.

Last year, besides some private cards, Frontier had a special booth to promote the use of cards and encourage companies to buy time from them for promotional cards. They even had a special NSGA folder for one of their Call Time cards, and touted the fact that they had licensed prepaid cards for auto racing, baseball, football, and world championship wrestling, besides entertainment cards such as re the Simpsons and X-Files.

This year, there was no Frontier booth — since they've quit issuing in the prepaid card field.

The National Hockey League had a booth this year offering a listing of their licensees. While there were firms mentioned as having trading card licenses (such as Donruss, Pacific Trading Cards, Pinnacle, and Upper Deck), there were NO listings for any phonecard licenses (which The Score Board Inc. — now in bankruptcy — had held a year ago).

NASCAR had a nice booth there, with a listing of their licensees. Naturally, Score Board. was not listed anymore, and while MCI was listed as having such a license, they had no booth at the show. (MCI was also listed as a licensee in the Major League BASEBALL guide, which omitted Score Board).

Players Inc., the players' licensing association for the National Football League, distributed brochures from its booth (where had running back Edgar Bennett signed autographs at one point during the show) mentioning that there were licensees concerning phonecards.

Yet, I could find none detailed on their listing, and, when I asked about that. I was told, the brochure was out of date — SportsCall had owned a license, but that lapsed in the past year, and there had been no replacement licensee, although they hoped to have one in the future.

You would think that, in a show of many hundreds of vendors, some would be "on-the-ball" enough to have utilized phonecards as a promotional device to advertise their company. Well, if there were any, they kept them well hidden, because though I walked through two huge halls of exhibitors, I could find not one with a phonecard.

As I say, what a difference a year can make.

On-line survey shows that hobby has a solid core

Congratulations to Moneycard Collector on your 4th anniversary issue! I've been a reader from the beginning, and always look forward to receiving the latest issue. For your readers who don't know who I am, I publish a weekly phonecard collecting newsletter on the internet called Phonecards On-Line. I've been publishing for almost three years now. In a recent issue, I published a survey and invited responses from my readers, and 123 readers responded.

The results show that people are still actively collecting. I believe it is safe to say that most of the people who have been reading Moneycard Collector since the beginning expected this hobby to be a lot bigger that it is now, but I think we have a good core of dedicated collectors.

More than two-thirds of the respondents noted that they have been collecting for over two years, and over 56 percent stated that they were either moderate or advanced collectors.

I believe this most optimistic statistic was about their view on the state of the hobby. Forty-three percent noted that they felt it was going strong, 42 percent felt it was holding a steady pace, while 15 percent felt it had declined. Additionally, almost 70 percent of the respondents noted that they had purchased as many or more phonecards this year than what they were purchased in 1997.

Finally, a statistic that speaks highly on the quality of your publication. Of those who subscribe to print magazines, almost 91 percent indicated that they subscribe to this one. Keep up the good work!

ALAN COHEN, VAN NUYS, CALIF.

The writer publishes Phonecards On-Line, a weekly Internet newsletter about phonecards and collecting. This newsletter is distributed free of charge, and available two ways, through the Web address <http://www.cardmall.com/pol>, or by direct e-mail, by sending a message to phoneline@cardmall.com.

PROMOS & OFFERS

Contributor and refunder Maria Rost Rublee tells this story about one way to get promotional phonecards:

"My husband and I were in the mall recently, and were approached to do a survey. We were going to decline, but had some extra time, so we figured 'Why not?'"

"So I smelled perfumes and my husband did a taste test. Then they told us, you can choose your incentive: a lotto ticket or a phonecard. Did my ears perk up! Of course we both chose phonecards. We then asked what other surveys we could do for phonecards."

"We walked out with several phonecards with their company logo on it: 'The Cunningham Connection, Where your opinions really matter.' They were taking the wrappers off before they gave them out, but we convinced them to keep them sealed up. Consequently, I don't know who the issuer is."

"Sure, we had to put up with gross food taste tests and smelly perfume, but it was worth it for some phonecards!"

Let's get to the card offers:

- A free 5-minute Pepsi phonecard is given with the purchase of a two-liter bottle of Pepsi at participating Pizza Huts.

- Another Q-Tips phone card! At Price/Costco stores, Q-Tips has a 10-minute phonecard in between two packages of Q-Tips. The card, by Sprint, is the same image as the previous one, but has a later expiration date - 6/30/99 and a different batch number. The card is between the two packages, so you don't have to open the Q-Tips to get the card. Only one card per two boxes.

- Blockbuster - reserve a copy of Titanic for the September selling date and receive a $5 Titanic gift card. There is a $5 reservation fee required. Blockbuster also now has nice $10 gift cards with pictures of movie stills on them. You can use them as a credit card at Blockbuster.

- Chevron - Purchase a 60 minute generic AT&T card, receive a free 15-minute AT&T phonecard with a lavender student driver car on it. The car is like the cartoon character cars that are seen on the commercials. Seen in Houston, Texas, the card is available only from Chevron-owned stations, not at the franchised stations.

- Purchase Pro One Software at Best Buy and receive a free game piece. One of the prizes is a 10-minute phonecard. No purchase is necessary, you can request a free game piece by writing to: Back to School Game, P.O. Box 11405, Chicago, Ill. 60611. SASE Required (except in Washington and Vermont). The game ends Nov. 2.

- Found at Sam's Wholesale Clubs - a phonecard inside of a case of Act II Microwave butter popcorn, and a mail-in rebate form for a phonecard inside the large package of Granola bars.

- One correspondent noted that, when purchasing a computer, she got a trial version CD for Netcom that has a free 30-minute phonecard with it. "Unfortunately, you have to install Netcom first to get the card, but you get one free month to try it," she notes.

- Arthur Treachers (the fish and chip restaurant) has a sweepstake on its Coke cups. Win an ATM cash card. Seen in Glen Rock, New Jersey.

- Sav-On Drugs is giving away a 30-minute and a 10-minute phonecard if you transfer your prescription to their pharmacy. Limit one per customer with coupon.

- Seen in People magazine (Page 177, June 22) - Buy Leslie Nielsen's STUPID LITTLE GOLF VIDEO and inside the video you will receive a mail-in card that entitles you to a free $5 Leslie Nielsen phonecard from Winstar Home Entertainment. Videos suggested retail value is $19.98.

Here are some offers on websites. Get that mouse a-clicking:

- Update on free Bugle Boy AT&T 10-minute phonecard. People are reporting that they have been able to sign up for the card in August. If you haven't signed up for it yet, go to <http://www.bugleboy.com/promotions>.

- For a free New Media phone card, go to <http://www.ustelecards.com>.

com. These cards usually require a credit card to charge them with phone time before you can get the "free" phone time.

Please be wary.

- Free 10-minute prepaid phonecard by e-mail. <http://www.psln.com/wayne/order-form.htm>.

- Net2Phone is giving away 5 free minutes of phonetime if you download their free software from <http://www.net2phone.com/geocities/>.

- Free $10 phonecard. These are usually unloaded until you activate it by giving them your credit card info. Please be wary of them. Check: Http://www.wellmanmall.com/freecard9.htm.

- You get a free home PC protection kit including a phone line surge protector, a 10-minute phonecard, a catalog and a free trial copy of antivirus software. Go to http://www.apcc.com/go/lit/isp_survey/index.cfm.

- Jimmy Dean is offering phonecards with the purchase of its products. Specially marked "lap points," a small handling fee, a large shipping fee and the form are required for this offer. For details, go to http://www.jimmydean.com/racing/winners_circle.html. If anyone is interested in doing this offer, be warned, the shipping fees are high.

HOT CARDS

Welcome to Hot Cards. This list represents the most heavily sold and traded cards within the last month. Due to the size of the Price Guide, it is often very time-consuming for readers to make their way through the listings in a short amount of time. We created HOT CARDS to provide you trends information quickly, accurately and concisely. Prices reflected on this page are dealer asking/selling prices for only this month.

The Cup Runneth Over

Moneycard images abound from global soccer event

by Ulf Helmke

France is the new soccer champion of the world, but if you are any sort of a soccer fan, that's old news. What's new are some of the phonecards and moneycards issued since our last World Cup article appeared in July.

France Telecom, as the official telecommunications provider for the World Cup has issued a full slate of soccer cards. A set of four cards produced by Solaic shows famous players of the Cup: Taribo West from Nigeria, Muyng-Bo Hong from South Korea, Bernard Lama from France and Rivaldo from Brazil. All chip-cards were issued to the public with a mintage of 400,000 each. With the same mintage, a set of four comic cards was produced by Oberthur for France Telecom. The cards show soccer cartoons illustrated by artists Binet, Bretécher, Mordillo and Margerin.

A second stadium set was issued in June with a mintage of 100,000. The nine cards show photographs of the stadiums and list the dates of the matches.

But France Telecom is not the only company to commemorate the World Cup on phonecards. Companies in France have used the event to promote its products on phonecards, too. Nike issued a set of four 50 units cards to advertise for "Nikepark," an event held in Paris during the World Cup. Gemplus made 250,000 for delivery in June. French companies Manpower and Michelin also issued public cards with a soccer theme with mintages of 1 million and 2 million respectively.

In France other soccer-related phonecards have been issued by different providers, including those issued by Intercall, a French communications company. Remote-memory round die-cut phonecards issued for the World Cup were issued by Phoneurope Group GLT and are limited to 5,000 each of 40 designs featuring the flags of the participating teams matched against each other.

The first 33 cards depict the initial pairings and are sold individually. Four quarter-final, two semi-final, and a final card (France vs. Brazil) were also printed — the quarter-final cards are sold as a group, and the cards for the last three games also are only sold as a group. Each design was limited to 5,000 copies, and each card has a face value of 100 French francs, or 15.38 euros.

While Canada did not send a team to this year's World Cup, Canadian issuer Telesonic Communications Inc. developed a card promoting another country, referring to the Croatian team as the "Yugoslavian" team. The card was sold at various ethnic events in the Toronto area and is still available by calling (416) 484-8005.

A special card was developed for the Quebec Soccer-Football Federation, an organization of amateur soccer enthusiasts.

The card is purchased during membership registration. With the Generation Soccer chip card, one can obtain discounts at McDonald's restaurants in Quebec, two-for-one rentals at Super Club

Vidéotron outlets, reduced prices for Montreal Impact soccer games and merchandise, and preferential rates at various hotels in Quebec. McDonald's also ran a contest for cardholders to win a trip to France to attend World Cup matches. Sample cards were produced with silver chips; active cards sport gold chips. Each transaction generates a donation from the sponsoring outlet to a local soccer group.

The Danish national team was sponsored by Danish dairies who issued a promotional chip-card showing a team photo with a mintage of 1,500. A team photo also can be seen on a public-issue remote memory phonecard from TeleDanmark with a face value of DKK 10. Coca-Cola issued two puzzle sets that form a soccer field seen from above. One set consists of four 5-Kroner phonecards, the other is a set of 100-Kroner Danmønt stored-value cards, with 1,000 phonecard sets and 1,500 Danmønt sets were issued. A single 10-Kroner promotional Danmønt card also was issued.

Denmark's neighbor to the north, Norway, issued a 65-unit phonecard with the Norwegian national team. The 50,000 cards issued by the telco went on sale in June.

KPN Telecom, the national telco of the Netherlands has issued a set of three cards for the "Oranje" team. Designed by artist Richard Sluijs, the cards were issued in a commemorative folder. All cards have different face values and different mintages making it tough for collectors to get a complete set: 5,000 5-gulder cards were issued and only sold in the folders; 1,390,000 10-gulder cards and 300,000 25-gulder cards were sold to the public beginning May 16. The set was first presented at ITM, a phonecards show organized by the Netherlands collectors club NTC.

Another interesting issue comes from the Dutch company Duyvis, which issued 10,000 25-gulder phonecards that were produced and sold through KPN's Primafoon telephone shops. The cards sold for half their face value plus two coupons that could be found on bags of Duyvis peanuts. While the coupons were valid until the end of August, the phonecards have long since been sold out.

Apparently one can never promote an international sporting event too soon: Before the World Cup in France had even begun, Korea issued cards for World Cup 2002. Little is known about these cards, other than at least three cards were issued.

Canadian correspondent Rosemary Warren contributed to this report.

The author is a moneycard collector in Germany.

From top: One of four cards in the Danmønt puzzle set (with reverse shown); KPN's Dutch "World Cow" (reverse); Telesonic's "Yugoslavia" team; and Cyberpro's Quebec McDonald's SVC.

Phoneurope's round remote-memory cards commemorated each match.

BRAND NEWS

This month, the I's have it, as we look at a few new cards from Innovative Telecom and iTELSA (formerly ITS) and a new airline set from Gazelle Telecard.

First up is card by Innovative featuring young singing sensation Monica.

Monica is featured on a 10-minute Innovative card that was issued to promote her new compact disc. Innovative produced 2,500 cards for music professionals as well as Urban Network, a music industry trade publication. This is a tough card to find as very few were made available to the hobby.

Two different cards were issued by Innovative for Novartis, a pharmaceutical company. Thirty-minute cards, 2,000 issued, were mailed to pharmacists to promote the 14 different products listed on the card. In addition, there was a 15-minute version produced that was mailed to 4,000 consumers who bought all of the products listed. Both of these cards are also very tough to find.

Last but not least from Innovative this month comes a 20-minute card issued for Sears. There were 35,000 cards issued and made available to customers who purchased $50 worth of home furnishings in any Sears store Nationwide.

There also are three cards of note from iTELSA, all issued in June 1998. In all three programs, iTELSA declined to specify quantities issued.

SE Johnson Wax distributed 30-minute prepaid cards to promote and launch its new Slide-Loc bags at a profit-sharing meeting. The cards were given to sales reps.

A round die-cut card with 20 minutes of time was part of a direct-mail campaign for the new ELT

Power Suite database publishing system. A postcard resembling the die-cut key tags were mailed to registered attendees of a retail trade show announcing the new product and could be redeemed at the show booth for the card.

Gazelle Telecard; Horizon Air two-card set; 10 minutes each; 3,100 cards issued (50 collectors' sets in folders); July 1998.

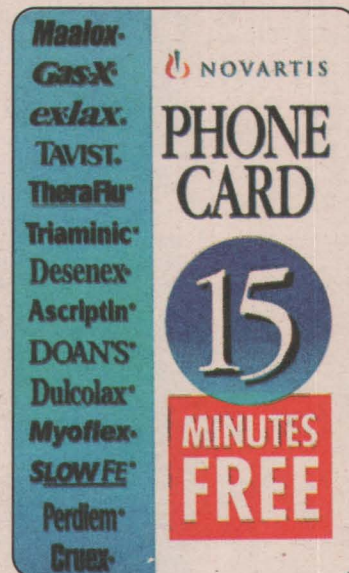

The third iTELSA card promoted Giant Records' country recording artist Clay Walker and his greatest hits album. The 10-minute cards were mailed with a custom notepad and pencil and a copy of the CD to radio stations across the country in order to attract air time.

Gazelle Telecard has just issued two new cards for Horizon Air. Previously, Gazelle has issued numerous cards for Horizon's big brother, Alaska Air. These two latest cards feature 10 minutes of time on each card with a total of 3,100 cards issued. Horizon utilizes the cards by inserting them in vacation packages purchased by customers. Each card features a different type of aircraft: The Fokker F-28-4000 and the DeHavilland Dash 8Q-200. Of the mintage, there were 50 collector sets issued in folders for collectors. Contact your favorite dealer to obtain one of these rare sets.

In a future column, we'll take a look at the variations on the earlier Alaska airlines cards issued by Gazelle Telecard because they have proven to be popular among collectors.

More Disney Magic

AT&T agreement could be boon for collectors

by Nancy Blackburn

Little kids with big eyes and open mouths stand spellbound by the magic of Disney. Young or old, whether visiting the Magic Kingdom, Disney World, or Disneyland, we all fall under its spell and feel like welcome guests in "the happiest place on Earth." Disney concentrates on guest hospitality and provides services that fulfill guests' needs.

Four years ago, many phonecard collectors were surprised to learn that the Walt Disney Co.'s quest for excellence in guest services included providing its own worldwide telecom services through Vista-United Telecommunications. Established in 1971, Vista-United is owned 51 percent by Walt Disney World and 49 percent by Sprint. The first phonecard releases were internal components of a roll-out testing program and were only available to "cast members" from vending machines or company stores located in employee areas.

The cards did not have an 800-access number, but two different access numbers: one for use within Disney World and the other for Orlando. During the last of 1994 and throughout 1995, complimentary phonecards — often connected with technology events — were offered as incentives or given out as awards to employees. Eventually vending machines within the park dispensed three different colored $10 and $20 "Cinderella's Castle" phonecards, and visitors who could find the Vista-United building in the Magic Kingdom were able to purchase stock phonecards there. (See Moneycard Collector, October 1996, Enchanted Cards.)

Steve Schwartz of Sears Phone Card Department, who is fortunate to live almost next door to Disney World in Orlando, keeps a sharp eye on the events going on right next door at Walt Disney World. He reports a significant change: New phonecards available in the complex are now issued by AT&T. Information obtained by Sears led to a very reliable source at Disney, who was willing to discuss the rationale behind the change.

"After four years looking at the [phonecard] market," the source tells Schwartz, "we found that although guests were asking for phonecards, the response was not so overwhelming that we needed to make phonecards available in every merchandise location. Since guest hospitality is our forte, our objective has always been to find the best solution for our guests and our company. In view of our relationship with AT&T, we felt that it didn't make sense for us to stay in the phonecard business ourselves.

"Since issuing phonecards on a permanent basis would actually take away from our primary commitment to our guests, we asked AT&T to provide the services to our guests. The program is considered an 18-month to two-year roll-out, and if all goes well. Those on the West Coast can expect to see an AT&T phonecard release at Disneyland."

Queried about the possibility of future releases for specific park events, it was indicated that although Vista-United has the capability of doing so, they would not fire up their platform, but would issue a Vista-AT&T-branded carded phonecard. Reports from recent visitors to the park indicate that there is a generic $10 and $20 AT&T card that has all four theme parks' logos and is sold in each park. Four theme parks — Magic Kingdom, MGM, Epcot, and Animal Kingdom — each have their own $10 and $20 cards, which are available in the specific parks, as well as resorts and hotels. However, if you want to experience the fun of the search, Schwartz warns that collectors who plan to personally obtain cards from the four theme parks will have to work hard as the locations are not easy to find and there is a lot of walking distance in between.

Many features of the newly released cards are still unclear. Some have said the logo cards come in white, and others say gray. While the vending machines are multi-lingual, the cards apparently only are printed in English. Since this is a pilot program, sources at Disney World and AT&T cannot give out additional information until the end of 1998.

AT&T's move into Disney's phonecard services has created some wonderful releases on classical themes. First there was the 5-minute "Pocahontas — a Walt Disney Masterpiece," issued in 1995 and inserted into the home video release. Although 100,000 were released, collectors scrambled to find the card.

The past and the future: Vista-United phonecards will become a thing of the past — and even more collectible — because of Disney's new pact with AT&T.

Collectors who loved the movie "101 Dalmatians" found their hearts went out to the 101 Dalmatians, October 1996, five-card release found as a promo in The Disney Catalog: Bad to the Bone, Who you Callin' Spot?, Party Animals, Puppy Love, and Beauty Spots. Two additional single cards were released in observance of the 35th anniversary of "101 Dalmatians."

The June 1998 release of Disney's of "Mulan" was accompanied by a national promotion that branded Nestlé, Disney, and AT&T on highly desirable phonecards. Available through a Sunday newspaper supplement, the set of four 10-minute phonecards feature Mulan, Mulan in Armor, Mushu, and Shang for $1 each, plus specified Nestlé UPCs. The inexpensive price, coupled with the wide availability of extremely attractive cards of a movie that has proved popular, is a premium that has everybody talking.

Disney phonecards are "always great," says dealer Steve Eyer. "Disney is known for quality, and anything they do is sought by collectors, including phonecards." According to Eyer, an especially interesting set appeared in California for Disneyland's 40th Anniversary in 1994 and, admittedly, they have been a source of discussion and dispute as to authenticity.

There were 1,000 sets of four $3 cards: Tinker Bell over the Fantasy Land castle, Indiana Jones Adventure, 40th Anniversary, and Mickey Mouse "Specialty Products." The now-inactive cards were issued by IDC Communications and carried by TII.

Disney characters have adorned phonecards throughout the world, and U.S. collectors have avidly sought these cards released in Canada, Europe, South America, New Zealand, and Japan. New Zealand Telecom/Event Masters has produced several different sets in sharp presentation folders featuring Mickey and his gang. One of the telco's latest is a four-card set featuring the Disney interpretation of Winnie the Pooh. Other Disney character phonecard releases include "Toy Story," "Snow White & the Seven Dwarfs," "Pinocchio," and all the Disney characters: Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Goofy, and Pluto.

When collectors talk about a beautiful phonecard, "Disney's Fantillusion! The Magic of Light," issued in Tokyo in 1996 is most often mentioned. Produced in sparkling rainbow colors on a deep blue background, Mickey the Magician is in his glorious gown and Tinker Bell hovers in the background. The card comes in a folder with the mouse-ears cutout.

So what effect might these changes have on collectors searching for phonecards from "the happiest place on earth?" Classics remain classics, and Vista-United phonecards appear to be in this category — highly desirable because they are Disney-related — and since the available supply is now limited, collectibility may increase.

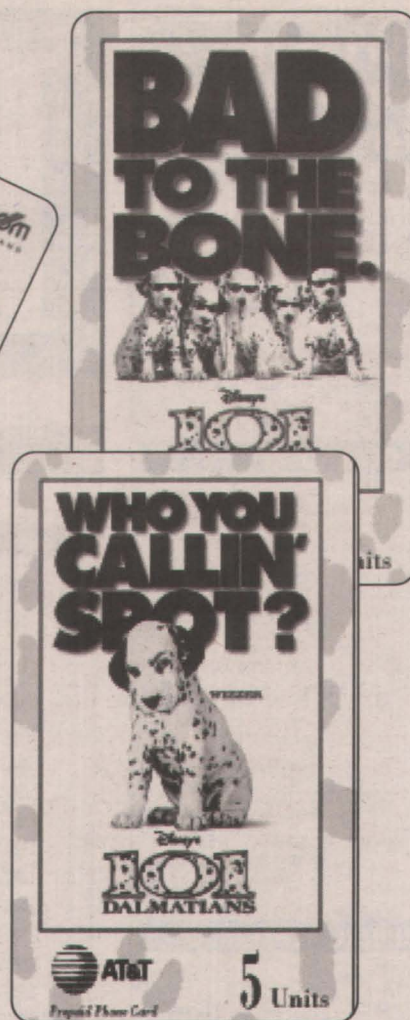

The happy news is that those who missed out on the United-Vista releases during the past four years have an opportunity to start at the beginning of an AT&T/Disney collection. If first reports prove accurate, collectors will have a fun challenge locating and identifying the new Disney/AT&T releases expected during the next six months. And we know when collectors are happiest...

NUMBERING SYSTEM

a card depicting an organized, competitive sports-related image (comes before numerals, e.g. S125)

Pr (before #) = Private card issued for a customer, distributed by the customer at his/her discretion

Post-numerical descriptor (falls after the numeral)

#-2 = Second Printing

the second printing of a card; a three, four or greater number can follow to denote the actual print run; occurs often with Canadian cards or unlimited run cards

a-z = error/variety

a card whose identical front or back differs from the card with the primary listing; includes language variations, but not denominational variations

M = model/prototype

full-front printed card, may or may not be full-back printed, never issued

card with an error that caused its destruction or recall

J = jumbo

an oversized or jumbo card

P = proof

artwork on front, blank back

R = replacement

a card that replaced a defective or recalled card

S (after #) = specimen

artwork on front, complete back with false or no pin, or word "sample" or "test"

T = trial/test

live card used specifically for testing a stored value card system

NEW ISSUES

USACard issues ANA show cards

USACard; 107th ANA three-card set; $5 denomination; 300 (bronze) 150 (silver) and 100 (gold) cards issued; August 1998.

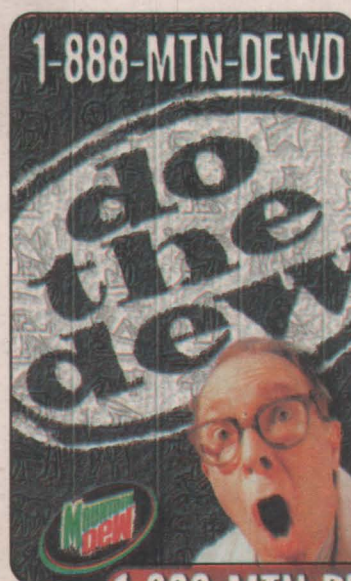

The issuer produced hinged, round die-cut cards with Oregon motifs on front and back for the 107th annual American Numismatic Association convention in Portland, Ore. The inside of the cards contains the 800 access number, PIN, and other pertinent information. Call (303) 777-3034.

Do the Dew all day

E Force Inc.; Do The Dew three-card series (interactive); 1 minute, 50 seconds of interactive time; 915,000 issued (305,000 each design); May 1998.

The Toronto-based issuer, in a program underwritten by SCA Telecard Services, produced interactive cards that were distributed in promotions throughout Canadian markets. Participants could use the cards up to twice a week to enter a contest to win T-shirts, music CDs, cameras, movie passes, video games, computers and other prizes. In addition to the interactive cards and the VIP demo card, which had interactive and phone time, there were 200 samples and 100 proofs of each interactive card design and 200 sample and 100 proofs of the VIP card, which contains a collector message on the reverse (see illustration). BCS Technology is the time carrier on the cards. Call (416) 588-7755.

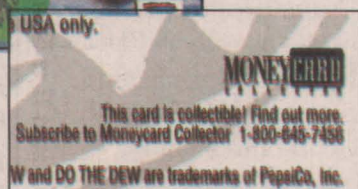

Xena for a good cause

Telecom New Zealand; Lucy Lawless-IHC; NZ $5 denomination; 7,600 issued; July 1998.

Featuring Lucy Lawless, the actress who portrays television's "Xena - Warrior Princess," the card was produced to help raise funds for the IHC, an organization aiding mentally handicapped New Zealanders. The television series is filmed in New Zealand, and Lawless donated her time to the cause. The IHC distributed 7,500 cards for a direct mail distribution, and dealers got another 100. Call 011 0900 508 805.

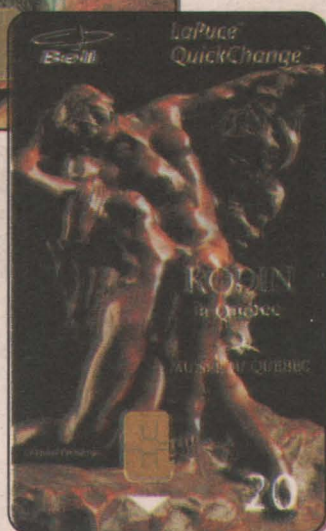

E Force Inc.; Do The Dew VIP Demo Card; 20 minutes, plus 2 minutes, 25 second of interactive time; 500 issued; May 1998.

NEW ISSUES

Bell Canada LaPuce Quick-Change; Renoir; $5 denomination; 6,400 issued; May 1998.

Bell Canada LaPuce QuickChange; Rodin-Musee du Quebec; $20 denomination; 5,000 issued; May 1998.

Bell Canada LaPuce QuickChange; Bears-St. Felicien Zoo; $20 denomination; 20,000 issued; May 1998.

Bell Canada LaPuce QuickChange; Leo-Zodiac Series; $20 denomination; 10,000 issued; June 1998.

Lions, and lovers, and bears, oh my!

Among Bell Canada's more recent offerings are the latest in its ongoing Zodiac series, featuring July's king of the jungle horoscope sign, plus promotional cards issued for the St. Felicien Zoo featuring a family of black bears and for the Musee du Quebec, featuring the sculpture of Rodin. For more information, visit the Bell website, www.bell.ca/club.

Bell Canada LaPuce QuickChange; Puppy & Kitten; $5 denomination; 100,000 issued; May 1998.

Tell-One 'Beanie Card' not endorsed

Tell-One Inc.; Princess Bear Beanie Card; 10 minutes; 250 issued; July 1998.

Beanie Babies are arguably the hottest collectible in recent years and the issuer is trying to capitalize on Ty Inc.'s property, albeit with a card that does not have the blessing or backing of the toy manufacturer. The cards, which have provoked a hot debate on the issues of legality, ethics and licensing, bear the legend "1st Edition" and also warn collectors with two statements across the bottom of the obverse, below the image of a purple "Princess Di" bear: "This card is not sponsored or endorsed by Ty Inc." and "Beanie Babies™ is a registered trademark of Ty Inc." Tell-One followed the Princess Bear card with cards depicting "Erin the Bear" and "Peace Bear" with mintages of 500 each.

Tell-One Inc.; Peace Bear Beanie Card; 10 minutes; 500 issued; August 1998.

Tell-One Inc.; Erin the Bear Beanie Card; 10 minutes; 500 issued; August 1998.

Communications Design Group; Betty Crocker and Cheerios; 10 minutes each; 1,200 (Cheerios) and 5,200 (Betty Crocker); August 1998.

Promotional power from CDG

Communications Design Group issued these recent promotional cards. As with all CDG issues, time is carried by Southern New England Telecommunications and the cards' reverses show the Southern New England Bell logo. Contact your favorite dealer or consult this month's "Dealer Directory" page.

NEW ISSUES

Rediscovering a rare bird

Telecom New Zealand; Takahe; NZ $50 denomination; 10,000 issued; August 1998.

The card celebrates the 50th anniversary of the rediscovery of the Takahe in the Murchison Mountains in 1948. The rare native New Zealand bird is well known for its brilliant blue and coppery green plumage and large red bill. Of the mintage, 100 cards were available through Telecom New Zealand phonecard dealers, the rest were distributed to retail outlets. Call 011 0900 508 805.

Caymen's African campaign

Caymen Resources; Africa Card; 40 units; ongoing quantity; July 1998.

New international card in 40- and 80-unit denominations targets select African countries. The card offers users the possibility of phoning from the United States to all of Africa and is being sold at retail locations in Atlanta, Dallas, Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco and Washington, D.C. Call (415) 393-9929.

Canadian Braille Card issued

LabelTel Communications; CNIB Braille Card; 10 minutes; 2,500 issued; September 1998.

The cards, issued in conjunction with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind as a fund-raising project, will initially be offered in Ontario on a first-come, first-served basis, and the time is good anywhere in North America. LabelTel, which also produces prepaid four-color labels that can be affixed to business cards (See "Quik Takes") believes that this is the first Braille card issued in Canada. The image of purple crocuses blooming through the snow is meant to remind card holders about the precious gift of sight. Call (705) 746-2445.

Up, we go into the wild blue yonder

Team Multicomm; Air Ontario Air Show London 98; 5 units; 500 issued; June 1998.

Card was issued for a June exhibition. Time on the card is by Cable & Wireless-owned Hong Kong Telecom. Call (519) 642-2228.

Being good sports

Telecom New Zealand; New Zealand All Blacks 1998 five-card set; various denominations; various quantities; July 1998.

Four action shots of players and a fifth card celebrating the Tri Nations championship of 1996 make up this set. While mintages of the player images range from 60,000 to 141,500, there were only 650 Tri Nations cards issued, so only that many sets can be made. Call 011 0900 508 805.

Plain nuts over telecards

DeltaCom; Planters Mr. Peanut; 10 minutes; 500 issued; July 1998.

The card was distributed as a thank-you for merchants stocking shelves with Planters' products. Contact your favorite dealer or check the "Dealer Directory" listing.

SHOWSTOPPERS

Three times a year, the Long Beach Coin and Collectible Show opens its doors at the Long Beach Convention Center in California, welcoming thousands of collectors. With dealers from all over the world and collectors from all over the United States in attendance, these shows have grown during the last 34 years to be considered a premier collecting event.

Although coins and paper money are the primary collectible being offered at the show, over the years a number of other collectibles have joined the ranks, such as sports cards, Beanie Babies and phonecards. While the number of sports card dealers has decreased, the Beanie Baby offerings have increased dramatically, and phonecard dealers have been somewhat consistent.

During the most recent show, on June 4-7, more than 8,900 visitors could visit approximately 400 vendor tables including five sites dealing with phonecards. Carson City King, USACard, Steve Eyer, Ginnie Katchur and the Phonecard Connection were set up and had a full assortment of different phonecards, with Carson City King and Steve Eyer also displaying coins and paper money.

As this was the first primarily coin show that I have set up at, I was surprised at how much of the business done at the show was done dealer to dealer, even though they still take display tables, so that they can show their inventory. Once they do their business, they are gone, though many of the dealers still rely on the public for most of their business.

I was able to visit the other dealers throughout the show, and the results generally seem to fit what is said in many discussions about phonecards: sales are consistent with slow growth and the cards being bought today are lower priced. There are new people entering the phonecard market, but they are being selective in what they buy.

As dealer Steve Eyer puts it, "Not as many collectors and speculators are active, especially since the speculators are gone. The coin people have heard the business is going through a shake out, and since they were some of the most blatant speculators, they are no longer a factor. However, many coin collectors have become telecard collectors. These folks are still collecting. The hobbies are parallel and it takes little effort to jump from one to the other."

Some of the busiest phonecard action was at the USACard booth, where for the last four years, they have produced the official show card at each show. People who collect coins and other collectibles and others with no interest in phonecards were purchasing them, and have been doing so for quite a few shows. Some had even brought phonecards that they have been able to accumulate to trade for some of the previous show cards. Some, but not all, of these people seemed anxious to learn about the hobby.

Although there was some overlap in the types of cards that the phonecard dealers were displaying, each had their own niche so the selection to choose from was quite varied. Advertising and promotional, coin and stamp cards, paper money cards, celebrity and movie cards and many other types were available and this gave visitors a nice selection to choose from. One of the dealers had user phonecards at great rates, and with the pay phones not accepting credit cards, many of these user cards were sold and used at the show. I would estimate that this was one of the best selling cards at the show.

The official show card by USACard depicts coins and images that are of interest to collectors of coins and to frequent visitors of the show. Over the years, they have tried to make the card match up to a specific event or theme of the show, such as the $100,000 bill card which was offered when there was a billion dollar display by the U.S. Bureau of Engraving. They also did a Marilyn Monroe card in conjunction with the U.S. Post Office's release of the Marilyn Monroe stamp. They have also offered a Valentine's Day Card with a Victorian theme and cherubs on the card with the coins.

Paul Peeders, general manager of USACard, has been pleased with the results of the shows that they have attended, but has also echoed the sentiments of others in that the cards selling today are lower priced issues. Sales have been consistent in recent shows with the show cards drawing new and existing customers to the booth.

If you missed the June show, there is another one coming Sept. 24-27. Please see the "Calendar" page for more details. And if not California, then why not Florida? There is a lot being said about the upcoming FUN (Florida United Numismatics) show in Orlando, Fla., which will take place in January 1999.

The combination of sunny and warm weather in January, a good customer base in Florida, and one of the largest shows in the nation has the collecting community talking. Make a point to attend, because FUN may offer one of the largest appearances of phonecards in years.

WESTward Bound

U S WEST still 'changing the shape of money'

by Art Becker

Here's a glimpse of what U S WEST has been up to since the last major report, in the December 1997 issue of Moneycard Collector. As you know from reading the New Issues feature of this magazine, U S WEST's slogan is "Life's Better Here."

This refers to all the advantages of living in one of the 14 states that the company serves. Virtually all of the phonecards commemorating local and regional themes display this slogan. For example, 3,500 $1 complimentary "Life's Better Here" cards were issued for the Phoenix Open golf tournament, held in Scottsdale, Ariz., in January. U S WEST is one of the sponsors.

Another slogan, which appears on most of the more generic U S WEST chip phonecards is, "Changing The Shape Of Money." This refers to the fact that the company's chip phonecards are easier to use than actual cash, for making phone calls. Among the 1998 phonecards with this slogan are a card for Father's Day, and one for Mother's Day. 5,000 of each card were produced. These two cards, designed by Jeff Meyer of Seattle, are part of the Celebration Series of traditional event cards introduced last year, as mentioned in various "New Issues" columns of Moneycard Collector.

Arizona Diamond Backs

Since U S WEST is the official telecommunications provider

U S WEST conducts smart card trials

U S WEST Public Services and American Express have been conducting a low-profile smart card trial. U S WEST employees are using 8K chip smart cards, with a re-loadable electronic purse capability, to pay for purchases at several locations in one of U S WEST's facilities in Seattle, including the cafeteria, gift shop and vending machines, though specifically not their Millennium payphones. The trial is secret, since they won't release any additional details, but only semi-secret since they issued a press release.

for the Arizona Diamond Backs professional baseball team, a commemorative phonecard was produced for the May 11 Telecard Night at the BankOne Ballpark in Phoenix. Fans received 10,000 of the 11,000 $1 cards, each in a nice folder. (See this month's "America's Most Wanted," Page 12, for an image of this card). Since foreign readers might not notice the significance of the team's name, here is some background information.

U S WEST's Mother's and Father's Day cards carry the issuer's familiar "Changing The Shape of Money" slogan. Both are 1998 releases, in $5 denominations.

A diamondback is a large, poisonous and thus potentially deadly, rattlesnake, found in the United States. Diamond is the name for a portion of a baseball field. Note the design of the phonecard. The overall center element resembles home plate. In the center of this is a diamondback snake's head. Held in its inwardly curling fangs is a baseball, and protruding from under the ball is the snake's forked tongue. Incidentally, this is the third sports team to be featured on a U S WEST phonecard; the other two being the Seattle Reign team and the Colorado Rockies baseball team.

Remember the $1 complimentary phonecard illustrated in the December 1998 issue? It's now part of the design of the Interoperability phonecard, jointly issued by U S WEST and GTE. Two cards were issued, both with the same basic design. The difference is that on the U S WEST card, that company is always mentioned first, on the obverse and reverse, whereas on the GTE phonecard, that company is always mentioned first. The phonecard on the right of the design is a $1 complimentary GTE phonecard.

The Interoperability phonecard belongs in any number of collections, due to the many topics it covers. They include U S WEST, GTE, phonecards on phonecards, payphones on phonecards, definitions on phonecards, complimentary phonecards, payphones on phonecards on phonecards, and $1 denomination phonecards. Surely you collect at least one of these topics, don't you?

Circle K promotion

A Circle K promotion/trial took place this summer, at 300 locations in the Phoenix, Arizona area. Each of these stores has at least one U S WEST Millennium payphone in it. A $7 denomination co-branded phonecard was issued, which sold for $5. The reason for the price difference is that the cost of making a call from a payphone was recently increased. But, by selling a $7 card for $5, the customer actually gets the benefit of the old rate, by using the promotional card. If all goes well, the promotion will be repeated in other Circle K stores, such as those in Seattle, Portland, Minneapolis and Denver. It might even include other major retailers, where there are large numbers of Millennium payphones. This card might even become available nationwide.

June 18th marked the launch of the U S WEST Pre-Paid Card. A 40-minute $10 card, and an 80-minute $20 card were issued. The long distance carrier is Innovative Telecom, an established company, which has provided services for other Baby Bell companies.

Speaking of the red $1 complimentary phonecard, they were handed out, with custom holders, at these venues, during the summer: Seattle Seafair, Aug. 7-9 (10,000); Nike Games in Portland, Oregon, Aug. 9 to 22 (5,000); and the PGA tournament near Seattle, Aug. 17 to 23 (1,000).

Remember, you can get new issues, as well as most back issues, including complimentary cards, from the two official U S WEST distributors:

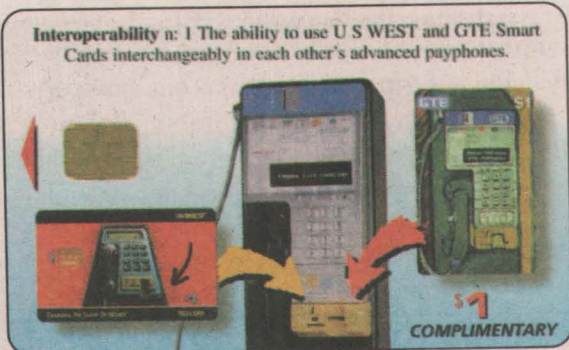

USACards in Denver, and KARS Unlimited in Florida. MC

The author is a phonecard collector and attorney in Las Vegas, Nev.

Global Chipcard Alliance continues to grow

A new member of the Global Chipcard Alliance is British Telecom, which started issuing chip phonecards last year. U S WEST is one of the four founders of the GCA. All new Telstra (Australia) phonecards are now smartcards, designed for use in vending machines.

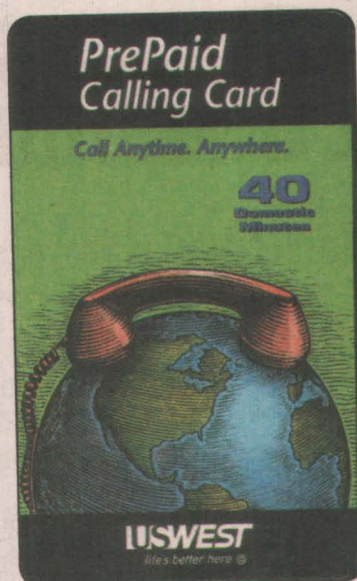

This includes the latest Captain Munchies phonecards (see the June 1998 issue of Moneycard Collector). A new series of CGA phonecards will be released in October, with up to 10 different phone companies issuing cards. You can check out their web site at www.chipcard.org.

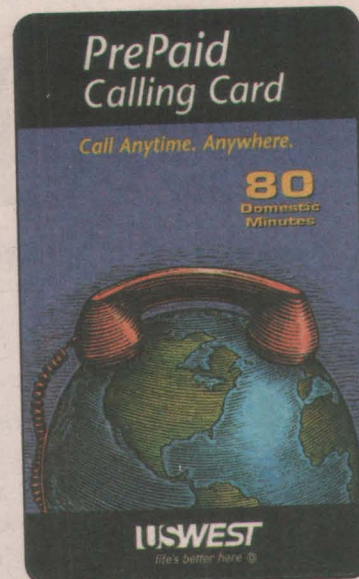

The only difference between the U S WEST and GTE version of the Interoperability Card is the order of wording on the obverse and the logos on the reverse.

This $7 denomination telecard branded with the Circle K logo was being sold in Phoenix area stores for $5 to make up for a recent payphone rate hike from 25 cents to 35 cents.

U S WEST's first remote-memory card, with services by Innovative, was released during the holiday season. The 40-minute green card and 80-minute purple card were launched in June.

Tough Choices

Dealers reveal favorites from the last year

Moneycard Collector is marking its fourth anniversary by celebrating some of the cards of the past year and of all time that moneycard dealers find fascinating and collectible.

While that is a tough choice for anybody, we made it harder by asking dealers to mention no more than five cards in each of those categories.

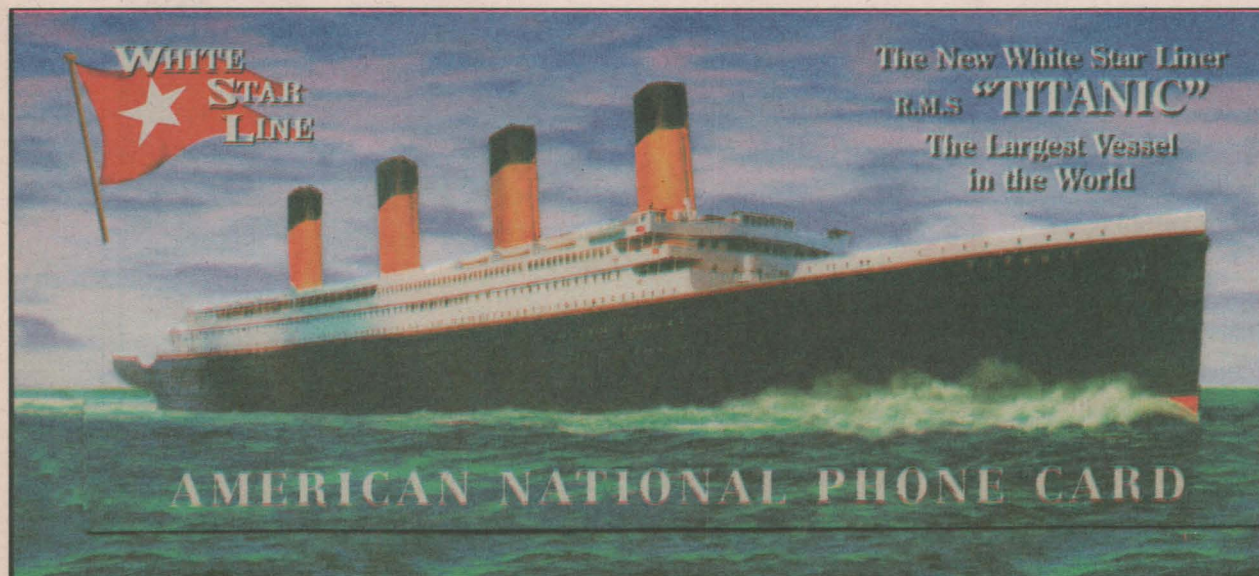

Here, then, are the cards that have caused a stir among dealers during the last year, along with their comments. Next month, we will take a look at those dealers' all-time favorites.

Ernie O. Rose Jr., United America Cards, Menomonee Falls, Wis.

1. Titanic die-cut and the Titanic jumbo. Issued by America National Phone Card, I picked these as my number one for personal reasons. In 1912, when my father was 10 years old, his family migrated from Germany. They originally had third-class tickets on the Titanic. One of his brothers was conscripted into the German army one week before they were to leave, as a result, they delayed their departure. Whew!

2. LifeSavers die-cut by Nabisco. Very colorful — almost good enough to eat. This card brought back memories of my childhood when I consumed large quantities of the confection.

3. Betty Crocker Blueberry Muffins. Mmmmmh! So good! Excellent design and color. This choice could have something to do with having been the plant manager of a rather large bakery for a grocery chain in the 1970s and early 1980s. The Keebler Sunshine card is my 3-and-a-half choice.

American National Phone Card's Titanic die-cut rode the tidal wave spawned by the hit movie into the hearts of dealers.

4. Coke, M&M, Vegas Strip. Coca-Cola always has been my number one soft drink. The card brought back fond memories of my first and last trip to Vegas. It was fun, but scary.

5. Sylvester & Tweety jumbo. Behind Donald Duck and Bugs Bunny, Sylvester and Tweety were my childhood favorites. The cards have action and very nice color. Good enough for framing.

Steve Eyer, Steve Eyer Inc., Mount Zion, Ill.:

1. Disneyland 40th anniversary set. Although made in 1994, the first Disneyland set wasn't discovered until 1998. This is first Disneyland set ever, and will be the cornerstone of any USA Disney collection. A total of 167 sets (four $3 cards by IDC Communications) were found out of the 2,000 made.

2. Titanic die-cut ship telecard. Although made just for collectors, this card, because of its shape (like the ship) and the release of the movie will make it one of the most popular for years.

3. Princess Diana cards. Issued by several manufacturers here and worldwide, the composite collection of Princess Di cards will be remembered for a long time.

4. Taco Bell Chihuahua. Because of the (early-on) controversial and now intensely popular advertisements, the iTELSA Chihuahua card will be a favorite.

5. HT Technologies bankruptcy releases. Always a favorite with collectors because of their excellent selection of themes, designs and high quality printing, HT Technologies' card stock was liquidated in 1998. Always popular at $5 to $10 each, these now-expired cards are immensely popular at $3 to $5. Some were not in the release (i.e. they had already sold out) and they seem to have retained their value. This is because of the collectibility of all the corporate logos and the Coca-Cola and Pepsi logos, and the local popularity of the fairs and functions they commemorated and the high quality of printing (mostly by Brilliant Color Cards).

Terry Windholz, TW Phonecards; Augusta, Kan.:

1. Cable & Wireless; Did Somebody Say McDonald's? For Breakfast. Simple, yet a true promotional phonecard that only was available in certain locations.

2. Creative Communications; Lenticular Bucking Bronco.

From the Dallas Telecard World show, March 1998. A nice showcard with some pizzazz, as the bronco bucks back and forth.

3. USACard; Happy Halloween, Glow in the Dark. This card you can still enjoy with the lights out, as the ghost image glows in the dark.

4. USACard; Alpha PhoneCard Charter Membership. Biased? [Editor's note: Windholz is the club organizer.] Well, maybe. This phonecard depicts an old-style phone as well as an old phone call stamp from 1909. The two of them together on one phonecard is appealing and this limited edition card will prove tough to obtain outside of the membership, as only 100 cards were issued.

5. WorldCom; Coca-Cola Santa Hotline. A desirable promotional card that depicts Santa and Coke on the front and McDonald's and Wal-Mart on the reverse.

Buz and Betty Houghtaling; B.A.B. Kollektibles; Alta Loma, Calif.

1. Event Masters/New Zealand Telecom; Winnie the Pooh first edition series.

2. Event Masters/New Zealand Telecom; Friends of Mickey, Minnie Mouse series.

3. Event Masters/New Zealand Telecom; Loonie Tunes, Part III.

4. Karis; Pepsi 100th anniversary four-card set. There were 500 sets in folders issued in April 1998, featuring Pepsi, Wild Cherry, Diet Pepsi and Caffeine Free Pepsi.

5. American National Phone Card's Titanic Jumbo and die-cut. Cards 1 and 2 of the trilogy were issued in March and April 1998.

Albert J. Chiaravelle, Global Telecard, White Plains, N.Y.

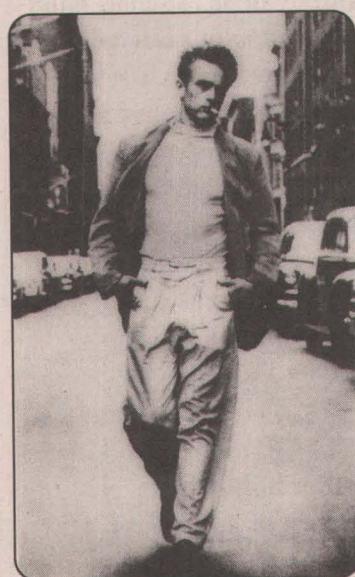

1. Mondex/Chase Manhattan Burger King/Coke. This is one of the few cash cards with a collectible image, but it also is important because the card has the ability to award affinity redemption points.

2. SNET, Heathcliff three-card set. Great-looking, low-mintage cards. Hey, I love Heathcliff!

3. Teltrust, M&M World and Coke World. M&M and Coke on the same card. Where else but Vegas? Hey, I love Vegas, too.

4. CTC Burger King. Not that great looking of a card, but important because of its use as a redemption card at the same time.

5. MasterCard ATM Coca-Cola Card. There is nothing else to say about this one. It says it all.

The impact of cards released from defunct HT Technologies earned a vote from one dealer.

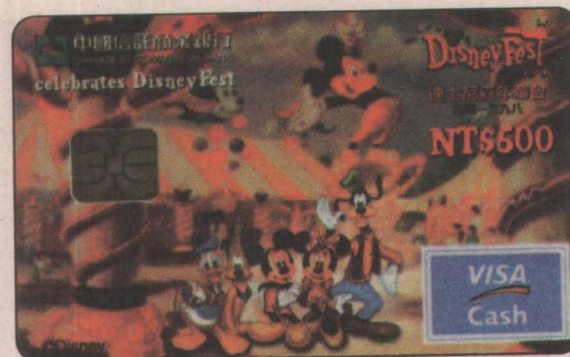

Kathleen and Scott Shapiro, KARS Unlimited, Ormond Beach, Fla.

1. Taiwan DisneyFest Visa Cash set. The first Disney images to grace a Visa Cash card has to take our vote as the best new card of the year. Disney is perhaps the most highly collectible corporation in the world. This card has history-making potential.

2. Gemplus AT&T stored-value card/ phonecard. A unique item, the first combination SVC/phonecard by the world's largest issuers of SVCs and telephone time. Even though there are cards that can perform both functions, this card has an independent functional card on each side.

3. RMS Titanic jumbo die-cut. A beautifully produced card. The image is striking and the card conjures up thoughts of mystery and romance. Any card that can put us in a trance gets our vote.

4. Global Chipcard Alliance 1997 annual meeting set. A nicely produced set of cards with a well-conceived overall image. In addition, the set has a statement to make that draws us in: Commitment to international interoperability. That is a good thing to work toward and we commend the GCA's efforts.

5. Disney Classics Collection. The nicest set of authorized Disney images released this past year with the highest quality printing. Again, Disney just grabs us.

Stephen L. Schwartz, Sears Phone Card Department, Orlando, Fla.

1. Caulastics; two-card Zombie and Daiquiri die-cut set. From May 1998 Intel-Card Expo in Miami, these are limited edition show cards (250 sets) and they are serial numbered, have no scratch-offs, are die-cut and are very cute.

2. Gazelle Telecard; Horizon Air Vacations. With pictures of two different airplanes, these are beautiful and professional designs, nicely printed, and appropriately presented with all of the special collector requests fulfilled, with GlobalOne as the carrier and a truly limited edition of 50.

3. USPS Liberty Cash, California Sea Lions. A very nice image, limited distribution, and still in the trial stage of what may someday be a nationwide rollout of these stored-value cards by the U.S. Postal Service.

GETTING STARTED

Percentage of dumped cards is very small

I would like to comment on the subject of dumping quantities of phonecards on the market after they have expired. Tom Williams covered the subject ably in Moneycard Collector's July issue, ("On the Money," Page 3). And I agree, sort of! What Tom didn't cover is the percentage of all telecards that actually are "dumped." That percentage is very, very small and I believe we are unnecessarily worried. We should be rejoicing instead.

As I recall the first big dump was the Monsters of the Gridiron card, many of which hit the market a couple of years ago. These hit the market in large enough quantity to drive them to less than a dollar per card in large quantity. They are currently on their way up again.

True, it's not pleasant for someone who paid a high price for one, but it is an opportunity to buy one of the most popular Coca-Cola cards for just a few dollars.

Then came the release of large quantities of Omnitel, and then HT Technologies, and Finish Line; the last two through bankruptcies. A few Destiny Telecomm cards and others are on the market, too.

I believe that if we add up all the different cards that have been dumped, less than 500 individual types have hit the market in quantity at a low price.

Take the total number of types of telecards that the U.S. companies have produced, say 10,000-plus different types, I estimate that the percentage is less than half a percent. If one of every 200 cards you own is affected, so what? Take this opportunity to buy all the rest of the dumped phonecards. There are some sure winners in there. We have spotted some already! Have fun!

Inactive Phonecards

Non-seasoned collectors of telecards sometimes go ballistic when a favorite card goes inactive. Veteran collectors usually shrug their shoulders and go about enjoying their latest acquisition. First of all, we must define a collector card. I do not mean one that has a $100 or even $20 dollars of telephone time on it.

Collectors seldom collect these, or if they do, they use the time. What I am talking about are the everyday $5- or $10-dollar cards that make up the majority of telecard collections. Most collectors, at least the advanced ones, do not use the time on their telecards.

The value of a card should not be affected in one way or another when it finally goes inactive. It is an expected occurrence; we know it will happen. Sometimes it just happens faster than we expect. In other hobby fields, such as banknote collecting or coin collecting, the market value is seldom affected when the money is replaced by a new type or demonetized.

What it means to a collector is that the coin or banknote will probably increase in value, since the old types are no longer available and will quickly be driven out of circulation and be replaced by the new. And in many other hobby fields, discontinuance of an issue or type will shortly cause the old to increase in value.

Think carefully about the hobby fields you are familiar with. I believe old is good in most hobby fields. Why shouldn't it be so in the telecard hobby? Maybe that is why beginners collect the new and old timers collect the old. Try the old, you will feel good.

Counterfeits

Mainly a European problem, U.S. telecard look-alikes are appearing in the stocks of some of the major European dealers. Some that should know better. The fake cards generally have popular designs such as Coca-Cola, race cars, movie personalities or other readily marketable subjects.

The tip-off is that the 800 numbers are sometimes just gibberish, the numbers do not work, or the company is non-existent. On a brand product image, the registered trademarks are missing. Designs are done by normal printers, so designs are fuzzy.

Printing on plastic is a well-developed art, and a printer unfamiliar with the medium can't do a good job. Some counterfeit cards I have seen feature the magnetic stripe made of black printer's ink, not magnetic material. There are many different types, so a general rule is necessary: If you have seen 1,000 of a kind and they all look the same, a card that's inconsistent with what you've seen before may be counterfeit.

Ask careful questions of the seller, especially if the card is coming in from overseas.

While this doesn't help the beginner much, we recommend you enlist someone with experience.

Also

now beginning to plague the United States (and we thought that we alone in the U.S. had blood suckers) are telephone companies, mainly in the United Kingdom and Australia, that are issuing look-alike telecards whose PIN numbers have never been activated and whose issuers have absolutely no intention of activating them. So are they telecards? I think not. They are just trading cards that look like telecards.

Investigate carefully before you buy. Many of these cards feature unlicensed images on them, too. They should never reach the catalogs, so you will be caught in never-never land, holding a trading card disguised as a phonecard.

Watch especially for cards that are "too cheap." So far, most of them seem to be remote, rather than stored-value phonecards.

THE SCOOP ON CHIPS

Freedom festivals! Freedom from cash handling! Freedom from worry!

That's how Tim Law, president of Technology @ Work, likes to view the smart card scene. Law and his company are one of the leading issuers of collectible smart cards in North America. They have already issued more than 200,000 collectible cards at 16 different events — everything from the recent Friendship Festival, held jointly in Buffalo, N.Y., and Fort Erie, Ontario, to the Greater Greensboro Chrysler Classic Golf Tournament.

Judy Stone, director of client relations at this Jacksonville, Fla., company likes to think of Technology @ Work as an innovator in the design and test of incentive programs and smart card systems. "Not only do we issue collectible cards, we actually design and develop unique programs and incentives for all the events and conferences that we support. We have been a leader in stored value and incentive programs."

The Friendship Festival is typical of the type of events that Technology @ Work sponsors. The festival celebrates the freedom of two countries: the United States and Canada. Canada's Independence Day is July 1; the United States' Independence Day is July Fourth.

The Friendship Festival is a five-day affair taking place on both sides of the border. It features music, food, beverages, fireworks and crafts. It is one of the first cross-border smart card events that allow currencies of two countries to be used within the same system. U.S. citizens can purchase festival cards in dollars and spend them in either country; the Canadians can do likewise. The system automatically determines the current exchange rates, the currency of the card and the currency of the purchase. There were 32,500 cards issued for the festival displaying a white background and 2,500 were issued with a gray background. This distinction is indeed important for the collector.

The Friendship Festival is but one of many similar festivals in which Technology @ Work has been involved. The basic principals behind these events are the same. The collectible smart card and system can be used to reduce cash handling and fraud, decrease sales transaction time and administrative costs, increase customer spending, and provide timely reporting and reimbursement.

Most important, it allows the event to use novel and innovative marketing programs. The smart card can be used for ticketing, parking and concessions, among other things.

The initial event for Technology @ Work was the Orange Blossom Festival, held in Riverside, Calif., during April 1997. More than 300,000 people attended; 43,000 cards were printed for the event. The festival started in the 1800s and still has 19th century theme. All the vendors must dress in costumes from the 1800s. Parades, music, games, petting zoos, crafts and food highlight this celebration of the orange industry. The smart card was used as a cash substitute and proved the viability of the stored value system.

With the Orange Blossom Festival success behind them, Technology @ Work expanded the events programs in 1998 with the City of Fort Lauderdale Parks and Recreation sixth Annual Cajun Zydeco and Crawfish Festival, the Music Festival, and the Freedom Festival previously mentioned. The Crawfish Festival was particularly interesting in that the smart card was used not only as a cash card for food, beverages, posters and T-shirts, but was also as the ticket to the festival.

Up to seven tickets of the same type could be purchased with the card. The tickets could be for one, two, or three days. 6,000 cards were issued for the Cajun Festival.

Technology @ Work issued 10,000 special "event cards" were issued for the Music Festival held May 25. The card reverse cautions "use of this card is limited to the above event. Card valid only at designated locations. Treat this card as cash. Lost cards will not be replaced. Refunds are available only

Fort Lauderdale's Cajun Zydeco Festival cards were used not only for concessions, but also as the ticket to the event.

where specified. Card expires at the conclusion of the above event."

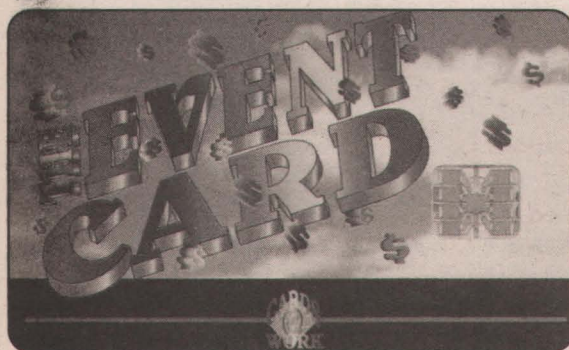

A special niche that T@W found for its Sports Card is the Professional Golfers Association (PGA) tournaments. This began with the Greater Greensboro Chrysler Classic of April 1997. Four different cards were printed for this event, each in an issue of 15,000 cards. Each card features a different Chrysler vehicle; on two of them, Tom Kite is pictured with the vehicle. The first four cards were cataloged under West Sports Marketing in the Moneycard Collector Catalog.

The event was completely cashless; the card was used at more than 20 concession stands for food, beverages, and souvenirs. One ice cream vendor commented that his sales tripled on the last day as people wanted to use up all the value on the card. At the Las Vegas Invitational, October 1997, the generic Event Card was issued to patrons. Bill Glasson won the championship title.

This year, the company has provided cards for three more golf tournaments to date. It began in January with the Bank of America Phoenix Open, for which 20,000 cash cards were printed. The card featured a picture of the 1997 champion, Steve Jones, holding the championship plaque. The 1998 champion was Jesper Parnevik. It was fitting that Bank of America sponsored the event since they are an early user and a big promoter of smart cards.

The Greater Greensboro Chrysler Classic in April was a repeat appearance for Technology @ Work, with 20,000 cards printed for the tournament. The artwork on the card highlighted the 60th anniversary of the classic and a lovely look at one of the greens and fairway. The card came in an accompanying booklet that illustrated the golf course and the concession locations; it also had a pocket to hold the card.

This event was notable for another innovation added by Technology @ Work. This was the first event that allowed refunds of the cash remaining on the card. The cardholder could take the refund in cash or donate a portion, or all, of the refund to a charity. In this case, the charity was the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. If the donation was chosen, a printed receipt was given to the cardholder. The winner of this championship was Trevor Dodds.

The 30th Annual BellSouth Classic was played at Sugarloaf, Duluth, Ga., in May, and 15,000 cards were printed. The unused value on the card could be used to make a donation to Egleston Children's Hospital at Emory University. The card contained a photo of one of the golf greens and a nearby lake. The winner of the classic was the popular Tiger Woods.

The PASSPORT program is another major smart card product of Technology @ Work. PASSPORT is a turn-key smart card product designed to encourage attendees at trade shows, expositions, seminars and business conferences to visit exhibitor booths and seminars. Each attendee receives a smart card upon registration. The card contains the basic information about the attendees — name, company, title, address, telephone and fax number — all important information to the exhibitor.

As the attendee visits each booth or seminar, the PASSPORT card is updated to indicate the visit. Gifts and prizes are awarded to the attendee in accordance to the rules of the giveaway. The first use of this program was at the CO-OP annual conference and shareholders meeting during April 1997.

CO-OP is an association of credit unions for many American stores. A card with $10 of value was awarded to each successful attendee. This could be used at the gift shop in the hotel or at the Children's Miracle Network. The company printed 500 cards for this conference.

At the Association of Luxury Suite Directors Conference, attendees that visited all exhibitor booths qualified to win a trip to the Bahamas. Five hundred cards were issued for this event. For the Fall CO-OP educational conference, the 500 cards that were issued were used both as a PASSPORT card and a cash value card.

The Association of Banks of Puerto Rico held their 26th annual convention in the fall of 1997. There were 200 PASSPORT cards were randomly preloaded with a secret amount of points that could be redeemed once the attendee had attended all the booths. By bringing the card to the redemption location, the attendee qualified for a "great drawing."

Personalized cards were issued for the MCI Conference. Attendees earned dollars at each booth that could then be spent in the MCI store. A total of 2,000 PASSPORT cards were issued to attendees of the American Association of Clinical Endocrinology Conference in the Spring of 1998. The card was used to register at each session. CME credits were issued to the attendee based on the smart card registration and evaluation forms collected at each classroom.

The PASSPORT card used at the ALSD Convention was based on a Payflex microprocessor card produced by Schlumberger. All other cards were based on the advanced French telephone memory card. Both Schlumberger T2G cards and Gemplus GPM 271 cards were used. Additional information on the cards discussed in this article can be obtained from the Technology @ Work website, www.techatwork.com. The innovative ways that Technology @ Work has used smart cards is a boon to the industry and the collector alike. They are to be praised for their leadership roll in promoting smart card systems at high-profile events throughout the country.

QUIK TAKES

NEW MCI PREPAID PROMOTES KID SAFETY. MCI has introduced the MCI PrePaid Shout! Calling Card, a customized prepaid card to help busy families connect. Features include speed-dial and anti-theft features, combined with kid-cool designs, with the goal of a fun, practical and convenient way for children and teens to stay connected with parents or guardians.

"We designed the MCI PrePaid Shout! Card with families in mind," says Charles Wiggs, executive director for MCI PrePaid Markets. "In today's busy world, many people are challenged with a balancing act between work and family. By making it easier for children to get in touch with their families and caregivers, the Shout! Card is a stress management tool for the 90s — and it's fun for kids."

A key feature of the new card is MCI's Speed Dial Express, which allows parents or caregivers to pre-program up to six frequently called numbers that are easily retrieved and dialed with the push of a single speed dial button. With MCI Speed Dial Express, children can reach parents without having to remember multiple 10-digit phone numbers — whether it's mom's office, grandmother's house, dad's cell phone or a guardian's pager number. Once programmed, calling is limited to those six numbers, eliminating the potential for theft, fraud or misuse. The MCI Speed Dial Express numbers can be changed or deleted anytime by using a passcode, without deducting calling time from the card. This feature also allows for easy access to customer service.

The MCI PrePaid Shout! Cards come in 15-minute increments and are available in four key-tag card holder images for children and teens. Two cards feature sports-related images with traditional team-sport motifs for younger children, and more extreme sports action motifs for teens. Two additional images feature a colorful "Free to Be Me" retro design for younger age groups and a 60s-style "Flower Power" embroidered patch design for teens.

Children can safely keep the prepaid cards in the holder's hidden compartment.

The prepaid card itself includes six lines on the card's front panel allowing adults to write the programmed calling destinations. The printed card holder, with an enclosed key ring that can be attached to backpacks, sports bags or purses, is included with each Shout! purchase.

The MCI PrePaid Shout! Card is available at Wal-Mart, or by calling the toll-free Shout! card line at 1-800-830-9444. Shout! Cards are also available for purchase on the web at <http://www.mci.com/aboutus/products/prepaid/index.shtml>.

BRASILIAN HOLDING COMPANY SPLIT. The Brazilian government has sold all its shares in TELEBRAS, the holding company that was one of the largest segments of that country's telecommunications industry. In order to privatize, the government split the TELEBRAS into 12 companies, similar to the breakup of AT&T in the United States. What came from that split are three "fixed phones" operators, eight cellular operators and one long-distance company. The relevant buyers included:

- MCI (USA) bought the long distance company EMBRATEL for US$2.65 billion (47.22 percent over the minimum price). The other competitor was Sprint.

- Telefonica de España (Spain Telecom) bought the largest fixed-phones operator TELESP for US$ 5.78 billion dollars (64.3 percent over the minimum).

- Portugal Telecom bought the largest cellular phones operator TELESP CELULAR for US$3.58 billion dollars (226.18 percent over the minimum).

Other global operators participated in the bidding process but did not succeed included Bell South, France Telecom, Air Touch, Sprint, Bell Canada, British Telecom and NTT.

The sale of the licenses to operate the mirror companies that will be the competitors of the companies sold in July will occur in January 1999. The major global players (Sprint, AT&T, BT, Bell South, France Telecom, Deutsche Telecom, NTT and many other) are expected to participate.

MOTOROLA UNVEILS HIGH-MEMORY CHIPS.

Consumers may soon be carrying fewer plastic cards in their wallets thanks to four new high-memory capacity chips from Motorola. Tailored to power smartcards in the card payment and mobile telecommunications applications, these chips have up to 32K EEPROM. This high-memory capacity will enable card issuers to run multiple applications on one card at a cost comparable to today's single application cards. The benefit to consumers is that they may soon have the ability to carry fewer cards that can do more for them.

The chips are being welcomed by smartcard manufacturers because of their potential to make multi-application cards a reality and to fulfil an immediate need for chips with higher memory capacity.

The chips are based on Motorola's proven M68HC05 smart chip core, and are being produced on 8 inch (200mm) wafers — an industry first for smart chips — using 0.4 to 0.27 micron process geometries. Increased production capacity is facilitated by the larger-size wafers while the reduced geometries allow even more features to be incorporated onto each chip.

Daniel Hoste, general manager for Motorola's Smart Information Transfer Division said: "These chips provide card manufacturers with the power to make multiple applications on a smartcard a reality today rather than a forecast for tomorrow. For some time now there has been speculation as to when smartcards will truly become part of everyday life. This new family of chips will accelerate this process because they will help make smartcards more flexible and efficient, and card users more productive."

CANADIAN ISSUER DEBUTS PREPAID LABELS. LabelTel Communications of King City, Ontario, has unveiled its "Telelabels" brand prepaid labels. The self-adhesive peel-off labels contain all information necessary to make a prepaid call. Each sheet of labels can contain up to 30 different custom designs, logos and prepaid time options. LabelTel General Manager Martin Marks says that the prepaid labels, which he envisions for business cards, birthday cards or other special occasion cards such as anniversaries or wedding announcements, might be collectibles if a client with a recognizable corporate logo has that printed on the labels. One customer recently used the Telelabels on sunglasses, to promote a summer sale.

NEW CALLING CARD FROM SOUTHWESTERN BELL. The Global Calling Card, available throughout Southwestern Bell's five-state region, allows customers to charge local, long-distance and international calls to and from virtually anywhere in the world.

Cardholders are charged reliable rates on every call by dialing (800) 600-BELL or a special toll-free country access number, then the calling card number and the number they are trying to reach. The card features automated directions.

Southwestern Bell also has introduced its America Calling Card, which allows local and long-distance calls from virtually anywhere in the world to anywhere in the United States, and its One-Number Card, which allows customers to call just one number from anywhere in the world.

Charges for all the calls made from those cards appear on the customer's monthly Southwestern Bell telephone bill.

QWEST COMMUNICATIONS LINKS WITH OFFICEMAX. A multi-year agreement has given Qwest Communications of Denver the exclusive right to provide prepaid calling cards for the Cleveland-based office supply chain, OfficeMax.

The phonecards hit stores July 26 and are being distributed at all 753 OfficeMax stores nationwide. There are six denominations, ranging from 30 minutes to 1,000 minutes. Calls made with the OfficeMax cards will be carried over Qwest's nationwide fiber-optic network. Qwest has planned an 18,499-mile network, due for completion in mid-1999. Currently, there are 8,850 miles activated.

SMART CARD FORUM GROWS. The Smart Card Forum, a multi-industry organization working to accelerate the widespread acceptance of smart card technology, has announced new corporate and government members. The total forum membership stands at 192. The forum (www.smartcardforum.org) is a non-profit organization. The new members are: Atmel Corp., Chevron Corp., ID Technologies Inc., Mosel Vitelic, Polaroid Corp., Smart Card Solutions, LLC, and the University of Michigan.

GTS PRESIDENT MOVING ON, COO MOVING UP. Global Telecommunications Solutions Inc. has announced that Robert Bogin, the company's president, will be leaving Aug. 31 to pursue business opportunities in the Washington D.C. area.

Randy Cherkas, the company's chief operating officer, will become president and assume Bogin's duties effective Sept. 1. Before becoming chief operating officer, Cherkas was the founder and president of Networks Around the World, a prepaid telecommunications company that was acquired by GTS in February 1998.

Bogin will also resign from the Company's board of directors. According to Shelly Finkel, chairman of the board, "Bob was brought into the company to build a management team and infrastructure strong enough to support rapid-growth in the company's business. Bob has accomplished this goal and positioned the company to take advantage of the growth opportunities in the phone card industry."

Headquartered in Philadelphia, GTS is a facilities-based, global provider of prepaid phonecards that offer users reliable, convenient and cost-effective access to domestic and international telecommunications.

GO CALL INC. NAMES OFFICERS. Canadian telecommunications company Go Call Inc. has named Ian M. Smith president and chief operating officer, joining Irving Moon and Steve Sullivan on the board of directors, according to Chief Executive Officer Michael Ruge. Smith has a background in training development and human resource management with the McDonald's restaurant chain.

B.A.B. Presents Madness Sale #2

Once again, we have been able to purchase several large inventories from sources throughout the world that include phone cards from ACMI, American National Phone, Ameritech, Amerivox, AT Call, AT&T, Bell Companies, Brilliant, Cable & Wireless, Communication Design, Event Masters, Frontier, Future Call, GTE, GTI, Global, Karis, LDDS, MCI, NTA, NYNEX, Phone Card Express, Scoreboard, Sprint, Telenova, U.S. West, USA Card, Vista, and Worldlink from countries throughout Asia, Australia, Europe, New Zealand and the USA. SCA Promotions (SCA)

SCA Telecards is a division of SCA Promotions, the largest underwriter of promotional risk in the United States. Founded in 1986 and based in Dallas, Texas, SCA provides over redemption coverage for sports promotions such as when a person attending a basketball game may win $1 million by scoring a basket from the center of the court.

Since 1994, SCA's telecard division has successfully produced telecard promotions for a wide variety of commercial clients in the U.S., Canada and Great Britain. It provides coverage to the owners of phone lines in a promotional promotion. Such coverage indemnifies the telecommunications company in the event that the usage of phone time in a promotional program exceeds agreed-upon levels. The effect of this unique over redemption product has been to reduce the overall cost of promotional promotions and make them more attractive to companies wishing to use prepaid cards as a means to promote the sale of their products.

Many of the issues in which SCA has placed a prepaid card are not listed here, but rather under the various, e.g. the two Gillette First Four promotions are listed under Sprint (SPR). Other SCA clients include: Coca-Cola, Oneida, Johnson & Johnson, Teller, Tex and Camp USA.

Listed here are the programs in which SCA's name has figured most prominently.
